STUDENT COUNCIL RALLY and ELECTION HELD TUESDAY FOR AHS

For a week and a half, the halls of AHS have been one dizzy display of clever, imaginative student council campaign posters. They were moved Monday afternoon to the school auditorium to prepare for a campaign rally Friday morning for this year's juniors, sophomores, freshmen, and eighth graders. The seniors got to stay home and sleep an hour later.

Buddy Bowen, this year's student council president, reviewed the council's accomplishments through the year, recognized council sponsors Bity Aldridge and Floyd Galloway and other student council officers Shana Toler, vice-president; JoAnn Stone, secretary; and Valerie Moss, reporter.

Campaign managers of the candidates spoke briefly in favor of their candidates who made brief speeches, then were questioned by this year's council officers. Their answers showed admirable poise. A few demonstrations in favor of candidates livens up the morning.

Candidates for student council president, who must be seniors next year, and their campaign managers were Dana Flud (Mike Flores), Wade Henderson (Becky Smith), DeAnn McGuire (Cliff Ward), and Jody Smyers (Kim Grant).

Vice-presidential candidates and their managers were Shane Cunningham (JoAnn Stone) and Tony Heath (Kelly Thompson).

Cindy Stillwell was the only candidate for secretary. Her manager was Darla McGuire. Patsy Davis was the only candidate for a new office, that of historian. Her manager was Cindy Fitzgerald.

Candidates for reporter and their managers were DiAnn Allen (Lori Havens), Lance Horsford (Vance Morrison), and Ramona Irbeck (Shelly Toler).

Bowen kept the assembly running smoothly and the audience was most attentive. Afterwards, the students retired to certain areas to vote.

The final tallies later in the day showed next year's student council leaders to be:

New Officers Are
President, Jody Smyers; Vice-President, Shane Cunningham; Secretary Treasurer, Cindy Stillwell; Reporter, Lance Horsford; Historian, Patsy Davis.

SPORTS

Joe Barrera placed third in the 880 at the Regional Track Meet in Lubbock last Saturday. He also set a school record of 2:00.00.

Gilbert Cuevas and Sam Dominguez placed third in Regional Tennis Doubles in Lubbock Saturday. They lost to last year's state champs (6-2) (7-5), but won over Crane (3-6) (7-6) (6-2). Cuevas and Dominguez are both juniors and will have another chance next year.

Ramona Irbeck, Shelly Toler, GiGi Cuevas, Cyndi Riddell, Lisa Kitchens, and Tracy Bradley, manager, left Wednesday after school for the state track and tennis meet in Austin Friday and Saturday. They were accompanied by Coaches Betty Cagle and Diana Lewis.

Field's Baby Cooperates With City

A little girl was born to Judy and City Manager Larry Fields Thursday, April 24. They named her Carrie Alison. The Fields' have two other daughters.

Carrie Alison timed her birth conveniently for Abernathy as her father needed to go to New York with the city aldermen last Saturday morning to try to get the best board rating possible for our library and community meeting room construction project.

After her release from the hospital, Judy and the girls went to her mother's home in Tulla for a few days of recuperation. Mayor Pete Thompson and all the city aldermen but Jerry Givens were able to go to New York as suggested by the city's bond advisor. Their wives accompanied them at their own expense.

Hepatitis Cases Are Reported Here

The Review checked with Hale County Health Department about a reported outbreak of hepatitis here. Nurse Supervisor Truesdale said there are only three cases, not six as rumored.

One pre-school child and two school students are ill but the health department does not consider the cases school related. The school is taking proper actions to protect other children.

This is not an unusual situation though Nurse Truesdale said they never like to see cases of hepatitis.

Several Abernathy young men entered The Great Race in Lubbock last Sunday. It was sponsored by the Avalanche-Journal and Oshmans to benefit the American Heart Association. So far as the Review can determine, those who completed the four mile run were Jerry Grimsley, Cliff Ward, Shane Cunningham, Rod Dodson, Vance Morrison, Wade Henderson, and John Horn.

Ward, Cunningham, Morrison, and Henderson are AHS students. Dodson, Grimsley, and Horn are college students. Cunningham finished with the best Abernathy time of 29:30 and Morrison with 30.

