SCHOOL NEWS

The Haskell High School has a large number of its graduates attending a great many of the universities and colleges of the State. These graduates are making a good record and in a number of cases they are making outstanding records. These boys and girls are reflecting great credit upon their High School. This goes to show they received thorough preparation for their college career. The test of a pupil's work, in most instances, in high school, is his ability to do good work in high school or to succeed out in the world.

The pupils in the grades of the Haskell Schools and in the Haskell High School do more thorough work than is done in most of the schools of the state. When our elementary grade pupils, if they are passing in their work here, when they go to the larger towns and the cities, they make an outstanding record in these schools. This shows the high standard of work done in the Haskell schools. The same thing can be said of the Haskell High School pupils when they enter other high schools over the state.

The people of Haskell should be proud of their schools. They should feel that they are receiving in every sense of the word value received for every dollar they are spending on their schools. If more of the parents would see that their children did more home work our work and our record would be still more gratifying and more of the children would be making much more creditable credits and preparing themselves for life's responsibilities.

About four hundred dollars has been spent on the High School by the Parent-Teachers Association and the School Board for additional reference books, most for the work in English. As a result of this our pupils are enabled to do much better work in English and thus enrich their knowledge of the best in literature. Also they are cultivating a taste for the best works, which will mould their characters and ideals along the most elevated lines.

During every school period of the day, and at the noon period and after school, the library is full of interested boys and girls, searching the reference books for additional facts to supplement their work from their regular text-books.

The value of these four hundred dollars invested in these books can never be estimated in the influence and assistance these books are contributing to our high school boys and girls.

If not less than two hundred dollars should be spent on the High School library each year, it would not be long until the Haskell High School would have a wonderful library—the best in

FORERUNNERS OF WINTER TEMPT EARLY SHOPPERS

THE world is full of a number of things that are forerunners of winter and it appears that most of them are on display in the shops. Many of our familiar belongings are there, useful or necessary things, all more or less "prettied up" to make them catch the eye. Then there is a world of lovely furbelows—which we might do without but don't want to—and so many of them are inexpensive.

At the glove counter there are sturdy gloves for winter wear of soft fabrics in quiet colors, like beaver, brown or beige. Sometimes they are short with a plain wrist to be worn with long, close-fitting sleeves. But sleeves vary so much that gloves must vary, too, and these warm gloves are shown with long wrists, like those at the bottom of the picture, and there are gauntlet wrists, sometimes in fanciful styles. Many gloves are made with turn-over cuffs, the cuffs lined with velvet, moire or otherwise, in brilliant colors. The mousquetaire in 12 to 16-button lengths is the favorite for wear with shorter sleeves.

Not every one who wears golf stockings wears a golf club, but their sports flavor sells them to sensible women who might otherwise cling to silk stockings. Of the latter plain weaves in black continue to lead with cocoa and dark flesh shades following them just now.

Bloomers and knickers replace petticoats with the passing of warm weather and they are shown in all materials used for lingerie in heavier silks and in satteen. The new ones have waist bands of flat elastic run in a casing and closing at one side with a snap fastener, as shown in the picture.

Novelty bracelets are the latest whim in costume jewelry. Those of celluloid set with brilliants have fascinated many youthful eyes, and those of colored glass, several worn together, please the ears as well, with their musical tinkle.

A pair of black kid gloves stitched with white silk on the back and having turn-over cuffs lined with black and white striped silk, are shown in the picture. This featuring of the wrist with gauntlet or cuff appears to be the most important new style point in gloves. Necklaces present a stream of novelties, mostly in colored glass to match costumes.

MIDWAY SCHOOL NOTES (By Lee Humphreys, Principal)

We are entering our fourth week of school with much pep and enthusiasm, hoping and trusting that Old Sol pays us a long visit, spreading his warm smile over our world once more.

Our enrollment has reached the 111 mark and the attendance for this month will average above 90 per cent in spite of the bad weather conditions.

