

Judge candidates aim verbal potshots

By BOB CAMPBELL
SDN Staff Writer

Critical comments and a brief rebuttal between candidates for district judge of the 132nd District Court caused brief sparks here Monday at a candidate forum held on the campus of Western Texas College.

The verbal tussling was between judicial candidate Pete Greene and Republican incumbent Gene Dulaney. Greene also offered pointed comments directed toward fellow Democratic candidate Tommie J. Mills.

During his presentation, Greene criticized both Dulaney's record as district judge and Mills as district attorney.

"I am not a politician," Greene declared early in his five-minute statement. "I'm not up here because I want a job or a salary. I'm here because I'm interested in the welfare of Scurry County."

Greene criticized Dulaney for a comment the incumbent judge had made during his presentation, a reference to his practice of being accessible to the public, seeing visitors in his office and talking to the public by telephone.

"It's a matter of judicial ethics," Greene said.

Following these comments, Dulaney rose to rebut, saying he does not discuss matters with the public "that are pending before my court."

Greene argued further that a judge being too friendly with the public in general may compromise future cases that have yet to materialize.

Dulaney had said in his presentation that he is in his office from 8:15 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily and that he has been commended by the area administrative judge for the condition of his docket, which has only a small backlog.

"You don't need a new district judge in Scurry and Borden counties because you already have a good judge," Dulaney said.

In reference to Mills, Greene, who served 13 years as district attorney, alleged Mills seldom went to court during his tenure and left between 300 and 400 cases pending. Greene was appointed to the post in 1971 after Mills' resignation from office.

During his tenure as DA, Greene said he reduced the backlog to about 30 cases upon his departure in 1984.

Mills, the first district judge candidate to speak, mentioned his years of community service in Scurry County, and cited re-

State senate seat...

Waller, Carriker note 'other' race

State representative candidate Rod Waller said at a Monday night candidates' forum that the prospect of his opponent, incumbent Rep. Steven Carriker of Roby, running simultaneously for re-election and for the Texas Senate puts him at a disadvantage.

"I'd prefer that he ran for the State Senate," Waller quipped, drawing laughter from an audience of about 80 persons in the Western Texas College Fine Arts Theatre. "The bad thing is, I don't know who I'd be running against."

Carriker said he will be campaigning for Democratic presidential candidate Richard Gephardt of Missouri prior to the March 8 primary and then will decide whether or not to enter the special May election for the rest of State Sen. Ray Farabee's term this year.

State law allows him to seek re-nomination for his District 78 state representative's seat and then go after the short Senate term in the "free-for-all" election with candidates of both parties, possibly, in May.

Carriker is a Democrat and Waller a Republican.

If Carriker won the special election and his party's Senate nomination, party officials would then choose another nominee to oppose Waller.

Asked during a question-and-answer period why he did not appear with the Snyder delegation in Austin when the city was awarded a Texas Department of Corrections unit, Carriker said he had supported the project and funding for it but missed a plane connection to return to Austin in time that morning.

Waller and Carriker were among more than a dozen candidates for various local and state offices to take part in the forum. Waller cited his experience as a city councilman, mayor and civic leader. Carriker noted his support of elimination of the career ladder and increasing salaries for teachers in the past legislative session.

District Judge George Hansard of Lamesa said his experience as a trial lawyer and judge make him more qualified, at 61 years of age, to be the Democratic nominee for the 11th Court of Appeals in Eastland than incumbent Bud Arnot, formerly of Abilene.

Arnot, 37, said he had 11 years of courtroom experience prior to his 1986 appointment by Gov. Mark White.

REPRESENTATIVE HOPEFULS — The topic of conversation between both candidate Rod Waller (left) and incumbent State Rep. Steve Carriker (background, right) Monday night was the possibilities of Carriker also seeking the state senator's seat now held by Ray Farabee. Waller joked he'd "prefer" Carriker run for the Senate, and the incumbent indicated his mind is not yet made up. (SDN Staff Photo)

Lobbyist selected to replace Webb

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan today named White House lobbyist Will Ball to be secretary of the Navy as the administration offered strong support for Defense Secretary Frank Carlucci against criticism of his leadership by Ball's predecessor.

If confirmed by the Senate, Ball will succeed James Webb, who abruptly resigned Monday with a blast at Carlucci and his attempts to curb Pentagon spending.

"The budget restructuring underway at the Pentagon now is a difficult and painful process," said White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater. "Secretary Carlucci is doing an admirable job. He's quite capable and suitable to the task and he's carrying out the president's policies in that regard."

Ball's nomination requires Senate confirmation.

Ball has been Reagan's assistant for legislative affairs since February 1986. A onetime chief clerk of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Ball served at times as administrative assistant to former senators Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., John Tower, R-Texas.

