Homecoming Scheduled For Oct. 13

Plans for Homecoming went into full swing here this week with the event scheduled Oct. 13 when the Mustangs take on Muleshoe.

A Homecoming parade, set for 4 p.m., will go south on Main, around the square, back up Main to Seventh and then turn west on Seventh.

Both the junior high and the high school bands will march in the parade. Approximately 14 floats are expected to be entered with three trophies to be awarded.

All floats will be in one class this year and first, second and third place winners will each receive a trophy.

A PTA sponsored ham supper is scheduled from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Tickets are $1 for adults, 75¢ for students and 50¢ for pre-schoolers. Tickets may be purchased at any of the schools or at the door.

Mrs. Archie Sorley is food chairman, Mrs. Joe Chester is poster chairman and Buddy Hedges is ticket chairman for the supper.

School will be dismissed that Friday at 2:30 p.m. at HP Webb Elementary, junior high and senior high.

Ponies Try Hereford 11

Olton's Mustangs, who've had trouble enough with Class A football teams this year, take on one of the top-rated triple-A teams on the Plains Friday night.

The Ponies travel to Hereford to take their last non-conference stand.

Coach Walter Bryan is hoping his forces can keep it from resembling Custer's Last Stand.

The Mustangs have their work cut out for them, with Co-Captain Robert Duncan still out and two other mainstays on the injured list.

Bryan said Wednesday that End Roy Moss probably won't play against the Whitefaces. He suffered a back injury last week.

Guard Jimmy Bennett is a doubtful starter and could ride the bench much of the night.

Soph End Ronnie Parsons probably will get the call in Moss' place, while Dickie Hudgens will sub for Bennett.

Hereford enters the game with a 4-1 record, the only loss coming last week against New Mexico's top-rated team, Roswell, 7-6.

The Whitefaces pushed Roswell all over the park but weren't able to get their fifth straight.

Olton, meanwhile, took the week off after setting Hale Center, 19-12. The win gave the Mustangs a 2-2 slate.

Hereford whipped, in order, Brownfield, Canyon, Dimmitt and Muleshoe.

Muleshoe, Olton's homecoming opponent a week from Friday night, went down, 39-8. The Whitefaces topped Canyon and Dimmitt easily after shutting out Brownfield, 12-0.

Hereford is flapping its wings under a new coach, Jack Meredith.

He has a pair of flashy half-backs and an offense that runs the ball more than it passes.

Spark of the team is Mack Cansler, a 165-pound senior halfback who runs the 100 in 10 flat.

The other flash is Dennis Hodges, a 140-pounder who runs well in a broken field.

