WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is heading to Capitol Hill for his last State of the Union address, attempting to set an upbeat tone but offering no sweeping proposals for his remaining months in office.

Reagan appears before a joint session of the House and Senate for tonight's 9 p.m. EST speech, which will be nationally televised.

The president, aides say, will stick to tried-and-true themes from his seven-year tenure. He'll challenge Congress to drop partisan bickering and address what he considers the unfinished business of his administration.

But there will be no mention of the Iran-Contra affair that rocked Reagan's administration in 1987.

Offering a taste of his remarks in his Saturday radio address, Reagan said he wants to make sure the nation preserves "the economic growth of the past five years."

One White House official familiar with the speech said it reflects Reagan's approach to his final year at the nation's helm, calling it "upbeat, but realistic."

A — Jack Murphy Stadium, named after a San Diego sports writer who successfully lobbied for its construction, was built in 1967. Balboa Stadium still exists, but Jack Murphy Stadium did replace it as the home field for the San Diego Padres, San Diego Chargers and the San Diego State University football team, the Aztecs.

Dallas policemen angry over death of fellow officer

DALLAS (AP) — Police officers were angered by reports that a crowd urged a deranged man to shoot a policeman who died pleading for his life, and some officers charged that criticism by politicians undermined support for law enforcement.

"I think I can speak for a lot of officers. We feel abandoned," Dallas policeman J.C. Harris said Sunday, a day after officer John Chase was killed by a homeless man with a history of mental illness.

Witnesses said some onlookers encouraged the man to kill the policeman while the officer pleaded for his life.

The annual premium sale Saturday for the Scurry County Junior Livestock Show earned $59,655 for its young competitors.

The grand champion steer, entered by Terry Stephens, earned a $1,600 bid from the Championship Club; and the reserve champ, entered by Jessica Eicke, went for $1,125 to Snyder National Bank.

In the pig competition, Brent Withers' grand champion brought $750 from the Championship Club; and Brendon Blair's reserve champ earned $475 from bidders Nix's Auto and the Hair Station.

The grand champion lamb, shown by Rodney Foster, received an $800 bid from B&B Package of Colorado City; and the reserve, shown by Ben Smith, earned $525 from West Texas State Bank.

Under rules of the sale, the animals are donated back to the exhibitor by the bidders. In all, 119 animals went up for bid. This included 26 calves, 51 barrow pigs and 42 market lambs.

Youngsters earning cash awards for their show animals included:

INF ratification...

Shultz testifies before Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz assured the Senate today the Reagan administration would "react vigorously" if the Soviet Union appeared to be violating a treaty banning U.S. and Soviet intermediate-range nuclear missiles.

Shultz led off the administration's drive for Senate approval of the treaty with a 48-page statement. It declared that the security of the United States and its NATO allies would be bolstered by the treaty signed last month by President Reagan and Soviet Communist Party General Secretary Mikhail S. Gorbachev at their Washington summit.

Critics have questioned the wisdom of the proposed withdrawal of American Pershing 2 and ground-launched cruise missiles from Western Europe's nuclear shield, and contend that the treaty's safeguards against cheating are inadequate.

Shultz, testifying before the opening session of Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearings, said the Intermediate-range Nuclear Forces or INF treaty actually strengthens U.S. and allied security.

"It enhances international stability. It may be opening a new chapter in arms control — the beginning of reductions," Shultz said.

The treaty provides that within three years of ratification, both countries would finish eliminating all their nuclear missiles with ranges of 315 to 3,125 miles. These weapons account for about 4 percent of their nuclear armories.

County board has appointee

Scurry County commissioners Monday morning appointed Mrs. Albert Lewis to the county welfare board.

Albert Lewis, baseball coach and teacher at Snyder High School, had accepted the appointment, but declined because the board's meeting times would conflict with baseball games scheduled this spring, County Judge Bobby Goodwin said.

Lewis said his wife, Daisy, would be willing to serve, Goodwin said, and Commissioner C.D. Gray Jr. nominated her in the brief 10 a.m. meeting.

No other business was conducted other than the approval of minutes and paying bills.

WTC roofing project, farm land on agenda

Western Texas College trustees Monday night will open bids for a proposed extensive campus re-roofing project and will consider buying land for use as a college farm.

The trustees last month had lengthy discussions related to the roofing project and decided to seek bids for two alternatives, completing the work in phases and completing it all at the same time.

Initial projections for the roof repairs have ranged as high as $300,000.

College trustees have also recently conducted several executive sessions to discuss purchasing property for a farm. This consideration is now listed as an action agenda item Monday.

The land would be used by WTC students enrolled in ag courses offered through the college. This past fall, the college lost its lease on property it had used for this purpose.

Other items on the 5:45 p.m. Monday agenda include the regular monthly report from Dr. Harry Krenak, college president.

Pole struck, driver hurt

A 23-year-old Snyder woman was hospitalized overnight Saturday following a one-car accident west of Ira in which the vehicle struck and leveled a telephone pole before overturning twice.

The Department of Public Safety reported that Jane Ann McCarty of Rt. 1, Snyder, was westbound on FM 1606 two miles west of Ira when her 1978 Nissan two-door went out of control and through the telephone pole.

Officers speculate the wreck occurred about 10:30 p.m. Saturday.

Auction exceeds $2 million

HOUSTON (AP) — One successful bidder at the auction of former Texas Gov. John Connally at first tried to deny he had paid $8,000 for a pair of 14-karat gold and diamond cuff links.

Then he relented and admitted he had purchased the jewelry Sunday, on the third day of a spirited four-day auction, as a gift. He said the purchase was worth it because of the historical value of the cuff links.

The investor asked for anonymity. "I'll have every charity in the world calling me," he said.

Others, however, were anxious to talk about their purchases and their support of the Connallys.

Anne Davidson, a Houston investments manager, said she bought a sterling cigarette box for $1,700 because "it's beautiful" and because it is inscribed with the words, "John B. Connally, Secretary of the Navy."

"It has real value," said Ms. Davidson, adding she would have kept bidding "as long as it took."

About 1,600 bidders were on hand for Sunday's auction.

More than $1.2 million was collected in the first two days of the auction at Hart Galleries. Buoyed by staggering prices on many items, Sunday's sales in the four-day auction of John and Nellie Connally's personal belongings and that total was equaled on Sunday alone as Connally and his wife battle back against debts that forced him into bankruptcy last year.

After a break today, the auction's last day will be Tuesday.

Connally, 70, filed personal and business bankruptcy petitions in July. He listed liabilities of $93 million, although he said his debt now is about half of that.

Connally, Navy secretary in the Kennedy administration and Treasury secretary under President Nixon, started a real estate and development business with former Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes at the peak of the oil boom.

After the boom went bust, it took Connally, Barnes and others in tow.