Discussing Ball's selection, Fitzwater said, "All of us who know him here at the White House know that the Navy is getting a strong advocate and a strong fighter both on the Hill as well as in any of the other courts of public opinion around the country."

While defending Carlucci, Fitzwater also offered words of praise for Webb.

"The president appreciates the service of James Webb," Fitzwater said.

He said that Webb "felt he could not support" the administration's policy and "he did the honorable thing. But his service was nevertheless distinguished and the president appreciates it very much."

Announcing his resignation Monday, Webb accused Carlucci of needlessly sinking the administration's dream of a 600-ship fleet.

Fitzwater said the 600-ship Navy "has been our goal for some time. The budgetary restrictions now have moved that target back" from fiscal 1989 to about 1992.

Ball will be succeeded at the White House by his deputy, Alan Kranowicz.

Webb also accused Carlucci of ordering him to lie about internal budget fighting, saying the defense chief had written him a note saying he should deny news stories reporting it was the Defense Department — and not the Navy — proposing to mothball ships.

An administration official who asked not to be identified said Carlucci was recommending that William L. Ball III, the assistant to the president for legislative affairs, be nominated to replace Webb.

The 42-year-old Webb, a highly decorated Vietnam combat veteran who earlier worked as an assistant defense secretary, said he had been contemplating resignation for some time but didn't make up his mind until Sunday.

State school board hopefuls to debate

Scurry County is represented on the 15-member State School Board as part of District 15, and local voters will have an opportunity Thursday night to hear from both candidates now seeking this post.

A candidate debate between incumbent Dr. Paul Dunn, a Levelland dentist, and Monte Hasie, a Lubbock stockbroker and member of the Lubbock school board for almost 12 years, is slated here at 7 p.m. Thursday.

It will be held at the junior high school auditorium and is being sponsored by the Council for Educational Excellence, the organization which supports academic endeavors in the Snyder public schools.

Both Dunn and Hasie seek the Democratic nomination in the ballot which will see the state school board revert back to an elected rather than appointed body.

Dunn was appointed to the state board with the implementation of House Bill 72 rules.

Hasie was first elected to the Lubbock school board in 1976. He is currently not a candidate for re-election to that post. In Lubbock, he is a stockbroker with the firm Thomson McKinnon Securities.

The format of the debate will allow both candidates to offer comments related to seven prepared questions. They will be allowed also to make a five-minute opening statement and a two-minute closing statement.

In between, questions from the audience will be allowed also.

Organizers say they plan for the debate to last approximately one hour.

The moderator Thursday will be Steve Smith, president for the Council for Educational Excellence.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Don't sit on the sidelines and criticize unless you plan to enter the game."

Most American youngsters hear the promise that they could grow up to become president. Who would have expected that so many people would have taken it seriously?

There are mixed signals going out to youngsters these days. We've got a TV evangelist wanting to be president and another TV preacher acting like one of the presidential candidates.

One thing is for certain, if you plan to be in public life—one had better be ready to live in a glass house.

In all the furor over presidential debates, prison lawsuits and poor judgment on the part of certain TV preachers—you may have missed the flap over the U.S. government purchase of five foreign-made autos.

The FBI is under fire for the purchase of five Toyota sedans. Michigan congressman John Dingell said, "They haven't learned who pays their salaries."

Although we happen to agree with the congressman, he's the same guy who helped sell the oil and gas industry down the river. He suggested that Texans' interest in oil and gas matters were matters of regional and not national interest.

The lack of a national energy policy—just like the absence of a national industrial policy—means that the U.S. has a growing trade deficit.

Trading at home is more than a local issue—it has far-reaching implications with regard to our nation's fiscal health. Like the feller said, "We're really all in the same boat—and you can't sink just one end of the boat."

The past week proves one thing. The human is a superior creation. No other animal can stand up and put both feet in his mouth.

Ask Us

Q. — How many women currently serve in the Texas Senate?

A. — Three. Two of these are serving their first term, Eddie Bernice Johnson of the Dallas-Fort Worth area, and Judith Zaffirini of Laredo. They join Cyndi Taylor Krier of San Antonio, first elected in 1985.

In Brief

Mayor dead

ADDISON, Texas (AP) — Mayor Jerry Redding was found shot to death minutes after he called police and gave them the location where his body would be found, authorities said.

Police Chief Rick Sullivan said Redding called him from his car telephone shortly after 3 p.m. Monday and told the chief to "get someone down here to find me."

Redding, who was one of several town officials under investigation for allegations of fiscal mismanagement at Addison Town Hall; told Sullivan to send officers to a town-owned jogging trail. Minutes later, police found Redding's body near the trail.

Officers shot

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A man who officials say shot two plainclothes policemen, then took refuge in an office building and held hostages, was a transient with mental problems, the city manager said.

The gunman, whose name was not released pending the filing of charges, had taken up to six hostages at an office building Monday night.

