

Presidential race now begins in earnest

By WAYNE M. DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

The fall campaign for the presidency opened today with Republican George Bush stressing patriotic themes at a send-off for the U.S. Olympic team and Democrat Michael Dukakis declaring confidently that he will "bring prosperity home" to all Americans, not just a privileged few.

Both tickets sought maximum exposure on Labor Day, the traditional first day of the fall race for the White House, with the Republicans visiting four states and the Democrats hitting six.

The goal on both sides was to establish themes and focus an image that can produce victory in the election, which is now only a little more than two months away.

Bush was in California where he hoped some of the public support behind America's Olympic athletes would rub off on his campaign, which is highlighting patriotism, military strength, family issues and a newfound Republican emphasis on the environment.

Dukakis headed for a string of events in Philadelphia, Detroit, St. Louis and Chicago after issuing an upbeat Labor Day message emphasizing leadership and envisioning a broader prosperity for all Americans.

The respective running mates, Republican Sen. Dan Quayle and Democratic Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, weighed in with appearances carefully planned for their symbolic value. Quayle at the Statue of Liberty and Bentsen making Labor Day pitches to business as well as union groups in Texas. Quayle also planned stops in Detroit and Washington, D.C., while Bentsen was heading to Atlanta tonight after meeting up with Dukakis for a joint appearance in St. Louis.

A 50-state Associated Press survey released over the weekend showed the two sides locked in an extremely close race, with Bush leading in the South and mountain West and Dukakis ahead in the Northeast and making a strong bid on the West Coast. Much of the Midwest was too close to call.

The Electoral College vote prospects were thus in line with a spate of recent national polls showing a dead heat in the race for the popular vote.

Bush and Dukakis both took Sunday off in preparation for today's events, but the Democrat issued a statement in advance of his Labor Day appearances declaring that it is time to "forge a new determination to bring prosperity home: to bring prosperity home to every region, every neighborhood, every family in America."

Dukakis also took a swipe at Bush for referring to last month's rise in the national unemployment rate as statistically irrelevant.

"On this Labor Day we must also remember that those who have lost their jobs are not irrelevant," he said. "They're not statistics. They're our neighbors."

Quayle flew to New Jersey after a five-day campaign swing through the deep South, which he declared was George Bush country.

"The South is going for George Bush," Quayle had said to the cheers of several hundred supporters in Richmond, Va.

Presidential hopefuls said in 'tight' race

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Bush and Michael Dukakis are locked in an extremely tight race for the White House as the fall campaign opens, with the vice president hoping to sustain his late summer surge and his Democratic rival angling to regain the momentum, according to an Associated Press survey of the 50 states.

Advisers to both men as well as politicians around the country say they expect a close race right up to Election Day Nov. 8.

"It's going to be down and dirty to the very end," said Republican state Rep. Tom Ryder of Illinois — a key battleground where Republicans concede that Dukakis maintains a slight edge.

In Delaware, "as in the rest of the country, there's been a substantial shift in the last three weeks from Dukakis to Bush," said the state's GOP Gov. Michael N. Castle. "I think it started at the (Republican) convention, as to be expected. But since the convention, it's continued, even with the problems surrounding the Dan Quayle candidacy."

The late summer surge by Bush eroded Dukakis' earlier advantages in key Electoral College battlegrounds from California to New Jersey, with Illinois, Ohio and Michigan in between, say leaders in both political parties. The result is a series of tight, big-

Fire empties town

SILVER GATE, Mont. (AP) — Residents of two towns on the edge of a giant wildfire near Yellowstone National Park fled their homes and firefighters today made a "last ditch" effort to stop the encroaching flames.

About 150 residents of Silver Gate and Cooke City, near Yellowstone's northeastern entrance, were told Sunday to evacuate.

Only a few residents opted to stay.

"There's no real reason to leave," Cooke City's Wayne Johnson as firefighters moved past him. "I don't think the town's going to burn."

But officials were not as confident.

"If (the fire) jumps out of the line and explodes, it could burn up that canyon faster than they could drive out of there," said fire information officer Dave McMorran. "So we're spreading the word around tonight, 'Don't sit around and wait, folks.'"

Crews lit a three-mile line of flames through the forest Sunday night to burn up fuel in front of the 60,000-acre Storm Creek fire and to buffer the towns.

The blaze was among fires that have blackened 910,000 acres of the greater Yellowstone area, including 611,000 acres within the park itself, or more than one-fourth of Yellowstone's 2.2 million total acreage. One blaze, the North Fork fire, was within three miles of Old Faithful geyser in Wyoming.

Elsewhere, fires in Southern California blackened nearly 3,000 acres of brush and timber and damaged at least 21 homes as searing, dry weather and Santa Ana winds harried firefighters and ignited new flames. The fire forced 150 people to evacuate from a mobile home park 15

Personal injury case has jury called here

Jury summonses have been issued for the trial Tuesday of a civil suit filed in connection with a Sept. 6, 1986, traffic accident in which a Snyder man was injured.

The case is a personal injury suit filed by Cliff Harrison against Laurie M. Dickinson of Alamogordo, N.M., who Harrison claims unexpectedly started driving a car on whose hood he was sitting and that he was thrown off and injured at the intersection of Ave. V and Highland Dr.

A June 13 mistrial was declared in the case because of what Judge Gene Dulaney said were improper statements by an attorney during preliminary remarks to prospective jurors.

Since then, a second defendant in the case, Kelly Brown of Snyder, has been "non-suited" and is no longer involved.

John David Hart of Abilene is representing Harrison, and Dickinson is being represented by William Wadé of Lubbock.

Boulter sets Snyder stop

Congressman Beau Boulter of Amarillo, the Republican nominee opposing Lloyd Bentsen for his U.S. Senate seat, will campaign in Snyder Wednesday.

Boulter will have a "Breakfast Club" meeting from 7 until 8:30 a.m. at the Willow Park Inn.

The local appearance will be in conjunction with several appearances in Abilene that day. He will address the Abilene Kiwanis Club, hold a press conference and tape a campus television show at Abilene Christian University.

'Party' theme is 'stay in school'

A "back to school, stay in school" block party was held Saturday by members of the local NAACP Chapter.

A series of speakers urged youngsters to always remember the importance of education in their lives.

Evelyn Malone was the organizer and "hostess" for the block party. Featured speaker was Sammie L. Harrison, math instructor at Snyder High School.

Other speakers included Tiffany Sneed, Myste Malone, Lois Urdy, Vernest Tippens, Elouise Clayton and Imogene Johnson.

Harrison urged parents to "find ways" to encourage their children to do their best in school. He referred to the "dream" of Rev. Martin Luther King, who saw the importance of an education.

He urged parents to attend every event and function that their children are involved in related to school.

Local singers will aid United Way Jamboree

An initial list of entertainers for the United Way Jamboree was released Friday, locals who will take part in three hours of promised entertainment this coming Oct. 1.

The event will be staged at the courthouse band stand from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. and will serve as the kickoff for this year's United Way drive with a goal of $85,000.

The emphasis this year will be on individual entertainers, noted Jack Denman, who is in charge of this aspect of the Jamboree.

Those agreeing to sing to date include Jackie Hackfeld, Cheri Stewart, Rebekah Thornton, Clay Jacobs, Glenda Hollingsworth, John Knoke, Mark Mussleman, Bill Parker and Kenny Robinson accompanied by his singing group.

Many of the singers will be accompanied by taped music while those with country and western numbers will be accompanied by a "house band" comprised of the Hoss Clayton country and

Q. — Did either U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm or Senator Phil Gramm serve in the U.S. military or Vietnam?

A. — No to both questions for both men. Stenholm was eligible for the draft but never called and Gramm was never drafted due to an academic deferment.

Local

MD center

A local pledge center for the Jerry Lewis Labor Day telethon will be open until 7 p.m. Monday.

The center is being staffed by members of the Gay 20s Social Club. They began the effort at 5 p.m. Sunday.

The number to pledge funds is 573-3558. A goal of $2,000 is set for Scurry County this year. The telethon funds Muscular Dystrophy Association research.

Court agenda

Paying the county's bills is the only item of business listed on the 10 a.m. Tuesday agenda of the Scurry County Commissioners Court.

North parents

The North Elementary Parent Council will meet Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

T-shirt sales from last year will be discussed as well as upcoming events.

Scout sign up

Registration forms are now available at Snyder school campuses for girls interested in becoming Girl Scouts.

The forms will be picked up next Friday and all those interested are urged to sign up.

College class

An informational and registration session for the psychology of family living class offered through the Women's Program at Western Texas College will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Senior Center. Child care and tuition are free and a high school diploma or GED is not required.

More local phone hikes are forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Local residential telephone rates across America are due to go up twice in the coming months, but state utility consumer advocates are trying to head off the increases before they can take effect.

The consumer advocates want the Federal Communications Commission to cancel increases scheduled for December and next April in the "line charge" added to residential phone bills.

