Red Raider coach visiting Muleshoe

By RICK WHITE Managing Editor

James Dickey remembers Muleshoe.

It was here he attended one of the first public speaking engagements after being hired as the Texas Tech University mens basketball coach in 1991.

Dickey returns to Muleshoe Thursday for the Muleshoe Red Raider Club "Old Fashion Tailgate Party" fund-raiser at the Heritage Center

"We have such a great following in West Texas," Dickey said. "It's nice to go out and meet our fans and see the excitement and enthusiasm."

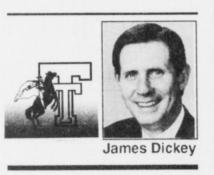

The outdoor event starts at 6:30 p.m. and is family oriented, according to organizer Kevin King, a 1994 Tech graduate and season-ticket holder.

Tickets for the "all-you-can eat steak dinner" are $25 and can be purchased by calling Max King at 272-4541 before 5 p.m. or Kevin King at 272-3138 after 5 p.m. Children under 12 are admitted free.

All proceeds go to the Texas

Tech athletic scholarship fund. The dinner is sponsored by several area businesses.

Dickey said most people that attend the events are interested in talking about recruiting and the Big XII Conference. This year, he expects the conversation will center on the United Spirit Arena and decisions junior standouts Tony Battie and Cory Carr to enter the NBA draft.

He said there's an outside chance Carr may return to Tech.

Tech has gone 119-58 and made two NCAA tournament appearances under Dickey, including a trip to the Sweet 16 in 1996.

Tech went 19-9 last year

Muleshoe High School Principal Al Bishop is resigning after six years to accept a similar position at a central Texas high school.

He will officially resign at Monday's school board meeting.

Bishop accepted a job as principal at Elgin High School, a large Class 3A school 25 miles east of Austin.

"They just made me an attractive offer," Bishop said. "It's a step up and it's in the right area.'

Bishop, 49, said he had been looking at jobs in the central

"Muleshoe is too good a place and too good a school to just take any offer," Bishop said.

Bishop was an assistant principal and dean of students at Pecos High School before coming to Muleshoe.

In five years, he will be eligible for full retirement benefits grading the academic program and creating a positive atmosphere by installing discipline and establishing high expectations for the students.

Among the program upgrades spearheaded by Bishop were the introduction of advanced placement courses and the expansion of the honors program.

Muleshoe also significantly raised its TAAS scores during Bishop's tenure, Moore said.

"He really cared a lot about the kids and he set high expectations for them," Moore said. "He helped make them

The City of Muleshoe is taking a tough stance against landowners who fail to keep their property clean.

The Muleshoe City Council will discuss ordinance amendments designed to rid the town of public eyesores, like abandoned and junk vehicles, unkept lots and substandard housing structures. The meeting will be held at 8:30 a.m. Thursday during a regular council meeting at the City Hall.

City Manager James Fisher said the amendments would bring the City in line with state and federal standards and also make Muleshoe a cleaner, safer and more attractive community

Fisher said ordinances will be enforced.

The amendments will be discussed, but not voted on, Thursday, giving the Council time to review the changes and gather public comment. The Council would vote on the amendments at a future meeting.

The ordinances would prohibit abandoned or junk vehicles from being left or stored on public or private property for extended periods of time. Owners would be forced to move the vehicles at their own expense.

According to the ordinances, cars can be stored on private property as long as they are not

Officials eager to get emergency plan in place after tornado scare

By RICK WHITE Managing Editor

The tornadic storm that roared through Muleshoe and southern Bailey County last Wednesday accelerated local officials efforts to get an emergency disaster plan in place.

City and County officials are working hard to avert the situation that occurred May 28 when a fastmoving storm and accompanying tornado warning caused dozens of residents to panic.

The roubles came on the heels of adevastating killer torando in Jarrell.

Glass doors were smashed at the Muleshoe Public Library by people trying to get into the basement shelter after police were unable to unlock the doors. Others were out driving during the height of the storm, scrambling to find shelter. Driving a vehicle be according to Todd Ellis, director of the Local Emergency Planning Committee.

Muleshoe has two public emergency shelters, at the First United Methodist Church, 507 W. 2nd St., and the library.

Ellis said several residents went to other city and county buildings seeking shelter during the storm.

City Manager James Fisher said officials have obtained a direct number for the National Weather Service in Lubbock that they can use to get the most accurate and up-to-date information during severe weather conditions.

Fisher also said the City's emergency warning system will be used whenever the NWS issues a tornado warning in the area. The civil deis about the worst possible place to fense warning system allows the police dispatcher to override all television programing and issue a verbal warning and instructions.

Officials said they went "back and forth" about using the system to issue a warning during the June 28 storm, but never did implement it.

The Weather Service is predicting possible severe weather conditions through Monday.