Local

City to meet

The Snyder city council has set a work session for Tuesday at 6 p.m. to discuss capital improvement projects for the city.

These include the laying of utility lines for the Texas Department of Corrections prison and improvements to the water treatment plant and sewer plant.

Court change

Tuesday's session of night court for city municipal court has been rescheduled for Thursday.

The night court sessions are normally held the first and last Tuesday of each month. The normal schedule will resume after this week.

Grads sought

Members of the Snyder High School graduating class of 1938 are now seeking the current addresses of five former classmates as part of planning for a 50th class reunion due April 29-30.

Addresses are now sought for Travis Hicks, Elizabeth McCarty, Dorothy Geisler, Mary Helen Bolin and Ernestine Morton. Those with information should contact Leon Autry at 573-2532.

Ruling expected this summer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court will be the setting for a crucial constitutional fight this spring when it studies a post-Watergate law creating special prosecutors to investigate high-ranking government officials.

The justices announced Monday they will hear arguments in the dispute in April with a decision expected by July.

The eventual ruling will determine the future of court-appointed independent counsels. It also will affect the criminal conviction of former White House aide Michael K. Deaver and the investigation of ex-Justice Department official Theodore B. Olson.

Deaver, prosecuted by an independent counsel, was convicted of lying to a grand jury and to a House subcommittee that investigated his lobbying activities. Olson is under investigation by an independent counsel on charges he lied to Congress.

An independent counsel's probe of Marine Lt. Col. Oliver L. North for his role in the Iran-Contra affair is expected to survive any adverse high court decision on the law.

The U.S. Court of Appeals here ruled Jan. 22 that the law improperly grants presidential appointment powers to the federal courts and encroaches on the president's exclusive authority to enforce criminal laws.

The law authorizes a special court, acting at the attorney general's request, to appoint the independent counsels.

Independent counsel Lawrence E. Walsh received a parallel appointment from Attorney General Edwin Meese III to conduct the Iran-Contra investigation. That power insulates his office from the constitutional attack on the special prosecutor law.

Similarly, independent counsel James C. McKay, who successfully prosecuted former presidential aide Lyn C. Nofziger on illegal lobbying charges, also accepted a backup appointment.

But the investigations of Deaver and Olson were not buttressed by such parallel grants of authority from the attorney general.

The case before the Supreme Court was brought by independent counsel Alexia Morrison.

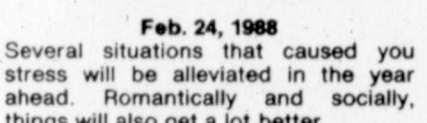

She is investigating charges that Olson, a former assistant attorney general, lied to Congress in 1983 during a dispute over the Environmental Protection Agency's cleanup program for toxic waste.

The court on Monday allowed Morrison to resume her investigation of Olson, raising the possibility that grand jury indictments could be returned before the high court's ruling.

The appeals court ruling temporarily derailed Morrison's investigation. Meanwhile, the court returned to full strength Monday with the addition of Justice Anthony M. Kennedy to fill a vacancy that had lasted eight months.

Potassium isn't magic

DEAR DR. GOTT: I read of someone who was feeling under the weather and took potassium gluconate. He felt much better. What is potassium gluconate?

DEAR READER: Potassium is a vital mineral that is necessary for proper heart and muscle functioning. Some people lose excessive amounts of potassium, most commonly from diarrhea or the use of kidney stimulants called diuretics. When a potassium deficiency is present, a patient can feel rundown, weak and tired.

Although potassium-rich foods — such as dried fruit, orange juice and bananas — are often helpful in replacing potassium losses, the mineral is available in pill or liquid form. As such, it is commonly marketed as potassium chloride, potassium citrate, potassium bicarbonate or potassium gluconate. The patient's and doctor's preferences usually dictate which preparation is appropriate.

Evidently, the person you refer to was potassium-depleted and was able to restore the proper amount of the mineral by taking a potassium supplement. This is not advisable for everone. Potassium is not a magic elixir; it should be given only under medical supervision since an excess of potassium can cause weakness and heart irregularities.

Some people think that megamineral and megavitamin therapy are cure-alls; this is simply not the case. To help you discover which treatments are quackery, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report, FADS II: HERBS AND OTHER SUPPLEMENTS. Others who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: The other day, I noticed a large lump in one vaginal lip. It is not sore, but occasionally I have a sharp pain in that area. I've never been to a gynecologist. What could this be?

DEAR READER: It could be a cyst or a growth. Although a gynecologist could certainly make a diagnosis, I think that you should first check with your family doctor. At the time of your examination, the doctor may wish to perform an internal examination and Pap smear. These regular checkups are necessary for sexually active women in their childbearing years.

Dear Abby

Abby's Survey Shows Saints Far Outnumbering the Sinners

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR READERS: Last June I invited you to participate in a survey. The question: Have you ever cheated on your mate? I received 210,336 responses: 149,786 from women, and 60,550 from men.

