Reagan won't throw Meese to 'lions'

Attorney general under criminal investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is concerned about a criminal investigation of Attorney General Edwin Meese's role in an Iraqi oil pipeline project, but the president isn't about to throw his longtime friend "to the lions," a White House official says.

White House chief of staff Howard Baker said Sunday that the president continues to support Meese, one of Reagan's closest associates since his days as governor of California.

"He continues to have full confidence in his attorney general," Baker said. "I see no reason on earth for the president to take any action unless and until it's made to appear that Mr. Meese has done something wrong."

A close friend of Meese, E. Robert Wallach, had a financial interest in the Iraqi project and sent the attorney general a memo citing a plan to pay off a top Israeli official in return for a guarantee that Israel would not bomb the pipeline, sources close to the investigation have confirmed. The sources spoke on condition they not be identified.

The 1977 Foreign Corrupt Practices Act generally forbids companies and individuals from making payments to foreign government officials to secure help in obtaining or retaining business. Under that act, the attorney general is responsible for prosecuting American citizens or companies that try to bribe foreign officials.

James Rocap, an attorney for Meese, has said the attorney general had only a limited involvement with the project and "did not approach any Israeli official with respect to the pipeline matter."

But today's New York Times quotes an unidentified source who said Meese wrote a letter in 1985 to Shimon Peres, who was prime minister of Israel, after Peres had written to Meese expressing Israeli support for construction of the pipeline. The Times said it could not be learned what Meese said in his letter to Peres.

The Times on Sunday had reported that the independent counsel probing the matter told White House officials that Meese had played "an important and sustained role" in the $1 billion Iraqi pipeline project, which never came to fruition.

Baker, appearing on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation" and in comments to reporters later, refused to comment on the details of the investigation.

Cable TV franchise transfer before city council Monday

A request to transfer the local cable television franchise will be before Snyder city council members Monday at their regular February meeting.

The session will begin at 6:30 p.m. at city hall.

The transfer would see the franchise operating agreement pass from SCAT to a group calling itself Snyder Cablevision Associates L.P.

The group is associated with Landmark Cablevision which operates in Colorado City. Other West Texas cities in which the group operates cable systems include Littlefield and Levelland.

The proposed sale of SCAT was discussed by the council at a work session held Jan. 26. At that time, a representative of Snyder Cablevision said his company currently projects an addition of 12 "basic service" channels plus added features for the "premium" option to include the addition of the Cinemax movie channel and the Disney Channel.

Along with this would be a rate increase, estimated for the basic service at $16.95 from the current rate of $11.24.

The council faces also eight other "new business" items Monday. These include:

—Considering the renewal of a contract for an outdoor sign located adjacent to I-20 which advertises Snyder as the "scenic route" to Carlsbad Caverns. The cost of the sign is now shared with the Carlsbad, N.M. Chamber of Commerce.

—Hearing a report from the city engineer related to future capital improvement projects in the city.

—Considering the appointment of a professional engineering firm to represent the city for such projects.

—Considering a contract with See COUNCIL, page 8

17 newspaper staff members taken hostage

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — Three people took 17 newspaper staff members hostage today to protest what they called unfair law enforcement in Robeson County, witnesses said.

"We're all in one room as hostages," said a woman answering the telephone at The Robesonian. She refused to give her name.

"We're trying to get some justice in Robeson County among the minorities," said one of the alleged hostage-takers who talked by telephone with The Associated Press.

"We want to see (Sheriff) Hubert Stone out," they said.

Stone could not immediately be reached by telephone for comment.

The man, who identified himself as Timothy Jacobs, said he was a Tuscarora-Cherokee Indian and that there were two other people with him.

Another man, who said his name was Eddie Hatcher, told the News and Observer of Raleigh that they were armed and carried explosives.

The general manager of The Robesonian, George Fain, escaped but said there were 17 people still inside, according to Bruce Morrison, vice president of the Concord Tribune.

Both newspapers are among those owned by Park Communications Inc. of Ithaca, N.Y.

The Robesonian is an afternoon daily with a circulation of about 15,000.

Ray Davis of the State Bureau of Investigation office in Fayetteville said he was getting together a team of agents to go to Lumberton.

No other details were immediately available.

Maintenance area due discussions

Snyder school board members are expected to discuss options related to the school maintenance department—in part due to the upcoming retirement of maintenance supervisor Bill Sealy—at a called work session Monday.

The meeting will begin at 6 p.m. at the administration building.

All items for the board will be for discussion only with no action items listed, noted board president Mike Jordan.

In relation to the maintenance area, he said the district has received a proposal from a professional firm related to assuming district maintenance chores. The proposal has been submitted by the Servicemaster group.

Parent help asked for TEAMS testing

Snyder ISD students will be taking the state-mandated Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills (TEAMS) test next week and school officials are now asking parents to assist the district by helping prepare their child for the exam.

Across the state, students in grades 3, 5, 7 and 9 will be tested during a two-week period from Feb. 8-19. The local tests will be administered Feb. 9-11.

At that time, ninth grade students will be bused to the Scurry County coliseum each morning for testing.

School officials urge parents who have a child at the four grade levels to discuss the importance of the test with them. In addition, it is important that the students take the test during the approved time schedule, they note.

If a child is ill and cannot be present on test day, the parent should notify the school immediately so that a makeup day can be scheduled.

The TEAMS test indicates "mastery or non-mastery" of three subject areas, mathematics, reading and writing. Results from the exam will be returned to the district during May. Parents and students will be notified of the results by the district.

Individual with questions may contact the school principal in their attendance area or Bobbie Box, district testing coordinator. She may be reached at 573-9364.

Controllers become reluctant unionists

ATLANTA (AP) — At the heart of a union movement among air traffic controllers are many of the people who helped break a bitter strike in 1981 that led to the firing of thousands of unionized controllers.

Only six months after controllers voted by a 7-3 margin to be represented by a union, the new National Air Traffic Controllers Association claims about 5,000 members, two of every five controllers eligible to join.

Gary Molen and William Faville are typical of activists within the union who only a few years ago dismissed collective bargaining as at best unnecessary.

"I'm from a very anti-union background," Faville said during a break in the fledgling union's three-day organizing convention, which attracted nearly 300 delegates from air traffic control centers and towers around the country last week.

He said his father and uncle own non-union businesses and his grandfather is "probably rolling over in his grave" because his grandson has become the union's regional representative from Alaska.

Molen, 46, a native of Montana, said his father was a railroad union member, "but I don't ever remember the word 'union' being used in the house."

Molen, a controller since 1968 and in Salt Lake City for 10 years, is Faville's counterpart in the union's Northwest mountain region.