About 60 entered finished the four mile run.

Knox placed third in the long jump but came back to win the 100 and 220-yard dashes to lead the Texans to their third straight league title. Bike Day Here Was Staged To Save Fuel

The roads to and streets in Abernathy were full of bicycles Thursday, April 26, as kids, teachers, and administrators participated in Bicycle Day at Abernathy High School. The AHS Junior Class, a rather unconventional bunch, sponsored and promoted the day as an energy saving measure.

Lance Horsford, who lives 11 1/2 miles from town, won $10 for riding his bike the longest distance. JoAnn Stone rode hers ten miles from her home. Everyone wore stick-on patches reading "I RODE A BICYCLE TODAY." A few who winced with each step, wore stickers with the message, "I WALKED TODAY."

The juniors were most pleased with the participation. One count showed 65 bicycles in the high school parking lot, including Ricky Powell's three wheeler and Ricky Pope and Jody Smyer's unicycles.

School Superintendent Dr. Delwin Webb and Mrs. Webb rode their bikes to work as did Coaches Betty Cagle and Diana Lewis, Jerry and Donna Adams, and Coach Larry Aldridge, Bity, and their two girls pedaled along to school like a family of ducklings.

Some people didn't have enough bikes in the family so Coach Max and Mrs. Kennedy walked, as did Charles Bowen. Many kids who abandoned their bikes years ago in favor of more sophisticated transportation regretted their neglect when they saw how much fun all the others were having. This may even start a trend.

Buddy Bowen, AHS Student Council President, said, "With the kind of gas mileage my car gets, I think I'll start riding my old bike to work."

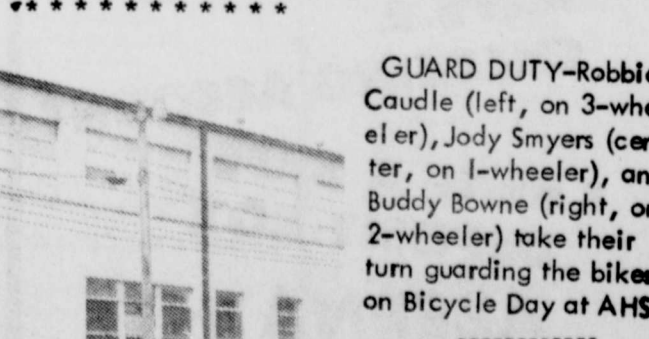

Others who formerly wouldn't be caught dead on a bike after the age of 13 seemed to be having the time of their lives.

Junior Class members took turns guarding the bikes all day, eliminating a past deterrent to using bikes for transportation. Parents for years have refused to let their kids ride bikes to school because they were often stolen or damaged during the day.

The juniors may have proved that traffic congestion, fender benders, space and expense problems could be eliminated if the school could offer guaranteed protection of student's bicycles. They surely proved that you're not a "nimmo" if you ride a bike. The coolest characters rode them Thursday and had an awful lot of fun.

LANCE HORSFORD (foreground) rode 11 1/2 miles from home to school on Bicycle Day. JOANN STONE rode 10 from home to school on "Bike Day" at AHS.

CYSTIC FIBROSIS BIKE-A-THON DREW FIFTY RIDERS

In spite of the cold last Saturday morning, approximately 50 riders, including Mrs. Bettie Hardin, rode in the Breath Of Spring Cystic Fibrosis Bike-A-Thon sponsored by the AHS Student Council. Several rode as far as 40 miles and Bity Aldridge, one of the adult supervisors, said there were probably a bunch of sore kiddoes Sunday.

The riders started at 9 AM and rode until 12 PM. The route laid out by student council officers, began at the high school fliers, began at the high school parking lot, went south to the football field corner, on around and east by the Baptist church, into the elementary school cafeteria parking lot, west to high school and past the Academic Center, north for two blocks on Ave. H and back-tracked south to the parking lot.

The student council manned two rest stations and riders took several frisbee breaks. "It was really a fun day," reported Mrs. Aldridge. There were three divisions - elementary, junior high, and high school. There's no way yet to estimate how much money was raised in the effort. Riders had to take their mileage back to sponsors and collect what they pledged. The amount should be available next week.