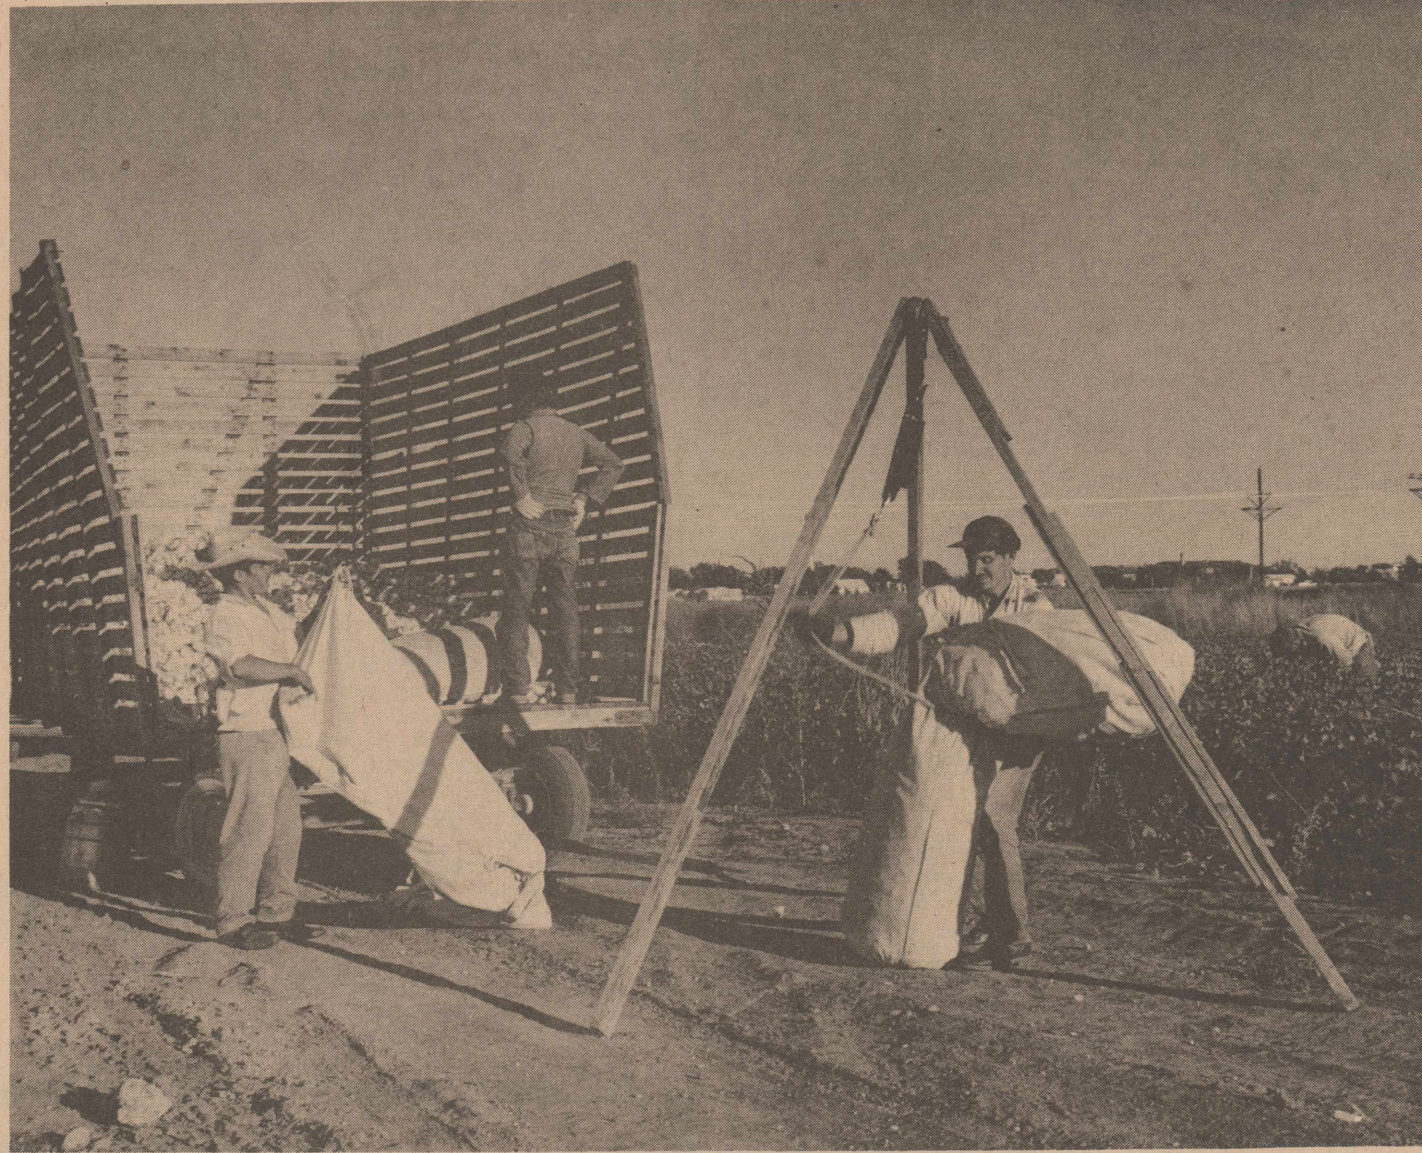

Cansler scored three times against Muleshoe, on runs of 36, 2 and 39 yards.

Hereford will have a couple of reasons to be angry Friday night. The Whitefaces naturally didn't like the Roswell loss and they remember the 8-0 defeat Olton pinned on them last year.

That defeat broke Hereford's unbeaten string in 1960.

The Mustangs, meanwhile, will be looking for another standout performance from James Loveless, who gained 91 yards in 13 carries against Hale Center, including a 28-yard touchdown jaunt.

And it will take some more fine defensive work from Johnny Schenck and the Mustang forward wall if Olton is to make a respectable showing. Schenck intercepted two Hale Center passes two weeks ago.

It's That Cotton Pickin' Time Again

TRAILERS FILLING with cotton, the scales and boll pullers in the field all have come back into style in the Olton area as the harvest gets under way. Here several Latin American workers are harvesting cotton from the Clarence Mason farm just east of Olton. Almost 800 bales had been ginned at the four gins here through Wednesday.

Light Frost Hits; Few Get Hail

Cotton and grain harvest in the Olton area began a slow pick-up this week with most farmers harvesting grain and a few pulling cotton.

Grain elevators reported an increase in business but most feel the bulk is still to come.

A check at the four Olton gins Wednesday revealed that 753 bales had been ginned, compared with 595 this time last year.

Most ginners feel the prospects are promising and the harvest should be in full swing in about three weeks.

With many farmers now defoliating, the harvest is expected to be a little earlier than last year.

Defoliation of cotton continued at a fast pace in the area this week, despite a light frost which came early Tuesday.

Temperatures dipped near 32 degrees at some spots in the area before dawn Tuesday. But the chilly weather apparently did little in the way of nipping vegetation.

The Olton area received rainfall amounting to one inch in some sections last Friday and some hail was reported north-west of town.