The controllers' return to union activism stems from an array of gripes and concerns, delegates said.

The complaints include: having to work with poor and archaic equipment, little involvement in Federal Aviation Administration decision making, steadily increasing traffic loads, "vindictiveness" by some bosses and petty rules such as dress codes that in one case prohibited controllers from wearing jeans unless they were of a certain designer label.

On Aug. 3, 1981, more than 12,000 controllers, or three-fourths of the work force, walked off their jobs in a dispute over working conditions, safety and wages. A few hundred returned, but 11,400 were fired by President Reagan for striking illegally. Their union, the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization (PATCO), was forced into bankruptcy and decertified.

Forgiveness Week Offers Us Chances to Rebuild Bridges

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR READERS: Are you holding a grudge? Don't feel guilty. Many of us are. But we need not hold it forever. Did you know that there is an International Forgiveness Week? Well, neither did I until last year, when Alice Parenti of Fresno, Calif., wrote to tell me about it.

It's from Feb. 1 through Feb. 6. Robert Muller, former assistant secretary-general of the United Nations, wrote this piece for International Forgiveness Week:

Thursday: Forgive across cultural lines within your own nation.

Friday: Forgive across political lines within your own nation.

Saturday: Forgive other nations.

Only the brave know how to forgive. A coward never forgives. It is not in his nature.

DECIDE TO FORGIVE

Decide to forgive

For resentment is negative

Resentment is poisonous

Resentment diminishes and devours the self.

Be the first to forgive.

To smile and to take the first step.

And you will see happiness bloom

On the face of your human brother or sister.

Be always the first

Do not wait for others to forgive.

For by forgiving

You become the master of fate

The fashioner of life

The doer of miracles.

To forgive is the highest

Most beautiful form of love.

In return you will receive

Untold peace and happiness.

DEAR ABBY: We are a group of married couples. On Saturday evenings, a group of 10 or 12 goes out to dinner and dancing. One couple in our group was divorced last year, but the woman continues to attend our Saturday evening affairs. We women do not like this. We're not jealous, but our husbands feel that they have to dance with her so she won't be sitting alone at the table. So while our husbands are dancing with her, one of the wives has to sit alone. We resent this. We are not mean or selfish, but we feel that a single woman doesn't belong in our group any more than a single man would.

Is there a solution, Abby?

THE WIVES

DEAR ABBY: The solution is obvious. Ask the single woman to bring an escort, and tell her why.

Here is the program for achieving a truly forgiving heart:

Sunday: Forgive yourself.

Monday: Forgive your family.

Tuesday: Forgive your friends and associates.

Wednesday: Forgive across economic lines within your own

Stalin's successor dies at age of 86

MOSCOW (AP) — Georgi M. Malenkov, who served as Josef Stalin's right-hand man during the purges of the 1930s and briefly as Stalin's successor before falling into disgrace, died at age 86, the government said today.

Malenkov, who was often rumored to have been shot after disappearing from view in 1957, actually died a few days ago, Deputy Foreign Minister Genady I. Gerasimov said. No further details of his death were immediately available.

Soviet historian Roy Medvedev reported in 1984 in his book "All Stalin's Men" that he had spotted Malenkov sitting with his wife in a hospital for old Bolsheviks in Moscow. The writer said Malenkov had an apartment in Moscow but spent most of his time at his daughter's dacha outside the capital.

Malenkov served as Soviet prime minister for two years after Stalin's death in 1953 but lost out in a power struggle with Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Malenkov was dismissed from his top posts as premier and first secretary of the Communist Party Central Committee in 1955 and publicly confessed to having followed the wrong policies.

In 1957, he was thrown out of the ruling Politburo and off the Central Committee and apparently ended his career as a manager of a hydro-electric station in a small town in east Kazakhstan.

Born Jan. 8, 1902, in the town of Orenburg (later Chkalov) in the Urals, Malenkov joined the Communist Party during the civil war, helped to put down the revolt of central Asian anti-communist groups, then began his 25-year career as a political worker.

Cardinal: needles plan desperate

NEW YORK (AP) — The state's apparently unprecedented decision to combat AIDS by allowing the city to distribute clean hypodermic needles to addicts is "a quick fix" born out of desperation, says Cardinal John O'Connor.

"It drags down the standards of all society," O'Connor, a member of the president's commission on AIDS, said Sunday at St. Patrick's Cathedral.

State Health Commissioner Dr. David Axelrod approved the experimental plan, believed to be the first of its kind in the United States, his spokesman, Peter Slocum, said Sunday in Albany.

Axelrod had opposed such a program, but changed his mind because the proposal had been modified to require addicts receiving the free needles to enter drug treatment programs, Slocum said.

"It would not be just walk in the door, get your needle and turn around," Slocum said. The addict would receive the needle during a drug treatment session and could exchange it for a clean one at a subsequent session, he said.

Similar programs have been successful in Amsterdam and England, Slocum said.

"It is an act born in desperation, a quick fix because we are not spending the dollars on fighting narcotics," said O'Connor.

The cardinal said the program would prove futile because "a needle is only clean for one use" and addicts will continue to share syringes.

The proposal also has been opposed by law enforcement officials.

M&F Plastic Pipe has variety of sizes

M & F Plastic Pipe is your local owned dealer for polyethylene pipe, sales and rental, with a wide range of sizes and pressure ratings.

Polyethylene pipe is now replacing steel pipe and PVC pipe in many areas. It is much more versatile than PVC and more economical than steel. It's flexibility makes it easier to handle, therefore saving you time and labor. The durability of this pipe has been proven under all kinds of weather conditions and it can be re-spooled and re-laid several times without damage to the pipe.

They have spooling trailers, reel trailers and a spooling truck to handle pipe up to three inches. Pipe that is four inches or larger comes in joints and must be laid by hand. It is "welded" together by using an electric iron that melts each end of the pipe, and then it fuses when put together. This eliminates the worry about leaks from bad threads or not being tight enough such as in steel pipe or the hassle of cleaning and gluing as in PVC.

Poly pipe can be used for water lines in homes, stock tanks, water wells, water supply for drilling, transfer lines, gas lines or production flow lines.

They will lay new or used pipe, provide you with valves, fittings, ditching, etc. to suit your needs and will also repair your lines, relocate it or replace it if needed.

M & F Plastic Pipe is owned and operated by Ricky and Teresa Trammell. Please feel free to call them or Darby K. Scott, manager, for prices or information at 573-8612.