Their call is being heard by some members of Congress and the state utility commissioners, who at the very least want the FCC to take a second vote on the added charges before they take effect.

The increases — 60 cents per month on Dec. 1 and 30 cents on April 1, 1989 — were approved as part of a three-step boost in the monthly line charge that began with a 60-cent increase July 1, 1987. The monthly charge is already $2.60.

The FCC approved the increases in April 1987 as a way to further reduce long-distance rates and encourage large business users to stay on the public phone network rather than building their own networks.

But the National Association of State Utility Consumer Advocates is asking the FCC to cancel the future increases — amounting to about $1 billion a year — saying they are "unnecessary, unsupported and unwarranted."

The association said three telecommunications analysts commissioned by the group to study a June report compiled by the FCC on the effects of the subscriber line charge concluded that the threat of large users bypassing the local phone network has not materialized. Increasing the charge by 90 cents will have no effect on the bypass that is already occurring, they said.

"We've really attacked the very basis for the subscriber line charge," said Ron Binz, Colorado consumer counsel.

The line charge helps pay the cost of the wire that connects a customer's telephone with a phone company's central office. Part of the cost of that line also is subsidized with long-distance rates, so raising the proportion paid by subscribers reduces long-distance rates. Long-distance rates have dropped more than 30 percent since the charge was imposed in 1985.

Raising the line charge also reduces local connection fees paid by large business users. Some businesses find it economical to build their own telecommunications networks and bypass the public phone network.

The FCC continues to support the subscriber line charge and the underlying policy of shifting the costs of the local phone network to subscribers, said FCC spokesman John Kamp.

"The policy ... has worked very well. Bypass has not grown and it has caused rates overall to come down considerably, and we have not seen evidence to cause us to change course," he said.

The agency, however, will "look very carefully" at the consumer advocates' requests to cancel the scheduled increases, he said.

But the consumer advocates' group has already taken its case to Congress, where it is talking to Democratic members of the communications committees, most of whom opposed the original imposition of the line charge at $1 in June 1985 and the later increases.

Girl plagued by hate mail even after three years

RANDOLPH, Mass. (AP) — Three years ago, Susan Shapiro refused to stand for the Pledge of Allegiance in her high school class and caused a nationwide stir. Today, she still gets hate mail, heckled on the street and drawn into an occasional fistfight.

Shapiro, now a 20-year-old hairdresser, says the memory of her yearlong rebellion at Randolph High School remains strong. Residents of this town, 13 miles south of Boston, "will always remember," she says.

Hostile letters still trickle in. Every month, Shapiro says, an anonymous letter arrives from Connecticut with a small flag sticker.

The author usually writes "watch out, we'll never forget, the people never forget," said Shapiro, whose defiance was not directly related to Gov. Michael Dukakis' 1977 veto of an amendment that would have required Massachusetts teachers to lead their classes in the Pledge of Allegiance.

The controversy began during Shapiro's junior year in 1984. She said one of her teachers explained that students need not stand for the Pledge of Allegiance unless they wanted to.

Shapiro said she and half of her class decided to not stand. She said she considers herself patriotic but does "not believe that the American flag is a symbol of the American people."

But when Shapiro entered her senior year, a teacher took issue with her decision to remain seated.

"She told me I was spitting on the American flag. ... I asked her, 'How would you like it if I spit on you?'" Shapiro recalled during a recent interview at her home in Randolph where she lives with her parents and her older brother.

The incident found its way into a local newspaper. Within days, Shapiro was interviewed by national publications and the television networks.

But the publicity boomeranged and Shapiro found herself the target of hate letters, death threats and near assaults.

In one incident, a grenade-like device exploded on the lawn of the Shapiro family home, a modest ranch-style house on a tree-lined street. The explosion burned a 6-inch patch of the front lawn but caused no injuries.

"For a while I couldn't go to school," Shapiro said. "I got a lot of death threats."

Shapiro skipped her prom and graduation because of the furor. But all year long, when she did attend school, she refused to stand up during the daily Pledge of Allegiance.

Shapiro and her mother, Harriet, keep a box of the letters from the height of the controversy. Some were supportive, such as ones from Vietnam veterans who encouraged her.

Mrs. Shapiro also backed her daughter's defiance. "We're patriots. We don't hate this country. My husband and brother are veterans," she said.

But feelings against Shapiro ran high. Many letters carried swastikas. Many were obscene. The outside of one letter warns that the postal carrier "might not want to deliver to these people."

"You utter creep — I hope someone blows you up," another said.

Shapiro is cynical about the recent political flap between Dukakis and presidential rival George Bush over Dukakis' 1977 veto.

"I just wonder where Dukakis was when this was happening to me," she says.

Today, Shapiro is content to remain in town working at a local mall as a hairdresser. Though she still gets heckled, she said she now knows how to defend herself. She said she's been in four fistfights since 1985.

Who wins? "Me. I make my point," she said.

Local 560 braces for election

KEARNY, N.J. (AP) — Evidence of the pugnacious politics of Teamsters Local 560 can be seen in the graffiti on the concrete base of the Pulaski Skyway's hulking black girders. "Remember Castellito," exhorts a scrawl, referring to Anthony Castellito, a Local 560 official slain in 1961.

Reputed Genovese crime family figure Anthony "Tony Pro" Provenzano and his brothers Salvatore and Nunzio ran the Union City-based local until 1979, when Anthony Provenzano was convicted of racketeering and ordering Castellito's killing.

In 1984, a federal judge removed 560's executive board and placed the local under a trustee to end a quarter-century of organized crime domination.

It was the first such action in U.S. history.

This Labor Day finds Local 560 in its 26th month under the trustee, Edwin Stier. But the trusteeship is scheduled to end Dec. 6, the date Stier set for 560's first contested election since 1965, the last year anyone ran against the Provenzanos.

"What's happening here is exactly what we wanted," said Stier. "The candidates are going to each barn and campaigning in an open election."

But in the barns, as the sprawling truck depots are known, the trusteeship has not pleased many members.

Some at first welcomed the efforts to exorcise corruption but grew wary when U.S. Attorney Rudolph Giuliani of New York recently sued to place a trusteeship over the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

"We are keeping a sharp eye on events over the river," said a federal prosecutor in New York who spoke on condition of anonymity. "A smooth transition back to union control of the local could mean a lot to our case against the international."

Three men are running for president of the 8,000-member local, the Teamsters' largest: Michael Sciarra of the Teamsters for Liberty, who served on the ousted board; Russ Viggiani, a Local 560 business agent and head of Teamsters for Solidarity; and Ray Carney, a trucker who ran against Anthony Provenzano in 1965 and leader of The Committee for the United Ticket.

The government had sought to bar Sciarra from running, saying the local would again be dominated by organized crime under his leadership.

Man May Be Short on Hair, But He's Long on Honesty

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the letter about baldness in men. I'm almost bald, and I refuse to let 10 strands of hair grow to the length of 3 feet and then swirl them around my head in an absurd attempt to cover my baldness.

I wouldn't get a hair transplant even if I could afford one, and if I were to get a wig, I'm afraid I'd keep checking to see if the darned thing was on straight, or about to fall in my soup.

What you see is what you get! And now, ladies, how about those foam rubber falsies? If you wear them to attract men, don't bother. If that's all he can see in you, you don't need this bozo! Sure, some men are hooked on big bosoms — but there are plenty like me who are more interested in the whole package, which includes personality and brains.

I have never heard a man express anything but disappointment and annoyance when what he sees isn't what he gets!

RAY HOOD, SAN DIEGO

DEAR RAY: Nobody enjoys being "hoodwinked." (Sorry!) But most women wear falsies because they look better in clothes — not necessarily to attract a man.

DEAR READERS: In celebration of its 100th birthday, the National Geographic Society commissioned Gallup — the Rolls-Royce of pollsters — to find out how much the average American knows about geography.

The results were startling: One in five of those polled could not name one country in Europe. Three out of four could not find the Persian Gulf on a map. One in four could not find the Pacific Ocean. One in two could not locate South Africa. Worse yet, 50 percent could not find New York state on a map, and 14 percent could not even find the United States!

Compared with a similar poll taken 40 years ago, the results show a steady decrease of geographical knowledge. The reason: Only 25 percent of the schools in the USA include geography in their curriculum.

Even though there are more Americans traveling today than ever before, there seems to be a diminishing interest in geography. This brings to mind the story about the well-traveled American who called a friend to say that she had just returned from Majorca. "Where is it?" the friend asked. "I don't know," she replied. "We flew."

DEAR ABBY: I am a Hogg by marriage and I am not ashamed of the name. When my husband was in the military, there was a Pigg in his squadron. How about that?

And just what do you have against hogs, Abby? Being a native Iowa girl, you should be especially fond of hogs. They helped make Iowa the great farm state it is today. Shame on you!

If you decide to print this letter (fat chance!), you may use my name, such as it is.

VIRGINIA A. HOGG, BINGHAMTON, N.Y.

