Lamb County Cotton Acreage Allotment Slashed For 1960

CUT LEAST ON SOUTH PLAINS; B PLAN WOULD ALLOW 252,000

Lamb County cotton acreage was cut a flat 1.81 percent across the board, Lamar Aten with the Lamb County Agricultural Stabilization office in Littlefield announced this week.

The allotment for 1960 is pegged at 180,738.7 acres. The 1959 allotment was 184,069.1 acres. Allotment assigned for 1960 represents a cut in acreage of about 3,330 acres.

Aten said the cotton average of each individual farm has been cut 1.81 percent. "If any farmer finds he has been cut more than that, he should get in touch with our office."

Best In Area

Aten said Lamb County received a smaller cut than any other County in the South Plains area. Allotment notices were mailed Tuesday of this week, Aten reported.

He said the cut for Lamb County was determined by history of acreage in the county for the five years beginning in 1954 and continuing through this year.

Vote Dec. 15

Lamb farmers will vote Dec. 15 on marketing quotas. Polling place here is Olton Co-Op Gin.

A and B plans will remain in effect next year. Aten said if all Lamb farmers choose B plan, then Lamb County would plant 252,000 acres of cotton next year.

However, the price support on B cotton would be only 50 percent of parity. Under B plan a farmer may plant 40 percent more than allowed under regular allotment.

B Plan

About 150 cotton farmers in the Olton area choose the B plan this year. They have fared well on price structure. Normally B cotton this year has brought about 71 percent of parity, compared with 80 percent of parity for A cotton.

Oil Gunter Recovering

As of Tuesday evening, the condition of Oil Gunter is much improved, according to his mother-in-law, Mrs. H. B. Carson.

Oil suffered a ruptured appendix and acute infection and underwent major surgery November 20. Mrs. Carson stated he had regained consciousness Tuesday and his doctors considered this the turning point in his condition.

Oil's wife, Fern, has been at his bedside constantly in the Plainview Hospital and Clinic.

Judging of Olton's home lighting contest will be the night of December 11.

Prizes will be awarded the following night at the Christmas Cantata in the high school auditorium.

Crooks Take Strong Box At Edwards'

Burglars entered Edwards Machine Shop Sunday night and made off with the company safe.

The crooks probably were disappointed, however, as the strong box contained no money. It did contain a tachometer valued at about $100.00.

The safe was recovered Monday in a ditch alongside the L. R. Goynes farm east of town, according to Police Chief Floyd Cavin. It was discovered by Mr. Goynes.

The tachometer still is missing. Also taken Sunday night was a newspaper rack which was in front of the post office. About $1.50 in change was in its coin box at the time of the theft.

A cash register was recovered in a road ditch northwest of town. It was found by Don Bryant. Chief Cavin said he does not know to whom the cash register belongs.

Firemen Buy Station Wagon

Olton Fire Department has purchased a new station wagon to be used as an emergency vehicle.

The station wagon was purchased by the firemen themselves and not with city funds, City Firechief Tom Smith stressed. He said the vehicle will be used principally to haul to fires gear that cannot be hauled on the regular fire truck.

WAS AMONG FIRST TO GROW COTTON HERE

Olton Pioneer Is Claimed By Death

Claude Rice Dobbs, 89 years old, resident of Olton for more than 30 years, died Sunday morning in Amarillo.

Mr. Dobbs is reported to have planted the first cotton in Lamb County.

Mr. Dobbs, who had engaged in farming most of his life, moved to Collingsworth County in 1900. He moved to Texas in a covered wagon from the Indian Territory, now Oklahoma. He lived in a dugout near Wellington.

In 1927, the family moved to Olton. At that time Lamb County was mostly pasture land and crops consisted largely of wheat and grain sorghum.

Mr. Dobbs was of the opinion it was good cotton land, and he planted a crop which was the forerunner of today's extensive cotton harvest in this area. Other farmers followed suit.

Cotton became a multi-million-dollar industry and now is the cornerstone of the area's economy. Mr. and Mrs. Dobbs moved to Amarillo about four years ago, after he had retired from farming. He made his home in Amarillo with a daughter, Miss Shirley Ann Dobbs.

Mr. Dobbs was a member of the Baptist Church and a deacon. A native of Tennessee, he was born April 11, 1870.

