Bert Pinson Begins Flying Career At Abu Dhabi With Emirates Air Service

(By Jacquelyn Smyers)

Most boys, when growing up, dream of exciting careers in exotic places. Most finally content themselves with ordinary family life and steady jobs close to home. Bert Pinson is one who did not. He is a 1974 graduate of Abernathy High School. Mr. and Mrs. David Pinson are his parents.

Bert is a co-pilot for Emirates Air Service, based in Abu Dhabi, United Arab Emirates. His days and nights are spent flying DeHavilland Twin Otters over Arabian deserts and the Persian Gulf. His passengers are mostly oil company personnel, his fellow crew members mostly Canadians (former bush pilots) and British. He sees few Americans.

Emirates Air Service is run by an American but owned by a sheik. (We say "sheek" but Bert pronounces it "shake" and he ought to know.) The sheik has his own private fleet of airplanes, quite luxurious, for his personal use and his own crew of British pilots. Emirates Air Service is a contract airline which transports oil company employees to and from oil installations on islands in the Gulf.

THE SHEIKDOMS
 The United Arab Emirates is a federation of seven sheikdoms, each trying to outdo the others. The sheiks headed poor nomadic people until oil pushed them overnight into the 20th century. Abu Dhabi, for example, was a tiny fishing village just 12 years ago. Now it is neck in neck with Kuwait in display of oil riches.

Living in Abu Dhabi is like living on a beach. It is a triangle-shaped island and vegetation of any kind has a tough time because of the salt. Parts of the city are pretty. There's a new beautiful new souk or marketplace which is equivalent to our malls. The native houses are cinderblock and stucco and look clean and livable.

Camels are everywhere though they aren't used much anymore. The people at Abu Dhabi are Bedouins, former nomads who depended on camels for livelihood. Oil stopped their roaming but they still think camels are nice to have around and get together for camel races now and then.

OIL RICHES
 The people are well off and the sheiks live in splendor. One sheik's son recently bought a yacht which was too big to fit in the canal to his summer palace. He bought a dredging company to have the canal enlarged so the vessel would fit. The same son has his own private island zoo.

The sheikdoms used to fight and still compete fiercely. If Abu Dhabi builds a big sports complex out in the desert, Dubai tops it with a new international airport. Another counters that with a string of luxury hotels, and so on.

All the new construction is poorly and hastily done. Nothing lasts and colossal mistakes are common. They built a modern city, then remembered they forgot to include a sewer system. Result—an open cesspool right in the middle of town.

Abu Dhabi has no central water system. Water is trucked in daily, pumped to tanks on top of the buildings, and gravity fed to faucets. Too bad Arabs don't have cold winters. They have a perfect solar heat set up. The rooftops tanks absorb heat all day and residents have to be careful not to burn themselves when they turn on the cold water tap.

The sheiks are rich enough to buy anything they want for themselves and the country but the natives cannot maintain it. All operations therefore depend on British and other foreign technicians.

Since Arab technology is so poor, Bert is most happy that the airline hires Canadian mechanics to keep the planes in flying shape. Even ground crews, who aren't technicians, aren't Arabs either, but Indians. India is the Mexico of the Middle East and its people pour out of the country to take jobs—usually illegally—in other countries.

THE FLYING
 The airline operates under rules set up by the International Civil Aviation Authority. All radio communications are in English and all the air traffic controllers are British. Once he got used to the accent, Bert had no trouble at all understanding instructions.

He loves the Twin Otters which are dependable and great to fly. They have turbine engines and carry 20 passengers. Since they were designed for flying in cold Canadian wilderness, they have fantastic heaters but their air conditioning system leaves a lot to be desired in the Arabian climate. It gets up to 127 degrees in August. Mid-winter temperatures go down to the 60's. Swimming in the Gulf is like taking a warm bath.

The number one pilot's bug-a-boo, weather, is no factor to Bert and his comrades. They never have clouds or fog to worry about. Visibility is always bad though because of dust and smog from oil fields flares. The pilots have trouble at night telling whether they are overland or sea because both are dotted thickly with the flares.

It has rained only twice at Abu Dhabi in the two years Bert has been there. Humidity is very low when the wind is from the interior; very high when it comes from the Gulf. Heat prostration is a big problem for humans. The worst problem for machinery is corrosion from sand, salt, and extreme temperatures. Tap water is undrinkable because of rusty pipes.