Bank turns over records in probe

DALLAS (AP) — A bank has given Attorney General Jim Mattox records relating to the probe of Southern Methodist University's pay-for-play football scandal, a spokeswoman said.
 Capital Bank had been accused by Mattox of holding up the investigation.
 But bank representatives contacted the attorney general's office Tuesday and agreed to send over the requested financial documents, said Mattox spokeswoman Elna Christopher.
 Ms. Christopher said Saturday she believed that all the records have been retrieved, but that the documents had not yet been reviewed by state investigators.
 On Jan. 20, Mattox said legal action might be necessary to force the bank to comply with a subpoena issued in early December for the records.
 Former SMU football coach

Bobby Collins is a director at Capital Bank.
 The records sought from Capital Bank include monthly statements and deposit totals between 1982 and 1987. They are believed to be connected a probe into at least $10,000 in missing university funds, Ms. Christopher said.
 Mattox said when he began his investigation he wanted to look into whether the university acted properly in spending more than $860,000 to terminate the contracts of Collins, former athletic director Bob Hitch and former assistant athletic director Henry Lee Parker.
 The three officials resigned in 1986 after reports of improper payments to SMU football players. The National Collegiate Athletic Association banned football at SMU for the 1987 season, and the university later canceled the 1988 season.

The first yo-yo probably was used as a weapon thousands of years ago, when hunters in the Philippine Islands tied long leather cords to rocks that they hurled at game.

Martin Luther met other religious reformers at the 1529 Colloquy of Marburg.

Residents voicing opposition

CRYSTAL BEACH, Texas (AP) — The City Council plagued by last year's disincorporation vote now is having to decide whether to proceed with a planned $640,000 park.
 More than 100 people jammed a hearing over the weekend and about 30 spoke out in opposition to the proposed 15.7 acre park. Only one resident voiced her support for the park.

Mayor Bill Kelsey said Crystal Beach could acquire the park cost-free because its portion of a matching grant from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is offset by the value of the land the state would use.
 "As part of the agreement, however, we will have to perpetually maintain the site," he said.
 Kelsey estimated maintenance costs at $10,000 per year, which he said could be partially offset through user fees.

City officials purchased 4.4 acres of land for $120,000 from Sandpiper Development Inc., owned by developer Gregory Cobb. Cobb donated the remaining 11 acres.

The wildlife department in 1985 awarded Crystal Beach a matching $322,200 grant to build the park, which was to include a pavilion, restrooms, playground, tennis courts, concession stand and jogging track.

The department has given the city a credit of $158,600 for remaining park construction, but state officials suspended the project following a vote to disincorporate the town last April.

When a visiting judge overturned the election in August, state officials asked the city to consider completing the park, even though an appeal of the decision voiding the disincorporation election is still pending before the Texas Court of Civil Appeals.

"With this park you get nothing for nothing," said resident Hank

Marsh, adding the city could not maintain the park for $10,000. "If government would stop spending money we don't have, we could get back to fixing roads and things that are essential."

"This park is a fiasco from a previous administration," Leon Gaspard of Crystal Beach told City Council members presiding at the public hearing Saturday. "You're caught up in it, but that doesn't mean you have to continue it. When you make a mistake you should get out of it. That's why divorces were made. It's time to divorce ourselves from this park."

Another resident, Lonnie Wolfe, suggested the council terminate the contract for the new park and refurbish an existing park.

Crystal Beach resident Dottie Wells was the only citizen who addressed the council to speak in favor of the new park.

"I was involved in Little League, and Noble Park had holes and rocks in the grass that put the kids in danger," Ms. Wells said. "They need a decent place to play."

Highway not only worry for Amish

INTERCOURSE, Pa. (AP) — The Amish won a major victory against state plans to build a highway through their fertile farm area, but development and a burgeoning population threaten the way of life of the "plain folk."
 Growing numbers of tourists, factory outlet stores, retirees and commuters to and from Philadelphia have squeezed the community, concentrated in a wedge between U.S. Route 30 and Pennsylvania 23, officials said.

"It looks to me as if we'll get driven out if these things change in the next 20 years the way they did in the last 20," said an Amish bishop, who for religious reasons spoke on condition of anonymity.

In the last 25 years, the number of Amish in Lancaster County has doubled to about 15,000, forcing more and more Amish men to leave the traditional farming life, said sociologist John A. Hostetler, author of "Amish Society."

The Amish, members of a strict Mennonite sect, have avoided most of the 20th century's technological advances. They ride in horse-drawn buggies and don't use electricity, telephones or motorized farm tools.

County officials had asked the state to build a highway to relieve overcrowding on Routes 23 and 30, which connect Philadelphia with Lancaster 65 miles to the west.

In September, about 1,000 Amish broke their custom of aloofness from outside affairs by staging a silent protest against the project at a hearing.

State Transportation Secretary Howard Yersulim announced Wednesday that the highway will not be built.

Instead, the state will try to lessen crowding on Routes 23 and 30 by going ahead with a previously planned relocation of Route 23 between Lancaster and a Route 30 bypass, said Transportation Department spokeswoman Betty Serian.

A 2.6-mile stretch of Route 30 in the heart of a tourist strip just east of Lancaster will be widened from three to five lanes, and further studies of the road will be conducted, she said.

Splinter bid boomerangs

By James Jacoby

The modern bridge world is full of gadgets — special conventions that help partnerships gain excellent results, for the most part. Conventions also have their drawbacks if opponents know how to use the information to their own advantage. In today's deal we see the splinter bid in action. North's jump to four clubs described a hand with good spade support, 9-11 high-card points and a singleton club. With a minimum hand and the knowledge that the queen of clubs was a worthless card, South subsided in four spades, but the damage had already been done. East had doubled four clubs to show strength in the suit, and that enabled the defense to function with absolute precision.
 West led the king of clubs, expecting to hold the lead and wanting to be able to judge how the defense should proceed. It now became the responsibility of East to suggest a line of attack. There could be no advantage to a club continuation, so the card played by East would be construed as suit-preference. When the two of clubs dropped gently on the table, West shifted to the queen of diamonds and the defenders quickly took two diamonds and a diamond ruff to set the contract. Is it likely that this would have happened if North had simply responded with a bid of four spades?

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books.

DENNIS THE MENACE

Quarterback key to Super Bowl win, but the star is Williams, not Elway

SAN DIEGO (AP) - As expected, the quarterback made big plays and the touchdowns came in bunches. But the quarterback was not Denver's John Elway, as most observers had predicted.

When five second-quarter touchdowns came in 18 plays - four on passes - Elway had nothing to do with them. Washington's Doug Williams did, stealing the throne from the man who would be king.

