JAYTON, KENT COUNTY, TEXAS 79528

THURSDAY, MAY 30, 1974

THIS WEEK IN JAYTON

My daughter Mrs. Kenneth Sudduth, now of Conway, Ark. wanted to learn about local politics and she did—the hard way.

Last year she received her Master's degree at the College of Arkansas at Conway, and this year she has been teaching in junior high. One of her subjects is an elementary course in government.

She wanted to be able to teach the class about the workings of local, city and county government, so she began to inquire, but got no good responses.

Many Arkansas counties are run by political bosses, and she soon discovered that the county she lived in was no exception.

Soon after graduating from high school at Anton in 1956, she married her present husband, while he was a sophomore in Texas Tech. She worked for while, and then started her family.

Kenneth got his degree from Tech in Mechanical Engineering, worked in Oklahoma City, and then came home, and then ended up working in Little Rock with an architectural firm.

After the fourth child was in kindergarten, she decided to go to college, since there was a good one nearby. She finally finished her college work and started teaching this year.

When she could not get any good answers about local government, she decided to learn "from the inside" and filed for place on the ballot to run for justice of the peace in the Democratic primary. Justice of the peace in Arkansas is not all like in Texas. There the main function is to meet from time to time and work on the county budget.

There is a justice of the peace for every so many votes in the election. When she went to the spots were filled, and she would have to run against someone. To this she agreed. But when the votes were printed, and absentee voting began, she discovered that people who filed after she was running in unopposed spots. Now, she knew something was very wrong. Especially since some of these were near relatives of the so-called political boss.

She and others contacted a good election attorney, and decided to file suit, and mandamus the election, get the voting stopped.

She sacrificed more than a month's pay, to pay her part of the attorney's fee. And so they went to court.

When the plan was laid out in court, the judge said something like this to the attorneys:

"Well, this is sure going to be inconvenient, especially when there is no one to profit by it. Then the attorney is quoted as saying to the judge: Well it is a shame that some one like my government teacher client, who has nothing to gain from it, has to spend her own money, to try to get the elections held in a legal manner.

And further: IF this is allowed to continue, what will I tell her? And what will she tell her government students? That it is too inconvenient to hold the elections legal?

The judge ruled in their favor, ordered a drawing held for places on the ballot, new ballots printed, and on the absentee ballots that had gone out, that that part of them be voided.

The attorney then told his clients: "Well one thing for sure, the students of Mrs. Sudduth can sure say they are learning about government in action."

Letter to Editor

Editor the Chronicle
Dear Sir:

I've never run across a friendlier, more helpful group of people than those I met last Saturday in Jayton.

If it hadn't been for Joe Bob Baker I might have still been stranded six miles out of Jayton.

He and Dennis Cheyne and Bobby Smith then towed my car into town, and to the Goodall Ford.

I couldn't believe all the nice people who gathered to help me out, and Dude Burkett and Bert Daniels, who worked with my car till late in the night.

I'd also have to give an extra big thanks to Larry Williams, and Keith Cave who drove me to the next town to catch a bus, and who waited with me so that I would be safely on the Greyhound. (And that was Keith Cave's birthday.)

I'll never forget you kind people, and hope if you are through M Y home town (Roswell, N. M.) and ever need anything, that you will receive the same warm hospitality.

Sincerely,
Linda R. Holland,

Soil Stewardship Week Observed In Area

Soil Stewardship Week a nation-wide observance which emphasizes man's responsibility to protect and conserve the soil, water and other natural resources, was May 19-26 this year according to Victor Arrington, chairman of the Duck Creek Soil and Water Conservation District.

This year's theme was "A Different Place" emphasized "How the many changes now occurring in the nation affect our continuing responsibility to be good stewards of the land" Arrington said.

Some of the events scheduled during the week included a breakfast for ministers Tuesday in Swenson Park at Spur followed by a conservation tour.

The district provides churches in the district with bulletin inserts and copies of this year's observance booklet. The material was prepared by the National Soil Stewardship Advisory Committee of the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts. The advisory committee is composed of churchmen of different faiths.

