Plane confiscated in Borden County linked to drug run

GAIL — An airplane that was believed to have made an earlier "drop" of 1,200 pounds of marijuana at Lake Possum Kingdom landed in a rural area west of here in Borden County late Monday, and officers were looking for two men who reportedly escaped on foot after the plane landed. The plane was in the custody of the Borden County sheriff's office Tuesday, and a Department of Public Safety spokesman in Midland said at noon that the men still had not been apprehended. There had been some arrests near Possum Kingdom in Palo Pinto County, however, he said. A DPS spokesman in Weatherford said two men were in custody, but no other details were immediately available. "There are still some people on the ground that haven't been arrested," the Midland narcotics agent said, referring to the Borden County incident. He added that search warrants to be used in Borden County were being prepared at mid-day by the federal Drug Enforcement Administration in Lubbock. In Brief

Pleads guilty

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — An engineer accused of running a stop signal and driving three freight locomotives into the path of a speeding passenger train pleaded guilty today to one count of manslaughter in Amtrak's deadliest crash ever.

The state agreed to drop 15 other manslaughter counts against former Conrail engineer Rick L. Gates in the Jan. 4, 1987, crash, Baltimore County State's Attorney Sandra O'Connor told Circuit Court Judge Joseph F. Murray. The crash killed 16 people and injured more than 170 others.

Candidates watching primary results

Primary voters in New Hampshire casting their votes

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Vice President George Bush drew heart from his midnight victory in the village of Dixville Notch as New Hampshire primary voters began today to put their often unpredictable mark on the 1988 presidential campaign. Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis expected a neighborly boost from Democratic voters. As the polls opened, final surveys pointed to a tight race between Bush and Kansas Sen. Bob Dole, who was hoping to make New Hampshire his second big win in a row. Several candidates visited polling places. Democratic Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois and Republican Pat Robertson ran into each other at Northwest Elementary School in Manchester. "It's going to be an interesting contest," said Robertson. "I met three of 'em that voted for me early so I hope that holds. Best wishes to you today." "Well thank you, thank you very much," replied the senator. In keeping with longstanding tradition, the 34 voters of Dixville Notch cast their ballots shortly after midnight at the Balsams, a resort hotel, and gave the edge to Bush and Democrat Richard Gephardt. Commenting on the Dixville Notch results in which he received 11 votes to 6 for Dole, Bush, desperate for a comeback from his Iowa defeat, said, "I think that it's an indication, because they have been right since 1952, and it shows that I've been getting my message out, in contrast to Sen. Dole."

In many communities the polls didn't open until 9 a.m. Those that did open early reported a moderate to heavy turnout. "It's more than we've seen in the last few elections," said an election official in Goffstown. Statewide, about 150,000 Republicans and 115,000 Democrats were expected to vote, according to William Gardner, secretary of state. The weather cooperated. There was light rain in the southern part of the state and snow flurries up north. Partly cloudy skies were expected by afternoon. The final opinion polls pointed to a tight race between Bush and Dole on the Republican side and a battle for runnerup honors behind Dukakis between Gephardt and Simon. A CBS News poll, released today, of likely voters had the Republican race at 34 percent for Bush and 30 percent for Dole. On the Democratic side, Dukakis had the support of 38 percent, Simon 16 percent and Gephardt 13 percent.

SCIENCE FAIR PROJECTS—Snyder Junior High School science students have been busy preparing exhibits and experiments for the annual science fair slated for this Friday and Saturday. Diane

SHS opens Friday 'best of' Broadway

A combined production of the Snyder High School drama and choir departments will open Friday—a show featuring the "best of" both current and past Broadway musicals. Titled, "Hello Broadway," the show will be staged in Worsham Auditorium Friday, Monday and Tuesday beginning at 8 o'clock nightly. An estimated 80 students from both departments will be featured in both song and dance. Coordinating the effort have been Bill Lyon, choir director, and Jerry Worsham, head of the drama department. The show, which will run approximately one hour, 45 minutes, has been in rehearsal some five weeks. "We wanted to do a contemporary Broadway show, but the material in these is sometimes too adult or the choreography is too difficult," said Worsham. As a result, he said the two departments opted to perform highlights from a composite of shows. Some of these represented will include "Les Miserables," "Cats," "A Chorus Line" and "West Side Story," he said. A small orchestra will accompany many of the show's songs. The musical presentation will feature also the debut of new sound equipment purchased for the auditorium. Worsham called it "state of the art" and noted it was financed in part from interest monies derived by the Rockefeller Foundation grant which honored the fine arts program at SHS.

Junior high plans third science fair

The third annual Snyder Junior High Science Fair is scheduled Friday and Saturday at the school campus. An estimated 130 projects are expected, according to event organizer Joan Morley, junior high science teacher. These will include some 80 projects from seventh and eighth graders as well as 50 more expected from elementary-age youngsters, who have been invited to participate also. They will compete in their own division. She said many students have been working on their projects since October. The student work will be set-up

Friday and will go on display for parents and other interested spectators Saturday morning. The science fair exhibits will be in the junior high girl's gymnasium. In addition to the elementary division, there will be three other competition categories, physical science, biology and exhibit, which will include models. Entries in physical science and biology will be based on the scientific method and will feature an experiment used to support a hypothesis. Friday's setup phase will precede the judging which is scheduled from 6:30 until 9 p.m. See FAIR, Page 9

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "It must be hard to live in a year-round climate. If the weather doesn't change, it would be tough starting a conversation." Another birthday has passed, and we're often reminded that attitude is the key to facing all of life's surprises. You either look at 'em as problems or opportunities. The question of attitude reminded us of the story about the novice at a monastery. He was told that his "vow of silence" allowed him to speak just two words a year. At the end of the first year, he announced to the abbot, "Food bad!" As the second year came to a close, he exclaimed, "Bed hard!" At the conclusion of the third year, he declared, "I'm going home!" "I thought so," replied the abbot. "You done nothing but complain ever since you got here."

