TO THE VOTERS

HD Club Plans
Mexican Food

To add spice and variety to family meals, perhaps you would like to plan Mexican Food occasionally for your family. Lets give the nutritive value some thought said Mrs. Barney Bigham as she demonstrated the Green Enchillada Casserole dish to the Rotan Club in her home February 1. Most all Mexican food is very high in protein because it contains meat, cheese and beans. Just as a review, what does proteins do for the body? Proteins are necessary for the growth and repair of the body. Adults should have two or more servings a day of food from the meat group. We could say that Mexican Food would come in the meat group as it contains those things we mentioned depending on the recipe.

Recipe for Green Enchillada Casserole

- 1 dozen Tortillas
- 1 can Cream Chicken Soup
- 1 can (4 oz.) Green Chilli Peppers, chopped
- 1 tall can Evaporated Milk
- 1 medium onion grated
- 1/4 lb. sharp grated cheese
- Fry tortillas (not crisp, just cook)
- Mix soup, chilli peppers milk, onion. Make layers of the tortillas, mixture and cheese in a pan 10x18. Bake for 20 minutes at 350 degrees until cheese is slightly brown. Serve with saltine crackers.

Members present were: Mmes. C. C. Roach, Will Curry, Home Aaron, Bernice Stockton, Icie Hughes, Altha Patton, Dick Edward, Joe Little, W. L. Porter, Viola Hendon, Romie Kersh, C. A. Ragan, Alyae Shell, Thomas Colwell, W. L. Terrell.

Club adjourned to meet with Mrs. Thomas Colwell, February 15.

McCaulley 4-H

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Now here's a clock that beats them all . . . Big Ben, himself, watching the passing parade. Somehow, old Ben still manages to keep an eye on things while he's telling the time, and the stories he could tell might fill a book.

With today's atomic clocks, which mark the passage of time by atom vibrations, time now can be measured more accurately than ever before. Yes, we've come a long way since the first clock, which was simply the alternating periods of darkness and daylight.

Just as man has always relied on some satisfactory method of telling the time, so has he always been aware of a hunger within his heart for peace and meaning in life.

Discover this timeless source of unending strength . . . worship in church this Sunday.

Summary of 1967 Extension Work

The Extension Home Economics program in Fisher County in 1967, under the direction of Mrs. Alice Ballenger, County Home Demonstration Agent, has reached numerous groups in the county.

The four Home Demonstration Clubs which meet twice each month, had programs in Clothing, Foods and Nutrition, Housing-Home Furnishings and Home Management. The agent met with the clubs to present four of these programs. She trained thirty-three women from the four clubs in programs which they in turn presented to their own clubs.

The County Home Demonstration Council, made up of fifteen women representing the four clubs met once each month. The Council coordinates the entire H. D. Program in the county. Mrs. Fred Waddell served as chairman this past year. Council also serves to train women in leadership and parliamentary procedure.

In April a short course was conducted in Rotan which was for the public. Using a number of speakers, the program covered the subject of planning for building a new home.

As a continuation of this series of educational programs on housing, a program was presented by personnel from utilities companies on Heating and Cooling the Home. This program was in Roby in November; also open to anyone interested in this subject.

Eight women and a number of 4-H girls have carried result demonstrations in Housing, Landscape improvement, Clothing, and Foods this past year. Result demonstrations are carried by women of 4-H members to show accomplishments and recommended practices in the particular subject matter they have selected for a demonstration. The agent visits these people, helps them to set up goals to be reached. Then visits to see progress made throughout the year.

A tour of adult-result demonstrations was made in Fisher County in October to see progress made by these people throughout the year.

Other groups the agent worked with included residents of the public housing in Rotan, Fisher County Young Homemakers, a club for senior citizens in Rotan and the Fisher County Fair and Rodeo Association.

Eight leader training meetings were conducted by the H. D. Agent for leaders of 4-H clubs. These leaders were trained in how to give demonstrations, how to keep files for reference material for 4-H work, to make and use various types of illustrative material. Training was also given in food preparation, how to prepare 4-H members for the food show, clothing construction and keeping 4-H records.

Six clothing workshops were conducted by eight leaders and two Jr. Leaders for 4-H members. Thirty-five girls attended these workshops and completed garments.

The county extension program is planned by the County Program Building Committee with representatives from all areas of the county. This committee strives each year to plan the years work to reach as many residents of the county as possible.

James Duke Challenges RHS Classmates

Although a lifetime resident of Rotan, James Duke a freshman, just entered a Rotan School this year.

James entered school in Lubbock when he was seven just like any other student. The only difference is that James is blind. He attended Dupree in Lubbock for 3½ years and then moved to Austin and attended the Texas State School for the Blind for 3½ years. He has learned Braille and his textbooks are in Braille.

