

Clements' arrival set around 2 p.m.

A campaign visit on behalf of Republican candidates by Texas Gov. Bill Clements will begin around 2 p.m. Wednesday. Clements is expected to travel by automobile from Sweetwater to Snyder. From here, he is scheduled to drive to Lamesa for further campaign stops.

He is expected to arrive at the Republican Headquarters on the east side of the downtown square around 2:15 p.m. At that location, he will be joined by local Republican candidates.

The Wednesday visit will mark the first public appearance by Clements here during his current term as governor. The last time a Texas governor visited Snyder was on Aug. 21, 1986, when Gov. Mark White attended Roger B. Mize Day activities here.

Clements is visiting area cities both Tuesday and Wednesday as part of a "Victory '88" campaign swing on behalf of his political party's candidates.

In addition Wednesday, the wife of U.S. senate candidate Beau Boulter (R-Amarillo) is to be in Snyder. Rosemary Boulter is scheduled to be at the Republican Headquarters here from 2:30 until 4 p.m.

Typhoon sinks ship

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A passenger ship sank with more than 500 people aboard during the height of Typhoon Ruby, and the coast guard said today at least 15 survivors were rescued.

The storm, which officials said killed at least 76 people on land and left 111,000 homeless, tore through the central Philippines and into the South China Sea today.

Coast guard officials said the 2,845-ton Dona Marilyn sank Monday in the Visayas Sea, about 300 miles southeast of Manila. It was not clear how many people were lost.

Lt. Rey Esguerra of the coast guard station in Cebu said rescuers found 11 survivors on Maripipi Island and another small island and that four people were found floating in the water.

Esguerra said rescue operations would continue through the night.

The Dona Marilyn was carrying 451 passengers and 60 crew members from Manila to Tacloban on Leyte Island when it radioed a distress call, said Carlos Go, general manager of Sulpicio Lines, owner of the vessel.

Others missing and feared dead from Typhoon Ruby included 25 in the Mindanao Island coastal city of Cagayan de Oro, 15 in Mindanao's Zamboanga del Sur province and about 70 aboard a bus that plunged into a swollen river Monday.

Ruby lashed the main Philippine island, Luzon, with torrential rains and wind gusts of up to 140 mph.

The storm caused widespread flooding on the island, triggering landslides and washing away bridges. Agriculture Secretary Carlos Dominguez said preliminary estimates showed Ruby caused $45.7 million in crop damage.

President Corazon Aquino's spokesman, Teodoro Benigno, said the six-province Bicol region of southeastern Luzon was without electricity today.

The weather service said Ruby's center passed about 50 miles east of Manila.

Enrollment boost seen...

TASP test could aid WTC

By DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor

The TASP test for college-bound seniors will have a pronounced effect on Snyder ISD, ranging from a greater emphasis on honors classes to a restructuring of how six-week tests are given, but it is expected to produce also a residual and most likely positive effect at Western Texas College.

WTC officials say they believe TASP test requirements will enhance the role of community colleges to academically prepare some students for the transition to a four-year university.

The bottom line will be increased enrollment for two-year colleges statewide.

WTC is expected to benefit even more so since it already has "a strong academic base," which translates to a higher percentage than average of students enrolled in basic college courses rather than vocational-type studies.

Beginning in March, college-bound seniors across Texas will take the TASP exam for the first time. The test, an acronym for Texas Academic Skills Program, is a new state mandate designed to determine if the student has sufficient skills in reading, writing and math to perform at the undergraduate level.

It must be passed before Texas college students can accumulate beyond 60 semester credit hours, the level where a student would normally receive an associate degree from WTC.

"It's estimated that about 35 percent of entering college freshmen will need developmental courses," noted WTC President Dr. Harry Krenek.

Such "developmental" classes are those which would bring the student's skills in math, writing or reading comprehension up to the standards required for the TASP score.

Krenek noted WTC and other community colleges have always served in this role and, as a result, are likely better prepared

Jr. High due political visit

The Snyder Junior High School patio area will be the scene for a "political information coffee" beginning at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday with the public invited.

A program will follow at 8:25 a.m. during which the highest ranking candidate from each respective political party will be asked to speak.

