Students Win Science Awards

Olton students took four first place awards, all in the junior division, at the regional science fair last weekend at Lubbock.

Jerry Caddel, seventh grade student, took a first place and was given the Bell Telephone Award and a set of reference books. Ricky Skelton and Stephen Smith, ninth grade, won first on their project together and also were given the Bell Telephone Award. Taz Speer, ninth grade, was first place and runner-up in the ninth grade exhibits. Other first was won by Don Curtis, also ninth grade.

grades four, five and six, were Sunya Sorley, second; Gale McClain and Gary Barron, second; Steve Exter and Glenn Loveless, third; Mike Crowder, third; and Jan Scruggs, third.

Bennett Worley and Barry Prestridge both placed second in the senior group, grades 10, 11 and 12.

Almost 200 projects were entered in the fair. Projects came from approximate 50 mile radius around Lubbock.

Olton sponsor is James Cailey.

Others in the junior division were Aaron Robertson, second; Lonnie Venable and Dennis Hines, second; and Paulette Bley, Donna Roberson and Benjie Long, third.

In the intermediate group, Hicks, Roberts Are Re-Elected

Fred Hicks and Roy Roberts, incumbents, were re-elected to Olton's school board Saturday in an election that brought only 65 voters to the polls.

The two men each received 65 votes. There were no write-in candidates.

Hicks and his wife, Doris, have lived in Olton 11 years and are members of the Main Street Church of Christ. They have one child, Carol.

Roberts and his wife, Nellie Ruth, are members of the Valley View Baptist Church. Area residents for 27 years, they have two children, Mary and Carl.

Besides serving on the school board, Roberts has served on the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture.

Both men are farmers.

City's New Councilmen Back Sweeping Changes

Re-Organization Of Council Set

Three new councilmen, elected only 10 days ago, took up positions on the Olton city council Tuesday night and immediately spearheaded sweeping changes in city government.

The three—Cecil Galloway, Bob Gullett, and Howard Buchenau—pushed through a proposal to reorganize the city council and backed a motion to appoint a new city attorney, Andrew Stroebel of Olton.

Before the new men were sworn in, the old council made one change of its own.

Outgoing councilmen Carroll Cox, Lynn Fite and Clovis Poteet, along with holdover Bob Duncan, voted a raise to $100 per month for the mayor, M.T. James Jr.

James, who has been drawing $35 per month, did not have a vote on the salary increase. He is permitted a vote only in the event of a tie.

The other holdover councilman, Fred Thompson was absent and missed discussion of the changes.

Prior to the swearing in ceremonies, the old council approved bills for the previous month, canvassed returns of the city election and passed a resolution to deposit $10,000 from the tax-sinking fund and $5,000 from water funds in a savings account at Olton State Bank.

Then the group took up the salary increase for the mayor. They said such an increase might have a bearing on getting men to seek the office and pointed out that, on occasion, Olton mayors have spent from their own pockets when some of their expenses should come from the city.

The council also pointed out that the increase would bring the Olton mayor's salary more in line with those paid in other towns.

Galloway, Gullett and Buchenau took the oath of office, then turned the discussion toward the appointment of the city attorney.

Galloway asked for an explanation of the qualifications for appointive city offices, specifically those of city attorney and city secretary.

Directing a question to city attorney Gene Owens, Galloway asked: "Isn't it a requirement that these people be residents of the city of Olton?"

The Plainview attorney replied that such residence was not required. He said the only requirement for the city attorney's office is that the appointee is a qualified attorney.

A few minutes later, Mayor James told the group that each year the council has appointed the city attorney shortly after the city election.

"If Stroebel wants the job," said Buchenau, "I think we should give our local attorney preference."

Galloway said he was sure Stroebel would accept and he moved that the local attorney be appointed. The council voted yes, unanimously.

Turning to the reorganization of the council, the three new councilmen proposed that each councilman head up a different phase of city operations.

"I think we could accomplish more if each man had a primary concern, in addition to being familiar with all the departments," said Councilman Gullett.

Buchenau said he thought such a proposal would shift some of the load off the mayor and spread it among the council.

The idea, Galloway said, is to have each councilman "work with" a different department, and not necessarily to have absolute control over it.