Under bankruptcy rules, Connally, who served as governor of Texas from 1963-69, is selling all properties except his house and 200 of the 3,400 acres at Picoso Ranch, his homestead in Floresville south of San Antonio.

Some bidders complained Sunday that prices had gotten out of hand, but others said the figures drawn by the various household belongings, art works and other Connally treasures are an accurate measure of the esteem with which the couple is held.

"I think it has a lot to do with a man who has the nerve to go through all of this," said Clive Watson, a spokesman for Hart Galleries.

Linda McDonald and her husband won an extended bidding war for a 5-piece sterling tea and coffee service.

"He's somebody my husband and I admire a great deal," Mrs. McDonald, who paid $6,000 for the service, told The Houston Post. She said she would have continued bidding as long as it took to get the service.

Connally and his wife were scarcely noticeable Sunday, sitting among friends in the second row of the River Oaks-area gallery. Connally rose once during the afternoon to explain the background of an expansive mural that was being auctioned but made few other public comments.

Escape systems are studied by NASA

HOUSTON (AP) — NASA is studying two escape systems for future space shuttle flights to avoid any Challenger-type accidents, officials said.

Ejection seats and a concept called "seated extraction" are the two systems being studied. The difference is in how the astronauts get out.

Explosive charges would shoot ejection seats to safety with the occupants strapped in them, while extraction would pull crew members from their seats with small rockets.

NASA this month asked the orbiter's prime contractor, Rockwell International, to estimate the cost and weight of both alternatives.

William Chandler, manager of crew escape systems for the shuttle orbiter, said he hopes to make a recommendation in September to shuttle program manager Arnold Aldrich.

Both systems being studied would significantly increase the number of possible emergencies a crew could survive, but installing them requires major reconstruction, ranging from enlarging an existing escape panel to slicing off the roof of the shuttle's cabin, a Johnson Space Center manager said.

"It would probably put each (shuttle) vehicle down for a year, to 18 months," Chandler said. "If they're used at all, it would be five years from now, probably."

The agency has considered both systems previously along with a self-contained crew module thought to be the best way to save shuttle astronauts from a catastrophic launch. NASA concluded the module weighs too much.

Ejection seats require a larger hatch and stronger seats than extraction. Either method needs a new hole in the cabin, Chandler said.

"Frankly, anything we do from this point on becomes a major change," he said. "It's kind of like going in and making an addition to an existing house."

Rockwell built the first shuttle, Columbia, with ejection seats.

Dear Abby

Sexual Experimentation Still Is Given the Old College Try

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to all those parents who are shocked at the "sexual promiscuity" going on in college dorms. I am currently a senior at the University of California-Davis and I've been through the whole dorm scene. Although I would not deny that there has been a marked decline in college morals, do these parents actually believe that college dorms are the first place their "children" were exposed to sexual promiscuity?

Most kids have experimented with drugs, drinking and sex in high school. Some even started in junior high and grade school.

If parents of college students are concerned, I suggest that they are about 10 years too late. Morals and ethics are taught in the home, and no amount of college regulation and policing will control an already promiscuous student.

ROBERT AT DAVIS

DEAR ABBY: You were generous to give an entire column to parents who were horrified to find their college kids were living in a "brothel atmosphere." They blamed the colleges for not having stricter rules. Abby, when you said, "Parents cannot expect college authorities to assume guardianship of their children's sexual behavior," you were right on the money.

I am a sophomore in a small liberal arts college. Sure, sex and alcohol are available for those who want to go that route. But there are plenty of students who do not go wild just because they no longer have Momma and Daddy looking over their shoulders.

If parents have given their children the proper upbringing, they won't have to worry about them being corrupted at college.

SUZIE Q

DEAR ABBY: I had to smile when I read all those letters from parents who were upset because their children were not properly supervised at college.

Don't they realize that 18-year-olds are legally adults, and free to make their own decisions? Their letters would have one believing that college sex, partying and underage drinking are something new.

When I graduated from college 15 years ago, those things went on in the back seat of a car on a lonely country road.

I agree with your statement: "If young adults are inclined to fool around, they will find a way to do it on their lunch hour." By the way, so will old adults!

COLLEGE EDUCATED, TUCSON

DEAR ABBY: Just because someone is still "in school" doesn't mean he or she is immature. I have been in coed dorms where the signs on bathrooms read: "Please Knock." These signs were put there by the students — and they are respected. I lost my virginity at a "good Christian college" that had separate dorms for men and women. They had a strict no-alcohol policy and restricted visitation. Obviously, if some people want to break the rules, they will find a way.

TULSA

DEAR ABBY: In response to the furor of outraged parents who feel that college dorm life has become infested with booze, drugs, wanton sex and general chaos: Parents should not worry. If their child was raised in accordance with the lifestyle they support, then the "wildness" of dorm life will not erase those values. Instead, the dorm-life experience will help him or her to grow into an adult who is capable of dealing with the real world that must be faced after college has ended.

ANN MATHISON, STANFORD SOPHOMORE

DEAR ABBY: You have had many letters in your column about the lack of moral supervision in college dorms. I hope you won't mind one more.

Nine years ago, I entered one of the top universities in the country. I will never forget the morning all the new residents of my freshman dorm were gathered together to learn how to live harmoniously in our coed dorm.

For openers, the resident adviser said, "You may drink whatever you wish, smoke whatever you like, and sleep with whomever you desire, but PLEASE DO NOT PLAY WITH THE FIRE EXTINGUISHERS." DISILLUSIONED

Soviet scientists arrive in U. S.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A team of Soviet scientists spent the night in a posh hotel-casino in downtown's Glitter Gulch before heading for the top-secret Nevada Test Site in a visit that could be a prelude to a nuclear test ban.

Igor Palenykh, leader of the 20-member delegation said on arrival Sunday night he hoped the visit would be the first step toward the goal of "limiting and eventually stopping all nuclear testing."

"We have instructions from the top leaders of our countries to continue the work begun at the summit last month," Palenykh said of last month's meeting between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

Baptists worried about non church going Texans

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The church is having less and less influence on legislation and other facets of life in the state, say worried leaders of Texas Baptist congregations.

"The secular population, not the Christian population, is influencing the state," said Carol Childress, a research and program consultant for the Baptist General Convention of Texas. "All you have to do is look at what has happened: the gambling legislation, the abolition of Sunday blue laws."

The growing number of Texans not affiliated with a church was a main topic at the Texas Baptist Evangelism Conference, which met last week in Fort Worth.

About half the state's population, or 8.5 million people are not church members, according to statistics from the Glenmary Research Center in Atlanta.

Many of Texas' residents now are people from non-Bible Belt areas of the United States, immigrants from Mexico and Central America, Hispanics and an influx of people from the Middle East, Southeast Asia, the Far East and other parts of the world, another leader said.

"The mission field has moved to us," said Don Lewis, director of church mission development for the Tarrant Baptist Association.