Our patrons are interested in the education of their children to the extent that they not only make many sacrifices financially and otherwise, but are willing to wade mud and water through down-pouring rain in order that their children be present at school every day possible. Everybody is planning, working for, and anticipating the best school session ever taught at Midway. Cooperation is 100 per cent.

Realizing as everyone does, that without the cooperation of the patrons, teachers and pupils, the valuable time and opportunities of the pupils, and the money of the state and community are to a large measure lost and wasted.

We are very glad indeed to report that we have only a very few "mis-fits" due to over-promotion, etc., and that most of the pupils are settling down to good honest school work.

Twenty-five new since school desks have been installed in the different rooms and it is believed that this will make plenty of seating for all and overcome the crowded conditions that existed last year.

Two literary societies were organized in our school recently and they pledged each other friendly contests during the year in many school activities. Each and every Monday morning these societies will render an opening program.

With the spirit of enthusiasm and pep manifested in our Boys' and Girls' Basket Ball Teams it is expected that two excellent teams can be developed.

Our first fire drill was very exciting and yet enjoyable to most all. Within 20 seconds from the time the alarm was given every school child was out of the building. We intend to continue to give these systematically and orderly conducted drills throughout the year and it is believed that the building can be cleared within ten seconds after several drills.

Mr. J. E. Grissom of Haskell made the Midway School a present of a very large bell weighing over 300 pounds, which can be heard for many miles

The Mens Bible Class of the 1st Baptist Church

The Mens Bible Class of the 1st Baptist Church met in class room at the usual hour, 9:45. Opened by singing "He Included Me", prayer by Bro. Walling, devotion by Bro. Lex B. Morris. President Bro. Kirkpatrick called for any business that should come before the class.

Upon motion and second the class voted to have a Laymens banquet in basement of the church, Thursday night Nov. 22nd. Every male member of the church whether a member of the Laymens Union or not is urged to be present at this meeting.

We then took up the study of the lesson. Our teacher Bro. Gambrell gave us some helpful thoughts on the lesson. The thought brought out in the lesson was missionary, that Christ was known on the earth and his salvation among all nations.

We want to impress each member of the class of the importance of being present every Sunday morning if possible. We want to build a class that we will all be proud of, both in numbers and spiritually.

NON-STOP RECORD MADE BY STUDEBAKER CAR

Running continuously for seven days for a distance of 5504 miles at an average speed of 33.9-16 miles per hour, a Studebaker Light-Six has just completed another remarkable performance record at Syracuse, N. Y.

The run was undertaken by Gare & Willis, Studebaker dealers in Syracuse, to demonstrate the merit of Studebaker Light-Six cars for performance, endurance and economy.

In seven days' time, the Light-Six delivered more than the average mileage for a whole year and did it so decisively that it is causing wide comment among motorists in that section of the country.

Outstanding features of the long run were the fact that the highest average for any one hour during the run was 48 miles; the highest speed, 67 miles an hour; the use of but three gallons of water for the whole run and the further fact that no air was put into the tires during the entire seven days. The best gasoline average for a six-hour period during the trip was 23 miles, and for the whole trip, the average was 18.1 miles to the gallon.

Thirteen men took turn-about driving and at all times an observer of the Syracuse "Post-Standard" accompanied the car.

Exclusive mechanical features of the Light-Six motor account largely for this remarkable record, is the opinion of Eugene Tonn, local Studebaker dealer.

"For example," said he, "Studebaker machines all surfaces of the crankshaft and connecting rods of the Light-Six engine instead of the usual practice of machining only the bearing surfaces. This insures exact balance and uniform weight of reciprocating parts. "Vibration is, therefore, practically eliminated, a feature that is responsible in part for unusual records of performance such as the run at Syracuse."

THIS little chart shows that for years Goodyear Tire prices have been kept below the average price level of all commodities. Goodyear Tires today cost 39% less than they did in 1914. And they are the best tires Goodyear ever made. This is a good time to buy Goodyears.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service.

When a man is satisfied with himself it's a pretty good sign that nobody else is.

It is reported that there is to be a billion dollar telephone merger. This will cause more talk.

