From my perspective

by Col. Roger Brady
64th FTW Commander

In the next few weeks, the Reese Family Advocacy Office and Family Support Center will combine forces to provide classes in "common sense parenting" to the Reese and Frenship Independent School District communities. We have made families a high priority at Reese and this is just one more opportunity to help families and extend a helping hand to the neighboring community.

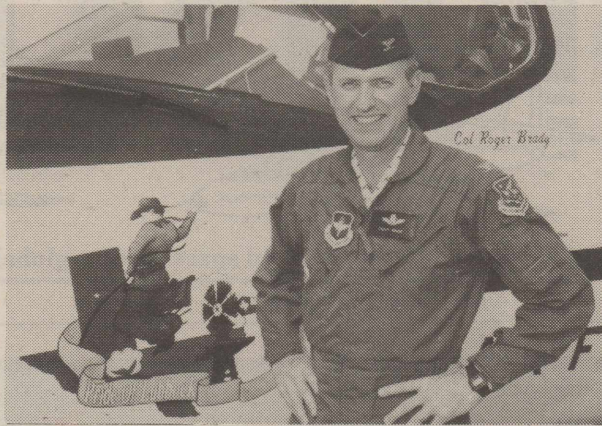

Common sense parenting is a program developed by Boys Town and has been adapted as part of our Family Advocacy Outreach Program. In cooperation with the Frenship Intermediate School Parent-Teachers Association, Kay Dyer of family advocacy and Dulleyn-Alewine from the family support center will begin teaching this program at an introductory session Monday at the Frenship Intermediate School.

This is a great opportunity to better prepare for the challenge of developing our most important resource—our children. If you are a parent, mentor, or just want to learn more about working with young people, see Page 10 for details on the common sense parenting classes.

Pet policy

Pet control is a serious matter because animals allowed to run free can become a hazard to others. Ensuring your pet has a collar with a rabies tag and that the pet is leashed or fenced when outside can save you and the animal a lot of trouble and heartache. To ensure the safety of your pet and your neighbors, all base housing residents who own pets are required to comply with the following:

- Pets must be registered with the base veterinary clinic within 10 days of accepting base housing or adopting a new pet. If the animal was vaccinated downtown, take the registration paper work to the base vet clinic.

- Cats and dogs are required to have annual vaccinations, to include a rabies shot. The vaccinations are due each year during the month they were originally given (i.e. if given in March 93, they are due in March 94).

- More than two pets per household requires the approval of the deputy support group commander.

Failure to register or vaccinate pets may result in disciplinary actions taken against the military member of the household. In addition, animals allowed to run free in the housing area may be picked up and taken to an animal shelter downtown. To prevent these unnecessary hardships, protect your pet(s) by ensuring it/they are vaccinated and properly controlled at all times.

Wing members with questions can contact the Reese Military Public Health office at 3534. Thanks for your assistance and cooperation.

From YOUR perspective

Editor's note: The following note is from wing commander Col. Roger Brady, addressing his concerns for future Carelines.

A Careline column provides one of the many opportunities for a commander to find out what people are thinking, what's bothering them, what they like, etc. If you've wondered why we do something, or just want to make a comment, don't hesitate to call.

If you leave your name and telephone number, we'll get back to you and answer your concern by telephone.

Calls of interest to the Reese community will be published, without the caller's name, in the Roundup the following week. I look forward to hearing from you.

Calls can be made to the Careline 24 hours a day at 3273.

Postal questions posed

I have three questions about the post office:

- I would like to know if it would be possible to open the second window for buying stamps and money orders—things that don't take a long time to process—and keep the other window just for mailing packages.

- If that's not possible, could a money machine be installed for people who want to use the stamp machine that's already in there?

- Would it be possible for the post office to stay open until at least 4:30 p.m. for those of us who can't go over there until after work?

The Reese Post Office is a small contract operation employing two part-time workers with no overlap in hours. Current hours are 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 1:30 to 4 p.m. weekdays. Unfortunately it won't be possible to open a second window, since only one employee works at a time. Exception is made during the Christmas holidays to help ease the increased congestion.

A new postage machine accepting dollar bills was ordered March 4 and should be in place soon. I have also asked my staff to look into adjusting the window hours to better accommodate our customers; however, it will take 30 to 45 days to implement any change to the current contract.

