TDC litigants seek to have judge replaced

Depositions in five suits seeking to stop construction of a state of Texas prison in Scurry County Friday morning were halted while attorneys debated a motion to have District Judge Joe Evins of Edin-

Plaintiffs' attorney George Thompson of Lubbock Friday morning filed a motion asking Judge Evins to recuse himself from presiding

Attorneys on both sides retired to the judge's chambers in 132nd District Court and telephoned Judge Evins who refused to step down. A call was then placed to Judge Weldon Kirk of Sweetwater, the presiding judge of the 7th Administrative Judicial Region, the judge who appointed Judge Evins after 132nd District Judge Gene Dulaney

Judge Kirk set a 1:30 p.m. hearing Monday in Snyder on the motion to recuse. Meanwhile, attorneys were instructed to continue with scheduled depositions

On Wednesday and Thursday, deposition was taken of Jonisue Stiff, one of several plaintiffs in each of the five cases. Shortly before 11 a.m. Friday, the deposition of Texas Department of Corrections general counsel, Kirk Brown, was begun.

Depositions of other plaintiffs and selected defendants are scheduled Friday afternoon and Saturday.

On Wednesday, plaintiffs also filed a motion to stop depositions, claiming setting of depositions by the court without prior notice is 'absolutely unreasonable and arbitrary.'

In the motion to replace Judge Evins, the petition claims the judge 'has displayed personal bias and or prejudice against the plaintiffs...to such an extent that his impartiality can reasonably be ques-

Parsley claims Judge Evins "agreed with counsel for the city of Snyder that the prison would be good for the economies of Snyder and Scurry County.

On Nov. 9, Snyder was selected as a site for a 1,000-bed prison despite the objections by some of the plaintiffs in the five cases.

Construction of the prison is due to begin in April, with May, 1989 scheduled as the date for completion. The prison would employ 250 persons with an annual payroll of $6.7 million. Estimated cost of construction is $15 million.

The scene was repeated severals weeks in a row. The couple would make an appointment, smooch, pay the doctor and leave.

promised to appeal a federal court jury's $9.4 million award to the family of a Texas woman slain three years ago by a gunman hired through a magazine classified ad.

After 12 hours of deliberations over three days, the jury Thursday awarded $1.5 million to Gary Wayne Black, 18, and $400,000 to his grandmother, Marjorie Eimann, 64. The two also were awarded $7.5 million in punitive damages. They asked for a total of $22.5 million, including $20 million in punitive damages.

DEAR MARY JANE: Congratulations. May you have many more years of happiness. And if there's any more "good news," let me know.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 31-year-old widow: My husband was killed in an accident six months ago, and I was left with two children, 7 and 3.

The children and I have gone through many nights of pain and grief, but we realize that life must go on, and so must we. Together we went through counseling and support group meetings.

Recently. I decided that it was time to start dating. It's OK with the children; however, when I mentioned it to my in-laws, they were totally opposed to the idea. They say it is much too soon - I should have more respect for my husband's memory.

Abby, I loved my husband very much. We had a good marriage and I feel that he would want me to be happy. But is it too soon? What is the accepted mourning period in handling are included.

A widow (or widower) may begin dating whenever she (or he) feels like it. Remember, your in-laws have lost a beloved son, and while their feelings should be considered, the decision should be yours. Good luck and may God bless you and the children.

DEAR ABBY: You have had many letters about how writing to a serviceman brought a happy ending. Here's mine: When I was in the fourth grade, during World War I, our English teacher asked the class to write letters to soldiers who were in the hospital during the flu epidemic.

The soldier who received my letter answered it, saying he would like to hear from me again, so I wrote to him again. In his next letter, he asked for my phone number and said he would call me when he was released from the hospital. Well, he called. He sounded so nice, my mother, who was a young widow, told me I could invite him to dinner! (He was stationed at a camp not too far from where we lived.)