On October 1 index figure of prices paid to producers for main farm products was 27.3 per cent higher than a year ago, 25.6 per cent higher than two years ago and but 11.3 per cent lower than average of last 10 years.

Salaries and wages paid to railroad employees of all classes for the first six months of 1923 averaged 136 a month, an increase of approximately 4 a month over the corresponding period of 1922. The total number of employees in service was 1,876,000 as compared with 1,600,000 last year.

GOVERNMENT AND BUSINESS

This country was founded 147 years ago in order that a government might be established free from unnecessary political dominations and the farce of the "divine right" of kings.

The Tribune of Sanford, Maine, in commenting on our national program says: "This country has grown to its present superb position primarily because the American people developed a new conception of government and society, and that conception was superbly expressed in the immortal Declaration of Independence. Our forefathers clearly saw and pronounced the doctrine and democracy. These men set up a new ideal of human rights and of opened doors of opportunity."

Our government was established to help and encourage, rather than to hamper and discourage, individual initiative and ambition. Let us all remember a few of the cornerstones which formed the basis of our independence. Let us rekindle the desire to maintain open and unhampered the fields for individual initiative and activity which of recent years and during the war period, has been somewhat lost to sight. Agitations and campaigns to launch the government into business undertakings are entirely contrary to our Declaration of Independence, our Constitution and the ideas of freedom which the founders of our nation contemplated.

ELECTRIC POWER AGE

Using water power, coal and oil to develop electricity is the industrial line of progress of this age.

Twenty-two billion kilowatt-hours of electricity were consumed in the industries of the United States in 1922, and more than sixty per cent of the energy used by three hundred thousand manufacturing plants was supplied through this great flow of power, according to a recent survey of industrial electrification.

It is estimated that the manufacturing of the country are equipped to use more than 30,000,000 horse power, as compared with only 12,000,000 in 1902, while the installed rating of industrial electric motors has increased from 1,000,000 horse power in 1902 to approximately 19,000,000 in 1922, a growth of 1800 per cent in two decades. Of the three natural forces that have been harnessed by man, water power, steam power and electric power, the last and youngest has already caught and passed others in point of service and bulk of work done.

COMMON SENSE vs LEGISLATION

Radical farmers in North Dakota and Minnesota have found by experience that legislation will not correct economic or personal deficiencies.

Growing wheat alone year after year means worn-out lands and hard-up farmers, and no government subsidy or guaranteed price will help.

One man in ten who goes into the grocery business succeeds and grows wealthy, and the average is about the same with farmers.

Farming is the basic industry and if we could destroy every city, the wealth production and necessities of the farms would build them up again.

But if we destroy the farms, the cities would fall into irretrievable ruin. To guarantee wheat prices is to tax weaker industries than farming.

The world excess of 300,000,000 bushels of wheat would be doubled by subsidy as a premium on increased production and wheat would go down as taxes went up.

The way out is not by more legislation but more faith in our country, more common sense and more diversified farming.

Along the Way

Corn recently sold at over a dollar a bushel in Chicago. We said a bushel—not a quart.

We can hardly wait to get the daily newspapers these days to see who has been shot or arrested.

About the only time a fellow would like to be down and out is when he is taking an airplane ride.

This thing of striving after money always seem especially wicked to the fellow who can't get any.

School is a place where little boys go to learn so they can go home and "strump" their parents.

A man's first sign of fall is when he frost is on the pumpkin and the hook is in the price of them.

We see where a Los Angeles movie actor was robbed of $17,000. Just think—a whole week's pay gone.

About the only thing some women are ashamed of these days is the naked truth.

A man never knows how many relatives he has until he begins to get ahead in the world.

There's a big difference between notoriety and popularity, but many people never realize it.

Yep. The chap who is always going around with a chip on his shoulder is usually a blockhead.

Buying bootleg whiskey is not only a violation of the law, but is also extremely bad judgment.

Slang is so misleading. Fathead and onehead are contradictory terms, but they mean about the same thing.

What this country needs as much as anything else is a ketchup that won't spill out on the clean tablecloth.