On the Preston Sampler farm, eight miles north and four miles west, one inch of rain was reported along with hail as big as golf balls.

"The hail started small, then it was marble-size and some as big as golf balls fell. It was all different sizes," Mrs. Sampler said Wednesday.

She said the trees at the house were defoliated and some of the feed was hit hard. How bad their cotton was hurt was not known.

H.R. Keeter, who farms the Tom Smith place eight miles north and three and one half miles west, reported one half inch of rain and hail damage on the north side.

"We had a good crop until the hail hit," Mrs. Keeter said this week, "but now I just don't know how badly it was hurt."

Other farms in the same area were reported to have received some hail damage including the C.C. Currys and the H.R. Curtis place.

J. T. Gibson, who farms seven miles west of Olton, said he had started pulling cotton Monday and already had cut quite a bit of grain.

Robert Meinecke, one and one half miles east and one and one half miles north, said: "My cotton looks like it's going to make real good if the weather holds out."

He has ginned six bales and is expecting to make over a bale to the acre.

Elmo Hasha, who farms four area farms with his father, reported they had been cutting maize for about a week when it was not too wet. They expect to start cotton harvest in another week or two.

Elmer Moore, whose farm is three and one half miles north of Olton, said he had harvested four bales of cotton and had been harvesting grain for some time.

Harry Thomas, who is farming I.V. Fent's land five miles south of Olton, said this week: "I don't plan to start harvesting my cotton until after frost. Then I will machine harvest it all."

Machine harvesting is expected to take care of most cotton in the area this year. Thomas commented that a hail in the late spring had damaged his crops quite a bit. He is now harvesting grain.

Gin Has Checks; Location Of 300 People Sought

Olton Co-Op Gin announced this week it is seeking addresses of almost 300 persons for whom the gin holds dividend checks.

Manager Lloyd Graham said the gin does not know the whereabouts of any of the people.

He asked that anyone knowing addresses of any of the 300 notify the gin. A list of the names may be found on page five of this section.

Trustees Amend Library Budget

Olton's school board Tuesday night amended the budget for the school library, employed one new teacher and heard reports on the state's recent approval of additions in the vocational home-making and agriculture departments.

Unexpected expenses on library books ordered prior to amendment of the budget for the library.

An additional $400 was authorized for the library. The budget had been set up at $2,500.

Payment of the unforeseen expenses, plus spending on other, anticipated expenditures, will all but deplete the $2,500 which was set up, Supt. Clark told the board.

6 Attend Civil Defense Meet At Hale Center

A group of Olton men attended a civil defense meeting at Hale Center Monday to get more information on setting up a civil defense unit here.

Attending from Olton were Mayor M.T. James, Fire Chief Tom Smith, Carroll Cox, Dr. Lynn Fite, Fred Thompson and Dick Whiteley, manager of Olton Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture.

The groups saw a film on radiation and its effects on the populace and looked at the civil defense equipment there.

Whiteley said a group of three families at the meeting told of building a fall-out shelter out of an old railroad boxcar. They had buried the car and were in the process of fixing it to accommodate 19 people for two weeks.

Free material on fall-out shelters is available at the office of Olton Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture.

Six Needed For Course In First Aid

A Red Cross first aid course is scheduled to begin here either Oct. 17 or Oct. 19, according to Dick Whiteley, manager of Olton Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture.

Whiteley said six more people were needed for the first course and if enough were interested, another course would be added. Each course can handle from 20 to 25 people.

Anyone interested in the courses is asked to phone 285-2292.

Those who have already signed up will automatically be in the first class.

Everybody is ignorant, only on different subjects. - Will Rogers.

C-CA Plans Election Of Six New Directors

Directors of Olton's Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture Tuesday set the wheels in motion for election of six new members of the board.

Terms expire for three farmers—Roy Roberts, Lacy Armstrong and Melvin Hines—and three businessmen—James Hall, Don Spain and Percy Parsons.

Parsons is now president of the board and Hall is vice-president.

The six who will go off the board were appointed as a nominating committee. After their report, the Chamber will send out ballots to all members.

Setting up the machinery for the coming election of directors came at a regular meeting of the board Tuesday morning at the Ideal Cafe.

On other items, the board discussed the Chamber's civil defense course, now under way, and plans for a Red Cross first aid course.

Manager Dick Whiteley told the board that a few of the letters seeking opinions on establishment of a hospital here had been mailed, and that more will be in the mail in the next few days.

Approximately 1,000 letters will be mailed to area people. The form letter asks these questions:

1. Do you think we need a hospital?

2. Do you think that it would be supported?

3. What, in your opinion, would be the best way to finance it?

One early reply answered "yes" to the first two questions and suggested a local bond election as a way to finance. Under "comments," the reply said: "Hurry."

In other discussion at the meeting, the board once again brought up the subject of a community center. Some residents feel such a center is needed greatly here and the Chamber began an investigation of the possibility earlier this year.