The state's population grew by 2.3 million from 1980 to 1985, Childress said. A survey of the church groups in Texas that included Baptists indicated an increase of 50,000 in church membership during the same period.

Conference attendees launched several programs to bolster religious influence, including a plan to build 2,000 new churches in Texas by 1990. A similar program begun in 1985 has resulted in about 800 new congregations, said the Rev. D.L. Lowrie, director of the State Missions Commission for Texas Baptists.

"History tells us that when we were busy starting new churches, we had good growth. We are convinced Texas Baptists will continue to grow through the rest of this century through this program," Lowrie said.

Baby abandoned on doorstep

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Officials at Children's Protective Services of Lubbock say they will seek emergency custody of an abandoned newborn baby girl found on a Lubbock social worker's doorstep.

Moe Dozier, program director at CPS, said a petition will be presented today to Lubbock County Court Master Paula Lanehart for custody of the child, who Beth Anderson of Lubbock found on her doorstep Friday evening.

The naked baby was wrapped in a towel with her umbilical cord attached, Ms. Anderson said.

Ms. Anderson used to work at Women's Protective Services in Lubbock and believes the baby may have been left by a woman who at one time sought help at the shelter.

"I really think it was either somebody very young — like a teenager — or somebody who has had one or two children already and was having a tough time making it," Ms. Anderson said. "Whoever it was, the woman knew I would take care of the baby."

Ms. Anderson took the baby to Lubbock General Hospital, where she was listed in good condition Sunday night.

If the petition is granted, Dozier said, the state agency will receive temporary management conservatorship of the child.

"We need to try to find out as much information as we can about this kiddo," Dozier said. "The court can give us up to 10 days while we complete our investigation. Then, if we think the child should remain with us, we can get conservatorship for another six months."

Ms. Anderson said officials of the children's state agency will not allow anyone — including herself — to see the newborn until the court determines who has custody.

Hospital officials must abide by CPS's request, Ms. Willingham said.

"There are a lot of legal implications involved, and until those are cleared up, there's not much we can do," she said. "It would be wonderful public relations, but we cannot do anything — or say anything — until we see where we are legally."

Lubbock police and CPS officials are trying to locate the girl's parents.

"There is a criminal offense here; abandoning and endangering a child," said police Lt. James Kimber. "We'll try to determine who the parents are, but it's not easy."

CPS officials indicated that the agency will try to terminate the parents' rights to the child if she is not claimed within 30 days.

Officials at three Lubbock hospitals said there no one had been admitted during the weekend with post childbirth symptoms.

No MAD backing for candidates

DALLAS (AP) — The Mexican American Democrats say the failure of any of the party's presidential hopefuls to win the group's endorsement means the field of candidates must continue to answer issues for Hispanics.

The most important issue is a jobs bill to increase employment in South Texas, said Norberto "Beto" Salinas, chairman of MAD.

Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis earned a plurality from 3,000 delegates attending the MAD convention over the weekend. But an endorsement required a two-thirds vote, a difficult task because of the number of candidates.

The party's seven candidates divided up more than nearly 60 percent of the voting delegates. A minimum of 2,018 of the 3,028 delegates was required to win.

"This means the Hispanic vote is still up in the air. It's up for grabs," said Salinas, a Hidalgo County commissioner. "This convention doesn't get any of the candidates off the hook because it sends out a signal that they must work hard for the Hispanic vote."

Dukakis captured 1,185 votes, or 38 percent, while the Rev. Jesse Jackson won 645 votes, or 21.7 percent.

Mary Alice Cisneros, wife of San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros, a Dukakis supporter, said she was pleased with the voting results.

"There is strength for Dukakis to receive the highest number of supporters from the MAD convention," said Mrs. Cisneros. "With the number of candidates

Overcoming a bad break

By James Jacoby

A careful declarer takes nothing for granted, unless his name is Willy Nilly. That worthy won the ace of spades and immediately played a low diamond and ducked it. East's seven-spot won that trick, and East led a trump. Willy won the ace, played ace and ruffed a diamond, and trumped a spade back to his hand. But when he played the second high trump, disaster struck. West had a sure trump trick, the defenders had already taken one diamond trick, and East held on to his Q-J-9 of clubs to eventually score two club tricks to set the contract.

Willy would have been successful if he had provided for the possibility that he might just need to score all of his small trumps by ruffing. At the second trick he should ruff a spade and then play a low diamond. Whatever the opponents do next, declarer would be able to play ace of diamonds, ruff a diamond and trump another spade. Playing the high trumps would disclose the defender's trump trick, but Willy would get to dummy with the club ace to ruff the last spade. That would be 10 tricks and the defenders would have to play two winners on the 13th trick, the jack of hearts and a high club.

The defenders could have done better looking at all 52 cards. If West opens a trump away from the jack and then plays a second heart when he gets on lead with the king of diamonds, declarer comes up a trick short.

Aggies join others in defeat as Houston pulls off shocker

by The Associated Press
Houston Coach Pat Foster could see a familiar pattern developing in the closing minutes of Sunday's Southwest Conference game against Texas A&M.

His team had lost five of its six games this season by seven or fewer points, and the Aggies were closing in with the final seconds ticking away in Hofheinz Pavilion.

"I was beginning to have visions of some of those games we lost on 20 percent shots," Foster said. "But now that we have a full team, we have a chance to improve drastically."

The Cougars held off the Aggies' late surge for a 67-63 victory that dropped A&M from the unbeaten ranks into a tie with Arkansas for the league lead, each with 4-1 records.

Foster has been juggling his lineup because Randy Brown quit the team briefly and Horace Chaney sat out Tuesday's 69-65 loss to Southern Methodist because of scholastic questions.

Chaney was back on Sunday and was one of five Cougar starters who scored in double figures.

"Horace (Chaney) helped us more on defense than offense," Foster said. "It feels a lot better now with a full crew."

"It's been tough to lose by two, three or four points with either (Randy) Brown or Chaney out."

The Aggies, 12-7 for the season, trailed 36-26 at the half based on a 14-3 Houston surge over the final 6:37 of the half. During that streak, Upchurch scored 10 of his 18 points.

The Aggies cut the gap with a 10-2 spurt to start the second half, but the Cougars never lost the lead.

The Aggies still had a chance when James McGhee hit a 3-point basket with 12 seconds to play but Rolando Ferreira's two free throws with eight seconds to play, ended the comeback hope. "We didn't play together as a team," Aggie guard Darryl McDonald said. "I think they were out-hustling us. They tried to 'body' us and make us play harder and we weren't ready for it."

In games Saturday, Baylor defeated Rice 84-68; Southern Methodist beat Texas Tech 80-75 and Texas beat Texas Christian 74-56.

Baylor's Darryl Middleton scored a career-high 38 points, the most against a Rice team in two years, in leading the Bears past the struggling Owls.

