“Wheeler: town of friendship and pride”

Wheeler received a ground cover of snow Wednesday, March 17, which was mostly gone by evening.

— cwe —

The picture in the mast was taken driving down Main Street around 1:00 p.m.

— cwe —

The ground was wet from a small shower Monday morning. Rain started around 3 p.m. and continued with a total of 0.95” for Wheeler.

— cwe —

Spring Break ended and students went back to school Monday morning.

Seth got to go trucking with his dad during his spring break.

FIRST IN THREE: Wheeler’s Hesston Marshall, right, edges out Spearman’s Brenen Thompson during a 100 meter dash at the Wildcat Relays in Canadian March 11. He also won the 100 meters in 10.66, the 200 meters in 21.59 and 400 meters in 49.53. He also set new school records in the 400 and 200, displacing his dad, Mark Marshall and Kelly Aderholt.

Wheeler Sports

Second Bake-Off Scheduled

Wheeler Sports is hosting a 2nd Bake-Off Auction to be held on Friday, April 2nd - Saturday, April 3rd. The auction will be held via Facebook on the Wheeler Sports Event Page as well as in person at the Panhandle Handmade Market held at the AgriLife Building on Saturday, April 3rd from 9am - 4pm. The Auction will end sharply at 4:00pm with the highest bid.

We are still currently accepting donated baked items. If you are interested, please contact Kristen at kristen@wheelerltxsports.org or text 806.367.0084. We need all baked items to the AgriLife by 8:30 am on Saturday, April 3rd, or make prior arrangements with Kristen. We greatly appreciate all the wonderful volunteers that have agreed to bake some amazing items up for grabs!

All proceeds will go to the efforts at the Tom Britt Memorial Park to help finish out the new ballfields and lights. If you would like to donate, please make check out to “WAAIC-Wheeler Sports” and you can mail it to PO Box 489, Wheeler, TX 79096 or via Paypal at “wheelerltxsports@gmail.com” or dropping off with Kristen at Wheeler City Hall (under the water tower). We are so appreciative of ALL donations as we continue with improvements for future generations.

STORM REPORT

As Reported by...
Stormie Meriwether,
Eleventh Grade Student

Dear Friends, Spring Break is over and I forgot one very important thing. I forgot to reset my alarm clock after the time changed. I was late to band. My alarm was off for all week. It was nice to sleep late.

I finished reading my novel for English. Now we are writing essays about the book we read in class. It was ANTHEM by Any Rand.

I am so sorry that Ms. Bird, my Physics teacher, broke her arm! I hope she gets well fast.

I missed going to the Pig

Merely Mustard

Today I am experiencing the rare but delightful occasion of having a clear mind, and that has changed my thinking as to what I am to write about – which, I suppose, suggests that my typical offering is the fruit of a scatterbrained thought process. Guilty; sorry.

Despite enjoying clarity of mind, I don't have a clear vision of how to laud this state, other than to say it is one of joy and potential – joy, because of the freedom it conveys, and potential, because of the power contained in freedom. A separate column could expound on the reality that freedom is the vehicle which carries the most potential, or, put more simply, that freedom equals potential (among other things), and that the greatest potential is tapped where liberty is the greatest. But that piece may be for another time. In any case, it is not for today.

I feel joy because I feel free, and I feel free because there are not encumbrances on my mind, and relatively few on my schedule today. And those encumbrances that are present can be addressed in the appropriate manner and at the appropriate time. Indeed, it seems that clarity of mind is a prerequisite to be able to perform any set of habits or practices accurately or faithfully. It seems too easy to go off the rails and deviate from what one knows he or she should be doing, when the mind is jumbled with other preoccupations or concerns. Or so it is for me, at least.

Additionally, it is more difficult to even be able to identify what it is that one needs to be doing when the mind is not clear. So in a state of diffusion, compliance with an intended course of action is jeopardized, and so is the ability to even develop an accurate course of action – the double-whammy of a cluttered mind.

I have found that it is much easier to keep the mind clear, than it is to clear it after it has been breached. It is similar to a boat – it is easier to keep water out of the boat than it is to bail it out after it has found a way in. In truth I can't say that I have done anything to be particularly vigilant about what I have allowed in my mind thus far today; this means that my present state of clarity is in a sense an unearned gift, a blessing, which, like all blessings, contains at least an element of having

Grandma's Apron - a poem for you

By LINDA

I remember standing on a stool, up on tiptoe in my black mary janes, a wet dishtowel in one hand, a dripping saucer in the other. Helping Grandma in the tiny kitchen after our holiday meal made me feel so grown up. The way she wrapped her apron, once, twice, then tying it snugly under my arms so it wouldn't slip and wouldn't make me trip made me feel so grown up.

So many of my readers are telling me the word 'apron' brings an automatic response of 'Grandma!' In honor of all Grandmas, past present and future I'm sharing this sweet poem with you today. Whether you read and remember or read and look ahead, I hope you think on just how much one generation influences the next.

GRANDMA'S APRON

The strings were tied, it was freshly washed, and maybe even pressed. For Grandma, it was everyday to choose one when she dressed. The simple apron that it was, you would never think about; the things she used it for, that made it look worn out.

She may have used it to hold some wildflowers that she'd found. Or to hide a crying child's face when a stranger came around. Imagine all the little tears that were wiped with just that cloth. Or it became a potholder to serve some chicken broth.

She probably carried kindling to stoke the kitchen fire. To hold a load of laundry, or to wipe the clothesline wire. When canning all her vegetables, it was used to wipe her brow. You never know, she might have used it to shoo flies from the cow.

