MAIL PROGRAM GOES INTO EFFECT LOCALLY OCTOBER 11

The U.S. Postal Service first-class mail service improvement program will go into effect at Abernathy Post Office on October 11, Postmaster Lambert said today.

Under the program, first-class mail will receive service that is equal to or better than airmail.

The major, new service step will extend to all first-class mail weighing 13 ounces or less. "In practical terms, what this service improvement means is that domestic first-class postage will now purchase the level of service that previously only airmail could buy," said Postmaster Lambert.

"Under the new program, there no longer will be an advantage in purchasing airmail postage for domestic delivery," he said.

Priority mail (now starting at weight in excess of 13 ounces), which includes air parcel service, and international airmail are unaffected by the improvement program and continue in their present form, the postmaster said.

"Airmail stamps will be sold for use on priority and international airmail. They can also be used in various combinations with other stamps for first-class mail," he said.

Customers can exchange airmail stamps, and stamped envelopes and cards at full postage value for ordinary stamps, stamped envelopes and cards. Stationery bearing airmail indicia will be allowed to be mailed at the first-class rate, Postmaster Lambert said.

LOCAL OBSERVANCE CONTINUES AS NATION SALUTES YOUTH DURING NATIONAL 4-H WEEK

"4-H-'76... Spirit of Tomorrow" is the theme of this year's National 4-H Week, October 5-11.

More than 7 million 4-H'ers, their leaders and parents are taking part in the annual salute to the Head, Heart, Hands and Health program.

Observances are expected to center on the 1975 4-H bi-centennial theme, commemorating the nation's 200th birthday and accenting the history, ideals and goals of the American youth movement now flourishing in over 80 countries.

As in past years, 4-H'ers are planning special recognition events, service projects and recruitment drives in their local communities, counties and states.

Local youth will be remembering 4-H experiences as they pause to celebrate National 4-H Week. They want to encourage other youth to join 4-H, and will be doing this by membership drives and window exhibits. Each of the eight 4-H clubs in the country will be preparing an exhibit for a store window in their community. The purpose is to inform the public about 4-H activities.

Some of the 4-H clubs will be attending a church in their communities as a group on October 12. Others have community projects they will be involved in.

As a climax to National 4-H Week, 4-H members and leaders will be recognized for their 1974-75 work at the 1975 Achievement Program. The annual event will be held Sunday, October 12, at 1:00 p. m. The Electric Cooperatives in this immediate area will be providing a meal for all who attend.

The awards program will follow with special awards being presented by State Representative Pete Laney, A. L. Higgins, Pat Shepard, Mrs. Elmo Ellis, James Star, and representatives from the Hale County Farm Bureau and Mainview Kiwanis Club. Hale Center 4-H Club is the host for the event "4-H-'76... Spirit of Tomorrow."

National 4-H Week is proclaimed annually by the Cooperative Extension Service, which conducts the 4-H program in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam and the Virgin Islands. Extension professionals recruit, train and assist the nearly 500,000 volunteers who provide local leadership in 4-H activities.

LOCAL AMBULANCE SERVICE REPORTED READY FOR ACTION

By Lori Hopson
Abernathy is now covered for ambulance service. Effective as of October 1, the ambulance service will be provided by local volunteers trained in emergency medical service techniques.

City manager Larry Fields announced the new service last Thursday, following a Wednesday meeting of local volunteers, where ambulance shifts were assigned and final preparations were made to put the local service into effect.

The local emergency number for ambulance service was announced, and is now in operation. For emergency ambulance service, of transfers the Abernathy telephone number is 298-2241.

For the time being, Fields announced, ambulance service in the city will use a vehicle owned by Joe Chambers. A new modular emergency ambulance vehicle, equipped with all emergency equipment and two-way, multi-channel radio, should be available for local use later this month.

The new vehicle, provided for the city by Lubbock County Hospital District, will, in effect, "bring the emergency room to the people", according to Stuart Haggard, EMS system coordinator for the hospital district.

The new ambulance will contain in excess of $5,000, 00 worth of equipment to provide "definitive treatment", according to Haggard, including emergency oxygen supplies and cardio-pulmonary resuscitation equipment.

Part of a Lubbock County Hospital District program to provide Emergency Medical Service for the area, the ambulance is one of five to be provided by the district in the area. Other cities cooperating in the program are Wollfort, Shallowater, Idalou and Slaton.