"I didn't come here for a one-on-one thing with Elway," Williams said after his record-setting performance in the Redskins' 42-10 victory over the Broncos Sunday. "I didn't come here to play John Elway."

Williams, the first black quarterback to start a Super Bowl, shook off a first-quarter injury to set a record with 340 passing yards. He also tied two Super Bowl marks.

"Today, Doug Williams was the greatest quarterback in football," said Washington's Barry Wilburn, who had two interceptions.

The nine-year veteran, who practically disappeared after two distressing seasons in the USFL, had plenty of help. Timmy Smith, a rookie who thought his career was over when his knee was wrecked in college, rushed for a record 204 yards. Ricky Sanders, another former USFL player, caught nine passes for 193 yards and two touchdowns, breaking one record and tying another.

Elway couldn't handle the Washington defense, which was befuddled by Denver's early razzle-dazzle. The Redskins clamped down on Elway and eliminated the Three Amigos from the Broncos' attack.

For one quarter, Denver dominated. Then, it self-destructed. "We were playing some great defense in the first quarter," Broncos defensive end Ron Jones said, "and we got that quick touchdown and were ahead 10-0." Then it fell apart.

Last year, the Broncos messed up three opportunities and managed only a 10-9 halftime lead over the Giants, who blitzed them in the second half for a 39-20 victory.

The Redskins didn't wait as long to overwhelm the Broncos, who joined Minnesota as the only teams to lose two consecutive Super Bowls. Washington's victory was the fourth straight lopsided win for an NFC team.

Washington built a 25-point lead on 18 plays. Sanders started the comeback by beating Mark Haynes for an 80-yard touchdown pass on Washington's first play of the second quarter. It also was Williams' first play after being removed with a hyperflexed left knee late in the opening period. And it tied the record for the Super Bowl's longest TD pass, set in 1981 by the Raiders' Jim Plunkett and Kenny King.

"We put our offense in a bad situation," Wilburn said of Denver's 10 first-quarter points. Seven came on the Broncos' first play, a 56-yard TD pass to Ricky Nattiel, who got behind Wilburn with only 1:57 gone. The Redskins needed just five plays to go 64 yards for the lead. Gary Clark foiled Steve Wilson on a 27-yard corner pattern for a 14-10 edge.

Elway, who also caught a first-quarter pass from Steve Sewell leading to Rich Karlis' 24-yard field goal, guided Denver to the Washington 26. But Karlis missed from 43 yards and Denver's attack fizzled.

"We got up quick and were moving the football," Elway said after a mediocre 14-for-38, 257-yard performance that included five sacks and three interceptions. "They started making some good plays and we never answered the bell to take the momentum away."

"It hurts," Coach Dan Reeves said of the loss. "I don't know if devastating is the word, but the hurt is devastating."

The Redskins established a post-season mark for points in a period with 35.

After Karlis' miss, Clark made a 16-yard reception, then Smith broke a 58-yard scoring run for his first NFL touchdown.

Redskins Coach Joe Gibbs started Smith ahead of George Rogers on Sunday. "George is our starter, but I thought I'd never get the chance at the pros," said Smith, who played only two games in his final two seasons after a severe knee injury. "I didn't really get to show what I could do in college. It cost me a shot at being a No. 1 (draft pick)."

Smith, a native of Hobbs, N.M., was hurt by what he called a cheap shot by a New Mexico player after he had scored a touchdown.

"They came in there trying to get me," Smith said. "They felt I should have stayed and represented New Mexico. It really messed my head."

Redskins Coach Joe Gibbs had a gut feeling about starting Smith ahead of Rogers on Sunday, and that decision tore out the guts of the Denver defense.

"I felt they'd be going out there to shut down our inside running game," said Gibbs, who is 2-1 in Super Bowls since 1983. "George is our starter, but I went to him and said we needed more speed early. I felt we would get George in there earlier than the third quarter, but the way Timmy was running..."

In addition to scoring two touchdowns, Smith's 43-yard run in the second quarter set up the final touchdown of the second quarter.

His other touchdown came early in the fourth quarter on a four-yard run at the end of a 4-play, 68-yard drive that was highlighted by his 32-yard run.

Smith got his 204 yards on 22 carries and caught one pass for nine yards.

Freda Clay added 10. Freda Clay also accounted for nine rebounds and Greathouse had six assists.

First half of SWC play ends with Arkansas atop standings

by The Associated Press
The first half of Southwest Conference basketball wraps up this week and the Arkansas Razorbacks appear poised to deliver on preseason promises to capture the league's title.

The Razorbacks, with a deep, talented squad, have dominated the first half of the SWC season. Their only loss so far has been against Texas A&M at College Station.

The Razorbacks ripped the Houston Cougars 71-62 Saturday night before a throng of 9,264 fans in Barnhill Arena.

It impressed Houston Coach Pat Foster enough to say the Hogs were the best team in the league.

"They are stronger and better than the other teams," Foster said. "They wore us down. Mario Credit is tremendous and they have the best depth of anybody."

Arkansas' bench outscored Houston's reserves 38-3. Arkansas improved its overall record to 14-4 while Houston dropped to 3-4 in the SWC and 8-8 overall.

The Razorbacks conclude their first half of SWC play Wednesday night at home with Texas Tech.

In Sunday SWC action, Texas scored its first victory over the Aggies since 1986 in Austin and the Longhorns' first victory in College Station since 1985.

Travis Mays scored five of his seven points in the final 75 seconds and Alvin Heggs came off the bench to score a game-high 18 points to lead Texas to the 52-49 victory.

Jose Nassar added 11 points for the Longhorns, 9-10 overall and 3-4 in SWC play. Donald Thompson had 13 points and Darryl McDonald added 12 for the Aggies, 12-9 overall and 4-3 in the league.

The Baylor Bears, second in the SWC standings last year, have rallied from a 1-3 start, winning three straight league games including an 81-63 thumping of Texas Tech in Lubbock on Saturday night.

In the other SWC games Saturday, Southern Methodist stayed in second place with a hard-earned 51-48 victory over Texas Christian. Lamar beat Rice 85-70 in a non-conference game.

It was Arkansas Coach Nolan Richardson's first victory over Houston in six tries. He had lost four times to Houston as an Arkansas coach and once to the Cougars while coaching at Tulsa.

"Our starting lineup isn't any more talented than other teams in the league but we do play more people than the other teams," Richardson said.

Baylor snapped Texas Tech's eight-game home winning streak with a surprisingly easy victory in Lubbock.

It marked the first time Baylor had defeated Tech in consecutive seasons in Lubbock since 1969-70. It was the Raiders' worst defeat in Lubbock since they lost 80-55 to Memphis State in 1985.