1974 is the 19th consecutive year that the Duck Creek district along with almost 3,000 similar districts throughout the nation, has sponsored soil stewardship weeks.

The custom of setting aside special "Rogation Days" for this purpose began more than 1,500 years ago in France, when French peasants prayed for help after crop failures had brought widespread hunger, Arrington said.

Examining Field Seeded To Grass

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Lyndell Williams

AUSTIN, Tex. — Texas Constitutional Convention delegates, bogged down again in debate, were told that, when they finally agree, they must get out and lead the campaign for a new constitution.

Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards and House Speaker E.L. Henry offered words of advice, comfort, cheer and condolences to their Texas neighbors concerning the business of constitution writing.

Both had leading roles in adoption of a new Louisiana constitution early this year after a convention in 1973.

"You have got to take your document to the people, or it won't get done," Henry told the Texas delegates.

Special interest groups will reach their constituents, warned Edwards; so state officials must try to sell the document drawn by the convention to average citizens who hold the swing votes.

At the same time, visiting Governor Edwards said it is highly doubtful the Louisiana revision would have been adopted had he not taken an active part in promoting it.

Meanwhile, Texas delegates had a bucketful of problems trying to get together on the judiciary article of their product. Merger of the Supreme Court and Court of Criminal Appeals, right of appeal by the state in criminal cases and status of county judges proved the toughest items to compromise.

Even before agreement could be reached on the judiciary, delegates plunged into the general provisions article which promised some of the convention's highest-voltage controversies over so-called state rights-to-work provisions and other tough ones.

REPEATERS ARRESTED — More than 85 per cent of arrests recorded through criminal fingerprint cards last year had prior records, the Department of Public Safety reported.

Twenty-five per cent of the 273,180 arrests were of 17-19 year olds.

Criminal arrest fingerprint cards increased 21,510 in 1973 over 1972. An average of 1,019 cards a day was submitted by 635 different Texas agencies and 18 out-of-state agencies.

OIL CONSERVED — State agencies and colleges conserved the equivalent of 75,334 barrels of crude oil during March compared to the same month a year ago, the Governor's office calculates.

Overall state agency energy consumption declined 12 per cent for the month, according to a special energy report. Electricity use dropped seven percent, natural gas 12.2 per cent and gasoline 11.9 per cent, while "other" fuel use increased 3.9 per cent. The increase was due largely to conversion from gasoline-powered machinery and vehicles to diesel-powered units.

COURTS SPEAK — Cities cannot tax rolling stock of railroads, the Texas Supreme Court held.

At the same time, the High Court concluded that a doctor could not be held negligent for failure to order x-rays to detect a small chicken bone in a baby boy's lung.

A Jefferson County man, sentenced to 75 years for heroin sale, won a new trial because his lawyer was not allowed to impeach a state witness by bringing up a prior conviction.

The Supreme Court declined to hear arguments by attorneys for Elmer Wayne Henley Jr., accused of Houston sex slayings, on immediate transfer of the trial site from San Antonio.

The Court of Criminal Appeals upheld the conviction of Johnny Eduardo Swift, a black, for the killing of Hearn bank President H.C. Kelly, finding no racial discrimination in the grand jury commission.

A Dallas ex-policeman was turned down by the Court of Criminal Appeals in a bid for a new trial as an accomplice to murder, though the woman charged with the murder was acquitted.

AG OPINIONS — Persons over 65 are entitled to benefits of homestead tax exemption where political subdivisions have approved, though they fail to so claim during rendition period, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded: * The property tax for higher education does not expire in 1987 but extends for an indefinite period.

* Names of persons whose sentences for possession of marijuana have been commuted by the governor should be made public.

* The Department of Public Welfare is not precluded from negotiating a premium for its medical assistance program which can be expected to result in a reduction of the Medicaid reserve.

* Animal Health Commission records concerning an examination of cattle for brucellosis are subject to inspection by the owner, but it is not mandatory that the commission authenticate the records to make them admissible in a trial growing out of herd purchase.

* The Board of Pardons and Paroles can provide counsel for indigent prisoners whose parole is to be revoked.

