Now you can just call him "coach." Jeremy Holt began his coaching career with Amherst on the field of his alma mater last Friday night. As I recall Jeremy as he was growing up, I think he played everything that was going on and played it with a lot of heart. I think he will be coaching with a lot of heart!

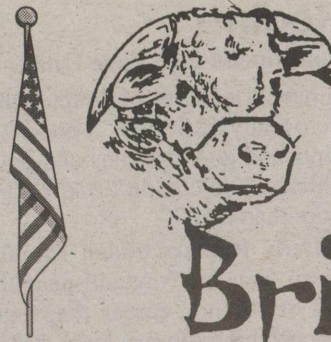

When Motley County played the Owls here, one of the Mators' touchdowns was scored by Colton Russell, who is the son of the former D'anna Smith, granddaughter of Lottie Garrison.

Jonnie Weaver and her children are very appreciative of Phillip, Manuel and all employees of Days Inn on Coulter in Amarillo, who were so gracious and helpful in recovering the late Shafe Weaver's diamond wedding band which accidentally was dropped in the drain there. The motel employees took the sink drain apart to find the ring and return it to Jonnie.

Harley Redin Selected For Texas Sports Hall of Fame

Harley Redin

Before West Texas had the Texas Tech Lady Raiders to grab onto, there were the Hutcherson Flying Queens of Wayland Baptist who served as trailblazers for women's basketball.

As far back as the 1950's, some of the best women's hoops was played on the South Plains. Now, 85-year-old Harley Redin, one of the architects who helped build the Flying Queens into a powerhouse, will be recognized in February with induction into the Texas Sports Hall of Fame.

"It's a big honor, mainly because of the people that are in there, the ones that have been selected before," Redin said from his home in Plainview. "It encompasses all sports, not just basketball. It's quite an honor for me."

Redin coached the Wayland Baptist men's team from 1946 to 1957. From 1958 to 1973 he coached the Flying Queens to a 431-66 record, winning six AAU national championships. He coached 36 athletes to 65 All-America awards.

Previously, Redin has been named by Sports Illustrated as one of the 50 greatest sports figures from Texas. In 1999, he was a charter inductee into the Women's Basketball Hall of Fame in Knoxville, Tennessee.

"I was fortunate to be in this situation where we had the administration at Wayland and sponsors that helped tremendously with the expenses of flying to games," Redin said, "and we were fortunate to have a number of athletes that were really dedicated . . . good students and good citizens and good athletes. You couldn't ask for any more than that."

J. Ivory ran for another first down. Forbes carried the touchdown with 7:49 still to be played in the first quarter. The PAT kick hit the goal post and bounced out, to give the Owls a lead of 6-0.

Two plays after the Owls kicked off to Amherst, the Owls got the ball back on a fumble on the Amherst 30. Two plays later, Forbes carried into the endzone. The PAT failed, and the Owls held a 12-0 lead.

Lady Raiders coach Marsha Sharp went to Wayland near the end of Redin's career there and coached his freshman team during her junior year. Sharp called Redin tember 19. It's called 40 Days of Purpose and it will answer the most important question of life: "What on earth am I here for?"

This study is based on the New York Times best seller, Purpose Driven Life, which gives a deeper understanding of God's purposes for our lives. The study includes meeting with a small group one time during the week in homes throughout Silverton and the services at the Silverton United Methodist Church on Sunday. Everyone is welcome to attend any or all of the services offered. Everyone attending will receive a copy of the book Purpose Driven Life to keep. This 40 Days of Purpose campaign is a nationwide event. Thousands of churches across the nation, of all denominations, will be participating in this at the same time.

Come be a part of this life-changing experience and learn the answer to the question, "What on earth am I here for?" It all begins Sunday, September 19, at 9:30 a.m. with a big breakfast at the Silverton United Methodist Church followed by the service at 10:15 a.m. Come and see what God has in store for YOU!

For more information, call the Methodist Church at 823-2140.

"one of the most important figures in the history of women's basketball."

"He had a vision for women's basketball that no one in his generation had," Sharp said.

For much of Redin's era, girls and women used six players at a time in what was called a "rover game." But two players were limited to playing defense on one end, two were designated to play offense on the other end and only two "rovers" went back-and-forth.

Sitting on AAU and Olympic rules committees, Redin pushed for American women to play the same five-on-five full-court game that they encountered in international play.

"I thought we needed to get with the rest of the world," Redin said. "You know how coaches are: they don't like to change rules. I was about the only one for it for a long time."

Sharp said because of Redin's support for five-on-five play, "he took women's basketball to a whole different level."

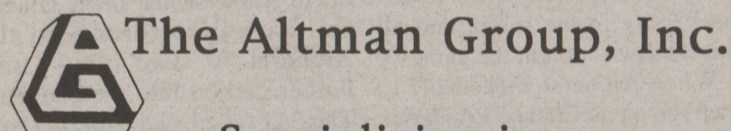

The Flying Queens put together a 131-game winning streak from 1954-57 with Redin being head coach for about the last 75 of those games, he said.

