DAMAGE HERE FROM HIGH WIND STORM

STORM DAMAGE---A tree was blown over during the high velocity wind storm that struck the Panhandle and South Plains Friday. The tree, on the corner of 16th St. & Ave. J, was at the west side of the duplex apartment complex. The Ochsaps' driveway for their 811-B 16th St. apartment, sustained relatively minor damage. Main impact when the tree hit the car was on the top above the windshield and the front seat passenger place. The apartment entrance shown in the photo is to Mrs. Margaret King's home, 311-A 16th St. Mrs. King said her daughter's car was parked on the west side of the Schaap Olds only minutes before the tree blew over. Had that car been in Mrs. King's driveway at the time, it would have absorbed the full impact of the falling tree.

R. R. Struve On International Trip

Approximately 9 area farmers joined International Harvester dealer R. R. Struve of Struve Implement Company, Abernathy, on a special "jet-set" tour of farm equipment manufacturing plants in Western Illinois, March 15, 1977.

The two-day trip began in Lubbock with a morning plane departure. Three hours later, farmers and the dealer began their tour of two IH plants.

At East Moline Plant, they saw combine and planter production. At Farmall Plant, Rock Island, the visit featured a walk along one of the world's longest tractor assembly lines where nine different models, ranging from 85 to 160 pto horsepower, are being built.

After the second day, the group jetted home. International Harvester sponsors these yearly tours to let farmers see first-hand the building of farm equipment. Overall, about 6,000 farmers throughout the nation will visit the two plants during the first three months of 1977.

NEWS AND COMMENT by Buford Davenport

NGC--With the Country being in somewhat of a peanut syndrome, the following recipe is in order. It is from the current issue of one of the best magazines in the USA, SOUTHERN LIVING:

PEANUT SOUP
1 medium onion, minced
1 cup sliced celery
1/2 cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
2 quarts chicken broth
1 cup creamy peanut butter
1 cup half-and-half
1/4 cup chopped parsley
1/4 cup chopped salted peanuts

Saute onion and celery in butter until tender. Stir in flour, blending well. Stir in chicken broth; cook, stirring frequently, until mixture comes to boil. Reduce heat to simmer; stir in peanut butter and half-and-half. Simmer 5 to 10 minutes. Top with parsley and peanuts before serving. Yield: about 10 servings.

NGC--Secretary of HEW Joseph A. Califano, Jr., is calling for an examination of the welfare system... good points... and bad points. He is seeking input from the public. Write this address: Mr. Dan Reed, Office of the Regional Director, HEW, 1200 Main Tower, Dallas, Texas 75202.

NGC--The weather pattern over the nation, and possibly the world, is changing. This fact may call for extra close watch by cloud watchers who fan out from Abernathy when there is threatening weather in this section of the South Plains.

Killer tornadoes have straddled Abernathy... Hale Center in 1965 and Lubbock 1970. With weather pattern change, the tornado alley conceivably could be through Abernathy this year. The city should start testing the storm sirens... cloud watchers should start planning... the ones who will man the city's storm center in the basement of the new fire station should start preparing for duty. Residents should not tempt fate by Those who do have cellars, or not by a neighbor who has one, may take refuge in the lower level of the Junior High School and Academic Center building... the north building on the campus... if you go to that building DO NOT take pets or food, except nursing bottles for babies. This is not written to scare anyone and cause panic when a black cloud appears... it's just to mention a possibility connected with the changing weather pattern... it may never happen, we hope.

NGC--Absentee balloting for the April 2 elections are in progress here and at New Deal. Abernathians may vote absentee in both the city and school trustee elections at the city hall during business hours through March 29. New Deal city absentee voting is at their city hall. Absentee voting in the New Deal School trustee election is underway at the New Deal Co-op Gin office, through March 29.

NGC--Former Abernathian Mrs. Steve Stapleton plans to retire after this school term following a 26-year career in the teaching profession. She is a teacher in the Petersburg School. Mrs. Stapleton is the former Alice Adkisson, an AHS graduate and a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gid B. Adkisson, Sr. Her husband is a former parts department manager at Rudolph Struve's IH Implement Co. Prior to that he was, for many years, in that position at Petersburg before Schuler Implement discontinued the IH dealership.

NGC--You'll be sorry.. if you wait until the last few days to buy 1977 vehicle tags or tags. There will be block-long lines (adding the lines together) if you buy at the Lubbock court house. Hale County tags and tags are sold in Abernathy, but there is only one clerk who works at the Main Street office in the afternoons, 1 'till 5. The line will be long here, too if you wait 'till late. 1977 tags or tags should be on vehicles by April 1.

Cotton growers, agribusinessmen, cotton industry representatives and educators are expected to attend.

Uel Stockard, state agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at College Station, is slated to address the gathering. His talks will be on the South Plains' contribution to Texas agriculture and Governor Dolph Briscoe's long range goal of making Texas number one in agricultural production.

Also scheduled for the one-day event is an introductory presentation of a program for increasing cotton profits.

SPD is a voluntary organization of South Plains citizens interested in the social and economic improvement of the area. The Texas Agricultural Extension Service cooperates with SPD leaders in educational thrusts aimed at achieving these goals.

Report On Cattle Production

The production of fat cattle in the Panhandle-Plains during the past year has resulted in a $1.75 billion contribution to area businesses, according to a recent survey conducted by Southwestern Public Service Company.

The fed cattle output totaled 4,286,629 head for the calendar year 1976 and represents a 31% increase over 1975 production. It is the third largest number produced in any one year and ranks behind the highest year 1973 with 5 million head and 1972 with 4.7 million.

