Plant Planning Now for Spring Garden

It is the time to be planning for next year's garden.

Order to have a yard one must plan insect control and nutrition practices.

Time in order to problems later, according to Extension experts.

Short course on this subject will be held in the Kent County Community Center on Friday, Sept. 12 at 2 p. m.

Extension specialist Bob Berry of Lubbock and Emory Bowling from Vernon will present programs on plant diseases and nutrition and insect control.

There will be no charges for the session and all people are welcome to attend, regardless of race, creed, color or national origin, a spokesman said.

Field Day Trip Planned At Knox City

Field day and tour will be held at the Soil Conservation Service plant trials center at Knox City, Texas, on September 18.

State Extensionist Edward Thomas has arranged for the center, which served Texas and Oklahoma, will be held from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Producers, dealers, sportsmen, and others interested in search for improved plants are being invited to attend.

Ed Kramer, director of Texas Forest Service, will speak during field day.

Grasses, forbs, legumes, shrubs, and other plants under evaluation at the center will be discussed during the day.

Over 1,500 strains of plants are being grown at Knox City.

Goal of SCS plant trials work is to find strains of grasses, forbs, or shrubs which will solve specific conservation problems.

Livestock and wild game exist on the same land which have value for both livestock and game. Such plants are used for use in range fences, travel lanes, and other uses.

Man can also spread anaplasmosis, a serious blood disease of cattle, cautions Geeslin county Extension Service.

Horsetails--the common insect carriers of the disease--emerging in large numbers and will remain for some time.

Anaplasmosis, characterized by anemia, is common but not contagious. This means the animal must get into a stream of an insect either from an insect or careless use of medical instruments, except Geeslin.

In addition to horseflies, mosquitoes can also spread the disease along with certain ticks.

Man can also spread anaplasmosis, noted Geeslin. This is especially true of those who engage in do-it-yourself veterinary services.

In the hands of careless individuals, hypodermic needles, nose leads and dehorning can be transmitters of the disease.

If anaplasmosis is suspected, Geeslin urges cattlemen to consult their veterinarians about control and preventive measures. Testing is most important to identify carriers.

Jaybirds Open Season Friday Night At Roscoe

The district champions Jaybirds will be putting their title on the line this year, and all in the district will be hitting at them.

The y open the season this Friday night at Roscoe against the Plowboys.

This is always a very interesting game, with a strong competing spirit between the two clubs. All Jaybird fans are urged to make this game with the opening kickoff coming at 8 p. m.

'74 Wheat Projections Down Again

AUSTIN--Current USDA figures reveal that Texas wheat production is expected to decline 39.2 million bushels, down from a record 98.6 million bushels in 1973 to 59.4 million, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has announced.

Most of the decrease is due to the failure of dryland wheat in the Texas High Plains. Growth has been slow because of drought conditions throughout the area.

High Plains farmers are being paid from $3.93 to $4.10 a bushel for wheat.

Library Reviews

By SALLIE HILTON BELOVED BAKE

By Anne Anne Hampton Although she had spent all her life in Greece, young Serra Costalou was only half Greek, and she couldn't endure the thought of the cold-blooded arranged Greek marriage that was all that was in store for her.

In fact, she had already run away from home when quite by chance she met the Englishman Dirk Morgan, and discovered that he was looking for a wife, but a wife with a difference. Dirk had to marry in order to inherit a fortune, and as he was a self confessed rake, and had no intention of changing his ways, he wanted a wife who would leave him alone and not make a nuisance of herself.

So Serra and Dirk married. But neither of them got what they expected.

A CASE OF BALANCE

You don't have to be a scientist to realize that these tons of rock are held in check by perfect balance. You wouldn't want to be sitting nearby if they weren't!

This kind of balance results in inertia. There is another state of being that results in sound initiative and worthwhile action.

You've heard men speak of a balanced background, a balanced education, a balanced life. They're usually referring to the fact that no important element has been ignored or neglected.

Religious sincerity is one necessity for this kind of balance. It cannot take the place of any of the other essentials. Nor can anything else take its place.

The Church is constantly helping us gain—and keep—our balance!

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Icy Step

Neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night ever kept George from delivering the mail at the Jenkins house. But an icy step finally did him in. He skidded, went sprawling, and dislocated his shoulder.

In due course, George filed a damage suit against Jenkins.

"They have a special problem at their house," he pointed out in court. "The roof spills rainwater across the front steps, and in cold weather this creates an unusually slick coating of ice. I didn't know about the situation until after I fell."

This "special problem," which Jenkins did not deny, was held enough basis to establish legal liability. The court said a home owner must take precautions against hazards that a visitor is not likely to notice by himself.

What kind of precautions? Perhaps sprinkling salt or spreading ashes on the ice.

Or perhaps providing adequate lighting. Thus, another home owner was held liable for neglecting to turn on his porch light, after having ordered a taxicab to come to the house at 8 p.m.

True, the cab driver realized that the steps might be icy from an afternoon storm. Still, handicapped by the darkness, he slipped anyway. And a court later granted his claim for damages. The court said that while the home owner could not be blamed for the ice, he could indeed be blamed for showing so little regard for the cab's safety.

But both of these cases involved some degree of fault on the part of the home owner. If he is fault-free, he is generally free from liability as well.

The claimant in another case was a newsboy who slipped while delivering the evening paper. But the visibility was all right and the step he slipped on, though icy, was no worse than the other steps on the block.

Result: no liability. The court said a home owner owed "only that care which an ordinarily prudent person in like circumstances would exercise"—but no more.