These bike riders were getting their route and instructions from Shana Toler in the left picture on the right the bike riders were on their way for the Bike-A-Thon sponsored by the AHS student council for a money raising project for Cystic Fibrosis.

The Big Remuda Author Visits Review

(By Jacquelyn Smyers) Carter White of Hale County stops by the Review office now and then when he checks on sales of his book, THE BIG REMUDA, at Pison Pharmacy, White is a livestock inspector for the Texas Animal Health Commission and a life long horseman.

The book is an illustrated collection of 92 "personality sketches" of horses White has owned, known, or heard about. Area horse lovers identify with the West Texas rancher language White uses to tell his horse tales. Readers who know nothing about horses or West Texas surely learn a lot.

One wonders how anyone could remember that many animals. The answer must be that people remember what they enjoy and White obviously enjoys horses. Readers of THE BIG REMUDA gradually get a picture of White's family, friends, and White himself. He's quite poetic in a down to earth way, with deep feelings for horses and people.

White grew up in Post and has raised horses since the age of 11 or 12. He always used horses in work-not the rodeo arena-and strongly supports the 4-H horse program.

White is a nephew of Mrs. A. L. Stone, Sr., and is a cousin of Judy Stracener and A. L. Stone, Jr., all of Abernathy, and Delton Stone of Wolfroth.

His wife, Sybil, is the secretary of First Baptist Church, Hale Center. Their two grown daughters are Sherry, who lives at New Home and Cynthia, who works in a Plainview bank. You might be surprised, in reading White's book, to find you also remember some of the events, people, or horses that he recalls so well.

Open House Set At Tech Farms East of N. D.

NEW DEAL--Everybody's invited to the farm, anytime from 1 to 5 p. m., Tuesday, May 15.

The farm is the 980-acre field laboratory used by the Texas Tech University College of Agricultural Sciences. The Lubbock County Laboratory, located several miles east of New Deal on Farm Road 1729, is fully operational this year for the first time.

In the belief that everyone in West Texas is involved, at least indirectly, in agriculture, the Livestock Industry Committee of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce is arranging the open house in cooperation with the Texas Tech University College of Agricultural Sciences.

The committee pointed out that farmers in the United States in the mid-1970s were producing 21 million fed cattle per year, 10 million lambs, 71 million swine, 124 million turkeys, 219 billion broilers and eggs from 276 million hens.

The feeding industry is so vast that a change of only 1 percent in feed efficiency carries a price tag of about $130 million.

All of these figures are important to consumers checking prices at the meat counter, according to Dr. A. Max Lennon, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee.

"Because the production of meats, grains and fresh produce are reflected in the budget of every household," he said, "we have arranged this open house so that the public can see how agricultural sciences go about their job of producing the best in the most economical way."

In addition to faculty and students on hand to explain the experiments in crop production, visitors will be able to see and ask questions of those working at the horse center, with the beef cattle breeding herd and at the feed plot, sheep center, swine center and in dairy operations.

At Texas Tech's unique feedmill visitors can learn something about the intricacies of livestock diets and the importance of research in producing the kind of meat consumers want for the dinner table.

"We think the swine barns will be of special interest to visitors," Lennon said, "because few outside the swine industry realize how much care goes into producing the pork they eat. The lowly swineherd has turned into a highly skilled and knowledgeable producer."

Bob Etheredge, manager of the Agriculture Department of the Chamber of Commerce, said that the urbanization of West Texas has added distance between city dweller and the agricultural producer.

"This open house will be of interest to farmers and ranchers," he said, "but it should be equally interesting to the city dwellers, giving them the opportunity to see new techniques in all phases of agriculture."

Farm Road 1729, leading to the field laboratory, intersects U. S. Highway 87 at New Deal.

Antelope Band Hosts Region 16 Band Contest April 24-25

The Antelope Band and some seventh and eighth grade band members worked hard as hosts of the Region 16 South Zone B, A, and AA Band Contest here April 24 and 25.

Only three bands—Sundown in Class B, Plains and Seagraves in Class A—earned Sweepstakes. No AA bands were awarded that honor.