He also coached the United States to Pan American Games titles in 1959 in Chicago and in 1971 at Cali, Colombia.

Asked the whereabouts of his gold medals, Redin replied, "In a drawer here somewhere."

Redin said he and his wife still attend games at Plainview High School and Wayland and see "just about all" the Tech men's and women's games as season-ticket holders.

"As long as we're able to do that," he said.

"Money Talk"

It was at the U. S. Treasury. Bags of old, worn-out bills were returned. A $1 bill and a $20 bill in the same sack started talking.

"Gee, I went to nice stores, good restaurants, country clubs and even around the world," the $20 bill said. "How about you?"

The $1 bill groaned, "All I ever did was go to church, go to church, go to church." (Alex Thein)

TRAIL BUILDING TRAINEES EXCEED EXPECTATIONS

by Lynnette Barefield

"We got more accomplished than I expected for this weekend," said Ryan Spates, Trail Doctor for the Texas Bicycle Coalition, an organization that is based in the Austin area.

Spates and his partner, Susan Stormer, PhD, were in the Quitaque area this past week to train anyone interested in learning to build quality sustainable trails. Although Spates and Stormer are avid bikers, their training applies to equestrian and hiking trails, as well.

Gage is Featured Speaker At Go Tell Greenbelt Crusade

Former college football coach Rick Gage has a challenging message for today's youth and adults. He will be the featured speaker at the Go Tell Greenbelt Crusade scheduled for September 19-22 at 7:00 p.m. each night in Bronco Stadium, in Clarendon, Texas. The crusade will kick-off on Saturday, September 18, with a pre-crusade youth rally at 7:00 p.m. in Bronco Stadium. This event will feature the musical group Ornan's Floor, together with Youth Communicator Jay Lowder from Wichita Falls, Texas. The crusade will conclude Wednesday evening, September 22, at 7:00 p.m., preceded by a FREE Pizza Party for students beginning at 6:00 p.m. in Bronco Stadium.

On Saturday morning the Trail Doctors began at First National Bank's community room by using a Power Point presentation to teach the basic skills necessary to plan and implement successful trail building.

After lunch at Pole Canyon Guest House on the Walter Ranch southwest of Quitaque, Spates and Stormer demonstrated proper use of trail building tools--the clinometer, the Pulaski and the McLeod.

A clinometer (or inclinometer) measures the slope of the land. There are basic rules to follow that keep erosion to a minimum. Subtle changes in the slope of the trail, along with slight changes of direction, give the trail a desirable "rhythm."

The Pulaski and McLeod are both firefighters' tools that are useful in proper trail building. The Pulaski is two tools in one--a mattock and a cutting tool. The McLeod is also a combination tool--a 10-inch hoe and rake. Both tools are used to clear the new trail bed. Just as snow skiing trails are designed for varying skill levels, recreational trails are planned for many levels of skill.

About 700 feet of an easy trail was completed, with about the same distance marked for clearing.

A trail for the intermediate trail user was marked further up the hillside. Clearing and finishing work on that trail will be completed at a later time.

Following an early Sunday-morning time of devotion at the ranch led by Pastor Jeff Addison of First Baptist Church in Quitaque, newly-acquired skills were fine-tuned by the Trail Doctors. After a leisurely lunch in Pole Canyon Guest House, training was completed.

Admission to Bronco Stadium is FREE and entitles everyone to hear Rick Gage and other nationally known speakers--Rick Stanley (Elvis Presley's stepbrother) and Paul Luchsinger (professional rodeo steer wrestler) and his wife, Susie Luchsinger (Reba McEntire's sister). Chuck Sullivan and the Go Tell Praise Band will lead music during the crusade, and a community choir will perform special music Sunday night.

Rick Gage, founder of Go Tell Ministries, has spoken to more than two million students throughout the country and internationally, challenging them to live a drug and alcohol-free life. He was a former assistant football coach at West Texas State, Texas Tech and Liberty Universities. He walked away from a promising college coaching career to work with young people in a far greater game where wins and losses have eternal consequences. Gage has written a book about his life story and coaching career entitled, The Coach. It is endorsed by Bobby Bowden,

Florida State Coach, and Tom Landry, the late NFL Hall of Fame and Dallas Cowboys Coach. In the book's foreword, Landry stated, "Rick is on the cutting edge of the pressures confronting our young people."

On Monday night, Paul and Susie Luchsinger will share their musical talents and stories of country music, professional rodeo steer wrestling, singing with sister, Reba McEntire, surviving domestic abuse, and the healing of an abusive marriage. On Tuesday night, Rick Stanley will share his story of moving into Graceland when he was six years old and becoming immersed with Elvis' lifestyle, later serving as his personal assistant and bodyguard. Rick has appeared on "Good Morning America," "Regis and Kathie Lee," "20/20" and "Larry King Live," and is available for an extraordinary interview.