HIS LIFE THERE
 Bert shares a comfortable apartment with another pilot in a building the sheik constructed especially for his foreign employees. They have a

Vandygriff Leaves Police Chief Post

At a special called meeting November 26, Abernathy City Council passed by unanimous vote a resolution stating its lack of confidence in Police Chief Clyde Vandygriff and directed the city manager to terminate the chief's employment with the city. The action followed procedure set forth in Article 1006 of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas.

Vandygriff took the job of police chief here in November 1976. He had been with the Hale County Sheriff's Department and before that, was an officer of the Abernathy Police Department.

City Manager Rod Ellis stated that the council's action was not based on any single incident. It was an accumulation of things over a period of time. Ellis is acting as temporary police chief until a new one is hired. The city has received several applications already for the job.

ANOTHER MEETING
 The council also met November 19 for an executive session on personnel. At that meeting the council also decided to enter into an agreement with the railroads to get safety devices installed and to upgrade railroad/street intersections in the city limits.

They set the date for the annual city employees Christmas banquet for Tuesday, December 4, 7 PM, at 924 Steakhouse and agreed to share with other area cities the cost of hiring a consultant to check the need for a Southwestern Public Service Co. rate increase.

houseboy to clean and do chores for them but eat most of their meals at restaurants. Bert works long 12 1/2 hour shifts, including two regular daily flights—usually to Das Island, a big oil facility. So doesn't have much time for housekeeping.

His off hours are a trial as there is nothing to do. The pilots visit each other, play electronic games and chess, and tell flying stories. Moslems don't drink and the pilots who do have a tough and expensive time finding that commodity. A local movie theater has English language films now and then and there are two English language bookstores. TV programs are in Arabic and Bert is making no effort to learn the language partly because it's so difficult and mostly because there's no love lost between the natives and the foreigners.

The guys can't even indulge in girl watching as there's a severe shortage of Western women around. The few British nurses who work for the government and private companies are extremely popular with the pilots. Only men in management positions bring their families with them to the Emirates. Das Island is totally womanless. Das is a bleak place but the British love luxury and the warehouse-type buildings have comforts inside that equal the finest clubs.

WORK & LEISURE
 Because of the boredom, the companies offer good leave cycles. Oil company personnel work one month, then get one month off; construction workers get 56 days on and 20 off; the pilots work four months, then one off. In his off month, Bert comes home or travels in Hawaii, Australia, and other countries. His favorite place to spend leave is Thailand which is beautiful, spotless (though crowded) and GREEN—the extreme opposite of the Emirates—and the people are pleasant and friendly.

Back in Abu Dhabi, Bert and the other foreigners have little social contact with the natives. They aren't hostile but he says Westerners soon get used to stares and stoney silences. He visited here last month before the current Iranian troubles but even then, tight security everywhere was a matter of course. The police are a para-military force and carry sub-machine guns with them.

Ambulance Service Rate Increased

In an attempt to make Abernathy's volunteer ambulance service come nearer to paying its way, the city council decided at its November meeting to raise the rates for service. Effective December 1, rates are $75 minimum instead of $35, $7.50 for oxygen use instead of $3, and $1 per mile transfer charge instead of 50¢ per mile.

Until December 1, rates were the same as when the service organized several years ago. It operated at a $13,355.55 deficit last fiscal year (October 1, 1978 through October 1, 1979). This means money from the city's general fund must subsidize the ambulance service. Even if the rate increase doubles revenue, the service will still have a $9,000 deficit.

"We had to raise the rates," said City Manager Rod Ellis. "We hated to do it but have to make it pay more of its way." He explained that when the EMS organized, it was set up under a separate fund and was meant to be self-supporting. It didn't turn out that way.

Total operating expenses last fiscal year amounted to $18,210.55. Total income was only $4,855. Expenses divided by 90 calls make a cost of $200 every time the ambulance rolls. Still, the increased rates are much lower than Lubbock's and it costs Abernathy much more to transport patients to hospitals.

The ambulance vehicle cost the city nothing. It was furnished by the Lubbock EMS system. The Abernathy EMS must pay maintenance costs, gas, utilities, and all other expenses associated with the service.

The council voted last year to pay the 12 volunteer emergency medical technicians $100 each per month. The following summary of operating expenses for last year may help citizens understand the need for the rate increase. Ellis said the city will also make a more determined effort to collect from those who use the service.

