Is it a sign of old age?

My life has very little routine to it. It never has. We eat at night when we get a chance (usually about eight P.M., but sometimes at ten or eleven. Lunch depends on what day of the week it is, and how busy we are.

We go to bed when we get through with "chores".

Not having children, I suppose it has been easier not to have a routine? Although I've had parents tell me it is just the opposite, that with kids you don't get a chance at doing things routinely.

But, whether farming or in the newspaper business, we just have never known that at a certain time a certain thing would happen.

It never bothers me at all. At least, I didn't think it did.

The one thing in my life that has been constant for the past 23 years (celebrated that anniversary the first week in March), is getting out a paper.

Come fire, flood, hail or high water, come sickness, surgery or stress, we put the paper to bed on Wednesday night. That hour is special. When the mail bags are gone and I have that solid, black and white copy of a newspaper in hand, it's time to relax for a while.

The only time we ever publish early is on Thanksgiving, or if the Christmas Holiday or New Years Holiday falls on a Monday or Tuesday.

We absolutely, positively never, ever publish early for any other reason.

That is the one constant point in my life. I don't even think of weeks as running Sunday from to Sunday...they run Thursday through Wednesdays!

So, this week we had to publish early because of the six of us working on Tuesdays and Wednesdays, four of us have to take a State Test for our First Responder certification.

When we discovered the test would be on a Wednesday it didn't bother me...big deal, just this once we'll publish early.

But as the date has gotten closer and closer I've become more and more jumpy!

I'm not particularly worried about the test...just about publishing early.

There is no reason to be...we'll make it, just like we do anytime there is two day's work to be done on one day.

But it just isn't right. It doesn't FEEL right to be doing this without a holiday!

I suppose the next thing I'll get upset about is when they don't have my favorite brand of cooking oil or furniture polish?

Oh, I hope not. I suppose I've reached a point in life where I'm not as flexible as I used to be? I don't know...I just know that publishing a day early feels incomplete, strange and downright confusing!

Top it off with the time change and I'm a really a basket case. Help! At least things should be back to normal next week.

Country Cooking

By Liz Irwin

http://tpp.1starnet.com/

Our recipes this week will feature the lemon. This sour, high acid fruit is used not only for cooking, but has a host of other uses. They include medicines, perfumes, oils, cleaning agents, and much, much more.

Do you know where the lemon originated? Well, the true lemon is unknown, although some have linked it to northwestern India. It is supposed to have been introduced into southern Italy around 200 A.D. and to have been cultivated in Iraq and Egypt by 700 A.D. It reached Sicily before 1000 and China between 760 and 1297 A.D. Arabs distributed it widely in the Mediterranean region between 1000 and 1150 A.D.

Christopher Columbus carried lemon seeds to Hispaniola in 1493. They were grown in California in the years 1751-1768. Lemons were reported planted in Florida in 1839. Not until 1953 was interest in lemon growing revived in Central Florida to take advantage for the demand of frozen concentrate and for natural cold-pressed lemon oil. At that time Florida was importing lemons from Italy for processing. Planting grew to 8,700 acres by 1975.

Arizona developed lemon orchards, though on a smaller scale from California. California and Arizona have become the leading sources of lemons in the western hemisphere.

Among the world's leading exporters are Spain, Greece, Turkey, Cyprus, Lebanon, South Africa and Australia.

Hope you have enjoyed this little lesson on the lemon tree and hope you enjoy the recipes below and we will see you in the kitchen!

FOOT NOTES

WHEN INJURY STRIKES

People often avoid seeing a doctor for foot injuries opting instead to treat themselves. But ankle sprains, broken toes and other foot injuries need medical treatment to prevent incomplete healing, deformities or future ailments. Remember the word "RICE", rest, ice, compression and elevation, for those occasions when you cannot receive immediate medical attention. Rest the area, staying off your feet whenever possible. Ice the injury gently for 20 minutes with an ice pack or ice wrapped in a towel, wait 40 minutes and repeat. For compression, wrap a bandage lightly around the injured area. Avoid pulling too tight as this could lead to further injury. Elevate the foot higher than the waist to reduce swelling and pain.

While it is smart to know the basics to quick action, short term treatment for podiatric emergencies, it can be crucial to successful recovery to seek the services of a specialist trained in foot care promptly following an injury. If you don't have a podiatrist at this time, you may want to include our telephone number in your list of numbers to keep handy by the phone. We offer complete foot care for the family by appointment, but emergencies are seen as soon as possible. Call DOCTORS FOOT CLINIC 784-5585.

OFFICE LOCATED AT
3605 N.E. LOOP 286 STE 1800

P.S. Wear a soft shoe or slipper until you see the doctor for treatment of a foot injury.
