LEGION PROTESTS STAND TAKEN BY WTCC ON PAYMENT OF SOLDIER'S BONUS

Members of Eugene Bell Post No. 82, American Legion, met in a called session Wednesday night to take action on the published stand of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in opposing payment of the soldiers bonus. This action being taken following the publication in the daily press Wednesday of a letter from the officials of the regional Chamber, which is in part:

"The government's budget, not yet appropriated for, is over four billion dollars, while our present revenues are estimated at two billion. This does not include the soldiers bonus which is being agitated and which is bonus. This action being taken in spite of the plight of the tax payers, and the necessity of balancing our budget.

"The only way to cut out the federal budget and stop the soldiers bonus is through congress. Let's do our part and let congress know what we think"

The letter, sent to all local tax committees of the WTCC, was signed by C. N. Bassett, El Paso, chairman of the public expenditures and taxation committee, and Van Zandt Jarvis, Ft. Worth, vice-chairman.

The following protest against the action of the WTCC was unanimously adopted at the meeting which was presided over by Clyde White, commander of the post:

"The West Texas Chamber of Commerce wins first prize in expressing their appreciation to the Ex-service men for services during the World War. We are of the opinion that the West Texas Chamber of Commerce could be of greater service than that of opposing the efforts of Ex-service men who are trying to collect an admitted compensation, justly due them.

We furthermore challenge the action of the committee on public expenditures and taxation in expressing the opinion of the majority of the members of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce on this particular question.

A large per centage of the support of local Chambers of Commerce comes from Ex-service men. Does the West Texas Chamber of Commerce desire the continued support of these smaller organizations or do they prefer to weed them out?

Statistics furnished by prominent Senators and Congressmen show the payment of the compensation at this time is an economic move and will not increase taxes.

Therefore we urgently request the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to support the payment of the Soldiers Compensation in full at this time."

JAMES C. ASBURY

Copies of the protest will be sent to Earl V. Earp, of Sweetwater, state commander of the American Legion, also to WTCC managers and the public Expenditures and Taxation Committee.

The stand taken by the WTCC on this matter has caused considerable comment and will no doubt be helpful to every small town Chamber of Commerce.

The payment of this debt to the soldiers at this time would be of great benefit for many ex-service men in West Texas are in need of the money which would come from the payment of the bonus. Many ex-soldiers and their families are in actual need due to the financial conditions and this money would help them through this emergency and in addition to helping them would be a big factor in boosting the circulation of money in this section. The payment of the bonus would bring $209,929.70 to the ex-service men in Callahan county alone.

An article in the current issue of the local Legion paper, arguing for the payment, asserted that it would mean the circulation in Texas of a sum totalling $95,655,800. Stating that this would increase the per capita circulation in the state by $16, the article said this would help end the depression; and that "this in itself is enough to justify the payment."

Ex-Service Men

Texas daily papers under date of March 23rd, carried a statement from the Expenditure and Taxation Committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, as follows:

"The only way to cut the federal budget and stop the soldier's bonus is through Congress. Let's do our part and let Congress know what we think.

The protest of the American Legion printed elsewhere in this paper was adopted as a resolution of this stand of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Ex-service men now know that if they collect a debt that has long been due them, they must fight not only the capitalistic crowd that has always opposed government help for anyone except the big fellows, but also the W. T. C. C., as this organization through its committee is now outspoken against us. Why the W. T. C. C. takes this attitude is difficult for ex-service men to understand since it has been to an extent supported by the very group it now opposes.

We think that the high pressure type of advertising and promotion on the part of our former friends, the W. T. C. C., is partly responsible for a number of hotels and other businesses in West Texas, that are now bankrupt and in the hands of receivers, and when we reflect upon this we wonder where that patriotic idea of cutting down expenses has been hidden so long, and why should patriotic little fellows in the financial world as represented by former service men be expected to always be the one to take a cut in pay, or to do without wages that have been admittedly due him for thirteen years.

