Farm Bureau Will Oppose Any Restrictions On Farm Exports

WACO--(Spl)--The Texas Farm Bureau is urging President Nixon and Congress to resist any efforts to place restrictions on farm exports.

A resolution adopted by the TFB Board of Directors this week and sent to the President and members of the Texas delegation in Congress states that "agricultural exports are absolutely essential to farmers and ranchers and are vitally important to the nation as a whole."

The resolution said that "embargoes placed on any commodities are a hindrance to economic growth."

Text of the resolution continues:

"Loss of our farm export market would force us to cut production by one-fifth. Thousands of rural people would flock to cities. Workers in industries related to agriculture would flood the labor market looking for jobs.

"On the other hand, if we can maintain our strong export market all segments of the economy will reap the benefits.

"Full production which is dependent exports, enables us to cut per unit costs. This is reflected in lower prices in supermarkets and clothing stores. The consumer is the ultimate and major beneficiary. Full production in agriculture assures jobs in businesses related to agriculture.

The Hotchcos Plan Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hotchco of Route 1, Spur, will observe their Golden Wedding Anniversary with a reception held February 17th in the Willie Room of the Dickens County Electric Coop building in Spur. Hosting the occasion will be their daughters Mrs. Helen Arrington and Miss Linda Hotchco both of Spur, and their son, Mr. George Hotchco of Satellite Beach, Florida.

Mrs. Hotchco is the former Oriana Murphy of Dickens. She was born and raised in the Croton Community. They were married February 19, 1924 in Dumont. Paul was born in New Jersey, coming to Texas and to Dickens County in 1911 at the age of fourteen, to be a cowboy. In the early days he worked on the Matadors and Swenson Ranches. He has farmed for the past fifty years in Motley, Dickens and Kent Counties. The couple now reside on a farm southwest of Dickens. They have three granddaughters and two great granddaughters.

Their friends are cordially invited to attend the reception.

Some Good Games Are Planned For The Jayton Gym

A combination of a very good gym, and a group of friendly people is responsible for a number of basketball playoff games being scheduled for the Jaybird gym during the next few days.

Thursday night, Feb. 14th Spur and Crosbyton will play here for the district championship the play to get under way at 8 o'clock.

Friday night, Feb. 15th Paducah and Lorraine will meet in the Jayton gym for a game. Both are district winners, and this is a game to get them ready for the bi-district play off game.

This game will start at 8 o'clock.

Monday night, Feb. 18th Aspermont and Paducah will play in Jayton in a bi-district playoff. This one also will begin at 8 o'clock.

These will all be good games and local fans can get some good action and also let these visitors know they are appreciated in town.

Bill Parks Awarded Plaque For Good Grazing Management

In the above photo, Bill Parks, Kent Co. Rancher (left) is shown as he is presented with the Excellence in Grazing Management of Rangelands Award. The award was made by the Society for Range Management. A letter of commendation which accompanied the award pointed out that Parks had been the first in the county to use roller chopping for seeded preparation following rootplowing. He was also first in the county to initiate a Short Duration Grazing System for grazing management. The presentation was made by Dale Butler, District Conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service at Jayton.

THIS WEEK IN JAYTON

Jayton has no chamber of commerce, but some one is doing a good job in that area. Within the next week three big basketball games are being played in the local gym by six visiting teams.

It is real nice that we have such good facilities, and friendly people at the school, that other people like to come here to a neutral floor and have their important games.

You can start travelling in just about any direction, and if you keep going you will see the ghosts of what once were some nice little towns and communities. And these things did not happen just by accident. Many things cause the small towns to "dry up and blow away." First, it is the trend for the small towns to get smaller, and the larger ones to get even larger. But this trend can be reversed if people work to do so.

The so called energy crisis, as bad as it is, well could work to help the small communities. People really should stay closer at home, and buy more of the necessities from local merchants, but it is at least doubtful if they will.