Folks who pay attention to statistics say that only 13 percent of the women consider themselves pretty. More than twice the number of men, 28 percent, think they are handsome. Just like the attitude statement, beauty is in the eye of the looker. The same statistic folks can account for some of the nation's frustrations. It is reported that approximately 175,000 people try unsuccessfully each year to get Ronald Reagan on the telephone. What we'd like to see is the number who get him on the phone and what they say. Speaking of 1988, it's a numbers game—especially in the field of advertising and marketing. Everyone has likely seen Michael Jackson plugging cans of Pepsi. Celebrity advertising is popular these days, but Pepsi must sell 192,307,692 cans of pop just to recoup the cost of the Michael Jackson ad campaign. And those are "Real" dollars.

Solons ponder responsibility of state impeachment trial

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — As a political science major, Greg Lunn knew the job description including the fine print. Still, he never thought it would come to this.

"It is most definitely not the sort of task I had in mind when I ran for office," he said the other day, reflecting on what has become Topic A across Arizona among residents and visitors alike: the impeachment of the governor.

"And I'm sure," he said, "that I speak for my colleagues, of both parties."

Lunn is one of the 30 Arizona state senators who soon, sitting as a jury, will decide whether to restore Evan Mecham to office. Mecham is now in political limbo, impeached by the House of Representatives 46-14 and his gubernatorial duties assumed by the secretary of state.

The next step is a trial in the state Senate, where a conviction would require a two-thirds vote. The trial is scheduled to start Feb. 22.

Stop any senator in the Capitol corridors these days and you hear phrases like "awesome responsibility" and "no-win situation."

Mecham, a Republican, won the office with less than 40 percent of a light turnout in a threeway election. "It is safe to say," says Lunn, also a Republican, "that to the vast majority of Arizonans he is the worst governor this state has ever seen."

"Even so," says Lunn, "to invalidate a constitutionally held election is the most sobering act any of us could ever contemplate."

Lunn, 35, has made politics a career. Unlike nearly all other members of the Legislature he has no other job. He makes no bones about planning to run for governor himself some day.

Process server puts copy of lawsuit under windshield wipers

DALLAS (AP) — Former Methodist minister Walker Railey has been served with papers in a lawsuit accusing him of attempting to murder his wife, the Dallas Times Herald reported today.

In a copyright story, the newspaper reported that a San Francisco process server placed a copy of the lawsuit under the windshield wipers of a car as Railey and Lucy Papillon, a Dallas psychologist romantically linked to the former minister, tried to flee from a Northern California resort Monday.

The lawsuit was filed earlier this month by the parents of his wife, Margaret "Peggy" Railey, who is in a coma in a Tyler nursing home. She was left for dead on the floor of the garage in their Dallas home by an assailant who attacked her and attempted to choke her to death April 22. The suit alleges Railey was responsible for the attack.

Railey, former minister of the First United Methodist Church of Dallas, and Papillon, who told a Dallas County grand jury that she and Railey traveled together and once discussed marriage, were spotted at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Albion River Inn at Mendocino, Calif. by process server Steve Adams and a Dallas Times Herald reporter.

The newspaper reported that they were drinking beer outside their $140-a-night cabin when they spotted the process server and reporter.

Railey and Ms. Papillon ran into the cabin and remained there for 22 hours, the newspaper reported. They did not turn on any lights and had food delivered by room service and instructed inn employees to put through telephone calls only from certain individuals, the newspaper reported.

On Monday, the newspaper reported, a resort employee carried their luggage to their rented car. Ms. Papillon walked out of the cabin, got into the car and Railey darted from the cabin with a coat over his head, the newspaper reported.

Railey slumped down in the front seat as the car sped out of the driveway. Smith ran along beside the car, identified himself to Railey as a process server and placed the papers under the windshield wipers, the newspaper reported.

Railey told The Dallas Morning News in an interview late last week that he was not attempting to avoid the legal papers and was "keeping a low profile" to avoid the press.

Advance courses taken

BAYTOWN, Texas (AP) — The desks are way too big, but other than that, 11-year-old premedical student Kristen Banerjee says she feels perfectly at ease on the Lee College campus.

Kristen, a genius with an IQ of 164, was speaking in sentences before her first birthday, and at age 4 became fluent in Norwegian after spending the summer there with her father, Dallas research scientist Salil Banerjee.

She lives with her mother, Carol Harrison, in nearby Crosby northeast of Houston. The couple divorced when Kristen was a baby.

If she perseveres, Kristen could get her medical degree at age 17.

"I've been told she can't be licensed until her 21st birthday," her mother said. "But I think that may have changed. We're looking into it."

For light reading before bed, Kristen browses through the Physicians' Desk Reference, a thick volume about prescription drugs. "I love to read it. I like learning about the warnings and names of medicines," she said.

Kristen was 10 when she registered, and celebrated her 11th birthday on the day of her first English composition class a few weeks ago.

"This is going to be a fabulous year. I can tell you. I'm almost afraid to talk about it for fear I might wake up and find it was only a dream," she wrote in her first essay about her collegiate experience.

Dear Abby

Loyal Employee Wants Phone Company Criticism Put on Hold

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In reply to the letter from "Had Enough," it is certainly the privilege of consumers to criticize merchandise that they deem unsatisfactory for whatever reason, but I take very strong exception to the comment: "Lord knows we pay enough for telephone service..."

To perpetuate such a stereotype is certainly beneath you, as a spokesperson for our society. I truly believe that in this instance an apology is due.

MARIANNE H. OAKS,
GENERAL DIRECTOR,
SACRAMENTO OPERA
ASSOCIATION

I am employed by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and I've "had enough" of people complaining about what Ma Bell charges for her services. What would the writer pay for that little piece of magic that instantly connects you to a loved one whose voice you need to hear?

DEAR MS. OAKS: Oh, come on! I assure you, no offense was intended. But to those I offended, I offer my apologies.

And, if you're hearing impaired, it gives you special-telephone communication. How much is a service worth that summons help to your door 24 hours of every day from police and fire departments and medical teams (and allows these emergency facilities to transmit data that could save your life through computers via network access to telephone lines)?

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is thinking about getting married. She and Bobby have been living together for nearly seven years and have two children. He wants to be married in a church but neither one of them belongs to one, so his aunt is trying to get them married in the church she belongs to because it's close to the hall where they want to have their wedding reception.

Next time you're worried about your invalid parent, your child who has moved away from home, your new grandchild across the country, or the friend you lost contact with years ago, please stop and consider who puts you in contact with these people in just moments, and what that little bit of magic is worth to you.