"If things came up in his department which the councilman couldn't work out for himself, then he could take it up with the mayor, or take it directly before the council," said Gullett.

Gullett later moved for the re-organization plan and suggested, after discussion, that the appointments be made this way:

Thompson, water - sewer councilman; Duncan, streets and maintenance councilman; Buchenau, fire councilman; Galloway, law enforcement councilman; and Gullett, administration councilman.

The council then approved the plan, unanimously.

"I think we are getting something started that has been needed a long time, because the city is growing," Buchenau later commented.

In other activity, the council appointed Gullett as ORC representative, to succeed Poteet, and set up plans for an ordinance declaring parallel parking only on 8th Street between Main and Ave. G.

Buchenau proposed the change from angle parking, saying he felt it should be done for safety reasons.

After a second from Gullett, the council voted, again unanimously, that an ordinance be drawn up to call for parallel parking on both sides of the street.

The council specified that one place in front of the city hall would be reserved for police cars and that three other spots in front of the city building would be limited to 15-minute parking.

Former councilman Lynn Fite, who remained for a time after the new councilmen were sworn in, pointed out that several merchants would be opposed to the plan because they felt it would hurt business.

Fite also said there have been very few accidents on the street. "I'm sure there will be some opposition," said Buchenau, "but I don't believe business will be hurt. Anyone who's against it can have their say before the ordinance comes up to be acted on."

No Room For A Dictator

Local farmers and businessmen have, in the past few weeks, been firing letters and wires to Washington registering a strong area protest to the proposed farm labor bill, S. 1129. Many have received answers to these protests. And, the controversy goes on.

We hear and read of apparently able-bodied men who, according to their own statements, have not been able to find work for periods of two years or more. We know that in this area at least, many farmers have difficulty finding enough help. This kind of situation just doesn't make sense.

The proposed bill is supposed to solve this problem. Certainly, it will be at considerable expense to the taxpayer, but if it would, in actuality, solve these problems, the money would be well spent. The question, then, seems to be whether or not the bill would take care of the existing labor situation.

We do not believe that it would. It is our opinion that it would, instead, create even greater problems.

In the first place, it is difficult to believe that any able-bodied man could not find some sort of work if he really desired it.

In our area, we have some of these so called "able-bodied men who can't find work." Did you every try to hire some of them?

They might work for you if you pay them in cash so that it doesn't interfere with their welfare checks. Legislation may force a man to take a job, but it is highly unlikely that it can make him work. And this bill is full of ready-made loopholes for anyone who wants to get out of work.

The farmer is given very little protection. He would have almost no control over his own help. They could leave at any time they liked, including the middle of the harvest, and at the farmer's expense.

The government, of course, would furnish replacements. But who would do the work until those replacements show up is another question. And there's no promise that they would be any better than the people they replace. Yet, the farmer probably wouldn't have much choice about using this help. Under, the power given to the Secretary of Labor in this bill, anyone who who declined could be easily frozen out.

Basically, the bill would make the Secretary the largest contractor in the nation, with the jobs and livelihood of hundreds of thousands of people under his control.

The Department of Labor would be authorized to recruit farm workers in any area of the nation, concentrate these workers in camps to be built in various areas of the country, then ship these workers out of the concentration points to the farms where workers are needed.

It would be in the Secretary's power to determine which crops in which areas would be harvested.

Housing under the bill is another large item. Some have estimated that this cost would soar as high as $8,000,000,000. Anyone care to venture a guess as to where that money is coming from?

It is the opinion of this newspaper that this bill must be defeated, not only for the protection of the farmer, but for the American public in general. No one man should have the amount of power that this bill gives to the Secretary of Labor.

This country was built by a people who wanted to be free. . . to come and go as they pleased. Bill S. 1129 is enforced migration depending upon the whims and desires of one man. We have no room for a dictator in the United States.

National Piano Auditions Set April 24-28

Harold Carson, local chairman for National Guild of Piano Teachers, said this week that Olton will be one of the centers for the nationwide auditions involving over 60,000 piano players. Locally the hearings will be from April 24 to April 28 at the First Baptist Church.

