Smith explained that the unique car contains two closed circuit TV cameras, one on each side plus the latest graph equipment to check the rails for defects, which are recorded automatically and marked in order that crews can replace or repair the defective spots.

Bloodmobile To Visit Here August 29

Blood Services of the American Red Cross does not need blood. Patients need blood. These patients covered by the Red River Region are residents of the 28 counties in Texas and Oklahoma where bloodmobiles from the Blood

Whether the blood is needed because of an accident, surgery, a bleeding ulcer, or whatever the reason, blood must be available for patients when they need it. This is why it is necessary to have a continuous, predictable supply of blood coming into the Red

The communities in these covered counties participate in the overall effort of providing this blood.

The Bloodmobile will be in Knox City, for its regular visit according to Mrs. Doris Crownover, blood services chairman. The Bloodmobile will be set up in the First United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall from 2:00 to 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, August 29.

Mrs. Crownover has announced the Knox City Bloodmobile goal at 82 units is part of the overall effort to

Ferguson Rites Held Wednesday

Funeral services for longtime Knox City resident Dovie Ferguson were held Wednesday morning, August 22, at ten-thirty o'clock in the First Baptist Church. The Rev. Gene Throckmorton of Lubbock and the Rev. John Gillispie, church pastor, officiated. Burial was in the Knox City Cemetery with Smith Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Ferguson died Monday, August 20, at 3:15 p.m. in the Knox County Hospital following a brief illness.

Born in Franklin County, she was the daughter of the late R.H. and Elizabeth Sanders. She married Sam Ferguson on November 1, 1930, in Walters, Oklahoma. The couple moved to O'Brien and later to Knox City. Mrs. Ferguson was a member of the First Baptist Church.

Survivors include her husband, Sam of Knox City; a daughter, Mrs. John R. (Estelle) Rayburn of Munday; a sister, Mrs. Ellie Mae Boggs of Seagraves; a brother, Leonard Sanders of San Antonio; four grandchildren and seven greatgrandchildren.

She was preceded in death by a daughter, Reba Williams

Greyhound Scrimmage Set Friday

Local football fans will receive a "sneak preview" of the Greyhound football teams in action Friday afternoon beginning at six o'clock when the first scrimmage of the season gets underway with Holliday at Greyhound

According to Coach Jimmy Rogers, the teams will play in four phases with the freshmen beginning the first phase followed by the varsity, the junior varsity and concluding with another varsity phase.

Next Friday night, August 31, the Hounds will travel to Jayton for their second scrimmage before their September 7 season opener with Rule here.

Early Childhood Classes Set

Early childhood classes will begin Monday, August 27, for all children in the school district who will be ages three and four by September 1.

During the first two weeks of school, August 27 through September 7, early childhood classes will meet daily from 9:30 to 11:30 in the primary wing of the elementary school campus. Parents are urged to set an appointment with the school secretary at 658-3521 during this week to have preschoolers screened who have not been enrolled in the early childhood program. The screening process takes approximately 30 minutes and is an initial requirement for the program. Children who attended last year will not be screened again this year.

As in previous years, those children qualifying for the program may receive home visits and on campus classes. Pre-schoolers who do not qualify for the early childhood program may still attend the class one day a

This will be the ninth year that early childhood classes have been offered in the local school district with Knox City being one of the five pilot programs set up in the state.

Funeral services for former Knox City resident Jake McReynolds of Dallas were held Saturday morning, August 18, at ten o'clock in the Church of Christ in Knox City with Travis Boyd, minister, officiating. Burial was in the Knox City Cemetery with Smith Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Mr. McReynolds, 78, died Wednesday morning, August 15, at nine o'clock, in the Oak Cliff Medical Center in Dallas following a lengthy illness.

Born October 6, 1901, in Rule, he married Iva Felton in 1921 in Rule. She preceded her husband in death on March 8, 1962, in Dallas. Mr. McReynolds moved to Dallas from Knox City in 1950. He was a retired farmer and a member of the Church of Christ.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Coker of Dallas and Mrs. Ruth Hooker of Houston; a brother, Hollis McReynolds of Haskell; three sisters, Mrs. Gladys Day of Knox City, Mrs. Maud Smith of Sweetwater and Mrs. Ola Weathers of Clyde; ten grandchildren and eight greatgrandchildren.

Pallbearers were Roy Carver, Gentry Day, Otho Poe, Orval Manning, Buster Hodges, and Lewis Kay.

Houston, Man Sentenced To SS Charge

A Houston man has been sentenced in Federal court in Corpus Christi, for defrauding the Social Security Administration.

Reid B. Frost was sentenced Monday by U.S. Magistrate Philip A. Schraub, according to James Harper, manager of the Vernon Social Security office.

Frost pled guilty to a charge of falsely stating to the Social Security District office in Corpus Christi that he was not working, in order to receive Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits.

Frost was sentenced to a six-month suspended prison term, one year of supervised probation, a $500 fine, and was ordered to repay the $3,160 he illegally received.