DEAR VIRGINIA: If my readers can stand one more letter about the Hogs, here it is:

DEAR ABBY: It is an established fact that there was an "Ira Hogg" in Texas, but she did not have a sister named "Ura." However, there WAS a Ura Hogg.

As proof, I am sending you a copy of my family tree. As you can see, my uncle, Hymie Aronson, of Salem, Mass., married Ura Hogg in 1930.

RUTH ARONSON YONIS, PEABODY, MASS.

What teen-agers need to know about sex, drugs, AIDS, getting along with their peers and parents is now in Abby's updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." Send your name and address, plus check or money order for $3.50 ($4 in Canada) to: Dear Abby's Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Pilot credits 'God's hand' with saving passengers

GREENVILLE, Texas (AP) — Pilot Larry Davis believes it was "God's hand" that saved so many lives in the crash of Delta Flight 1141, his daughter says.

"He realizes that it's God that did the miracle," Christie Davis, 21, told The Dallas Morning News Sunday. "God is the reason that he's alive. There's something that God has planned for him. He's kind of excited to find out what that is. And so am I."

The crash killed 13 people Wednesday when the flight, bound for Salt Lake City, crashed on takeoff at the end of a runway at Dallas Fort Worth International Airport. Ninety-five passengers and crew members scrambled to safety.

Davis, however, was pinned in the wreckage for 30 minutes.

Close friends of the veteran pilot said they were initially concerned that he would blame himself for the tragedy.

Ms. Davis said that by the end of the week, a handful of survivors from the flight had stopped by Davis' room at Parkland Memorial Hospital to thank him for doing such a remarkable job in landing the plane.

"He's really been grieving over the loss of the passengers," said M.J. Hamilton, a close friend who visited Davis in the hospital Saturday night. "I told him, 'You were God's co-pilot and you have to look at it that way.'"

"Larry's first concern on Wednesday, when we got to the hospital, was the report of the number of people who had died," said the Rev. Ralph Anderson, pastor of Aldersgate Church, where Davis is a member. "It was a great grief to him. He just feels very responsible. He's the pilot, the captain."

"Thankfully, I think he's beginning to see the significance of so many people being saved," Anderson added. "It will just take time."

Davis is scheduled to undergo surgery Tuesday to have a metal plate implanted under his left eye, Ms. Davis said. He suffered numerous facial fractures and a back injury.

Most of the Davis family continued their vigil at Parkland Memorial Hospital in Dallas, but Ms. Davis joined the congregation of the independent Bible church in Greenville to pray for her father's "physical and emotional recovery."

The pilot's "faith in the Lord" has deepened because of the plane crash, said Ms. Davis, a senior at John Brown University in Siloam Springs, Ark.

Davis, 48, has been described by friends as a deeply religious man who has been active in Aldersgate Church, serves on the board of Greenville Christian School and holds frequent Bible-study sessions in his home.

Family, friends gather for service

FLORIEN, La. (AP) — The mayor says he doesn't agree with the Texas court system and the decision to not try three lawmen on murder charges in the death of a Florien truck driver.

Loyal Garner Jr., 34, died Dec. 27, at Tyler Medical Center after surgery for head wounds he received at the Sabine County Jail in Hemphill on Christmas day. Former Hemphill Police Chief Thomas Ladner, 41, and sheriff's deputies Bill Horton, 58, and James "Bo" Hyden, 35, were acquitted July 15 of violating Garner's civil rights by beating him and denying him medical attention.

Last week, the 12th District Court of Appeals ruled the trio cannot be tried for murder in Smith County because it would constitute double jeopardy trying someone twice for the same alleged offense. Murder charges were filed in Smith County because that is where Garner died.

During a memorial service Saturday, Mayor John Manasco said the people of Florien know "a wrong has been committed, but the question is why did we permit it to happen."

"I don't agree with the courts in Texas. But someday it will be righted," Manasco said. "I knew Junior (Garner) to be honest and hardworking. He was loved by his family."

Price tag on Kennedy film is up to $30,000 per client

HOUSTON (AP) — A home movie capturing the assassination of President John F. Kennedy nearly 25 years ago is being sold for as much as $30,000 per use, the Houston Chronicle reported in a copyright story.

The footage currently under copyright protection was made by the late Abraham Zapruder on Nov. 22, 1963 and some believe profiting from the historical film is wrong and should part of the public domain, the newspaper reported Sunday.

"You shouldn't be able to copyright something like that," said David Wrono, a history professor at the University of Wisconsin at Stevens Point.

"It should be in the public domain, just like the crucifixion of Jesus. It's immoral, socially speaking," said Wrono, who teaches a class pertaining to the assassination.

Zapruder's son, Henry Zapruder, a tax lawyer who has been negotiating the sale of the film's rights out of his Washington, D.C., office, would not comment about his financial interests in the film. However, he did say: "Anybody who is using it for their own use, research, showing it to students, colleges, can have it free of charge, other than the costs of reprinting the film. But if they're going to be making commercial use of it, then we charge."

Chip Selby, a graduate student at the University of Maryland, said he sought permission from Henry Zapruder to use the 22-second, color film in his new documentary without being required to pay the $30,000 fee for non-exclusive rights.

Getting a blueprint

By James Jacoby

"Murder at the Bridge Table" is perhaps the first book to combine philosophy, instruction and intrigue into one successful work. It also provides insight into the bridge thinking of some of author Matt Granovetter's expert friends, who are given fictional roles. Today's deal has Al Roth sitting North.

Current experts would be more likely to redouble with Roth's cards, and of course present-day players would be more prone to make a one-spade overall with West's cards. Let's accept the bidding, since the fictional setting of the deal is in 1942. Roth passed so that he and his partner could listen to the opponents. Then, after one no-trump and two spades were bid, he jumped to four hearts. The play went quickly. After leading the king of diamonds, West switched to the spade king. Declarer ruffed, trumped a diamond and led the heart jack from dummy. (That one-no-trump bid by East had made it obvious who held three hearts to the queen.) East covered; South won the king and trumped another diamond in dummy. The ace of spades was cashed and a diamond discarded. Next the K-Q of clubs and a club to dummy disclosed that East had started with four clubs. Another spade was ruffed and the last club trumped in dummy. That left South with A-9 of hearts and East with the 10-3. Since dummy was on lead, East had to play before South. As you might imagine, making 12 tricks was quite a good score in the duplicate tournament. It's clear as well that South was able to play much better after East's one-no-trump response had given him a blueprint of the deal.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books.

Few serve time on mercy killing charge

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas County grand jury's decision not to indict Walter Cottrell last week for killing his 89-year-old wife was not that unusual, according

Police say, missing girl abducted

STAMFORD, Texas (AP) — Jones County authorities investigating the weekend disappearance of a 7-year-old Stamford girl say they believe she was probably abducted.

Cortney Lynn Clayton has been missing since about 8:45 p.m. Friday, when she walked to a convenience store less than a block from her house to buy a soda.

"We have no reason to believe she would have run away," Jones County Sheriff Mike Middleton said.

After a thorough door-to-door search and searches from the air by helicopter and plane, authorities also suspect the child was taken from the Stamford area.

The girl's father, Stan Clayton, said he also believes someone probably abducted the girl.

"She's an extremely friendly child, and she could hold a conversation with someone, but she would not have gotten into a vehicle with someone else or gone with someone else," Clayton said Sunday afternoon. "That's why I feel that someone has taken her against her will."

He said his daughter often walked to the M System store near her house, and the cashier has confirmed she was in the store Friday night.

"That night she didn't even have enough money to pay for the soda, and the cashier was going to let her bring the money back the next day," he said.

A passing motorist from Lueders also saw the child leaving the store going north, in the direction of the Clayton house.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents from Abilene also have been called in to assist the local police and sheriff's departments.

The girl is about 4 feet tall with shoulder-length blond hair and brown eyes. Authorities say she was last seen wearing a white T-shirt with a print on the front, maroon terry cloth shorts and blue tennis shoes with white laces. She has freckles, a scar on her right index finger and pierced ears.

to a group that supports laws to allow voluntary euthanasia.

Nationally, only two people this decade who claimed mercy killing as a defense have received prison terms, according to the National Hemlock Society, the organization that tracks mercy killings.

Cottrell, 87, shot and killed his wife, Cora, on July 5 as she lay in her nursing home bed. Cottrell told police that his wife was terminally ill and in great pain and had repeatedly asked him to take her life.

It apparently was the first case of its kind to come before a Dallas County grand jury, local lawyers said.

"I've read about them in the papers in other parts of the country, but I don't remember any coming up when I was district attorney," said Henry Wade, who held that post from 1951 to 1986.

The grand jury issued a news release explaining the decision not to indict Cottrell, a response that seems to reflect the legal and moral uncertainty surrounding mercy killings.

In the release, grand jurors said prosecuting Cottrell would serve "no useful purpose," but emphasized that their ruling was not a license for future mercy killers.

Later this year, a Collin County grand jury will consider the case of 66-year-old Robert Calder of Plano. Police say Calder shot and killed his terminally ill wife Aug. 21 in her hospital bed.