Some times the merchants in the small towns don't work very hard to try to keep business at home. And some times the people who live in the community, don't seem to care whether the small merchants stays in business or not. You combine all of this together, and you have the recipe for a dying town and community.

If all the people of this community would really work at the job, it could actually violate the trend and instead of getting smaller, and dying away, it would grow, and prosper, and get better as time moves on.

People in small communities like Jayton like to get around and fuss, but very few of them get up and go to work to do something about it.

People away from the community seem to appreciate it more than the locals.

Just a few days ago I was in conversation with a person connected with schools, and the Jayton school was mentioned. Where with this person said "Well, the thing I know the Jayton school has the best science lab between Fort Worth and Lubbock."

Recently another person was bragging about the auto mechanics department.

It would not hurt the people in the community to do a little bragging now and then, would it?

Why sit around and let the outsiders tell you what good community it is?

Too many of the merchants are satisfied to sit back with a frown on their faces, take what business walks in (if it is not too much trouble) and talk about how the town is dying.

If there are people in the community who are interested in it, the publisher of this paper is willing to sponsor a contest. Anyone in the county, man, woman, boy or girl, who will write an editorial for the paper about "What I like about our community," we will publish in the paper the ones we think are worthy of space. Also, if there are several good ones, the paper will give a $5.00 cash prize for the one judged by the publisher as the best.

How about it? Does anyone want the five?

Blood Types Are Needed

Nearly 40 percent of our work force is involved directly or indirectly in agriculture.

"Farm exports are a principal source of this Nation's foreign exchange and have helped give us a favorable balance of trade for the first time since 1970.

"Because of the importance of our overseas markets, the Texas Farm Bureau strongly urges that the President and Congress resist any efforts to restrict farm exports."

An effort is being made to get a record of the blood types of local people, so in case of emergency, people needing blood can get it quickly.

Purvis SoRelle at the Sheriff's office asks the people to come in and report their blood types, so a record can be made.

If you have ever been in need of a quick blood transfusion, you know how important this is.

Terraces Important In Farm Operation

Terraces, like any engineering practice installed on your farm, need proper care and maintenance if they are to perform the function they were designed to do. And like so many things, they are easy to neglect. With the cost of dirtwork increasing in price each year as most things are, farmers would be wise to maintain their terraces to avoid the high cost of replacement.

Terraces should be plowed up at least every two or three years, depending on your tillage methods, to keep them at their peak efficiency. This can be done with either a mould board plow or a one way disc plow. Most farmers prefer the mould board. If terraces are benched or the channels silted in, most often terraces need only to be built up from the front side to remove silt from the channels. In this case a roll over mould board plow is excellent because it eliminates dead heading one way.

Proper tillage operations such as not plowing across terraces and not plowing directly on top of a terrace with a tandem or one way plow will reduce your need for terrace maintenance greatly.

For any further information on terrace maintenance contact your local Soil Conservation Service office in Jayton.

Some Fashion Notes

Roberta E. Stanaland Watch for corduroy jeans to give denim some relief in the youth clothes market.

Until recently, denim was the only fabric providing a worn-out look after a few washings.

Now specially-processed corduroy also achieves that look.

This new process causes a worn look at seams and points of wear--rather than fading uniformly.

Although the major change takes place after the first washing, color stabilizes after the fifth washing.

Available for Spring '74 retailing, manufacturers may sell jeans pre-washed or with hang tags explaining changes that will result from washing.

Fuel Crisis Noted In Court Actions

The members of the Kent County Commissioners Court were made to realize that the energy crisis does exist, as they received no acceptable bids for fuel, and decided to just buy on the open market.

First action to be taken by the Board, was to approve the current bills presented. This was done on a motion by W. H. Parks, which was seconded by Donnie Carriker.

In other action, a motion was made by Carlos Dickerson and seconded by Sarah Byrd that since the court had duly advertised for regular a n d ethyl gasoline, diesel fuel and butane and propane, but had no firm bids, that were acceptable, therefore until the energy-crisis changes, that the court purchase fuel on the open market at the lowest available price.