My daughter would just as soon have a quick ceremony by a judge, but Bobby wants a big church wedding with her in a white wedding gown and veil and him in a white tux. He is paying for everything so she is doing it his way. They have everything they need in a house, so how do we go about telling people if they want to give them a gift to please make it money? Would that be in bad taste? I have heard it would be. I thought maybe if the invitations were written up explaining their circumstances, it would be OK. What do you think?

Your phone is the least expensive utility you have. Ask anyone who has traveled abroad. Thank you, Abby.

CARROL OLIPHINT

DEAR CARROL: Your message came through clear as a bell! But could someone tell me how much profit the telephone company makes on each call — local and long-distance?

KENTUCKY READERS

DEAR ABBY: I was most distressed to read in your column the expression: "It's not over until the fat lady sings."

DEAR READERS: It would be in poor taste to ask for money. And it would be unthinkable to "explain their circumstances" in the wedding invitations.

Not only is this insulting to those of us who are involved in the opera, but it is an insult to all people who are overweight.

Fourth 'R' is added at Seymour School

SEYMOUR, Texas (AP) — When students returned to classes at Seymour High School today, they found a fourth "R" added to the traditional three.

band hall and stage because classes cannot be held on the school's third floor.

The fourth "R" is for repairs. The school district's board of education voted last week to close all schools indefinitely until the 70-year-old high school could meet state regulations for temporary occupancy.

The district is requesting that the state commissioner of education grant a waiver so that students do not have to make up the two missed days. Although the high school houses only grades 7 through 12, trustees canceled classes for all grades to avoid bus and scheduling difficulties.

Students and teachers missed two days of class Friday and Monday while work was done on the building.

The school board voted to close all schools after hearing reports from the state fire marshal's office and structural engineer. The fire marshal, who cited safety and fire hazards, said his office would take steps to close the school if the building's problems were not remedied.

Superintendent Charles Barron met with a structural engineer and a state fire marshal Monday before announcing that school will resume today.

"In my opinion these remedial measures appropriately solve our immediate concerns for the safety of the occupying students and teaching staff as regards the structural safety of the building," engineer Ray Pinnell Jr. told the superintendent in a report.

The district has purchased three portable buildings and is negotiating for a fourth to house classes. Two of the buildings were moved onto campus Monday afternoon. They are expected to be put in use later this week once electricity is hooked up and they are inspected.

In praise of suit contracts

By James Jacoby

There are many advantages to playing a suit contract. You can establish a side-suit by ruffing out opposing high cards, you can ruff losers in dummy's short suit and you can even arrange to have a defender play his high trump on his partner's winner.

The four-heart contract was sound. The defenders were entitled to two spades and the ace of diamonds, with declarer succeeding as long as trumps split 3-2. But South found a way to snipe 10 tricks even though trumps broke badly. He won dummy's ace of clubs and led a diamond, winning the king when East ducked. He then continued with his queen. East won the ace and played the nine of spades. Declarer took the ace, played a heart to the king and ruffed a diamond, hoping the jack would fall. East threw a club, since declarer would simply discard a spade loser if East ruffed with the heart nine. Declarer then played his club king and ruffed his losing club. Next came the queen of hearts from dummy, West showing out, and now dummy's last diamond was led. Once again, if East ruffed, declarer would discard a spade. So East discarded the spade jack, declarer scored his remaining small trump, and the heart ace was his 10th trick. The hapless defenders took the remainder, West's good spade queen and East's heart jack falling together on the final trick.

Patchwork Squares learns how to save with no money

Patchwork Squares Extension Homemakers met Feb. 9 in the home of Pearl Wheeler with extension agent Kathryn Roberts giving the featured program on "How to Save Money When You Don't Have a Dime to Spare."

She pointed out how much money can be saved by eliminating even one regular item from a budget such as a daily coke. She distributed commitment cards and encouraged each member to make a decision to save and stick by it.

Handcrafted items of moldable clay called Cernit were displayed by Gingah Williamson.

The business meeting was conducted by President Peggy Remington who welcomed visiting council chairman, Virginia Humphrey.

20th Century chooses officers

Members of the Twentieth Century Study Club met Feb. 2 in the home of Mary Ann Key for officer elections.

Those chosen by the eight members present were Lois Bartels, president; Key, first vice-president; Lanette Patterson, second vice-president; Essie Mae Davis, recorder/secretary; Lois Bishop, reporter and Henrietta Dupree, treasurer.

For the topic of interest, members brought various handmade items to display. Refreshments were served.

University Women meet with chief juvenile officer

American Association of University Women met Feb. 3 with Larry Thompson, chief juvenile officer in the district which includes Scurry and Borden Counties.

Introduced by Kay Hopper, first vice-president of the club, Thompson told about his work with juveniles and adult probationers. He also provides information for services offered by Scurry County agencies when the need arises.

Tammy Wesson gave the treasurer's report and there was discussion concerning the club scholarship. It was suggested that the amount be reduced and an additional scholarship be made available to an adult woman wishing to attend college. Wesson's report concluded with discussion for money-making ideas.

Martha Millhollon, representative to Martha Ann Woman's Club, reported on fund raisers for the club.

Gayle Wittie reported on Midland's Christmas in April project. The program is designed for the elderly who are unable to complete their own home repairs. Volunteers and merchants organize for a massive effort in clean-up, painting, repairs, and meals during the event.

Club members voted to donate money to the project headed by Sam Robertson.

Hostesses for the session were Peggy English and Wesson.

Tigers try Lake View Chiefs keep ear towards Lamesa also

SAN ANGELO -- Coach Larry Scott will be trying to keep his Tigers from leaning an ear towards Lamesa when they take on the Lake View Chiefs in a key District 2-4A basketball game here tonight.

Scott's Tigers are involved in a three-way tie for second place in the district and one of those teams - Andrews - plays frontrunner Lamesa tonight. In the other important 2-4A contest, Big Spring takes on Sweetwater.

But the Tigers can't worry about those games. They'll have business to take care of.

"Lake View has shown they can be tough at home. We can't take anything for granted. It will be tough," said Coach Scott of tonight's game here, which has a 7:30 p.m. tipoff.