When he came for dinner, he brought me a present, but he never took his eyes off my mother. After that, he spent all his free time with us, and ended up marrying my

A bridge partnership is often like the crew of a fighting ship. One partner is captain and gives a stern order, expecting it to be obeyed without question. In today's deal, crewman West disobeyed. Although he was not strung up by the yardarm (fanatical bridge players would say he should have been), his mutiny allowed South to sail home with a skimpy game

East won the ace of diamonds and returned the 10. With the king having fallen, the diamond position is obvi-ous: East holds Q-J-10, all equals with nothing higher still out. In this situation, the lead of the lowest card of the sequence conventionally asks for the lead of the lower remaining side-suit (i.e., 10 equals clubs), while the highest card requests the higher suit (i.e., Q

South ruffed the second trick and unwisely led the ace and a spade, play-ing for a singleton king or a doubleton 10 of trumps. West won the king but led back the three of hearts, allowing South to win the ace and pull the last trump. Had West led a club, his spade 10 would have been promoted after

East returned another diamond. Declarer played a club toward dum-my's king. East won the ace and re-turned another diamond. South could now safely ruff low but would still fail if he played a club to the other high honor in dummy, since West would make a trick with the club 10. But South had presumed from the lead of the heart three earlier that the defenders held four hearts each, and he knew that East had started with six diamonds and two spades. So he finessed dummy's club nine and made his

SMU wins SWC title

HOUSTON (AP) - Arkansas Razorbacks coach Nolan Richardson says the 82-77 loss to Houston that cost his team a chance at the Southwest Conference basketball title was Little "disappointing" but says his team still has a chance to make the NCAA playoffs.

Former New Mexico Junior College standout Richard Hollis bagged 25 points to lead Houston. The victory gave Southern Methodist its first outright SWC title since 1967, although the Mustangs shared the crown with Texas in 1972.

"At this point, this loss takes away from a very good season,' Richardson said. "We had a chance to tie for the title and didn't advantage. That's disappointing.

'But we're 19-7, we have a game Sunday and we hope to have three games at the conference tournament," the Arkansas coach added. "We still have the opportunity to go to the NCAA tournament if things go right for us. Our goal now is to win the tournament because that's the only sure way to get into the NCAA (national tournament)."

Arkansas dropped to a 19-7 overall record and 10-5 in SWC games. Houston is 15-11 and 9-6.

Flights shouldn't be delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) - The National Research Council said today its 14-month review following the Challenger disaster has found "no show-stoppers" to prevent NASA from resuming manned space flights in August.

"Our general impressions are favorable," an NRC committee said in a 144-page report.

But it also found fault with NASA's way of troubleshooting complex space shuttle systems and recommended a keener and more methodical evaluation of risks and hazards.

"Although we have criticisms, we did not find anything that will delay the next space shuttle launch," said Alton D. Slay, a retired general and former head of the U.S. Air Force Systems Command, who headed the 12member committee. NASA plans to launch the shuttle Discovery on Aug. 4.

Slay praised NASA for having made "real strides" in enhancing the safety of the shuttle and said 'we found no show-stoppers."

In a brief response, the space agency said it acted on early drafts of the committee's report 'and most of the recommendations made by the council essentially are in place." The NRC review was recommended by the presidential commission that investigated the Jan. 28, 1986 accident that destroyed the Challenger and killed its crew 73 seconds after liftoff.

"As the Challenger accident made painfully obvious, no probe into space is routine and the space shuttle is still a developmental vehicle," said the NRC committee. "The risks of space flight must be accepted by those who are asked to participate in each flight as well as by those who are responsible to the nation for achieving its goals in space.

The report said that one of the key failures that led to the Challenger disaster was that the history of problems with the shuttle booster O-rings was not known by the officials who gave the goahead for the ill-fated launch. An O-ring that allowed hot gases to escape was blamed for the acci dent.

"The committee has found numerous indications that data from STS (Space Transportation System) inspection, test and repair, and inflight operations do not always feed back rapidly enough or effectively enough into the risk management process,' the report said.

It noted that NASA now intends to review all data from each flight before going ahead with the next one, at least during the shuttle's initial flights. But the committee worried that once the pace increases "the same dangerous preconditions will once again be present.

The number of items deemed to be of "criticality 1 and 1R" items whose failure could doom the shuttle - has increased from 2,369 before the Challenger accident to 4,686 because of reevaluation of the shuttle system and tighter ground rules, the committee said.

