Court asks increase in prisons

Citing a statewide backlog of Texas Department of Corrections-bound prisoners in county jails, Scurry County commissioners Monday passed a resolution urging state legislators to appropriate more prison construction money.

County Judge Bobby Goodwin said in proposing the resolution that county judges throughout the state are seeking such resolutions

Goodwin said county officers transport TDC prisoners to Huntsville because the state penitentiary bus does not run through Scurry County and that there is typically a four- to six-week wait for an appointment to get them admitted.

He said Houston and Harris' County have a backlog of 1,700 TDC prisoners and that Scurry County had six waiting to be admitted before Sheriff Keith Collier left with three of them Monday

"Statewide, there is a tremendous problem with TDC prisoners in county jails," Goodwin said.

Panama's cooperation for the assault, says embattled Panamanian leader Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega.

Noriega, appearing on CBS-TV's "60 Minutes" program Sunday, said former National Security Adviser John Poindexter told Panamanian officials of the planned U.S. invasion.

Noriega, who faces U.S. drug trafficking charges, also said Poindexter told him the United States wanted to use Panama as a training ground for Contra rebels trying to overthrow Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government.

In another development, The Washington Times reported in today's editions that the Reagan administration currently is largely uninformed about events in Panama because of an intelligence agreement with the Panamanian strongman.

Noriega told "60 Minutes" that Poindexter told him in a Dec. 17, 1985, meeting that the United States wanted Panama's cooperation in the invasion.

your answer to "Bearded in Boston," the 27-year-old man who paid for his own education and is doing well on his own. He had been living away from his family (out of state) for the last five years, and when he returned with a beard, his father told him that if he wanted to come home again, he'd have to shave off his beard.

Dear

"Bearded" said he liked the beard and all his friends thought it looked great; then he asked you: "If I shave it off, what will I tell my friends?" Your reply: "Tell your friends your father refused to let you come home unless you shaved your beard.'

Abby, why didn't you tell him to keep his beard, come home and stay somewhere else?

OUTRAGED IN BALTIMORE

DEAR OUTRAGED: From the mail I received, I didn't make myself clear. I did not advise "Bearded" to shave off his beard. I told him that if he shaved his beard, he should tell his friends that his father wouldn't let him come home unless he got rid of the beard. Had "Bearded" asked asked, "Should I shave it off?" I would have replied: "As a 27-year-old self-supporting adult, you should tell your father that you didn't need his permission to wear a beard - and if you're not welcome to stay with the family, you will arrange to stay somewhere else."

As a communicator, I flunked on this one. Pass the hemlock. ...

DEAR ABBY: I was appalled by 'Burned Up in Newcastle," who raged against your commonsensical plea to let divorced parents stand together at their child's wedding. even though the parents have since remarried

I should not have been appalled, for it is all too common for second wives to selfishly begrudge their by the grace and mercy of God, my husbands contact with their ex-father's wife, and I also knew that the bonds established in every family do not simply go away because a divorce took place. I understood the feelings of children toward their divorced father, for I had previously had a husband who essentially abandoned our children because of the jealousy and selfishness of his second wife.

So many of us are walking around as emotional cripples because of horrendous experiences. Death we can't do much about - or unhappy childhoods - and for children, their parents' divorces. But we can do something about our private petti- -, ness and jealousies. Let us pray for strength to control ourselves and not inflict unnecessary pain on others - especially children. Divorce is so common these days that anything we can do to soothe the wounds will invariably make us happier, and our society healthier. BEEN THERE IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR BEEN THERE: You appear to be an extraordinarily kind and understanding woman. But your ex-husband who "essentially abandoned" his children because of the jealousy and selfishness of his second wife was no better than the second wife. No man (or woman) can be forced into any behavior that is incompatible. with his (or her) character.

DEAR ABBY: Please advise "Chicago Attorney," who thinks all obituaries should state cause of death as a "warning" to others, that one cannot correctly assume that every person who dies of lung cancer was a heavy smoker.