"I was just hot tonight," Middleton explained. "One-on-one, there ain't no one in the conference that can stop me."

Middleton's performance was the most points scored against the Owls since Baylor's Carlos Briggs hit 41 points Feb. 27, 1985.

Todd Alexander provided the scoring punch for SMU in its victory over the Red Raiders, scoring 24 points, including four of six from the 3-point range.

The Mustangs hit 50 per cent of their shots from outside.

"I really thought their outside shooting was the difference," Tech Coach Gerald Myers said. "Their outside people just took over late in the game and showed how well they can shoot."

Texas snapped a 3-game losing streak in its victory over the Horned Frogs. Forward Alvin Heggs scored 18 points and had 10 rebounds to pace the Longhorns.

The Aggies will try to rebound at Texas Tech on Wednesday while Arkansas will travel to Rice. In other Wednesday games, Houston is at Baylor and Texas is at Southern Methodist.

On Saturday, SMU is at Texas Christian, Rice plays at Lamar, Houston is at Arkansas and Baylor is at Texas Tech.

Hass gets over nerves to claim Hope Classic

INDIAN WELLS, Calif. (AP) - Jay-Haas had his uncle, former Masters champion Bob Goalby, walking with him when he won the Bob Hope Classic.

But it was a much younger member of the family that helped Haas the most on Sunday as he ground out a 2-shot victory.

"I was nervous" early in the morning, Haas said, "and I called Jan (his wife). She put the kids on - I didn't know it but she told them I was nervous - and Jay Jr., he's 6, said 'why are you nervous, Daddy?'"

"I got to thinking about that. Why be nervous? I kept it in mind all day," Haas said.

His calm and composure were tested by the pressure of a narrow lead - "if you're back in the pack you don't have the fear of failure," Haas said.

WTC cagers play Clarendon tonight

CLARENDON -- Western Texas College basketball teams set up camp a few miles south of Oklahoma here tonight as they take on Clarendon College in a pair of WJCAC contests.

Both Western Texas and Clarendon women go into their 6 p.m. contest looking for a victory. The Lady Dusters of WTC lost in a non-conference game with Fort Hood last week while Clarendon dropped conference decisions to Odessa and Frank Phillips.

WTC's Dusters are 15-6 overall and 3-1 in conference play. Clarendon is 12-7 for the 1987-88 season and 2-3 in the WJCAC.

In the only other women's conference game tonight, New Mexico JC (9-11, 1-3) plays on the road at No. 4 ranked Odessa (20-2, 5-0).

Tiffany Thomas leads the Lady Bulldogs with 11.9 points and 4.1 rebounds a game. Pat and Pam Jackson average 10.3 points. Pat also averages 7.9 rebounds.

Western's Nickey Allen paces the Dusters with 15.0 points and 6.5 rebounds. Julie Roewe averages 9.5 points.

Westerner Coach Tony Mauldin considers tonight's 8 o'clock mens game a key one for WTC, which looks to improve on a 2-4 conference slate. The Westerners are 5-16 overall. Clarendon is 7-11 for the season and 1-6 in league play.

The game features two of the hottest players in the WJCAC. Western's Darrell Nelson is the second most prolific scorer in the conference, averaging 29.7 points a ballgame. He also averages 8.9 rebounds.

Clarendon will counter with Tommy French, whose 23.2 per-game scoring average is backed by .677 shooting from the field. French, who also hits 79 percent of his free throws, averages 9.2 rebounds.

Other standouts are WTC's

Bobby Spear (12.3 ppg., 7.9 rpg.), and CC's Vincent Samuels (6.9 rpg.).

In other men's games, New Mexico JC (18-3, 6-0) is in Odessa to play the 14th-ranked Wranglers (20-2, 7-0) in a clash of the conference's unbeaten; Frank Phillips (9-9, 1-5) plays in Midland (15-5, 4-3), and South Plains (14-5, 4-2) is in Roswell, N.M., to play New Mexico Military Institute (9-13, 1-6).

Herschel stands to collect big bucks for 1988 season

DALLAS (AP) - Running back Herschel Walker will make more than twice as much as any other member of the Dallas Cowboys in 1988 with total compensation of $1.8 million, The Dallas Morning News reported today.

The next highest would be quarterback Danny White, at $775,000 if he starts eight games, the newspaper reported today.

The salary figures, obtained from sources close to the team and in part from the NFL Players Association salary survey, show Walker, entering the third year of a five-year, $5 million guaranteed contract, will have a base salary of $800,000 and collect the final installment of his $1.4 million signing bonus.

Walker, who signed Aug. 13, 1986, after the rival USFL folded, has base salaries of $400,000, $500,000, $800,000, $900,000 and $1 million in addition to the $1.4 million signing bonus.

The Heisman Trophy winner from Georgia also received $400,000 of the bonus in 1987 and will get the final $1 million in 1988. Last season, Walker stayed on strike with the majority of his teammates and lost $125,000, or 25 percent of his $500,000 base salary.

Joyner proclaimed top female athlete of year

NEW YORK (AP) - Track and field star Jackie Joyner-Kersey, considered the finest all-around woman athlete since Babe Didrikson Zaharias, was named today The Associated Press Female Athlete of the Year for 1987.

The 25-year-old Joyner-Kersey, who equaled the world outdoor record in the women's long jump last year, was honored one day after sprinter Ben Johnson of Canada was selected Male Athlete of the Year.

In the nationwide balloting by 244 sports writers and broadcasters, Joyner-Kersey received 128 first-place votes, 68 seconds and 16 thirds for a total of 880 points, with points allotted on a 5-

3-1 basis.

Tennis player Steffi Graf of West Germany, winner of 11 tournaments, including the French Open, and winner of 75 of 77 matches in 1987, finished second with 806 points. She garnered 108 firsts, 82 seconds and 20 thirds.

Another tennis star, Martina Navratilova, the 1983 and 1986 athlete of the year who won the Wimbledon and U.S. Open titles last year, was a distant third with 10 firsts, 26 seconds and 54 thirds for 182 points.

Completing the top five were figure skater Katarina Witt of East Germany, with six first-places and 140 points, and pro golfer Ayako Okamoto of Japan, 68 points.

World record sprinter wins male athlete of year trophy

NEW YORK (AP) - Ben Johnson and his coach say the sprinter's world record of 9.83 seconds for the 100-meter dash, set last year, is just another mark to break.

"We're looking for something like 9.78 this year," Coach Charlie Francis said.

"I think that's reasonable," Johnson said. "I think I can run that fast."

Johnson's record time in the World Outdoor Track and Field Championships at Rome last summer, along with 20 victories in 20 other races, helped the Canadian win The Associated Press Male Athlete of the Year award Sunday night.

Johnson, the first Canadian track athlete to receive the honor in the award's 57-year history, was an easy winner in voting by 244 national sports writers and broadcasters. He received 48 first-place votes, 18 seconds and 28 thirds for a total of 322 points, with points awarded on a 5-3-1 basis.