SSI is a program which provides cash assistance to the needy who are 65 or over, blind, or disabled.

"It is our duty to help the needy for whom the program was designed," Harper said, "but SSI should not go to those not in need. We will continue to seek out and prosecute those who fradulently try to get money to which they are not en-

The Frost case was developed by a unit of fulltime investigators who are assigned the job of uncovering SSI and Social Security fraud in the fivestate Dallas region.

Local's Kin Is Buried Monday

Funeral services for Della Baldwin of 2458 Merchant in Abilene, sister of Mrs. Maggie Cagle of Knox City, were held Monday afternoon, August 20, at two o'clock in Elliott-Hamil Funeral Home Chapel of Memories in Abilene. Dr. Elbert Peak, pastor of Faith Baptist Church, officiated and burial was in Elmwood Memorial Park.

Mrs. Baldwin, 85, died Friday, August 17, at 5:10 a.m. in a nursing home following a lengthy illness.

Born November 30, 1893, in Aurora, she married Alfred A. Baldwin on April 4, 1913, in Boyd. She was a housewife and moved to Abilene from Wise County in 1926. Mrs. Baldwin was a member of Faith Baptist Church. Her husband preceded her in death in 1971.

Survivors include three daughters, Winnie Krempin and Ollie Yarbro, both of Abilene, and Magdalene Douglas of Austin; a son, Andrew J. of Vernon; two brothers, Willie Byrom of Fort Worth and Floyd Byrom of Springtown; a sister, Mrs. Cagle of Knox City; 12 grandchildren and 11 greatgrandchildren.

State Employees May Qualify For Stamps

AUSTIN - State Comptroller Bob Bullock Wednesday said that more than 100,000 state employees live on the fringe of qualifying for food stamps.

"Payroll records show that nearly 60 percent of all state employees may be candidates for food stamps," Bullock said.

He said, "These folks who are just a foot away from food stamps represent every kind of state job from carrying bedpans for our relatives in state hospitals to cooking for our kids in college cafeterias to guarding our criminals in prison."

Bullock said his figures came from the actual May payroll when the average gross monthly salary was $963 for 81,000 classified employees, $882 for 8,500 hourly employees and $769 for 30,000 non-academic college em-Looking at it from another

PICNICPICKINS

Fire Department News

By ROB HARRISON

The members and families of the Fire Department expressed their thanks to David Counts for hosting a family picnic Sunday, August 19. The group enjoyed hamburgers, soft drinks, and all the trimmings of cake and ice cream. Afterwards everyone complained of being stuffed but happy. Once again, our hearty thanks to David for the fantastic get-together.

While at A&M Fire Training School, there were many different types of techniques in firefighting taught. Among these was a technique of using less water to extinguish a fire.

We were told in a majority of house fires the largest percentage of damage to households and their furnishings is done by water. The old method of firefighting was to go into a house with a straight nozzle and wash everything from the front of the house out the back door and try to put the fire out at the same time.

There are two methods used in fire extinguishment. the direct method and the indirect method. The direct method basically means putting water directly on the base of the fire, which is mentioned above.

The newer method, which has been in use around six years, is the indirect method.

In an enclosed room, where there is no ventilation (manmade, a window or the fire burning through to the outside), the indirect method can extinguish a room size fire using less than five gallons of water.

For example at A&M the facilities we used were made to represent (actually was) a three-story apartment type housing structure. Each floor, including a basement and an attic were arranged completely different from the others. Each room had double bunk beds (steel, no mattresses) that were covered with hay. The hay was soaked with several types of heavy fuels, diesel, kerosene, etc., then ignited. In each situation, the firemen involved had to enter the complex after the fire was started, which was made to represent the fact that the fire had been burning for some time prior to arrival at the fire scene. (Craig and I were lucky, we got the third story. By the time we walked up three flights of stairs, above this whole complex on fire, it was plenty hot.) Upon entry we situated ourselves on the opposite side of the room from the fire. In nearly all cases, the firemen had to pass within three or four feet of the burning material. Once in position with a 45° fog pattern from a 11/2" hose, a short burst of water is released less than five seconds, the fire would be snuffed out.

This is done by directing the stream at the ceiling, yes, the ceiling. As the fire is in the full burning phase of combustion, having been burning less than ten minutes, the temperature at the ceiling is between 1500 and 2500°F. As the fog stream hits this super-heated atmosphere, the water converts to steam at a ratio of 1 to 1700. This means 1700 gallons of steam is produced for every one gallon of water applied, assuming an 80° conversion rate. When water hits this hot atmosphere and the steam is produced, and steam being heavier than air, the steam falls and blankets the fire and smothers it out. Afterward a mop-up operation was necessary to put out the smoldering fires that were left. The indirect method allows for the use of less water thereby reducing water damage and will also give the firemen the opportunity to move to another room and repeat the indirect method without the previous rooms reigniting before they can return to complete the mop-up operation.