A junior varsity tilt opens the action at 6 p.m.

Scott's Tigers go into the game with a 20-8 season record. The Tigers are 11-3 in district competition, tied with Andrews and Big Spring. Lamesa is 12-2.

Lake View is 3-11 in 2-4A action and 9-19 overall. The Chiefs have lost several games by a handful of points, however, and have been particularly tough at Lake View Gym.

A win for the Tigers would put them a step closer to the playoffs. They can assure themselves of at least a tie for second place by defeating Lake View tonight and Monahans on Friday. Tonight's game between Andrews and Lamesa, and Friday's contest putting Andrews and Big Spring, could help to settle the issue.

Girl's action in 2-4A ended last weekend with highly touted Big Spring claiming the championship. Pecos is the girl's district runnerup representative in the playoffs.

Ira girls battle Roby in first of three games

Ira's Lady Bulldogs battle Roby in the first of three Class A basketball playoff games today at Scurry County Coliseum.

Tickets for the evening's action will be $2 for adults and $1 for students.

The triple headers begins at 5 p.m. as the District 17A champion Lady Bulldogs take the floor against Roby's Lions.

At 6:30 p.m., Jayton and Aspermont boys clash in a District 18A matchup to determine playoff rights.

At 8 p.m., the Jayton Lady Jays clash with the Loraine Lady Bulldogs in a girl's bi-district clash. Jayton is the District 18A winner; Loraine was runnerup in 17A.

7th grade hoops action

Snyder seventh grade boys split in games with Sweetwater Monday.

Snyder B-team lost 43-23 while the local A-team won in overtime, 54-48.

Scoring for the B-team were Wayland Harrison 4, Andy Weaver 2, Jason Warren 2, Chad Walker 2, Marcos Villa 6, Ben Wilson 5 and Chris Stansell 2.

Scoring for Snyder's A-team were J.J. Kincheloe 4, Charles Richardson 6, Tory Garza 13, Brian Luna 6, Anthony Alvarez 2 and Steven Bollinger 23.

Selected as MVP of the A-team was Richardson.

The young Tiger teams closed their seasons with Monday's games. The A-team compiled a 4-3 record; the B-team a 2-5 mark.

Early bowling results

Jay Roemisch is the early all-events leader in the Snyder Men's Bowling Association City Handicap Tournament, being held at Snyder Lanes.

Roemisch rolled a 1,945 to take the lead last weekend. More action is scheduled Saturday and Sunday, and the public is invited to watch.

Roemisch shared top honors in doubles and team competition. He joined Mike Doolittle to grab the lead in doubles play with a 1,267, and he, Doolittle, Randy Billingsley and Mark and David Lyle took the top spot under the name S.O.S. in team play with a 2,997 score.

Rick Beard leads the singles with a 652.

Coyotes blast Sanderson

GREENWOOD -- Borden County's Lady Coyotes ran past Sanderson 71-23 in a Class A girl's bi-district basketball game here Monday evening.

Lisa Sternadel led the Coyotes with 19 points. Elana Himes scored 18.

Borden County advances in the playoffs with a 21-4 record. The Coyotes' next opponent is to be determined.

Tigers scrimmage again

PLAINVIEW -- Snyder varsity baseball team is scheduled to scrimmage Plainview here Thursday. Teams plan to begin the scrimmage at about 4:30 p.m.

Hosts Midland on Thursday...

WTC falls to Odessa, 115-94

ODESSA -- Odessa College's powerhouse Wranglers used depth in scoring to defeat Western Texas College in conference basketball action here Monday night.

The Wranglers put seven players in double figures - 10 on the scoreboard - as they outlasted the Westerners, 115-94.

Odessa's win, coupled with Midland's 84-66 victory over Howard, locked three teams into the Region V Tournament. Odessa (13-1), New Mexico Junior College (10-2) and South Plains (9-3) all secured spots in the post-season tournament. Monday's outcomes dropped Western Texas and Howard to eight conference losses each, and left only a slight glimmer of hope that either could attain the fourth and final playoff spot. Midland (8-4) needs only one more victory - an event Coach Tony Mauldin's Westerners hope to put off for a week. They entertain Midland's Chaparrals on Thursday.

In other WJCAC men's games Monday, New Mexico Military defeated Frank Phillips 78-59 and South Plains topped Clarendon 68-65. South Plains defeated Clarendon 68-62 in the only women's game.

Western got its usual strong scoring from 6-4 sophomore Darrell Nelson, whose 34 point-effort

High flying ACU Wildcats defeated by numbers game

ABILENE, Texas (AP) -- The Lone Star Conference ordered Abilene Christian to forfeit its men's basketball game with Cameron and disallowed the school from participation in the loop's post-season tournament, officials said.

The LSC also ordered Abilene Christian to reimburse Cameron $500 for expenses the Oklahoma school incurred after ACU canceled the teams' Feb. 8 game.

Dr. O.S. Cauthen of San Angelo, LSC president and vice president of Angelo State, notified ACU of the ruling in a certified letter dated Feb. 12 and received Monday by Garvin Beauchamp, ACU institutional representative to the NCAA and LSC.

makes well with a 29.6 season average. Melvin Thompson and Gerald Wells split 30 points while

"We regret this decision of the Lone Star Conference," ACU Athletic Director Don Drennan said. "Our cancellation of this game was strictly an attempt to stay within the guidelines of the NCAA. We meant no harm to Cameron University. We now consider this case closed."

ACU was tied with Angelo State for first in the LSC race, each with a 6-1 league record after Monday night's games. The ACU Wildcats, who have won the post-season tournament the last three seasons, won the LSC championship in 1985 and 1986 and tied West Texas State for the 1987 crown.

ACU could still be invited to the NCAA Division II postseason tournament.

Bobby Spear bagged 14. Nine of Thompson's 15 points came from 3-point range.

For Odessa, Clifford Martin, a 6-8 freshman, stuck in 23 points. Riley Smith scored 19, Larry Johnson 15, Rodney Samuel 14, Troy Bell and Michael Davis 12 each and Tony Jackson 10.

Odessa, 26-3 overall, will host Clarendon on Thursday.

Western's tipoff with Midland is scheduled for 8 p.m. at Scurry County Coliseum. The Westerners take a season record of 7-20 into the contest. They are 4-7 in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference.