It also spoiled Tech Coach Gerald Myers' attempt at his 300th collegiate victory.

Baylor shot 70 percent in the first half and hit 13 of its last 14 shots to silence the crowd of 8,174.

In games Wednesday night besides the Tech-Arkansas clash, Baylor is at Texas, Rice is at Houston, and TCU is at Texas A&M.

On Saturday, Arkansas is at Texas, TCU is at Baylor and Texas A&M is at SMU.

Lyle takes advantage of Couples' 'daft' play

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) - Sandy Lyle appraised his performance in the last round of the Phoenix Open and found it acceptable, even pleasing.

"I didn't do anything daft," Lyle said Sunday. He left that to Fred Couples.

In less than an hour, Couples twice hooked tee shots into the water on the 18th hole at the TPC course at Scottsdale.

The first one, which trickled into the lake after hitting a spectator, cost him an opportunity to win in regulation play.

The next one cost him the 3-hole sudden-death playoff. "At the end, he kind of gave it to me," the Scottish golfer said after making up seven shots over the last 18 holes and then becoming the beneficiary of Couples' mistakes.

"He was a bit unlucky. In the pressure, his right hand got over a little and he pulled it," said Lyle, who won the playoff with a bogey-5 on the third extra hole.

Couples' comments were not recorded. He departed immediately after the playoff without speaking to reporters.

Lyle's victory was his third on the PGA Tour and was worth $117,000 from the total purse of $650,000. His comeback from a 7-shot deficit in the last round marked the biggest final-day rally on the Tour since Tom Kite made up seven shots to win the 1986 Western Open.

Third-round leader Davis Love III fell back by bogeying four consecutive holes, beginning with No. 8, surrendering the lead to Couples.

Lyle, who had a final-round 65, drove the green on the 305-yard 17th and two-putted for birdie. He was tied for the lead until he bogeyed the 72nd hole after putting his approach in a greenside bunker.

That gave Couples a one-stroke lead as he stood on the tee. He promptly hooked his tee shot, which bounced off a spectator's leg and into the water. He, too, made bogey and, with a closing 70, was tied with Lyle at 15-under-par 269.

After two playoff holes went to par, they came around to the 18th again. Lyle again bogeyed after driving into a fairway bunker. But it was good enough, as Couples again hooked into the water.

South African David Frost came on with a 3-under 68 and took third at 271, two shots out of the playoff. Love struggled in with a 76 and was fourth at 273.

Opposition candidates headed for runoff

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — Two opposition presidential candidates emerged from a field of 10 and are headed for a runoff. One vows to shift Ecuador's slant from conservative to leftist, the other promises to tax the rich to feed the poor.

At stake is the leadership of a nation that had become Washington's closest ally in South America, but may be changing its ideological orientation.

The favored Rodrigo Borja, a 52-year-old center-left lawyer who heads the Democratic Left Party, garnered about 20 percent of the vote in Sunday's election, far short of the majority needed to avoid a runoff May 8.

In the runoff he will face Abdala Bucaram, 35, a populist who has his power base in Guayaquil, a rough-and-tumble port and Ecuador's largest city.

With 2,907,909 — or more than 80 percent — of the ballots counted, Borja had 592,233 votes, or 20.4 percent to Bucaram's 449,166 votes, or 15.4 percent.

The third-place finisher was the nominee of the governing Social Christian Party, 66-year-old conservative Sixto Duran, who received 13.1 percent of the vote and promptly conceded. "It doesn't hurt me, but it surprises me," Duran said early today of his unexpected defeat.

The next two leading candidates, former Gen. Frank Vargas Pazzos, running on a Nationalist Leftist ticket, and Christian Democrat Jamil Mahud, finished with about 12 percent and 9 percent, respectively.

Election officials said about 3.5 million of Ecuador's 4.6 million registered voters cast ballots. Voting is required by law, but in past elections the abstention rate has been close to 30 percent.

Voters also cast ballots Sunday for the 71-seat unicameral Congress and 1,400 provincial and municipal officials. Sixteen parties ranging from far right to Communist took part.

Borja has pledged to reverse the conservative policies of pro-American President Febres Cordero, a 56-year-old millionaire businessman barred by law from seeking a second consecutive four-year term. He steps down in August.

Bucaram has vowed to raise the taxes of the rich and divide the wealth among the needy. A colorful, combative campaigner, he was seen as a "wild card," with only a slight chance of making it into the runoff.

Borja, who ran twice before for the presidency, narrowly lost a bitterly fought runoff against Febres Cordero in 1984 and was favored on Sunday.

Duran's loss was a sign of the waning popularity of Febres Cordero's government in the face of serious economic problems brought on by a sharp drop in the price of oil, the country's main export, and economic damage from devastating earthquakes last year.

Borja has vowed to reverse

Febres Cordero's free-market economic policies and distance himself from the current president's pro-U.S. stance.

Bucaram, a former mayor of Guayaquil who has gained a huge following among the city's slum dwellers, campaigned as the "force of the poor."

"Voting for me is the same as throwing excrement in the face of the oligarchy," he said during his campaign.

Illustrative of his combative style, Bucaram on Sunday punched in the nose the director of the Guayaquil Red Cross. The director had stopped the candidate from entering Red Cross headquarters in pursuit of a man who had insulted Bucaram as he arrived at a polling station to vote.

Officers made two arrests for DWI within 30 minutes of each other Sunday night, one of a 21-year-old man at 11:32 p.m. in the 300 Block of 37th St. and the other of a 19-year-old man at 11:53 p.m. in the south parking lot of the Western Texas College dormitory.

Two 16-year-old males were arrested for being minors in possession of alcohol at 11:14 p.m. Sunday in the 4700 Block of Ave. Z, and a 20-year-old man was arrested for public intoxication at 6:32 a.m. Sunday at the sheriff's office.

The arrangement would be similar to the district's current method of contracting for its cafeteria food service.

Jordan said the meeting would be open also to "whatever the board wants to talk about."

—Authorizing the mayor to order the spring city election for the council's four single member district seats. It will be held May 7.

—Setting the date for any potential runoff elections from the spring vote.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Breast cancer has risen to the highest rate in history, while lung cancer among men has dropped to the lowest rate this decade, according to a new federal report.

The report, compiled by the National Cancer Institute, shows that breast cancer continues to be the leading cause of cancer death among women and suggests that early diagnosis through screening has not reduced mortality "to the extent possible."

The report said the recent trend of increasing rates of breast cancer "may be due in part to increased screening activities" but it said the effort is not as successful as it should be.