Larry Vannozzi, warning coordinator meteorologist with the NWS in Lubbock, said Doppler radar readings indicated last Wednesday's storm had strong possibilities of developing a tornado.

The meteorologist said radar indicated strong and quickly rotating storms in the area.

By most accounts, the high school had serious discipline problems when Bishop took over.

Bishop said it was just a matter of establishing a "sense of order" and letting the kids know what is expected.

"In six years, we have made this a very good, very safe school and have provided a quality education for all the kids,"Bishop said.

Of Moore, Bishop said, "You don't work for Bill Moore, you work with him. As far as I'm concerned, he is the best school administrator in the state of Texas."

Bishop said working with the Muleshoe school board was also a pleasure because they always made their decisions keeping in mind what is best for the students.

A selective search to replace Bishop would begin immediately, according to Moore.

Moore said he would be contacting people he knew that are

A total of nine tornado warnings were issued in the Bailey, Parmer and Castro County area that night.

Fisher said officials also got a clarification of the difference between a tornado watch and a tornado warning.

According to the Weather Service:

A tornado watch is when conditions are present for possible thunderstorms or tornadoes.

A tornado warning is when either a tornado has been spotted on the ground or radar indicates strong cloud rotation, from which and a tornado could drop at any moment.

Baker, Ingle married May 17

Jennifer Lee Ann Baker and David Richard Ingle were united in marriage May 17 at the First Baptist Church of Muleshoe with Jason Dietz officiating.

The brides parents are Larry and Lee Ann Baker of Greenville, Texas. The grooms parents are Johnny and Sue Ingle of Seagraves.

Brian O'Donnell provided a soloist with Terry Baker on piano and Jenni Whisenhunt on the organ.

Matron of honor was Emily Frye and Maid of honor was Koleta Gallion. Bridesmaids were Darla Ingle, Heather Barbaro. Bestman was Charles Lowry. Groomsmen were Erin Frye, Donnie Ingle and Jeff Baker.

The bride wore a designer gown featuring a bodice of satin and lace accented with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. It had a sweetheart neckline and a Basque waist. The full skirt of ivory organza over satin and tulle flowed into a chapel length train. The veil of silk illusion was attached to a wreath of ivory roses accented with baby's breath and satin ribbon streamers.

The bouquet was a Victorian nosegay of Harmony and bridal white roses, lilac blossoms, misty blue tied with organza. The maids carried nosegays of Harmony roses and misty blue tied with organza in the Victorian flair.

The bride in tradition wore something old that was a gold wedding band worn by five generations of women in her mothers family. Something new was the garter fashioned from satin and lace taken from her maternal grandmother's wedding gown. Something borrowed was her grandmothers linen and lace handkerchief. Something blue was her garter.

Mrs. David Richard Ingle (Jennifer Lee Ann Baker)

The groom's attire was a black tuxedo with ivory pleated shirt and a black and white Mickey Mouse bow tie. The groom's and groomsmen wore a boutonnieres to coordinate with the bride and bride maid's flowers.

The bride and groom stood before a Victorian altar setting of arch candelabra and floral arrangement of white snap dragons larkspur, delphinium, stock, lilac and Harmony roses. Organza was draped from the arch candelabra to Victorian rose tree tapestries on each side. The unity candle completed the altar setting. Bows of organdy with harmony roses and misty blue decorated the pews.

A reception was held following the wedding at First Baptist Church. Hostess at the reception were Cindy Hughes, Loretta Terrell, Alice Moffitt, Linda Baker, Debbie Baker.

The brides table was laid with a white net cloth trimmed with a wide band of satin. It featured oppliques of felt bells, doves, and roses adorned with irridescent sequins. It was underlaid by a cloth of ivory satin. The net cloth was handmade by the bride's maternal grandmother for the brides parents wedding 25 years ago. A tiered wedding cake was acented with silk roses. The bride's table was attended by Mrs. Alice Moffitt and Mrs. Roy Baker, aunts of the bride, and Debbie Baker. The grooms table was covered with ivory satin with a navy blue topper, featured a white cake trimmed in navy. The cake was topped with a horsedrawn cinderalla carriage. The cake was designed and decorated by the groom's mothe. Coffee was served from a silver coffee service, a gift to the couple from the groom's parents. Cindy Hughes and Loretta Terrell of Seagraves presided at the grooms table. The tables were adorned with flowers carried by the attendants.

For the honeymoon the couple traveled to South Padre

. Island.

The bride's current place of employment is at Mervyn's as a customer service representative. She graduated from Greenville High School and is currently a junior at West Texas A&M majoring in History.

The groom's current place of employment is part-time youth minister at Cliffside Baptist Church and works at Amarillo Hardware. He is a graduate of Seagraves High School and is currently a senior at West Texas A&M majoring in Elementary Education.

The couple will reside in Canyon.