When asked what it was like coming to Rotan, James answered, "It was just like anyone coming from junior high. I had to find my classrooms, and find out which teachers would let me cut up."

I asked James how he went about making friends, and he said, "In some cases it is easier than in others. I haven't found anyone here who was looking for trouble. The kids are not too different, some are friendlier than others."

James' textbooks are considerably different from ours. His come in volumes, and approximately three of his pages equal one of ours. To turn in papers he has to type out answers. He says that math is the hardest because he has to type out "pluses" and other symbols. Most of the tests he takes orally.

Going to a high school with three flights of stairs and five minutes between classes would pose a problem for most anyone, but James says, "It's like a holiday. Once I only had three minutes. Now I have plenty of time to visit, and I still make it to class on time."

James has really challenged his classmates, because if he can excel with a handicap, they should with all of their God-given senses.

Tape Recorder Helps Students Learn Music

Every day, in the library, the students of Primary take Music. The students are taught by Mrs. Donham and Miss Linda Singley.

First, they do small exercises. These are meant to help the student to sing longer without very many breathers of air. After the exercises are completed the students sit up straight and are ready to begin.

Accompanied by a piano the students practice notes. They hear a note from the piano and then think about it. They then hum the note over and over. They hold the notes for long and short periods of time. By doing this they learn to hear and recognize notes.

Next, they sing a song and it is recorded on a tape recorder. By this, they can replay the songs and listen for their mistakes. They are then able to correctly sing the song.

Through this class, students are able to keep a steady rhythm. Also they learn to watch and pay attention to the teacher.

New Credit Standard Required by State

The Texas Education Agency revised the creditation standards for its schools in the spring of 1967. One of the new requirements is that the teacher from each subject prepare a course of study for the subject they teach. The teachers of the Rotan schools are working this semester to prepare this course of study. The course should include the purpose of the subject, the aim of the subject, a description of the subject, the material to be covered and how it is going to be covered. These reports are kept to be checked by state examiners.

RHS Students Give Opinions of Pueblo

The latest incident in world affairs, the U.S. ship Pueblo is a very interesting event. Since the seizure of the Pueblo, diplomats of the U.S. and other countries have been at work to find a way that will peacefully settle the problem. Some citizens and representatives advocate the reclaiming of the Pueblo by force. But does the U.S. have the right to forcibly take her ship back? Students of RHS have been asked this puzzling question. They have also set forth their solution to the problem.

John Witherspoon, senior, said, "I think that North Korea was in the wrong and that the U.S. should use whatever force is needed in order to regain the Pueblo. I would advocate the use of all forces necessary to regain the Pueblo and her crewmen."

Luther Yanez, senior, believes, "The ship deserves some backing and we should back it up because it will only be giving confidence to the North Koreans."

Kim Porter, freshman, said, "No, I don't think we should because then we'd have war."

"I think we do have the right, but we should take it back in a way that will not cause war," stated Doris Pearson, sophomore.

COUNTY AGENT NEWS

by Richard Spencer

Now is the time to start thinking of applying dormant oils to trees for protection against mite and scale insects. A dormant oil may be used any time when trees are in the dormant stage. However, better insect control may be obtained by using a dormant oil in late winter or early spring just before the buds start to crack. If a spring application is used, it should be applied after the possibility of heavy freeze occurs. An advantage of applying the dormant oil in late winter or early spring is the fact that the insects are in a weakened condition and are easier to kill. A disadvantage would be the fact that you have only a short time to apply the dormant oil and the greater possibility of plant damage. Dormant oils should be applied when the temperature is between 40 and 65 degrees F. Freezing weather should be avoided within 48 hours after applying dormant oils. Reports of oil damage to the following plant species should be noted: sugar and Japanese maple, beech, hickory, walnut and butternut. Oil may also injure Douglas fir flower buds and remove blue color from Colorado blue spruce. Dormant oils can be applied to the following trees without damage: pin oak, gray birch, red pine, white ash, scarlea oak, catalpa, American elm, red maple, white pine, sweet cherry, pear, sour cherry, white oak, tulip tree, large-tooth popular, black oak, Norway maple, silver maple, European linden, and most fruit and nut species. Excessive deposits of oil may cause damage even though the tree might not be susceptible to a normal application of dormant oil. Attention should be paid to getting a thorough coverage with the oil but avoid excessive application of the oils. There are four factors that are involved in the amount of oil that is deposited on a tree. They are the oil strength in the mixture, the kind and amount of emulsifier used, the nature of the plant surface sprayed, and the amount of spray applied. All of these factors should be watched very closely when spraying trees. Some factors that influence oil injury to a tree are the quantity of oil applied to the tree, the species of the tree, the type of oil, the temperature and weather conditions during and after application and the condition of the tree at the time of spraying. Dormant oils should not be allowed to get on the roots of trees. Follow label directions.