Boys the Committee of the W. T. C. C. is asking for letters to Congressmen and Senators to fight the payment of the so called bonus, so let's use their own ammunition and write our representatives and senators, and have our friends to do so, as we don't believe that this group which has been supported by West Texas represents the sentiment of West Texas or anywhere else in this matter. Since we have more opposition lets count noses, find out our friends, and all work harder and see if we cannot cause the W. T. C. C., to lose this one fight.

Yours truly,

W. C. WHITE

Rodeo Thrill Are Recited By Uncle Bash To Folks At Home

Uncle Bash Massey, Texas' oldest active cowboy, who was honor guest at the recent Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, was the subject of a two column interview in the Floyd County Hesperian, Floydada, when he returned to his home county.

The dean of cowboys told the folks back home all about the thrills of riding a "pretty tough horse" when introduced at the Rodeo and snorted "Shoot, yes, I could a rodee Midnight if I'd wanted to."

He was still wearing the bronze badge which told the world that he was honorary vice-president of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show and reporters found him still willing to tell about the "to do they made over me" in Ft. Worth. He told about his ride on the Cadillac car as excitedly as he recounted the stories about bad broncs.

Mrs. Massey, "good lady" of the TM Bar Ranch in which the 84-year old Uncle Bash still works, told the home folks that festivities in Fort Worth were for the men but that by following them around she "got in on the good things."

Mrs. Massey met her brother, J. M. Burcham of Ft. Worth for the first time in 19 years, at the same time Uncle Bash was renewing acquaintances with old cowboys he had known from 25 to 50 years before. The cowboys oldest friend, refound in Ft. Worth was Ben Engleman of Okla., whom he had not seen since the time they drive 1,800 head of cattle from Greenville up through Indian Territory to Colorado, 50 years ago.

Election Of School Trustees

The election of School Trustees for Baird Independent School District, will be held at the City Hall in Baird, April 2, 1932.

Anyone who desire to have their name placed on the ballot will be required to hand same in writing to the President or Secretary of the School Board not later than 5 o'clock P. M. Thursday, March 31, 1932, as the ballots will have to be printed on Friday.

There will be 4 trustees to be elected at this time.

The Sick

Uncle Jack Estes is reported quite ill with pneumonia.

A little son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chatham, who have been quite ill are reported improving.

Mrs. Callie Marshall, our efficient district clerk, who has been confined to her home by illness for several days is able to be up again and hopes to be back in her office to-day.

Fred Estes, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Estes, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia the past week, was reported some what improved yesterday evening. His aunt, Mrs. P. C. Caylor, of Fort Worth, came out Wednesday to assist in nursing him.

Joe McGowen, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Griggs Hospital some two weeks ago is convalescing and was removed to his home last Sunday. Mr. McGowen will go to the Texas & Pacific Hospital at Marshall later for treatment, we are informed.

Special Chevrolet Service Campaign

A special service campaign of interest to the more than 4,000,000 Chevrolet owners in the United States is to be launched on a national scale by Chevrolet dealers beginning March 28, M. D. Douglass, general parts and service manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, announced here today.

Designed to improve the operation and appearance of cars now in owners hands, the campaign will have the further effect of adding to the safety of the highways by insuring against any possible mechanical defects in those cars serviced during the campaign, Mr. Douglass pointed out.

Some vital operation, ranging from brake adjustments to wheel alignment and complete tightening of every part of the chassis, is to be offered by the dealers at sizable reductions from the flat rate charge, for a period of one week only during the campaign. Ten such featured services, all having to do with appearance and performance, are in the campaign, which extends over a period of ten weeks.

National newspaper advertising, as well as special newspaper campaigns for the dealer's local use, are to publicize the event and the featured services each week. Radio announcements on a national and local scale also are to be used.

Mr. Douglass pointed out that the special rates during the campaign will induce many people, who otherwise might not have their car serviced, to check at least vital points pertaining to performance before they get out on the highways during the heavy motor ing season.