* Legislative pay is not dependent on attendance, but mileage compensation is dependent on actual travel.

* Cities can regulate private sewage facilities.

* Commissioners courts may issue revenue bonds under the Clean Air Act.

* Lobbyists may file activities reports for their bosses.

APPOINTMENTS — Governor Briscoe appointed Erwin A. Elias of Waco to the Texas Motor Vehicle Commission, and Rojelio P. Perez of Austin director of the new Migrant Affairs Office.

Briscoe named Sam Baxter of Marshall Criminal District Attorney for the 71st judicial district (Harrison County), succeeding Vernard G. Solomon of Marshall, who resigned.

Mrs. Mary Ann Roberts of Spring will be chairman of the 15-member 1974 state textbook committee.

Farmers Show Interest In Growing Pintos For Cash Crop

Grower interest in pinto beans has been spurred by record high prices in recent months.

Agricultural officials are predicting a 20% increase in acreage this year and the crop makes an attractive alternative to hauled out cotton.

But a flooded market can send high prices to tumbling to the cellar, says a vegetable specialist in Lubbock.

And for that reason, new growers and those who are expanding their bean acreage will need to tread the swirling waters carefully.

"Dry beans can be profitable," says Dr. Roland Roberts "But only for those who practice good sound management."

Roberts is area specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service based in Lubbock.

Top prices are paid only for clean, smooth beans that are free of damage from moisture and splitting, he explains. Beans require careful planning, right from the start, and are more difficult to achieve when growers switch to beans at the last minute.

The vegetable specialist points to seed quality, soil fertility and soil moisture as critical factors in pinto bean production.

Infected seed often results in blight infection. They can not be distinguished from clean seed in appearance, so Roberts recommends California grown seed which are certified to be free of seed borne diseases. Good seed always show the seed germination on the bag label.

Soil testing is an essential management tool he adds. Soils containing between 60 to 80 pounds of available nitrogen will not need additional pre-plant nitrogen to produce top yields. Too much nitrogen will delay maturity, encourage excessive vining, and make clean harvesting more difficult he cautions.

To achieve good soil moisture, growers may need to apply up to 24 inches of water for best yields if rainfall is too low. Preplant water is advisable, Roberts suggests, but watering up the beans should be avoided to prevent seed decay and damping off.

"One to two irrigations between emergence and blossoming will assure a vigorous plant capable of supporting a heavy pod set" he explains.

Producers should plan to irrigate during blossoming and pod fill, but once the pod fill is complete and beans are fully sized, no watering should be done so that the beans can mature rapidly."

As for type of beans to plant Roberts says that Idaho 111 and Luna both are well adapted to the South Plains area. Idaho 111 matures early, is bushy, produces relatively large seed, and is resistant to curly top virus and bean mosaic. Luna matures later, tends to be viny, has a medium to small seed, and resists strains of bean rust. Neither variety is blight resistant.

Pintos should be planted only where dry beans, soybeans, and peas have not been grown in at least three years, he says. The grower should never plant beans where propazine or atrazine was applied at any time in the previous season.

"Idaho 111 yields well in a stand of about four plants per foot or row with one row on a 40 inch bed. Luna needs more room—two to three plants per foot on 40 inch beds. One plant every 10 to 12 inches is about right for dry land production."

Roberts cautions bean raisers to calibrate the planters according to seed size and germination to get the right stand.

They should plan to put down 50 to 80 pounds of seed if the percent of germination seed is enough to seed an acre to a good stand.

"Seed should be inoculated with the correct strain of nitrogen fixing bacteria" he also advises. "Treatment of the seed with captan fungicide and dieldrin insecticide will afford protection from seed rot and soil insects."

"Treflan is the recommended herbicide for pinto beans. Broadleaf weeds and annual grasses occur, but in fields infested with nutsedge, Eptam should be incorporated."

Roberts adds that the optimum planting date can not be specified exactly because weather conditions vary from year to year.