The Antelope Band earned a Division II rating in marching last fall at Jones Stadium in Lubbock, a Division II in concert and a Division I in sightreading here Tuesday, the 24. The ratings knocked them out of their hoped for trip to a band festival in Colorado.

The Antelopes were disappointed at the II rating in concert, but director George Riddell pointed out that sightreading is the real test of a band's ability. Assistant director Ruth Adams said Abernathy bands have earned Division I rating in sightreading 25 out of the past 26 years.

Director Riddell planned the contest but said it was run entirely by Antelope Band members. Older boys traveled to neighboring towns before hand borrowing, loading, and unloading extra chairs, music stands, and instruments.

Both days, the band members worked in shifts of 35 at such tasks as judges' helpers, band guides, stage crew, sightreading room aides, parking lot directors, door monitors, office aides, and warm-up room guides.

Proceeds from the concessions were meant for the Colorado trip fund but will now be used for an end of year band banquet. The remainder will be added to the continuing fund for band trips.

The judges complimented Riddell the second day of the contest on the Antelope bandmen's continued pleasant helpful attitude in spite of obvious disappointment with their ratings.

"Dear George, Just a note to tell you I enjoyed working your contest the past 1 1/2 days. You have a great bunch of band students. I am sorry you did not make a I in concert. You are a lucky band director to have such a find group.

Again, thanks for all the nice things you did for me during contest. Your friend, Cilly"

ELEMENTARY IMPRESSION OF THE BAND CONTEST: Most elementary classes were allowed to listen to at least one band during the contest here at Abernathy last week.

I liked the band that I heard. I liked listening to the band. The band I heard was good. It had pretty music. I liked the clothes they wore. I liked the Concert I went to, I saw a lot of people I knew. I saw the band ropes. I liked it. The band played loud.

I thought that it was neat when the music director lifted his hands they lifted their instruments. And the music was very good. But I think Abernathy could do alot better. And I liked the way they dressed. I liked the song "Exabian".

I liked the people in the band concert they were good and played duff songs. I liked the uniforms it was blue. I liked the Ropes band it also was pretty. And they played loud.

The concert was pretty. They played pretty music they played real good. I saw a lot of buses outside. It was the best concert I had ever been too. Abernathy made a one in music.

I thought the concert was very good and the band that we heard was very good but I know Abernathy can do better than them.

I liked the concert. I liked it. I liked the drum most of all. I liked how they played. I liked how they were dressed. I am glad I went to the concert. I thought it was neat. I liked the girls dresses. I liked the concert. I liked to live in Abernathy.

I liked the band concert. And they played very good. I think Abernathy was the best. I saw the band people getting some coke outside. I never heard so soft and loud music.

I liked how they played. I liked how they were dressed. I am glad I went to the concert. I thought it was neat. I liked the girls dresses. I liked the concert. I liked to live in Abernathy.

Mrs. O'Donnell Heads Drive Here

Mrs. Pam O'Donnell announced that the Gift of Life Campaign is being held through May 13 to distribute educational material and organ donor information and receive contributions for the Kidney Foundation of the Texas Panhandle.

Mrs. O'Donnell stated that 14 million Americans suffer from kidney disease and 54,000 people die each year from kidney and kidney related diseases despite major advances in medical science. At present, over 200 persons have kidney failure and must sustain life by the use of a kidney machine in West Texas.

Much can be done to treat kidney patients through drugs, diet, therapy and the artificial kidney machine, but the hope of life for thousands is a chance for a transplant of a healthy kidney. Over 4,000 people in Texas need a transplant, but only one out of 10 dialysis patients have a related donor. With the many advances science has made in blood testing, tissue typing and organ preservation, kidneys can be successfully transplanted from non-related donors or a cadaver donor. The organ donor program is a top priority of the Kidney Foundation because it is estimated that if just 10 percent of all Americans would make arrangements to donate their kidneys, there would be enough to meet the patient need.

The Kidney Foundation of the Texas Panhandle is an Affiliate of the National Kidney Foundation. The Foundation is a voluntary health agency and services all cities from Lubbock to the top of the Panhandle of Texas.