Europeans dominate Winter Games

CALGARY, Alberta (AP) -- U.S. athletes say it's too early to count them out of the quest for Olympic gold, as one of their top officials suggests, but trouble's brewing after three days without even coming close to a bronze.

Instead of medals and celebrations, there's bickering, excuses and promises.

So far, the hills and rinks of the Winter Games belong to European athletes. Swiss downhill racer Pirmin Zurbriggen carved a giant Z into the twisting slope of Mount Allan on Monday, and the sturdy Soviet cross-country skiers pushed their team's medal total to a high of five.

The East Germans, showing a passion for speed, added Jens Mueller's luge gold to a speed skating world record and gold the day before and tied Switzerland, Finland and Czechoslovakia with two medals each.

U.S. fortunes seemed about to change in the evening, in stunning fashion, when the seventh-seeded American hockey team riddled No. 3 Czechoslovakia for a 3-0 lead early in the first period.

When it reached 4-1 in the second period, the first chants of "U-S-A" rumbled through the Saddledome, only to be answered a moment later by a Czech goal, the first of a barrage capped by a short-handed goal and a rink-length slapshot into an empty net for a 7-5 Czech victory.

"Heartbreaking, no. Disappointing, yes," said U.S. Coach Dave Peterson. "We're big boys. We're not going to fold our tents and go home. It's not crushing. It's a defeat. The world won't end because we lost a hockey game."

The chances of a U.S. hockey medal, however, certainly dimmed. The Americans, 1-1, next play the No. 2 Soviets, who crushed Austria 8-1, and will be hard-pressed to survive into the six-team medal round.

Peterson blamed the loss, in part, on officiating, saying it "was just lousy." But that excuse hardly explained why the American squad seemed worn out in the second period and suddenly shy about going for the puck.

The poor start of the American delegation overall was "not unanticipated," said Baron Pit-tenger, the second-highest ranking U.S. Olympic official. Indeed, he added pessimistically, "I think it is possible, although I hope it doesn't occur, that we won't win a gold medal."

Don't tell that to the U.S. athletes. They're not buying Pit-tenger's early write-off.

Conspiracy charges...

White supremacist leaders face trial

CAMPAIGN VISIT — The wife of Democratic candidate for Texas Railroad Commission Jerry Langdon was in Snyder Friday as part of her husband's campaign. Visiting as part of a 12-city, two-day tour was Mimi Langdon (right), accompanied by fellow campaign worker Melinda Musselman. Langdon, a Midland man who owns his own petroleum consulting firm, is running against incumbent Jim Nugent. (SDN Staff Photo)

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Three leaders of the white supremacist movement accused of conspiring to overthrow the federal government and form an Aryan nation and 11 other defendants faced trial under tight security today.

The charges against individual defendants, members of various white supremacist groups, include involvement in bank robberies, armored truck holdups, bombings of utility facilities and a plot to kill a federal judge and an FBI agent.

Jury selection was to begin today amid tight security, including dozens of heavily armed law enforcement officers and at least two metal detectors for screening courtroom visitors.

Late Monday, manacled defendants guarded by officers with submachine guns were brought into the federal courthouse as patrol cars blocked streets by the building.

Ten defendants are accused of conspiring "to destroy by force the government of the United States and form a new Aryan nation," according to the indictment by a federal grand jury last April.

"If the indicted leaders are convicted and sentenced to lengthy prison terms, some of these organizations will have trouble surviving," the Anti-Defamation League of the Jewish organization B'nai B'rith said after the indictment.

In the weeks leading up to the trial, the Ku Klux Klan held 15 rallies in Arkansas cities. In most cases the turnout was small, and Klan backers were met in some cases by hostile observers.

At a rally here Saturday, Robert Edward Miles, 63, said the government was persecuting some of his fellow defendants because it didn't like their choice of associates. "This government wants one cookie mold ... one garden in which all the flowers look alike," Miles said.

The three defendants widely regarded as white supremacist chieftains are: —Miles, 63, of Cohoctah, Mich.,

leader of the Mountain Church of Jesus Christ the Savior at Cohoctah. A former grand dragon of the KKK in Michigan, Miles was convicted in 1973 in connection with the bombing of empty school buses in Pontiac, Mich., then under a court order to desegregate schools.

—Louis Ray Beam Jr., 41, of Houston, a former grand dragon of the Knights-of the Ku Klux Klan in Texas. Beam, who was arrested in Mexico, led a campaign of violent intimidation of Vietnamese immigrants fishing in the Galveston area, Texas officials said. During his bond hearing, he said that the U.S. government no longer belongs to the people. In a letter obtained by government agents, Beam said America was under the control of a Zionist Occupation Government, or ZOG.

—Richard Girnt Butler, 69, leader of the Church of Jesus Christ Christian (Aryan Nations) of Hayden Lake, Idaho. A former aerospace engineer, Butler leads a church that has attracted some white supremacists to its fold, including some who formed a group named The Order, sometimes called the Silent Brotherhood, authorities said.

Federal investigators have said The Order is a Nazi-like group whose members turned to violence to bring about the government's downfall.

According to the indictment, the 10 defendants accused of sedition conspired from 1983 to 1985. The document includes a list of robberies and bombings.

Five of the 14, are accused in the alleged plot to kill the judge and FBI agent, who were key figures in the federal prosecution of people who harbored tax protester Gordon Kahl.

Kahl, who had been wanted in North Dakota in the slaying of two U.S. marshals, was killed in Smithville in 1983 in a shootout that claimed a sheriff's life.

One of the five has already been convicted of two murders.

AIDS debate resumes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House resumes its struggle toward a national AIDS policy this week with two sharply contrasting Californians at the extremes of disputes over issues ranging from discrimination to testing.

On one side is Democratic Rep. Henry Waxman, the liberal and influential chairman of the House health subcommittee, whose Los Angeles district is ethnically diverse and big-city tolerant.

Across the ideological gulf but geographically next door is Rep. William Dannemeyer, R-Calif., a conservative from straight-laced and suburban Orange County.

Their differences will be aired Friday at what Waxman is calling a "refresher hearing" on his bill to provide money for voluntary AIDS tests, guarantee confidentiality for those tested, and protect AIDS victims and carriers from discrimination.