In the meantime, there are a few other options available. The Sunset Station Post Office at 19th Street and Frankford Avenue is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and United Supermarkets have contract post offices open all week from 6 a.m. to midnight.

I appreciate your ideas to improve the postal service and meet our customers' needs.

Pet policy

Every year as the weather starts to turn nice, we have a problem with pet control in the housing area. Because of the close proximity of the units, this situation is often magnified.

We ask all occupants to comply with base rules and to respect the rights of their neighbors. As a reminder, we've printed the base pet policy in this week's Roundup (this page). The housing office and security police will make every effort to enforce the rules regarding pet control.

Nutrition month recipes

Provided by the Air Force Health
Promotion Program

These recipes, provided by the Reese Health Promotions Office, are taken from the American Heart Association Cookbook, 4th Edition, published by David McKay Company Inc., New York. They are based on a fat-controlled, low-cholesterol meal plan recommended by scientists to help you reduce your blood cholesterol level, and thus your risk of heart attack.

Deep dish fruit pie

3 cups raw fruit (apples, rhubarb, cherries, peaches, apricots)
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4-1/2 cup sugar, depending on the tartness of the fruit
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon oil
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Pit, peel and slice fruit. Mix together and place in deep 8-inch baking dish with the white sugar and lemon juice. Bake at 375 F. until fruit is tender (about 45 minutes for apples). With pastry blender, mix together flour, brown sugar, oil and cinnamon until it is crumbly. Place atop cooked fruit and continue to bake until brown and bubbly. Top each serving with ice milk or sherbet.
Makes 6 servings.

Per serving: Approximately 200 calories.

Chicken with orange

1 2-1/2 to 3-pound fryer, cut into serving pieces
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1 medium onion, sliced
1/2 cup frozen orange juice concentrate
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 teaspoon soy sauce
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
1/3 cup water; 1 teaspoon sherry
Brown chicken pieces under the broiler. Place in casserole, sprinkle with paprika. Arrange onion slices over chicken. Combine juice concentrate, brown sugar, parsley, soy sauce, ginger, water and sherry; pour over chicken and onions. Cover and simmer until chicken is tender, about 35 to 40 minutes.
Per serving: 123 calories, 3.5 grams fat, 90 mgs. sodium.

Spinach-avocado-orange toss

1/2 teaspoon grated orange peel
1/4 cup orange juice
1/2 cup oil
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons wine vinegar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
6 cups spinach or other greens, torn into bite-sized pieces
1 small cucumber, thinly sliced
1 avocado, peeled and sliced
1 11-ounce can mandarin oranges, drained
2 tablespoons sliced green onions

Combine first 6 ingredients in a jar. Cover tightly and shake until thoroughly blended. Mix remaining ingredients in a bowl and pour the dressing over all.
Makes 10 servings.

Per serving: Approximately 170 calories.

Are you really 'open for business?'

by 1st Lt. Bruce L. Upton
64th Logistics Squadron

Editor's note: Lieutenant Upton wrote the following article prior to a permanent-change-of-station move to Little Rock AFB, Ark..

It's 3:30 p.m. Friday when you walk into a local bank. You've been extremely busy all day and now is the first opportunity you've had to complete the loan paper work for your new house. Unfortunately, the person behind the counter says he can't help you because he isn't the loan clerk and doesn't know anything about loans. The normal loan clerk is gone for the day and won't be back until Monday. You leave the bank frustrated and greatly displeased with the service you've received (or not received).

Scenarios like this also happen far too often in our Air Force. Can you imagine a company that's "open for business" but can only provide part of what the customer needs? That experience at the bank is no different than going to McDonald's and ordering a Big Mac, french fries and a milkshake and being told that the only guy who knows how to cook french fries is off today!

One of the most important principles of quality service is the elimination of specialists to the maximum extent possible. To achieve quality customer service, we must train our people to fill in at as many positions as practical, especially during contingencies. Today's smaller Air Force greatly increases the likelihood that your element will be affected by a deployment or contingency.

Another reason to check work center training status is that our Air Force is being compared to our civilian counterparts, and whenever possible, the civilian sector is trying to demonstrate how they can perform the same jobs in a more cost effective manner.

Recent surveys have shown that the average civilian company can do the same job as the military with only 60 percent of the people. Most Air Force members respond by saying that contractors aren't subject to details, TDYs, new assignments or extended deployments. Even with these commitments we must do better than 60 percent.