The bride was honored with a bridal shower May 3 in the home of Jo Mayhugh.

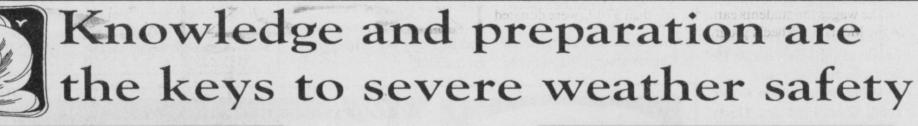

The hostesses gifts was a canister set "PFaltzgraff" -Heritage and two place setting of Golden Julliard flatware. The reception table had crystal and silver settings with spring flowers on a linen cloth.

Special guests were the bride's grandmothers, Elinor Yerby and Thora (Baker) Nieman both of Muleshoe; the, bride's aunts Alice Moffitt of Borger and Linda Baker of Portales.

Hostesses were Helen Cook, Sherry Barrett, Judy Puckett, Helen Schmitz, Blanca Reyes, Georgette Isaac, Jo Mayhugh, Lynn Campbell, Judy Wilbanks, Wanda Shafer, Cookie Bamert, Rickie Warren.

What You Should Do . . .

■ Watch the sky and listen to radio and television for further information. Remain alert for rapidly changing conditions.

Know the area in which you live. Use road map of your area to track storm path.

If you can hear thunder, you are close enough to be struck by lightning. Take shelter inside sturdy structure.

Go to safe shelter in a sturdy building.

Continue to listen to radio and television for further information.
Postpone outdoor activities if thunderstorms are imminent.

• Unplug appliances not necessary for obtaining weather information. Unplug air conditioners. Power surges from lightning can overload compressors.

Avoid using telephone or appliances. Do not take bath or shower.
Use phone ONLY in an emergency.

▼ Watch the sky and listen to radio and television for further information. Remain alert for rapidly changing conditions.

▼ Know the area in which you live. Use road map of your area to track storm path from weather bulletins Remember: Tornadoes occasionally develop in areas in which a severe thunderstorm watch or warning is in effect.

▲ In a home or building, moved to a pre-designated shelter, such as a basement.

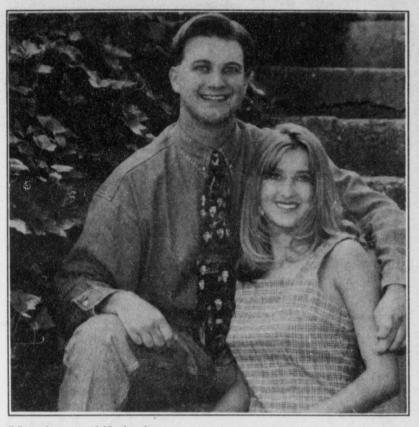

▲ If an underground shelter is not available, move to an interior room or hallway on the lowest floor and get under a sturdy piece of furniture. Stay away from windows.

▲Get out of automobiles. Do not try to outrun a tornado in your car. Instead, leave it immediately.

▲Continue to listen to radio and television for further information.

Christian Unity and Two Ladies Who Fussed

AII through the New Testament," William Barclay writes," there rings a plea for Christian unity." But the plea is not for us to somehow create unity between the followers of Jesus Christ; the plea is for us to recognize the unity that already exists through his Spirit.

I don't know what was causing friction between two Philippian women named Euodia and Syntyche, but Paul entreats them, "make up your differences as Christians should."

Probably both gals were fine Christian women, but their dubious claim to fame is that they fussed loudly and longly enough that their quarrel threatened the health of the church they both professed to love. Why did they fuss? What was the issue? Nobody knows. Nobody cares. Which is probably a lesson in itself.

But fuss they did. Did their quarrel erase the fact that they were both sisters in the Lord? No! Paul doesn't write, "Become sisters in Christ!" They already were-even when the fur was flying! What he's saying is: "Grow up! Act like what you already are-sisters in the Lord."

I would be a fool if I thought I needed to create brotherhood between my younger brother and myself. He is my brother. Most of the time, I'm even proud to claim him. (Then there was the time he blew the top off the neighbor's new fencepost . . .") But whether I claim him or not makes absolutely no difference as far as our physical brotherhood goes. We are brothers because we have the same parents. We cannot create brotherhood. But we can recognize and cherish it. Sometimes God's children disagree. Big surprise? Sometimes they quarrel tooth and nail and engage in power plays. Occasionally, they even fuss over something really important. Just like, well, just like children.

We Christians should be more interested in lifting Him up and less interested in winning "holy" wars. Our divisions are a slap in our Father's face.

But even when we seem the most divided, our job is not to create unity but to recognize the unity that is already there binding believers together simply because we are children of the same Father, bought by the blood of the same Son, and given life by the same Spirit. Curtis Shelburne is minister of the 16th & D Church of Christ in Muleshoe.