Mr. Dobbs was for many years a deacon of Baptist Churches. The cornerstone on Wellington First Baptist Church still bears his name. He was chairman of the board of deacons and also was chairman of the building committee at the time the building was constructed.

He served as a deacon of Olton First Baptist Church from 1927 until he moved away. He was a deacon in Trinity Baptist Church in Amarillo at the time of his death.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon in Olton First Baptist Church. Officiating was Rev. W. B. Fitzgerald, pastor of Thalia First Baptist Church, formerly of Olton, assisted by Rev. John E. Lewis, Olton pastor. Burial was

Hearing Set On Lamb Weed Control District

Hearing on a proposed Lamb County Weed Control District will be held at 2 o'clock the afternoon of January 11 in Littlefield.

A petition was presented this week to commissioners' court asking for the establishment of a Lamb County Weed Control District. It was signed by 112 persons and accompanied by a cashier's check for $500 to defray election expenses of a possible election.

It will be necessary for the court to call such an election to establish the district.

Olton Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture has contributed $50 toward paying election expenses.

Should the district be established a five-man board of directors will designate plants to be called noxious weeds in the district.

Women's Group Would Build Club House

An organization has been formed to support the building of a club house for the women of Olton. Representatives of the our Federated clubs in Olton met Tuesday in the luncheon room to form the group.

Mrs. A. D. Melton was named to head the organization, as yet unnamed. Vice-president is Mrs. C. S. Silcott. Other officers elected include Mrs. Harley Don Bryant, secretary; and Mrs. Ed Thompson, treasurer.

Selected to the Board of Directors were Mesdames D. M. Granbery, Fred Thompson, H. B. Carson and Billy Smith.

The building committee is composed of Mesdames E. R. Spain, Frank Struve, Jack Alcorn and Bobby Copeland.

The four clubs involved will be sponsoring money-raising projects to begin funds for the building. Present at the meeting were twenty members of the Olton Study Club, the 1956 Bykota Study Club, the Olton Garden Club and the New Century Study Club.

Girls Win

Olton's girls' team has three losses and a single win so far this season after four outings. Their coach is Clifford Curry.

Starting line-up included Pat LaFrance, Jeanavon Harper and Sharron Dennis at forward positions. Coach Curry said Gayle McAnally or Bobbie Campbell might be on the starting line-up.

Probable Starters

Probable starting guards are Lawana Oliver, Welda Edwards and Sue Witten, although Koena Schenck or Gayle Machen might be in at one of these positions.

Renee Givens is a reserve forward. Reserve guards are Janice Campbell, Marilyn Jones, Nancy Critchfield, Joyce Gray, Barbara Kirkpatrick and Nancy Bryant. "It's a good bunch of girls," commented Coach Curry. "I think they'll be pretty tough by mid-season if they don't give up."

Boys' Team

Olton's boy cage team has worked out only one day and Coach Charlie Rand says his probable starting line-up listed here is subject to change right down to game time.

In at center will be Wendell Scribner, 6-foot, three-inch sky-scraper. At low post will be Paul Ray Montgomery. Outside boys will be selected from a roster including Robert Priest, John Wayne Hair, Davis Munos, Gary DeBerry and Gary Johnson. Three sophomores looking good

Denver City Mustangs Crush Olton 50 To 6

Crushed by sheer force of weight and numbers, Olton's scrappy little Mustangs fell 50-6 before the bone-bruising power of Denver City Thanksgiving Day.

The ranks of Olton's immortal team was trimmed even thinner for the regional tilt played in sub-freezing weather at Littlefield. Stewart Kenneth Hooper, Olton's star, was out of the line-up. Hooper was nursing a leg injury suffered in the bi-district game at Canyon the previous week.

The Mustangs of Olton played a losing game from the opening kick-off. But what writer could assess the naked courage of a team so small, so thinly manned, who played so fiercely until the final gun?

Cold Hands

Quarterback John Wayne Hair fumbled the opening kick off on the 7. Fullback Robert Priest carried for 4 in two tries. Hair plowed for 1 and then Halfback Rande Buchenau kicked against a brisk wind to the 27. It was a low kick and narrowly missed being blocked.

Denver City required five plays to score as Bert Gravitt galloped 15 yards to the double stripe. Gravitt ran the points.

Marcell Dorethy's kick went into the end zone and Olton took over on their own 20. Priest, Hair and Buchenau carried for a first down. Priest and Hair combined for 5, a pass fell incomplete returned to the Olton 35.