One way to do this is by training all our people to do at least two of the jobs in a particular shop. This can be accomplished through job rotations, continuity books and comprehensive training programs. Some tasks are traditionally done by one element or another because it's always been that way. Civilian companies have been awarded Department of Defense contracts by combining tasks and elements.

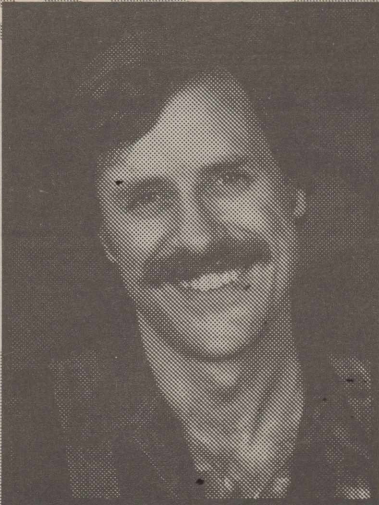

We can't be bound by tradition in providing quality service. Having positions that are one-deep or having only one person qualified on a system is not quality. With reduced manning and increased TDY commitments, it's not easy to keep everyone in your element trained. It might mean doing less managing and more leading. I'm not advocating that every shop NCO or officer in charge become an expert technician, but don't be above rolling up your sleeves and helping out.

Total quality begins with self-assessment. Take a look around your work center and ask yourself: Can we provide all the service we're advertising, during all the hours we're open? Do we have services that only one person can provide? Do we have complete and thorough continuity books?

Don't let your office or shop be like the bank in the first paragraph. We can't afford it anymore.

Wing's top officers of 1993 selected

The wing has selected its top officers of the year in the flight commander, instructor pilot and support officer categories.

Maj. Joseph Macklin, 64th FTW; Capt. Morgan Kyle, 52nd Flying Training Squadron; and 1st Lt. Cuvier Lipscomb, 64th Medical Group were cited as the wing's finest in 1993.

Major Macklin

Flight commander of the year

Currently the wing executive officer, Major Macklin was described as "the wing's premier flight commander — a motivator without equal" during his tenure in that position.

A seventh-generation military member, the major brings a broad range of experience to his work. He has instructed in four different trainer aircraft — the T-1A,

About the cover

T-37, T-38 and T-41 — and he also has flown C-130Es. He has more than 3,600 flying hours and a 100-percent pass rate on 30 check rides during his career.

Major Macklin's experience and ability were keenly needed during the past year, as he was called upon to lead one of the first specialized UPT flights as SUPT got "off the ground" at Reese.

The major also served as wing project officer for the Combined Federal Campaign. His work on CFC and in other United Way-related areas was so superior that he was chosen as the United Way volunteer of the year in Lubbock.

Major Macklin is also active in the Air Force Association's local chapter.

Captain Kyle

IP of the year

Captain Kyle's accomplishments during the past year earned praise from 52nd FTS officials, who described him as "a top IP" and "one of the finest officers in the wing." Among other things, he was chosen as the IP of the year by the Texas Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

He was also the wing project officer for an MC-130 visit from Kirtland AFB, N.M. Despite uncooperative weather and last-minute schedule changes, the trip was a "resounding success." Captain Kyle also served as assistant project officer for the wing change of command in July.

Captain Kyle's accomplishments were not restricted to the flightline. As a key worker during the CFC, he helped his unit exceed its goal in 24 hours, garnering countywide recognition.

The Virginia native is also active in the Catholic Education Program and he was a volunteer during last year's Camp Blue Yonder.

Lieutenant Lipscomb

Support officer of the year

Serving as the MEDGP director of personnel and administration and the director of medical readiness, Lieutenant Lipscomb actively took a hand in a number of key group programs, each time bringing about positive changes.

The Fort Worth, Texas, native's work has resulted in: a 100 percent on-time submission rate for enlistment performance reports over a six-month period; 100 percent accuracy in tracking unit members during contingency exercises; and a 100 percent on-time rate for readiness training in the hospital, to name a few.

Lieutenant Lipscomb was recognized throughout the year for his efforts, as he was selected as wing support officer of the quarter for the first quarter 1993.

The lieutenant is secretary for the Reese Company Grade Officers Council, a board member on the American Heart Association and an active participant in a MEDGP sports program that captured last year's Commanders Trophy.