Maybe they call it free verse because the editors won't pay anything for it.

"There's no place like home," but maybe that's the reason some men like to travel.

Saw a girl the other day who looked as if she had flour on her nose but we'll bet she hadn't been in the kitchen in a month.

We know a few politicians who not only know there are two sides to a question, but who get on both sides of it.

A Boston preacher says young people should be taught how to make love. That's about as useless as teaching ducks how to swim.

Why is it that some people imagine than by "sending off for something they're really going to get their money's worth?"

President Coolidge has ordered that sick federal employes be paid their salaries. But how about those who are just sick for a federal job?

Nearly every town has a man who might have amounted to something if people hadn't told him he was handsome.

The main objection to a man who is blessed with consistent good luck is that he's always bragging that his success is due to his fine judgment.

What gets us is why a man will skimp and save all his life to leave a fortune to a son who will spend it as fast as he can get rid of it.

They say long skirts call for long hair and short skirts for bobbed hair. But fortunately some of them didn't bob their hair as short as they did their skirts.

Another great trouble with this country is we heap abuse on our presidents when they are alive and then heap flowers on them when they are dead.

A Chicago girl will inherit a half million if she is married when she reaches her twenty-first birthday. A girl with that much jack ought to find it easy to get a husband.

DON'T BECOME CARELESS

Many cities have recently concluded a strenuous observation of Fire Prevention Week.

Fire Prevention Week to be effective and fully preventative should be observed throughout the year.

The lesson is entirely lost, if, after a week of vigorous effort to eliminate all danger of fire, our people settle back to the old habits and permit the usual carelessness to creep back again.

Fire Prevention Week designed to call attention to the menace that exists on every side because of neglect which result in needless conflagrations.

If Fire Prevention Week has taught you anything, see that the lesson will not be lost in weeks to come.

Continue to be watchful every day and keep Fire Prevention Week every week in the year.

Negro Wit

The janitor's little boy, very black, was nicknamed "Midnight" by his white friends. He didn't mind them calling him that, but when one day one of his own race exclaimed "Hallo, Midnight!" he retorted indignantly: "You're jes' about a quarter to twelve, yo'self."

HASKELL'S GROWTH

The quality of a community can be accurately measured by its public utilities.

We constantly keep our fingers on the business, home, and industrial pulse of this community. Every time Haskell adds a new family or business our service responsibility grows.

The extensions we make from time to time are evidences of the growth of the territory we serve. That the growth is constant and increasing is shown by the demands that are constantly being made for extensions and improvements in our service.

A close-up of the growth of Haskell is seen in our extensions of service.

Because my calf became his cow;
I left my dad—'twas wrong of course—
Because my colt became his horse.
I left my dad to sow and reap
Because my lamb became his sheep;
I dropped my hoe and stuck my fork
Because my pig became his pork.
The garden truck I came to grow,
Was his to sell and mine to hoe.

Why Another One Didn't

With dad and me it's half and half;
The cow I own was once his calf;
No town for mine, I will not bolt,
Because my horse was once his colt;
I'm going to stay right where I am
Because my sheep was once his lamb.
I'll stay with dad—he gets my vote,
Because my hog was once his shote;
It's "fifty-fifty" with dad and me—
A profit-sharing company.

"Whodathunkit?"

When'er I kiss her satin throat
She trembles with delight,
And in her half-closed eyes there
gleams
A radiance soft and bright.
I hold her in my arms—I know
She loves to nestle there,—
I watch the firelight flickering
Upon her dusky hair.
You ask, "Is she your only love?"
How can I answer that?
Perhaps 'twere best to tell the truth,
She is—my Persian cat!

Selfish, As Usual
A young husband who had not found married life exactly a path of roses, and who sincerely wished to prove to his wife the depth of his affection, went home one evening and said cheerily:
"Well, Tilda, you can't guess what I have done today?"
"Made a fool of yourself, as usual!" replied Tilda ungraciously.
"Oh, John Henry," said the wife, "if you've done anything more than usually idiotic, out with it, and what have you been up to now?"