However, the project has never gotten off the ground. One member of the board pointed out that the town already has a place that can be used as a community center.

He said the club building at Olton Recreation Center is available to anyone in the community at a rental fee of $5.00.

Hart Man Picks 11 To Win Grid Contest

A former Hart High School football star came up with the best entry in the Enterprise's weekly football contest last week.

Connard Riddles took the top prize by guessing 11 of the 13 games correctly. He missed only the TCU-Olton State tie and Georgia Tech's upset of Rice.

Thirteen other contestants were right on Riddles' heels. All missed three games each.

Coming out winner of second place was E.J. McKnight, whose guesses on the tiebreakers were 35 points off.

Third place went to Douglas Nickerson, who was 45 points away on the tie breakers. Riddles will receive a check for $10, McKnight $6 and Nickerson $4.

The other 11 who finished close behind, along with their tiebreaker scores, were John Allen Douglass, 52; Jack McCracken, 54; Robert Duncan, 57; R.V. Allcorn, 60; Eldon Franks, 64; James Hall, 65; T.J. Roberson, 66; Bill Kelley, 67; Inez Gordon, 72, R.C. Parsons, 78; and Jimmy Joe Schenck, 80.

Another contest is under way and contestants may enter by getting a copy of the Sept. 28 Enterprise, filling out the entry blank and turning it in to any of the merchants sponsoring the event prior to 4 p.m. Friday.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION FOR CHILDREN

Physical education for children has been the subject of a nationwide controversy recently and in Olton, as in most other towns, discussion has been divided into two different groups.

Many are concerned over the results of tests apparently showing that American children are physically inferior to the children of other nations. These tests cannot be considered conclusive proof of the fact but they are indicative.

On the other hand, a great deal of criticism has been heard recently about some of the rigorous exercise in competitive sports offered our children. Numerous articles, mostly by doctors and educators, have appeared lately warning the public of the pitfalls of many of our sports.

The situation is further complicated by the fact that children in our country, taking the cue from their parents, often feel that a sport without competition is no sport at all.

The physical fitness problem is largely a result of the changes that modern conveniences have made in our everyday lives. Today, few children walk to school, few have strenuous home chores and the TV set is all too attractive.

Then, too, Americans are natural organizers, and this tendency has spilled over into the field of sports. We have all sorts of organized sports with high achievement standards for our youngsters with the result that more spectators than participants are being produced. In fact, the activities of the athletically gifted often overlap into several sports while many are really active in none.

What, then, is the answer? Certainly, organized sports are here to stay and there are many benefits to be received from them. Competition is good. Too much emphasis on it, however, can plunge our youth into the tensions and frustrations of an adult world and, after all, they get there soon enough.

The main question seems to involve those children who are not athletes but who, nevertheless, need an exercise program. Perhaps we need a better rounded program for ALL children, both in-school and after-school, with less emphasis on competition for those not gifted in the sports line.

Maybe we, as parents, need most of all to teach our children that a game is for fun.

THE PERILS OF FARMING

(Editors Note: The following article was called to our attention this week by Dan Gregory. We enjoyed it so much we decided to pass it along to our readers.)

There are two major brands of gambling in the United States: (a) betting on horses, (b) farming.

The latter outstrips the former many times over in volume and it involves sums and an amount of sporting spirit that would stagger the heaviest race track gambler. The farmer gambles for his living day after day. He hocks his piano, sells liens on his barn and livestock, and goes to any extreme when he sees a good thing in the milk market or a three-crop parlay.

He is no small-time operator, sticking a few thousand dollars in surplus cash through a mutual window. When he plays an entry or a double or a multiple parlay, he goes at it with everything he owns supplemented by all he can raise that he doesn't own.

The farmer decided to improve his dairy herd, so he goes to a cattle sale and buys a full for a thousand dollars, which he obtained by cashing his wife's insurance. He takes the bull home. It is big and vicious, so he spends another thousand dollars, obtained by selling off the north forty, to build a house and pen for it. The pen has to be made of six-foot steel pipe sunk three feet in concrete. The house is made of poured concrete and when the farmer gets no higher than the floor he finds he is going to need $500 more. This he gets by hocking his wheat crop, which looks as if it might be something and which he had planned to use to provide piano study in New York for his daughter, Muriel Mae.

He gets the pen finished and with the aid of three other men and four pitchforks he puts the bull in it. The bull snorts joyously for half an hour while running back and forth in the handsome pen. Then he eats a piece of baling wire with his hay and dies. The farmer persuades a rendering works to come around two days later and haul away 2,000 pounds of ex-bull.

It can easily be seen that the farmer is now in a worse position than the greatest racetrack plunger on his worst day. However, he writes the bull situation off, hocks and mortgages some more of his property and goes about his daily gambling.