Breast cancer rates among American women is between 104 and 107 per 100,000, "the highest incidence rates ever recorded," the report said. The rate increased by 17 percent from 1975 to 1985.

The report said the rates increase very steeply in postmenopausal women. For women under 50, the rate is 32.8 per 100,000, while for those over 50, the rate is 335.

Lung cancer, while still the leading cause of cancer deaths, decreased among males in 1985, the latest year in the study, but continues to increase in women.

The statistics used in the report are from the years 1950 to 1985 and were compiled by the NCI from a variety of studies to present what the agency called "a very general picture" of cancer incidence, mortality and survival over 3½ decades in America.

Cancer deaths, in general, the report said, are declining for

Hunter injured

A 28-year-old Austin man was treated and released Saturday at Coggell Memorial Hospital after shooting himself in the foot with a shotgun in a quail hunting accident about nine miles east of Snyder.

The sheriff's office reported that Jeffrey P. Craig was hunting with two companions about 10 a.m. when a covey of quail flushed and he stumbled backwards, causing his shotgun to discharge accidentally.

Rural thefts worked by SO

The sheriff's office is investigating reported thefts at two rural locations.

Otha Gray, who lives about three miles southwest of Dunn, on Sunday reported the theft of six axles from under trailers on her property.

J.A. Merritt reported Sunday that a wood-burning cooking stove and a wood-burning heater were stolen from a vacant house south of the county precinct barn off the Colorado City Highway.

VW said towed following wreck

A car had to be towed from the scene of an early Sunday collision with a utility pole in the 4800 Block of College Ave. that knocked streetlights out from the 4500 Block of College to Coggell Dr.

A 1968 Volkswagen two-door driven by Robert Thomas O'Connor of Rt. 2 address hit the pole at 4:45 a.m., police said.

In other reports, mailboxes owned by Frank Beechum and Joe Sanchez were hit and damaged by an unknown vehicle and driver in an incident discovered at 9:11 a.m. Sunday in the 2200 Block of Ave. Z.

Also, a 1968 GMC pickup driven by John Derek Hollingsworth of Rt. 3, Box 174, was in collision with a 1981 Oldsmobile Cutlass driven by Ann Kleindel of Rt. 2, Box 194-A, at 4:40 p.m. Saturday at 33rd St. and College Ave.

The KSNY sign was also damaged in the accident, but police said the amount of the damage was undetermined.

Breast cancer rate increases most age groups, though there are increases in death and incidence in specific types of cancer.

"The cancer mortality rates among Americans under the age of 55 have been decreasing during the time period ... 1950 to 1985 (and) for all age groups up to the age of 85 when lung cancer, a largely preventable disease, is excluded," the report said.

Cancer among the young, under age 15, has shown the most improvement in mortality rates in recent years, the report said. Cancer death among the young was at about 3.5 per 100,000 population in 1985, a decrease of about 33 percent over 35 years, according to the report.

Lung cancer continues to have a major impact on the general statistics. The number of lung cancer deaths in 1985 totaled 122,395, about 90,898 more deaths than would be predicted by an extension of the 1950 rates, the report said.

Lung cancer death among females increased about 5 percent a year over the measured decade and reached 26.8 per 100,000 in 1985.

Throngs protest hike in prices

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Voicing anger at price increases that begin today with an average 40 percent jump in food costs, thousands of Solidarity supporters took to the streets of Warsaw and Gdansk.

In Gdansk, Lech Walesa and other leaders of the outlawed independent labor federation met Sunday to decry the increases, and at least 3,000 people marched through the streets of the Baltic port city.

They chanted "Strike tomorrow!" and "No more price hikes!"

In the capital, riot police wielding truncheons scuffled briefly with demonstrators after blocking 1,500 people from marching following a pro-Solidarity Mass. Some protesters pelted police with snowballs.

On Saturday, the government announced the steepest price increases in six years — which range from 40 percent to 200 percent for food, fuel, alcohol, cigarettes, transportation and other services.

After a meeting in Gdansk at the shipyard parish of St. Brygida's Church, Walesa and other members of Solidarity's National Executive Commission issued a communique saying the price-hike policy "blocks necessary economic reforms and increases social tensions."

"The inevitability of collapse is obvious," it said. "We demand the withdrawal of the price rises whose consequences are downright tragic for some." The statement did not call for specific protests.

serves a lot of the credit. The terrific supporting cast should be thanking Shanley for writing such fertile roles — especially Olympia Dukakis and Vincent Gardenia as Cher's parents, and grand old Feodor Chaliapin as the grandpa with a quintet of baying dogs. GRADE: ★★½

NADINE (PG) CBS/Fox, $89.98. Kim Basinger really came into her own in this 1987 comic thriller directed by Robert Benton ("Kramer vs. Kramer") — projecting an enigmatic blend of dreamer and spitfire. Basinger stars as a '50s Texas beauty queen who is still in love with her estranged husband (Jeff Bridges), an attractive schemer.

There's an anecdotal doodle of a plot in which Nadine inadvertently witnesses a murder and retrieves some incriminating photos wanted by a goateous con man (Rip Torn). The movie, while pleasant enough, never fulfills the promise of its rich, nostalgic milieu and its scrapping, screwball lovers. GRADE: ★★½

PREDATOR (R) CBS/Fox, $89.98. Cartoon-style hulk Arnold Schwarzenegger stars in this 1987 hit, playing the head of a military unit sent into a Latin American jungle to rescue some operatives from an enemy camp. Alas, the missing men have been murdered — and the killer turns out to be a non-human chameleon! As junk movies go, this one is rather crisp directed — a high-tech action thriller with a handful of nightmarishly suggestive jungle images. Reagan, Ortega both compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last time Congress pulled the plug on Contra aid, it moved the Ollie North wing of the Reagan administration to some pretty outlandish subterfuge. Swiss bank accounts, Air Hasenus and alms from Brunei, for example. Never mind the travelers checks and the snow tires.

So there isn't much doubt about how badly the president wants to win Wednesday's $36.2 million Contra funding vote in the House. Authorized assistance is simple and reliable and, well, it's legal.

At stake may be the very existence of the Nicaraguan resistance force, the Contras.

"We are not looking for other sources of funding," national security adviser Colin Powell said Sunday in turning his back on the North approach. "We are running this program straight up in a way that is explainable to the American people and we have to be able to defend it to the Congress and the American people."

Rep. Mickey Edwards, R-Okla., one of Reagan's key allies in the House, says simply, "It's now or never."

As badly as Reagan wants to bankroll the Contras, that's how badly Daniel Ortega wants to block it.