'Helping hand'

Awards given to wing members who give of themselves

by Cheryl A. Ortiz

Reese Volunteer Resource Program Coordinator

Margaret J. Lutz, American Red Cross, and Sgt. Scott Alexander, 64th Operations Support Squadron, were Reese's "Helping Hand" Volunteer Award winners for the last quarter of 1993.

Mrs. Lutz is the chairperson for the American Red Cross volunteer program here at Reese. Since November, she has volunteered 262 hours in the radiology department at the 64th Medical Group, and she has donated a total of 280 hours during the past quarter. She volunteered to work in the ARC booth at South Plains Mall, helping get signatures on a Christmas card for soldiers in Somalia.

The helping hand award isn't her only honor of late. Mrs. Lutz was recognized as the annual Red Cross Lubbock Chapter outstanding volunteer of the year at Reese as well for her work with that organization.

Sergeant Alexander came to the aid of a military spouse who had a car accident and needed to go into surgery.

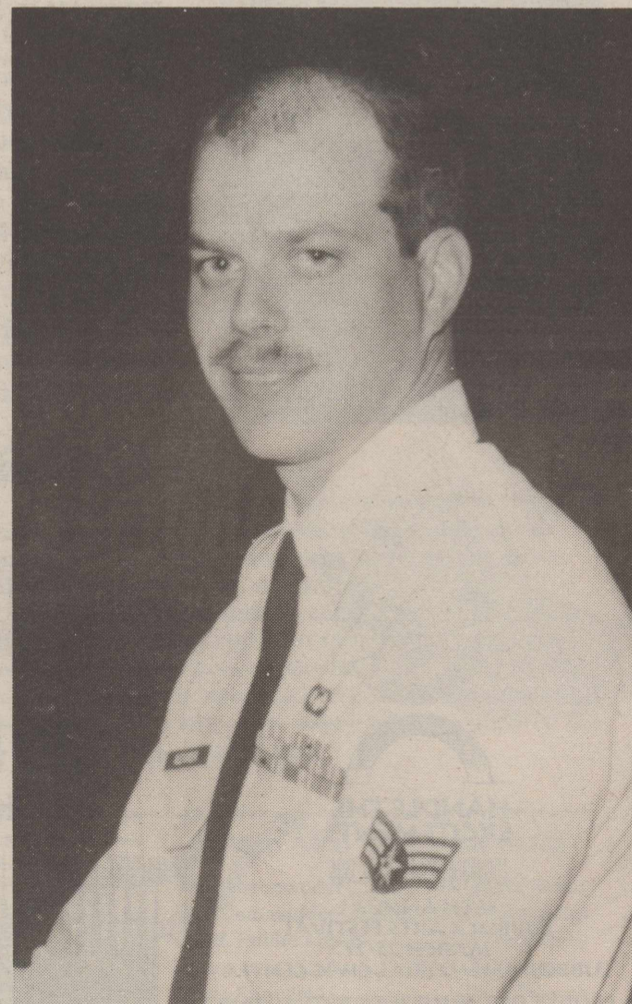

Sergeant Alexander stayed with the woman while his wife took the woman's son home with her. The sergeant then transported her vehicle back to Idalou and collected the little boy's belongings in order for him to have clothes and school supplies.

Sergeant Alexander contacted the Red Cross so the woman's husband, who is on a remote tour in Alaska, could be notified of the accident.

THE ECONOMY AND YOU

Rising Imports Causing Downward Mobility

By Robert E. Swift

(NAPS)—Downward mobility is rising in the United States. The cruel irony in that statement is reinforced in a new study by economist Stephen Rose of the National Commission for Employment Policy. Tracking of 5,000 families showed that 44 percent of the nation's entire population fell prey to real income declines during the 1980s.

Robert E. Swift

Since service sector jobs increased and manufacturing jobs decreased in the 1980s, it doesn't take a genius to determine the primary cause of this decline in real incomes. More than three million U.S. manufacturing jobs have been lost since 1979, and more than 500,000 of those were in the fiber, textile and apparel manufacturing sector.

In November 1993, average weekly manufacturing wages were $500.15, compared with average weekly service sector wages of $355.88. Clearly, as higher-paying manufacturing jobs are replaced by service jobs that pay 29 percent less, American workers suffer losses in real income.

