Dental Information

This is the fourth in a series of questions and answers on dental health published by the Rotan Advance in cooperation with the Seventeenth District Dental Society, Texas Dental Association, in observance of National Children's Health Week February 3 through 9.

What is periodontal disease? The word "periodontal" comes from two Greek words meaning literally "around the tooth". In periodontal disease the tissues that surround and support the teeth, the gums, the fibers that attach the teeth to the jawbones and the bones themselves are affected.

The disease begins as gingivitis. The gums gradually become swollen; they may stand away from the teeth and bleed easily when touched. If gingivitis is not treated and controlled, the inflammation spreads along the roots of the teeth and the gums separate from the teeth, forming a pocket which becomes filled with bacteria and sometimes pus. As the disease progresses, the bone supporting the teeth is lost, and very loose.

What causes periodontal disease? Among the local factors causing periodontal disease is calculus, or tartar, a hard, crust-like material that is deposited on the surface of the teeth where the gums and the crowns meet, irritating the gums. Worn-out fillings and crowns, ill-fitting partial dentures, sharp edges of badly decayed teeth and food particles retained in a cavity also irritate the gums.

The loss of a tooth, if it is not replaced with an artificial tooth by a dentist, may cause the adjacent teeth to shift into the vacant space. The shifting leads not only to wedging of food into the spaces between the teeth but also to improper meshing of the teeth upon chewing. The shock and uneven pressures of these poor tooth contacts cause damage to the periodontal tissues. Teeth that do not come together properly on closing the jaws, regardless of the cause, can be a factor in producing periodontal disease.

If a patient has regular dental checkups, his dentist will discover and promptly eliminate any of these possible causes of irritation.

Can periodontal disease be cured? Yes, in many cases it can be cured, especially if the disease is discovered in its early stages. Calculus and any other causes of irritation within the mouth are removed. If necessary, diseased gum tissue is removed surgically. In some cases, splints and other appliances are constructed to maintain stability of loose teeth until bone and gums are regenerated.

Although treatment by the dentist is necessary, complete cooperation of the patient in home care is most important if the treatment is to be successful.

Mrs. Cecil Lotief has been visiting her daughter Estelle in her new home in Dallas. Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Lotief and baby went Sunday to attend market. They plan to return home Thursday.

Home-Frozen Cream Pies

by Alice Kemp

There's quite a trick to making a good cream pie that can be frozen and stored successfully. It takes a special recipe and special handling.

And that's what research home economists at Texas Technological College in Lubbock, in cooperation with food and nutrition specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, have come up with -- a special way to make cream pies, so that the filling doesn't separate, or get grainy, lumpy, or spongy, and the crust remains flaky.

Cornstarch, the researchers find, is the most acceptable starch to use in the filling of a cream pie that's going into the freezer. And, you get best results if you freeze the pie that's going into the freezer. And, you get best results if you freeze the pie filling and shall separately, then combine the two when ready for use--or use the frozen filling in a freshly baked crust.

Bake the shell on the outside of the pan, then remove, wrap and freeze. The filling may be frozen on the inside of the same size pan, then removed and wrapped.

Raw egg whites may be frozen separately and used in a meringue later, or freshly beaten whites can be baked in the frozen cream pie.

Here's the recipe for that special--

CREAM PIE FOR FREEZING

2 cups milk
2-3 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1-4 teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks, beaten
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

2-3 teaspoon gelatin
1 teaspoon vanilla

Heat milk to scalding (185 degree F.). Add the sugar, starch and salt, which have been combined, and continue heating rapidly until boiling.

Stir about 1-2 cup of the hot mixture into the egg; pour back into the sauce pan and cook an additional 5 minutes.

Stir in the gelatin which has been hydrated in 1 tablespoon of the milk (cold). Add the butter or margarine and vanilla.

Pour into a 7-inch pie pan, freeze, remove from pan, wrap in moisture-resistant paper and store in freezer.