Derek Humphry, president of the Hemlock Society, told the Dallas Morning News Cottrell's case was "a classic mercy killing" because the Dallas man "believed he was doing the right thing morally."

At the time Mrs. Cottrell died, there had been six mercy killings reported in the country in 1988, Humphry said.

Between 1920 and March 1988, the National Hemlock Society reported, there were 92 mercy killings in the United States — 63 of them this decade.

"We're more merciful with these cases than we were — we used to sentence most of these people to prison," Humphry said. But he added that "it's hard to compare it to the past because there were so few mercy killings long ago. It's a crime of the '80s. There's no doubt about it."

Cowboys 'Bristered,' 24-21

PITTSBURGH (AP) - The Pittsburgh Steelers still have their youthful, turnover-forcing big play defense - and now they have a big play quarterback to go with it.

Earnest Jackson scored on runs of 15 and 29 yards and Bub Brister's scrambling completions set up his own 1-yard touchdown run as the Steelers held off two late Dallas drives to beat the Cowboys 24-21 Sunday.

Brister, improvising several key passes when his protection broke down, completed 13 of 27 passes for 214 yards and had a hand in all the scoring as the Steelers withstood two touchdown passes by the Cowboys' Steve Pelluer.

"Bubby's going to make things happen," said Steelers Coach

Chuck Noll. "There was a lot of pressure on him, but he made big plays and got us out of some holes, and I'm very happy with his performance."

Pelluer, who hit 24 of 37 passes for 289 yards with two interceptions, drove the Cowboys from their own 30 to a third-and-2 at the Steelers' 4 with 3:14 to play. But a pass intended for tight end Doug Cosbie was picked off in the end zone by linebacker David Little. Pelluer had been 12 of 14 for 164 yards in the second half until the interception.

Luis Zendejas missed a 49-yard field goal attempt with 44 seconds left after the Cowboys had driven to a first down at the Pittsburgh 23-yard line. Pelluer was sacked twice and threw an incompleton before the failed kick.

"We didn't deserve to lose that game," said Cowboys Coach Tom Landry. "We had them on the ropes in the fourth quarter, and it was our job to put it in. We didn't do it, and we made a couple of errors that were very costly. ... It was a very tough game to lose."

"I felt good about the way I played, save for a couple of poor decisions," Pelluer said. "I'm holding my head high and I'm proud of my performance."

With the Steelers leading 17-14, Brister hit Louis Lipps for 11 and 20 yards and Charles Lockett for 15 yards before Jackson burst up the middle untouched on a 29-yard trap play with 14:53 left, completing an 86-yard drive.

Pelluer, who replaced Danny White as the Cowboys' quarterback in their next-to-last game last season, then marched Dallas on a 60-yard scoring drive, capped by his 8-yard throw to Ray Alexander on a third-and-4 play. Pelluer had made it 17-14 earlier with a 35-yard touchdown throw to rookie Michael Irvin.

Dallas, losing for just the sixth time against a tie in 29 opening-day starts under Landry, took a 7-0 lead when Tim Newsome scored from the 3 with 8:42 remaining in the first quarter to end a 79-play drive.

After Jackson's score tied it, the Steelers took the lead for good at 10-7 on Gary Anderson's 32-yard field goal. Anderson, the second-most accurate kicker in NFL history, later missed a 40-yarder.

Landry tied a league longevity record for coaching the same team for 29 consecutive seasons, first set by Curly Lambeau of Green Bay from 1921-49.

Oilers 17, Colts 14

Eric Dickerson's fumble after a pass reception on the first play of overtime set the stage for Tony Zendejas' deciding field goal of 35 yards. Dickerson, who ran for 109 yards, gained 12 yards on the pass from Gary Hogeboom before being stripped of the ball.

Cody Carlson, pressed into action when starting quarterback Warren Moon was injured, combined with Drew Hill on a 21-yard pass play on third down that moved the ball to the Indianapolis 24. After two Mike Rozier runs gained six yards, Zendejas came on to make amends for a missed 26-yarder with two minutes left in regulation.

Ladies cop consolation; host Plains on Tuesday

BRECKENRIDGE - Snyder's Lady Tigers get their final tuneup before district play Tuesday when they host Plains in the SHS gym.

The ladies go into the match with a 9-6 season record after winning consolation at the Breckenridge Tournament last Saturday.

Snyder opened the single-day tournament with a tough, 16-14, 16-14 loss to Cleburne. The squad then whipped Granbury 15-7, 15-6 and nosed out Windthorst in the consolation match, 13-15, 15-6, 15-6.

Melody Pickering earned all-tournament honors.

"We were down 10-2 against Cleburne and came back. It was a good tournament. I think the girls learned, in the consolation game, that if they lose the first game they can still come back and concentrate and pull it out. They did that and they did a good job."

Snyder will entertain Plains at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. A freshman match is set for 5 p.m. and a varsity match for 6:30 p.m.

Saturday, the Lady Tigers trek to Pecos for the District 4-4A opener.

Aggies flattened, 27-0 Longhorns set for BYU

by The Associated Press

The Texas Longhorns, picked by many experts to make a strong run for the Southwest Conference football title, open their season on Thursday night at Brigham Young University.

BYU was a loser in its opener to Wyoming 24-14. The game will be nationally televised by ESPN at 7 p.m.

Texas Christian, sporting a senior-dominated team, has one of the toughest first games in the nation, playing Georgia "between the hedges" in Athens on Saturday at noon.

Baylor, which beat Nevada-Las Vegas on Saturday, plays Kansas in a 1 p.m. game which will be regionally televised by Raycom.

In other games, Arkansas hosts Tulsa at 2 p.m., Rice entertains Indiana at 6 p.m., Houston is at Louisiana Tech at 7 p.m., and Texas Tech is Arizona in an 8:30 p.m. non-conference clash.

The defending Southwest Conference champion Texas A&M Aggies get a week off. However, the NCAA could be on the schedule.

Nebraska and Louisiana State have given the Aggies back-to-back whippings, including a 27-0 loss to the Bengal Tigers on Saturday night in Baton Rouge.

The NCAA may notify A&M this week of any sanctions from a list of 38 allegations. The Aggies don't play on the field again until Sept. 17 when they host Alabama.

"We're just going to have to work harder," said Aggies' coach Jackie Sherrill, who used three quarterbacks, Bucky Richardson, Lance Pavlas, and Chris Osgood. "We have three seasons this year. We've just finished playing Nebraska and LSU for one-part of the season. The next part of our season is Alabama and Oklahoma State. Then comes the conference season."

"Our offense is not very good. That's it, just point-blank. We don't have any cylinders going."

Baylor's defense was impressive in a 27-3 victory over Nevada-Las Vegas, holding the Rebels to only two first downs. Eldwin Raphael rushed for 142 yards and freshman Jeff Ireland kicked a school record-tying four field goals. The two first downs were a school record for Baylor. The previous best effort against an opponent came in 1986 when the defense held Louisiana Tech to seven first downs.

Arkansas defeated another Big West Conference team in a 63-14 flogging of Pacific University. Fullback Barry Foster scored three touchdowns as Arkansas scored its most points since it defeated Northwest Louisiana 64-0 in 1947.

At Lubbock, the Red Raiders were stunned 29-24 by North Texas State University, the fifth-ranked team in NCAA division AA.

Astros 4, Cardinals 3

HOUSTON (AP) - Batting third in the lineup has been first rate for Houston Astros' outfielder Kevin Bass.

In the past two games against St. Louis, Bass has scored four runs and batted in four runs including a first inning two-run homer that paced the Astros to a 4-3 victory over the Cardinals Sunday.

Bass socked his 13th home run of the season into the left field seats with one out.

"Kevin's been swinging a good bat the last couple of games," Houston manager Hal Lanier said. "He's been really stinging the ball."

Bass also scored Houston's fourth run in the third inning following Billy Hatcher's sacrifice fly to center to help left-hander Bob Knepper, 13-4, win his first start since being injured August 14 with a pulled groin.

Knepper has won five of his last six decisions. Dave Smith posted his 24th save of 28 opportunities in 1988 by closing the game in the ninth inning.

Knepper did not have a great outing, giving up eight hits and three runs in five-plus innings.

CUTTING IT CLOSE - Gail's Kelly Jo Ogden wipes the dust off of the third barrel in a 17.115 second run, good enough to win the girl's 13-to-15

Area contestants fare well at rodeo

Area contestants fared well at the AJRA Rodeo, which began Friday in the mud and concluded with a cloud of dust here Sunday afternoon.

The three-day rodeo, held at the old rodeo grounds, was sponsored by the Western Texas College Rodeo Club.

Abilene cowgirl Lari Dee Guy won two events. She joined Amherst's Kory Kooztz to post a best time of 7.03 seconds in the team roping and also won the goat tying in 8.40.