What is the primary cause of U.S. manufacturing job losses? A look at the textile industry helps answer that. During the 1980s, the period in which 560,000 U.S. fiber, textile and apparel manufacturing jobs were lost, annual textile and apparel imports into the U.S. nearly tripled. This industry is not alone; in 1991 and 1992, 12 of 21 U.S. manufacturing industries had trade deficits, including paper products, transportation equipment and electronics merchandise.

While we have been losing manufacturing jobs, the Pacific Rim region has been flourishing—fueled by an abundance of cheap labor, the lower safety and environmental standards in many of the region's countries, and exports to the U.S. and other nations.

Analysis of the labor that it takes to manufacture specific imported garments can tell us how many U.S. textile and apparel manufacturing jobs those imports cost us. In 1992, glove imports alone could have supported nearly 68,000 U.S. jobs and imports of women's slacks and shorts could have supported more than 180,000 U.S. manufacturing jobs. In total, analysis of 22 categories of garments imported in 1992 shows they could have provided more than 1,100,000 U.S. manufacturing jobs if they were made here.

In addition to the better-paying American jobs those imports could have provided if made here, American consumers would have enjoyed greater confidence in product quality: Research consistently shows that consumers believe U.S.-made textile and apparel products provide better quality, value and fit than imports.

American consumers should make a Made in U.S.A. label a primary requirement when shopping for clothing and home textiles. The U.S. "labor content" of what we buy must become more important if we are to arrest the decline in our standard of living.

Robert E. Swift is executive director of the Crafted with Pride in U.S.A. Council, headquartered in New York City.

Tower of power

Reese controllers land command honors

Two Reese air traffic controllers "towered" over their AETC counterparts in 1993, earning honors as the best in the command.

MSGT. Louis Calderon and TSgt. Michael Davis were chosen as the enlisted air traffic control manager and watch supervisor of the year, respectively.

Sergeant Calderon "hit the ground running" when he arrived, getting here just a few months before the spring AETC inspection of the wing. He immediately revitalized his flight's self-inspection program and targeted many areas for improvement. The flight scored high marks on the inspection, and the tower was later recognized as the facility of the year in AETC.

He was instrumental in regulation changes that resulted in greater sortie generation, which has enabled the wing to maintain an on-time departure rate well above the command standard.

He was also part of the negotiating team that put together a new procedures and coordination agreement between Reese and Lubbock's approach control. The New York native also worked closely with Federal Aviation Administration officials and airspace management in preparation for the Reese air show, helping make the event a success.

Sergeant Davis was also a key player in the high ratings the flight received on the Quality Air Force Assessment. In addition, he orchestrated the recovery of more than 200 imperiled aircraft during the year, helping prevent potential loss of life and aircraft.

Originally from St. Louis, Sergeant Davis is known to his superiors as a hard-working NCO, commonly found working after normal duty hours. His efforts were crucial to implementation of T-1A instrument procedures, according to unit officials.

Sergeant Davis also excelled in his role as mobility NCO for the flight.

He took over that position at a time when the flight mobility program needed improvement, and that's exactly what it got. After Sergeant Davis took over the program, a staff assistance team said, "The air traffic control flight has the best mobility program in the wing."

"Both of them are outstanding technicians and leaders," said Capt. Mike Woodlee, airfield operations flight commander. "They're very deserving of their awards."

Wing members earn AETC maintenance awards

Two wing members are winners in the AETC level of the Lt. Gen. Leo Marquez Awards for maintenance.

TSgt. Lloyd Tucker, 64th Logistics Squadron, and SrA. Ramon Guerrero, 64th Communications Squadron, won in the munitions technician and communication-electronics technician/helper categories, respectively.

Sergeant Tucker's superiors describe him as the "backbone of munitions support capability at Reese." A native of Texas, Sergeant Tucker's work enabled the munitions section to receive top ratings on the April 1993 command inspection, along with two "commendables."

By fully automating all the administrative tasks related to air munitions serviceability, he cut administrative man hours and increased productivity by 50 percent. He also was credited for his work in support of the wing flying mission, managing items used on 230 aircraft. There were no late deliveries under his management, and no aircraft were grounded due to a lack of aircraft parts.

In his free time, Sergeant Tucker works on his bachelor's degree, is an active member of the Make-A-Wish Foundation and is also a member of the LS Top 5 Council.

"Sergeant Tucker's accomplishments deserve recognition" said Maj. Melinda Edwards, LS commander. "He is one of our most dedicated and highly motivated NCOs."