Impressed Partaker Requests Recipes

A large group of people adjourned to the Methodist Church fellowship hall for refreshments after the community Christmas program last Sunday night.

An impressed Baptist partaker of the goodies so lavishly spread is longing to have the recipes.

So PLEASE-Music Club members, Methodist ladies, anyone else who contributed goodies—please send the recipes for the things you brought IMMEDIATELY to The Weekly Review. We want to publish them for posterity before Christmas.

Sharing good things like those can't help but spread peace and good will, which is what we need this holiday season.

MASONS MEET HERE DEC. 13

Christmas will be the theme. Hosts will be Juanita and M. M. Bell and Blanche and HB Coggins.

Mrs. Bessie Waters, Worthy Matron, urges all local members to be present, and extends a welcome to visiting Masons.

Electrical Examiners Appointed

A code setting standards for electrical work done in the city was adopted by Abernathy City Council at its November meeting. Bill Scott, Bill Gist, Dean Wesley, Carl Kelly, and Rod Ellis were appointed to the Board of Electrical Examiners which will administer the code and license electricians to work in the city limits.

The code, based primarily on the one used by Plainview, specifies that the board be composed of one representative of a local power company (Scott), one master electrician, two journeymen electricians, and one not an electrician but knowledgeable about the field. Terms of board members are staggered. Ellis and Kelly will serve one year, the others two years.

The code is for the protection of Abernathy citizens. It will guard against inferior and unsafe electrical installations. New connections must be checked by the city building inspector before service is accepted. The board will interpret the code and hear appeals on the inspectors' findings.

Anyone intending to do wiring, rewiring, or any electrical installation must check with City Hall for a permit to do the work so it can be inspected properly.

Christmas Greetings

The Review will have their Christmas edition December 20. We have had a number of people put their Christmas greetings in the Christmas edition, along with the business greetings. We have a good selection of Christmas greetings in different sizes. If you would like for us to run a greeting card for you please come in and choose the one you want so we can be working on them for the Christmas paper.

Friends Harvest Farmer's Cotton

In a helpful gesture of friendship for an ailing neighbor, farmers in the Lakeview Community harvested the cotton crop for J. C. Montgomery, who is in the Central Plains Hospital in Plainview.

Field crews who performed the speedy harvest or provided equipment were J. D. Adams, Loyd Goldston, Randy Hood and Pockets Heard, Sam Heard, Jose Ramirez, and Dopey Matthews, Larry Wilson and Doug Ellison. Ubaldo Garcia, Isabel Rodella, Jesse Pena, Isabel Campos and Dan Thompson, Brac McKenny, Albert Rarbal, Henry Montez, Earl Rarbal, and Glen Amonett, Mark Dorazio, Seth Modine, Johnny Amonett and Glenn Curtis, Eulalio Sanchez and Irving Cole, Dale Milner, Ken Meadows and Odell Gulp.

The noon meal for the harvest crew was served in the Henry Meadows home. A fine meal was prepared by Lucille Meadows, Essie B. Scarborough, Edith Amonett and Annette Milner. Assistance was provided by Henry Meadows and George Breeding.

Assisting in the rapid harvest was Melvyn Dutton and the crew of the Petersburg Co-op Gin.

Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery expressed their heartfelt appreciation to their friends for the assistance. (Dec. 1, 1979 by Glen Amonett, 667-3638)

City Hall Addition Completed

City Manager Rod Ellis reports that the new meeting room addition to City Hall is complete except for minor details.

The community meeting area was approved by voters in a bond election last spring. Construction began in August.

The building is most attractive but bare right now. Furnishings will be planned later after construction bills are paid and the city can figure how much money is left.

Guidelines for the building's use will also be announced later.

Christmas Decorating Contest

The Abernathy Chapter of Young Homemakers of Texas will sponsor an Outdoor Christmas Decorating Contest this year. Pictures of the winning homes will be in the Review on December 20th so that everyone in town will be able to go by and see the prize winning decorations.

First, second and third place winners will be selected and a sign will be placed in the yard to indicate that they are winners.

The Young Homemakers will judge homes in town that have window decorations, outdoor displays, decorated trees and shrubs, and any other type of decoration. Each will be judged on creativity, originality, color, design, and energy conservation.