Plans are currently being made to purchase the vehicle now owned by Chambers as a back-up and transfer vehicle

ANTELOPES DISPROVE PREDICTIONS; FALL TO OLTON MUSTANGS IN CLOSE GAME, 12-10

By Sammy Hunley

Reactions of Friday night clash between the Abernathy Antelopes and the state ranked Olton Mustangs drew a variety of mixed feelings, that ranged from disbelief to instant hopes of victory.

The Antelopes coming into the game 27 points underdogs, and not expected to stay on the field with the high spirited Mustangs completely dominated every aspect of the game, except the score board. The Mustangs won 12-10.

I QUARTER ACTION
The Lopes failed to move the ball on their first possession of the game and lost it to Olton by way of a pass interception.

The defense warming up for their night performance recovered an Olton fumble. Dennis Rapstine was the man who came up with the ball to save an almost certain touchdown. Mickey Davis and Wayne Riley got together with spectacular pass play for 38 yards, but Olton's defense held and took over on downs.

The Mustangs got on the score board with 5:37 showing on the clock. Extra point was no good. The 1st quarter ended in favor of Olton 6-0.

II QUARTER ACTION
Olton braced itself for another touchdown inside the Antelope 5 yard line early in the 2nd quarter, but Greg Gist had other ideas. Greg jarred the ball from the Olton running back and came up with a touchdown saving fumble recovery.

The offense moving the ball well could not come up with the big play and had to punt the football with 7:72 left in the 2nd quarter.

The defense playing inspired football shot off the Olton attack forcing them with a 4th and 13 situation on the Lopes 40 yard line. Olton took advantage of a screen pass and a couple of miscues by the Antelope defense to score their 2nd touchdown of the night. Extra point was no good. The 1st half ended 12-0 in favor of Olton.

3rd QUARTER
The Antelope defense making a couple of adjustments during halftime started their domination early in the 3rd quarter. Dennis Rapstine came up with an interception giving the Lopes the ball on the Olton 18 yard line.

The offense was unable to move the ball and gave it back on downs.

The defense gave the Mustangs two plays from scrimmage before Victor Gans came up with another fumble recovery, giving the offense their 2nd opportunity in the quarter. Again the Lopes failed to score and turned the ball back to Olton.

Olton unable to get out of the hole elected to punt, but the man from center was to high and ended up in the end zone. The Lopes were on the score board with a safety. Olton led 12-2 with 4:36 left in the quarter.

4th QUARTER
Wayne Riley got things moving for the Lopes as he galloped 45 yards to the Olton 5 yard line. Two plays later Wayne scored the Lopes first touchdown from the one yard line. Extra point to Mickey Davis was good. Olton led 12-10 with 6:38 left in the game.

Olton found the Lopes defense too much on a punted the ball to the 47 yard line. From this point it was up to Roddy Shipman and Mickey Davis. Shipman hit Davis on a half-back pass that was good for 55 yards to the Olton 10 yard line. Davis made the spectacular catch surrounded by a host of Olton defenders.

Unable to score the Lopes elected to try a field goal. The kick by Roddy Shipman was partially blocked and was wide to the right. The score remained 12-10 with 2:48 left in the game.

Olton unable to mount an offensive attack elected to run out the clock, and gave them a 2 point victory.

Former Resident Finds Career In Medicine

By Lori Hopson
Though she says there aren't many real-life Marcuses Welbys around, Barbara Mc Dougal, a former Abernathy resident now serving on the staff at the Kansas University Medical Center, exhibits some of the characteristics which made Robert Young's television personality so appealing to a large audience.

Besides the letters MD and PhD which follow her name, Barbara holds the conviction that "a feeling for people" and "stressing individual attention" are very important in making one a good doctor. She believes that a doctor should let patients know "what's going on", and give the alternatives and possible consequences in order to help the patient make a decision concerning his or her health.

In pursuing her chosen field of nephrology, Barbara has helped with kidney transplants on 15 to 20 patients at the medical center in the past year. Only one of these had to have the kidney removed because it failed.

As a nephrologist, Barbara follows patients from the time they come to the center with kidney problems until the time when they are able to lead a normal life--either with the aid of regular dialysis, or with a transplanted kidney.

"It's really enjoyable and gratifying," she says, "to get a sick patient and see them get back to walking and talking in a semblance of order for everyday life--to take an impossible situation and see the patient through to lead an ordinary life. My main goal is to help the person live the life that they would deem satisfactory."

"In my field," she continues, "if a patient's body can tolerate the dialysis procedure (cleaning the blood two to three times a week)--then they can lead a fairly normal life. The dialysis can be done at home, at night, on vacation or anywhere."

"Most of the people accepted for dialysis can be eligible for a kidney transplant. We don't, however, transplant everyone who is on dialysis. Decisions have to be made because of the very strenuous medication and side-effects after transplant. Some patients will have a longer life expectancy on the dialysis machine than with a transplant."