Junior high officials say Senator Steve Carraker (D-Roby) has indicated he will attend. Local political candidates from both parties are expected as well.

Also on hand will be the Snyder Chamber of Commerce Gold Coat organization.

During the day, candidates will be invited to address social study classes

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The trouble with giving advice is that people will want to repay you."

Bill and Janet Halbert are long-time faculty members at WTC, but both have long ties to Texas Tech.

Bill is division chairman and teaches accounting, and Janet teaches in the English department. Both are graduates of Texas Tech and have rooted for the Red Raiders for a number of years. Janet's father was a long-time professor in Tech's school of engineering.

The Halberts were somewhat surprised recently when watching TV with their son, Chris. The Texas A&M Aggies were playing on national TV and Chris was glued to the tube when he announced, "I think I want to attend Texas A&M."

The Red Raider parents could hardly believe the words coming from the lips of the Standfield third grader. "Why?" they asked.

The answer had to do with Aggie tradition. "The Aggies kiss their girlfriends after every touchdown," Chris explained.

Insurance man Ernie Sears says he is losing confidence in the medical profession.

Sears recently complained to the doc of a pain. "That pain in your leg is caused by old age," the doctor explained.

"That can't be," argued Sears. "The other leg is the same age and it doesn't hurt a bit."

The North Elementary Parent Council will sponsor its second annual Halloween Carnival on Saturday from 7 until 10 p.m. at the school campus.

The night will be highlighted with a costume contest for all children ranging in age from toddlers through sixth grade.

The first and second place winners will receive a $50 savings bond and the third place winner will receive a $25 bond. Judging will be at 8 p.m.

Booths will offer chili dogs, frito pie, cokes, popcorn and caramel apples.

There will also be a cake walk, palm reading, drawings for door prizes and a ring toss.

Frozen corpses yield bacteria strain that is drug-resistant

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Frozen corpses of two seamen who died during a doomed Arctic expedition in 1848 contain bacteria that show unexpected resistance to antibiotics developed more than 120 years later, scientists say.

Because there is evidence that lead poisoning killed the men, the researchers speculate that heavy metal pollutants, not just overuse of antibiotics, may play a role in creating disease germs that survive drugs.

The proliferation of antibiotic-resistant bacteria has become a major problem, especially in Third World nations where the drugs are used indiscriminately, killing vulnerable bacteria and allowing resistant bacteria to reproduce.

For example, strains of gonorrhea have become resistant to spectinomycin, penicillin and tetracycline. The use of antibiotics to keep livestock healthy also has been blamed for the spread of drug-resistant salmonella bacteria that cause human food poisoning.

But medical microbiologist Dr. Kinga Kowalewska-Grochowska said the study she conducted with colleagues at the University of Alberta in Edmonton has prompted her to speculate environmental pollution may spur development of some antibiotic-resistant germs.

She presented the study Monday during the American Society for Microbiology's 28th Interscience Conference on Antimicrobial Agents and Chemotherapy, a meeting of 13,000 cancer, AIDS and infectious disease specialists.

The bacteria came from the bodies of William Braine and John Hartnell, two of the 129 men who died in the Canadian Arctic during Sir John Franklin's doomed 1845-1848 search for a Northwest Passage connecting the Atlantic and Pacific.

In 1986, the well-preserved bodies were among three retrieved from graves in the permafrost on Beechy Island, west of Baffin Bay in Canada's Northwest Territories, by Canadian anthropologist Owen Beattie, co-author of the 1987 book "Frozen in Time: Unlocking the Secrets of the Franklin Expedition."

Six types of "bacteria lying dormant for over a century were found in the bowel contents" of Braine and Hartnell, Kowalewska-Grochowska said.

Honesty Is the Best Policy For More Than We Think

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: When I read the letter from "Honest John's Mom," I was shocked. She said her son, John, was at the racetrack and saw a man drop his wallet. John picked it up, noticed that it was filled with cash, so he ran after the man and returned the wallet. John's mom said nearly everyone she told that story to said that John was "crazy" to have returned the wallet — he should have kept it!