Editor's note: This is the first chapter of a new Hank the Cowdog book about the adventures of Hank, who is head of ranch security; Drover, his mutt sidekick; Slim a ranch hand; and Loper and Sally May, who own the ranch.

Slim Hauls Garbage

It's me again, Hank the Cowdog. It all began in June, as I recall. Yes, because we'd just come through a dry winter and the spring rains didn't start until May 15.

After a few warm days, little shoots of grass had sprung up in the draws and along the creek, and the cottonwoods, elms and hackberries had put out their leaves.

That green tint in the countryside had made everybody on the ranch feel better about things. Loper and Slim had stopped feeding the cows and Sally May was planning to host a dance in her yard. To prepare for that big social event, she had launched a major spring Cleaning Offensive.

And since Slim didn't have to make a feed run, she drafted him to carry garbage down to the burn barrel. He didn't like that. I know, because I heard him grumbling about it as he struggled down the hill with a sack of garbage in each arm.

"A guy spends a whole lifetime training horses and learning to rope. He gets himself a ranch job and takes some pride in his work, but what does he do on the first pretty day of spring? He gets to haul garbage down to the burn barrel."

He threw the sacks into the barrel and stormed over to the overhead gas tank. He drew a can full of gasoline and threw it into the barrel.

Hmmm. It appeared that he planned to toss a match into the gasolinesoaked barrel. I had watched him do this on other occasions, and I seemed to remember that he always ended up regretting it. And saying, "Oops, I forgot to mix that gas half-and-half with diesel, so's it wouldn't explode."

But he was on a snort about injustice in the world and he wasn't paying attention to his business. He went on with his speech and seemed to be addressing me and Drover, as though we might be interested.

We weren't. We were merely there, and once trapped into listening to the sermon, we could hardly get up and leave. That would have been impolite and would have made him even madder.

See, your older and more experienced ranch dogs realize that part of our job is listening to the complaints of our masters. It's just something we have to do.

And also, I wanted to see what happened when he flipped his match into that garbage barrel. I had reason to suspect that it would become the most exciting event of the morning.

He fished a book of matches out of his shirt pocket and went on.

"If Sally May wants to have a yard dance, that's fine with me, but why do I have to haul the dadgummed trash and help clean up for it? I ain't going to the silly dance. There's 57 things I'd rather do." He tore a match out of the book and ran the paper end through his teeth. "A cowboy hauling trash! Times sure have changed, dogs, and not for the better. These outfits today, they've got no appreciation for what a cowboy can do or how much money he's got tied up in leather and horseflesh. "Next thing you know, she'll want me to haul manure and spread it in her flower beds. Well, when that day comes, boys, old Slim'll pack his saddle and move on to a real horseback outfit that knows how to treat a cowboy."

Boy, he was sure worked up, and I could tell that he'd forgotten all about that can of gasoline he'd poured into the barrel.

I turned to Drover, who was staring up at the clouds. "Son, pay close attention to this."

"What?"

"I said, pay close attention to this." "Oh. OK."

"Why are you staring at me?"

"I don't know. You said to pay close attention and that's what I'm trying to do."

"Pay close attention to the garbage barrel, Drover, not to me."

"Oh. Did it say something?" "No. Garbage barrels don't talk."

"I didn't think they did."

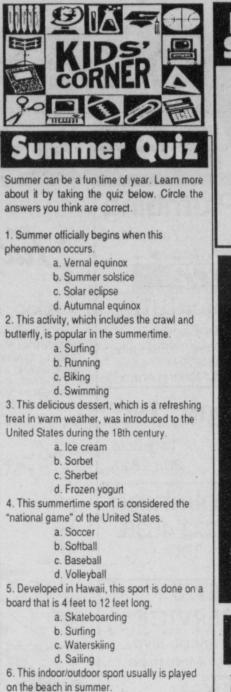

"But this one is fixing to explode." "No fooling?"

"Just watch."

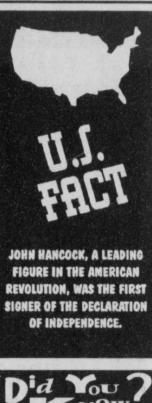

Sure enough, Slim struck the match and pitched it into the barrel and you'll see.

Next week: Slim Gets Fired Up

"The Case of the Dancing Cowboy" is a previously unpublished book by John R. Erickson. The Texas rancher has written 27 Hank the Cowdog books and is giving this book to newspapers across the nation to encourage children to read.

The International Reading Honor Roll recognizes students who are their school's top reader in the Accelerated Réader computerized reading management program.

Mendoza earned 390 reading points. Students earn reading points based on the reading level and difficulty of the books they've read and the number of questions they answer correctly on computerized book tests.

This year more than 2,000 students from schools around the world were inducted into the honor roll.