Denver City Leads

Denver City had the ball on the Olton 11 as the first quarter ended. Olton fans still had hopes as Denver City led 8 to 0.

Three plays later Clinton Newman went over from the 4-yard line to score. Guard Tommie Wilson stopped the try for points.

Hair, in the bitter cold, fumbled the kick off at the 21. Priest gave the pigskin two rides for 5 and 1 respectively. Then he fumbled and Robert Duncan recovered for a first down.

Rande Buchenau found running room for 8 and then Hair fumbled with Wesley Sewell falling on the ball at the Olton fumble on the 42. The Olton squad got back into the saddle as Bobby Brown recovered Fred Kidwell's fumble at the blue and white 14.

Buchenau Kicks

On third down Buchenau quick kicked to the Olton 40. On third down Priest fired a missile to Buchenau at the 14. Priest had excellent protection while looking for his target.

Again the Blue and White went to the ozone as this time Buchenau fired a perfect shot to Hair, who was standing alone in the end zone. It was Hair's last score for OHS.

Buchenau was stopped short in his try for points.

Sidesails Fails

Captain Phil Neinst's sidesails kick failed. The half ended a few seconds later and Big Red from Denver City led 22 to 6.

It should be pointed out Denver City's depth allowed that squad to rest itself and team members had ample time to warm their hands from the bitter 24-degree cold. For Olton's Blue and White, defending a gridiron Alamo, there was no rest, there was no warmth and there was no comfort in the flickering scoreboard.

It was in the third quarter Olton was snowed under. As a matter of fact it really did snow during the Turkey Day battle.

Denver City took the kick off and again crossed the goal line with Gravitt going the last 29. End Fred Riney stopped the point.

Buchenau fumbled the kick off then returned the ball to the Olton 20. On fourth down Priest kicked to his on 33.

Gravitt Scores

For the fourth time Gravitt wound up a series of Denver City plays with a touchdown. Kidwell passed to Johnson for the points.

Buchenau again fumbled a cold pigskin but returned it to the 19. Hair quick-kicked on third down to the Olton 38. It was Gravitt who scored again from the 28 and Jerry Goodwin ran the points. The third quarter ended a few plays later.

Two plays after the fourth quarter opened, Goodwin ran the final touchdown of the game from 4 yards out. A pass for points fell incomplete.

Playing their final game for OHS were Phil Neinst, Tommie Wilson and John Wayne Hair.

Postmaster Urges Early Yule Mailing

Postmaster I. B. Holt this week announced his annual "Mail Early for Christmas" campaign, and outlined plans for insuring delivery by Christmas Eve.

"Public cooperation," he said, "has been a key factor in moving Christmas mail on time in recent years, and I am hopeful that it will be even better this year."

The Postmaster urged patrons of the Olton Post Office to start mailing Christmas packages now. Packages to distant places especially should be mailed as early as possible.

"This is also the week to prepare and mail your out-of-town Christmas cards," he said.

Mr. Holt gave these pointers on the proper mailing of packages. "Use sturdy corrugated mailing cartons, plenty of heavy brown wrapping paper, and be sure every package is tied with a strong cord. Cartons containing several gift packages should be stuffed with tissue or old newspaper to cushion the contents.

"If your article is of unusual size or bulk, check with the post office because there are restrictions on size and weight.

"It is also important to make sure your package bears the correct mailing address and your return address. If you are sending your package to a large city be sure to include the address's zone number. Including the zone number in the address always will facilitate delivery in large cities. Zone numbers also should be used on Christmas cards and other mail to cities with postal zones.

"The address should be on the top of the package, and it should be carefully written or lettered. A piece of transparent cellophane tape placed over the address will usually prevent defacing in transit." It is also a good idea," Mr. Holt said, "to include the address inside the package in case the outside address should become defaced.

"If you use Christmas stickers or seals, place them where they will not conflict with the address. Then, before you drop the package in the mail, be sure you have firmly affixed the proper postage."

The Postmaster reminded the entire Christmas mailing period is primarily a battle against time. A delay now will contribute to a serious pile-up, particularly in the larger post offices, as the holiday approaches.

All packages going to distant cities should be in the post office by December 10. Other mail should be sent on its way as soon as possible, and all local mail should be in the post office no more than a week or ten days later. This kind of cooperation would mean all Christmas mail would be delivered on or before Christmas Eve, the Postmaster explained.