Health & Science Shorts

Airline schedules are almost back to normal, and many Americans are once more contemplating travel on their vacations. For the sake of health and convenience, it is wise to take along remedies most likely to be needed, and especially favorite brands. On a holiday weekend, even simple aspirin may not be easily available for a sudden headache. And, for those prone to gas pains, unfamiliar foods and overindulgence in food or drink, or anxiety, may intensify the problem. A medication called Phazyme is reported to reduce gas pains and is available in tablet form. It dispels the frothy mass that causes distress.

Gynecologists have reported that vulvitis and dermatitis may be produced through the use of some scented and "flavored" vaginal sprays and cosmetic douche products. However, medicinal douche products have their established place, according to many physicians. Tricholine, available in powder and liquid concentrate form, is reported to eliminate the source of odors rather than just mask them. It has been found to be nonirritating to most women.

When a specific disorder such as vaginitis (infection of the vagina) is not present, and douching is desired simply for routine feminine hygiene, physicians recommend that it not be used more than twice a week.

Know THE Weather

Are the northern lights visible brighter and brighter until one reaches the pole? Do they have a connection with our weather?

No, the northern lights seem to extend across the heavens south of the north pole by a good margin, and while they appear to the north, to most of us, they are seen from a different direction at the pole.

Science still does not have a complete explanation of these lights though it is thought that they are reflections from small particles in space. As far as is known, they have no effect on our weather.

However, they do sometimes cause electrical or electronic interference and man has not yet learned how to cancel out this communications handicap.

Psoriasis is a skin condition that affects 1 out of 50 persons in the U.S. An article in a prestigious medical journal recently described it as a "cosmetic nuisance." 12-Month School?

George Jensen, chairman of the National School Calendar Study Committee, says the nation is moving toward 12-month school operation. Jensen says within the last three or four years some 249 schools in the nation have gone over to full-year operations.

Jensen claims the present nine-month term was designed to fit the needs of an agricultural nation, that this need no longer applies. He says of the schools which have switched to a year-round operation only one has returned to the nine-month system.

There are, of course, economic advantages in a 12-month school year. Fewer buildings are needed, for one thing, thus more money can be made available for other educational needs. Major plant facilities and other equipment, including buses, don't lie idle and unused for three months.

The question is one which must be decided by local authorities. That question also affects parents, who, if children were given staggered vacations, would often be free to schedule family vacations in months other than summer.

YOUR LIFE INSURANCE

Prepared by the American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters, the national society of life insurance professionals who have earned the C.L.U. designation by meeting high educational, ethical and experience requirements.

Q. Which is better—arranging for my wife to collect my insurance in a lump sum, or arranging with the insurance company now to pay her so much per month?

A. The lump sum method is better if your wife is good with money—and especially if you want her to use the proceeds to pay off the mortgage, buy a condominium, or make some other major expenditure.

After your death, and before collecting from the insurance company, your wife has the right to tell them to pay monthly, and she'll get the same monthly payments as if you had set it up that way.

But if interest rates are at a very high level, it may pay your wife to get the funds in a lump sum and buy high grade bonds with them, rather than leaving the money at a lower rate of interest with the insurance company.

On the other hand, if your wife is inexperienced at being responsible for a large sum of money, and if you think it might be unwise or burdensome to her to saddle her with the investment responsibility, having the insurance company pay the funds monthly is a safe, sensible idea.

The main things to remember: if you leave a lump sum, and if your wife would prefer monthly payments, the insurance company will pay her monthly, but if you stipulate monthly payments, even if your wife doesn't like it, she can't lump it.

CLEAN WATER

Are the fish in your favorite waterway competing with litter for the end of your line? If so, let's try to follow some helpful hints to clear up the mess.

It only takes common sense and a little forethought to make sure your boating fun is not the cause of water pollution. Here's how:

Always include a garbage bag with take-on-board equipment. As a further assurance against littering, keep a supply of garbage bags on the boat. Any kind of receptacle will do as long as it leaves the boat when you do and not before.

Place food for a day's outing in a sturdy air-tight container. Anything not eaten will remain fresh and undamaged for later use—in the container and not stale and soggy in the water.

Inform members-of-your crew that any litter thrown overboard must be personally retrieved. There should be no exceptions to this rule.

The print: marvelously fine. The look: fabulously feline. Wrap sleeveless top, side tied at the waist, pairs with shapely pants for this one-piece party pajama. TODAY'S YOUNG WOMEN HAVE NEW LIFESTYLES: EXCITING, ADVENTURESOME, RULE-BREAKING

We're into a whole new era of being and behaving. All the free-thinking, free-wheeling, free young women of today. There's nothing "me-too" about this happy breed. These are the bright young women who shape this world, and shape their own—who love time, but are often out of it—who meet challenges more than half-way—who know what they're like and know what they like.

More than anything else they're individualists. And they like being alive in this fascinating, fantastic year of 1974!

It took Revlon to recognize them and celebrate them. Just one year ago, Revlon created a fragrance and dedicated it to them. That fragrance was "Charlie" and it changed a lot of people's thinking, because it was as liberated, as open, as rule-breaking as these Charlie People are.

Now, Revlon has come up with a fresh new idea in makeup and skincare named Charlie Cosmetics: nine no-nonsense skincare and makeup products that do what they say, and say what they do. The entire line is gel-based, pure, purposeful, performing. No detergents, no fillers, no emulsifiers in Charlie Cosmetics. Nothing to get between the product and you. The cleansers get your skin a cleaner clean; the toners get your skin a fresher fresh; the moisturizer gets your skin a moister moist. And the makeup is more real; more great-to-be-alive looking looks for your eyes, lips, cheeks.

To personify (and glorify) new Charlie Cosmetics, Revlon has chosen three vital young women—not models, but real, honest-to-goodness young women—who are