Fourteen months ago, I was diagnosed as having "adenocarcinoma" (cancer) of my left lung. (It had already spread to the lymph nodes.) Although my prognosis was exceedingly grim this time last year, treatment was successful and today

23 gay Catholics are arrested

NEW YORK (AP) - A protest regularly during Sunday church Mass celebrated outside St. Patrick's Cathedral led to the arrest of 23 homosexuals demonstrating against what they consider to be their exclusion from the church.

The demonstration Sunday was the latest in a series by Dignity, an organization of homosexual Roman Catholics that has been banned from using facilities of the New York archdiocese.

A state Supreme Court judge issued an injunction last week barring Dignity members' silent demonstrations inside the cathedral, as they have done

Smugglers aim for U.S. market

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) -An international network of poachers and smugglers is reapng huge profits by selling endangered animals and plants, many of which end up in the United States, conservationists said

In some Latin American countries, they said, cocaine trafficking goes hand-in-hand with the poaching and smuggling of alligator and crocodile skins, live parrots and monkeys, all of which are sold in the United States.

"It is out of control and it is scandalous," said Dr. Obdulio Menghi, a director in Geneva of the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Flora and Fauna.

"The profits are huge, the penalties small," Menghi said. "The United States is the largest market for all wildlife products," said Jorgen B. Thomsen, a Norwegian working for the World Wildlife Fund in Washington, D.C. "Japan is the

Shows in Marshall planned

MARSHALL; Texas (AP) -Financial problems have sidelined the Dallas Ballet at home, but the troupe will be back on its toes with performances in Marshall this weekend.

The impending arrival of the dancers has generated a lot of excitement in this East Texas city. As of this past weekend, 1,000 tickets had been sold, the Marshall News-Messenger reported. And the Dallas Ballet is equally excited to perform. Krista Welch, who was a member of the chorus when the Dallas Ballet opened the Marshall Theater at the Civic Center in 1984, is fine-tuning "Pas d'Esclave" with Soviet defector Andrei Ustinov for the weekend's performance.

"It'll be nice going back to Marshall," she said. "It's always nice doing a performance. You. get in really good shape, and you work hard.

Stock show has record attendance

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) -The 1988 Southwestern Exhibi- day's snowfall. tion and Livestock Show wound up its 17-day run with record attendance, but officials say the profit margin is expected to be about the same as usual.

A total of 786,400 had attended the show prior to Sunday's closing day attendance. Officials late Sunday had not completed the attendance count for the final day.

In 1987, the show attracted 741,200 for only 12 days.

W.R. "Bob" Watt Jr., president and general manager of the Stock Show, said added workers and utilities for the new Will Rogers Equestrian Center are expected to take up most of the money brought in by the extra five days.

Officials were pleased that 53,900 people turned out for the final Saturday of the show

One frustating occurrence in bridge is the missing of an opportunity. Today West was presented with a bonanza by an aggressive overbid from South, but he failed to cash in on his windfall. South overcalled with two clubs, intending to bid spades later. The double of two clubs by West was a special negative double, suggesting that East-West could compete in either major. Of course if there was no major-suit fit, West felt comfortable in returning to diamonds. Meanwhile, North had enough cards that he wondered how everybody could be doing so much bidding. When North bid two no-trump, East didn't feel like introducing his hearts with a 12-point minimum

When South finally bid four spades, West missed his opportunity. He should double for penalties. He can then lead his singleton club with fine chances of setting the contract two or three tricks, depending on what East's opening bid was based on. Not only was West timid in failing to double, but he was craven on defense. His opening lead was the queen of diamonds, enabling declarer to quickly ditch two heart losers. Then, when declarer finessed the queen of spades, West took the king and played a heart. East won a heart trick and was smart enough to save the day by playing ace and a club so that West could ruff. Down one was at least a plus score for East-West, but how much better to double and then take the first five tricks (ace of clubs, club ruff, heart,

Hot putter wins at Pebble Beach

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) The putter was the winner for Steve Jones. It also was the eraser.