The survey, released by Sam Thomas, SPS manager of Agriculture Development, is quoted throughout the United States as the most authoritative source as to production of fat cattle in the southern great plains area.

"This production was accomplished during a time when cattle feeding profits were minimum and cattle livestock losses over a three year period were in excess of $30-billion," Thomas said. "The total business generated from this volume of cattle can be calculated by multiplying the estimated sales value by 3.86 with a $6.75 billion result. When the impact of the slaughter industry is calculated, another $7-billion can be added for a total contribution of $13.5-billion to area business."

The survey also revealed that the one-time feedlot capacity in use increased by 2% and reversed a two year downward trend from the peak year of 1974 when the feedlot capacity in use at the beginning of the year was 2.7 million head. Thomas reports that there is an additional 223,000 capacity standing idle with 153,000 of this capacity in units large enough to be in commercial production.

Thomas also says that there was a 1% loss in the number of feedlots of 1,000 head capacity and above, but there was an increase of 2.5% in the total number of feedlots producing fat cattle. Feedlots of 1,000 head and above number 146 and the total number of yards reporting cattle fed was 158. The total number of feedlots producing fat cattle have been steadily declining up to now since 1967 while the average size has been increasing sharply.

"Feedlot companies that are apart from the profit or loss situation of the cattle are generally in good shape," Thomas says, "but those that are involved in cattle ownership could be in better shape. Also, the older feedyards that are not faced with the necessity of retiring extremely high capital investment as a result of the recent high building costs, seem to be in a more desirable position."

The survey points out that the trend towards commercial feedlots getting into the hands of fewer companies is continuing. As to whether this is good or bad for the industry, Thomas says that the greater financial stability of the new owners should be helpful and their ability to find expert management will give the industry a firmer base.

"We expect to see a greater integration between farming units and feed units," Thomas says, "and we believe the cost price squeeze facing farmers will mean a greater reliance on marketing by grazing rather than by combining. We feel that more silage will be put down both by farmers and feedyards, and that there will be a greater reliance on growing cattle as well as feeding high grain rations that were feasible in previous years."

"Present market conditions make it very difficult for farmers to make a profit producing grain. Integrating into the livestock industry is one way they can improve their profit picture," Thomas continues. "This will not hamper the big commercial feedlots, but we do believe that the cattle expertise and financial ability in the commercial yards is an essential part of the future of farming."

Thomas concluded by saying that the fed cattle output from the yards should increase as a greater number of feeder cattle become eligible for a grain finish. "This will not be a permanent change, but as the cattle cycle bottoms out the supply of calves and grain come into balance with the market demand, then we should see a recurrence of high grain feeding."

"There is very little that is new in the livestock industry, other than the people in it. At the present time, about 7 million cattle can be produced in this area, but when we learn to feed 'stalk and all', we will produce about 12 million."

OUT OF THE MOUTHS OF BABES by Lillie Belle Kramp

A friend of mine was watching her two granddaughters play.

The older one says, "Come, let's go bye-bye." The younger one answered, "Bye". She agreed but never moved. Several attempts were made to get her going --she always agreed but continued her own thing.

When this was related to me, the thought came--how like we are with God.

He says, "Put off-put on." We agree and know that these things should be done--but we continue our own thing. Both commandments are important--clean out--fill up. We've read the illustration which Christ gave about the man who swept out the unclean spirit. Matt. 12:44. A chilling warning.

God says: "But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves."

I'm sure God is saying to us what we often say to our children--"Get with it." Think on these things!

Commit your work to the LORD, and your plans will be established. (Pro. 16:3)

Rays of Hope

 By Pat Stanton

God has put an eternal law into operation concerning sowing and reaping. Whatever we sow (plant) will become alive and active. This is why we must be careful to plant wholesome and pure seeds. We must continually give out words of kindness, faith, and love. Then, in return, these things will come to bear fruit in our lives.

Consider these thoughts about giving:
 A. Luke 6:38: "Give, and you will receive." We should expect a return on the seeds that we plant.

B. When we need a miracle or help, we should plant seeds of love, money, kindness, etc., and then expect to receive the desired results.

C. We have a gift or gifts of God within us. They are given to us for the benefit of others. (Romans 12:5-21)

D. James 5:16 says that as we pray for others, we will be healed. This is a way of giving our love, time, and concern for others.

The Proverbs give much light about giving:
 1. "The liberal soul shall be made fat: and he that watereth shall be watered also himself." Chap. 11, v. 25.

2. "He that despiseth his neighbor sinneth: but he that hath mercy on the poor, happy is he." Chap. 14, v. 21.

Happy and blessed is the man who has found the joy of a life-style of giving.

Invert a collander over a skillet when frying. It will catch spatters but let heat escape.

There is severe discipline for him who forsakes the way; he who hates reproof will die. (Pro. 15:10)

SCHOOL'S SPRING BREAK SCHEDULED

Students and teachers in Abernathy and New Deal Schools will have Spring Break holidays this month. Both schools will be closed during the calendar week of March 20-March 26. Classes will resume at both schools Monday morning, March 28.

By the time she's 39 we'll need 8.5 TRILLION kilowatt hours.

Five times as much electricity as we use today will be required by the turn of the century. Producing such a prodigious supply will be a difficult task for the people who generate our electricity. And it will be costly.

While we at The Cooperative are keeping distribution costs under control, the cost of producing power continues its upward spiral. The only present remedy for the pain of higher prices is conservation.

While "youth must be served" there's no question they will be served more dependably if conservation becomes a part of our lives as well as theirs.