Olton Bank Participates In 4-H Fund

Olton State Bank has joined with other Texas banks in national support of 4-H Club work, according to D. M. Granbery, president.

The contribution was made, Granbery said, to the National 4-H Club Foundation near Washington, D.C., as part of a nation-wide fund-raising program.

Dr. D. M. Wiggins, Executive Vice President of the Citizens National Bank in Lubbock is providing leadership for this program in Texas.

Olton State Bank, Olton, Texas has supported local 4-H programs for several years, Granbery stated. The bank felt the National 4-H Foundation provided an excellent opportunity to broaden their support of the 4-H movement.

This local support to the National program has been acknowledged by a letter to Granbery from Jesse W. Tapp, Los Angeles, Calif., Chairman of the Board of the Bank of America, who heads the bank campaign in behalf of the 4-H Foundation, and Grant A. Shurm, Executive Director of the Foundation. They indicated that Olton State Bank is one of "more than 2,200 representatives of private enterprise that are helping to extend and improve the 4-H program by contributing to our work."

Olton's backfield tries desperately to find running room in the regional game with Denver City Thursday of last week. With the ball is big Bob Priest. Cutting laterally are Randeec Buchanan (26) and Bob Duncan (60). John Wayne Hair is hardly visible on the far side. Olton's line was completely swamped and blocked from view by the big, beefy Denver City forward wall.

SUGGESTION WILL HELP INSPECTORS

Former Olton Man Honored By USDA

R. A. Green, formerly of Olton, meat inspector at Lubbock for the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Saturday was honored by the USDA's Agricultural Research Service for a "work improvement suggestion."

Dr. J. D. Beasley, head of the USDA's meat inspection station in Lubbock, presented Green a certificate of appreciation and a check for $50 on behalf of the Meat Inspection Division of the ARS.

Green was honored for suggesting that "a standard system be used in all official establishments to facilitate inspector identification of various pipelines which might contain potable (drinkable) or non-potable water and inedible materials."

His suggestion is aimed at aiding inspectors "in assuring that pipelines containing substances which may contaminate meat products are not broken or installed in a manner which might cause contamination."

Suggested Marking Lines
Green suggested that fire, sewer, brine, gas, air, potable and non-potable water, inedible and edible product, ammonia and curing lines all be painted or appropriately marked in different colors to aid inspectors in identifying each type line.

The suggested standard color identification system for pipelines will be included in the "Information of Applicants for Meat Inspection" booklet. It now is being distributed among inspectors through a memorandum from the Meat Inspection Division.

R. K. Somers, chief of staff officer for procedures and training of the division, Washington, D. C., said the suggestion "will serve as a guide rather than a mandatory color scheme."

Somers, who signed the certicate of appreciation, said that "we believe that it will improve the effectiveness of our inspection service and enable establishments to maintain the identify of piping systems in a more satisfactory manner."

Former Olton Resident

Green, 50, resided in Olton for 30 years before becoming a meat inspector in 1957. He operated a cold storage locker plant in Olton for many years. Green was a meat inspector in Birmingham, Ala., before being transferred to Lubbock last April.

The suggestion for which Green was honored was made while he was stationed in Birmingham. He and Beasley now are inspecting about 125,000 pounds of beef daily at two Lubbock plants.

Federal meat inspection is designed to insure the cleanliness and wholesomeness of meat moving in interstate commerce, Beasley explained. He said that 80 percent of the nation's commercial meat supply bears the stamp of federal approval. The remainder is subject to state or local sanitary regulations, he said.

Green and his wife reside at 3812 23rd St., in Lubbock. They have three daughters — Mrs. Jackson Dodd, Olton; Mrs. Jack George Dimmitt; and Mrs. Frances Kiebler, Glasgow, Mont.

Harper On Panel At State Meet

Superintendent Joe Harper participated in a panel discussion Wednesday evening as Texas State Teachers Association held its annual state meeting in San Antonio.

The panel was composed of a group of superintendents interested in curriculum.

One of the highlights of the convention was a report by Dr. Henry Stillwell, chairman of the legislative committee. Dr. Stillwell reported on recommendations and actions of the legislative committee to secure a special session for consideration of Hale-Aikin Recommendations.

Dr. Stillwell thought it very probable a special session would be called, as the majority of representatives and senators were in favor of it.