Back in 1985, the leftist Nicaraguan leader headed for Moscow on the eve of a big Contra vote, thumbing his nose at the threat from the north. But last week Ortega was in the Vatican, sitting still for a lecture on democracy from the pope.

On the same day, in Costa Rica, Sandinista officials met with Contra functionaries in face-to-face negotiations that marked a humbling end to Ortega's demand that the Sandinistas be allowed to negotiate directly with the Americans and not the Contras.

The Sandinistas are struggling with pervasive economic and political problems and desperately want a chance to solve them without a military threat from the Contras. Humbling or not, the peace talks provide wavering House members a peg on which to hang their hats. Why poison the peace process, Contra aid opponents say, by funding a war?

"The way to greater freedom in Nicaragua is not greater firepower for the Contras," Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., said in a weekend Democratic radio address.

Without Contra aid, the Reaganistas contend, there would be no peace plan. "There is hope that with the freedom fighters keeping up the pressure, the communists will observe still further provisions of the peace plan," Reagan said in arguing for aid in his own radio address.

Ortega sees Reagan's presidency slipping away and figures if Reagan can't win aid for the Contras now, his successor might not even try.

AP analysis

Reagan must figure it the same way. He's pulling out all the stops, or at least as many stops as he has at his command. To salvage the six-year effort to create and support a Nicaraguan resistance movement, he scaled back his aid request to a shadow of what he'd like, leaving $3.6 million for ammunition.

It's a far cry from the $270 million, 18-month funding plan being pushed not long ago by Reagan's most conservative supporters.

Speakers rally

DALLAS (AP) — Speakers at a rally to support the beleaguered police department called for an end to racial tensions rekindled by the slaying of an officer.

About 1,000 people rallied Sunday at City Hall to defend the department, with many in the mostly white crowd carrying signs backing police while others blasted the City Council for some members' criticism of the department.

"Folks, we're the only show in town," said investigator Bob Rommell, who compared criticism of the department to floodwaters threatening a sea wall. "It's time for you to pick up some timber and carry it to the wall."

On Jan. 23, white officer John Chase, 25, was shot three times in the face by a black, homeless man, Carl Dudley Williams, who had grabbed the policeman's gun. Williams was later killed in a shootout with pursuing officers.

FOR KEEPS (PG-13) Here's a teen movie that seems to wipe away the last 30 years of social reality — even the last 30 years of teen movies. From the early image of the brightly painted yellow house with the white picket fence in which Molly Ringwald lives with her divorced (read uptight) mother, this romantic "dramedy" (to borrow a current TV term) exists in a vacuum of cute regression. The movie, directed by John G. Avildsen ("Rocky," "The Karate Kid"), tackles the subject of teen pregnancy in a manner both square and evasive.

The ever-talented Molly Ringwald and newcomer Randall Batinkoff star — sweetly — as Darcy and Stan, the "perfect teenage couple." When Darcy becomes pregnant, she and Stan decide to get married and have the baby, casting aside promising college and career plans.

Against their parents' objections, the pretty twosome settles into a run-down loft where they try to accept their limited options. Soon, though, they're at each other's throats. He stays out late drinking, and she has a hard time with post-partum depression. But don't fear — a cornball happy ending is right around the corner.

Minimizing the real problems of teen marriages, "For Keeps" actually infantilizes its protagonists. Stan's dad (quirky Kenneth Mars) articu-lates the movie's argument against his son's becoming a young father: "Grow up. You had a gerbil last year. You forgot to feed it." This is supposed to be a joke, one that indicates his dad's insensitivity as much as Stan's immaturity. But Darcy and Stan really do seem more suited to caring for a gerbil than a baby. GRADE: ★½

MOONSTRUCK (PG) The most frivolously charming movie of the past year, this comic ode to the Italian-American family is also the year's most satisfying offbeat romance. It's on the same wavelength as "Prizzi's Honor" — another good (and perverse) Brooklyn-set movie that humorless types criticized for deflation of character.

In the lead role, Cher is the very soul of a frumpy, aging, yet still beautiful widow. Grown slowly pragmatic, she acquiesces to the marriage proposal of a paunchy, overage mama's boy (Danny Aiello). While her fiancé is in Italy attending to his supposedly dying mother, the widow tries to patch things up with the fiancé's hot-headed younger brother (Nicolas Cage). Instead, she falls madly in love with him.

Nothing in Canadian-born director Norman Jewison's previous films (including "In the Heat of the Night" and "Fiddler on the Roof") points to this picture's wild ethnic flair and crackpot romanticism. Clearly, playwright John Patrick Shanley's script de-

Mubarak: new ideas needed

DALLAS (AP) — Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak says new ideas are needed to end the violence between Israel and Palestinians in occupied territories.

"We cannot meet these challenges with ideas and attitudes that belong to the past," Mubarak said at a luncheon Saturday, in his first formal address since meeting with President Reagan last week.

Since December, Israeli-Palestinian violence has erupted off and on and has left at least 38 Arabs dead.

Mubarak called for an international peace conference, but blamed Israel Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir for blocking the idea.

While Mubarak's public comments centered on violence in the Middle East, he met privately with U.S. business leaders urging them to invest in his country.

But his first visit into the U.S. heartland also touched a personal chord with those concerned about violence in the Middle East.

"I feel like he's come to see me," said Amin Elgendy, a senior systems engineer with Electronic Data Systems, while he was waiting for the arrival of Mubarak at Dallas Love Field.

Rabbi Neil Sandler of Dallas, said Mubarak's visit Saturday took on a special meaning as he shook hands with the president at a City Hall reception.

Unusual 'cure' for jock itch

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: About 15 years ago, my husband, his doctor and two of his friends had severe cases of jock itch that did not respond to all the usual medications. They all wore 100-percent cotton briefs. The condition cleared up after they switched to all-nylon briefs. Perhaps this would help others.

DEAR READER: This is a new one on me. The reverse is usually the case. Nylon underwear is more likely than cotton garments to be associated with tinea, fungus of the groin. However, I am pressing on your observations because, although jock-itch usually responds to anti-fungal lotions and creams, it is a common ailment, and unusual cures may help some readers.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have a small mole on the side of my face. Yesterday, as I was getting out of the shower, it started bleeding. It finally stopped, but doesn't seem as dark as it was. Should I see a doctor about this?

DEAR READER: Benign moles will sometimes bleed. However, as a rule of thumb, any skin lesion or blemish that bleeds should be seen by a physician. You definitely should check with a doctor on the outside chance that your mole may be changing from an innocuous mark to a more serious skin cancer.