The hearing follows a series of canceled work sessions last year that Dannemeyer claims were scratched because Waxman didn't have enough votes to win approval of his bill.

"If he can't achieve his objective ... of anti-discrimination status for those with the virus, he will not move a bill in the 100th Congress," Dannemeyer said.

"We had other things pressing on us," Waxman responded when asked why the sessions were canceled. He said he expects to finish work on the AIDS bill within two months.

Though he maintained he is "always open to discussion," Waxman indicated he would not compromise on the measure's confidentiality or civil rights provisions and said he detected little support for Dannemeyer's positions.

"The whole public health world has concluded we need to protect against discrimination," Waxman said.

Dannemeyer calls it "inappropriate and absurd" to legislate anti-discrimination safeguards because of what he contends is the "unstable status" of information about AIDS transmission.

While Waxman quotes the prevailing view of virtually all public health authorities that AIDS cannot be transmitted by casual contact, Dannemeyer asserts that those authorities are rethinking "their dogmatic pronouncements that the AIDS virus is not a threat in the workplace."

Dannemeyer says employers should be free to decide whether to fire an AIDS victim or carrier. Going against the grain of prevailing psychiatric thought, he contended that homosexuals voluntarily choose their sexual preference and said schoolchildren should be taught that "homosexuality is a perverse lifestyle, it's an unhealthy lifestyle. That's a fact. We should tell that to kids."

Dannemeyer has introduced a bill requiring AIDS testing of marriage license applicants, hospital patients, people being treated for venereal disease and people convicted of drug or sex crimes. He has also sponsored a bill that requires reporting by name of every individual who has AIDS or tests positive for antibodies to the AIDS virus.

Waxman said Dannemeyer and others who promote such reporting requirements "seem to want these names for some other purpose" and that suspicion would discourage high-risk individuals from being tested.

"We have a clear danger of hysterical over-reaction where many people might find themselves persecuted for being infected," Waxman said. "We can't get sidetracked into an anti-gay crusade when our real job is to stop the spread of this terrible disease."

Waxman said the biggest concern at this point is not the transmission of AIDS among homosexuals but its spread among intravenous drug users "and their sexual contacts in the underclass."

Dannemeyer contended that strong homosexual lobbies are hobbling Congress and some state legislatures in their handling of the disease. He said AIDS victims have received kid-glove treatment that flies in the face of traditional ways to halt epidemics.

Woman's murder shocks residents

KINGSVILLE, Texas (AP) — It will take a while for the town to recover from 19-year-old Mary Beth Kunkel's murder.

Richard Lewis Brimage Jr. was convicted of capital murder and sentenced to die by lethal injection, but the pain over Ms. Kunkel's murder lingers.

Ms. Kunkel, a popular Texas A&I University freshman and former H.M. King High School homecoming queen, was reported missing Oct. 5, and found dead two days later in the trunk of a Cadillac parked at the Kingsville home of Brimage's parents.

"She was without a doubt one of the nicest people I've ever met. She always had a smile on her face," said Leo Walker, 20, who attended high school with Ms. Kunkel.

Ms. Kunkel's suffering became obvious as the crime unfolded in the courtroom. So did the pain of the Kunkel and Brimage families.

Brimage's father, Richard, a U.S. Air Force pilot, testified of the guilt he felt for spending too much time away from his son.

"I'm having one heck of a time not putting this on myself," Brimage's father testified during the punishment hearing. "I really didn't get to spend much time with him. I was too ambitious."

At one emotional point in his testimony, Brimage Sr. said, "I'd like to tell Mrs. Kunkel how sorry I am that this has happened."

The apology brought tears to members of the Brimage and Kunkel families.

"I just have to wait to heal my pain," said Ms. Kunkel's mother, Frances, during the seven-day trial in New Braunfels, where Brimage, 32, was convicted and sentenced to die. "I love my daughter very much. I miss her."

Leonel Molina, 32, of Kingsville, was convicted of murder for Ms. Kunkel's Oct. 5 slaying, and sentenced to 50 years in a plea bargain.

The crime and subsequent discoveries also brought grief to the witnesses and some of their families.

Plane linked to drug run

ing and night vision devices reportedly followed the drug plane from Palo Pinto County over Scurry County into Borden County, where it landed on a private airstrip around 11 p.m. about five miles west of Gail.

Mid-day reports were somewhat vague, but officers from the DPS and the Borden and Scurry sheriff's offices apparently were on the ground in the vicinity of the landing strip around the time the plane landed.

Authorities had the names of the two men who were believed to have been in the plane and said they were last seen fleeing the area on foot southwest of Gail. Officers said the men were believed to be from Austin.

Jr. high sets science fair

Judges will be provided by staffers from Western Texas College, Snyder High School and the Society of Petroleum Engineers.

On Saturday morning, the public is invited from 9 until 11 a.m.

The winners of the fair will be announced at a 10:30 a.m. awards assembly Saturday in the junior high auditorium. The honors will be handed out by Dr. Tom Scannicchio, assistant superintendent for curriculum.

Plaques for first, second and third place will be handed out.

Special honor ribbons will be given out in each division also and all students entering will receive a certificate.

Environmental impact hearing set

WAXAHACHIE, Texas (AP) — The lucrative "super collider," a particle accelerator that will probe the heart of matter, is a safe facility that would make a good addition to the neighborhood, officials say.

People who live in Ellis County, the site of Texas' entry into the national competition for the lucrative project, will meet today with officials from the U.S. Department of Energy, which will decide where the place the $4.4 billion atom smasher.

The public hearings offered Ellis County residents the chance to ask questions and make statements about the environmental effects of the super collider.

The proposed super collider is a particle accelerator laboratory, 53 miles in circumference, used to collide protons in a miniature replica of the "Big Bang" explosion many scientists believe brought the universe into being.

Local residents can feel safe about the super collider's operation, energy officials said during a news conference Monday.

"It has been shown they can operate very safely and in fact are very good neighbors," said Ira Adler, a deputy director in the Office of Energy Research at the Department of Energy. He said community activities would not be disrupted by the super collider, which would largely be built underground. Particle accelerators already exist in Illinois, New York, California, Switzerland, West Germany and the Soviet Union, but the super collider would be the largest ever.