Having recently lost my billfold containing a significant amount of cash and all my credit cards, I was relieved to have it returned to me intact.

When I insisted that the finder accept a reward, he said, "Listen, Mister, I don't need a reward for returning something that doesn't belong to me!"

So, Abby, I say phooey to the people who told John he was "crazy" to have returned the wallet. It has renewed my faith in the human race to know that there are still "Honest Johns" in this day and age. Sign me ...

GRATEFUL
IN MORRIS, MINN.

DEAR GRATEFUL: There are more Honest Johns (and Janes) than you think there are, but, unfortunately, they don't make the headlines or the evening news.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16, and my boyfriend, "Kevin," is 17. Kevin wrecked his car, and my dad loaned him the money to buy a motorcycle. Kevin agreed to make the monthly payments from his after-school job, but he was fired, so he quit making payments. Now I guess he will have to sell the motorcycle.

My father thinks Kevin should find a way to make the payments until he gets a buyer. He even offered him a job doing yard work at our house to pay for it, but Kevin turned him down.

Dad says this shows that he is lazy and doesn't want to face up to his responsibilities. Dad thinks that I should stop seeing Kevin because he doesn't show "good character."

Abby, I really love Kevin and want to marry him when he graduates.

Please print this and help convince my dad that Kevin is OK. He's really a nice guy, if Dad would just give him a chance.

WITH KEVIN

DEAR IN LOVE: Sorry, I vote with your father. Kevin may be a "nice" guy, but he has much growing up to do. Your father has already given him a chance. He flunked.

DEAR ABBY: Your reply to "True to the Navy," the recruiter who refused to enlist his sleepwalking nephew in the U.S. Navy, was right — a sleepwalking sailor does not belong in the Navy.

In 1934, aboard the USS Tennessee in Long Island Sound, a sleepwalker fell overboard. Fortunately, he went over the side on a perfectly calm night and the Marine sentry saw him. Within seconds, the sentry had tripped an automatic lifebuoy and given the alarm, so the sleepwalking sailor was saved. Even under the best of circumstances, the rescue of men gone overboard is a very "iffy" affair. I have seen two men lost, one in broad daylight in a moderately calm sea. No one knows why he fell overboard. He may have been sleepwalking, as he had been taking a sunbath.

I doubt if a sailor would be fined or sent to prison for lying about his sleepwalking — or simply failing to mention it. The armed services (contrary to what many believe) are not heartless, and the penalties for false enlistments are not severe, except when a criminal record is falsified. The chances are, upon discovery, he would simply be discharged. I am also "True to the Navy."

Officials crack down on teenage drinking problem

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Police in El Paso are now cooperating with Mexican authorities' 3-month-old crackdown on underage Americans who cross the Rio Grande to drink in Juarez.

Juarez authorities have long complained about drunken American teen-agers. The complaints reached a crescendo when two U.S. teen-agers were arrested in May in connection with the fatal shooting of a Juarez policeman. One of the teens was released, but the other remains in jail on murder charges.

Three months ago, Juarez police began cracking down on bars that serve alcohol to children under the legal drinking age of 18. Authorities have temporarily closed about 50 bars since mid-summer for serving drinks to minors.

"Mexican minors aren't the problem," said Arturo Dominguez, Juarez commerce coordinator. "They don't have any money to go into bars. It is U.S. high-school students that cause the problem."

The stepped-up enforcement campaign in Juarez coincided with Dominguez' hiring about three months ago. The city has assigned inspectors permanently to some bars along Avenida Juarez, the tavern-lined main drag.

Student choir sells pizzas to appear at Carnegie Hall

SILSBEE, Texas (AP) — If Silsbee High School choir members can sell enough pizzas, they can add their names to the list of performers who have appeared in New York's historic Carnegie hall.

A New York City production company selected the 40-member school choir to sing in the famed 2,000-seat music hall as part of the Big Apple High School Chorus Festival March 30 to April 3.

But the choir first must raise $40,000 to cover the expenses for the four-day trip.

So in come the pizza sales, the bake sales, the garage sales and other efforts to raise money. The students said the work is worth the chance to sing at Carnegie and see New York.