Another priority of the Kidney Foundation is patient services. Some of the services offered include information and referral services, help with insurance and Social Security claims, medical alert jewelry, Bloodpan Insurance, emergency transportation, transportation to transplant center, patient packets, emergency financial assistance, patient visitation teams and a lending library. Mrs. O'Donnell said she feels this campaign deserves the attention and support of every concerned citizen and asks that anyone interested in volunteering to help make this event successful to contact her, or the

Producers See Model Fiber Testing

WEST TEXAS COTTON PRODUCERS HEAR ABOUT NEW COTTON USES
RALEIGH---Cotton producers from West Texas saw some new looks in cotton fabrics at their producer-funded research center here recently and came away feeling good about the future of cotton.
 About 50 cotton producers toured the Cotton Incorporated research center here and heard company officials explain how the producers' per bale assessments are used to increase cotton consumption and help producers cut costs of production.
 "I really didn't know this much research was going on," commented one producer, Sammy Means of Ropesville. "I was especially interested in the West Texas cotton being used in the new knit fabric process they are working on. It is real interesting and real promising."
 Another producer, Don Vogler of LaMesa, said after the trip, "I was real impressed with the fact they come up with new materials, new chemical treatments, and new designs. I have known all along no one else would do this kind of job for cotton, and I am just pleased we have an organization like Cotton Incorporated that is doing this kind of thing for us."

Cotton Incorporated is the fiber company of America's cotton producers. It is funded entirely by per bale assessments from cotton producers and works to benefit each cotton grower in the United States.
 The company, directed by a board of cotton producers, has a research center here and marketing headquarters in New York City.
 The trip to Raleigh was funded by cotton gins, warehouses, compresses, seed dealers, banks, implement dealers and others in the cotton industry in West Texas.

The producers also heard about agricultural research to help lower costs of production through improved insect, disease and weed control; through better varieties and cultural practices; and through systems that streamline the harvesting-handling-ginning process.
 Cotton Incorporated economists explained to the group how their research helps producers make planting and marketing decisions by gauging domestic and foreign demand for cotton and monitoring the cotton supply around the world.

Robert J. Boslet, vice president of market services, told the producers that through promotional work of Cotton Incorporated, over half of America's consumers have come to recognize the Seal of Cotton as a mark of quality and comfort.

He also told them about the successful introduction of new all-cotton, easy care men's dress shirts by the nation's two largest shirt manufacturers.

In the research center labs, the cotton producers saw how Cotton Incorporated develops and tests new predominantly cotton and all-cotton fabric. They viewed dyeing and finishing equipment being used to determine cheaper ways to textile mills to dye and finish cotton fabric.

Wolfgang Strahl, associate director for textile product research, showed the producers results from a new process called piece mercerization that is used to treat fabrics to give them more luster and strength.

The new piece mercerization process makes it possible to use short staple cotton from West Texas to produce a high-quality knit garment, he explained.
 The new process drew favorable comments from several West Texas cotton producers.

"I've been real impressed with the mercerized fabric, especially since they can use our quality of cotton in this process," yet make a superior fabric," said Bobby Jackson of Levelland.

Ronnie Fenton of Lubbock commented, "It looks real good. It's very interesting. I believe we are getting our money's worth out of Cotton Incorporated."

Conclude Jerry Orwalt of Abernathy, after the tour, "It's been very educational, very enlightening, and I am very impressed with the research going on here."

Added Mike Harter of Plainview, "After coming here, I think anyone would be more optimistic about the cotton industry."

 To James Davis

Your contribution to the improvement of government operations was brought to my attention recently. I want you to know how much I appreciate your interest and your efforts.

Our country is a great country due to the achievements of citizens at all levels of our society. If we are to succeed in improving the quality and performance of our government, cooperation and support such as you have extended are needed from each and every public employee.

Since, Jimmy Carter, Mr. James T. Davis, Quality Assurance Division, Defense Contract Administration Services Management Area, Los Angeles, Defense Contract Administration Services Region, Los Angeles, California

FROM DCAS NEWSLETTER: DID YOU KNOW?

That Jim Davis was the recent recipient of a cash award of $585 for savings realized by the Government on a contract for a gun cover and potential savings on future contracts for the same item. On 27 Feb. 79, General Connolly, Commander of the L.A. Region Headquarters, presented Mr. Davis with a Presidential letter of thanks signed by President Carter.