Dr. Smith of Munday Opposes Proposed Irrigation Project

The following article is written by Dr. J. R. Smith of Munday, in which he discusses the proposed irrigation project, by damming the Brazos River in the northwest part of Haskell county. Dr. Smith does not believe that the project is a feasible one. If there is anyone who disagrees with Dr. Smith and would like to present the other side of the question we will be glad to publish same for the information of our readers.

The article is as follows: Irrigation: Now let us examine this Proposed Irrigation Project as to its feasibility. As we understand, its advocates propose to irrigate 400,000 acres or 900 sections of land, applying 24 inches of storm water, applying it only in water. This would require a reservoir equal to 60 square miles, and having an average depth of 20 feet. Where can such a reservoir be found or made anywhere up the Brazos River? Besides, since it is to be storm water and not the normal salt, zip and alkali water of the Salt Fork of the Brazos, what could be gained by damming the Brazos; except to deflect the storm water as it comes down the Brazos, thus throwing it into an adjoining reservoir, of capacity equal to 60 square miles and depth of 20 feet? And where could such reservoir be found or made adjoining the Brazos River? And this storm water should be held, separate from Brazos, except at high tide. Otherwise it would not be storm water, except it be applied to the land as it comes down the River; and generally when storm water comes down the Brazos, it has rained here, and would not need it. Doubtless, you are aware that as a rule, the rain fall comes here as well as up the Brazos in spring and summer, and if applied only in winter, would have to be held over 6 or 8 months. And if held in the channel of the Brazos would be more salt water than storm water; especially so since the great salt beds, where we used to go and scoop up wagon loads of salt, is only a little way up the Brazos above the proposed dam site. Besides, the channel of Brazos being upon an average only about 1-4 mile in width, and banks as a rule are very low on one side or the other, the channel would not hold more than 10 or 20 feet of water in depth upon an average. With 10 feet in depth and 1/4 mile wide, to hold required water, water would extend up the Brazos 480 miles, or 20 feet in depth one-half the distance, 240 miles.

On account of the low banks of the Brazos, no greater reservoir would be possible, should water extend up the Brazos 30 miles, and with average width of 1/4 mile and average depth of 20 feet, the channel would hold only one-third of required water to irrigate the 600 sections or 400,000 acres of land; and would irrigate one-eighth of it, being about 75 sections of land or about 48,000 acres of land, falling short to one-eighth of proposed irrigation area. Besides, since the great salt beds are only a little ways up the Brazos, above the proposed dam site, would we not have in the reservoir a facsimile of the Salt Lake or Dead Sea of Palestine or Holy Land, in which no animal lives or vegetation grows upon its banks; yet forsooth, the advocates of this Irrigation Project would venture to apply this salt water to the fertile lands of Knox Prairie. We thought every body knew that salt water was death to all crops. We used to kill Johnson grass but on learning that it killed the fertility of the land also, we abandoned the project.

But the greatest mistake, of its advocates, lies in the fact that we don't live in or even near irrigation regions. Irrigation is designed only for arid or semi-arid regions. All the successful irrigation projects are where the annual rainfall is only 1 1/2 to 17 inches, in the noted irrigation projects, in California it is 1 1/2 to 2.84 inch rainfall; in Arizona 2.34 to about 14 inches; in New Mexico 10 to 15 inches; in Texas about the same. Pecos River 10 inches, Rio Grande 10 inches as a rule, and in no place exceed 17 inches in successful projects.

Under the head of "Where Irrigation is Needed" an authority says, "Irrigation is needed where the annual rainfall is less than 20 inches or where it occurs during months when crops cannot be grown," as in parts of California or Egypt and other countries where the rainy season comes in winter, and dry season is in summer," or "to flood land for growing rice." (See Home and School Reference Work.)