Guild auditions are non-competitive. Each student is judged individually on 32 points. This year the guild is giving the top prize of $10,000 to the Van Cliburn International Piano Competition, which will be held in Fort Worth in September.

The Olton Center was started in 1955 with 30 students and has grown to one of the top 100 centers in the United States. Last year it served 102 students. This compares with larger cities such as Lubbock, Plainview and Amarillo.

The Guild judge for this year will be Gladys V. Lotter, president of the Music Teachers' Association of California.

Grain Sign-Up Deadline Set For Monday

Feed grain sign-up deadline is set Monday, according to L.D. Aten, county ASC office manager, Littlefield. Original deadline was March 30. The deadline was extended due to flooding in the midwest.

Non-cooperators may plant all the corn or grain sorghum acreage they wish and the grain produced may be either fed or marketed. If it is sold it will bring only the market price since no government support price can be obtained. They can get support prices for oats, however, if this grain is placed under loan.

Growers who do comply must divert at least 20 per cent of their feed grain base into conservation use. For this land they will receive payment equal to 50 per cent of normal production. In addition, as co-operators they will be eligible for price supports on the normal production from reduced acreage.

Farm Bill Queries Answered

(Editor's Note: The following is a series of questions and answers concerning the proposed migrant labor control bill. Due to the amount of interest in the bill locally, we decided to pass the article on to our readers. It was released by the West Texas Agricultural Employer's Group.)

Q: What does S.1129 seek to do?
 A: S.1129 gives the Secretary of Labor the power to recruit, transport, house, feed and distribute citizens of the United States who might be available for work in agriculture.

Q: How are such workers selected?
 A: On the basis of "availability" for agricultural work.

Q: Does this mean non-farm workers would be recruited?
 A: Yes, the bill says "farm labor requirements should be utilized whenever possible as a means of reducing the serious unemployment of the country."

Q: What if these workers are not qualified to do agricultural work?
 A: Determination of qualifications for farm work is left in the hands of the Secretary of Labor.

Q: How would a farmer engage these workers?
 A: He would go to one of the government distribution centers where workers would be concentrated. He then would sign a contract with the workers and they would be transported to his farm.

Q: Who negotiates the contract?
 A: In theory, the contract is negotiated between the worker and the farmer, but the proposed law established most of the contract terms and the government has the power to veto any contract it does not like.

Q: Who pays the cost of this program?
 A: The farmer. He is charged $15 a head for the worker, which is supposed to cover the cost of recruiting, transporting to the concentration point, feeding and housing during this period. The farmer must also pay the cost of transportation, food and housing for the concentration point to his home.

Q: What if the worker does not stay on the job?
 A: The government agrees to supply a new worker at a prorated cost, but does not stipulate the time needed for the delivery of the replacement.

Q: Who pays for the expenses of the non-working members of the family?
 A: Although the Secretary of Labor has said he does not believe that the farmer would be charged with the cost of moving the non-working members of the family, the bill still requires that this cost be deducted from the farmer's $15 per worker. This included transportation, feeding, housing and medical care for the worker and his family.

Q: Where will these workers and their families be housed while they are working?
 A: There is no provision in the proposed law for requiring of housing for these workers. However, the law grants the Secretary the right to issue any regulations he wishes under the law and it says that no farmer may use these work gangs unless he complies with all the rules and regulations. Therefore, the Secretary could require the farmer to supply housing before he gets workers.

Q: Who would pay for such housing?
 A: The farmer. He might be offered government-insured loans to finance the housing.

Q: How about returning the workers after the harvest?
 A: The law would require the farmer to pay transportation costs of the worker back to the concentration center. Costs of transportation from the center back to the worker's home, in theory, would come from the $15 recruiting fee. However, the law does not require the worker to return to his point of origin. He might easily decide to stay in the area of any job, particularly if weather, housing and welfare opportunities were attractive.

Q: Who sets the wages for the workers employed under this system?
 A: Once again theory differs with practice. In theory, the wages would be determined by the negotiations between worker and employer at the time the contract was signed. The Department of Labor would have to approve the contract, however, and through this means could establish minimum wages just as it is attempting to do through the use of the foreign labor program.

Q: What about insurance for the worker?
 A: The employer must supply, and pay for, workmen's compensation insurance for each worker.