'A hot putter can erase a lot of bad swings," Jones said after he'd twice blown the lead and still held on to score a sudden-death playoff victory Sunday in the Pebble Beach National Pro-Am.

Bob Tway was the victim of Jones' winning 18-foot birdie putt on the second playoff hole, the par-3 17th at Pebble Beach.

"It was a great putt," Tway said. "I don't feel like I lost it. I just feel like Steve won it."

Zeeking his first victory since beating Greg Norman in the 1986 PGA. Tway came from six strokes back with a 68 and was standing by the 18th green when Jones came to the final hole of regulation play with an 8-foot birdie putt to win it.

He missed that one, finishing the last round with a 2-over-par 74, and the playoff was on, beginning on the 16th. After that was halved in pars, Jones dropped the winner on the 17th, a putt worth $126,000 from the total purse of $700,000.

Norman, trying to overcome a 9-shot last-round deficit, came within one with a 66 that left him one shot out of the playoff at 281.

Acting governor ready to take charge

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Ac-, 'anything," he said. ting Gov. Rose Mofford moved to smooth her succession of Gov. Evan Mecham by consulting former Arizona governors, and two acts of vandalism against the impeached chief executive added to his woes

Investigators believe the son of an employee of Mecham's auto dealership fired a shotgun at the Republican governor's suburban Glendale home early Sunday and, hours later, went on a destructive rampage through Mecham Pontiac.

Vernon B. Jordan, 21, was arrested soon after. Police said he likely acted alone during the alleged attacks and "was not politically motivated in any way," said Glendale police Lt. Mike Christy

'We don't know if he was drinking or has been on drugs, but we can say only that he is not always lucid," Christy said.

Mecham, 63, reached by telephone, said he and his wife, Florence, heard the shotgun blast just after midnight. He said Mrs. Mecham went outside to check but saw nothing.

Funeral turns into protest

JERUSALEM (AP) - Israeli soldiers beat to death a 15-yearold Palestinian in the Gaza Strip and his burial today turned into a violent protest in which troops shot and wounded four Arabs, U.N. and Arab reports said.

The Palestine Press Service said a second Palestinian died after he was shot in the head today near the West Bank city of Nablus. The Arab-run agency said the circumstances of the shooting were not clear. The army said it was investigating.

The army also confirmed that an Arab teen-ager had died but said it was investigating the circumstances. Army radio said the military spoke with army units in Gaza and found no evidence the Arab had been beaten by soldiers.

On Sunday, three Palestinians were killed in one of the bloodiest days in two months of violence that have occurred in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip. Fighting broke out in the West Bank after rumors spread that Jewish settlers were planning attacks on Palestinians there. Forty-eight Palestinians have been killed by Israelis since violence broke out in the occupied lands Dec. 8, according to U.N. count. The two deaths today were not included in that total.

In Gaza today, the body of 15year-old Iyad Mohammed Aql was found with a beaten head near his home in the Bureij refugee camp, said a senior United Nations official in Gaza City, an Arab reporter there and the Arab news agency.

Waste should be reduced

WASHINGTON (AP) - While American industry and government have been simply moving toxic waste problems from one place to another, Europe has been reducing the threat at its source, researchers say.

Europeans have been "reconceiving the hazardous waste challenge as one of chemical engineering rather than one of dirt moving," say Bruce W. Piasecki and Gary A. Davis.

The wastes in question are not ordinary garbage, but the poisonous chemicals and metals produced by industry.

Though European waste handling approaches differ, they all feature greater government involvement in regulating industrial processes, Davis and Piasecki say in a new book: "America's Future in Toxic Waste Management: Lessons from Europe.

The authors briefed congressional staffs last week on their conclusions, which were distilled from four years of study.

They say that because of a scarcity of land and high dependence on groundwater for drinking, European countries were skeptical of landfills far earlier than U.S. authorities.