Fortunately, the milk, eggs, and truck from the place will keep his family alive for a while. To reassure himself, he goes and looks at his oats and wheat. The wheat is part of a two-crop parlay, to be followed next year by a combination of timothy and red clover which he had sowed with the wheat the previous fall.

The wheat is beautiful, but he can't see any clover and timothy. Mentally figuring the cost and feasibility of replanting, he tries to concentrate on admiring the wheat. It is really beautiful. That night comes a storm which not only takes the roof off the chicken house, but flattens the wheat, rendering it virtually mull and void.

The next day the farmer concentrates on admiring his oats. They are beginning to show a tendency to curl up and lie down ("lodge" is the term). Something may be saved, however. The farmer goes back to hunt in the chicken house for enough eggs for supper. Mentally he goes over what he gambled on the wheat and oats. It figures up to about $13 an acre, or $260 for twenty "allotted" acres of wheat, and $11 an acre for the oats which is a free crop under government regulations.

He cheers himself up by thinking that the $200 he spent for lime will have a good effect on the soil next year. In other words, he has a bare chance of cashing a show ticket.

In order to get started again he sells off his three best dairy cows, or, at least, he contracts to sell them. The next morning he notices that all three are looking ill. The veterinarian finds they have chewed lead paint off a fence post and need to be "drenched".

In the middle of the "drenching" operation, which involves poking four yards of rubber hose down the throats of the cows and into their quadruple interiors, the customer who contracted to buy them appears with a check. He looks around hurriedly, tears up the check, and runs.

Two of the cows get well, the other dies. The customer who retreated was a cattle buyer who had been all over the country looking for animals. He carried on his shoes a little organism known as Brucella Abortus Bang. This was destined to get into the manger and infect the whole herd, necessitating slaughter.

Of course, the farmer didn't know that at the time, so he was chiefly concerned with the loss of one cow and his failure to make the sale.

The next day he cheers up and starts haying. He fears bad weather and puts the hay in a little green. He sprinkles salt on it, a maneuver which he imagines will keep it from heating, but which his county agent would tell him was merely a waste of salt.

The hay heats and burns his barn down. It catches his house and burns that down too. It burns up all his chickens and his corn crib. Fortunately, he has dept all his insurance. He collects.

Then a city fellow comes by, likes the maple trees and the brook and buys the farm for $20,000. The farmer charges him $2,500 extra for the bull pen, which did not burn, being made of concrete and steel. For the newly infected cows he gets another $4,000.

After paying his debts, he finds he has $22,000. He puts it in war bonds, moves to an apartment in the city and goes to work in a propeller factory.

He has pockets full of cash, so Saturday he goes to the race track and bets at the $50 window. He becomes known as a plunger. Members of his Bible Class back home read about him in the paper and say, "Ain't it too bad Henry's turned to gambling!"

Phillips-Smith Exchange Vows In Ceremony Held Here Friday

Miss Sandra Jeanette Phillips became the bride of Waymond Carl Smith Friday, Sept. 29, in the Church of Christ parsonage, Olton. The double-ring ceremony was read by Alfred White, Church of Christ minister.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. E.G. Phillips of Olton. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. C.W. Smith, also of Olton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length dress of white wool, made by her mother. The sheath dress was complimented with a matching jacket. It had three-quarter length sleeves and a stand-up collar that came around to the front and tied in a small knot. The bride wore black accessories and a small black headpiece with a tiny veil. She carried blue feathered carnations atop a white Bible.

The bride chose "something old, something new, something borrowed and blue" to complete her wedding ensemble. A nickel made in the year of her mother's birth was worn in her right shoe as something old. Her dress was something new and something borrowed was a necklace with a tiny heart on it borrowed from Marry Dennis. For something blue, the bride carried a blue handkerchief in her Bible that her father sent her mother when she was overseas in the Army. Elna Phillips served her sister as maid of honor. She wore a blue sheath dress made of light weight wool. It had long sleeves and a rounded neck. She carried a bouquet of white feathered carnations.

The groom's brother, Landon Smith, served as best man. A plum colored dress of light weight wool was chosen by the bride's mother. The groom's mother wore a light tan suit. Both wore accessories of brown lizard and had white feathered carnation corsages.

The reception was held in the bride's parents home immediately following the ceremony. The table was laid with a white lace cloth over blue. Appointments of milk glass and silver were used. The bride's and maid of honor's flowers also decorated the table. Guests were served blue punch, mixed nuts, mints and cake. The three tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom and was decorated in blue. The top layer was made in the shape of heart. Those serving at the reception table were Mary Dennis, Gayle Nicholson, Sharon Brigrance and Janice Moses, all of Olton.

For traveling, the bride chose a beige wool suit. After a short wedding trip to parts of Texas, the couple will make their home in Olton.

The bride is a 1961 graduate of Olton High School and the bridegroom is a 1960 graduate of Olton High School.