Mr. Harper stated after being much impressed with Dr. Stillwell's report Saturday at noon, he was amazed to discover Stillwell had been victim of a fatal heart attack Saturday evening.

Senate Majority Leader, Lyndon Johnson, spoke to the group Sunday. He spoke on education from a national standpoint. He stated he thought it "horrible that teachers did not get an adequate salary."

Mary Alexander, former president of Classroom Teachers Association, was elected president of Texas State Teachers Association.

THE CRACKER CRUMBS

By Celia Waldrip

Upon watching a small male cousin sitting miserably and pitifully forlorn during a family holiday reunion, I began seeing family reunions through the eyes of a small child.

The little boy felt terribly left out and put upon, as there were no other children anywhere near his age at the clan gathering. The only part of the holiday get-together he seemed to enjoy was mealtime. At the table he applied himself vigorously almost as if to show everyone that here, at least, he knew what to do with himself.

Otherwise, the little boy just sat, listened, twitched, turned, scratched, moved from one room to the other and generally tried to avoid any contact or conversation with relatives who at the time were not distant enough.

No child old enough to have a mind of his own ever willingly attended a family reunion . . . the second one anyway! Being naturally curious and unsuspecting, he will probably go along peacefully enough to his first. He may even approach it eagerly, because he doesn't know what is in store for him.

Being innocent victims of circumstance, the children are the only ones capable of viewing a family reunion with a purely objective attitude. A child is aware of the fact that most of the adults refrain from personal observation about each other's kinfolk . . . at least until they get home. That automatically eliminates them from expressing their unbiased opinions, and leaves only the youngsters as entirely disinterested observers.

Watching the uncomfortable little boy, I could almost tell he thought the whole business was just a glorified side-show.

The main characters, of course, are the adult blood-kin. The in-laws and children are only incidental "walk-ons", as they were just brought along to show off and show up the other in-laws and children.

Other major characters include the gushy aunts, the blustery uncles, the condescending older cousins, the tattle-tale little girls, the bully little boys, the bored adolescents and the long-winded grandpas.

Everybody cuts in to steal lines and nobody listens for cues. When there is a lull in the performance, one of the unidentified characters accosts the nearest child with, "My, how you've grown!" "Why, the last time I saw you, you were about this big!" This actress is very convincing with gestures, pats and kisses which are most annoying to a small boy.

The setting includes nothing but food. The cast nibbles at it constantly and clamours for the recipes. (If only they knew, it is entirely unnecessary to get the recipes, as every woman present will be on a boiled egg diet for two months following!)

The scene-stealer, and by far the most fortunate character in the show is the old-maid great aunt with the hearing aid. She can turn it off . . . and does. But the fact that she can't hear doesn't keep her from speaking her lines . . . both loudly and clearly. She should get some kind of award for "projecting."

Late in the third act of the show, the children are all mad at one another, the babies have all missed their naps . . . or else they're teething (a state which, of course, accounts for their unusual behavior . . . they never act that way at home!)

The frozen smiles on the faces of the in-law actors have turned to grimaces. The women are all hoarse and the food is all gone. The show is over! It's time to go home. Oh, blessed word, home! The relatives will probably be halfway there before their voices get back anywhere normal.

The young cousin knows he does not have to inquire as to whose side of the family is having the reunion. He can always tell for sure by noticing which parent remarks the whole production is getting "crummier" every year, and next time . . . well, you just needn't buy tickets for him.

It's a sure bet it was the other side of the house that was responsible for this particular family reunion!

Our everyday food buys are BIG!

Dickensons Play Santa To Needy Children Here

By Celie Waldrip
 "Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus" have been hard at work for the past two months, preparing and repairing toys to be delivered Christmas Eve.

Although Olton's own Santa works in a more temperate climate than the legendary St. Nick, his work is no less frantic and exacting.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Dickenson, who are literally the spirit of Christmas to scores of underprivileged children, began their work five years ago. The work was so rewarding to the couple they have continued playing "Santa" every Christmas since that time.

Toys of every description are repaired, painted, sterilized and made to look like new. Scores of dolls are scrubbed, given new "hair-dos" and new clothes to thrill little girls on Christmas morning.

Mrs. Dickenson stated they never do a "second-rate" job on any toy. The children think they are getting new toys from Santa's own workshop . . . so they must look new. If a toy is in such disrepair that it can not be made to look new, it is discarded.