But, said the committee, all criticality 1 items are not alike and NASA is wrong in not assign-

'The most likely and most, threatening failure modes merit the most attention," said the report.

The committee found:

-NASA tends to focus on "single-event, worst case failures" in making risk analyses and "there does not appear to be an adequate integrated-system view of the entire STS.

-So many boards and panels are watching every aspect of the shuttle system that individuals might "defer to the anonymity of the process" and not take responsibility for decisions.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - A British official of the Oxfam relief organization was kidnapped with a Syrian colleague in the southern port city of Sidon, Oxfam headquarters said today.

Oxfam spokesman John Magrath said in Oxford, England, that the organization's Middle East coordinator, Peter Coleridge, 44, and its Lebanon representative, Omar Traboulsi, were seized Thursday night in Sidon, 25 miles south of Beirut.

"We've had conflicting reports as to whether they are still being held or not," Magrath said.

IBM researchers say they have set record

NEW YORK (AP) - IBM plications. researchers say they've set a superconductivity — a jump of 35 degrees — by varying the recipe that produced the old mark reported last month.

The accomplishment is a significant step toward making superconductors practical, according to a superconductivity

The new material lost all resistance to electricity at minus 234 degrees Fahrenheit, said Edward Engler of the International Business Machine Corp.

Jose, Calif. The material was a mix of thallium, barium, calcium, copper and oxygen, the same elements used by University of Arkansas researchers who last month reported zero resistance at minus 269 degrees. IBM used the elements in different proportions. Engler declined to reveal the new recipe

> The higher the superconducting temperature is above that mark, for a material chilled by liquid nitrogen, the more electrical current the material can carry and the greater magnetic field it can withstand before losing its superconductivity.

The IBM compound "is a significant step" in that effort, said Brian Schwartz, physics professor at Brooklyn College.

He noted that in terms of the Kelvin scale, which measures temperature in Centigrade degrees above absolute zero, liquid nitrogen chills to 77 degrees while the IBM mark corresponds to 125 degrees.

"Now we have almost a situation with the thallium materials where if we're working at liquid nitrogen temperatures, we're working at close to half the transition (superconductivity) temperature, which is a very nice feature," Schwartz said.

Thallium is poisonous, and scientists say its potential for practical use outside the aboratory is limited. But they hope to learn enough from thallium compounds to find more suitable materials that superconduct at still higher temperatures.

Engler said the new material has shown no sign of losing its superconducting ability in the roughly two weeks his team has (10th of 14 parts) In recent years, one of the best ways to save for retirement was through individual retirement accounts, because contributions to IRAs were tax deductible. Also, earnings from IRAs were not subject to current tax. But new tax rules have minimized the use of IRAs for some taxpayers. An individual who is not an "active participant" in a qualified retirement plan, regardless of income, may still make deductible IRA contributions. This means that up to $2,000 may be contributed to an IRA. But starting this year, active par-ticipants in a qualified plan may claim a full IRA contribution only if their adjusted gross income is $25,000 or less for singles, or $40,000 or less on a joint return. A partial IRA deduction is allowed for singles with adjusted gross incomes between $25,000 and $35,000, and for marrieds filing jointly with adjusted gross incomes between $40,000 and $50,000. No IRA deduction is allowed for single active participants with adjusted gross income exceeding $35,000 or for a married individual filing jointly with adjusted gross income above $50,000.

Taxpayers who cannot make de-ductible contributions can make nondeductible ones. The earnings on nondeductible contributions are not subject to current tax. If you work but your spouse doesn't, contributions may be made for you and your spouse. The maximum contribution is $2,250. A working spouse may elect to be treated as having no compensation, thereby becoming eligible to receive a spousal IRA contribution. The spousal IRA contribution may be divided between you in any manner you wish, as long as no more than $2,000 is allocated to either spouse. If the working spouse is an active participant in a retirement plan, his or her income will determine if a deduction may be claimed.

An active participant is a person who participates in a qualified retirement plan, a plan for government employees, a Keogh plan or a simplified employee pension. An individual who defers compensation under a 401(k) plan is also considered an active participant. A retiree receiving a pension

If an individual files a joint return, that person is considered an active participant if his or her spouse is an active participant. If separate returns are filed, active participation is not attributed to the non-participat-

This year's Snyder Chamber of Commerce banquet speaker, Jerry Kunkel, has brought a message of love and hope to thousands of people across the U.S. since he began preaching and speaking in the early 1970s. His unique approach, utilizing a powerful message spiced with humor, entertains and at the same time inspires and motivates those who hear him.