It was not until 1984 that Congress moved to restrict landfill waste disposal in the United States. Those restrictions still are being put into place by the Environmental Protection Agen-

Piasecki and Davis contrast this slow-moving approach to steps taken by Europeans.

The West German state of Hesse, for example, recently forced a chemical plant discharging hydrochloric acid into the Main River to institute an acid recovery process.

The authors devoted particular attention to contrasting approaches used in West Germany.

Ex-wife wrestled gun away

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) - A gunman's ex-wife, who wrestled a pistol away from him after he killed three people and just before he turned another revolver on himself, may have saved the lives of 10 people in the home, police say.

Police said Thomas Schrader, 33, a former Dallas resident who died Sunday morning of the gunshot wound he inflicted upon himself Saturday night, killed his girlfriend, his father and his older brother before his ex-wife, Kathy Schrader, managed to get a gun away from him.

Killed were Schrader's father, William Schrader, 66; his brother, Steven Schrader, 38; and his girlfriend, Celine Catalan, 29, of Mesquite, Texas. Autopsies were being performed today on the four bodies. Officer Michael J. McCormick of the Hot Springs Police Department said Sunday that police think Schrader, who they believe was being treated for mental problems, was trying to shoot everyone in the house.

Family and friends were gathered at the home of William and Betty Schrader, where Thomas Schrader had lived for about a year, for the couple's wedding anniversary and a birthday party for the daughter of Thomas Schrader and Kathy Schrader.

When the shooting started, Mc-Cormick said, six children in the house "locked themselves in a bathroom and other individuals hid in closets." He said Kathy Schrader got a gun from her exhusband while he was reloading it, at which time he took another gun and shot himself.

"It appears that one of the female members of the family wrestled with the person doing the shooting and enabled the other victims, or the other potential victims, to escape," Detective Gary Miller of the Hot Springs Police said shortly after the shootings

"I knew this was going to nappen," Schrader's ex-wife, Kathy, couldn't shoot anymore.

In Hesse and sister state Bavaria, government-owned or joint government-industry companies have a legal monopoly on the handling of hazardous waste. In comparison, companies in North Rhine-Westphalia are under no obligation to use the waste management company established by the regional environmental protection organization. As a result, a North Rhine-Westphalia hazardous waste incinerator has been a "near failure" that needs heavy subsidies to keep going, the authors

Sweden and Finland are following Denmark with government companies to handle hazardous waste, the book says. A French goverment agency, meanwhile, makes grants to private waste companies.

Public entities have taken large ownership positions in waste handling facilities in Austria and the Netherlands.

The EPA spends only about $1 million a year on programs to reduce the generation of industrial waste, while France and the Netherlands have made "source reduction" a key part of economic policy, the authors report.

Despite considerable advantages, however, the European systems are far from fool-proof, the authors say. West German officials report, for example, the existence of "a lucrative waste traffic to East Germany and other countries.

Davis is a research associate at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville and Piasecki is a professor at Clarkson University.

The first officer to arrive at the frame home near the Oaklawr Park horse-racing track heard the shot that killed Thomas Schrader, McCormick said.

Garland County Coronei William Mashburn said medications for Thomas Schrader were found at the home which would 'indicate behavorial or menta disturbance ... There is an indica tion that he had been under a psychiatrist's care for some time.

"We haven't determined exact ly whether it was a random shooting or if the person doing the shooting had selected specific victims," Miller said.

Thomas Schrader's mother said, "We had had dinner and bir thday cake and I was clearing of the table when I heard what sounded like firecrackers.'

"There was no discord what soever during the entire day," Mashburn said. "This person totally lost control of himself."

A neighbor and long-time family friend who asked not to be identified said she talked to Betty Schrader shortly after the shooting.

"The oldest brother began walking to the door when Tommy shot him," the neighbor said. "Then he shot his father and girlfriend. I don't know which first. His ex-wife grabbed for his gun and that's when he shot himself in the mouth."