Airman Guerrero's work in the meteorological and navigational work center helped ensure that more than $1 million in equipment are kept in top order, providing precision forecasting and accurate flight navigation for wing members.

Originally from California, Airman Guerrero was placed in a supervisory position in the METNAV work center when the NCO in charge left on a short-notice assignment in July. He ensured the center not only continued to meet requirements, but exceed them as well. As NCOIC, he totally reaccomplished the METNAV work center's training plan, increasing the upgrade time rate 20 percent. He also revamped the center's duty schedule, increasing uptime maintenance rates and eliminating unnecessary work hours on weekends.

His accomplishments aren't restricted to the work center. Quick reaction on his part was credited with minimizing losses when a car caught fire in his dormitory parking lot.

He is also very active in his off-duty time. He is an officer in the Civil Air Patrol, working extensively in the CAP's search and rescue efforts as well as their instructional programs. He also works with the Air Force Sergeants Association and Lubbock Meals on Wheels.

"Airman Guerrero is a true leader in the 64th Communications Squadron," said Capt. Frank Rossi, 64th CS commander. "His extraordinary skills as a technician, leader and communicator personify him as a quality Air Force airman."

Airman Guerrero works on a circuit board.

MEDGP offers after-hours service update

To better serve the base, the 64th Medical Group is updating wing members on the hours and availability of care.

The primary care clinic is open to wing members from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays and from 8 to 11:30 a.m. weekends and holidays. Appointments should be made by calling 3245. Of course, people should call 911 for emergencies.

When obtaining immediate medical/dental care when the clinic is closed, active-duty personnel on flying status should call 3515, if at all possible, before seeking other than emergency medical care. If unable to call, flight medicine should be notified at 3545 the next duty day.

If immediate medical care is needed and the primary care clinic is closed, all active-duty personnel (including those on flying status) should go to University Medical Center at 602 Indiana. Active-duty members who seek care at UMC should always identify themselves as active duty by presenting their military identification card.

All members who report to UMC must report to the alternative care office in the base hospital the next duty day with a copy of the civilian treatment record. All visits to UMC will be reviewed by the chief of hospital services for appropriateness.

An active duty member with a dental emergency must call 3515.

If an active-duty member is on leave out of town, he should go to the nearest military facility if it is an emergency (i.e. loss of life, limb or undue suffering) unless the distance is too great. In that case, civilian medical treatment is appropriate. Inform the facility at the time of treatment that all bills are to be forwarded to the closest military facility.

For non-active-duty members and dependents who need immediate medical care when the primary care clinic is closed, they should seek care at a civilian facility of their choice. All outpatient medical care received from a civilian source, including ambulance service that accepts the CHAMPUS allowable charge as their full fee for care, will be cost shared under the CHAMPUS program. This means the patient will pay 100 percent of the allowable charges until the deductible amount is met, then co-pay subsequent allowable charges.

All of the following hospitals in Lubbock accept CHAMPUS: Methodist Hospital, UMC, St. Mary of the Plains Hospital and Highland Medical Center. In addition, the following civilian hospitals have agreed to see CHAMPUS patients at a reduced charge of $20 when the primary care clinic is closed: St. Mary's, Highland and Methodist.

The charge is in effect for many routine diagnoses such as flu, strep throat and the like and will cover all facility costs, doctor fees, lab work, x-rays and limited medication. Diagnosis not falling in the preset categories will be subject to the normal CHAMPUS allowable costs for emergency room, doctor, lab work, and x-rays. Questions or a listing of exact diagnoses covered can be obtained at the CHAMPUS office, 6431.

Emergency and routine dental care for non-active-duty members and dependents should be arranged with a civilian dentist.

For more information, call the alternative care section at 6570.

CHAMPUS changes announced

by Elva C. Whitehead
Reese Health Benefits Advisor

Reese recently received a message from CHAMPUS in Aurora, Colo. Two significant changes in the CHAMPUS program have been delayed from their Jan. 1 implementation date:

□ The requirement for all providers to file claims for the beneficiary has been postponed indefinitely. Participating providers are still required to file claims for beneficiaries within one year from the date of service as of Jan. 1, 1994.

Non-participating providers, while not required to file the claims, may do so on behalf of the beneficiaries. If you see a participating provider or a non-participating provider, it is always the beneficiaries' responsibility to ensure the billing organization has filed the claim with CHAMPUS. If the claim has not been mailed to CHAMPUS, come to the hospital and fill out a yellow claim form, attach an itemized bill and mail to CHAMPUS in Madison, Wisc.

