Transgenic Animals

Pammy Millican County Extension Agent

In the scientific world there are discussions about a super cow and an ultimate pig. They are transgenic animals. That means scientists have picked out the best genes and put them into one animal. For instance, in cattle, researchers have identified many of the genes that determine milk quality, so they're able to raise a cow that produces better, more healthful milk.

They hope to soon be able to control muscle mass so beef is leaner

Dr. Jorge Piedrahita is an assistant professor of biology at Texas A&M's College of Veterintary Medicine. He says the trick to transgenics is finding the right genes. Once you've found the appropriate gene, you can manipulate an animal's DNA. He says there are already two generations of the ultimate Holiday Lighting pig. The applications there have even more impressive medical implications.

With the proper gene placement, pigs can grow organs that can be transplanted into humans. And those organs will be such a good match that the human body's immune system will not reject them.

Piedrahita says ultimately sci-entists would like to mix transgenics and cloning so that when they create a perfect ani- Protein Study mal through transgenics, then they can clone it and have many 🔍 more just like it.

Symbols Replacing Words on Labels

Calley Payne County Extension Agent

Symbols are replacing words for care on garments in the U.S. Effective July 1, 1997, the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) allowed five symbols to replace written care instructions on ap-parel and certain piece goods sold in the United States. For the first 18 months, explanations of care symbols must appear with the symbols on the hangtag or else-where on the garment. After the time limitation requirement, no written explanation is required.

The symbols indicate whether washing, bleaching, drying, ironing or dry-cleaning is the required method of care. Additional dots, marks and lines make the method explanation more explicit. An "X" shows that a method is not recommended.

The FTC's actions to move from words to symbols was prompted by NAFTA and international trade to help companies comply with the U.S. Care Labeling Rule. The symbol care system minimizes language translation errors and cultural differences. Consumers not literate in English may not find it easier to learn the symbols. Production costs may be lower on garments since fewer lines of words will be required, resulting in lower costs to consumers.

What Kind of Social Security Do We Want? by Mary Jane Shanes

Social Security Manager Plainview, Texas

Social Security Commissioner Kenneth S. Apfel has stated that "there is no question that Social Security will be there" for future generations. "The only question is what shape it will take."

This raises the question of what kind of Social Security system we want. Based on what people like about the present system, we may be able to determine what they expect of Social Security in the future. Following are some of the most popular characteristics of Social Security:

Cost-of-living increases-Increases in the price beneficiaries must pay for the goods and services they use reduces the value of their monthly payment, unless there is a mechanism for enabling benefits to keep up. The Advisory Council strongly supported full, automatic cost-of-living adjustments in benefits.

Low administrative costs--Social Security spends less than one percent of Social Security taxes on the administration of the program, a figure unmatched by private industry. The cost of administering any retirement plan must be considered.

Protection guard against rado City, and three grandchildren.

Pallbearers were Jerry Patton, Leon Lavy, Guinn Fitzgerald, Dewey Estes, Terry Grimland and Dwain Henderson. Honorary pallbearers were Jack Strange, Steve Jarnagin, Calvin Shelton, Norman Strange, Bud Couch, Alton Riddell, Albert Hartman and J. E. Patton.

The family requested that memorials be to the Silverton Volunteer Ambulance Service or to the Silverton Cemetery Association.

WYNONA JOHNSON

Services for Wynona Johnson, 69, were conducted at 2:00 p.m. Friday, January 2, at the Church of Christ in Turkey with Delos Johnson and Earl McDonough officiating. Burial was in Dreamland Cemetery by Myers-Long Funeral Directors.

Mrs. Johnson died Wednesday, December 31, in Lubbock.

She was born in Lockney and attended Lone Star and Lockney Schools. She married Eiland Johnson in 1945 in Lubbock. She was a homemaker and assisted her husband with the farm work. She was a member of the Church of Christ.

Mr. Johnson preceded her in death on August 22.

Survivors include two daughters, Dianna Hill of Silverton and Shirley Johnson of Turkey; a brother, Delton Jack of Lockney; two sisters, Nadine Bickley of Amarillo and Wanda House of Tulia; and a grandson.

risk of failure--Social Security Women in Agriculture benefits are guaranteed by the federal government. Similar guarantees should apply to any proposal to provide benefits for future generations.

Program prescribes specific levels of benefits--People rely on Social Security benefits for their retirement, as well as for disability and survivors protection, as a "defined benefit." You need to know how much you can count on under a new system.

Protection for disabled workers--Under the current program, 80 percent of current workers would receive benefits if they are unable to work because of a severe physical or mental condition. More than 5.1 million workers and their families currently count on these benefits as their primary source of income.

Protection for family members if you die or become disabled--Workers with families need to know that they will receive an income if they become disabled or die. Does the proposal provide for more than a retirement program?

Fair rate of return--The Advisory Council believes that the Social Security system should meet a test of providing a reasonable rate of return on the contributions of younger workers and future generations.

Low taxes paid by your employer, and the self-employed. Currently you pay 7.65 percent of your earnings for Social Security retirement, survivors, disability and Medicare's hospital insurance protection, and your employer matches this amount. If you are self-employed, you pay both the employee's and employer's share, 15.30 percent.

These are some of the basic questions you need to ask about any proposal to change Social Security. They reflect to a large extent what we have come to expect of our Social Security system based on our experience over the past 61 years.

Program To Be Held

Calley Payne County Exension Agent

The number of women operating agribusinesses is on the rise. That will be even more apparent as thousands turn out for the Second World Women in Agribusiness conference this summer in Washington.

Women in Texas don't have to wait that long to attend and a program specifically designed to help them has been planned. Texas has ten percent of all the women in the United States who own and operate their own agribusiness. Women ranchers and farmers are the fastest-grow ing management group in the country.

Extension agricultural economist Dr. Danny Klinefelter points to the enrollment at Texas A&M University as a prime example. Nearly half the students in the College of Agriculure and Life Sciences' are women. Each year Klinefelter and his panel of experts conduct workshops specifically for female managers.

The offerings are in College Station and Lubbock. Participants receive financial advice, marketing instruction and updates on agricultural policies.

Klinefelter says previous participants have found the workshops provide opportunities to share experiences and network with other women in similar situations.

Mulch For a Healthy Landscape

Now is the time to reapply mulch in your yard, says Pammy Millican, Briscoe County Extension Agent. There are several reasons and the biggest is water conservation. The soil stays moist longer if it's covered.

Larger pieces of mulch are needed for keeping out weeds because it's harder for weeds to poke their heads through the eavier chips.

Too much mulch near the base of the plant can cause disease problems. Stop within an inch of the plant's base.