DEAR DR. GOTT: When one has an artificial hip implanted, there are three methods of bonding the prosthesis: as I understand it, metal pins, medical adhesive and fusion. Which would you recommend?

DEAR READER: All three methods are suitable. The choice of which technique to use depends on the surgeon's preferences and experiences, and specific factors involving the patient, such as whether he or she is allergic to surgical glue. The question of how to seat and stabilize the prosthesis is best answered on an individual basis by the orthopedic surgeon.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Last summer, our 10-year-old grandson broke his ankle in a fall from a slide. About six months later he developed constant head-jerking. A blood test showed he had mono. What is our next step to control the head-jerking?

DEAR READER: I do not know what, if any, relation exists between the fracture, the mononucleosis and the head-shaking. Ordinarily, these three conditions are independent of one another.

There is no cure for mono; patients usually recover without complications. Because your grandson's head movements are obviously your primary concern, I suggest that you talk to the child's pediatrician. If he or she cannot answer your question, perhaps a second opinion from a neurologist would be in order.

If you have questions about MEDICAL SPECIALISTS, you can get answers in Dr. Gott's new Health Report on the subject. Send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 9369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to ask for the Health Report on Medical Specialists.

Voters urged to support system

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Supreme Court appointee Barbara Culver says voters have a chance to reform the court by choosing candidates who limit the size of campaign contributions.

"If the voters want change, this is the year to do it," Ms. Culver said at the Committee for Judicial Reform's annual Super Bowl Sunday brunch.

Ms. Culver, a Republican, was to be sworn in today as the second woman this century to sit on the Supreme Court.

She was appointed by Gov. Bill Clements to the seat vacated by Justice Robert Campbell, who resigned to campaign against former Chief Justice John Hill's proposal for an appointed court.

Ms. Culver, who was a Midland district judge, is running for Campbell's unexpired term. She faces former U.S. Rep. Jack Hightower in the general election.

In her campaign, Ms. Culver said she plans to follow the lead of newly appointed Chief Justice Tom Phillips in refusing individual campaign contributions greater than $5,000.

"It's not a position that can be bought and sold by the highest bidder," she said.

With a majority of seats being decided in one election, voters have an unprecedented opportunity this year to demonstrate whether the elective system works, Ms. Culver said.

"I think the system will work if the voters take an interest," she said.

Dallas police say rewards outweigh on-the-job dangers

DALLAS (AP) — More police officers quit in January than in any one month since 1981, following the slayings of two policemen.

On Jan. 23, officer John Chase, 25, was killed by a mentally ill vagrant, who had grabbed Chase's gun and shot him three times in the face.

Some witnesses have said that two or three bystanders urged the man to shoot Chase. Nine days earlier, officer James Joe was killed when he confronted burglars at his apartment complex.

Cpl. J.R. Pool, the 1987 Policeman of the Year, said the events of the past weeks gave him the same feeling as when he returned from Vietnam.

"I'd just returned home from combat in Vietnam and found that instead of being a returning hero, I was a tool of a capitalist system helping-kill babies," he said.

Chase's death prompted Police Chief Billy Prince to say that criticisms of the department by City Council members had fostered an environment that led to the shooting.

The department has long been under fire for its use of deadly force and the hiring and promotion of minorities.

In January, 43 people were scheduled to begin training as Dallas police officers next week, but nine quit before getting started.

Capt. John Chappelle, commander of the department's personnel division, said five of the nine blamed their decision to drop out on the deaths of Chase and Joe.

Also last month, the department lost 23 officers through retirement, resignations and the deaths of Joe and Chase. Chappelle said that was the highest attrition rate since January 1981.

Meanwhile, civic leaders are calling for an end to racial tensions that have erupted in the city since the second shooting.

"I think the time now is for the rhetoric to cease," said state Rep. Fred Blair, a former city councilman. "The problems that existed before still exist. The only way we are going to be able to prevent further tragedies is to work on the problems."

Despite the recent troubles, some officers said they're still enthusiastic about their jobs.

"Day to day, you feel like you're contributing something," said Jon Langione, who joined the department a year ago. "You want to have a feeling of usefulness. Just going out there and making money doesn't give me that."

"I saw a chance to help people with their problems — and there are, believe me, a lot of problems out there," said Frank Reed, a 17-year veteran.

Charles Friel, dean of the College of Criminal Justice at Sam Houston State University in Huntsville, said police work is a vocation.

"I think these people have a calling," Friel said. "Money is not what drives them."

He said there is a thrill to police work and that officers, like race car drivers or test pilots, "are performing on the outer limit, making split-second judgments."

But recruiters say the deaths of Chase and Joe will likely have a long-term effect.

Dallas police recruiter Thomas Glover said that in the past, recruiters visiting college campuses often answered questions about the cost of living in Dallas, the climate and social life.

"Now we'll probably spend some time answering questions pertaining to such incidents and what the atmosphere is in Dallas now," Glover said.

Friel said, however, that students know what they're getting into when they study police work.

"They know that police agencies are subject to political consideration," Friel said. "They know there is racism in the United States, and it raises its ugly head once in a while. They know there are good and bad police officers. They have their feet on the ground."

On Sept. 25, 1981, Sandra Day O'Connor took her seat as the U.S. Supreme Court's first woman ever to sit on the high court.

The Warren Commission issued a report Sept. 27, 1964, which concluded that Lee Harvey Oswald had acted alone in assassinating President John F. Kennedy.

50 sites are due checking

DALLAS (AP) — State health officials will check for radiation leaks at 50 Texas chemical and soft-drink factories that use a device that has been linked to leaks at plants in the Dallas area.

The Texas Department of Health decided on the inspections, which begin today, following the detection of radioactive polonium-210 last week at KTI Chemicals Inc., a subsidiary of Union Carbide Corp., in Carrollton.

On Jan. 23, a similar leak was found at the Ashland Chemical Co. in South Dallas. Officials also have detected contamination in recent weeks at a factory in Pennsylvania and three in California.

The leaks have been traced to an air gun made by 3M Corp. used to clean containers and bottles.

KTI officials said the leak of polonium-210 posed no danger to the public, but that seven workers have been tested for contamination. Those test results are due later this week.

Ashland's South Dallas plant tested 37 workers for contamination, but the initial tests proved negative, said Richard Ratliff, director of the compliance and inspection program for the Texas Bureau of Radiation Control.

Scientists have not yet determined the effect of polonium-210 if it is ingested, but 3M says it will pass through the body without harm.

The radiation levels at the Ashland and KTI plants were lower than levels of some medical X-Ray procedures, Ratliff said.

KTI and Ashland suspended operations at their Texas plants while waiting for the state agency to approve cleanup plans.