The results were astonishing: 22,468 (or 15 percent) of the female respondents said they had been unfaithful, and 15,743 (or 26 percent) of the men admitted they had cheated.

Putting it in more positive terms: 85 percent (127,318) of the women said they had been faithful and 74 percent (44,807) men claimed fidelity. Surprised? So was I. For all the recent publicity the media have given the cheaters, there are far more faithfully wed couples than I had surmised.

Face it, friends, well-behaved, law-abiding folks seldom make the morning headlines, the Dear Abby column or the evening news, even though they far outnumber the transgressors.

I had expected mostly post-cards, but more than half the respondents wrote letters. And although this was to be an anonymous survey, upward of two-thirds of the respondents — cheaters and non-cheaters alike — signed their names!

The oldest respondent was a 99-year-old widower who described himself as a country doctor — now retired. He wrote:

"I've had three wives and cheated on all of them. Wife No. 2 was the woman I cheated with while married to Wife No. 1, who divorced me when she found out. When I was 66, Wife No. 2 died; then I married the nurse I had been cheating with off and on during my first two marriages. (I also cheated on her until she died.) I was only 79 and still going strong, but I decided no more wives for me — only compatible housekeepers."

The youngest respondents wrote from Indiana: "We're both 18, we've been married for three months but we went together for nearly three years, and we haven't cheated yet."

This heartwarming letter came from Harrisburg, Pa.: "Thanks for asking. I am proud to say that in the 45 years I've been married to this wonderful woman, I have never cheated. And this includes two years during which I served with the U.S. Navy. I had no girl in any port! My upbringing and moral values would never have allowed me to live in peace should I have strayed. Furthermore, I'm sure my wife can make the same statement."

HARRY HOKE

The most surprising revelation in this survey was the number of male bisexuals that surfaced. Although mental health professionals in the past have estimated that 10 percent of the population is either gay or bisexual, my survey indicated that there are possibly twice that number. Many are married with "fine families." "I am a 67-year-old male who has been homosexual (or bi) since I can remember. Because of the social pressures of living in a small Iowa town in the '40s, I married and remained married until my wife died. While married, I cheated whenever I could find a willing partner."

From a Vermont wife: "Married 36 years, we both had extramarital affairs. All mine were heterosexual, but I'm not sure about his."

"I'm female, 49, now divorced. Fourteen years ago I had an affair with a close friend of my husband's. It lasted three years — until I caught him in bed with my husband. That ended my affair and also my marriage."

CONNED IN CONNECTICUT

Many wrote at length to justify their affairs: "I was married to a wonderful man for 38 years. Did I cheat? You bet I did! My husband was great at a lot of things, but a lover he wasn't. Back in those days nobody ever spoke about a woman's need to be satisfied. I mentioned it a few times — even bought him a book on lovemaking — but he just looked at the pictures. He's been dead for 13 years. I'm 72, and if I could find a decent man who wasn't after my money, I'd go for it!"

SEXY SENIOR IN FLORIDA

From Albany, N.Y.: "Have I ever cheated? Yes. Am I sorry? No! We've been married for 22 years. I'm 48, and 'Miss Untouchable' is 47, and she hasn't had her nightgown off in 10 years. She announced, 'We have our family now. I've done my duty, so don't bother me!'"

Here's an upper: "My husband and I just celebrated our 34th wedding anniversary, and if our sex life was any better, we couldn't handle it. I was 19 and he was 22 when we married. We were both virgins. I swear sex is the fountain of youth. My mother told me that the way to a man's heart was through his stomach, but I think I found a shortcut."

Tomorrow: More quotes from the survey.

34 oil workers saved as rig sinks

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A motor vessel early today rescued 34 oil workers who abandoned their rig when it began sinking in the Gulf of Mexico 82 miles south of Galveston, a U.S. Coast Guard official said.

The vessel "Casey Chouest" radioed the Coast Guard at 1:17 a.m. it had picked up all 34 workers of rig E-302 owned by Keys Offshore Inc. of Sugar Land, said Coast Guard duty officer Don Merwin.

The research vessel "Geco Longva" relayed a distress call to the Coast Guard from the rig at 10:17 p.m. Monday and Merwin said Coast Guard aircraft and rescue ships were dispatched from Houston, Corpus Christi and Sabine.

The 34 people on the rig boarded two covered lifeboats until rescuers came. Southwesterly winds at 30 knots, causing 7 to 10 foot waves, may have contributed to the collapse of one of the rig's three legs, Merwin said. "That kind of wind, though, shouldn't have been enough to sink a rig like that," Merwin said, adding the rig was capable of drilling 20,000 feet.

He said the Coast Guard Marine Safety office would investigate the accident.