This basic recipe can be used to make several other kinds of pie.

For banana cream pie, arrange 2 sliced ripe bananas over frozen filling and sprinkle with 1 tablespoon confectioner's sugar. Cover with meringue and bake.

Strawberry or peach cream pie: Arrange 1 1-2 cups sliced peaches or strawberries over frozen filling, sprinkle with 3 tablespoon confectioner's sugar, over with meringue and bake.

Coconut cream pie: Sprinkle 1 1-2 cups shredded coconut over frozen filling, cover with meringue and bake.

Transition In Hog Production
Changes in methods of growing hogs during the past 15 years typify the progress and transition that are apparent in all animal agriculture. Not many years ago, practically all hogs were grown on pasture. Then came "Pig Parlors," the feeding of hogs on concrete in confinement. Now, insulated, ventilated slat floor houses seem to be gaining wide favor among hog raisers.
Some hogs are still grown by all three of these methods, according to Ezell-Key Grain & Feed, Ralston Purina swine management experts who have studied these methods and have listed some advantages and disadvantages of each.
Disadvantages of the pasture system include too low a per acre return on the land, higher cost of providing feed and water, summer dust problems, problems resulting from cold and wet weather in spring and fall, difficulties of effective disease control, and the necessity for providing fences, adequate water and shade. Advantages of pasture hog raising include reduced manure handling costs and very little "social problems" among the animals.
Disadvantages of feeding hogs on concrete in confinement include the manure handling problem and some "social problems," most frequently manifested by tail biting. Advantages include fast daily gains, the opportunity for better pasture utilization and the simplifying of effective sanitation procedures.
Disadvantages of, insulated, ventilated slatted floors include a high initial cost per hog, the necessity of helping the hog to beat the summer heat, some tail biting, and a necessity for top management procedures throughout the project. Advantages include the elimination of manure handling costs, using the heat of the hog for winter warmth, good daily gains, the elimination of bedding requirements and a sharp reduction in labor costs.

'As It Looks From Here'

Omar Burleson, M. C.
17th District, Texas

Washington, D. C. — the Budget for the Fiscal Year 1964, beginning in July of this year, presented by the President last week, approximates the size of a Sears-Roebuck or Montgomery Ward Catalog.

It contains 1195 pages which cover about as many items as appear in the mail order catalogs, but much less understandable.

Figures alone become about as dry as well stored hay, and figures in terms of billions reach beyond the imagination.

The total figure of proposed spending come to $98.8 billion. The estimated deficit, if the tax cut proposed by the Administration is made, amounts to $11.9 billion. This figure represents the highest peace-time deficit in history, except in the fiscal year of 1959 in the Eisenhower Administration, when it was $12.4 billion.

The deficit estimate is, of course, based on other estimates of income. All budget estimates seem to adopt an optimistic view on the amount of income from tax sources, and it follows that the estimated deficit is usually a minimum figure. Even the price for the various Government Programs are made to appear as far as possible as a cut-rate proposition. The lowest figure possible is used for running each department of Government, but when they run out of money, they come back to the Congress for what is commonly known as a supplemental appropriation. This is in addition to that originally requested and appropriated.

Some of the budget's highlights are as follows:

National defense totals $55.4 billion for the year beginning July 1.

In addition, the sum of $4.2 billion is requested for Space Research, Technology, etc., under the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Veterans benefits amount to $5.1-2 billion, and it will take $5.8 billion to run all Agricultural Programs.

The pricetag on activities under Health, Labor and Welfare comes to $5.6 billion, but there is an added $1.1-2 billion to this sum for aid to education on one form or other, including those programs already in effect and new ones proposed.

Commerce and Transportation, which include the Highway Program will need $6.7 billion, it is estimated. This also includes the Federal Aviation Agency and Civil Aeronautics which amount to $875 million.

Natural resources, such as Housing Community development and all other Departments of Government make up the remaining sums.