Now we have an average rain fall of 26 inches, and, as a rule, falls a such time as when most needed to carry the crops through growing period, which removes us 6 or 8 inches from the uttermost limit of successful irrigation; Wherefore the advocates of this project must have mistaken irrigation for Dry-Farming since Dry-Farming even laps down over Semi-Arid rain fall as low as a 10 inch annual rain fall; for dry farming, a system of farming where profitable crops are produced without irrigation in arid or semi-arid regions. It is generally necessary to use methods of dry farming where annual rain fall is 20 inches or less or in regions where the seasonal distribution of rain is very unequal. The important parts of dry-farming as: storage in the soil of small rain fall until it can be used by plants; the prevention of evaporation of moisture during the growing season, the regulation of moisture taken up by plants, the choice of suitable soil for dry farming; the proper treatment of crops. Experiments have shown that with a 10 inch rain fall, if properly conserved, is sufficient to produce 25 bushels of wheat to the acre; and with 12 inches, 30 bushels to the acre can easily be produced every year; see same work as quoted above, also by Campbell's Dry-Farming. So see it covers a wide range, extending from 10 inch rain fall to such rain fall that requires no method of dry-farming, and being so successful in its use and void of the great cost and risk incident to irrigation it well fulfills a great mission in occupying the ground between irrigation and the rainfall regions that require no conserving of moisture.

There is only a very small margin between our annual rain fall and the annual rainfall that favors, fosters and produces conditions most congenial to Boll Worm and Boll Weevil, Central Texas, where cotton is no longer a success on account of these pests, has a rain fall of 33 inches; only 7 inches more rain fall than we have. So are we not very close to the border line of the Cotton's great pest, even without irrigation? But with the proposed 4 inch water irrigation, would throw us 17 inch rain fall more than in Central Texas, where on account of too much moisture, and its incident pests, cotton is no longer a success, that would be equal to eastern Texas rainfall of 50 inches, where they have the Pink worm.

Then away, away with any such irrigation project. And especially so in the face of the great risk we would incur by bringing about the same conditions, and causes that favors, fosters and produces the cotton pests in Central Texas. It is not reasonable to suppose that the same conditions and causes, would be followed by like effects here? And also the great cost and expense such an irrigated project would necessarily incur. And too, in the face of the fact that for the last 5 years, we have been realizing on Knox Prairie (and without dry-farming too) $50 to $150 per acre out of our cotton, the money crop of the south, and one-third to one-half as much out of maize and, further, if the Proposed Irrigation Project was completed and ready for use, when in the last 5 years, could we have successfully used it? In 1919 we had a good all round crop, in 1920 we had over production, to our disadvantage, and realized less out of our crops, so we did not need it then did we? In 1921 it rained all thru April, and even delayed planting; and irrigation in winter would have delayed it still more would it not? In 1922 it rained all thru May, and we had to plant in water and mud, and irrigation in winter would have delayed planting still further. In this year our rain fall was as follows: 3.21 inch in Jan., .94 inch in Feb., .30 inch in March, 3.96 inch in April, 1.64 inch in May, 5.64 inch in June, and 2.23 inch in August. So we had plenty of rain in winter, good rain in April and May and with the season got a good stand of crops, but in June, as the big rain of 5.64 in June was attended with wind storms and sand storms, about 3/4 of the cotton crop was destroyed, and had to be planted over, much in water and mud; so winter irrigation was not needed, and would have delayed later planting. But one says: "Oh, we could have successfully used it in 1917-18." Yes, if we had had the water. But since the drought started in the west, up the Brazos the year before, the Brazos was dryer than the land. So away with all such sophistry and come down to facts and reason.