The rig, which has been used since 1981, had been placed in the spot of the accident Sunday or Monday, Merwin said.

TERISUE MANN
 ...Memories Made...

Amitie members meet

Amitie Study Club members met Feb. 9 with Terisue Mann, owner of Memories Made, a shop featuring quilting projects and supplies.

Mann narrated "Shining Star," a slide presentation of unique garments shown at a recent market. Some 200 designers all over the world were represented. They have one year to create the garments on an assigned theme and use quilting and other crafts to produce creative designs.

Maria Patterson presented the slate of officers for the year as follows: Lavada Cates, president; Beverly Greene, first vice-president; Pete Haley, second vice-president; Julie Johnson, third vice-president; Lisa Williams and Lilith Smith, publicity; Janet Spence, historian; Maria Patterson, parliamentarian; Gloria Romo, treasurer; Jan Thomas, recording secretary; Temi Matthies, corresponding secretary.

Johnson reported on the upcoming Snyder Neighbors Sharing project scheduled for April 30.

Cates reminded the group that the club's day to clean trash from the assigned stretch of the Big Spring Highway is April 23. Members are to bring a lunch.

Amitie plans a Thanksgiving Dance Nov. 26 at the National Guard Armory with Shade Tree providing the music.

The March meeting of the club has been changed to Thursday, March 10. Members will meet at 3000 Crockett.

Gunman killed at end of siege

PLANO, Texas (AP) — A standoff in a hospital parking lot ended after nine hours with the fatal shooting of a man armed with a small-caliber automatic pistol, police said.

"Apparently the man wanted to die and unfortunately he got his wish," police Sgt. J.R. Chilton said early today.

The man, identified as Zdenek Stepanek of nearby Dallas, was in his mid 30s, Chilton said.

"No one knows why he was there," Chilton said, adding the man had not been a patient at the psychiatric facility, Charter Hospital of Dallas.

Stepanek was shot once by a police emergency response team rifleman after pointing his pistol at several officers, Chilton said.

The shooting took place about 9:15 p.m. after Stepanek broke off negotiations which had been carried on since noon Monday when the drama began.

Officers attempted to end the standoff by firing tear gas, but Stepanek emerged from his car with pistol in hand, police said.

"When he got out of the car he pointed his weapon at several officers," Chilton said.

He was taken to HCA Medical Center Plano, where he was pronounced dead about midnight while undergoing surgery, the police spokesman said.

"He apparently died on the operating table," Chilton said, adding, "They (the emergency response team) have been practicing that stuff for a long time to avoid any bloodshed. What else can you say, it's a shame," Chilton said.

The standoff began when officers were called to investigate a suspicious person sitting in a car.

He displayed a pistol, but was blocked by squad cars as he tried to drive away, said Officer J.W. Giddings at the command post set up outside the 80-bed hospital.

Police gave him a military-type telephone and conducted negotiations while the man repeatedly pointed his pistol at his head, Giddings said.

Obituaries

Grass fire noted

Firemen were called to the scene of a roadside grass fire at 11:45 a.m. Monday a mile south of Snyder on FM 1611.

The fire was easily extinguished, and the fire fighters had returned to the station at 12:10 p.m., a spokesman said.

Richard III was crowned King of England in 1483. A brother of Edward IV, Richard was accused of involvement in the deaths of his two nephews in order to gain the throne. His reputation has not been enhanced by theatrical portrayals of the king. The death of Richard, the last Yorkist king, at Bosworth Field in 1485, ended the Wars of the Roses.

A defensive error

By James Jacoby

Almost anyone could defend a hand perfectly if he could look at all the cards. Breakdowns on defense occur because there is some guesswork involved. (A defender cannot see declarer's hand or his own partner's.) What is important is that neither defender be blindly influenced by what his partner seems to think is the right direction for the defense.

South made a good choice to sacrifice against four hearts, since East would surely have made 10 tricks simply by taking the diamond finesse. The sacrifice looked even better after the defenders had foolishly thrown a trick away. After the opening lead was ruffed, declarer led a club. West went up with the king and shifted to a trump. (From his point of view, East could hold A-10-x-x in clubs, and it would be important to eliminate dummy's ruffing power.) East wisely played the 10 of spades; declarer won and played a second club. East took the ace and led a second trump. That was the foolish play that allowed South to escape with nine tricks. Declarer finessed and picked up trumps, and his 10-9 of clubs were of course good.

East should lead back a diamond after taking the club ace. He knows he will lose a trick by giving declarer another finesse in trumps. If West has winning club tricks, the defenders have not lost anything. Although South can ruff a club loser in dummy, East can now win his spade king. But a trick disappears needlessly with a trump return whenever South has all good clubs remaining.