With a transplanted kidney there is a likelihood that a patient will be able to live a relatively normal life with normal kidney function, which Barbara says, is "quite remarkable". The patient does have to take appropriate medication every day of his life following the operation, and has to be checked at regular intervals by his physician.

"There are transplants that are somewhat successful in that they can maintain normal kidney and renal function," she says, "but whose transplanted kidneys, for various reasons, may require closer observation by the physician. As more people are aware of the need for donating healthy kidneys, there will be the possibility of more and more successful transplants."

Barbara says that kidneys are donated voluntarily, with the intent to donate noted on the back of the driver's license in Kansas. (She does not know the procedure for Texas.)

When brain death has been determined, the kidneys are taken by a small incision, and placed directly on a machine which keeps them alive. They are then flown to the medical center at Kansas City, where a team of experts does what is called tissue-typing on the donated kidneys to determine with which recipient they will be most compatible. The perfect match is achieved when the donor is an identical twin of the host, with the second-best match achieved when four out of four chromosome characteristics are the same in the tissue-typing. This match carries a 95 percent chance of success, and usually involves members of the same family. In the general population, physicians strive to find tissue with at least three out of four matching chromosome characteristics.

After tissue-typing is completed, the kidneys are flown to compatible recipients. Because a transplant involves only one kidney, and a host can assume normal kidney functions with only one healthy kidney, a donor may help two individuals with his one set of kidneys.

As a nephrologist, Barbara is responsible for every step in the transplant procedure except the actual surgery itself.

"A patient may get a call from me in the middle of the night, and believe me they know what's going on when they do--I tell them to come to the hospital immediately, and that I think we may have a new kidney for them."

She says that preparations for a transplant begins with a complete physical examination, and a comprehensive review of the patient's medical history, and may take a bare minimum of six to eight hours from the patient's arrival at the center to the operating room.

After the transplant is accomplished, the patient is kept in the most sterile atmosphere possible for at least three to five days. Then he or she is transferred to a hospital bed, but remains under "mask isolation".

After a period which varies from around ten days to three weeks, the patient is released from the hospital, but because of the possibility of complications, Barbara says "you can't let your guard down for even a minute--there are too many factors which have to be taken into consideration--you can count on being in constant contact with the patient for at least two to three days, and some-one is there all the time."

In the future, Barbara will serve as Assistant Professor of Medicine at the center, and will serve as a "supervisor" for the various activities related to her field at the hospital.

"Next year we'll be in charge of the 20 to 25 patients who come into the hospital for dialysis and of about 20 who dialyze themselves at home and are checked regularly by us," she says. "We'll be following relatively recent transplant patients for from four to eight weeks, and taking care of the various kidney problems in the hospital--there are about five to ten patients there with kidney problems."

Barbara also hopes to spend time in the future in research, where she will be studying various kidney processes in isolated rabbit kidneys.

"My main goal in this," she says, "is not only to study the norm, but to perfect and improve the present methods of keeping kidneys alive for transplant purposes."

In her spare time, Barbara will be teaching at various levels in the hospital, which will include instruction of students, interns and staff members.

Barbara is the daughter of Mrs. Ben Appleton of Hollandville, and following her graduation from Abernathy High School, she went to Texas Tech University. After her graduation from Tech, she taught biology, chemistry and physics at Abernathy High School for three years before returning to Tech to get her Masters degree in zoology, and teaching there for a time.

She then attended the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque for her M.D. From New Mexico she went to Kansas and did her internship and residency in internal medicine, and later spent four years in kidney research for her PH.D.

Barbara says the situation is "getting better" for women who wish to enter the medical profession, but adds that it "wasn't easy" for her to begin a career in what was traditionally a man's world.

"It was harder for women in those days," she says, "there were only four girls in my class at New Mexico, but now the classes are 15 to 30 percent female; it's beginning to change."

Barbara says her decision to enter nephrology took "years of thought", and that she considered the idea of surgery for a while because "you can see immediate results".

"My work helps those who have other diseases, who need care for the rest of their lives--my results are in seeing them begin to lead a normal life. It's a very rewarding profession."

TEXAS TALK

By Harold Thompson

American farmers have long been making things better for fellow countrymen. As the bicentennial fever starts to build, it is appropriate to take a look at the contributions of our farmers. For instance, thirty-two of the fifty-six men signing the Declaration of Independence were farmers. Some of those same men later worked to frame the Constitution. As for the American Revolution, some historians are now giving a major share of the credit for American victory to the farmer. Not only as a fighter, but also as a critical food supplier. American fighting strategy never needed to be changed because of short food supplies. Conversely, the British were constantly having to make major changes in planning because of food shortages. Strategically, the food supply advantage created by the patriotic American farmer, was probably as important as any other single factor in the British defeat.