Police said a .357 Magnum shootings, and that a third gun may have been used.

The elder Schrader owned a men's clothing store in Hot Springs and his son Steven worked there, McCormick said. McCormick said Thomas Schrader was unemployed.

Grace Mooney, a neighbor, said she noticed a change in Thomas Schrader's behavior about 18 months ago.

"There's been something wrong with Tommy for a while,' she said. "He started staying in his front bedroom with the drapes closed all the time. He never came out."

Schrader had moved back to his parents' house about 16 monthe ago after failing in a business venture selling aloe vera pro-ducts in Dallas, family members said

Suburban cities considering nixing San Antonio service

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) -One suburban city will not renew its contract for San Antonio. Emergency Medical Service and two others are considering dropping the service because of high costs and poor service, city officials say.

City officials from Shavano Park, Hill Country Village and Leon Valley are discussing options to the current service, including contracting with a private ambulance company.

Rare illness can be managed

DEAR DR. GOTT: My wife has Whipple's disease. She's been receiving antibiotics for a year and is not suffering, but a recent biopsy shows that the disease is still present. Does this disease ever get cured? What health progress can we expect?

DEAR READER: Whipple's disease is a rare intestinal disorder marked by malabsorption of nutrients, excess fat in the stool, anemia and joint pains. The cause is unknown, and the diagnosis is made by biopsy of the small intestine.

Although antibiotics - and sometimes cortisone - are useful in relieving symptoms and producing remission, the disease tends to recur. In short, Whipple's disease is treatable; but incurable by present methods. As long as your wife is aided by antibiotics and continues to take them, her health problems can be kept under control

Many patients have discovered that support groups are useful in helping patients adjust to the disease and avoid complications. Contact the Health Information Clearinghouse (800-336-4797) to find out the name and location of organizations devoted to the support of Whipple's patients.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Our son, 30, lives with us, does not use drugs or alcohol and holds a steady job. However, trying to get him up in the morning is terrible. We have to physically push him around to get him to work on time, although at work he is fine. He takes Tegretol and Primidone twice a day. He wasn't always this sleepy. Would hypnosis help?

Skin disorder plagues toddler

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) -Chastity McNiel's mother doesn't mind when the three-year-old wants peanut butter and jelly all mashed up - for breakfast. Because of a rare skin disorder, it's one of the few things she can swallow.

Webs of scar tissue cover Chastity's knees with purplish splotches. Her fingers lack fingernails, and her hands have the raw red look of recovering burn wounds.

"You have to handle her very delicately," her mother, Carol McNiel, 28, said recently in their area home.

The slightest tap can trigger rapidly spreading blisters and cause skin to just fall off because of a rare skin disorder.

'When she was born and they were cleaning her feet, the skin came off," Mrs. McNiel told the San Antonio Light. "In a matter of hours, she was a total sore."

"I think the hardest thing to take is when she's in pain, when she falls," explained Chastity's father, a guitarist in the Air Force Band of the West.

The Dystrophic Epidermolysis Bullosa Research Association of America, based at Kings County Medical Center in Brooklyn, N.Y., has nudged the federal government into increasing National Institutes of Health grants for research from less than $150,000 in 1981 to more than $20 without their knowledge at Parkland Hospital, officials say.

As part of a hospital policy, that Parkland administrators say has since been changed, the hospital tested about 700 emergency room patients for AIDS.

And the secret testing also extended to include an unknown number of other admitted patients, the Dallas Times Herald reported Sunday.

"We don't encourage wholesale screening, and we think it's very foolish and a waste of money,' like tough stitches that hold the said Dr. Ron Anderson, president of the hospital. "But there's no question that patients have had blood drawn and tested without their consent.

In addition to testing of emergency room patients, doctors, at Parkland ordered the testing for some admitted patients. Dr. Alan Pierce, Parkland's medical director, said doctors are concerned about being infected with the virus.