Bargains-What-Am Bargains Offered in 1897 Handbill

Ladies! Howabout some dress shoes, with buttons, of course, for 75¢. If your husband needs a pair of dress boots, how does $1.50 sound?

Out of this world? Certainly, these prices are out of this world we know today, but they were a reality in "grandma's day."

In case you have any doubts, reprinted above is a copy of a handbill postmarked

Oct. 8, 1897. Addressed to A.D. Reeves, Drummond, Texas. The handbill now belongs to Mrs. Roscoe Thomas who said it was originally sent to her grandfather. Reeves was the father of the late Mrs. L.D. Bartlett.

For bargain hunters everywhere, the items shown above are a tempting treat---just 64 years too late.

Wally and his dad, Bert, who farm three miles west and one north of Olton, decided to use Golden Uran for several reasons. Golden Uran is a fast, easy way to decompose stubble safely, without danger of fumes or burns. Too, the farmer has the assurance of his soil getting ALL the benefits of Uran...there's no problem of evaporation. Golden Uran also can be helpful in weed control. The Stewarts follow up their application of Uran with a tandem (photo below).

Oaths And Religion Are Separated By Constitution

Separation of church and state is a basic principle in our law. For example, the other day a Maryland citizen sought a notary's commission. To get it, he would have had to declare his belief in God. Refusing to make this religious declaration, he got no license. He sued for it and lost.

He took his case to the U.S. Supreme Court. The court said he should get his license without taking the religious oath. The court will not enforce such a state law since it violates the safeguards of freedom of religion.

At common law all oaths referred to God. Their reference to God was a reminder of possible divine punishment for a false oath. For centuries, an Englishman who would not take such an oath could not enforce his rights in court.

Today, other solemn declarations are allowed to bind a person's conscience instead of an oath referring to God.

The U.S. Constitution says that "no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States."

Though some federal oaths have religious references, the government cannot force a person to profess a belief or disbelief in religion.

Government cannot "establish religion" and must remain out of religious activities so far as possible.

How far can the government go in religious activities? The state can provide buses for parochial schools to promote safety for children (not to establish religion). State schools may release children for church classes. A church or church school may claim tax exemptions.

In the past, the U.S. has provided funds for ex-G.I.'s to go to colleges, some of them religious. The Armed Services have long had chaplains of various religious faiths. A long time ago the U.S. used funds to aid missionaries.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Scout District Meeting Set At Plainview

10 Jailed In Gambling Raid

Ten Olton Negroes were arrested over the weekend after officers broke up a dice game.

Police chief Emmett Burrow reported one of the men was charged with running a gambling house, another with carrying a concealed weapon and eight others with gambling.

All were fined and released. Three men were still in jail this week after their arrest Sunday for drunkenness. The three are working out their fines.

Former Olton Men On Team For Littlefield

Two former Olton men will be serving as co-captains of the Littlefield's Jaycees football team. They are Jimmy Maynard and Don Hatley. The other captain is Benny Ross.

The Littlefield team will take on the Amherst Lions at the Wildcat Stadium in Littlefield, Saturday night at 8 p.m. Tickets for the clash can be purchased from the Littlefield Jaycees or Jaycee Etries.

Maynard will be playing at left half and Hatley at fullback.

Olton Men Will Attend Scout Meet

Kenneth Campbell, Boy Scout leader, and A.G. Huguley, will be attending a special Basic Boy Scout Leaders training session that will be held at Hart, Sunday afternoon, Oct. 8, at 1:30 in the American Legion Hall. This training session is for all Boy Scout Troop leaders in Olton, Dimmitt and Hart.

A team of district trainers from Plainview will conduct the training session.

Any other institutional representative, troop committeeman, scoutmaster, assistant scoutmaster or interested parents are urged to attend this training course to receive information on scouting skills, troop meetings, advancement procedures, and other scouting helps.

Inspection For Auto Stickers Is Underway

Motorists can now have their vehicles safety inspected for the 1962 Inspection Sticker. Captain Alan Johnson of the Motor Vehicle Inspection Service, Texas Department of Public Safety, said today that over 5,000 inspection stations have started inspecting more than 4 1/2 million vehicles coming under the provisions of the Motor Vehicle Inspection Act. All such vehicles must display the new safety sticker by April 16, 1962.

Johnson said, "We feel that the vehicle inspection program in Texas has proved a deterrent to vehicle accidents on our streets and highways." He urged all motorists to get their vehicles inspected before the bad weather of winter begins, when it is so essential to have vehicles in safe operating condition.

"It takes just a few minutes to have a vehicle safety checked," Johnson stated, "yet those few minutes thus spent today could mean the saving of someone's life tomorrow."

Johnson noted that the percent of accidents in which vehicle defects were causative factors has been cut approximately in half since the program was started in Texas.

Hart Longhorns Take 42-20 Win Over Anton Bulldogs

The Hart Longhorns came up from behind after the first quarter and went on to take the Anton Bulldogs here Friday night 42-20.