Mr. and Mrs. Dickenson gather lists of needy children from Red Cross and ministers of the city. The Dickensons serve Latin-American, Negro and Anglo needy families of the city.

The list contains the name and age of every child in the needy family. The toys are then chosen to suit the ages of the children, carefully boxed and gift-wrapped and labeled with the child's name.

Last year the Dickensons repaired seventy dolls and innumerable tricycles, stuffed animals, bicycles and plastic toys. Mrs. Baggett dresses all dolls in new clothes after Mrs. Dickenson sterilizes and repairs them. Mrs. Baggett takes great pains with doll clothes by adding little touches of lace, braid, etc.

Christmas Eve night the Dickensons, with the help of several townspeople, load the boxes of toys into trucks and carry them to the families. Local grocery stores donate baskets of food for each family visited.

Mrs. Santa said without the help of local "elves" it would be impossible to continue this project. Lumber and hardware stores donate much of the paint for toys, merchants sometimes contribute new toys, and downtown stores give boxes for wrapping gifts.

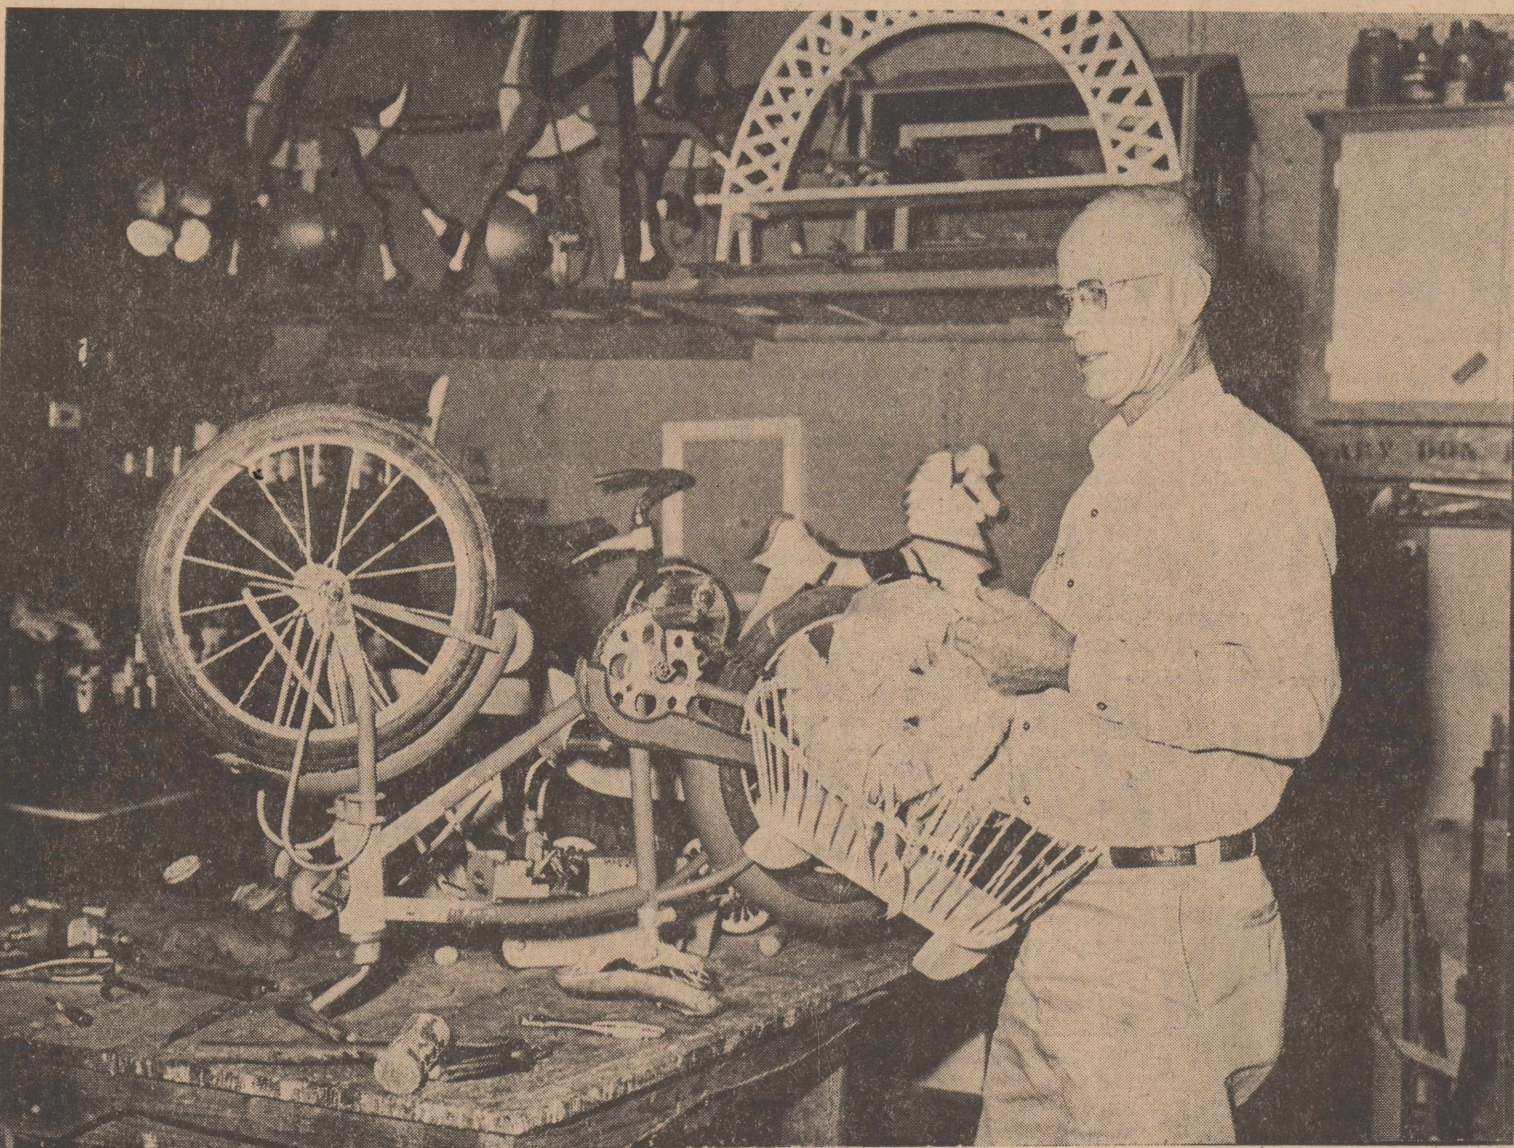

Many times organizations such as Eastern Star, bridge clubs, scout troops, Sunday school classes and individuals donate new toys or give the Dickensons checks to be used toward expenses.

In addition to their Christmas project, Mr. and Mrs. Dickenson are busy with other hobbies. Mr. Dickenson, who is a carpenter, has a workshop where he turns out many kinds of wood work. Mrs. Dickenson makes plastic flowers, and is presently working on poinsettias for Christmas decorations. Her handwork is beautiful and amazingly "lifelike."