A study of the Brazos Rivers, its source of water supply, will show the impracticability of irrigation. So unlike the other rivers used for irrigation, the Brazos rises from the elevated regions of the Northwest, formerly known as Llano Estacado or Staked Plain, noted for dry winters, no mountains or springs to feed it or snow capped mountains to furnish constant flow on melting of the snow. Compare it with the Nile that in its upper part passes the regions of a 3 foot rain fall per day in spring; the Rio Grande, having its source in the great mountains of the west, that have great snow falls and is fed by their melting even Pecos has its source in the mountains of Colorado and New Mexico. And what about the Boise River rising in the great mountains, capped with perpetual snow, and the irrigation dam being the highest in the United States, 334 feet high and irrigating more than 300,000 acres, as well as the stream dammed by Roosevelt Dam which is 230 feet and water in the reservoir 230 feet deep at dam, and 18 miles long and 4 miles wide, irrigating about 200,000 acres, being fed from melting snow on mountains; now you see there is a vast supply and source, of the above irrigation project, and the Proposed Irrigation on the Brazos. But let us go further and examine the scope and usefulness of irrigation in large farming; "But irrigation is not successful on large farms; it is most profitable in farms varying from 10 to 50 acres, devoted to raising fruit and garden vegetables." (See Home and School Reference Work.) It might also be used for flooding land for wheat and alfalfa, in arid and semi arid regions. Now let us consider the probable cost of this Proposed Irrigation Project; estimating it from cost of other irrigation projects, having even far better topography for irrigation and source

Now judging by the above figures, and since this proposed Irrigation Project proposes to irrigate 73,000 acres more than any of the above projects, will give an idea of its probable cost. But it does not include the far more difficult work of leveling the land preparatory to constructing canals, lateral canals, and ditches, especially should an irrigation project be undertaken in a country where the annual rainfall was 26 inches. Without leveling the lands, the canals, lateral canals and ditches would convert our fertile land into great washes, gullies, bringing havoc and destruction on our fair land; see the great washes, and gullies on each side of the road south of Bill McGraw's old dwelling, also north of Hefner school house, due to grading the latter gullies are 6 to 8 feet deep; and leveling much of our land on Knox Prairie would be quite a proposition. Mr. A. E. Whittemore, living in California, the great irrigation country, had 3 1/2 acres he wanted to put under the ditch; and what do you suppose it cost him? $300.00, or $85.00 per acre. So irrigation is no small undertaking; but in arid and semi-arid regions, with an annual rainfall of 2 or 3 to 10 inches or where the rain falls in no crop-growing months up to 15 or 20 inches, irrigation is the greatest agricultural project known to man, but even then to be a success, the stream named, needs to have a permanent and constant source of water supply. So should we live in an arid or semi-arid region, and the stream to be dammed having its source and water supply from a still dryer country, only 14 inches rainfall, would not damming it for irrigation be the climax of folly?

It is not want of rainfall, nor the time of fall that hurts our crops, it is want of conserving the moisture, by some method of dry-farming and hot winds that does the mischief. We not only have the backing and authority of experts on successful irrigation, but minor experiments under observation, showing impracticability of irrigation, with 26 inch rainfall. About 10 rows of cotton was irrigated, and during dry time promised well, but later was the nest of leaf worms and boll worms, and they certainly played havoc, leaving only 11 bolls on one of two average stalks and 12 on the other and only one boll open, while on two average stalks ten or twelve rows. Away from irrigated plant, one stalk had 24 bolls and the other 28 bolls and larger too, than that of the irrigated stalks. On the stalk having 24 bolls 6 were open and the other had 8 bolls open, showing conclusively that un-irrigated sandy land with 26 inch rainfall, even without Dry Farming, produced not only a larger yield, but bolls matured and opened much earlier, and since it is not want of rainfall, but hot winds that is the chief foe to crops here and since irrigation does not stop hot winds, for how often have hot winds done its mischief and water standing in the rows? Then away, away, with irrigation; destined to bring pauperism and havoc to our fertile, fair and beautiful country, the Eden or Promised Land to the victims of the Boll Weevil, the Boll Worm. The Land of Promise to travelers, and happy and prosperous Land and Home of the successful farmer, knowing how best to cultivate his crops, and crops most adapted to this country.

Has not the crop yield of one year sufficed to pay for an equal number of acres in divers years? Where else can such records be made?

Ah, even such a fallacious, irrigation project tires me. Let us have rest.

'Tis true, I have good friends advocating this proposed irrigation project, but should the vindication of facts and truth be a barrier to friendship? And especially in any project so momentous involving either well or woe.

Yours,
J. R. SMITH.