Vote on this was unanimous.

A motion was made by Sarah Byrd, and seconded by W. H. Parks to purchase from the Kent County Lumber and Supply one new 18 pound Whirlpool washer for $218.00, and one new Whirlpool dryer for $158.00 with 2 years parts warranty; 1 year labor warranty, and 5 years warranty on the washing machine transmission.

The two appliances are to be used at the Kent County Nursing Home.

Vote on this was unanimous.

Smoke Warning

The Federal Trade Commission has asked Congress to strengthen the printed warning on cigarette packages and add warnings on small cigar packages.
 The FTC would change the cigarette warning from, "Warning: The Surgeon General has determined that cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health," to, "Warning: Cigarette smoking is dangerous to health and may cause death from cancer, coronary heart disease, chronic bronchitis, pulmonary emphysema and other diseases."
 Although millions have been induced to kick tobacco addiction in recent years, because of population growth and the number of young people successfully addicted by films and advertising each year, tobacco consumption continues to increase.
 "The need for sterner warnings on cigarette packages is thus obvious and Congress should enact legislation to afford the gullible, ignorant and young better protection, which will save many lives in the years to come."

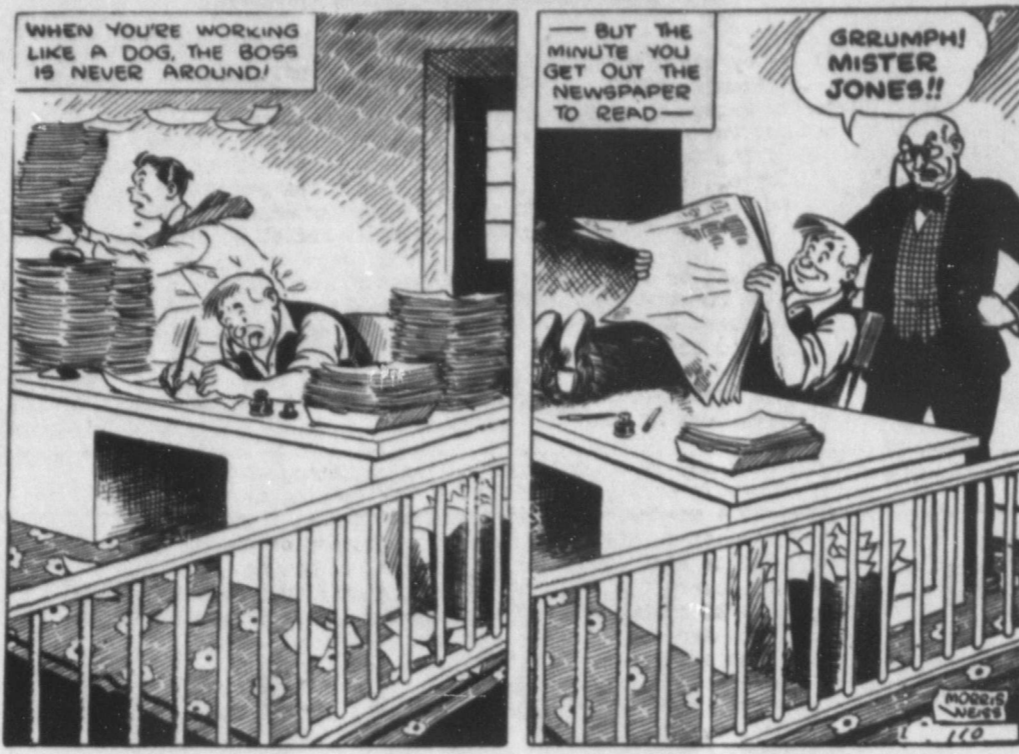

Pago Pago

The latest tragic crash of a big airliner occurred in Pago Pago when a Pan Am 707 crashed attempting a landing in a violent thunderstorm, with heavy loss of life. The cause is yet to be officially established but a general observation is in order.
 Pilots and passengers of large aircraft too often become convinced weather can be handled by man's strongly-built, modern airliners. Often this isn't true. Mother nature still packs the tougher punch—and thunderstorms can contain up and down drafts, almost side by side, moving up to 400 m.p.h.
 Nothing flying can withstand the shock of such diverse velocity; the lesson which must be learned, therefore, is that bad weather flying is to be avoided. Usually the worst doesn't happen, and some thus conclude flying through rough weather is routine, often a fatal miscalculation.

The Nation

Those famous lines, "My country, right or wrong," are not in vogue among many Americans today. Nor have they been in recent years, when it seemed so fashionable (and self-righteous) to damn institutions of American government and the American free enterprise system.
 No doubt much needs reforming in America and no doubt much is wrong with the country, its form of government and society. What some fail to keep in mind, however, is that constant escalation of protest, criticism and muckraking of the past can produce chaos and paralysis in this country and finally destroy its image.
 The characteristic among the English-speaking peoples of the world which has distinguished them from, for example, the Latins, is the tolerance or restraint by the electorate which enables governments to come and go by the elective process.