Incidentally, there might be some encouragement in the estimate on the deficit of the Post Office Department. In the fiscal year 1963, the deficit amounted to $802 million, while the coming fiscal year is supposed to be $554 million, which latter sum reflects the increases in Postal Rates and also increases in Postal Employees' salaries passed during the last Session of Congress. Members of Congress like to talk about reducing expenditures. The fact is the area of really cutting down is limited, since many of these programs are already in effect. It is pleasant to talk of tax cuts, tax reforms and less spending. It is another thing to have deficit financing, reforms for the other fellow only, and less spending for those things which we do not favor. Non-essential spending to some is the cost of vitally necessary programs to others; tax reform and the closing of tax loopholes to one group is wholly unsatisfactory to another. The Romans and the Athenians had their cake and ate it too — for awhile.

The livestock auction markets of Texas are throwing their full support behind the financially-strained Southwest Screwworm Eradication Program by collecting and contributing funds to the project this month.

Most of the auction participation will come to a climax during the period of January 21-26 which has been designated as S-O-S Week or Stamp-Out-Screwworms Week in Texas. Many of the more than 175 livestock auctions in Texas will turn part of their commissions on sales for that week over to the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation, which represents the livestock producers in the program. The markets will also assist in collecting funds from individual producers.

Participation in the fund raising drive by auction markets is an outgrowth of the October resolution of the board of directors of the Texas Livestock Auction Association wherein support for the program was pledged.

The Foundation recently announced that the eradication program might have to be terminated if additional funds were not collected. At least half of the estimated $12 million cost for the three-year program must be born by non-federal sources.

The livestock producers who does not figure depreciation on the livestock that he purchases is missing a good means of conserving capital, says C. H. Bates, extension farm management specialist.

Since much of the large capital investment required in the business of farming can be recovered by the taxpayer through depreciation, attention should be given to the present tax provisions.

The 1962 income tax law contains important changes affecting farmers and ranchmen. New suggested useful lives for some classes of property are among them. A three-year period will be allowed to shifting to the new guidelines, Bates says. The biggest change is that for farm building life which has been changed from 40 to 25 years. Bates says that the useful life for cattle has been changed from 8 to 7 years year on purchased animals. Claims for depreciation should be made annually because it cannot be taken for years passed up.

The taxpayer increases his potential capital gains from livestock sales by properly handling depreciation and the new law did not change capital gains on livestock. According to Bates, one of the first requirements is the setting of reasonable salvage value on animals purchased. The remainder may be "Written off" as depreciation which then is retained when the old animals are sold.

The new "1963 Farmers Tax Guide" is now available at the county agents office. Farmers and ranchmen are urged to pick up a copy at their earliest convenience. Its chuck-full of important information.

An idea from the Valley Sportsmen Club at Harlingen. Members of the club will attempt to collect a dollar for each deer killed by Valley hunters during the past hunting season as a contribution to the Screwworm Eradication Program. Spokesmen for the Club hope other clubs over Texas will undertake similar campaigns to keep the screwworm program going.

Nationwide Consumer Testing Institute Report:

PLYMOUTH BEATS FORD AND CHEVROLET IN 8 OUT OF 10 OFFICIAL TESTS

Plymouth once again proves all-around superiority against its competition. Handling, safety, performance, economy—all of these were measured in the second meeting of Ford, Chevrolet and Plymouth early in December at the Riverside, Cal., test course. In a "Showdown" asked for by Plymouth, a 1963 Plymouth Fury V-8 whipped a comparably equipped Chevrolet Impala V-8 and Ford Galaxie "500" V-8 in eight out of ten official tests.

Nationwide Consumer Testing Institute bought the cars, hired the drivers, supplied the officials, made and enforced the rules. The chart at right leaves no question about the results. Plymouth excelled in all-around performance and economy. Add in Plymouth's good looks and 5-year/50,000-mile warranty*. See your dealer. Plymouth's on the move.