"It's hard to comprehend that we're going. You think things like this don't happen to Silsbee," said Jill Norwood, a 14-year-old freshman.

Baylor University music professor Hugh Sanders will conduct the Silsbee students as they perform with a 275-member choir made up of students from high schools all over the country.

Sanders, who became aware of the Silsbee choir during a workshop this past summer, recommended the choir to the New York production company selecting students to take part in the giant concert.

The school's chorus room looks more like a warehouse these days as choir teacher Susan Kilcrease and choir students sort through shipments of frozen pizzas they plan to sell to help pay for the trip.

The choir received a big boost this month when Temple-Inland Foundation in Diboll donated $6,000 for the trip.

Brawls cause CHS officials to cancel final two contests

CLEVELAND, Texas (AP) - A game-ending brawl has turned into a season-ending incident for the Cleveland High School football team as school officials canceled the remainder of the season after a fight during a game against Lumberton High School.

No one was seriously injured in the incident that one Cleveland player said may have been racially motivated.

"The Cleveland school board voted to cancel the remainder of the season, forfeiting two games. The action was taken after the board reviewed the game film Sunday at an emergency meeting.

The fighting broke out Friday night after the visiting Lumberton Raiders put together an 82-yard scoring drive to upset the Cleveland Indians 13-12 and snap a losing streak dating back to 1986.

At least three Cleveland players hit the Lumberton quarterback after he dropped his knee to the ground to run out the clock and end game.

Cleveland quarterback Mike Deck said the fight may have been racially motivated.

"There may have been something said about our black players because it (Lumberton) is all white. They have no black players," Deck said.

Cleveland had been called for 21 penalties for 189 yards during the game.

"It's the same kind of thing you see on Monday Night Football," Liberty County sheriff's Deputy Ray Parris, who was working security, said.

Parris said some coaches may have gotten involved but it was difficult to tell because "as many as 40 bodies were jumping around."

"Our only objective in canceling the rest of the games is to get total control of the kids and assure that we don't endorse this kind of behavior," Superintendent Linden Joe Parrish said.

Dr. Bill Farney, athletic director with the University Interscholastic League in Austin, said Monday that the school has the authority to shut down its football program but could face penalties for not fulfilling its schedule.

A district executive committee, made up of school superintendents from District 17-4A, was scheduled to meet today in Silsbee to discuss that possibility.

"We can accept it as it is, or, according to the UIL, we can sanction the school for two years - can do away with their football program for two years," Silsbee Superintendent Herbert Muckelroy said.

Cleveland Coach Bruce Walsh could not be reached for comment Monday by the Houston Chronicle.

Pelluer had his best day as a professional, hitting 32 of 46 passes for 342 yards.

"I thought we had the game under control," Pelluer said. "We just let it slip away. Everyone on this team knows we can win. Maybe everybody is just waiting around for somebody else to make the plays to do it."

Pelluer's failure to get the clock stopped at the end of the first half cost the Cowboys a chance for a short field goal try and they left the field leading 20-7. Dallas had used up all three of its timeouts in the first period.

The Cowboys suffered 10 penalties in the fourth quarter, five of them for holding, as the offense had trouble getting untracked.

"The penalties just ate us up alive," Landry said. "We couldn't do much of anything because of them. The penalties were the killers."

Then Landry got the yardage marker mixed up late in the game with the Cowboys leading 23-17. Landry thought the ball was at the 30 when it was really on the 23.

On third and 2, he called a pass play.

Pelluer rolled out, couldn't find a receiver, and was flagged for grounding the ball. The 12-yard penalty put Dallas out of field goal position.

Dallas punted, then the Eagles made the game-winning drive.

"We wanted a safe little play and we just wanted to get the first down," Landry said. "We really didn't think there was anything risky about it. I thought we were on the 30-yard line."

The Cowboys host the Phoenix Cardinals on Sunday, a team they beat 17-14 earlier in the year.

The rest of the second half schedule includes at the New York Giants, Minnesota, Cincinnati and Houston at home, then away at Cleveland and Washington then home to Philadelphia in the regular season finale on Dec. 18.