 Revolutions are not the normal or accepted fare. There is a point in the damnation of the country and its government (leaders and system) beyond which most citizens do not go; to do so would be to bring perhaps permanent harm to the nation, its future and international image.
 In this connection, the philosophy is that even though the electorate must endure an unpopular leader, accept an unpopular decision, or even acknowledge wrongdoing, it's sometimes better to forget the past and get on with the future, for the greater good of the country.
 Those who watch with concern how the Washington Post, news magazines, many television network commentators, the New York Times, etc., sensationalize each new piece of possible scandal news in Washington, how some news organizations devote a major effort daily to the campaign, are concerned because in the end this constant incitement could produce a crisis splitting the nation for decades to come.
 Zealots, hotheads, and fanatics have pushed the nation into wars and other tragedies in the past. The call of citizenship and wisdom today is for patience, forgiveness and tolerance—not vindictiveness, punishment and persecution.
 It's past time for America to get on with the business of the nation and the world, to stop looking back, regardless of the muck to be raked. Many necessary lessons have been learned, all kinds of investigations of scandals are in progress, the courts have jurisdiction and are functioning. That should satisfy all Americans interested in their country first, and selfish or political gain second.

IT NEVER FAILS

Wrestling

While no one wishes to knock any pursuit which produces a livelihood for some, nevertheless the recent comment of Oregon State University wrestling coach Dale Thomas, about wrestling, is relevant.
 Bluntly, Thomas told Oregon news media representatives they are fooling the public in presenting professional wrestling as a competitive sport. Many of the entertainers in the business can't even wrestle well, Thomas said.
 "Only a few of these pro wrestlers could go more than a minute" with legitimate college wrestlers, Thomas says. So all those back-breaking falls, hair-pulling contests, and other gyrations grandma enjoys should be appreciated for what they are, according to the coach—entertainment. Sports media personnel not on the take should make this clear.

One of the overdone forms of snob writing is the insertion of French clauses and sentences in articles and books with no translation.
 The obvious snob message from the author is: "I am fluent in French, isn't everyone?" Or: "If you don't read French, you're nowhere, so drop dead and miss this." Or: "Really, everyone who attempts to understand my thoughts surely knows French."
 Well, snobs, most Americans don't know French, and fewer and fewer are likely to know it; parading one's knowledge of that language is surely, by now, an overdone and transparent snob effort, and—as the bureaucrats say—counterproductive.
 Give us translations, please—if you can do them accurately, and fluent ones.

