Hale County Road Funds Are Okayed

AUSTIN—The State Board of County and District Road Indebtedness approved its budget for the 1973 fiscal year beginning Sept. 1, 1972, giving $47,740.12 to Hale County for county road construction.

The Board of County and District Road Indebtedness was set up in 1933 to take over the bond debts of the counties and road districts in the state. Presently, there are only seven counties with indebtedness left to pay off under the board, the final one to be paid off in 1982. All but a small amount of the money appropriated to the board by the Legislature goes into lateral road construction — roads built and maintained by the county.

A total of $7.3 million goes into the Lateral Road Fund each year, and is distributed by the board to counties to pay off indebtedness or for road construction. In the 1973 fiscal year budget, $53,476.22 is going to pay off indebtedness, while $7,246,523.78 is going to build county roads.

The $7,300,000 a year comes from a portion of the state sales tax on gasoline.

Cotton Is Natural

Teenagers like to be natural and they go for cotton, the natural fiber. They like cotton in two of its plainest, most rugged forms — denim and corduroy. Names of these fabrics came from France but today's denim and corduroy fashions are definitely American and definitely "in," translated into colorful mod apparel ranging from bellbottoms to hot pants.

Texas region and the amount they will receive for road construction include Briscoe, $16,467.03; Castro, $31,985.88; Floyd, $35,631.65; Lamb, $45,822.08; and Swisher, $30,906.67.

Double Ring Vows Pledged

MRS. EDDIE LEE WEAVER (Virginia Lynne Bartlett)

Miss Virginia Lynne Bartlett and Eddie Lee Weaver were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony at 8:00 p.m. Saturday, August 5, in the Abemathy Church of Christ, W. C. Seitter of Lawton, Oklahoma officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Bartlett and Gary Weaver of Crosbyton. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white formal gown of silk organza with an overlay of scalloped Chantilly lace. The scalloped neckline and long bishop sleeves were decorated with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. The center front was of organza with the lace forming a redingote effect as it joined the panel. The organza was embroidered with lace medallions centered with tiny white roses and green leaves. A wide border of lace was scalloped on to the bell-shaped skirt which was cut full in the back and fell from the waist into a chapel length train. The veil of silk illusion was completely outlined in reemboirered Chantilly lace. The headpiece was a cluster of lace holding a bluster-length veil to a mantilla which reached to a cathedral length train. The bride's bouquet consisted of white orchid surrounded with pink roses, stephanotis, and blue delphinium.

Mrs. Jim Forbes was matron of honor, Bridesmatron was Mrs. Lonnie Bartlett of Alpine, sister-in-law of the bride, and Lynette Weaver of Crosbyton, sister of the groom, served as bridesmaid. They wore formal empire dresses. The white bodices of sheer chiffon had puffed sleeves and square necklines edged with lace. Their full skirts were of chiffon printed in a pastel floral design. Pastel ribbons accented the empire waistlines. They carried nosegays of yellow roses, surrounded with pink and orchid asters.

Chuck Rowland of Seminole served as best man and groomsmen were Mike Strawn of Lubbock and Lonnie Bartlett of Alpine, Texas, brother of the bride. Ushers were Hal Coppage of Altus, Oklahoma, and Ronny Hardon of Littlefield.

Kelly Gill of Artesia, New Mexico, and Kathy Williams of Ulysses, Kansas, were candle-lighters. Soloists were Mr. Truett Gill of Artesia, Mr. Jerry Oswalt, and Mrs. Tommy King of Lubbock.

Following the reception in the fellowship hall of the church, the couple left for a wedding trip to Cloudercroft, New Mexico. They will reside at 2904 Texas Avenue, Lubbock.

The bride is a 1971 graduate of Abemathy High and attended Lubbock Christian College where she was a member of Kappa Phi Kappa. She will be a sophomore at Texas Tech this fall. The bridegroom, a 1970 graduate of Crosbyton High, also attended LCC and was a member of the Aggie Club. He will also be attending Tech this fall as a Junior.

From The Desk of the City Manager

(Editor's Note: Following is a column that was written by Jim Davis, former city manager here, before he moved to Port Neches to a similar position.)
This is the time of the year for preparing our annual City Budget. This sets us to thinking about what we can and should do in our capacity as a public official. We are constantly torn between what we think we can do and what we know we should be doing. This inevitably leads us to wonder why there is such a wide gap between the two extremes.
Over the past few years, we have been variously told that we live in an age of anxiety, an age of discontinuity, a time of troubles unmatched since the Civil War. We have heard it said that ours is a society rapidly becoming so complex as to defy rational management, a society in which technology has run amok, heedless of the consequences to man and his environment. A society whose institutions have grown so remote and impersonal that they are no longer responsive to the will of their constituents.

There is a danger in crying "wolf" every time trouble approaches. Yet we must respond to the needs as they arise or those in need will go elsewhere and eventually "Big Government" will respond and we will be directed to proceed and this time it will be on their terms, not ours.
It was only a year or so ago when it was not at all uncommon to hear our own U.S. described as a tragically divided nation--divided between rich and poor, black and white, young and old. We were divided over the course of our economy; we thought we had mastered unemployment and mastered inflation and which seemed to have settled for more than a little of both. But what troubled us most was the sudden, shocking emergence of violence as a mode of political action in what we had conceived to be a tolerant nation, rationally organized to resolve the differences among its people.
By many accounts our political institutions which had served our nation reasonably well for the better part of two centuries had grown moribund--too insensitive to heed, and too inflexible to do what the times required. At that same time we were told what many of us found even harder to accept--and that is that the "old values" those standards of personal and civil conduct we learned in childhood, were merely sentimental relics of an America which was gone, no longer useful--even relevant--in a world convulsed by change.

Turning now to our local government as we make the budget that determines next year's activities, I suspect it may be once again the old values which will prove to be our greatest resource in a time when the shock waves of change are bearing down upon us from every direction. Can a municipality, whose governmental policies were formulated and established in the early years of the century, adapt itself to the accelerating demands and complexities which characterize the present era? Can any local government, advanced in years presumably set in its ways, retain the vigor and imagination it will take to surmount the changes of these times and the times to come?
Perhaps it can if we plan and then act. But, in my opinion, there will be many local governments who will cease to exist. Despite our desire to romanticize our local government, it is going to change or we are not going to score any successes.
We are sure that we all believe as local citizens and local officials that we can and will plan for the future as well as for the present. We are sure that we can meet our local challenge and will control our own destiny. This will require true leadership. Leaders who do not follow the mob, if our city and our citizens aspire to greatness our policies cannot reflect merely the innocuousness of popular preferences, our city cannot achieve beauty, harmony or a unique character, neither can it be prepared for the many problems about to face it, nor can it help to solve problems we have not effectively dealt with up to this time, nor can it help its citizens to move closer to the ideals to which they adhere, unless we as its leaders show courage and vision as we pre-

Farmer Is Consumer
The American farmer consumes 28 billion kilowatt hours of electricity, five million tons of steel, nine per cent of the rubber used in the United States and buys $3.5 billion worth of fuel annually.
We do not envy the responsibilities that are carried by our local elected political officials. We have been down that road and it is an overwhelming task with almost no ready solutions. But we and a few thousand others in our wonderful community are ready to help them as they accept the challenge. --Jim Davis.