The Rev. Kunkel is a native of Lamesa. After graduating from Lamesa High School, he received a presidential appointment to the U.S. Naval Academy, where he played football and was All-American in track and field competition.

and was All-American in track and field competition.

He attended the Naval Academy for two years, then transferred to McMurry college in Abilene, where he earned a BA in religion and a BS in philosophy. He later earned his Master of Theology at Southern Methodist University.

A former All-State standout in football, Kunkel was drafted to play professional football for the New Orleans Saints, but decided to enter the ministry instead. He has been a minister in the United Methodist Church since 1971, and a conference-appointed evangelist since June, 1987.

As a minister, the Rev. Kunkel has often been recognized for his accomplishments. He was twice pastor of the fastest growing United Methodist Church in the conference. He was also nominated for the coveted Harry Denman Award for Evangelism in the United Methodist Church.

He has spoken in more than 500 different settings around the southwest, and is a popular after-dinner and revival speaker. As a speaker in the Knife and Fork circuit Kunkel now accepts engagements across the United States.

His message, carefully tailored to the audience he is addressing, always focuses on the power and importance of the Lord Jesus Christ in our lives. He utilizes his masterful storytelling techniques, from a colorful early life to convey this message effectively to people of all ages.

Kunkel and his wife, Kathy, also team together to form a music ministry that is often provided in conjunction with revival engagements:

Educational Excellence Award

For the first time this year, a new award will be added to the Snyder Chamber of Commerce banquet's annual honors-a plaque to recognize lifetime achievement in the field of teaching.

The first recipient of this award will be announced at the Saturday night banquet.

The education award will be presented by the Snyder-based group pledged to support academic activities for Snyder ISD, the Council for Educational Excellence (CEE).

The group has received chamber permission to implement what will become an annual honor with this banquet.

Officials for CEE say the award is to recognize "an educator's career-long commitment to Snyder public schools"

Nominations for the honor have been solicited by the group through its monthly newsletter and by individual contacts within the school system.

Exemplary Service Award

An award for "exemplary service"—described as being a one-time honor with this year's Snyder Chamber of Commerce banquet—will be given out with the 1988 event.

The exemlary service honor will be presented by the chamber. It will be in lieu of the President's Award, which is traditionally given by the chamber's immediate past president.

The special award will recognize, in the words of chamber officials, "Just what its name says, 'exemplary service."

The announcement of the winner will be a surprise honor at Saturday's banquet.

This year only, it will be in lieu of an honor initiated in 1985, the President's Award the President's Award.

Based upon a selection by the president of the chamber and the executive committee, the honor is to recognize a member of the chamber who has made significant contributions to the organization during the past year.

The first recipient of the President's Award was Gene Thomas, then superintendent for SACROC and a member of the chamber board of directors.

Ralph Miller, longtime head of the chamber's AJRA committee, was honored in 1986.

In 1987, the honoree was H.W. Cargile, former president and senior board chairman of West Texas State Bank.

Winston Award

The annual Snyder Chamber of Commerce award which rewards achievement in agriculture was begun in 1974 to honor Scurry County land owner Harrie Winston.

Winston passed away on Jan. 19, 1974 — only some two weeks prior to the annual spring banquet for that year. On Jan. 27, chamber officials announced the first annual Harrie Winston Memorial Award.

Winston and his brother Wade were one of the early benefactors for Scurry County facilities, donating the land for Winston Field airport which was formally dedicated here on Sept. 27, 1953.

During his life, he was an active chamber supporter, serving as its second president. Overall, his work with the chamber dated over a half century.

On Feb. 2, 1974, the first memorial award was presented to Snyder High School FFA sponsor and ag teacher Billy Bob McMullan.

Criteria for the honor includes persons engaged in agriculture — farming or ranching — who demonstrate leadership and progressiveness.