ALBERT LEWIS...set to orchestrate another season

Lewis' Tigers set to open baseball season here today

Experience in the field and some promising young pitching prospects could make Coach Albert Lewis' Snyder Tigers a contender by the time late March rolls around - especially if they can come through with the sticks. With basketball season possibly stretching into the playoffs, Lewis' Tiger club may be missing a few faces, but they'll nonetheless open the 1988 baseball season by hosting Lubbock Estacado this afternoon.

The game has a 5 p.m. start at Moffett Field. "We're going to give it a try," grinned Coach Lewis, who has seen promise in three scrimmages so far. "Tracy Odom has really shown improvement behind the plate. That's really been a plus so far. And I've been impressed with how Lee Fletcher and the sophomore have been throwing the ball."

The sophomore is Bart Morton, who has struck out about half of the batter's he's faced in scrimmage action. Those prospects, as well as David Martinez, Bert Otto, Kevin Dollins and others, indicate pitching could be a real plus for the Tigers this season. Inexperience means the team could get a slow start, however. Only Fletcher and Martinez have varsity experience, and that was only five innings apiece.

But Snyder brings back most of its fielder's from the 1987 season, including outfielder Scott Lanier, short stop Brad Gartman and first baseman Martinez. Odom and Fletcher also return, as does Felan. And, as noted, several others - including second baseman Van Echols - are expected after the conclusion of Snyder's basketball season.

Fletcher, a junior right hander, will get the start today. Morton was ready to relieve. Leading off and playing right field will be Wayne Ware, followed in the lineup by Odom, Lanier in left field, Martinez at first base, Randy Morris at second, Gartman at short, Otto at third base, Fletcher on the mound and Bert Merritt at center field. Felan will DH for Merritt.

"Estacado will be tough. They always have a good team. We expect them to throw a good curveball pitcher against us. Hopefully, we'll have a little better luck than we did against Midland Lee (five hits) and can get something happening," said Lewis.

Snyder will play in the Fredricksburg Eberle-Boeck Memorial Tournament this weekend. The three-day tourney opens Thursday but the Tigers' first game will be at 11:30 a.m. Friday against Austin Crockett.

Winter Olympics...

Blair wins second U.S. gold

CALGARY, Alberta (AP) - She is The Little Engine That Could, a feisty, freckle-nosed kid who just won't quit.

She's America's child, sponsored by the local cops, skating her heart out, winning on guts, singing the national anthem with tears in her eyes then celebrating at a beer bash with her family.

Bonnie Blair, who took her first wobbly steps on ice at 2 as the youngest of six skating children, Monday night glided to victory in world record time and captured the second U.S. gold of the Winter Games.

Wearing a sleek silver and orange racing skin, Blair's 500-meter race shattered the relative quiet of a day that saw the Soviets and East Germans forge farther ahead of the other countries in total medals with 18 and 14, respectively.

Fierce, frigid winds again caused the postponement of the 90-meter ski jump and prompted one official to complain of the "psychological torture" on the jumpy jumpers.

Host Canada played Sweden to a 2-2 tie in a hockey game that pleased neither team and hurt both as they enter the medal round against the favored Soviets.

Austria's Sigrid Wolf won the new women's super giant slalom and kept her country in third with three golds and seven medals overall. Neighbor and rival Switzerland, which was expected to dominate the Alpine events, has only one gold among its seven medals.

Sweden finally won a cross-country ski race, the 4x10-kilometer relay, and joined the United States, Finland and the Netherlands with four medals each.

For the Americans, though, the shortest event of the day was the best.

"When I crossed the finish line, I think it was the happiest moment of my life," Blair said. "When they played the national anthem, I think it was the second. "You try telling yourself it's just another race," she said, "but the jitters, the thrills, the crowds, the hype of the Olympics means it's a lot different."

Her time of 39.10 seconds was faster than any Olympian, man or woman, until Eric Heiden's winning mark of 38:03 in 1980. She was faster than Soviet Yevgeny Kulikov when he won the men's 500 gold in 1976, and less than a second off Soviet winner Sergei Fokichev in 1984.

When she finished she knew she'd been fast, but didn't really grasp it until she saw the numbers on the board. "It brought tears to my eyes," she said of the flashing world record. "I think I just got it on guts."

Guts or talent, Blair nipped by two-hundredths of a second the world record set a few minutes earlier by Rothenburger. East Germany's Karen Kania won her sixth Olympic medal by finishing third in 39.24 seconds.

Ump role includes policing but better rewards helpful

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Umpiring in the major leagues involves more "police work" and other distractions than in the past, and National League arbitrator John McSherry is glad to see that umpires finally are being rewarded better for their labors.

Major league umpires are operating under a new 4-year contract signed last year with the National League and American League, and McSherry said the new pact goes a long way toward giving the umps "viable" remuneration.

"Last year's contract is, by far, the best contract we've ever gotten," said McSherry, who was in Lubbock this month for an umpires clinic sponsored by the South Plains chapter of the Southwest Baseball Umpires Association.