BILLY'S UNCLE

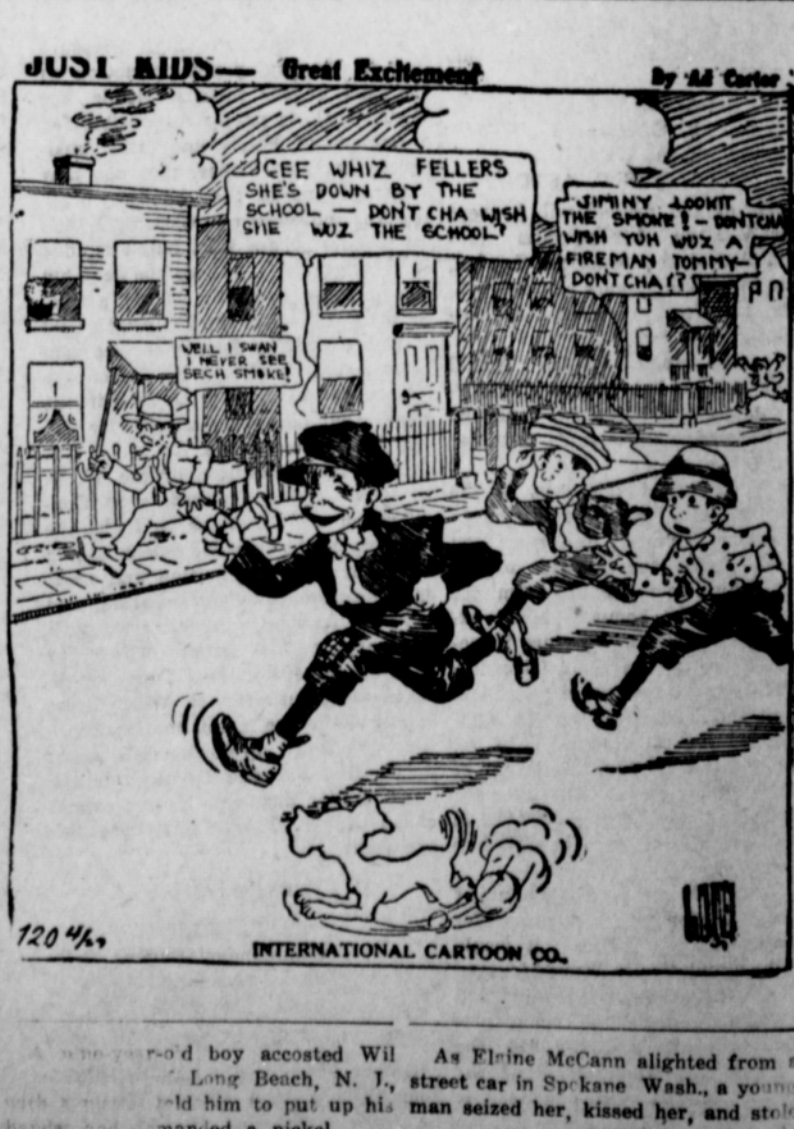

This Week in Washington Special To The Baird Star (Autocaster) Washington, D. The most far-reaching angle of the new tax bill, however, will be the sales tax, tentatively set at 2 1/2 percent, which will cover every kind of manufactured goods except certain classes of foodstuffs, religious and educational articles and books, newspapers and magazines, farm and garden products, seeds and fertilizers.

Test Vote in House Encourages Wets—Sales Tax Meets Strong Opposition—Two Famous Men Take Their Own Lives.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

WET leaders in congress, greatly encouraged by the test vote in the house, have started a vigorous campaign to compel the major parties to place in their platforms planks declaring for resubmission of the prohibition question to the people. The motion before the house was to discharge the judiciary committee from jurisdiction over the Beck-Linthicum resolution for amendment of the Eighteenth amendment, which had been defeated in the committee by a vote of 14 to 6. The test vote was forced under the liberalized rules by 145 petitioners.

On call of the roll, 227 members voted against the motion, 187 for it, and there were 18 not voting. Following the custom, Speaker Garner did not vote. The strength shown by the wets was greater even than many of them had expected and they were correspondingly jubilant. Their cause had gained 50 votes since the house voted December 17, 1917, to submit the Eighteenth amendment.