Since 1974, those who have received the award include Bentley Baize, 1975; Don Gray and Morris Light, 1977; Carl Williams, 1978; Milton Stephens, 1979; Johnny Richardson, 1980; Tommy Pate, 1981; Billie Earl Roach, 1982; David Kattes, 1983; Donald Tate, 1984; Fred Cross, 1985; Billy Bob McMullan, 1986; and Charlie Henderson in 1987.

Sizemore Award

The Sizemore Award — formerly known as the Gold Coater of the Year award — was renamed in 1984 in honor of the late Paul Sizemore.

He died on Oct. 4, 1983 at the age of 76.

Sizemore was a four-time recipient of the Gold Coater of the Year Award. It is presented to the Gold Coater who tallies the most points according to a Gold Coat bylaw point system.

Points are given based on participation in Gold Coat functions, community service and chamber support.

Sizemore had also served as president of both the Chamber of Commerce and the Scurry County Industrial Foundation.

In 1969, he was among the group of local citizens which presented Snyder as an "All American City" to the panel of judges in New Orleans—an honor the city won.

He was also active in the local Lions Club and the Scurry County Historical Commission.

He was the owner locally of Arrow Construction, which he sold in August of 1972 upon his retirement.

As the Gold Coater of the Year award, winners date to 1976, when Sizemore was its first recipient. He won the honor again in 1979, 1980 and in 1982. Other recipients have been R.C. Patton, 1981; and Wedge Turner, 1983.

As the Sizemore Award, its first recipient in 1984 was Jack McGlaun. In 1985, Jim Tully was honored with Jack McGlaun again receiving the award in 1986. In 1987, Bob Hawes, then superintendent of the Snyder public schools, was the winner.

Vestal Award

The City of Snyder established the Vestal Award — also known as the Mayors Award and dedicated to the memory of William A. Vestal — in December of 1976.

The honor was created two months after the death of Vestal on Oct. 12, 1976. He died at the age of 56 while serving his second term as the city's mayor.

The award's purpose is to recognize individuals who have made significant contributions to the total development of Snyder through cultural, economic or governmental activities

Vestal was elected mayor on April 2, 1974 after two terms as a councilman, being first elected in 1970.

He was a 25-year resident of Snyder, first as a petroleum engineer and later as the owner of his own independent oil consulting firm.

He is credited with being the first to calculate when Scurry County would produce its Billionth Barrel of Oil. He later served as one of the planners for the ensuing "Billionth Barrel of Oil" celebration here in 1973.

Past recipients of the Vestal Award include Roger Mize in 1977; H.W. Cargile in 1978; Henry Clark in 1979; R.C. Patton in 1980; Ernie Sears in 1981; Elizabeth Potts in 1982; Don Newbury in 1983; John Jarrell in 1984; Bill J. Hood in 1985; Bill and Evelyn Davies in 1986; and Donna Fowler in 1987.

McLaughlin Award

The McLaughlin Award — originally known as the McLaughlin Oil Award and named for C.T. McLaughlin — was begun in 1977 by the family of the Scurry County oil man, rancher, political figure, art collector and philanthropist.

The criteria for the award's presentation has been the individuals significant contribution to the oil industry in Snyder and Scurry County — characteristics attributed to the award's namesake.

McLaughlin died here July 29, 1975 at the age of 78. He was originally from Pennsylvania and had adopted Texas as his home state for 40 years prior to his death.

He developed oil field producing properties under his Diamond M emblen which was the trademark for his ranching interests and the Diamond M Foundation.

During his life, he held high posts in both state and national Democratic Party organizations to include serving as chairman of the Texas Department of Public Safety Commission.

His philanthropic interests were as varied as his business ones. At the time of his death he was serving as vice president of the board of directors of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame.

The annual chamber banquet was an important time for McLaughlin as he hosted a range of distinguished guests to appear as its principal speaker.

Past recipients of the award named in his honor include Edith McKanna in 1977; Ike Dolen Jr. in 1978; C.W. Lantrip in 1979; Dalton Walton in 1980; John Fagin in 1981; M.L. Duke in 1982; David Hines in 1983; E.D. Walton in 1984; Ed Mlcak in 1985; Harold Lacik in 1986; and Jimmy Thompson in 1987.