The Young Homemakers would like to encourage everyone to conserve energy this year and from now on. One of the statewide projects of YHT is to conserve energy. Some suggestions to help save energy when decorating are: limit the time that outside lights are on (do not leave them on all night); use reflectors to look like you have more lights; make luminaries (brown paper bags filled with sand and a candle); use candles where they are safe; use a single flood light to illuminate a yard display.

Homes not in the city may be also judged if the Young Homemakers are notified. To do so call 298-4245 or 298-2187 after 5:00 p.m.

Third Grade Classes To Present Christmas Program December 14

Barry Love reports
Hale Co. Results

Again this year Pioneer brand seeds are delivering outstanding yields in field after field. But we know it takes more than one year's performance to tell the whole story. Look at these results, then ask your Pioneer dealer to show you records from several years. You'll see for yourself why Pioneer brand seeds have become famous for their consistency.

Hale County corn farmers report outstanding performance and yield from this hybrid throughout the area. Sammy Richardson of Hale Center reported a yield of 11,567 lbs./A. Donald Huffaker reported 11,555 lbs./A. in the Hale Center area. Jerrell Young reported a yield of 10,296 lbs./A. at Hale Center, and Mack Shurbet of Edmondson reported a yield of 12,095 lbs./A. with less than 1% lodged plants. Ray Sanders of Plainview also reported outstanding performance with a yield of 11,100 lbs./A. He also noted that 3311 is the best corn he's ever grown. In 48 tests on the Central High Plains, 3311 produced an average yield advantage of 485 lbs./A. over competitive hybrids in 1979. And we're looking for this kind of outstanding performance in 1980.

Edmondson farmer, Mack Shurbet, record a 12,120 lbs./A. yield with this hybrid, proving its adaptability to Hale County conditions. In 43 tests throughout the Central High Plains, 3183 averaged 10,759 lbs./A. with an average 257 lbs./A. yield advantage over competitive hybrids. Although new to many area farmers, 3183 is a well-established favorite of many across the U.S., and with performance like Central High Plains farmers saw this year, it's sure to become a favorite for many Hale County farmers, too.

In 38 tests on the Central High Plains, 3195 showed a 4.8 bu./A. yield advantage over competitors in 1979. Its excellent grain yield potential, outstanding disease tolerance and good standability have helped 3195 produce an outstanding record for consistent, dependable performance... exceptional performance that will make it a top choice in the Central High Plains again next year.

5th Grade Girl Scouts Have A Busy Year

The 5th grade girls of troop 306 have completed work on two badges this year. They started work on the Cyclist badge in October. The girls learned bike safety and how to spot check and adjust their bicycles for safe cycling. Larry Bigham came and spoke to the group on safety regulations and rules. Officer Burt Sinclair is to show a film to the group on bike safety at a later date. The girls finished up their badge with an all day trip to the cliche pits and Mrs. Nealie Konesho's, where they enjoyed a very interesting visit and most welcome snack. Cyclist leaders were Diana Phillips and Mona Toler.

The girls started off November working on a Cooking badge. Cooking leaders were Betty Neve and Angela Pope. The girls learned many aspects of becoming cooks. They learned about the basic food groups, about measuring,

Dana Flud Writes Drama

Dana Flud, a senior student at AHS and son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Flud wrote a drama entitled "Aim" which was presented by the young people in the First Foursquare Church in Lubbock, November 16th.

Tickets were sold and they had a pie sale afterwards to make up money for a Missionary Rally to be held November 30th. This offering went toward building a church in Hong Kong. There was another performance on Sunday night, November 18th. Songs were worked in the drama and the young people produced it themselves.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

By Michael A. Guido, Metter, Georgia

In Wales, when a patient comes to a certain doctor discouraged and disgruntled, but with no symptoms of a serious ailment, he tries his special "Thank-You Cure."

He says to the patient, "For six weeks I want you to say 'Thank You' whenever anyone does you a favor, and emphasize your words with a smile."

Six weeks later the patient usually returns healthier and happier.

But not for six weeks or six years but every day of his life there was a man who said "Thank You" to God. He vowed in Psalm 145:2, "Every day will I bless Thee; and I will praise Thy Name for ever and ever."

"Every day" - days of glory and gloom, days of sunshine and shade, days of triumph and trial; "every day will I bless Thee" - for pardon and peace, for health and happiness, for grace and guidance, for blessings and benefits.