Six other states are vying for the research laboratory. Other sites under consideration are in Arizona, Colorado, Illinois, Michigan, North Carolina and Tennessee.

American hopes?

Watch for these Olympic contenders

By Murray Olderman

CALGARY, Alberta (NEA) — Get used to the look of these names: Pirmin Zurbriggen, Alberto Tomba, Maria Walliser, Michela Figini, Katarina Witt.

Possibly Alexandr Fadeev, too. You may even learn how to spell the names of foreign hockey players.

Europeans may deny the television screen to Americans while the XVth Winter Olympiad (Feb. 13-28) is being held in Calgary.

Olympic heroes flare quadrennially, and sometimes U.S. Olympic stars become imbedded in consciousness as national and international heroes.

There was a succession of glamorous American figure skating champions — Tenley Albright (1956), Carol Heiss (1960), Peggy Fleming (1968) and Dorothy Hamill (1976). Dick Button won successive Olympics (1948-52) and still reigns as the eminent U.S. analyst of figure skating — he'll be on the ABC telecasts.

America's Eric Heiden remains the epitome of the speedskater nonpareil after his colossal five gold-medal sweep at Lake Placid in 1980.

But winter heroes are generally evanescent. Billy Koch was a phenomenon because he managed to win a silver medal in the 30 kilometer cross-country in 1976 at Innsbruck, Austria. He's the only American ever to win a cross-country medal. Yet that memory dims.

Now the urge to compete, to excel, even in obscure events, drives a whole new generation of American athletes.

This is the outlook for Calgary:

• Alpine skiing — The U.S. women's team was expected to make a strong showing, but it has been decimated by injuries. Tamara McKinney, a veteran World Cup champion, has to overcome a fractured ankle suffered last November in a run on the Olympic site, Nakiska at Mount Allan Debbie Armstrong, winner of the giant slalom at Sarajevo in 1984, has likewise been hampered by a leg injury. And Eva Twardokens and Tori Pillinger were knocked out of the Olympics altogether after mishaps on the slopes.

Look for Maria Walliser and Michela Figini of Switzerland, Blanca Fernandez Ochoa of Spain and Mateja Svet of Yugoslavia to be the big names at Nakiska.

The U.S. men's ski team is in a downspiral. Downhiller Bill Johnson, plagued by injuries, is a long, long shot. So are slalom racers Felix McGrath and Tiger Shaw.

Pirmin Zurbriggen of Switzerland is the leading male skier in the world. He's closely challenged by the sensation of the current World Cup season, Italy's Alberto Tomba, and by veteran Marc Girardelli of Luxembourg.

The host country, Canada, has a strong contender in Rob Boyd for a gold medal in the downhill.

• Figure skating — Defending gold medalist Katarina Witt of East Germany must ward off a troika of Americans, led by the dynamic Debi Thomas, who has exchanged world titles with Witt. Jill Trenary, last year's American champ, and stylish Caryn Kadavy are very much in contention, too.

The men's figure skating shapes up as a two-way battle of the Brians — Brian Boitano of the United States and Brian Orser of Canada — with Alexandr Fadeev of the Soviet Union waiting for either to falter.

In the pairs skating, America's Jill Watson and Peter Oppegard are as good as any.

• Speed skating — Nick Thometz, with World Cup credentials, is the leading men's hope for a U.S. gold medal, in the sprints. Dave Silk is a contender in the distance races. For the American women, Bonnie Blair looms as a possible winner in the 500- and 1,000-meter races.

• Hockey — The U.S. team, led by '84 holdover Corey Millen and phenom Brian Leetch, was impressive in a December tour against a Soviet Select team. But both the United States and Russia, which has won the gold medal in five of the last six Olympics, will be pushed hard by Canada and Czechoslovakia.

• Biathlon — Josh Thompson, who grew up in the West, is this serious American hope in this skiing and marksmanship event. He won a silver medal in the 20-kilometer test at the 1987 world championships.

• Bobsled — American sled technology still hasn't caught up with the Eastern bloc countries, specifically East Germany. The United States, winless in the four-man or two-man bobsled races since 1948, is unlikely to break the streak in Calgary.

• Luge — Every four years Americans get intrigued by men and women sledding down a ribbon of ice flat on their backs. The communist and Alpine countries excel. But there's a rooting U.S. interest in 19-year-old Duncan Kennedy, a sleeper among the men, and Bonny Warner, who won a World Cup singles race.

• Nordic skiing — The favorites are mostly Scandinavian. The Nordic combined blends both cross-country and ski jumping into one competition. Ski jumping is the epitome of the agony and the ecstasy of sport (remember that Yugoslav tumbling in the ABC lead-in to "Wide World of Sports"). Mike Holland emerges as America's top fly-boy.

Citius, Altius, Fortius. Those aren't foreign names, but the Latin motto for the Olympics. "Faster. Higher. Braver." Those words typify the efforts of the men and women in the XVth Winter Olympics.

Grass burns in right-of-way

A grass fire that was started on U.S. 84 right-of-way by burning cotton stalks took about 20 minutes for firemen to extinguish 14 miles south of Snyder Monday afternoon.

The call came in at 2:15 p.m.

Wreck noted

A 1984 Ford two-door driven by Charles Lawrence Rennicks of Sweetwater was in collision with a 1982 pickup driven by Billie Marie Boedecker of 1000 30th St. at 3:50 a.m. Tuesday in the 900 Block of 37th St.

U.S. fast-food franchises achieve worldwide status

WASHINGTON (AP) — The odds are increasing rapidly that Americans traveling abroad can find a fast-food place that bears a familiar name.

"McDonald's in Munich, Pizza Hut in Fiji and Taco Bell in Sydney are just three examples of the trend toward expanding foreign markets for U.S. restaurant franchises," says an Agriculture Department report.

In 1985, there were 6,122 international franchise units, up 36 percent from 3,943 in 1980. Figures by the Commerce Department show that Canada and Japan account for almost half, with Australia and New Zealand ranking next.

The report was written for the department's National Food

Review magazine by two economists, Charlene Price and Hal Linstrom of USDA's Economic Research Service.

"As you might expect, the popularity of the different restaurants varied around the world," the report said. "For example, Canada was the largest market for hamburger units, and Japan accounted for the greatest share of the chicken market. Australians and New Zealanders enjoyed pizza."