DEDICATION OF NEW TECH FACILITY SLATED FOR FRIDAY

LUBBOCK--Texas Tech University's new Range and Wildlife Management facility, the Goddard Building, will be dedicated in ceremonies at 3 p.m., Friday (Oct. 10).

W. R. Goddard of Dallas, chairman of the board of the C. R. Goddard Investment Company and chairman of the Charles B. Goddard Foundation, will make the official presentation of the building to Texas Tech. Clint Formby of Hereford, chairman of the Board of Regents of Texas Tech, will respond to the remarks by Goddard.

Dedication ceremonies will be conducted at the east entrance of the structure. The new $865,000 building is situated in the Agricultural Sciences area of the campus.

The facility was made possible by contributions from the Goddard Foundation and from the Noble Foundation of Ardmore, Okla. The three-level structure contains 21,000 square feet, 13,800 of which has been completed, occupied and put to use.

A reception, and tour of the facility will conclude the program.

"The Goddard Building," Buzlaff said, "is most functional with outstanding teaching facilities, research laboratories and staff offices. We are proud of the facility which will complement the outstanding quality of our faculty and staff."

Buzlaff said the Texas Tech department is unique in that it is the only one in the nation which combines range and wildlife management disciplines.

The department has 10 staff members, three secretaries, two technicians, and three research associates. There are 230 undergraduate majors and 27 graduate students in the department.

Dr. Buzlaff joined the department as chairman in 1973.

He came to Texas Tech from the University of Nebraska, where he was professor and vice chairman of the Department of Agronomy.

The Goddard Foundation has placed emphasis on community programs, support for youth agencies, secondary and elementary education, a school libraries project, and a medical research institute.

Concert Scheduled For Lubbock

Judith Klinger, soprano, and William Hartwell, baritone, will be soloists Friday, Oct. 10, when the Texas Tech University Chamber Orchestra presents its concert of the music of Samuel Barber.

GALLAWAYS CELEBRATE 50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Van Gallaway celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last Wednesday, October 1. They were married on October 1, 1925 at Gustine, Texas by Justice of the Peace Edd Palmer while sitting in a "model T Ford in Mr. Palmer's front yard.

They have a daughter, Mrs. Daphna Cummins, of Hereford, and two grandsons, Rev. Gary MacKendrick of the United Methodist Church at Rockford, Washington; and Jerry Wayne Kendrick, who is a special agent with the U. S. Army in Schwabach, Germany. Rev. MacKendrick's wife, Kassio, is an

R. N. at Deaconess Hospital in Spokane, Washington.

The Gallaways lived in and around Gustine until their move to New Deal 20 years ago. Mr. Gallaway served as bus foreman with the New Deal schools for seven years until the couple moved to Abemathy 13 years ago. He is now bus foreman with the Abemathy Independent School district. The Gallaways are members of First Methodist Church of Abemathy.

At the time of her marriage, the former Cordie Hayes was 14 years old, and Mr. Gallaway was 19. Though the couple has made it through 50 years of marriage, Mrs. Gallaway says that 14 and 19 might be a little young to start out in married life.

The Gallaways spent last Sunday in Hereford with their daughter and son-in-law, and had a reunion with all their family in May in that city.

Eddie Williams underwent ear surgery Wednesday in a Lubbock hospital.

Praying, like praying, should be a habit. It is a personal responsibility that must be done regularly, not just occasionally or impulsively.

One who had this habit listed three reasons for praise in Psalm 138.

He praised Him for His revelation. He said, "I will praise Thy name for Thy lovingkindness and for Thy truth: for Thou hast magnified Thy Word above all Thy name." We can no more live for the Lord apart from His Word than flowers can grow without the sun and rain. Commit it to life. Do not omit it from life.

He praised Him for His response. He sang, "In the day when I cried Thou answeredst me." The Lord answers prayer. He sometimes answers with a yes, or a no, or a later. But He answers prayer for our good and His glory.

He praised the Lord for His reviving. He said "Though I walk in the midst of trouble, Thou wilt revive me." No believer has ever been promised immunity from trouble, only deliverance. It may come in one of three ways - in, through, or from. But what does it matter, so long as there is deliverance.

Many lives are unproductive for the Lord because the streams of praise are dried up. Get into the habit of praising Him from whom all blessings flow!