The Christmas workshop is still short of tricycles, wagons, bicycles and dolls. Anyone having any of these they would like to contribute, may leave them at Lester's Drive-In Cleaners or take them to the Dickensons home. Lester donates his services to the project by cleaning all stuffed toys and rag dolls.

Grade school children who would like to be Santa's elves, might bring a toy or two to their teachers at school. All toys should be repairable and in fairly good condition.

Mrs. Dickenson admits the project of repairing toys is hard work and extremely time consuming, as they work from September until the day before Christmas Eve on the toys. However, she said "Just seeing the faces of the children on Christmas Eve, makes up many times over for all the hard work."

W. B. Dickenson . . . Santa's workshop.

Mrs. Dickenson related while shopping downtown this week, a small girl ran up to her and excitedly reported, "Oh, Mrs. Santa Claus, I still have that doll you brought me last year."

Such incidents as these are the only rewards obtained by these two wonderful people. Mr. and Mrs. Dickenson are certainly evidence that Santa Claus is not only a legend of love, but is definitely a real person with a real workshop whose only interest is the happiness of children on Christmas.

A Tribute To My Daddy

(This tribute to C. R. Dobbs was written in 1932 by Aubrey Dobbs, then publisher of The Collingsworth Standard. It is being re-run in The Olton Enterprise at the request of another son of Mr. Dobbs, Roy Dobbs of Lubbock.)

"MY DADDY"
 We just happened to think. Yes really for one time. This isn't Father's Week by several months, but as the old saying goes, "Tomorrow Never Comes" so we are going to dedicate this column to our daddy this week, something we have never done before.