The age 13-to-15 team roping was won by Gail cowboy J.J. Kincheloe and Melissa Brillhart of Slaton in 9.27. Leddy Lewis, AJRA world champion in the event, placed fifth with Lorissa Edmondson of Roby in 20.06 and sixth with hometown cowboy Cole Sterling in 38.52.

Gail's Kelly Jo Ogden, several times barrel racing champion, won her event with a 17.115 clocking.

Jana Kincheloe of Gail placed second in the girl's 12-under barrels with a 17.893 clocking. She was also second in the goat tying with a 14.10.

WTC student Tana Mahoney, of Vernon, was runner-up to Guy in the goat tying with a 9.31.

Another WTC student, Terry Graff of Aimsworth, Neb., was second in the steer wrestling with a 5.24.

Rains swept the area Friday and left the arena muddy. The situation improved into the weekend and Sunday's show was under windy but mild skies.

Anti-Pinochet demonstrators battle police; many arrested

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Thousands of protesters battled police following the largest anti-government rally since the military nominated right-wing President Augusto Pinochet as the only candidate in a fall presidential referendum.

More than 100,000 people packed blocks of a broad avenue in central Santiago on Sunday chanting "Pinochet's going to fall!"

Police arrested 262 demonstrators and a police officer and eight civilians were wounded, said Gen. Sergio Badiola, the governor of Santiago. He said six of the injured, including the policeman, were seriously hurt.

Police fired tear gas, buckshot and water cannons when tens of thousands of people began a march on the government palace after the generally peaceful rally had ended.

Organizers said 300,000 people attended the rally and journalists estimated the crowd at more than 100,000.

Gen. Pinochet, the 72-year-old army commander who has ruled Chile with a military junta since a coup in September 1973, was selected last Tuesday by himself and the commanders of the navy, air force and national police as the sole candidate in the presidential referendum scheduled for Oct. 5.

Sunday's rally was the largest show of force by the opposition since Pinochet, seeking popular support, lifted on Aug. 27 the state of emergency that restricted public gatherings.

There had been scattered street demonstrations after Pinochet's nomination was announced Tuesday and three people were shot to death and hundreds were arrested.

Hector Moya, the main speaker at Sunday's rally, told the cheering crowd: "We can now clearly see that the Pinochet regime already has been defeated."

Moya is the head of the truckers' union.

When the rally ended a column of tens of thousands of people marched to the city's center, blocking traffic. Police broke up the procession and there were skirmishes throughout the area between rock-throwing demonstrators and police firing birdshot and tear gas.

Pinochet, in an "open letter to the men and women of my country" printed Sunday in most local newspapers, promised full democracy if he is returned to office in the referendum.

"If Chileans call me to govern, each one of them will govern, too," the letter said.

In an interview printed Sunday in the conservative newspaper El Mercurio, Pinochet also promised to resign as army commander and govern as a civilian.

Chile's 7.2 million voters are to vote either for or against Pinochet in the referendum.

If approved, Pinochet will begin a new eight-year term in March. If rejected, an open presidential election is to be held in December 1989 with Pinochet remaining in power until an elected president takes office.

Pinochet led the 1973 military coup that ousted the elected government of Marxist President Salvador Allende.

Ricardo Lagos, a socialist opposition leader, called the rally "the first step toward the final defeat of Pinochet."

UT scientists test new gun

AUSTIN (AP) — A new 90-millimeter electromagnetic rail gun that may someday replace conventional gas-expansion cannons on Army tanks and other armored vehicles has been successfully fired by University of Texas engineers.

"For a brand new gun, it couldn't have worked better," Bill Weldon, director of the Center for Electromechanics, where the weapon is being developed in the second year of a two-year test program, said.

Weldon says he now has a new doorstop because of the successful test firings last month. It's steel, 3 inches thick and has a large hole through it.

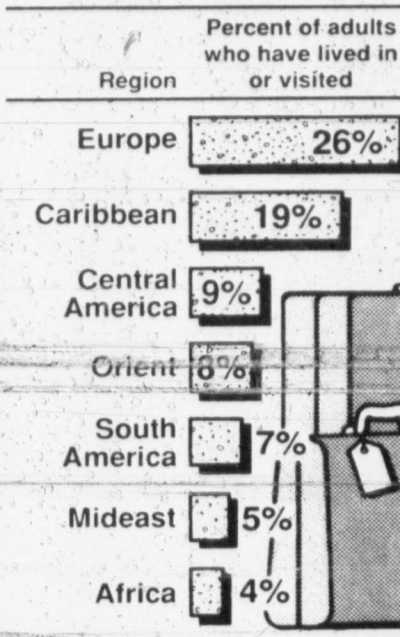

The doorstop is half of a 300-pound target that was twice punctured by blunt, 2.5 pound aluminum plugs in the test firings of the 90-millimeter gun.

The electromagnetic gun is being operated in a vertical firing range 150 feet deep at the center. Targets are placed at the bottom of the hole, about 100 feet from the gun's muzzle.

Researchers expect to have a 1989 shootout with competing labs in California and Connecticut for development of a revolutionary anti-tank weapon.

"Obviously, the size of our gun might change but, for the foreseeable future, it's the size we'll use," Weldon said.

Investigators look into latest crashes

By The Associated Press

Investigators continued to rummage through the wreckage of two separate private plane crashes in El Paso and in far East Texas that claimed the lives of nine people over the weekend.

Five people were killed in the Saturday crash involving a twin-engine plane outside Carthage, while four died earlier Saturday in the accident outside El Paso, Texas Department of Public Safety officials said.

Officials with the National Transportation Safety Board from Fort Worth and deputies with the El Paso County Sheriff's department were investigating what may have caused the single-engine Cessna to go down in a remote area east of El Paso near Horizon City.

The Cessna 170A crashed about 8:40 p.m. Saturday about five miles north of Horizon City, said Sal Renteria, chief of the Horizon City Volunteer Fire Department.

Killed in the crash about 20 miles east of El Paso were 8-year-old Justin Hafely of Wesley, Bernard John Peterson, 30, of Austin and pilot Dennis Raymond Peterson, 37, and Kevin Peterson, 30, both of El Paso, said DPS spokesman David Wells.

Hal Tucker, manager of the West Texas Regional Airport near Horizon City, said the plane took off Saturday afternoon for a pleasure trip.

In Carthage, investigators from the NTSB and Federal Aviation Administration were on the scene late Sunday trying to determine the cause of that crash.

The twin-engine was en route to the Panola County community from Starkesville, Miss., where the victims had attended a football game. The demolished aircraft was found at 8 a.m. Sunday in a densely wooded area about two miles south of Sharpe Field Airport and about 300 yards off Texas Highway 699. Carthage is about 40 miles southwest of Shreveport, La.

Billy Don Griffin, 43, owner of Griffin Construction Co. and a member of the Carthage Independent School District board of trustees was killed along with his wife, Linda, 43, according to DPS Sgt. Mike Payne.

Other victims were identified as pilot Marcus D. Butler, 62, Ann Liston Apple, 48, an assistant Carthage High School principal, and Christina Ann Bell, 16, of DeBerry.

"Radar operators in Shreveport, Louisiana lost the plane about 11:30 p.m. Saturday. Radio communications between the plane and controllers in Fort Worth was lost about the same time," Payne said. "Air controllers had given the pilot permission to descend from 5,000 feet to 3,000 feet shortly before the aircraft was lost."

Payne said the 1981 Piper Seneca 3 aircraft was apparently on its final landing approach when it crashed, shearing off several pine trees as it plummeted almost straight down into the forest.

Titan 2 launched

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — A Titan 2 missile designed to launch a nuclear warhead soared on its maiden flight as a space rocket early today, carrying what an expert said likely was a set of Navy spy satellites.

The 103-foot liquid-fueled booster, bearing what the Air Force described only as a classified payload, lifted off at 2:25 a.m. from this sprawling coastal military base 140 miles northwest of Los Angeles, said Capt. Norma Payne.

The missile took off in a fog-shrouded sky with a deep-throated roar that lasted three to five minutes. The force of the blast-off rattled windows in the nearby town of Lompoc, where police said they received a half-dozen calls from residents asking whether it was an earthquake or a launch.

"It was a spectacular launch with all systems operating as expected," said Ms. Payne, who viewed the takeoff from a television screen inside the command center.

"This is the year of space launch recovery," said Edward C. "Pete" Aldridge Jr., secretary of the Air Force. "Today's successful Titan 2 launch is the first of three new boosters the Air Force will launch in the coming year."

The launch was expected a week earlier, but apparently was delayed by a fuel leak.

Since the 1960s, Titan 2 rockets sat in silos in Arkansas, Kansas and Arizona, where they served as intercontinental ballistic missiles, each carrying a nine-megaton hydrogen warhead. But maintenance and safety problems prompted removal of the obsolete missiles.

The Air Force then ordered 13 Titan 2s reconditioned as space boosters under a $528.9 million contract with Martin Marietta Corp. Air Force officials said more are likely to be refurbished because recycling the old ICBMs is cheaper than building new rockets.