Another insecticide, phosphamidon, has been added to the list of chemicals that are recommended by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service for greenbug and winter grain mite control. The chemicals now recommended for control of these two small grain pests are parathion, methyl parathion, malathion and phosphamidon. This information is in the revised "Texas Guide for Controlling Insects and Mites on Grain and Forage Crops," MP-339. This guide will soon be available at your County Extension Agent's Office. Other specific information in this guide which might be of interest is information concerning insects attacking small grains, grain sorghum, field corn, rice, alfalfa and clover, vetch and grass. Information on insects recommended for use in controlling these pests is also given. Several new sections have been added to this guide. One new section concerns soil treatment for such pests as wireworms, white grubs and corn rootworms. Recommendations for controlling southern corn borer, sugarcane borer, neotropical borers, the clover head weevil, and mites on grain sorghum are included in new sections in this guide. Another new section concerns protection of insect pollinators, particularly honeybee, in legume seed production.

Draft Questions-Answers

(Ed. Note: Below are questions now being asked at draft boards. The answers are by Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, State Selective Service Director, 209 W. 9th Street, Austin 78701. He will welcome your questions.)

Q — The appeal board to which my appeal was sent in Texas turned down my request for deferment in Class II-A by a vote of 4 to 1. I've been advised that, because these board members did not vote unanimously, I may file an appeal with the President. May I do that?

A — Yes, you have 30 days in which to do it.

Q — Do I have any appeal rights beyond that point?

A — No. The Presidential appeal board's decision is final. Your case could be reviewed later, by your local board if you provide new evidence which would warrant reopening and classification anew by your local board.

Q — Upon completion of my second year in college, I entered the Peace Corps and was classified in Class II-A. When my duties with the Peace Corps end next month, will I be eligible for deferment as a student to get my baccalaureate degree before performing my military duty?

A — You will, in all probability, be eligible for II-S. A young man who re-enters a college as an undergraduate student, and who has been classified in Class II-A since his last full time attendance, shall not be considered to have failed to meet the requirements of Selective Service regulations concerning full-time and satisfactory pursuit of his duties; therefore, this interruption of your academic work would not remove your eligibility for a Class II-S student deferment. If you've reached age 24, you wouldn't be eligible.

Improved Basketball Clock Is In Use

At the game with Robert Lee on Friday, January 26, the scoreboard and clock short-circuited and stopped working. A hasty improvisation resulted in the use of a P. E. class timer and a blackboard for the scores.

A check with a sporting goods company indicated that earliest delivery of a scoreboard and timer would take two months. For the remainder of the basketball season the P. E. class timer and blackboard will be used.

"Ye Shall Know The Truth"
John 8:32

SALVATION BY GRACE
God's word teaches that there is both the Divine and human side to man's salvation. The Divine is shown by God's grace and mercy in that provisions have been made for man's salvation. The human side comes about when man learns of this provision and obeys the commandments contained in God's will. To illustrate, Jesus gives us the privilege of asking, "Give us our daily bread" (Matthew 6:11). Thus God gives us our daily bread. Question: When does God give us bread? There is both the Divine side and the human side in receiving bread.
The Divine side is shown in that God puts life in the seed and provides the soil in which the seed is planted. Through His laws of nature the seed, when planted, will grow and produce. But there is also the human side in this arrangement. Man must take the seed and plant it in the soil that has been tilled to receive the seed. The plant must be nurtured by man and finally the harvest is to be reaped by man, which is the human side in our receiving bread. God's part is the Divine side—without it we would have no bread. Man's part is the human side—without it we would have no bread. Salvation is like unto this. Without God's part, man cannot be saved, this is grace. Without man's part, sins will not be forgiven, this is obedience.

The supreme manifestation of God's grace is seen in the gift of His Son, Jesus Christ, as our redeemer and the sacrifice for sin. But man, hopelessly lost in sin, needed to know the way to come to Christ and out of sin. God's commands meet man's need for guidance and are, therefore a manifestation of His grace toward man. God's commands grow out of man's needs, and every command of God is full of God's grace. Man must OBEY God to receive His GRACE (Hebrews 5:8-9; I Peter 1:22; Romans 2:8).

Three thousand souls were saved by grace on Pentecost when they obeyed the command, "Repent ye, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins" (Acts 2:38, 41). The apostle who wrote, "For by grace have ye been saved through faith" (Eph. 2:8), was SAVED BY GRACE when he OBEYED the command "Arise and be baptized and wash away thy sins calling on the name of the Lord" (Acts 22:16). Won't you be saved by grace?

We invite your questions and wish to inform you that we have free correspondence courses available to all who would like them.