She might have carried eggs in from the chicken coop outside. Whatever chore she used it for, she did them all with pride. When Grandma went to heaven, God said she now could rest. I'm sure the apron that she chose, was her Sunday best.

Show in Houston. I am very proud of Mr. James daughter, Chancey. She did a great job. I love that girl!

Last Sunday we went to church in Hinton, Oklahoma. That is the first time in a year. I helped with the little kids. After church, we went to Mark and Carol's house for a delicious dinner. It was so much fun to be with family again. Addy, Clark and Daxton are growing up!

On Friday I get my second COVID shot. I am glad I can get it, but I will never like needles. The first one was not bad and I just had a sore arm for a couple of days. I hope you are all getting your vaccinations. That's it!

ALERT: Never Answer A Phone Call From 5 Area Codes Below

Police have issued a warning to everyone in the country. If you're eager to keep your personal information out of the hands of hackers and scam artists, you need to pay attention to this alert. If you have a telephone with caller ID, you've undoubtedly seen calls coming in from strange area codes. While you probably wonder, "who is calling from Boise, Idaho or Tacoma, Washington?" you need to forgo your curiosity can refuse to pick up calls – from five high risk area codes. But the mystery makes people answer, and when they do, they put themselves at risk for getting scammed. The fast talkers on the other ends of the lines know exactly what to say to get private information from you. And if you miss the call? You probably want to call back. But police are urging people around the country not to return these strange calls. And here is why...

A new telephone scam is brewing. And if they're not careful, it can cost innocent people thousands of dollars.

Police are calling this the One-Ring scam. The scammers use international phone numbers to call people in the United States. But they only let it ring once, which is enough for it to get picked up on the caller ID. This makes the receivers of the call curious and eager to call back and see who was calling. If the person calls back, they make themselves vulnerable for the scam.

These international numbers are chosen because their three-digit area codes resemble domestic phone numbers. But they're not – they are international. But if you call them back, you're connected to a pay-per-call phone line that eats into your money and YOU'RE the one getting charged per minute.

Even if you don't get connected, you can still be charged for the call. So do not call these strange numbers back.

If you do call back, the scammers try to sell you services you don't need. For example, they've been known to convince people to sign up for expensive services and need personal information to do it. They usually want your credit card information and your current address. Police officers urge you not to give this information out.

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) has issued an official warning about the One-Ring Scam.

And they've identified the area codes that are most likely to be involved.

-268 – which comes from the Caribbean countries Antigua and Barbuda.

-809 – which comes from the Dominican Republic

-876 – which comes from Jamaica

-284 – which comes from the British Virgin Islands

-473 – which comes from Grenada...

The FCC write: "Remember, you should always be cautious even if a number appears authentic. Criminals may also engage in caller ID "spoofing" – deliberately falsifying the information transmitted to your caller ID display to disguise their identity. (See our consumer guide on Spoofing and Caller ID.) Bottom line: Avoid answering or returning any calls from unfamiliar area codes or calls you suspect may be spoofed." Beware the One-Ring Scam.

-Police have issued a warning to everyone in the country. Please take it very seriously:

Is this our future?

This is unquestionably where our daily lives are heading.

- Hello! Gordon's pizza?
- No sir this is Google's pizza.

- Sorry, I must have dialed a wrong number?

- No sir, Google bought out Gordon's Pizza a short while ago.

- OK. Take my order please.
- OK sir, would you like your usual?"

- The usual? You know me?
- According to our caller-ID database, your last 12 orders were for pizza with cheese and sausage toppings, thick crust and crisp.

- OK! That's it...

- May I suggest this time you add ricotta, arugula with dry tomato toppings?

- What? I hate vegetables.

- Your cholesterol is not good, sir."

- How do you know that?

- We cross-matched your phone number with your name and your online medical portal. We have the result of your blood tests for the past 7 years.

- Okay, but I do not want those toppings, I already take medicine ..

- Excuse me, but you have not taken your medicine regularly. We can see from our database, 4 months ago, you only purchased a box with 30 cholesterol tablets at CVS.

- I bought more from another pharmacy.

- Such a transaction is not showing in your credit card account.

- I paid in cash.

- But you did not withdraw that much cash according to your recent bank statement.

- I have another source of cash.

- That is not showing as per your latest tax return unless you obtained it from an undeclared income source.

WHAT THE.....

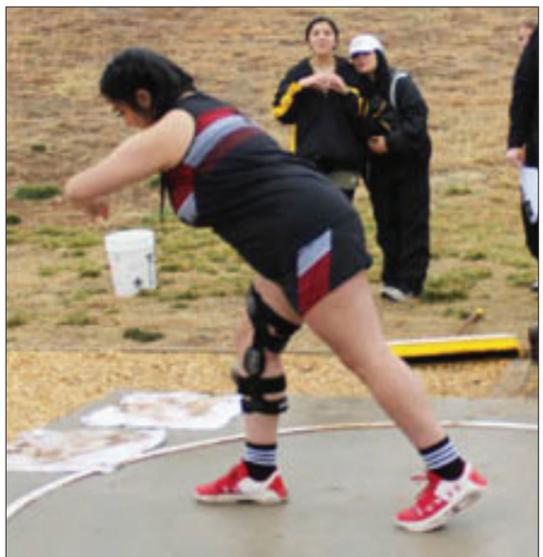

- "I'm sorry, sir, we use such information only with the intention of helping you.

- Enough! I'm sick of Google, Facebook, Twitter, WhatsApp. I'm going to an Island without internet, cable TV, where there is no cell phone service and no one to spy on me.

- "I understand sir but you'll need to renew your passport first as it expired 6 weeks ago!