To us our daddy is the swellest guy who ever lived. Our daddy has done more for us than any man ever has or every will. When we think of the many things our daddy has done for us our memory is taxed.

We remember the time we went to Memphis with our daddy in a wagon. We went over after a load of coal and it took us all day to get there, or almost all day. That was the most memorial trip we have ever taken in our whole life. It was then that we drank our first bottle of soda pop and the carbonated water made us belch and dern'd if we didn't think the whole top of our head was blown off. Then we committed the terrible sin of going to a picture show. On of those air dome sort of things with a machine that made noises like horses hooves as they pounded on the hard road. We remember they hanged a man in that picture. It sure was grand.

Then we had supper of cheese and crackers and well water and went to bed down at the wagon yard. The camp house was filled with freighters and we were the only kid in the camp house. The rest of them sort of picked on this column, but his daddy had put him on his good behavior and he stood for the pokes and jibes fairly well.

We remember when we got back home we high-hatted our brother Roy. He never had been out in the world and had experiences. Goodness no. We were the sophisticated one. We had been places and done things. Yes siree! couldn't afford to consort around with a plebian such as Roy. Not us. But he soon got us told a few things and we sort of got down off our high horse.

We remember the time we ran away from home and how papa said he remembered us when we came back sixteen days later. He shook hands with this column and told him he was welcome home and that the roof that covered his head was mine. I sort of choked up and tears sort of filmed over my eyes. My daddy was a pretty regular sort of guy at that, we thought.

Then we remember after we left home and went away some two thousand miles and writing back, at the insistence of my older brother, if I could join the army and go to France and help win the war. My daddy wrote back in the style characteristic of him, Short and snappy and to the point without very much diplomacy. This column's daddy isn't a diplomat. He's blunt and frank and short and honest spoken. He said: "No, indeed, son. My two other sons are in the army now. You are my baby boy. When the time comes for you to go I will give my consent and give it gladly. The time for sixteen year old boys to go into this horrible thing hasn't come yet and I won't stand for my baby boy going into it. That is final."

I showed that letter to Emmett and he said: "That's all there is to it. Papa has had his say. You couldn't get in my company if you were the last soldier in the world."

We remember the time our daddy kissed us when we came home. He was glad to see us and we were glad to see him. In our absence we had learned to love and appreciate our daddy as we never had before. He became real and human and a man to us then. Before that he had been a sort of provider—a person who always said no when we wanted to stay up late nights or play overtime or go places a long way from home. When we came back home that time we appreciated our daddy as we never had before.

We remember that our daddy was superintendent of the Sunday School at the Baptist church for years and years. He was a deacon long before we can remember. We also remember mamma always scolded our daddy because every time he got up on the rostrum his shirt tail was out and had to stuff it in. That didn't make any difference to our daddy. He was thinking of men's souls, of the sin and wickedness of the world. He was communing with his Lord and Master.

Our daddy has "said the blessing" ever since we can remember. We have heard him say it thousands and thousands of times and to this day we can't tell you a word he says. And we never heard our daddy return thanks in our life when we weren't thankful that we had a daddy who loved God and who was thankful to Him for his blessings.

We have had our daddy whip the living daylight out of us with a peach tree switch and we always loved and admired and respected him when the licking was over. Our daddy never gave us an undeserved licking in our life and there's times right now when I know that a good old sound thrashing from my daddy would make a better man out of me.

I've had my daddy kneel down, by me, put his arm tenderly around my shoulder and pour out his very soul in prayer for a boy that was wayward, a boy that was thoughtless, a boy that was careless, but nevertheless his baby boy—a boy that he loved with all the love it was possible for a man to store up in a big heart for his baby boy. I've cried with my daddy and I've laughed with my daddy and if God makes ten million jillion more daddys before this old world comes to an end, he'll never make another daddy any more wonderful than my daddy has been to me.

My daddy epitomizes everything that is good, that is honest, that is manly, that is Godly, that is wise to me and I think of him thousands and thousands of times that he never knows anything about, but now that I've grown into manhood and while my daddy is here to know these things, I want to dedicate this column to a man that I love over and above every thing else and every other man in the whole wide world.

"Keno" came from the gambling game of the same name, and cowboys often used the word to mean everything is all right.

A cowboy who can keep in balance upon and with a horse, and who can ride long distances without retightening the cinches or galling the horse's back, is known as a "light rider."