Q: What happens in a labor dispute?
 A: The proposed law says that no worker will be placed in a job "which will aid directly or indirectly in filling a job which (1) is vacant because the former occupant is on strike or is locked out in the course of a labor dispute, or (2) is an issue in a labor dispute". In recent years, the Department of Labor has assumed unprecedented authority in this field, and, under this proposal, the Secretary would have the sole right to determine who would be eligible for workers and who would not. He also would be the final authority in determining a labor dispute.

Q: Is it mandatory for farmers to use these workers?
 A: The backers of the scheme say no. But, it is pointed out that nearly all farmers use the farm placement service of the employment service. With the Secretary's unlimited power to write regulations—if the program did not appear to be succeeding, he could require all farmers to use his work gangs before the farmer could make use of the farm placement service.

Q: How about workers, are they required to use the program?
 A: Once again, this is supposed to be voluntary, but the Secretary's rule-writing power would permit him to require industrial workers to accept these out-of-state farm jobs in order to qualify for his unemployment insurance benefits.

"This year I planted 160 acres of P. A. G. 515 which produced the highest average yield per acre in my 25 years of farming. I averaged 6,875 pounds of combined grain per acre with 3 waterings on the 160 acres. I also liked the P. A. G. 515 because it matured quickly and standability was good. The bushel weight was above average and the heads threshed easy and clean, with very little grain being cracked. I'm going to plant P. A. G. again this coming year."

RR Commission Protects Public Ramsey Says

Lower prices paid by Texas consumers for petroleum products point up that our state is traditionally and consistently ahead of others in safeguarding the rights of its people, Railroad Commissioner Ben Ramsey said in Austin last week. Ramsey, appointed to the Railroad Commission last September, is a candidate for the unexpired term of the late Commissioner Olin Cluberson.

What Leads To Auditing Tax Returns Told

Whose tax returns are audited? There's no hard and fast rule, according to Changing Times, the Kiplinger Magazine, but there are some factors that constitute a general pattern. An article in the current issue of the magazine states that most returns showing an income over $30,000 will be audited — that is, the taxpayer will be asked to account for all or part of the statements in his return. In addition, from 25 percent to 50 percent of returns showing an income of $10,000 to $30,000 will be audited, with "the odds . . . closer to 50-50 if you itemize deductions."

The likelihood of an audit in lower brackets, though small, is growing every year as more agents are hired and electronic machines come into use, Changing Times reports. Other things that increase the chances are: big amounts of income on which taxes are not withheld, such as incomes of doctors, lawyers, farmers, cab drivers or proprietors; deductions running far above average for the taxpayer's income bracket; unusual transactions or unexplained items; a large refund claim, especially over $200; almost any claim for a refund on a previous year's income tax return; a sloppy or illegible return; a large expense account deduction, especially for travel and entertainment of customers.

Changing Times points out that avoiding an audit by careful preparation of returns will save time and money. "But," the magazine advises, "don't overpay your taxes just to avoid a fight. There's plenty of room to argue over how much taxes you owe, and that's what an audit is for."

RETURNS HOME

Mr. and Mrs. C.S. Silcott returned home Thursday from a months vacation in Hawaii. On the return trip they visited in California and Arizona.

VISIT PARENTS

Mrs. Ruth Gautier of Lubbock spent the weekend in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L.S. Kennedy.

Corvair 95—only pickup with side-loading ramp.

Fleetside pickup—most popular Chevrolet truck.

Depend on it to give you an honest day's work for a long, long time and not cost much to run or keep up. It's a Chevrolet.

Trucks aren't all alike. This Chevrolet has double-wall roof, doors and side panels. It has suspension that helps it last longer by reducing road shock. It has a non-skid wood body floor. It has as tough a tailgate as you'll find. It has an all-welded frame made of high-quality steel. Most important, it has a name everybody respects because they know it stands for quality. When you make up your mind to buy, get this one. We know you'll be happy with it. HAVE YOU LOOKED INTO CAMPER BODIES? This is a fine way to enjoy the outdoors comfortably and at low cost. Many Chevrolet dealers are showing camper units now. Drop by and investigate this great way to make a truck do double duty. A strong Chevrolet is your best bet for work or play.