Generally the yields of early planted Luna are better. Research with the Idaho 111 in New Mexico indicates that South Plains growers can expect the highest yields from plantings between June 10th and 20th.

members of the local intergovernmental personnel act advisory committee, including Mrs. Andrea Beatty of Austin, Lila Cockrell of San Antonio, Edwin Daniel of Wichita Falls, Amando Garza Jr. of Laredo, Job L. Hammond Jr. of Amarillo, Charles Carner of Victoria, McNeal Adams of Jasper, Frank L. Priore of Fort Worth, Vince Rachal of Houston, George K. Smith of Dallas, Nestor Valencia of El Paso and Edward Vela of Hidalgo.

Herman Lauhoff of Houston was sworn in as the newest state representative from District 84.

PORK PROGRAM APPROVED — Pork producers approved a research, education, promotion and control program and self-assessments to pay for it in a statewide referendum.

The vote was 1.163 for to 156 against.

An organizational meeting will be held at Texas Tech University in Lubbock May 30. Texas Pork Producers Association will notify producers and collectors when the program is effective. Agriculture Commissioner John C. White administers the Commodity Referendum Law.

SHORT SNORTS
House Speaker candidates were urged to call a halt to campaigning on the Constitutional Convention floor.

Socialist Workers Party is gathering signatures (the goal: 35,000) to get a place on the November ballot. The party only got 24,000 votes in 1972.

Texas Water Quality Board suspended a permit for South Texas Industrial Service to bury toxic industrial wastes near Three Rivers.

Texas — family physicians will receive instruction on latest techniques in care and treatment of the mentally ill in a series of conferences next month.

Governor Briscoe requested Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz to declare Stonewall County a disaster area as a result of drought.

Budgets up to $1.5 million have been proposed for closing days of the Constitutional Convention.

Four new state bank charters, five interim charters and two conversion applications were approved by the State Banking Board. Fourteen applications were denied.

IT ENDURES!

Man can build skyscrapers and miles of highways—even go to the moon. But he can't create a tree.

A tree withstands the summer heat and the cold of winter. How many windstorms have buffeted it? How many times has it lost its leaves in autumn, only to be reborn the following spring?

A tree like this has much in common with the Church. It too has endured countless storms and has stood the test of time. And like a giant tree, the roots of the Church go deep. Stability—you can depend on it.

Texas Crop Sold As Salty Snack

AUSTIN--C-R-U-N-C-H. That may be the sound of a Texas potato.
According to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, about half the 2,000 acres of spring potatoes from the Rio Grande Valley and nearly a third of the 18,000-acre summer crop on the High Plains end up as potato chips.
The rest are sold on the fresh market.
White said manufacturers look for potatoes that are low in sugar and high in starch to produce crisp, golden chips. In Texas these include the round, white Kennebec, the Monona and Norchip varieties.

Potatoes with a high sugar ratio darken as they are cooked.
According to one manufacturer, the entire chipping process from washing to peeling and cooking to bagging takes about 20 minutes.
A recent experiment showed unpeeled potatoes are more nutritious and have a higher yield and less waste than peeled. Flavor and shelf life were reported as similar to those of peeled potatoes.
White said the Texas Irish potato crop was valued at $13.3 million in 1972.

Texas Wheat Production To Decrease

AUSTIN—Texas wheat production is expected to decrease 29.3 million bushels from 1973 totals mainly due to the failure of the dryland wheat crop on the High Plains.

Growth of dryland wheat was very slow during the dry fall and winter. Agriculture Commissioner John C. White reported recently. "Though the recent rains were a blessing, they came too late to help much of the dryland acreage," he said.

Projections for the 1974 harvest were 78,400,000 bushels. However, drought conditions from January to April revised projections downward to 69,300,000 bushels, according to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

"This is more than a 9 million bushel decrease from the December projection, which was already significantly lower than 1973's total production," White said.

Texas produced a record 98,600,000 bushels in 1973 and farmers averaged 29 bushels an acre. The estimated yield per acre for 1974 is 21 bushels.

Nationally, the wheat picture is a little brighter. Estimated winter wheat production is more than 1.6 billion bushels — a 27 percent increase over last year.

Recently some one asked why the paper is higher outside the county than in the county?

First, most of the distant papers must be wrapped individually, and secondly, the postage is higher.
