

Program Launched To Make Texas No. 1 In Agriculture

Gov. Dolph Briscoe announced a vast expanded rural development program and launched a campaign to make Texas No. 1 in agricultural production during the Governor's Conference on Rural Development here Tuesday.

More than 2,000 community and organization leaders were on hand for the conference, first of its kind in the state.

Six major speakers discussed various aspects of the conference theme, "Planning Today for Tomorrow's Balanced Growth," and community leaders reviewed the state's rural resources and outlined ways to utilize these resources more fully for a better Texas.

We will make every possible resource available to help people in rural areas achieve maximum support for a more abundant life," Briscoe said in his keynote address on "Planning for a Rural-Urban Balance."

Briscoe emphasized that loss of people from rural areas has created many dilemmas in the cities, and said that high priority must be given to rural development and job opportunities, ordering development of natural resources, improvement of services and facilities, better rural labor market service, more emphasis on vocational training, improved health service and adequate housing.

"Agriculture alone cannot solve the problems of rural Texas, but can be a great factor in the solution," Briscoe declared. "You have done a magnificent job in the past in making agriculture great in Texas, so let's make it even better."

Dr. John E. Hutchison, director, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said that Texas appears to have the necessary resources to achieve the goal of becoming No. 1 in agriculture.

Among the state's advantages are available land resources plus the technological and knowledge reserve from agricultural research for expanding production of all phases of the livestock industry; food and feed grains for domestic and export; cotton and other natural fibers; fresh and processed vegetables, fruits and nuts; soybeans and sunflowers; sugarcane; manufacture, and expanding, processing industries near production areas.

"The increasing economic momentum of Texas agriculture is another favorable factor, with the percentage change for the state's agricultural income from 1968 through 1972 a whopping 48 per cent, compared to an upward change for Iowa of 36 per cent and for California of 28 per cent during the same period."

Based on both gross and net income projections through 1980 on trend and potential, our goal appears to be realistic. To become No. 1 will require total cooperation and mutual support of all agencies and groups and each segment of the agricultural industry, Hutchison said.

Texas Commissioner of Agriculture John C. White said, "Texas should become No. 1 in the quality of life, agricultural opportunity and profits, as well as agricultural production." He recommended a state program similar to the Veteran's Land Board to assure funds for young people getting into full-time agriculture improved water resources, a do-it-yourself rural development program and recreation development in rural areas.

Texas Cong. W. R. (Bob) Poage said there is "no effective way to deal with national urban concentration problems until we solve rural problems." He pointed out that locating industries in rural areas has paid for itself, and said he hopes for further implementation of the 1972 Rural Development Act soon.

Dallas County Judge W. L. Sterrett said rural development "is important to the city dweller in assuring adequate food and fiber and maintaining that delicate economic balance so essential to survival."

Roy B. Davis, chairman of the 25-member Texas Rural Development Commission, suggested policy directions, programs and additional research needed to reach the commission's objectives for building rural Texas. Workshops that followed focused on housing, transportation, economic development, health, education, human and natural resources and general government.

Cattlemens Roundup Is Drawing To A Close

The 14th Annual Cattlemen's round-up for crippled children moves into its final phase November 10 with a farm equipment sale to benefit the West Texas Rehabilitation Center in Abilene, Texas. Earlier sales of cattle, horse, sheep and goats have raised $117,000 toward this year's goal of $130,000.

This is the second year that the sale of farm equipment has been a part of the annual fundraising event. Last year the sale raised almost $7,000.

Col. Tex Herring, chairman of the farm sale expressed confidence that on the basis of the success of the earlier sales, this year's sale should raise the final $13,000 to meet the goal. Herring emphasized that 100% of the proceeds including the commission will go to the Center. No consignments can be accepted. All donations are tax deductible.

Anyone wishing to donate equipment should contact an area chairman or the West Texas Rehabilitation Center. Transportation can be arranged.

Some tractors, a feed grinder, feeders, and an assortment of equipment have already been committed to the sale.

The sale is set for 10:00 a. m. Saturday, November 10, at the Tex Herring Equipment Company in Lawn, Texas.

Missing only one game each and their score were Gus Fincher 50, David Geeslin 32, Bobby Kelley 35, Terry Fowler 27 and W. L. Mayer 25.

Wedding Plans Are Told

The engagement and future wedding plans of Miss Sonia Perez and Mike Morales have been announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jose Perez, 704 West 17th St. Amarillo. November 10 has been selected as the wedding date. They will pledge vows in Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

Miss Perez is a 1971 graduate of Plainview High School and graduated from West Texas University's Concentrated Secretarial Program in May. She is employed as a secretary for Health Mental Retardation Division in Amarillo.

The fighting Jayton Jaybirds cleared a major roadblock Friday night in the path to the district championship, as they trounced the Roby Lions 28-6, giving them their third consecutive victory against no losses.

Mark Fincher led the scoring attack, amassing 16 points. Kelley passed to Wilson for a TD and then Kelley made one of his own.