Runner-up Jerry Rice, the San Francisco 49ers' wide receiver who set an NFL record with 22 touchdown receptions in only 12 games, finished exactly 100 points behind Johnson. Rice got 22 firsts, 26 seconds and 34 thirds for 222 points.

He was followed by Chicago's Michael Jordan, the NBA's leading scorer this season, with 206 points, including 24 first-place votes.

Magic Johnson of the Los Angeles Lakers, the NBA's most valuable player last season, also received 24 first-place nominations and tied for fourth place in the voting with Bo Jackson, who played baseball for the Kansas City Royals and football for the Los Angeles Raiders. Jackson got 20 first-place votes.

Heavyweight champion Mike Tyson also had 24 firsts, but finished ninth with 170 points. Last year's Male Athlete of the Year, Larry Bird of the NBA's Boston Celtics, got four first-place votes for 20 points.

The powerful Johnson, a native of Jamaica, will be honored by the Tampa Sports Club Feb. 26 at a banquet in Florida.

His world record performance came in the year's most important track and field meet, against the world's best sprinters, and earned him the title of "World's Fastest Human" and the world's No. 1 ranking in the 100 for the second consecutive year.

The time clipped one-tenth of a second off the previous world record of 9.93, held by Calvin Smith of the United States, in an event in which world records generally are broken by hundredths of seconds.

Candidates are asked about old problem: rural poverty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Assuming they survive the rigors and whims of Iowa and New Hampshire, the Gang of 13 will next descend upon the Sunbelt, where prudent politics demand they pay homage to the region's bright prospects and economic vitality.

But should they? Some Southern politicians and economists are urging the presidential candidates to focus instead on the "other South," which is rural and poor.

Last week in Homer, Ga., population 734, several members of Congress appealed for the presidential field to put aside the rose-colored glasses. "We're asking you," said Rep. Ed Jenkins, "to look at our rural areas, where plants have closed and farms have gone bankrupt."

The issue could give form and substance to the March 8 Southern regional primaries.

"The idea behind Super Tuesday may be panning out — not that anyone is going to nominate a favorite son, but that attention will be paid to special problems of the South," says George Autry, president of MDC, Inc., a Chapel Hill, N.C., research group that is studying the region's rural malaise.

MDC recently produced a statistical report, "What Y'All Ought to Know," to encourage the 13 presidential candidates to develop a strategy that will reduce economic disparity between urban and rural areas in the South.

Economic growth in the rural South has been running at just 2.4 percent, compared with 4.5 percent in urban centers. The unemployment rate is some 52 percent higher. Medical care barely exists in some areas, Autry says, and public transportation is practically nonexistent.

AP analysis

After a massive northward exodus during the 1950s and 1960s, hundreds of thousands of Southerners came home during the Sunbelt's explosive 1970s prosperity. But the bloom is already off the rose.

"If industrial recruiters are looking for cheap land and labor, they go overseas," says Autry. Although the farm crisis is past its peak, he says employment levels have not recovered and the exodus has begun again.

Are the candidates paying attention?

Democratic civil rights activist Jesse Jackson discusses rural poverty now and again, and Democratic Gov. Michael Dukakis of Massachusetts has been coming into the South to talk about rural economic development. Among the Republicans, Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas has been showing some interest in the subject.

Eight days ago, the Atlanta Constitution published the candidates' comments on the MDC report.

Dukakis would provide "a combination of loan funds, preferential capital and other assistance to businesses in small towns." Former Colorado Sen. Gary Hart proposes low-interest loans to invest in railroads, roads, bridges and waterworks and school buildings. Jackson calls for debt restructuring, soil conservation and affirmative action programs to help family farmers.

Among Republicans, Dole would use $1 billion in surplus commodities to fund a development program based on low-interest loans and grants for infrastructure improvements. Former Delaware Gov. Pete du Pont would phase out farm subsidies and use some of the funds to promote rural diversification. Former Secretary of State Alexander Haig would amend foreclosure rules to give farmers the right to rent back or repurchase their property.

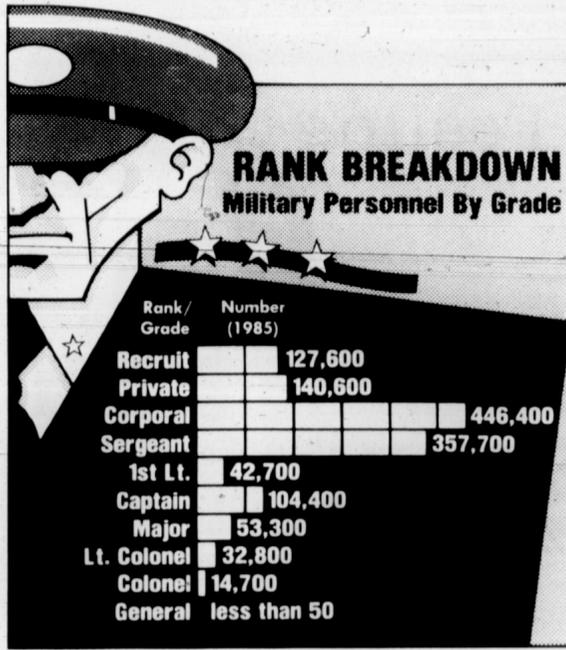

Vice President George Bush urges establishment of rural enterprise zones to target economic assistance funds, as does Rep. Jack Kemp of New York, who also would eliminate the capital gains tax in particularly depressed rural communities.

Former television evangelist Pat Robertson, a Republican, and Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., pledge an attack on illiteracy. Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., proposes "community tax base insurance" to maintain services in declining areas.

Former Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt would create a "business extension service" to work alongside the agricultural extension that has helped farmers for years.

Sen. Albert Gore Jr., D-Tenn., said small-town economic development would be a top priority but the regional favorite son provided no real specifics.

Crime spree ends in death

ONALASKA, Wash. (AP) — A tow truck driver abducted by two fugitives in a wild getaway attempt says the shoot-out that killed one of the kidnappers and a hostage was "a lifetime in two hours."

Authorities said the drug-using young abductors were suspected in a four-state crime spree dating back at least to Jan. 14, and were wanted for crimes in their home state of Wisconsin.

A suspect who survived Sunday morning's shoot-out remained in serious condition today with a gunshot wound in the neck, said a spokeswoman at Harborview Medical Center in Seattle.

"I saw a lot of lead fly," said Bob Matchett, 48, owner of Bob's Towing in Morton and driver of the last of at least four vehicles commandeered by the two men. Matchett escaped unscathed after grabbing a gun from the floor of the truck, jumping out and firing what witnesses said may have been the last shot.

Lewis County Sheriff Bill Logan said Sunday night that the two gunmen opened fire on the deputies, but it was too early to sort out what else had happened.