There is always something to be thankful for. If you do not get what you want, thank God for the things you do not get that you do not want.

To bless God every day is an antitoxin. It counteracts the disease of despair. It is also an antiseptic. It prevents infection from ingratitude. Even better still, it is a vaccine. It prevents the invasion of sin. Try it. It works!

DE HAVILLAND TWIN OTTERS ON THE LINE AT ABU DHABI, UNITED ARAB EMIRATES

doesn't worry about flying into uncomfortable situations because he's found that the people respect authority. Anyone wearing a uniform with stripes and a commanding manner keeps the upper hand.

During the Iranian revolution when the Shah was deposed, Bert made three flights to evacuate

Westerners but had no trouble. Before that, he was assigned to fly 300 pounds of frozen chicken to a casino owned by the Shah off the coast of Iran. Whoever took over refused him permission to land and, by the time he found someone to take the chickens off his hands, it was melted and pretty smelly.

He was assigned once to fly five passengers in a single engine plane over mountains to Oman. He wasn't keen on the single engine/mountain combination and even less enthusiastic when told to fly a straight course because there was fighting between his point of departure and destination. Any deviation would scramble fighter planes to intercept him. He was most thankful that flight was canceled.

HOW HE GOT THERE

Bert's life is far different than anything he expected back in Abernathy. He graduated from high school with no idea of what he wanted to do, so he enrolled in liberal arts courses at Texas Tech. Former classmates seemed to be accomplishing so much but Bert couldn't see much future in what he was doing.

Since he had always enjoyed flying, he entered the flight training program at Texas State Technical Institute, Connally Field, Waco. In two years, he had all his ratings and applied everywhere imaginable for a job. He even replied to a flying magazine notice about job openings in the Emirates, not expecting a response. Two weeks later, he got a 3 AM telephone call asking him to come right away.

His mother was appalled; his dad wished he could go too. In no time, the kid from Abernathy found himself in a London hotel waiting for a visa and wondering what on earth he was doing so far from home.

FELLOW PILOTS

Most of the Emirates Air Service pilots are, like him, in their 20's. They come for the money and the flying experience they must have to get on with airlines back home. The few older ones tend to be "colorful". One is an ex-fighter pilot who enjoys rolling civilian aircraft. The chief pilot is a foul-mouthed Dutchman, a tough so and so just like you'd expect. A couple are Air America pilots, the line operated by the CIA in Vietnam. One flew out just before the fall of Saigon.

Bert had only a brief spell of "culture shock", a modern term for extreme homesickness, but many can't adjust and have to go home.

"It's takes an open mind, and the ability to accept something new," said Bert.

WHERE NEXT

He's comfortable in many corners of the world but "I'm tired of it now," he says. "I've traveled till I'm sick of it and the boredom of off duty hours is getting to me. Anything would be better." It gets harder to go back every time he comes home.

He's certainly not sorry he chose the adventurous course because, in spite of the drawbacks, it offered him the opportunity to see the world and all sorts of interesting experiences he'd never have had with a liberal arts education.

He's ready for a change though and has applied for several other flying jobs--but guess where. Singapore, the Virgin Islands, and the Seychelles (islands off the coast of Africa). He may play down his career but he must be an adventurer at heart.

Apply Fertilizer This Fall: Liner

Applying fertilizer this fall in preparation for next spring's crop could be an attractive option this year, says Ollie Liner, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

To avoid possible problems in getting fertilizer applied next spring, you may want to evaluate the merits of fall fertilization, Liner advises.

Reports indicate current inventories of most fertilizer materials have declined and could remain below normal during the winter months.

Distribution of these decreased supplies places a burden on an already strained transportation system. And waiting until near planting time for needed fertilizer materials could upset your production schedule.

Results of numerous research and demonstration studies show little difference in yield from fall versus spring fertilization. Except for applying nitrogen, fall fertilization practices would be similar to spring applications.

When applying fall nitrogen for spring crops, use an ammonium source after the average daily soil temperature is below 50 degrees F. Most of it will remain in this form during the winter months. Clay particles hold the ammonium ion to prevent leaching, and it is not subject to denitrification as is the nitrate ion, notes the county agent.

Tony Mendoza Here on Temporary Duty

Tony Mendoza, a 1979 graduate of Abernathy High School, is already into a career he enjoys and will be available the rest of this month to talk to anyone who wants to know what it's like in the U.S. Army.