Referring back to this apartment complex, this facility was used to simulate 27 different fire situations, not only house fires, but commercial business as well.

After each fire was extinguished the rooms were ejected of smoke by spraying a fog pattern out of a window. This created a vacuum and pulled the smoke outside. All water was sprayed outside the house and no water was hitting the inside of the rooms. So the water damage is very limited and the smoke damage will also be reduced.

A small one level cottage style house was used in the same way; however, an attached garage, with a car was used to teach the method of extinguishing a car within an enclosed space.

The car was saturated with these same types of heavy fuels and straw. There was approximately 3 ft. clearance on the sides and in front. The firemen moved along each side and to the front and used the direct method to extinguish the blaze.

It was very impressive how these different fires posed such dangerous situations, through proper techniques and instruction, the risk was reduced almost to nothing. No persons in our section were injured by any of these fires. The only related accident was when a fireman slipped on a stairway which had wet hay on it. The injury was to his knee, but

As we stated last week, we hope we don't have to use any these methods of firefighting, but if we do, we hope they can be used properly and the maximum benefit derived, with minimum danger to the Safety being the byword at training school in all situations we were in involving fire and smoke, the firemen were clothed by a complete suit of protective gear and self-contained breathing apparatuses. When we speak of protective gear, we mean fire-proof coats, hip boots with steel soles and toes, helmets with face protectors and some type of flame retardant gloves.

I hope you enjoy these articles on the Texas Firemen's Training School, as much as we did participating in the school. It was hard work, but well worth it.

our next article, hope you will join us then.

Worcestered Brush-On For Grilled Fish

Seasoning fish is one of the fine arts of the kitchenindoors or out - but it needn't be difficult or time consuming. Original Worcestershire is a handy all-seasoner for barbecued meats and poultry and fish is no exception. Here trout are brushed inside and out with a delicious mixture of Worcestershire, oil, lemon juice, and onion and garlic powder. Then they're grilled quickly, five minutes or so on each side. (Remember-overcooking makes fish dry.) If your cookout gets rained out, just bring the fish and sauce inside and use your kitchen broiler.

SAVORY GRILLED FISH

1/4 cup salad oil

1 tablespoon onion powder

1 teaspoon salt 1/8 teaspoon garlic powder

2-1/2 tablespoons original Worcestershire sauce 4 teaspoons lemon juice

4 small fish (about 10 oz. each), cleaned (such as trout, perch, etc.)

In a small bowl combine oil, onion powder, salt, garlic powder, Worcestershire sauce and lemon juice. Brush fish inside and out with mixture. Place on an oiled grill 6 inches from hot coals. Grill 5 minutes; turn over and brush with remaining seasoned oil mixture. Grill until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork, about 3 minutes. Or, preheat broiler to hot. Brush fish inside and out with oil mixture. Place on a foil-lined baking pan. Broil 6 inches from heat source for 5 minutes. Turn over. brush with remaining oil mixture. Broil until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork, about 3 minutes. Place on a platter. Garnish with lemon wedges, if desired.

When bollworms or tobacco budworms infest your cotton fields there's no time for half way control measures. That's why thousands of growers rely on a new insecticide AMBUSH for dependable control

AMBUSH insecticide is applied only when insect pressure begins to build up. So you must check your fields on a regular basis. As you know, each area will vary by climate, soil type, type cotton seed variety—so check with our representative in your area, he will give you instructions on the best method of application for your particular cotton

Here are some of the important advantages you get with AMBUSH insecticide: effective control of budworms and bollworms, healthier plants, earlier maturity and bigger yields. Don't delay, order your

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Smith. One of the class members, Mrs. Reba (Turner) Fergerson of Santa Fe, New Mexico, was in Knox City visiting her sister, Mrs. Zell Park, and Mrs. Smith called all of the area members and invited them to meet in their home.

Out of the 11 graduates, six live in the surrounding area. Those present, in addition to Mrs. Fergerson, were Mrs. Ernie (Whitten) Bryant of O'Brien, Mrs. Lorena (Deering) Burnison of Munday, Mrs. Wilma (Messer) Whitford and Mrs. Mary Alice (Milford) Thompson, both of Knox City. The only boy in the graduating class was John A. Smith.

Several members brought old class pictures and during the reminiscing were able to account for the remaining out of town graduates including Lorena (Reese) Curry of Lubbock, Thelma (Simmons) Pace of Boonville, Arkansas; Millie (Reynolds) Ray of Modesto, California; Ruby (Gilliland) Tribble of Houston, Silva (Thompson) Favor of Liberty, and Bessie (Ferguson) Montandon of Memories brought back included having a class play and having to "borrow" Harold Martin and George Tillinghast from another class as well as using the sponsor-teacher, Charles Chamberlain. Ernie Whitten was valedictorian and Mrs. Thompson was salutatorian of the graduating class.

Guests enjoyed delicious sandwiches, nuts, cake, cof-