Snob Writing

Do people who have lived together many years begin to look alike? That's often the impression one gets, especially of a man and wife who have shared decades together.
 There is, however, no solid evidence to substantiate such a theory, but it's true beyond a doubt that such couples develop mutual interests, perhaps expressions, perhaps a like humor and perhaps mannerisms which are very similar.
 Facial expressions, then, are probably the personality factor which become so much alike, between two people who have lived together many years. Perhaps a similar diet also plays a role. But we do see many couples who seem to grow to look alike over the years. What do you think gentle reader?

Growing up

Look at your lanky, teen-age son! It's hard to believe that he once wore these shoes. It seems only yesterday that he was a baby, yet he himself is the best testimonial that the years have passed. Now he stands almost as tall as you. He is a fascinating maze of contradictions—an eager, lovable youngster one minute, a scowling, angry adolescent the next.

It takes patience to understand a teen-ager—patience, and a lot of love. Though he strives to be adult, he is still a boy. Though he clings to childhood, he is almost "grown-up." You may not always be aware of it, but he still looks to you for many things. And he sees in you an example that he will, almost unconsciously, follow in many ways.

Are you setting a good example? How about church, for instance? If you haven't been going lately, start again next Sunday for your son's sake, as well as your own. And don't forget to take him with you!

THE FAMILY
LAWYER

Peril At The Bank

Henrietta was waiting to cash a check at the neighborhood bank when a man in the next line began firing a pistol. One of the bullets struck her in the leg. Later, after getting more facts, she decided she was entitled to collect damages from the bank.
"It was a holdup," Henrietta explained in a court hearing, "and the man ordered the teller not to move. Instead of obeying, the teller dived down behind the counter. That is when the holdup man started to shoot. If the teller had not panicked, I would not have been injured. And a bank is legally liable for the negligent acts of its employees."
But the court turned down her claim, refusing to condemn the teller for his instinctive reaction.

"His life was in jeopardy," said the court. "He cannot be held to perfect judgment under the circumstances."
Although a bank does owe extraordinary care for the safety of your money, it owes only ordinary care for the safety of your person.
If you get hurt on the bank's premises, you cannot collect damages unless you can prove negligence.
Thus, in a more everyday situation, a bank was held not liable to a man who slipped on its front step. The step, although somewhat worn, was no more hazardous than one might encounter almost anywhere.
Of course, reasonable precautions must be taken. In another holdup case, a man with a bomb told bank officials he would blow the place up if they did not hand over $10,000.
They managed to stall him for almost 20 minutes. Yet, they neglected to warn an unsuspecting customer to get out of harm's way.
Finally the bomb did go off, injuring the customer. In due course, a court held the bank liable. The court said even though the bank was not to blame for the bombing, it was indeed to blame for not giving the customer fair warning of his peril.

6 WAYS TO CONSERVE
AND SAVE
FOR THE HOMEMAKER

1. Let Nature help you to save on operating costs.
(a) Let the sunshine in during winter months to help cut heating costs.
(b) Shade your home with trees and shrubs to help cut down on summer cooling costs. Draw draperies against afternoon sun.
2. Be prudent when using appliances. Wash full loads of dishes and laundry, and follow manufacturer's owner-manual for best results.
3. Proper insulation helps secure your home against dirt and noise and defends it against outside heat and cold, offering year round comfort and savings.
Insulation can pay for itself in the savings from operating cost in about 1 1/2 years.
4. You purchased fine-home comfort when you bought your air conditioning and heating units. Properly maintained, they offer you years of efficient service.
A once-a-year check-up by your dealer pays dividends in savings on operating and break-down costs.
5. For savings on energy, set the thermostat on the temperature setting that provides adequate comfort (the President suggests 68°). Don't continually switch it up and down. Remember, the lower you set the thermostat in the winter the more money you save on energy.
6. Adequate lighting is essential for creating a safe and pleasing environment in every room of your home.
Dust and dirt alone cause substantial losses in the amount of light produced. Systematic cleaning is important. Clean lamp bulbs when they are cool with a damp cloth. Conserve and save energy by turning lights off in rooms that are not needed.