John Pike, a space policy expert at the Washington-based Federation of American Scientists, said before the launch he was 90 percent certain the payload was a four-satellite addition to the White Cloud Navy Ocean Surveillance System.

The electronic eavesdropping system locates and identifies Soviet and other ships by detecting radio and radar transmissions.

"The Navy really likes them," Pike said by telephone. "They are very important for being able to keep track of the Soviet fleet."

Pike said the only other payload the Titan 2 might boost into orbit was a Defense Meteorological Support Program satellite. But he called that unlikely because a DMSP military weather satellite was launched from Vandenberg last spring.

Bangladesh floods threaten at least 20 million people

DHAKA, Bangladesh (AP) — Flying across this nation, it is virtually impossible to discern the mighty rivers that normally ribbon the landscape. There are just vast seas of muddy brown water — and millions of stranded people.

Floods have inundated three-quarters of Bangladesh and cut transportation links from its major port to the capital and other interior cities, officials say, though adding today that flood waters on three major rivers were receding.

In Dhaka, flood waters were at their highest levels in 54 years and covered three-fourths of the capital.

Dhaka newspapers reported 60 more flood deaths today, bringing the toll to at least 1,007 since June, when rivers began

Cargo plane aborts takeoff at airshow

FARNBOROUGH, England (AP) — A week after disaster struck a West German air show, Europe's top aviation event opened with a Soviet cargo plane aborting takeoff when flames shot from one of its engines 100 yards from spectators.

The flames flared 20 feet from a port engine of the blue-and-white Antonov-124 cargo carrier and a loud bang followed as the world's heaviest aircraft began its takeoff Sunday before 10,000 spectators.

A pilot cut the three other jet engines and halted the 400-ton aircraft of the Soviet Aeroflot state airline. No one was injured.

A Soviet official, speaking on condition of anonymity, promised that the 400-ton plane would fly again at the Farnborough Air Show "before the end of the week." He gave no cause for mishap.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said today: "A loud bang was heard all of a sudden during the run, literally several seconds before the takeoff: a small flame appearing in one of the engines. Though everything ended smoothly, the crew took a decision to put off the flight."

Experts at air show, Europe's main aviation showcase, said the engine must have stopped combustion as maximum fuel was pumped through for a short takeoff to impress the crowds.

Before the aborted takeoff, the Soviets thrilled first-day spectators with displays by their MiG-29s.

Organizers stressed that safety regulations at Farnborough, 35 miles southwest of London, were stringent.

Their comments came after the Aug. 28 disaster at the U.S. Air Force base at Ramstein, West Germany. Three Italian jets collided during an aerobatics display at a Ramstein air show, and one of the aircraft hurtled in flames into spectators, killing more than 50 and injuring more than 300.

The display aircraft at Farnborough all had to fly away from the crowd and most performed alone. All the aircraft were inspected by the organizers before takeoff.

The two MiGs, the first advanced Soviet combat aircraft to take part in a Western display, took star billing.

One of the twin-tailed fighters, painted in camouflage gray, zoomed 3,000 feet into the sky from takeoff then fell backward, nose still pointing up. Before gasping spectators, the pilot forced the nose down, pulling the aircraft into level flight in a maneuver known as "tail-slide."

In a 3½-hour display in clear, balmy weather, West European and American combat and civil aircraft also went through their paces, mainly for the benefit of potential buyers flocking to Farnborough.

Sir Frank Whittle, the 81-year-old inventor who first took out a patent for his gas-turbine jet propulsion system in 1930, watched the MiGs' display.

"I did that in 1929," he was quoted as saying by The Times of London. "It is quite easy provided you have got the strength to keep the controls steady until the aircraft falls nose forward."

Whittle was at the show to unveil a new Rolls-Royce jet engine, the RB211-524L, claimed to be the most powerful in the world.

Manufacturers expect to do more than $1.67 billion in business during the weeklong air show.

overflowing their banks in annual monsoon flooding in this impoverished nation of 110 million people.

The government count of 333 dead is widely considered low.

Millions of the marooned are eating raw food and drinking muddy, probably contaminated water, and 83,000 people nationwide have contracted diarrheal diseases, said Health Minister Abdul Munim.

He said 65 people have died of the diseases so far. "It is a calamity," Information Minister Mahbubur Rahman told reporters Sunday night. "It is a havoc-creating, menacing flood."

Flying in an airplane across Bangladesh Sunday from the Indian border to Dhaka, even the civilian pilot couldn't differentiate between the rivers and the flood waters.

"I've never seen anything like it before," said Ghias Ahmad, who has been flying over his country for 19 years.

The waters swallowed up entire villages. Occasionally, tin roofs glinted in the sunlight, the houses beneath them completely submerged.

miles northeast of San Diego. Washington state's most serious forest fires ballooned to more than 12,500 acres, sending smoke and ash over the town of Republic but posing no immediate threat.

In Utah, calm winds helped firefighters keep a raging, 5,400-acre brush fire from more than 70 canyon homes east of Salt Lake City, authorities said.

In Idaho, a fire that spread from Yellowstone into the Island Park area of eastern Idaho during the weekend burned more than 14,500 acres, but light winds gave firefighters a reprieve. The state's largest fire, the Ladder Creek fire in central Idaho, grew to more than 21,000 acres.

More than 600 firefighters in Montana tended the backfire set near Yellowstone's northeast entrance. The blaze was expected to burn nearly 5,000 acres by late today in a west, southwest direction.

The Storm Creek fire, which started nearly three months ago in the Absaroka-Beartooth Wilderness of Montana, continued burning southerly down a pair of creek drainages in the park, away from the two towns.

The next two days are critical as officials expect southwest winds to kick up Tuesday and possibly blow the flames toward the towns, said Pat Kaunert, fire information officer.

"We're creating a massive buffer in a last-ditch effort to save this town," Kaunert said. "We need two miles of buffer in front of the fire to hold it. Two miles of black."

Crews also manned a 65-foot-wide swath bulldozed through the forest, waiting with shovels and hoses to put out any burning embers.

Burglary at Knapp center

Sheriff's deputies are investigating a break-in at Knapp Community Center in which a refrigerator was stolen.

Richard Halfmann told officers Sunday that someone broke into the center, southwest of Snyder, between noon Saturday and 9 a.m. Sunday.

The refrigerator was the only thing that had been found missing, a deputy said.

For the youngsters, free balloons will be given out and an appearance by Mac Tonight is promised.

still above water, people milled idly, small boats beached beside them.

The Ganges and Brahmaputra rivers and their dozens of tributaries flow from India and through Bangladesh to the Bay of Bengal.

The rivers flood almost every year after the monsoon rains in Bangladesh and India. Last year, the flooding in Bangladesh killed about 1,500 people.

This season, some refugees have found shelter in relief centers or relatives' homes, said government officials who spoke on condition of anonymity. But they estimated that at least 20 million people were either stranded in their homes or marooned on small outcroppings of high ground with few supplies.

Wells and pumps are flooded, officials said, and flood water, which is probably impure, is the only source of drinking water.

The central government has appealed for foreign aid, including boats, helicopters and 3 million tons of grain.

Officials today reported water levels falling on the Brahmaputra, Ganges and Meghna rivers. But relief officials cannot reach many parts of the country.

gatehouse at the park's northeast entrance. Smoke from the backfires filled both towns, and curious residents in Cooke City watched down the highway.

The evacuation notice was given Sunday morning and sheriff's deputies drove a patrol vehicle slowly through the streets, blaring out an evacuation signal.

The fire started June 14 when a lightning strike sparked a small blaze in the wilderness. Under Forest Service policy, it was allowed to burn as long as it remained within the boundaries prescribed in a fire management plan.

Presidential race is 'tight'

states races whose outcome will likely determine Ronald Reagan's successor in the White House.

Dukakis' selection of Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen as his vice presidential running mate transformed Bush's adopted home state and its 29 electoral votes into an instant toss-up. But Bush has countered elsewhere: the vice president seemingly has moved ahead in Florida, with 21 electoral votes, as well as making up ground in the industrial Midwest. One poll in Massachusetts even rated Dukakis' home state a toss-up, though the AP survey still found the state to be solid ground for Dukakis.

In small states and large, politicians report a close contest that is unlikely to be decided until the final few days. Campaign debates and unexpected international events could have a dramatic influence on the outcome.

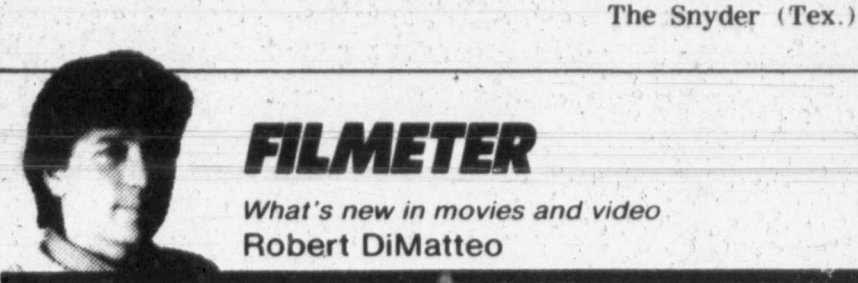

"I'd say right now it's a flip of the coin," said former Iowa Democratic chairman Ed Campbell, reflecting the sentiment of party professionals around the country. "It could go either way."