He refused to identify the hostages or say which of the gunmen had died, what weapons were seized, whether drugs were found and what weapons his deputies were carrying.

Matchett said the other hostage was Dana Bridges, 29, of Morton. She was dead on arrival at St. Peter Hospital in Olympia, said Becky Cant, a nursing supervisor.

Matchett said he didn't know who fired first, the men in his tow truck or the three sheriff's deputies who caught them when they stopped to seize more hostages.

Matchett said the shoot-out ended a chase in which he was forced to drive up to 85 mph through the Cascade Range foothills and hilly logging country. He called it "two hours of sheer agony ... a lifetime in two hours."

He said the abductors were smoking marijuana, and authorities in Oregon said those abducted earlier reported the pair drank beer and took a white powder, possibly cocaine or methamphetamine.

Before the chase, authorities had identified the two being sought as Robert Gerald Knott, 23, and Jeffery Duane Frost, 22.

Knott was flown to the Seattle hospital, said nursing supervisor Marilyn Adair. Frost apparently was the gunman who died at the scene, about 3 1/2 miles east of this southwest Washington town.

In Wisconsin, Portage County sheriff's Lt. Bob Pallen said

Frost was wanted for a probation violation, Knott was sought by Stevens Point police on a burglary warrant and both were wanted for failing to return a rental car in Plover earlier this month.

Matchett said his ordeal began when a friend, Cecil Bridges Sr., called him and said there were two men who needed a tow. When he arrived, he found his friend's family being held by the gunmen, who ordered him and Bridges' daughter-in-law into the truck.

Matchett said deputies caught up with his truck when the gunmen — "reacting in hysteria" — stopped to seize more hostages.

One deputy was treated after he was hit by bits of glass from a bullet-pierced windshield.

Police and FBI agents had been searching for the gunmen after a 42-year-old inkeeper, his 34-year-old wife and their 18-month-old daughter were abducted late Thursday from their coastal inn in Yachats, Ore.

All three were released before their abductors fled on foot Saturday morning in Morton, said acting Morton Police Chief Jim Fuller. The man and child apparently were uninjured, but the woman was raped, said sheriff's Sgt. Dwight Withrow.

Police said Knott and Frost had been sought for questioning in the Jan. 18 abduction of an Oregon man and for the Jan. 14 abduction of a Washington state couple in a motel room robbery near Beatty, Nev.

Manigat declared president; promises honest government

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Political scientist Leslie Manigat pledged to lead an honest government representing all sectors of Haitian society after being officially declared the country's new president.

A man who served as a police chief during the Duvalier dictatorship was declared the winner of the mayor's contest in Port-au-Prince.

Opposition leaders called the election a sham, and two defeated candidates said they would contest the results, announced Sunday.

"May everybody be reassured, I will be in power as president of all Haitians without distinction or exclusion, because I will be the man of reconciliation and national union," Manigat said Sunday night.

In a 10-minute address broadcast on state television and radio, Manigat called on all Haitians to "turn the page on their quarrels."

The junta-appointed Electoral Council announced that Manigat won 50.27 percent, or 534,080 votes, of the 1,061,916 cast in the Jan. 17 election.

The United States and Canada have criticized the election, and a U.S. State Department spokesman said it could not be considered "free and fair."

Election officials said 35 percent of the 3 million eligible voters took part in the election, but opposition leaders said the figures were inflated and estimated voter turnout at from 2 percent to 10 percent.

Irregularities noted by election observers, reporters, opposition leaders and the Roman Catholic Church included multiple voting, voting by minors and ballot-buying. On Saturday, the Haitian Bishops Conference, which sets policy for the influential Catholic Church, said the election was "not truthful."

Gerard Bissainthe, political coordinator for the Front for Concerted Action, an anti-government coalition, said: "Everything was counted in secret; nobody can guarantee the figures."

The Electoral Council also declared former police chief Franck Romain the winner in the election for mayor of Port-au-Prince, with nearly 80 percent of the vote. Romain has been accused of opponents by forcing children to watch the execution of dissidents during Duvalier's rule.

A university professor who taught in France, the West Indies and Venezuela during 23 years in political exile, Manigat, 57, has pledged to reconcile Haiti's powerful military with its vocal opposition. However, opposition leaders have called him an opportunist and government puppet.

Haiti's three-man ruling junta has promised to turn over power to an elected president Feb. 7. The junta, led by Lt. Gen. Henri Namphy, has ruled this impoverished Caribbean nation since Jean-Claude Duvalier fled to exile in France in February 1986, ending a 29-year family dictatorship.

Arab youths attack soldiers in West Bank

JERUSALEM (AP) — Hundreds of Palestinians clashed with Israeli soldiers in the occupied West Bank, and the prime minister ordered a top aide to the United States to respond to recent Middle East peace initiatives.

The attack, which occurred Sunday in the city of Ramallah, left two Arabs injured, one seriously. Several stone-throwing incidents were reported in and around east Jerusalem, where an Arab commercial strike persisted.

On Sunday night, a tourist bus was stoned outside the Arab village of Abu Gosh 20 miles west of Jerusalem, Israel radio reported. Police arrested three Arab suspects. Arab protesters, also smashed the front window of an Israel-owned bank in east Jerusalem.

No other violence was reported in the occupied territories, where riots began Dec. 8 when rumors spread that a traffic accident that killed four Palestinians had been planned to avenge the death of an Israeli businessman.

At least 38 Palestinians have been killed. Recently soldiers were ordered by the government to use beatings instead of bullets to control the rioting.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir dispatched a top aide to the United States to give Shamir's response to the peace initiatives, including proposals made by President Hosni Mubarak of Egypt who will visit Washington later this week.

Cabinet Secretary Elyakim Rubinstein, who was to leave for Washington today, also will prepare ground for Shamir's visit to the United States in March, said Yossi Ben-Aharon, director-general of Shamir's office.

"We should not expect a breakthrough in the next few days. But as calm is hopefully restored in the territories, the focus of events moves to the political arena," Ben-Aharon said on Israel Television.

Shamir responded Sunday to messages from Mubarak and King Hussein of Jordan that were brought to him by American Jewish Congress officials.

Avi Pazner, Shamir's spokesman, said the messages urged Shamir to endorse an international Middle East peace conference.

Pazner said Mubarak proposed setting the stage for talks with an Israeli promise to halt building settlements in the occupied lands in return for a Palestinian pledge to refrain from anti-Israeli violence for six months.

Pazner said Shamir explained his opposition to the international conference, and said he wanted to meet Mubarak and Hussein "face to face, openly or secretly, formally and informally, to discuss peace with them."

Shamir has said accepting the conference would be tantamount to agreeing to a Palestinian state and Israeli withdrawal from occupied lands, which his right-wing Likud Bloc opposes.

Ben-Aharon said Mubarak's plan was "unacceptable... (because) it puts rioters on the same level with the government of Israel."

Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher of West Germany on Sunday called on Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev and President Reagan to discuss the Arab-Israeli conflict during their summit later this year in Moscow.

Genscher met separately with Shamir, Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin and Foreign Minister Shimon Peres, Shamir's political rival in the coalition government and a supporter of an international conference.

Genscher also met with a group of Palestinian leaders from the occupied territories who called on him to pressure Israel to take part in an international conference.

Dallas police react to death

you wonder whether it's really worth it or not," Harris said.

Police Capt. John Holt said today that officials have been unable to identify any of the people who shouted "Shoot him" as the officer pleaded for his life. Holt didn't know what they could be charged with if they were found.

Police Chief Billy Prince blamed the shooting partially on recent criticism of police by Dallas City Council members who have attributed problems between the department and the community to racial tensions.

At the precinct where the 25-year-old Chase worked, flags were at half-staff Saturday. Inside, many officers were in tears, their badges masked with black tape.

A congressional committee met in Dallas last year to look into complaints by black leaders, including some council members, that police used excessive force on several incidents in which officers fatally shot blacks.

Chase was white and the man who shot him was black, but investigators said they knew of no motive for the Saturday shooting.

Relations between the police department and some city leaders were so strained Sunday that the head of the Dallas Police Association said Mayor Annette Strauss and council members Al Gonzalez, Diane Ragsdale and Al Lipscomb should not attend memorial services scheduled Tuesday morning for the slain officer.

This morning eight of the city's 11 council members gathered in the parking lot where the shooting occurred to show support for the police. Ms. Ragsdale and Lipscomb, who are black, did not attend.

"We've had a tragedy in this city, a tragedy that could have happened anywhere," said Mrs. Strauss. She blamed the shooting in part on the prison system and the problem of homeless people with mental illness.

She said any witnesses who had shouted "Shoot him" were "as sick as the suspect who did it."

A downtown march was planned for today by a citizens group that wants to show its support for the police.

Chase pleaded for his life before he was shot, Prince said at a news conference earlier, and added that witnesses indicated some in the crowd watching the incident urged the suspect to shoot the officer.

Hotel fires man for aiding victims

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP)

A man who carried an elderly man two blocks to safety during a fire was fired from his job at the Travelers Hotel because he refused to help in the cleanup effort, hotel officials say.

Rodney Feese, 51, said he returned to the hotel in downtown San Antonio after helping evacuees from a Sunday morning fire only to find his boss was angry.

"He was mad at me, saying I shouldn't have left the hotel," said Feese, who has worked as a maintenance man at the hotel for about three months.

"He said he didn't need me anymore," Feese told the San Antonio Express-News. "I told him I was helping some people, and he said I shouldn't have left."

Martin Vega, maintenance supervisor for the hotel, said later that Feese was fired because he refused to help in the cleanup work after residents were allowed to return to the hotel.

The hotel suffered smoke damage in the fire, which destroyed three businesses and caused an estimated $550,000 in damage.

"Everybody else was pitching in to help but he just wanted to stand around here and drink coffee," Vega told the newspaper.

Vega and Clark Gillespie, hotel manager, acknowledged that Feese helped evacuate four people. They said Feese was fired because he is not a reliable employee and not for leaving the hotel to help evacuate residents.

Feese said he was just getting to work Sunday morning when he saw the fire and smoke. He began helping guests leave the hotel.

"I carried one gentleman about two blocks. He can walk but he's real slow," Feese said.

Cut your own taxes and save

New law brings many changes

By Robert Metz and Sidney Kess

(First of 14 parts)

Taxpayers will be blessing (and cursing) Congress for years to come — beginning this year when they file their 1986 tax returns. This filing is the first one to be affected by the momentous Tax Reform Act of 1986. Some of the changes are being phased in gradually, beginning this year, others are already full-blown.

Here are the most important shifts in the tax law.

Tax rates — For 1987, the tax rates reflect a blending of the old rates in effect until March 15, 1987, and the new, reduced rates that took effect on that date. The top rate for individuals in 1987 is 38.5 percent. In 1988, the tax rate reductions are scheduled to become fully effective.

Capital gains — Long-term capital gains are now subject to the same tax rates as ordinary income. Under a special transition rule, the top rate on long-term capital gains for 1987 is set at 28 percent.

Income averaging — You may no longer reduce your tax by income averaging.

Personal exemptions — Personal and dependency exemptions have been increased to $1,900 this year. Individuals who are blind or over age 65 are no longer able to claim an additional exemption, but are permitted a larger standard deduction if they don't itemize deductions. Also, children and others who can be claimed as a dependent on another taxpayer's return may no longer claim a personal exemption on their own return.

Standard deductions — New, higher amounts replace the standard deductions as follows: for singles, $2,540; heads of households $2,540; on joint returns, the deduction is $3,760. Special rules apply for those age 65 and over or blind. The increase in the standard deduction means that many individuals no longer have to itemize deductions. This change simplifies record keeping and tax return preparation.

IRAs — Individuals who are active participants in qualified retirement plans may not deduct contributions to individual retirement accounts if their adjusted gross income exceeds $35,000 for singles or $50,000 on a joint return. Partial IRA deductions are allowed for singles with adjusted gross income between $25,000 and $35,000 and for those filing joint returns with adjusted gross incomes between $40,000 and $50,000. Note: Non-deductible contributions are permitted, and income earned on such contributions accrues tax-free.

Unemployment compensation — All unemployment compensation is

Kidney disease victim's name lives on in daytime TV drama

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A 21-year-old kidney transplant recipient who died before mailing a letter to her favorite soap opera has had a character on the program named for her by a screenwriter who lost a brother to kidney disease.

Jodi Butler wrote the letter to NBC's "The Days of Our Lives" in late September to point out a misleading statement by one of the characters concerning kidney disease, which also led to the death of Jodi's brother.

A few weeks later, on Oct. 25, the Brigham Young University junior died at the University of Utah Health Sciences Center of pneumonia and staph infection brought on by an immune system weakened by anti-rejection drugs.

Jodi's mother, Janet Butler, mailed the letter to the program, along with her daughter's obituary.

"I didn't know about the letter until her last day at the hospital. I was picking up her room and by her nightstand I found it," recalled Mrs. Butler, of Orem. "I thought Jodi would want that, so I did mail it."

Leah Laiman, the show's head writer, had lost a 13-year-old brother, Daniel, to kidney failure more than 20 years ago.

"Just as a gesture, I said I would name a character 'Jodi Butler' as a kind of little tribute to her," the New York-based writer said. "I thought had Jodi been alive, she would get a kick out of that."

In the character's first appearance last week, "nurse Jodi Butler" engaged in some friendly banter with a doctor. Mrs. Butler said she looks forward to viewing a videotape of the show supplied by NBC.