If CHAMPUS has not received the bill within one year from the date of service, the beneficiary will be responsible for paying the bill, including any late charges.

□ The 115 percent of CHAMPUS maximum allowable charge payment to non-participating providers has been delayed. This payment, usually called the CMAC, limits the amount a non-participating provider can charge the beneficiary. Until this program is implemented, non-participating providers may bill the beneficiary the difference between the CHAMPUS-allowed amount and the billed amount.

When possible, use participating doctors from our current health care finder list. These physicians will bill you only the deductible and the cost share amount, for allowed services, as indicated on your CHAMPUS explanation of benefits.

Please maintain all explanation of benefits for a minimum of two fiscal years. If there are any difficulties with billing or proper credit for your yearly deductible amount, these explanations will be used to prove your payments as well as your receipts from the facility or provider of care.

Announcement of new implementation dates will take place as soon as possible. For more information, call me at 3581.

Parenting classes on tap

Wing members can sign up now for a five-session workshop on "common sense parenting" at the Frenship Intermediate School. An introductory session will be held Monday from 6 to 8 p.m. The workshop sessions will be from 6 to 8 p.m. April 5 (covering foundations of parenting), April 19 (encouraging positive behaviors), May 3 (problem behaviors) and May 17 (encouraging communication).

Instructors for the workshops will be Dulleyn Alewine, family development specialist from the Reese Family Support Center and Kay Dyer, Reese Family Advocacy manager.

Parents wanting to learn new techniques, and Frenship Intermediate School mentors wanting to learn more about positive interaction with children, are encouraged to attend. Call Alewine at 6494 or Dyer at 3739 for information or to register.

SGLI premiums increase

WASHINGTON — For the first time ever, Servicemen's Group Life Insurance premiums are going up, but only by one penny per $1,000 of coverage.

Beginning July 1, $1,000 worth of coverage will cost 9 cents instead of 8 cents. That means the monthly premium for $100,000 of coverage will increase from $8 to $9, and the premium for the maximum level of coverage, which is $200,000, will increase from $16 to $18 per month, said Department of Veterans Affairs officials.

A premium of 9 cents per $1,000 is now needed to maintain the break-even point, officials said. The military personnel flight has more information on SGLI coverage, which is available to all active-duty members. SGLI does not discriminate on the basis of age, sex, personal life style, hobbies or vocation, officials said. Call 3276 for more information. (Air Force News Service)

OES improprieties checked

WASHINGTON — Reports of improprieties in the Officer Evaluation System promotion recommendation process are being investigated promptly and thoroughly, said Lt. Gen. Billy J. Boles, Air Force deputy chief of staff, personnel, here.

The general's comments come on the heels of recent allegations that errors similar to the one recently confirmed at Hanscom AFB, Mass., may have happened at other locations.