Senior officials of the two campaigns pronounce themselves pleased with the shape of the race.

Said Susan Estrich, Dukakis' campaign manager: "Nationally, we're competitive. States will go up and down. It's exactly where we thought it would be. ... This is a very evenly matched contest."

"We all felt like we'd be lucky if we were in the single digits, meaning seven, eight, or nine points" behind by Labor Day, said Lee Atwater, Bush's campaign manager.

Officials in both camps agree that the race is subject to sharp swings, especially since neither candidate is an incumbent. That heightens the importance of debates, the subject of negotiations between the two campaigns with Dukakis seeking more and Bush less. It also could heighten the effect of any mistakes by either of the candidates or their running mates, Democratic Sen. Bentsen and Republican Sen. Dan Quayle.

FILMETER

What's new in movies and video
Robert DiMatteo

In Movie Theaters

MARRIED TO THE MOB (R) Director Jonathan Demme ("Melvin and Howard," "Something Wild") has an easy virtuosity. Though his films team with idiosyncratic Americana, a wide range of music and cultural "signs," they seem to unfold casually. Demme's skill and intelligence don't get in the way of our fun.

His latest is, like "Something Wild," a twisted genre piece. The genre this time is the gangster movie, here transformed into a glittering slapstick romantic comedy. Continuing to prove that she's as much sensitive actress as cool beauty, Michelle Pfeiffer stars as Angela DeMarco, the perfect suburban Long Island wife. Except for one thing: Her husband (Alec Baldwin) is a hit man for mobster Tony the Tiger (Dean Stockwell). After Tony loses hubby, Angela flees with her child to Lower East Side Manhattan in hopes of starting a new life.

We all know how the mob likes to be one big happy family. So it's not surprising when Tony decides he wants Angela enough to track her down and woo her — even though his own wife (Mercedes Ruehl) has threatened to wipe him out if she catches him cheating. Meanwhile, two clumsy FBI agents are also on Angela's heels. One of them (Matthew Modine) is over-enthusiastic and given to silly disguises. He takes one look at Angela, and he's smitten.

The script is just serviceable — a farce-spinning conceit that makes the FBI and the mob two sides of the same gonnish coin. But Demme and his cast make it breathe. There's a terrific appreciation of the kitschy melting-pot details of American life — a lively garish style that unites the film's view of Long Island, Manhattan and Miami (where the climax takes place).

Matthew Modine and Michelle Pfeiffer make an intriguingly odd, almost pristine and weightless romantic couple: Modine's boyishness never quite hooks up with Pfeiffer's qualities. Meanwhile, Stockwell and Mercedes Ruehl threaten to steal the show. Ruehl is a wonderful shrewish wife — hilarious yet powerful — and Stockwell's Tony is a dapper, narcissistic creep. GRADE: ★★★

TUCKER: THE MAN AND HIS DREAM (PG) There's an appealing Frank Capraesque parable of a free-spirited American dreamer at the center of Francis Ford Coppola's portrait of Preston Tucker — the revolutionary auto maker who took on the combined powers of the Detroit car manufacturers and their Washington politicians. Framed by an assertively corny, mock-Tucker company promo film, the movie is a celebration of the visionary instinct, done with nostalgic Norman Rockwell imagery. It's deft and enjoyable, but it's also all on one level, and ends up seeming shallow.

As Tucker, the gifted Jeff Bridges has a beguiling sunniness and spunk: You believe this guy could do anything. But, like the movie as a whole, Bridges doesn't deepen or grow in the role. He's just a pawn in the film's genial pro-individualist/anti-big-business-and-bureaucracy scheme. The real Tucker died a broken man, one of several dark facts that don't make it into this picture.

The lovely stage actress Joan Allen looks downright anorexic as Mrs. Tucker, and her supportive-wife role is just as thin. On the other hand, a jowly, mustachioed Martin Landau is a revelation as a shrewd businessman and Tucker associate Abe Karatz, and Dean Stockwell turns in a fine, eerie cameo performance as Howard Hughes. GRADE: ★★½

New Home Video

THE LAST EMPEROR (PG-13) Nelson, $89.98. Director Bernardo Bertolucci's Oscar-winner is a visually ravishing film that deserves the scope of the big screen. Still, a surprising amount of its richness comes through on video. It's the portrait of Pu Yi (John Lone) — the last imperial Chinese ruler, who, through a series of ironic and cruel circumstances, ended up a gardener in Maoist China.

This 160-minute epic has its lumpy, paradoxical side — the unresolved way it reveals itself to be an epic without a hero. Nor is it clear how we are meant to take the decadent Pu Yi's prison-induced "re-education" into Maoism. But what a life story! And what lush, exotic imagery! GRADE: ★★★★★

Pair of cases are investigated

Incident reports noted from the weekend included a case of vandalism and a stolen bicycle.

Mrs. Charlie Pace of 3003 38th St. reported at 9:02 a.m. Saturday that her husband's pickup had been vandalized.

An offense report for criminal mischief was made.

Also Saturday, Mrs. Larry Sears of 3790 Ave. V reported a stolen bike. It was described as a 26 inch girl's 10-speed.

Weekend has two accidents

Two minor accidents were investigated by police during the weekend, single wrecks occurring both Saturday and Sunday.

Saturday's accident occurred around 5:20 p.m. in the 4000 Block of College Ave. as a gas pump owned by Bill Burns Oil Co. was struck by a 1985 Mercury driven by Violet Rollins Stuard of 3200 48th St.

On Sunday, police investigated a two-vehicle minor wreck reported at 7:37 p.m. at 25th St. and College Ave. Involved drivers were Ginda Ian Brown of Roscoe, driving a 1986 Chevrolet two-door, and Virginia Cerda Torres of Rt. 2, driving a 1972 Oldsmobile.

Emergency crews take supplies to flooded area

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Emergency crews worked today to get supplies to communities isolated by flooding from two hurricanes and to repair washed out roads and bridges.

At least 13 people died in the flooding, officials said. Most were killed in mudslides or were swept away by swollen rivers. An estimated 50,000 were evacuated from their homes.

Much of the southern half of the country was affected — from Veracruz on the east to the west coast resorts and Chiapas on the border with Guatemala.

About 25,000 people in Veracruz were temporarily homeless, state government spokesman Raul Torres said late Sunday.

Kathy Baylor

BROWNFIELD—Services were held at 10 a.m. Monday for Kathy Lynn Baylor, 16, who died Saturday morning after being struck by a motor home as she attempted to cross Interstate 40 in Amarillo.

Services were set for the Brownfield Church of Christ, and burial was to follow in the Terry County Memorial Cemetery. She was a former resident of Snyder, having attended school here. Her mother, Linda Baylor, was a former employee of the Snyder Daily News.

Miss Baylor died enroute to an Amarillo hospital following the 1 a.m. mishap. Reports said she was struck while trying to run across the westbound lane of the interstate.

Born in Brownfield, she had moved to Amarillo with her mother several months ago. Survivors include her mother, Linda Baylor of Amarillo and her father, Jerry Baylor of Bastrop; a sister, Tammy Baylor of Portales, N.M.; her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Norman of Brownfield; and her paternal grandmother, Mary Louise Baylor of Lubbock.

Most were in the region of Tuxpan and Poza Rica, about 150 miles northeast of Mexico City, where Hurricane Debby struck on Friday.

Up to a quarter of the 40,000 residents of Alamo, 25 miles inland from Tuxpan, had to leave their homes, Torres said.

Three people died in Poza Rica and three in the nearby town of Papanla as a result of the storm, he said.

In the central state of Hidalgo, a mudslide crushed three houses in the mountain community of Ixtlahuaco, about 100 miles northeast of Mexico City, killing four people and injuring 16 others, 2nd Commander Florencio Gutierrez Hernandez.

Fix-it chores become a hazard

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is there such a thing as being allergic to a new house? Since my friend moved into her new house, she has been ill with sinus trouble and lung congestion. She also did a lot of sanding and painting herself. Is there a connection?

DEAR READER: Your friend may indeed be allergic to components of her new house. Formaldehyde and urethane are substances well-known to cause allergic reactions and are present in particle board, insulation and other building materials.

Of course, paint fumes and dust from sanding also can cause respiratory irritation. Therefore, I advise your friend to discontinue do-it-yourself home improvements before blaming the contractor. An allergist would be able to help her sort out this confusing situation.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband has recently begun having anaphylactic reactions, presumably to something in his diet. He sits down to a meal and ends up in the emergency room. So far, the symptoms seem to come at random. How do we go about identifying the cause?