"It was a beautiful and generous gesture," Mrs. Butler said. "Yes, she would have gotten a kick out of it, as hospitals had been a central part of Jodi's life for so many years."

The family's tragedy was compounded six weeks after Jodi's death, when her 26-year-old brother, Kurt, died of kidney failure following a transplant in Los Angeles.

"It was and is a rough time for us," Mrs. Butler said. "But my feeling is and always has been that our kids didn't die in vain, even though they suffered so much over the years."

Janet and her husband, Lavar, have four surviving children, two boys and two girls. None has developed kidney disease.

Jodi, who had dreamed of becoming a veterinarian, had struggled with kidney disease since early childhood. She had her first kidney transplant at age 10. Her second, in 1981, worked well until two years ago when she again "began going downhill," her mother said.

Unable to regularly attend school, she passed a high school equivalency examination. At age 16, she entered Brigham Young University, where she earned academic honors in animal sciences.

Though Jodi died before achieving her goal to become a veterinarian, Mrs. Butler said the letter showed that her daughter died feeling successful.

In her letter, Jodi took the character "Dr. Mike Horton" to task for ignoring the option of a transplant when counseling a kidney patient about dialysis.

Jodi's letter also proudly noted her academic accomplishments and her enthusiasm for veterinary science.

"Our family had often agonized over whether the suffering Jodi endured during her long illness had outweighed her satisfactions," Mrs. Butler said. "After reading Jodi's letter... we had an answer to our questions."

Police disarm 14-year-old

DALLAS (AP) — Only a few hours after she stood guard beside the coffin of her former partner, a Dallas Police officer found herself looking into the muzzle of a loaded pistol held by a 14-year-old boy, authorities said.

Officer Janice Crowther, 26, was investigating a report Sunday that some young boys were throwing rocks when she was confronted by the gun-toting youngster.

Police said Crowther, former partner of officer John Chase, who had been shot to death by a transient in downtown Dallas Saturday, drew her pistol, but held her fire when the boy took his finger off the trigger and dropped the weapon.

Two infections may be related

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband has experienced a shrinking in one of his testicles. Two urologists have told him it is epididymitis. Antibiotics have not changed the condition. I also have frequent urinary tract infections. Could we have chlamydia?

DEAR READER: Epididymitis is inflammation of the tube that carries sperm from the testicle to the penis. Sometimes the infection is difficult to cure with antibiotics and may cause some shrinking of the testicle. However, it rarely causes problems with sexual arousal and ability.

Your husband's epididymitis and your urinary infections may be related. You should check with your gynecologist about this.

Chlamydia are microorganisms that behave like bacteria and cause infection of the cervix and urinary passage. This infection is one of the most common sexually transmitted diseases. Again, your gynecologist can examine you for chlamydia and, if necessary, prescribe medicine.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Six weeks before my due date I developed placenta previa and lost the baby. What causes this condition? I had no problems until then.

DEAR READER: When a fertilized egg attaches to the uterine lining and starts to grow, it usually does so in a position that will not block the uterine opening. However, in about one out of every 1,500 pregnancies, the placenta attaches at or near the cervical opening or mouth of the womb. This is called placenta previa and is the most common cause of painless bleeding in the first trimester of pregnancy because, as the cervix widens, partial separation of the placenta from the uterus can occur.

Women can have either partial or total placenta previa. If the obstruction is total, Caesarian section is the only way to deliver the baby. In some cases, the bleeding is so severe that the woman's life is endangered unless surgery is performed, regardless of the age of the fetus.

For unknown reasons, some women seem to be particularly susceptible to placenta previa; in fact, the possibility increases with each pregnancy, from one in 1,500 to one in 20 after many pregnancies. The condition can be diagnosed by ultrasound. If bleeding is not severe early in pregnancy, complete bed rest may lessen the possibility of hemorrhage.

If you have questions about MENO-PAUSE, you can get answers in Dr. Gott's new Health Report on the subject. Send $1 to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to ask for the Health Report on Menopause.

Contamination closes chemical plant

DALLAS (AP) — All 37 employees of Ashland Chemical Co.'s electronic chemicals packaging plant are being tested for exposure to low-level radiation believed to have leaked from air guns used to eliminate static, officials said.

An additional 90 Ashland employees in Easton, Pa., also are being checked, the company said.

"Our employees are our primary concern here and the tests are being done to ensure that their health is not affected in any way," Ashland spokesman Peter Loscocco said Sunday night.

The two plants, which bottle acids used in the manufacture of semiconductors, will remain closed during testing and cleanup, Loscocco said.

As the tests continued today, a two-man team from 3M Corp. headquarters in St. Paul, Minn., sought to determine how the ceramic microspheres leaked from the air guns leased by Ashland, 3M spokesman Dennis Mick said from the 3M Static Control Systems Division in Austin.

"Their primary concern is going to be a better understanding of why this material seems to have come loose," Mick said Sunday.

The radiation leak was discovered Saturday night after officials checked equipment similar to that involved in radiation leaks found Thursday at Ashland's facility in Easton, 60 miles north of Philadelphia, Loscocco said.

Loscocco said the company immediately notified the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and the Texas Bureau of Radiological Health of the presence of the contamination at the Dallas facility.

A third Ashland facility, in Newark, Calif., showed no contamination, a spokesman for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission said Sunday.

NRC Region 1 spokesman Karl Abraham said the radioactive ceramic microspheres, smaller than a grain of sand, would probably pass through the body if they remained intact.

'Super collider' worries some residents

RED OAK, Texas (AP) — Residents in Ellis County are asking a multi-million dollar question: "What is the 'super collider'?"

The best answer to date is that the super collider is a giant atom smasher that is promising hundreds of jobs and a huge payroll to its host state, but will require the state to borrow at least $500 million to help build.

Some area residents are concerned about the prospect of having the expensive — or lucrative — mystery project in their backyard, while others say they're simply confused by the federal research project touted as the biggest single scientific research instrument ever.

"I have no earthly idea what it does," said Billy Hefflin, 51, manager of Knox Fuel Stop on Interstate 35 in Red Oak, 15 miles south of Dallas. "Does it break up comets or something?"

An Ellis County site is one of seven finalists for the $4.4 billion super collider, to be built in an oval tunnel 52 miles in circumference beneath pastures and farmland. Passing near Red Oak, Bardwell and other small county towns, it could displace homes and businesses.

It would be used to engineer collisions between atomic particles at ultra-high speeds.

Dale Biggs, a 58-year-old contractor who lives near Red Oak, said he thinks he knows what the super collider would do and what the benefits could be.

"It will break down atoms to try to determine what the most basic matter is," he said. "And if they can solve that puzzle, they can make clothes that will last a lifetime and thin plastics as strong as steel."

Biggs knows of other benefits if the atom smasher is built in Ellis County. He said he has a $120,000 house he'd like to sell to one of the scientists who would move to the area.

"I'd like to get out from under the payments," he told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.