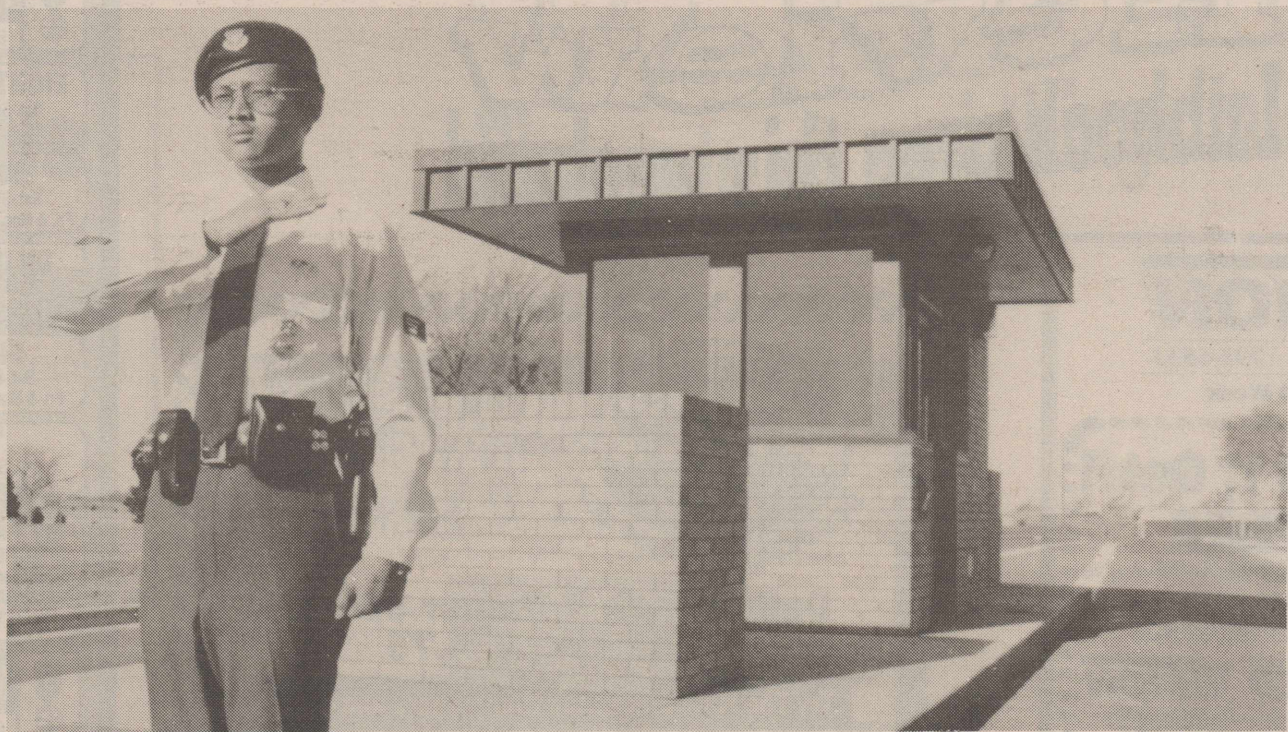

"We found cases where senior raters considered non-performance related information such as completion of advanced degrees, or used a board to rank-order eligible officers," General Boles said. Both actions violate the Air Force officer evaluation regulations, he said.

"I believe what we have are some lapses in a 'checklist discipline' where senior raters tried to 'help the system.' Nevertheless, we cannot afford inconsistencies in the promotion recommendation process. Our officers should and do expect perfection. Where that standard is not maintained, we owe it to them to find out what went wrong and then fix it — and we will." (Air Force News Service)

MPF name omitted

In the March 18 edition of the Roundup, the story about the Reese Military Personnel Flight contained a list of all flight members. In that list, one name was inadvertently omitted:

SrA. Kim Thurman, customer support.

Flying teams leading net action

52nd, 35th 'A' atop leagues

The 35th Flying Training Squadron "A" and 52nd FTS teams were leading the way in their respective leagues going into Thursday night action in the intramural volleyball league.

The 35th FTS "A" (3-0) and the 52nd FTS (4-0) were the only unbeaten squads left on base. Each team won their most recent matches, as the 35th FTS "A" beat the 64th Mission Support Squadron in two straight games March 17 in a battle for the National League lead.

The 52nd FTS downed the 64th Medical Group "A" Monday night in another 2-0 victory.

Both league leaders have close competition in the respective leagues. In the NL, the 35th FTS "A" hold a one-game lead over MSSQ (2-1) following the March 17 victory, while the 52nd FTS has a slim, half-game edge over the 64th Communications Squadron (4-1).

The communications squad won their Monday night match with the 35th FTS "B" team in straight games.

Other teams still in thick of the early season chase include the 64th Logistics Squadron (3-2 in the NL) and the 64th Security Police Squadron (2-2).

Updates

Runs planned

A flightline half-marathon will be held April 9 along with a 10-kilometer and two-mile fun run. Show time is 8:30 p.m. at the base picnic grounds; the runs get under way at 9 a.m.

The runs are free for Reese people and medals will be awarded to first-, second- and third-place finishers. Entry forms are available at the fitness center.

Call Gary Grant at 3783 for details.

Bowling schedule

Today: "Polyester panic" all day.

Saturday: Young American Bowling Alliance from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

"Poor boy" special at 1 p.m. — three games for $2.

Sunday: Open bowling from noon to 10 p.m.

Mixed league at 6:30 p.m.

Monday: Mixed league at 6 p.m.

Tuesday: Law enforcement league at 7 p.m.

Wednesday: Mixed league at 7 p.m.

Thursday: Industrial league at 6:30 p.m.

Locker verifications needed

The base fitness center is verifying locker assignments. Anyone with a locker assignment or who would like one should check with the center staff.