Tony just finished six weeks of advanced (job skill) training as a truck driver at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri, and on January 11 will leave for an 18 month tour of duty in Frankfurt, Germany.

He says he had in mind since the age of 16 to go into the army and enlisted as soon as he graduated last spring. He began seven weeks basic training August 21 at Fort Leonard Wood. His recently completed advanced training qualified him to handle 2 1/2 ton and five ton trucks.

He has been assigned to Abernathy for 30 days as a recruiter's aid. He will assist Staff Sgt. Roy Grona, the new army recruiter for Hale and Floyd counties, in talking to AHS seniors, and others who are interested, about army service or an army career. Tony will be staying at his parents' home and can be contacted there at 298-2189. Sgt. Grona may be reached at the Plainview Army Recruiting Office.

Sgt. Grona recently returned from 5 1/2 years with the army in Baumholder and Mannheim, Germany. Since his mother is a native of Darmstadt, Germany, he speaks the language and was especially equipped to enjoy his tour of duty there.

While in Germany, he and his wife took advantage of the travel opportunities. They spent a three week vacation in Spain and took inexpensive trips to Paris, Amsterdam, and other famous places.

Things to do to help prevent burglaries in and around Abernathy.

No. 1. When you see a vehicle parked on side of road or country roads that looks the least bit suspicious: Make a note of the kind and color of the vehicle, (automobile, pickup or truck).

Make a note of the license number of the vehicle-note the time of day and the day of the year: (example-dark green Buick license number ADJ 456, time 10 AM, Dec. 15, 1979)

CALL THIS NUMBER 298-2545 and give the person answering the above information.

If the vehicle belongs to an innocent person it will not be hurt in anyway. If it should belong to a guilty person then the law will be able to apprehend the culprit easier.

Too many irrigation motors and tractors are being stripped of parts, and too many homes are being burglarized in this whole area.

No. 2. If anyone sees some property being moved out of homes in town, if you do not know if it is a legal move, report this the same way to the number above.

Perhaps we can forestall such burglaries of homes in town and the country.

This should work right along with the Crime Line that has been set up for Abernathy.

If you see someone moving furniture out of a house in the country, the above information is also needed.

SPS Plant At Earth May Get Solar Unit

A half-million dollar solar repowering study for the Department of Energy (DOE) by Southwestern Public Service Co. and General Electric to determine the feasibility of a solar powered electric generating unit has been launched.

The project could result in the installation of an 180-million solar-powered unit at SPS's plant X near Earth.

A great deal of research has been done on solar-powered plants but not much has been done on the concept of adding solar units to existing plants. This study will determine the engineering and economic factors of repowering an electric plant—if it can be done on a large scale and if it would be more economical than building new solar plants.

In recent years, as the search for alternatives became more intense, Southwestern Public Service began to assess options that might have practical utility application. Solar power was one of the alternatives selected for consideration.

The company's involvement began with a data collection and literature review program of the latest developments in solar energy.

Southwestern's second solar project involved participation in a general atomic study of a 100-MW line focus solar central power system. This study in cooperation with DOE was completed Oct. 1, and a final report from DOE is expected soon.

Six utility-industrial groups, including SPS and GE, were chosen by the DOE to develop designs for combining a solar energy plant with an existing electric generating plant. Six similar contracts were awarded by the DOE for research on repowering units for industrial use.

The repowering of existing plants, both for electric generation and industrial use, is a relatively new idea and is being developed more as a fuel saver than an alternate fuel source.

The proposed solar unit at Plant X would produce enough energy to drive an existing steam turbine. The steam turbine would, however, be capable of using natural gas or a combination of natural gas and solar power.

The solar portion of the plant would consist of a mirror field, a central receiver mounted on top of a 300-foot tower, a liquid sodium heat transfer system and three steam generators. The mirror field would include approximately 5,000 steerable sun-tracking mirrors called heliostats, occupying 276 acres.

The central receiver of the system will be cooled by constantly flowing liquid sodium, which will maintain a constant temperature. GE has been interested in the use of liquid sodium for many years and has found it to be a highly efficient source.

The liquid sodium as a heat transfer agent, could be a major area of consideration by the DOE when it begins reviewing the repowering proposals. Similar plants designs are expected to use water, molten salts and gases as cooling agents.

Other factors DOE will be considering are efficiency, price and geographical location, for amounts of sunshine.