It was a solid victory for the Birds, especially since many predictors were traveling with the Lions.

Roby has been considered the strongest opposition in the league. Now the Jaybirds have the big job of sitting solid, and not letting anyone slip up on them.

They still have three games to go. Bronte comes here this Friday, they go to Forsans next week, and then are back at home for the finale on Nov. 16th. This means there is plenty of tough football in the future.

The statistics bear out the Jaybirds dominance of the game. They led 15-9 in first downs, and amassed 361 yards to 125 for the Lions. The Jaybirds made 72 yards in the air, while Roby was picking up a total of 58. The only place the Jaybirds fell short, they turned the ball over three times by the fumble.

Meeting the Longorns here this weekend means two big tough battles back to back. The Birds will need all the fans in the stands this Friday night.

Baseball Finale

One of the memories of the 1973 World Series, aside from the Oakland A's winning, will long be the shoddy manner in which a Major League player was booted off the Oakland squad by an owner overly eager to win.

Winning is not everything as Vince Lombardi reportedly said—far from it. Other things are vastly more important. To Major League baseball, its image is one thing of much greater import. And that image has been adversely affected by owners such as Charles Finley, of the Oakland Athletics, who behave too often in a petulant manner.

The worst of it is that their actions directly influence the lives of others, and their families. Equally bad is the fact that such behavior clouds the image of baseball, turns off fans and potential fans.

An indication of this disenchantment was seen in California during the recent World Series. The Oakland team, defending world champions, didn't fill its home park for games there. Many felt the team didn't deserve to win, with that little support in its home town, and with so much controversy over what appears to be childish behavior.

Sportsmanship

Sydney Harris rightly laments the poor behavior of American fans at tennis matches—behavior reflecting a lack of knowledge of the fundamentals of good sportsmanship, a traditional part of the international game.

Such shockers as the recent applauding of an error (a double fault in serving) by the Romanian competitor Nikki Pilic at Forest Hills are enough to dismay sportsmen.

The primary reason behind this ignorance is not, let us hope, that American fans are beasts. The main reason is the current unprecedented U.S. boom in tennis (millions are being poured into the new, professional arena) and the thousands of new, unknowing fans being attracted to the game. Some are often unaware of tennis court ethics, which are in general based on British rules of good sportsmanship, somewhat on the order of cricket.

The Brooklyn razz, Bronx cheer, etc., don't go in tennis. Neither fans nor players wish to win through faults and mistake of others, nor are these mistakes ever applauded. This, television announcers, tennis stars and sports writers should stress in public statements; good manners and good sportsmanship among tennis crowds are traditional in the world's civilized countries. Americans will not wish to deviate from this international tradition.

Football Savagery

Those who want to find out what the life of a professional football player is like, and what the game is really like, are offered a shocking indictment currently in the form of a novel by Peter Gent, a former footballer, "North Dallas Forty."

American life has become so full of violence in recent decades that violence and brutality of football are too often taken for granted. Yet hundreds, and thousands of permanent injuries occur on football fields every year—and, tragically, many involve high school and college students.

Pro football is the worst. Drugs, pain killers, brutality, vindictiveness, violence on a scale surpassing the slightest resemblance of true sport, is usually present. Fans come to watch the violence as they did once in Rome and coaches talk of their "troups" and "manpower" and "reserves" and the size of players, their toughness, roughness, etc.

Governor Proclaims November As Food And Fiber Month

Gov. Dolph Briscoe has officially proclaimed November as "Food and Fiber Appreciation Month in Texas, and various observances are being planned in the state's 254 counties.

Local chairmen and their committees have indicated that a wide array of activities are being planned to highlight the month-long educational event saluting agriculture's contributions.

Briscoe, in the official proclamation, noted that Texas—long a giant in the production of agricultural products—is third in the nation in total farm and ranch output, yet currently leads the 50 states in annual production of beef cattle, sheep, goats, grain sorghum, cotton, rice, onions and wool.

Texas also harvests substantial amounts of peanuts, vegetables, citrus, fruits, honey, cereal grains, soybeans, turkeys and dairy products, the governor noted.

"The unparalleled efficiency of Texas agricultural producers and associated agri-business has helped provide food and fiber that allows Texas consumers to purchase more milk, bread, steak, butter, eggs and other food and fiber products for fewer minutes of work than ever before in recorded history," Briscoe said.

Today, only one-half as much work time is required to purchase as much food and fiber products as in the "good old days," the governor added.

"Even with a declining farm population, each farmer produces enough food and fiber for himself and more than 50 others. Therefore, it is fitting that November be observed to recognize contributions of Texas agriculture and to encourage renewed appreciation for agriculture by every citizen," Briscoe said.

Briscoe is serving as honorary chairman for the FFAM observance, along with Charles G. Scruggs, editorial director for Progressive Farmer.

Officers for the November observance are Jack H. Barton of Houston, president; Neal Johnson, vice president; Bruno Schroeder, treasurer; and W. H. Meischen, coordinator, all of Austin. There are 13 directors task force chairmen and four division coordinators along with 254 county FFAM chairmen.