DEAR READER: Although your husband's extreme sensitivity reactions appear to occur at random, I suspect that there is a common denominator to his anaphylaxis. Several food additives and preservatives — such as monosodium glutamate and sulfites — may be the problem, or he may simply be allergic to certain foodstuffs, such as wheat or fruit.

Your husband should see an allergist. By careful analysis and testing, such a specialist will be able to pinpoint the substances to which your husband is reacting. Your husband can then avoid these substances or consider undergoing desensitization injections to reduce the severity of his allergies.

I advise you to seek professional help right away, because sooner or later, if he doesn't discover the culprit, your husband may experience a reaction that will be permanently damaging or fatal.

To give you more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report, "Help I: Physical Illness," which gives information sources regarding a variety of disorders. Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to: P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I suffer from constant fatigue to the point of exhaustion. Every afternoon I run a fever of 100 degrees. My doctor says I have the "Raggedy Ann syndrome" and there is no cure. What is this condition?

DEAR READER: I don't know. "Raggedy Ann syndrome" sometimes refers to the cloth-doll floppiness and weakness that certain patients experience from a variety of conditions, ranging from neurological disease to low blood-potassium levels.

I am concerned that your exhaustion and fever may reflect an underlying, serious medical illness that is treatable. A daily fever of 100 degrees for more than one month qualifies as an FUO (fever of unknown origin), one of the most challenging dilemmas of modern medicine. You need a meticulous and complete examination by a capable doctor, as well as an array of tests and X-rays.

You may find useful information in a new book on the subject of chronic fatigue, "Doctor, Why Am I So Tired?" by Richard N. Podell, M.D. (Pharos Books).

New spill forces 2nd evacuation

COMMERCE, Calif. (AP) — A chlorine gas leak from a swimming pool supply company forced up to 1,000 people from their homes for the second day in a row early Sunday, authorities said.

No injuries were reported. Most of the evacuations were in Montebello, eight miles east of downtown Los Angeles, and residents were allowed back about 8 a.m., 2½ hours later.

Millions are spent to defend criminals

DALLAS (AP) — Felony court judges in Dallas County are spending a record amount in hiring private attorneys to defend the poor, while the public defender's office provides the same service at a fraction of the cost.

By the end of the fiscal year, felony court judges will have spent an all-time high of $4.5 million on legal defense for 13,000 indigent criminal suspects in Dallas County.

The amount exceeds the judges' annual budget by $1 million and breaks down to an average of $296 per case paid to attorneys for often a five- to 15-minute court appearance.

By contrast, the public defender's office — a county agency that provides legal representation for accused felons with a staff of eight salaried lawyers — will have defended about 4,000 indigent defendants for $175 or less per case, the Dallas Times Herald reported.

Since 1978, when county commissioners made their first major attempt to curb indigent defense costs, judicial spending on private lawyers for the poor has more than tripled.

The 14 felony court judges blame the soaring cost of indigent defense on a rising crime rate, an increasing number of arrests by police, and a growing number of criminal cases filling their dockets.

Critics however blame the judges and say they use a system that costs twice as much as its competition and has fallen out of favor in major cities nationwide.

"The issue never changes. It's something we have never been able to solve," said lawyer Vincet Perini, who studied the rising cost of indigent defense in the 1970s for the Dallas Bar Association. "It's a cyclical matter that's been turned into a political football... and that's a damned pity."

Taxpayers began paying the expense of providing indigent criminal defendants an attorney after a landmark 1963 U.S. Supreme Court decision.

"The (taxpayers) who are being victimized by crime are getting a little bit upset that we have such tremendously escalating costs for representing criminals," said Commissioner Chris Semos. "If costs keep going up, you're going to have the greatest rebellion of taxpayers you've ever seen."

According to figures compiled by Dallas County Auditor Joe Jack Mills the cost to the county has risen every year for the past six years.

The escalating cost prompted thousands of counties nationwide to switch to public defenders' offices in the last decade, said Benjamin Lerner, a public defender.

If the Dallas County felony judges were less reluctant to use the public defenders office, the county apparently could have saved $1.6 million this year, the Times Herald reported.

Texans contemplate joint space shot

HOUSTON (AP) — A group of 15 Americans, including several from Texas, are en route to Moscow for talks with top Soviet officials on the possibility of future cooperative efforts in commercial space ventures.

The discussions will take place at the prestigious Space Research Institute of the Soviet Academy of Sciences and at Star City, the secretive cosmonaut training base outside Moscow, the Houston Chronicle reported Sunday.

The group includes representatives from two of Houston's most highly developed commercial space companies, Space Commerce Corp. and Space Industries, Inc.

"My personal belief is that these enterprises are the wave of the future for Houston and the rest of the United States and that they will prove to be mutually profitable for both the government and private development," said Harlan J. Smith, the dean of the group and a longtime observer of the Soviet space program.

"Houston should be one of the leading areas in the country for this kind of cooperative government and private space development," said Smith, a professor of astronomy at the University of Texas at Austin, and head of the university's McDonald Observatory in West Texas.

Smith and the others are scheduled to meet Monday with Soviet space scientists at the institute, possibly including Roald Z. Sagdeev, head of the institute.

Sagdeev is an advocate of joint

Soviet-American cooperation in space and has the ear of party secretary Mikhail S. Gorbachev. He also is a strong supporter of the Soviet leader's attempts to rejuvenate the communist nation through "glasnost" (openness) and "perestroika" (reform), particularly in science, according to Soviet experts.

Balloon will carry experiments into space

PALESTINE, Texas (AP) — In a few days, a team of scientists expect to have a 7-foot-tall package of instruments tuned up and ready for a trip to the edge of space. But it won't be a rocket that soars skyward; it'll be a balloon.

The team, which is studying air chemistry and the depletion of ozone, is one of some 50 scientific groups that will launch experiments aboard balloons in East Texas.

For 25 years, with little fanfare, scientists from around the world have been drawn to Texas' other space center — the National Scientific Balloon Facility, just outside Palestine.

"This is very low-tech," says

Dwight M. Bawcom, the manager.

A typical balloon launching might cost $100,000. A sounding rocket, which carries payloads on sub-orbital flights several minutes long, can cost $500,000.

While big balloons stay aloft up to several days, they don't quite make it into space. But Bawcom says, "If you can stand to get above 99 percent of the atmosphere, you can do it a lot cheaper."

Bill Heaps, an atmospheric physicist from NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center in Maryland, who's leading one team, figures his $1 million experiment would cost $50 million to do so on a manned space shuttle mission.

Other Americans scheduled to take part include Louis Friedman, executive director of the Planetary Society; John Pike, director of space policy for the Federation of American Scientists based in Washington, D.C.; Steve Armour, a Houston investor in Space Commerce; James Calaway, a founder and vice president of Space Industries, which has developed the Industrial Space Facility, a small unmanned space station scheduled to go into space within the next few years; and Charles R. Gallagher, president of the Menefee Foundation, which holds stock in Space Commerce.

Smith believes one day private space commerce, in hand with NASA, will be a strong part of the city's industrial diversification, taking up some of the slack left by the slumping oil and gas business.

"The combination of having the Johnson Space Center at Houston, plus the universities in Texas... and the presence of a strong nucleus of private companies, will add to that," Smith said. "And there is also the Texas spirit."

Hillside serves area for many years

Hillside Memorial Gardens, located on the Colorado City Highway, has been serving Snyder and the Scurry County area for many years.

Hillside Memorial Gardens is a perpetual care cemetery governed by the State Banking Department. The one price you pay for perpetual care is the only one you ever have to pay. There are no yearly dues necessary for the upkeep of the property.

The staff at Hillside Memorial Gardens is committed to serving your best interests. W.C. and Greg Graves will be glad to help you with any of your pre-need planning. Everyone plans for the future in one way or another whether with savings or insurance to take care of something that might happen. Why not prepare for the inevitable? Making the decision to purchase a Family Memorial Estate plan now insures that the decision is made together and one is not left to make it alone. Statistics show that these decisions are made 67 percent of the time by widows and children and 33 percent of the time by husbands. The purchase of a Family Memorial Estate plan can also be a savings plan because the deed is the equivalent of a paid up insurance policy.

Four arrested locally Sunday

Sunday's police report included three arrests made in the city. In addition, a 30-year-old Snyder man was arrested for DWI at 1:37 a.m. Sunday by a state highway patrolman south of the city on FM 1605.

At 9:49 a.m., a 42-year-old Spanish male was arrested in the 700 Block of 31st St. for outstanding Big Spring warrants involving traffic offenses. These included tickets for failing to yield right-of-way, speeding, having no liability insurance and failure to appear. Police also responded to a reported case of shoplifting at Furr's Plus at 7:09 p.m. A 28-year-old black male was taken into custody.

At 9:13 p.m. in the 1800 Block of Scott, a 40-year-old Spanish female was arrested for warrants issued out of Lubbock as well as locally. The local warrant was for probation violation and the Lubbock charges involved DWI and driving with a license suspended.