"I think that, finally, some people in the higher echelons of baseball took a long look at some of the numbers and tried to do something about them," he said.

"We now have a per diem that you can actually go on the road with, and they've made the salaries more viable to the guys."

The increase in benefits and salaries came at a time when major league umpires were spending more and more of their time with what McSherry distastefully calls "police work" - trying to prevent the doctoring of baseballs by pitchers and bats by hitters.

"We have a lot more police work than we've ever had. I don't think any of the guys like to go out there knowing you're going to have trouble right from the start," McSherry said.

"There are only certain things that you can do anyway. If you do those certain things and catch the guy, he's caught. If you don't catch him, you've done all that you can do."

McSherry was working the Houston Astros game last summer in which Billy Hatcher's corked bat broke, revealing the doctored contents. The incident highlighted a rash of impounded bats, as accusations flew from team to team about players using corked or doctored bats.

Things reached the point that it was ruled that only one bat may be impounded per game per team. That put a stop to some of the arguments, although it didn't always sit well with the players.

At the same time, there were more and more complaints of pitchers doctoring baseballs. McSherry admits the cheating and complaining - has become more prevalent.

"They're griping about it a lot more than they used to," McSherry said. "If one guy on a club cheats and gets away with it, then a couple more guys on that club will cheat. There's more movement between clubs, too, and I think this spreads it around. "I know one thing - the guy who just hit a home run doesn't complain about the guy throwing a spitball. I say, just get up there and hit it. If they throw it, hit it."

McSherry expects the league, because of the new contract, will probably demand a little more of umpires than it has in the past. Most of it will probably demand a little more of umpires than it has in the past, probably in "image" areas.

One of those that hits home with McSherry is the desire of the league to have its umpires looking trim.

It's a problem that McSherry has battled throughout his career. "They're trying to get a lot more guys to lose some weight," McSherry said as he passed up his lunch.

Bird moved into second place on the Celtics' all-time scoring list with 16,964, nine more than Bob Cousy. John Havlicek is No. 1 with 26,395.

"Bob Who?" joked Bird. "Well, Bob shot about 35 percent and I don't think I can take that (record) away."

Boston led 91-83 with 2:21 remaining before the Knicks, with Patrick Ewing scoring six of his 21 points, rallied to tie with 52 seconds remaining.

Then, during a timeout, the Celtics looked to their main man.

"In the huddle, we diagrammed a play to get Larry the ball," Danny Ainge said. "He got fouled and that's the way we wanted it to work out."

Bird made his two free throws with 39 seconds left and Dennis Johnson added two foul shots for insurance. Bird, shooting more than usual, made 13 of 27 field-goal attempts and had 14 rebounds.

"We were sluggish so I took a lot of shots to get us going," Bird said.

Rockets 119, 76ers 106
Sleepy Floyd scored 20 points and Buck Johnson 19 as Houston defeated Philadelphia.

Akeem Olajuwon had 18 points and 11 rebounds for the Rockets in their 10th victory in 12 games.

After Philadelphia tied the score at 57, Olajuwon had a pair of baskets as Houston opened a 71-63 lead.

Charles Barkley led the 76ers with 27 points and 15 rebounds and Mike Gminski had 25 points.

Warriors 123, Spurs 111
Otis Smith came off the bench to score 23 points and several Golden State reserves played key roles in the victory over San Antonio.

Tellis Frank had 15 points, Dave Feitl 14 and Terry Teagle 12 as Warriors backups.

Greg Anderson scored 29 points with 21 rebounds and Alvin Robertson scored 24 for the Spurs, who have lost eight of nine.

Two more Palestinians said killed overnight

JERUSALEM (AP) — Two Palestinians, including a 13-year-old girl believed to have been shot by a Jewish settler, were killed early today by Israeli gunfire in the occupied West Bank, the army said.

Police arrested an Israeli civilian in connection with the shooting death of the Arab teen, said an army spokesman who spoke on condition of anonymity. In another development, an Arab youth accused Israeli soldiers of burying him and a companion alive last week on a beach near the occupied Gaza Strip.

Earlier this month, four Arabs from the West Bank village of Kfar Salem said soldiers used a bulldozer to bury them in mud and sand. The army arrested two soldiers and said more would be detained.

In the latest incident, Abdel Ali Massoud, 18, said in a sworn affidavit that about 14 soldiers buried him and another Arab youth in sand, covering their heads at a beach just west of the Gaza Strip town of Khan Yunis. "They tied me to a jeep and dragged me while driving fast. Afterward they beat me again and buried me in the sand, filling my mouth with sand also," said the affidavit, which was published today in the daily Jerusalem Post.

He did not say how they escaped. Israeli lawyer Felicia Langer, who frequently represents Palestinians, said she intends to bring the case before the Supreme Court. Military police are investigating the incident.

cent judicial innovations he has made as municipal court judge.