The Longhorns were the first to score with halfback Billy Farris making the touchdown.

The lead didn't last, as quarterback Dan Crews passed to end Robert Pierce on a 40-yard play to tie the score. Crews made the extra points to put the Bulldogs in the lead with 8-6.

Hart pulled their comeback when fullback Larry Lee raced around end for 50 yard and a touchdown. Halfback J.T. Staton ran the points.

In the second quarter, Staton went 54 yards for a touchdown and then went over for the points. The Longhorns were never behind again. Farris then intercepted a wayward Bulldog aerial and raced 50 yards for the third tally for Hart. Lee ran the points.

Crews scored for Anton again in the third quarter, but Lee roared back 65 yards for another touchdown in the same period.

To wind up the game in the last quarter, it was Crews again for the Bulldogs and Farris for the Longhorns. Crews passed to Pierce for 20 yards and a TD while Farris raced 70 yards through the middle to score for Hart.

Tops on defense for Hart were guard and linebacker Eufemio Rubalcaba, tackle Royce Talley and tackle David Irons.

Water Depletion Tax Deduction Hearing Held

One more step was taken this month toward a long-sought goal--the goal is a federal income-tax deduction for the depletion of underground water within the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District.

A pre-trial hearing was held in the U.S. District Court in Amarillo, September 25, before Judge Joseph B. Dooley as a prelude to the full-fledged trial which has been scheduled by the Court for January 3 in Lubbock.

The purpose of the pre-trial hearing was to establish agreement between the attorneys and the Court concerning procedures to be followed in the trial and to agree upon certain stipulated facts pertinent to the case.

Marvin and Mildred Shurbet, a farm couple who reside in southwest Floyd County, filed this most-important legal suit against the Internal Revenue Service. Mr. Shurbet is a former member of the Board of Directors of the High Plains Water District.

The Shurbets contend that property owners who can establish an actual cost in the underground water beneath their land and who are using the water to produce income should be entitled to deduct this cost on their tax returns as the water is exhausted.

The trial of this case will culminate seven years of diligent work by the High Plains Water District.

In 1954, the first of two re-

HERE'S PART OF THE CROWD which attended the fifth annual Field Day of the High Plains Research Foundation Wednesday at Halfway. About 2,500 persons were on hand for the day's activities, which included guided tours, a barbecue and a talk by Cong. Jim Wright, shown at the speaker's platform in the background.

quests was submitted to the Internal Revenue Service. These requests asked the IRS to consider underground water in the High Plains Water District as a depletable natural resource under existing federal tax laws, thereby making land-owners in this area eligible for a tax deduction as depletion takes place.

These requests were submitted to the Internal Revenue Service, but were disallowed. It was determined that the only other feasible means of gaining the tax-deduction was through the courts.

Farm Building Catalog Is Available To Farmers

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 5- If you are planning any new construction on your farm, you'll likely profit if you check with your county agricultural agent since he can tell you about the farm building plan service that is available from Texas A&M College and can show you what plans are available, says W.S. Allen, extension agricultural engineer. The plans are from typical farm service buildings and home which are recommended for the many different farm situations throughout Texas. The plans were developed over many years on the basis of research and field experience. Agricultural engineers at Texas A&M say most farmers build no more than one building of any type during their lifetime. Therefore, reliable information is necessary to help plan and construct the most suitable building for any one specific purpose. In selecting plans, the entire farm operation and the probable use of other buildings must be carefully considered. Any building that does not permit the best use of labor and equipment, or that does not do the job for which it is needed, should be remodeled, Allen says. Consideration should be given to the flexibility and possible future needs when selecting a plan for a new building. Also, a visit to another farm where a building similar to that planned is in use would be advisable. A catalog of over 500 building and equipment plans is from your county agent. He can advise on selection of the plan that will most nearly fit your needs. Plans can be obtained by the county extension agent free of charge.

Southwest Animal Health Research Group Is Formed

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 5- Trustees of the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation met with officials of the Texas Education Agency and the A&M College of Texas to discuss plans for combatting multi-million dollar annual losses to the livestock industry in Texas. T.A. Kincaid of Ozona, and Marvin J. Bridges of Buffalo, initial members of the board of trustees, announced that the purpose of the Foundation is to receive and disburse funds, and to foster research and educational programs in animal health. After receiving its charter from the State of Texas Aug. 29, the non-profit organization moved to initiate an action program. First on the agenda is a statewide program to control screw worms, Kincaid said. He pointed out that losses from this pest alone amount to some $50 million each year. The organization will employ the sterile fly technique developed by USDA scientists and proved effective by Florida cattlemen. John E. Hutchison, Director, Texas Agricultural Extension Service and George Hurt, Director, Vocational Education, Texas Education Agency, pledged the full support of county agents and vocational agriculture teachers in carrying out educational phases of the animal health program. Detailed information concerning the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation will be in the hands of all vocational agriculture teachers and county agents in the near future, they said. And then there's the guy who went into business for himself. He bought a tow truck and got a contract with a drive-in-theater as the bounce.