Mr. Davis' money saving idea was for a more efficient use of material by rearranging the way the patterns were laid out on the fabric. Great going Jim, keep up the good work.

Students catch shark

This story is from the University Daily Paper from Texas Texas

By JOHN EUBANKS UD Sportswriter

"We hadn't even had a bite until the shark hit," commented Tech student Paul Herchman during a discussion of a spring break fishing trip he and five other Tech students experienced in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. last month.

When the "boring" mid-morning deep-sea fishing venture turned into an hour-and-a-half battle with a 285-pound hammerhead shark. Herchman, along with the other five, Stan O'Neal, Gary Patton, Jeff Tunnell, Russell Hartsfield and Rick Bell, had each chipped in $25 dollars for an $150 a.m. - 12 noon fishing trip.

For nearly two hours, the six sat and waited for a bite. They ended up getting more than they bargained for. Herchman recalls the morning.

"At about ten o'clock, Gypsy, our captain, yelled, 'Shark!' At first we didn't believe him but it wasn't two minutes later until it hit the bait."

The bait was a foot-long mullet, which was hooked onto a one-inch hook. The hook, normally not big enough to hold onto a shark of the size, had been swallowed by the shark.

It was as good as hooked. "It took us an hour to lure it to the boat," Bell recalls. "And another twenty-minutes to get it on the boat."

The captain's first mate, "Gypsy" went into the water, after the shark was hooked, and made some noise to attract tract the shark toward the boat.

Bell said it looked like a couch. Herchman said it looked more like a submarine.

The shark whipped the boat with its tail in an effort to free itself. The crew tried to control the shark by lassoing it with a rope around its nose and sticking it with a gavel hook. The shark continued to whip the boat.

"We finally had to shoot it (three times) with a 12-gauge shotgun," Herchman said. "That was the gory part."

After the shark was loaded onto the boat, the captain headed his ship toward shore.

"No one was at the dock when we arrived," Herchman said. "But in five minutes, 30 people showed up."

The shark was cleaned, measured and posed for pictures. It measured 9-2 in length and weighed 285 pounds.

"It was biggest shark caught so far this year on the southern Florida coast," Bell said. "People there, said it was the biggest shark caught by Texans."

The six, all members of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, are having the shark stuffed and sent to Lubbock, where they plan to mount it in their fraternity lodge. The entire process will cost $600 and take about eight months.

"Was it worth it?" they were asked.

"Oh, yeah."

Paul Rob Herchman, Jr. is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Herchman, Sr. of Abernathy.

"He that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live: and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die."

LUBBOCK---On Tuesday, May 15, from 1:30 to 4:00 p.m., senior citizens in the 15-county South Plains area will have the opportunity to participate in a Health Fair at the South Plains Fair Park Coliseum. The Health Fair is part of Senior Round-up 1979, a celebration by area seniors of Older Americans and Older Texans Month. The Round-up will take place on the 15th and 16th of May at the Fair Park Coliseum and will include recognition of 1979's Outstanding Senior Citizens, music and dancing, and the Senior Olympics, as well as the Health Fair.

At the Health Fair, area seniors will have the opportunity to receive health services at several booths arranged at Fair Park Coliseum. These services include checks on blood pressure, sight, hearing, and respiration, as well as other health-screening services. At each participant's discretion, a health-check card may be used to record health data. In addition to health service booths, many stations

WORD OF GOD

And call upon me in the day of trouble: I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify me.

But unto the wicked God saith, What hast thou to do to declare my statutes, or that thou shouldest take my covenant in thy mouth?

Seeing thou hatest instruction, and castest my words behind thee.

When thou sawest a thief, then thou consentedst with him, and hast been partaker with adulterers.

Thou givest thy mouth to evil, and thy tongue frameth deceit.

Thou sittest and speakest against thy brother; thou slanderest thine own mother's son.

These things hast thou done, and I kept silence; thou thoughtest that I was altogether such a one as thyself; but I will reprove thee, and set them in order before thine eyes.

Now consider this, ye that forget God, lest I tear you in pieces, and there be none to deliver.

Whoso offereth praise glorifieth me; and to him that ordereth his conversation aright will I show the salvation of God.