Mills noted the popular "night court" as well as work-out fines for young people. Mills said he is also exploring the feasibility of a teen court.

During the question and answer session, both Mills and Greene enthusiastically endorsed the prison project. However, incumbent judge Dulaney said it would be improper for him to comment on the prison since cases are pending in 132nd District Court.

Other action in the at-times heated event included questions from the audience about the stance of the four county commissioners' candidates regarding the Texas Department of Corrections unit that will be built near Snyder this spring.

Pct. 3 incumbent C.D. Gray Jr. and his primary opponent, Lawton Taylor, both said they enthusiastically support the project, but Pct. 1 incumbent Duaine Davis and his opponent, Fred Cross, indicated some differences.

Davis said he strongly favors the TDC unit, but Cross said if there is a strong enough contingent opposing the project in the northeastern quadrant of the county, where the unit is scheduled to be built, that he would have to consider opposing it.

"I would have to represent my precinct," Cross said.

"There are some people out by the landfill who are against it, and I don't blame them," Davis said. "But we're trying to do what's best for the county."

Bill Love and Gene Bowlin asked re-election as Pct. 1 constable and Democratic county chairman and noted the absence of their primary opponents, Jim Haynes for constable and Earl "Hassie" Sneed for county chairman.

Unopposed candidates Keith Collier, for sheriff, Ernie Armstrong, for district attorney, Frances Billingsley, for county clerk, Rona Sikes, for tax assessor-collector, and Mike Line, for county attorney, made brief, generally humorous presentations.

Besides Haynes and Sneed, other scheduled speakers who did not attend the 7:30 p.m., hour-and-half-long event were Austin McCloud, an unopposed 11th Court of Appeals chief justice candidate, and Donald Burk, who is running unopposed for the Republican county chairmanship.

THE BOTTOM LINE:

"Newspaper Ads Are Most Respected!"

No matter which way you look at it, newspapers are the choice of major advertisers!

"NEWSPAPER QUALITY IS STRONGER THAN CIRCULAR QUANTITY."

- * "NEWSPAPERS ARE A PART OF THE FAMILY!"
- * "Newspapers provide our greatest returns for each dollar we spend on advertising!"
- * "Newspapers are dynamite!"
- * "Newspapers are the only ones to address each and every public interest ... they specifically serve each and all of the 16 different personality types of society!"
- * "The local newspaper made it possible for our stores to locate in those markets!"
- * "They're the only service that can publish the news about our stores!"
- * "Newspapers produce society's only permanent and tangible record of account!"
- * "Newspapers are invited guests ... no other media comes close to such a welcome of being paid to come into the living room!"
- * "Newspapers never take a holiday ... they're totally reliable!"
- * "We get our money's worth from newspaper advertising!"
- * "Our customers are newspaper subscribers."
- * "Newspapers 'are' the community!"
- * "The people who pay to receive the newspaper are our best potential customers!"
- * "Newspapers are aggressive and innovative, and by far the most effective for advertising!"
- * "Newspapers are the backbone of retailing!"

(SOURCE: These statements were each made during recent interviews with top market executives for HEB, Safeway, Affiliated Foods, Sears, J.C. Penneys, Radio Shack, McCoy's, Weiner's, Mervyn's, Braums Ice Cream Stores, Wal-Mart, K-Mart, Bozell and Jacobs, Tracy-Locke, The Bloom Agency, The Richard's Group, and many others—each representing a giant in today's business world.)

Average consumer has little faith in uninvited advertising mailings.

- 61% are annoyed by unsolicited mail
- 74% toss circulars in the trash
- 43% say mail ads too pushy
- 82% say newspaper ads allow comparisons of goods and prices
- 65% say newspaper ads get them in-the-mood to go shopping, and buying
- 73% say circulars advertise silly gadgets
- 76% say mail ads make products look better than they really are

YOUR CHILD COULD USE ANOTHER POINT OF VIEW.

It's not because there's a lack of information out there. Your child is getting plenty—from the kids at school, from friends in the neighborhood, from older kids, and from countless other sources.

The problem lies in the kind of information your child is getting. What kids hear too often is that drugs are OK. What they need to hear is the truth.

This is where you, as a parent, can help. By talking frankly with your child, you can, first of all, learn where your child stands on drugs—what he thinks about them, what he knows, and what he doesn't know.

Then, once you understand your child's perspective, you'll be in a better position to offer your own. You'll be able to talk about the dangers of various drugs. And what your child can do to avoid them.

Of course, speaking to your child like this takes a lot of courage. And to do it effectively takes a lot of homework—like reading articles, attending meetings, and talking to other parents. This way, your child will see you as a well informed source.

Your child is going to talk to someone about drugs.

Who's it going to be?

To make sure you have the right answers, contact your local agency on drug abuse.