Agriculture Is Dominant In An Urban Society

AUSTIN--While it is true that Texas is becoming more urban year by year, agriculture still plays a dominant role in the state's economy.

To insure the continued development of this sector of our economy, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White inaugurated the Texas Agricultural Products program five years ago.

The program's success in stimulating growth in the agricultural economy already is substantial.

TAP is based on the philosophy that high quality, top level marketing and promotion can increase sales and growth of the agricultural economy specifically, and the entire state's economy in general.

The program has resulted in expanded markets and sales both domestically and abroad.

TAP divides the year into six promotional periods with different commodities being emphasized during each period.

These promotions use all public service media, including free billboards throughout the state. In addition, attractive point-of-purchase materials—designed to catch the consumer's eye with interesting ways of preparing the products—are placed in more than 16,000 stores.

Thousands of booklets of new recipes featuring Texas products are distributed during each promotion. Direct mailings are also made with the cooperation of banks, utility companies, and agri-businesses in their monthly statements and letters.

In-store demonstrations and product sampling also have produced higher sales of Texas farm products.

Recently, TAP personnel started a new program called Texas Star Sales. This program organizes the grower, processor, broker and grocer into a promotional team, with each contributing to the effort.

Growers and brokers give discounts to cooperating grocers, who in turn feature Texas products in their advertising and with in-store decorations.

In 1970, TAP personnel took the responsibility of renovating the Agriculture Building at the State Fair of Texas in Dallas.

This pavilion proved to be one of TAP's most successful tools in reaching a large number of consumers in a short time period. Last year 1.2 million persons toured the pavilion—almost half the total fair attendance.

We all know the feeling of frustration that comes from not finding enough hours in a day. Time to kill is a luxury for most of us.

New Year's reminds us that time is one commodity that cannot be bought. Try as we will, we cannot crowd more than twenty-four hours into a day. Whether it's too much time on our hands or too little, we need constantly to be aware of how we spend our time.

After all, in a hundred years, we'll all be gone. This thought makes current problems look pretty small. Proper balance of work, play and worship makes hopplier lives. Let God speak to your heart and bring new perspective into your life. Attend church this Sunday.

As It Looks From Here

By Rep. Oscar Burleson
Member of Congress, Texas

WASHINGTON, D. C.--Crisis is not new to America. When it has occurred, Americans have not panicked. We remember from the past that the most splendid accomplishments of our Nation have been under such conditions--crisis.

urity or its way of life is imperiled will it gather its strength and organize its potentials to keep the triumphs of its destiny.

In two wars in the first half of this century, the American people were moved as they had not been moved for many years before. It was under terrific pressure that Americans in each of these world cataclysms called upon their inner strengths in times of crisis and developed, through unlimited commitment to their goals, the results which brought about needed victories.

The crisis now is one of confidence in government. With our economic well-being. In the latter, ill-starred Government policies are sapping our economic strength, preventing it from a renewal of itself to continue serving the public interest and for continued sound growth. Strait-jacketed controls on business, some well intended, are resulting in shortages by crippling production.

Out of the pressures of crisis of confidence can come a rebirth of understanding and of reawakening which will contribute to making this a stronger Nation than ever. It can come about because people will have been aroused to fundamental wrongs and dangers that have been threatening the good of the Country.

We have confidence that a reordering and a correcting of priorities will develop through re-conjunction of two great American assets--its rich and still available store of natural resources and the driving genius of the American individual. Expressed by increasing utilization of our science and technology and a combination of a need for protecting our National security and a return to a system of sound incentives to maximize all our strengths, this Nation once again will demonstrate accomplishments in the face of challenge. It will bring forth results to show why our Nation has been and still is unique in the world.

If we come to realize the facts, face them with courage, calmness, and orderliness, opportunity will continue for the finest accomplishments when crisis exists.

So we may look upon our present troubles as a symbol that there is coming another American renaissance of spirit and understanding which can help make this Nation stronger. Stated differently, what is happening may represent for America and its people a true opportunity to meet and overcome another of its traditional great challenges. In the meantime, we do not panic but rather accept the line from Hamlet: "And make us rather bear the ills we have than flee to others that we know not of."

Join the fun. Guess the winners. Nothing to buy. Just circle the teams you think will win, fill in your name and address, and bring it to the Chronicle office, or get it into the mail before 5 p. m. Friday. Everyone is eligible except employees of the Jayton Chronicle, and members of their families.

Use this from here in the paper. Come by the office and we will give you a free form. Or, write it out on a piece of paper, in the same order as printed here, and that will do. The editor of the Jayton Chronicle is the sole judge as to the winner. In the case of tie, the amount will be shared. Be sure and mark the tie breaker score, which we will use in an attempt to break the tie. That is all there is to it, and you have a lot of fun. This contest is sponsored by the firms listed on this page. They are supporting the Jayton Jaybirds, Regional Champions, all the way.