McDonald's, Kentucky Fried Chicken, Burger King and Wendy's — the four largest U.S. restaurant chains — accounted for 31 percent of the world total, franchising 4,626 restaurants internationally by 1986, up from 272 in 1974, the report said.

As the largest food service organization in the world with about 9,400 establishments, McDonald's led the international scene with about 2,138 outlets, compared with 370 five years earlier, the report said.

Kentucky Fried Chicken, a division of PepsiCo Inc., operated more than 6,500 units, including 1,854 in 54 foreign countries.

Burger King, part of Pillsbury Foodservice, operated 4,744 outlets in 1986, including 403 in 24 foreign countries and Puerto Rico.

Wendy's, which grew to the world's fourth-largest restaurant chain in 17 years, operated almost 4,000 outlets, including 231 in 17 foreign countries.

Of the four largest franchisers, only Kentucky Fried Chicken operated outlets in Africa in 1986, and also held sole position in the Middle Eastern countries, the report said.

"Franchise growth overseas will continue in existing markets," the report said. "At the same time, some chains are entering previously untapped areas. Kentucky Fried Chicken and Pizza Hut, for instance, recently negotiated with the Chinese and Russian governments to bring fast food to those countries."

Most franchise restaurant companies probably will keep expanding their menus and services abroad as well as in the United States, particularly to meet a growing interest in diet and "light" foods.

"Strong growth in Mexican and oriental foods may also mean introduction of new menu items," the report said. "Following the U.S. trend, breakfast offerings are also likely to increase in overseas restaurants."

Report needs interpreting

DEAR DR. GOTT I had an enormous number of X-rays before major surgery in 1985 and 1986. Recently, I suffered a severe accident in which my body was crushed, and I had a bone scan. The scan revealed areas of increased uptake in my spine and ribs. The report comments on a possibility of metastatic disease. Could this reading be due to all the X-rays I've had? What is metastatic disease?

DEAR READER When a bone scan is performed, the patient is injected with a low-dose radioactive substance (isotope) that is carried to all the bones in the body, where it is deposited for a time. Once this has occurred, the body is scanned. The resulting X-ray film shows the extent to which the isotope has entered the bones, its distribution and its uniformity.

The isotope is selectively taken up by bone that is healing or undergoing some change. Hence, in such instances, "hot spots" will appear in the picture scan. In the presence of these portions of increased uptake, radiologists are often unable to provide a diagnosis of the reason for the additional uptake. All they can say is that normal bone metabolism is accelerated in these areas. Common causes include healing fractures, Paget's disease (a condition of rapid and spotty bone turnover) and metastatic disease (the presence of abnormal cells invading bone from a distant cancer). The scan must be correlated with the patient's "clinical state" (general health and history) in order for the test to be useful.

Your scan probably showed "hot spots" due to healing bone fractures from your accident. This would seem to be a more realistic impression than assuming you have cancer that has spread to bone. Your doctor should be able to put this issue in perspective; ask him or her about the bone-scan interpretation. In my opinion, your previous X-ray examinations are an unlikely cause for your scan results, except to the extent that they could have triggered a cancer in the soft tissues elsewhere in your body.

DEAR DR. GOTT My daughter, 19, has a lump on the right side of her forehead. It has grown progressively larger over the past year. Two doctors offer no suggestions. Can you?

DEAR READER A lump that grows progressively larger should be taken seriously. It could be a tumor or a cyst. In either case, the lesion should be biopsied or removed. Seek a third — or even a fourth — opinion. Eventually, you will find a doctor who will be able to diagnose your daughter's ailment — and treat it.

For Dr. Gott's complete discussion of problems and treatments of the prostate gland, write for your copy of Dr. Gott's new Health Report on THE PROSTATE GLAND. Send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Renowned physicist dead at 69

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nobel prize-winning physicist Richard Feynman, who worked on the development of the atomic bomb during World War II and helped investigate the 1986 Challenger space shuttle disaster, died Monday. He was 69.

Feynman, who had been a professor of theoretical physics at the California Institute of Technology since 1950, died at 10:34 p.m. at UCLA Medical Center of complications due to recurrent abdominal cancer, said hospital spokesman Rich Elbaum.

Feynman was awarded the Nobel prize in 1965 for his work in solving problems with the theory of quantum electrodynamics, which explained the standard radiation processes occurring in atomic physics.

Feynman was a member of the atomic bomb project staff at Princeton in 1942 and 1943 and at Los Alamos from 1943 to 1945.

He emerged as one of the leading critics of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration during a committee investigation of the deadly Jan. 28, 1986, explosion of the space shuttle Challenger that killed all seven crew members. He likened NASA's erratic attention to safety matters "to playing Russian roulette."

Government set to restrict promotion of homosexuality

LONDON (AP) — Critics of legislation that would restrict the promotion of homosexuality say the measure will fuel prejudice and could result in the censorship of works by authors such as Oscar Wilde and Tennessee Williams.

Despite protests from gay and civil rights activists, actors and opposition lawmakers, the bill stipulating that town and city authorities must not "intentionally promote homosexuality" swept through key legislative stages.

Opponents will try to get the measure watered down tonight at its final stage in the House of Lords, the unelected upper chamber of Parliament.

Unless amended then, the bill will likely become law on June 1.

Protests have ranged from the flashy — four lesbians shinned down ropes into the ornate House of Lords during a debate on the bill there this month — to measured expressions of outrage from the nation's most distinguished actors.

"It is a dangerous step backwards," said Lord Laurence Olivier and his wife, actress Joan Plowright, in a message supporting a January demonstration by show business personalities at the Playhouse Theater in the West End.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's ministers dismiss charges that the word "promote" is so vague that the works of Wilde, Irish-born playwright and wit, and other legendary figures who were homosexual or who wrote about homosexuals "could be removed from public libraries, which are run by local authorities."

The government also denies prejudice, but it accuses some left-wing Labor Party-controlled local authorities of using state funds to promote homosexuality as an acceptable life style, including in schools. Like libraries, most state schools are run by local councils.

Gay and left-center groups see the measure as harking back to the days before homosexuality between consenting adults was legalized in 1967.