Beck and Linthicum, co-authors of the resolution, declared the fight was all but won and that all that was needed was one more election. Mr. Beck said: "This vote makes it plain that if the Republican party adopts a dry platform in June it will court disaster." He predicted it would not be necessary to wait for the meeting of the next congress for action to modify the dry law, believing that this congress at the session next winter, as a direct result of the November election, will submit the anti-prohibition amendment.

Leaders of the dries, for their part, though admitting wet gains, declared they were undismayed, calling attention to the fact that the wets were still far from having the necessary two-thirds majority.

Both sides, in the Republican party, have been hoping that President Hoover would declare himself, but there was nothing to indicate that he would depart from his neutrality in the pre-convention contest. A close associate of the President was quoted as saying Mr. Hoover has not changed his belief that the country is still preponderantly dry.

Representative Fred Britten of Illinois introduced in the house a bill for repeal of the Jones "five and ten" law which stiffened the penalties for violation of the Volstead act.

DEBATE on the billion dollar revenue bill continued in the house throughout the week, and the opponents of the sales tax sought to form themselves into a bloc. Their determined fight against this big feature of the measure at least resulted in changes, for the ways and means committee agreed to accept an amendment omitting certain canned goods and press telegrams from the list of articles upon which a 2.25 per cent sales tax is proposed. The committee also was considering amendments exempting cheap clothing, electricity used for irrigation projects and radio company leased wires.

Prospects for adoption of the sales tax were lessened in mid-week when leaders of organized labor and of the farmers came out in opposition to it. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared "labor will call on its friends in congress to defeat that section of the taxation measure"; and Fred Breckman of the National Grange said imposition of the sales tax would meet "the unqualified disapproval of the 27,000,000 people upon the farms of this country."

Should the bill substantially as it stands get through the house, its sales tax feature will face strong opposition in the senate. A group of senators is ready to junk it, these including the men who are classed as progressive Republicans. Some of the more liberal Democrats want a substitute bill providing for selective sales taxation and possibly for increased surtaxes on incomes above $100,000. The house surtax is 40 per cent from $100,000 up.

TWO of the world's famous men decided that life was no longer worth living and so committed suicide. George Eastman, internationally known as the developer of the camera and the photographic film and also as one of the country's greatest philanthropists, put a bullet through his heart at his home in Rochester, N. Y., because he was in ill health and, as his farewell note said: "My work is done. Why wait?" Mr. Eastman, who founded the Eastman Kodak company and was chairman of its board, had made a vast fortune but had given away all but about $20,000,000. His philanthro-pies, estimated at $75,000,000, were scattered over the world, the recipients including universities and schools and dental clinics in many cities in this and other countries. He was seventy-seven years old, a bachelor and a lover of music and art. Mr. Eastman's many friends mourned his death but none was found to criticize his decision that it was time for him to go.

Ivar Kreuger, head of the great Swedish match trust and one of the world's most noted industrialists, was the other notable suicide. For months his numerous interests had been hammered on the exchanges of Europe and his losses were supposed to have been heavy though his remaining fortune was very large. He had just failed to obtain a $10,000,000 loan in New York, where he had always been able to obtain vast sums for the asking, so he sailed to Paris and there ended his life with a revolver. Like Eastman, Kreuger was unmarried. His death created a sensation in financial circles, especially in Europe, and the shares in his companies declined sharply. The Swedish government obtained from parliament in special session permission to declare a moratorium on the debts of those concerned to prevent a raid by creditors, and the Stockholm exchange was closed for a time.

MANAGERS of the Republican party are busy making the arrangements for the national convention in Chicago, and many of them in their informal talk in Washington felt certain that Hoover and Curtis would be the nominees, on a liberalized platform which would serve to conciliate the wets without outraging the dries. The members of the national committee charged with selecting the presiding officers of the convention at first thought it would be best to have Charles G. Dawes for temporary chairman and "keynoter," but it was said he was unwilling to accept the honor. For permanent chairman it was virtually agreed that Bertrand H. Snell, congressman from New York, would be the best man available. He is one of the party's strong men and a skilled parliamentarian. However, both posts were left unfilled, the final choices to be made at a meeting in Chicago on April 9.