IN OKLAHOMA
Don Hardy, son of Mr. and Mrs. L.L. Hardy was in Oklahoma over the weekend. He brought his sister, Mrs. Charles Wilhite and her two sons back with him to visit her parents.

October Grocery Shoppers To Find Items Plentiful

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 5- Grocery shopping can be truly pleasurable when there's an abundance of many items. That will be the case in October, when Texas food markets will abound with nearly every item that makes up the average food shopper's needs, according to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The U.S. Department of Agriculture's official plentiful foods list for October features apples, potatoes and broiler-fryers. It also points to huge supplies of six other important foods: cheese, rice, turkeys, beef, cranberries, and vegetable fats and oils. These foods are cited from among the many items in fall abundance because USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service expects supplies of each to exceed normal demand. That means you, as a consumer, will find available a greater choice of quality, and you can expect prices on these items to be lower, in keeping with the huge

Prices Steady As Numbers On Feed Increase

FOR WORTH- Prices for both slaughter cattle and feeder cattle remained generally steady during September. The number of Fed Cattle marketed from the twenty-six feedlots reporting information to the "Texas Feedlot Report" declined during the month while the number of cattle placed on-feed in these feedlots increased by 26 per cent. In the monthly summary for September, Lloyd Bergsma, Director of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association Cattle Feeders Division points out that although placements in Texas feedlots during September increased from the previous month, indications are that number on feed in Texas are below last year at this time. DEWEY HUKILL

Dewey Hukill To Receive American Farmer Degree

Dewey Hukill, who has been a member of the Future Farmers of America for the past seven years, is among the 35 from Texas who will receive the organization's highest degree, The American Farmer, at the National FFA Convention, Oct. 11-13, at Kansas City, Mo.

The board of student officers and board of directors of the national organization have reviewed the Texas applications and will recommend to the delegates at the convention that the 35 youths receive the coveted degree.

Approval by these boards usually means election by the delegates.

Each degree winner will receive a certificate and a gold key from the FFA organization, plus a cash travel allowance from the Future Farmers of America Foundation, Inc., and the state association.

Attainment of the American Farmer Degree is based on the FFA member's record in farming, leadership and scholarship. State FFA associations are limited to one American Farmer Degree candidate for each 1,000 members.

The degree is limited to FFA members who have been out of high school at least one year and who are showing evidence of becoming successfully established in farming.

Hukill received the Lone Star Farmer degree in 1958, a degree based on an outstanding FFA record, leadership and a high scholastic average in high school. The same year he received the Anderson-Clayton scholarship, which goes to the

Information Released On Drylot Feeding Of Calves

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 5-Drylot feeding of calves weighing from 250 to 400 pounds requires a much better understanding of feeding principles than does the feeding of heavier ones. It takes a better ration to achieve the desired results in the lighter animals because they do not have their mother's milk to balance their diet.

In the first place, their stomachs will not hold as much as those of heavier calves so the small amount of feed they do consume must contain enough nutrients to satisfy their needs, explains U.D. Thompson, exension animal husbandman. Due to their small size, they have a small storage capacity for even those nutrients which they can hold in reserve in their bodies.

And an example of this storage capacity, consider vitamin A. If cattle have an adequate supply of this vitamin, they store the excess in their body fat and livers. As long as they have access to green grazing they get their vitamin A. When no green grazing is available, they use their stored supply to satisfy their needs. Here is where a calf's needs are taken care of by milk. When this calf is weaned and placed on drylot, he must be supplied these nutrients in his ration. In 250-400 pound calves vitamin A deficiency can develop within 45 to 60 days unless the ration takes care of his needs.

Either leafy green alfalfa hay, alfalfa leaf meal or pellets are good sources of vitamin A, says Thompson. Calves nearly always do better on rations which contain alfalfa than on those which do not, he continues. Also, commercial synthetic vitamin A preparations are now available for mixing in rations. These may be used if good alfalfa is unavailable or expensive.

Calves do not have the ability to utilize large quantities of roughage. Their digestive system requires feeds high in food values. Shelled corn, sorghum grain, oats, barley and high protein feeds like cottonseed meal are full of some of the nutrients required by calves. A small amount of roughage is essential, but their diet should consist mainly of these high protein feeds. A 300 pound calf on drylot, when on full feed, will need about 6 pounds of concentrates and 3 pounds of roughage daily, says Thompson.

For more detailed information on feeding young calves, contact your local county agent and ask for a copy of "Vitamins For Beef Cattle" and "Rations For Fattening Cattle."

"Sure, I caught a fish, but it was too small to bring home so I had a couple of fellows help me throw it back in the lake."

There seems to be a lot of talk these days about how hard it is to meet expenses. Can't understand that. I meet them everywhere I go.