The arrangements committee decided that four radio broadcasting booths should be put in the Chicago Stadium. It also named Dr. A. M. Harvey of Chicago chief of the staff of physicians and nurses, and George L. Hart as official stenographer.

Democratic managers also are slowly completing the details for their convention, but have made no announcements. In general, they will take over the Stadium as the Republicans leave it.

RUMORS, rumors, and more rumors, all proving false. Clews leading nowhere. Theories swiftly exploded. Investigations and negotiations that have no result. Such has been the course of the Lindbergh baby kidnapping case up to the time this is written. Toward the close of the week the authorities were inquiring into a story told by Charles Oliver, a prisoner on Welfare Island, New York, to the effect that the plot to steal the child was hatched in a jail, being proposed to him by one William Gleason of Cliffside, N. J. The latter was taken into custody and denied everything Oliver said. An ingenious theory originated in Philadelphia—that henchmen of Al Capone stole the baby for use as a lever to pry that gang leader out of jail.

PAUL VON HINDENBURG maintained his place as idol of the German people in peace time as well as in war. In the Presidential election he soundly beat his chief rival, Adolf Hitler, leader of the Nazis or Fascists. But the aged President failed by one-half of 1 per cent to get a majority of the total votes cast, so there must be a run-off election on April 10. At that time, it is admitted by nearly everyone, he will triumph.

As against nearly 19,000,000 votes for Von Hindenburg there were about 11,500,000 for Hitler. Ernest Thielmann, Communist, polled almost 5,000,000. Duesterberg, Nationalist, got 2,000,000, and Winter, Independent, 1,111,000 odd. Hitler's vote was so far ahead of the Nazi vote in the re-election of 1930 that he decided to remain in the contest.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT and Gov. W. H. Murray of Oklahoma were the contenders in the Democratic primaries of North Dakota. The returns from the rural districts were slow in coming in, but on the basis of partial returns it appeared certain that the state's delegation would be instructed for the New York governor. However, Alfalfa Bill had captivated the imagination of many of the farmers and was making a fair contest.

On the Republican side those seeking the preference of the voters were Dr. Joseph I. France of Maryland and Jacob S. Coxe of Ohio. France was well in the lead. Mr. Hoover's name had not been entered but he received some votes.

Mississippi elected a new congressman to fill out the term of the late Percy E. Quinn. He is L. Russell Ellzey, Democrat, superintendent of a college at Wesson.

NEGOTIATIONS between Japan and China for the withdrawal of Japanese troops from the Shanghai area were reported to be open, after conversations engineered by the representatives of the United States and Great Britain. It was understood the Japanese forces should be withdrawn gradually and that the Chinese should not enter the evacuated territory until final agreement was reached. The operation will be supervised by a commission with neutral members.

Under this agreement China abandons the point that Manchuria must be considered simultaneously with the Shanghai problem, and Japan abandons the point that the status of Shanghai must be fixed prior to her withdrawal.

Meanwhile the Lytton commission sent to Shanghai by the League of Nations, with Maj. Gen. Frank McCoy representing the United States, began investigating the doings of the Japanese in and about Shanghai. Mayor Wu Teh-chen of the Chinese municipality was guide and chief informant of the members and after telling them of the outrages committed by the invaders he took them on a tour of inspection through many miles of devastated areas where, as he said, "you can see for yourselves how thoroughly the Japanese war machine has accomplished its mission of wanton destruction."

That new Manchurian state of Manchoukuo, established by the Japanese and headed by Henry Pu-yi, is in trouble already. Dispatches from Tokyo said there was revolt in the province of Heilungkiang which is ruled by Gen. Ma Chan-shan, war minister of Pu-yi's government. The Chinese troops there declined to transfer their allegiance. From Changchun, capital of the new state, word came that a strong Chinese force, equipped with artillery, had captured Fu-yu, a city of 80,000 people 100 miles southwest of Harbin.

ADJOURNMENT until April 11 was taken by the international disarmament conference at Geneva. Correspondents there relate an interesting incident during the discussions in the naval commission. Vice Admiral D. P. H. Pound of Great Britain naively proposed that they eliminate from the draft convention of the Washington treaty providing that a nation engaged in war shall not seize a war vessel of another country being constructed in its own yards. He said it was not logical to expect a country at a moment when it is straining to the utmost not to lay its hands on all available material.

But our own Senator Swanson was on the alert at once, declaring this would not do at all. Ships constructed in time of peace for another power should not possibly be considered available to the builders in time of war, he said. Otherwise, there would never be a chance for the governments to agree on their relative strengths. Mr. Swanson exclaimed.

Other delegates supported Senator Swanson's argument, and later the British admiral smilingly intimated that his proposition had been misunderstood, and withdrew it.

POSTMASTER GENERAL W. F. Brown, in a memorandum submitted to the special economy committee of the house of representatives, pointed out many ways in which the cost of the postal service can be reduced, but said all of them require legislation.

He admitted that the postal service is overmanned for the handling of the present reduced volume of business due to the depression. He suggested that economics could be achieved by reducing the force, reducing pay, consolidating rural free delivery routes and providing government buildings for post office stations, branch post offices and garages which under the law are now leased.

Such economics, however, said Mr. Brown, would not balance the Post Office department budget which can be effected only by increasing postal rates also.

Mr. Brown submitted for "careful consideration" the proposal of Senator W. H. King that rural free delivery routes be let to the lowest bidders, although the postmaster general recorded himself as opposed to such change because "it would be likely to result in a substantial impairment of the general excellent service which is now rendered to rural patrons."

How One Woman Lost 10 Lbs. in a Week

Mrs. Betty Luedke of Dayton writes: "I am using Kruschen to reduce weight—I lost 10 pounds in one week and cannot say too much to recommend it." To take off fat easily, SAFELY and HARMLESSLY—take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—it is the safe way to lose unsightly fat and one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle. Get it at any drugstore in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the safest way to lose fat—money back. But be sure and get Kruschen Salts—imitations are numerous and you must safeguard your health.

Easter

Celebrated in commemoration of the resurrection of Christ, Easter is the oldest of all the festivals in the Christian calendar, even antedating Christmas as day of special religious observance.

This fact arises because Easter is really an outgrowth of the Jewish Passover, and its adaption is explained by a church historian thus: "The first Christians, being derived from or intimately connected with the Jewish church, naturally continued to observe the Jewish festivals, though in a new spirit. The Passover, ennobled by the thought of Christ as the true Paschal lamb, continued to be celebrated and became the Christian Easter."

But differences arose over the exact day on which Easter should be observed, and bitter controversies occurred among the various Christian groups. The present method of computing the date of Easter was adopted by the Council of Nice in the year 325, which decreed that Easter should be the first Sunday after the full moon following the vernal equinox. But even this decree failed to cause general acceptance of the date set until after the adoption of the Gregorian calendar, more than twelve centuries later. In fact the Greek church did not accept this date until 1923, so that it is only within the past few years that the entire Christian world has celebrated Easter on the same day.

According to present usage, Easter can not occur earlier than March 22 or later than April 25. This year it falls on March 27, an unusually early date.

Holy Week Customs

Many are the religious customs observed throughout Christendom during Holy Week, some of which would seem strange to us. Among these is the ceremony of "whipping the vegetation" which prevails in South American countries in connection with the observances of good Friday.

In Columbia on this day, masked penitents march in small processions, silently and mournfully, whipping as they go the wayside vegetation, as well as the grasses and the fruits.

Dr. Cesar Uribe, former associate professor of Harvard Medical School declares that the thrashing of the bushes and plants on Good Friday, serves as a most effective pruning of dead leaves and branches.

During the Lenten weeks prior to Easter, Columbian housewives lay in large quantities of staple supplies, such as flour, potatoes, rice and sugar in preparation for Holy Week. During Holy Week, all shops in Bogota are closed and food prices nearly double in the preparatory period previous. Although Holy Week fasting is general, the prices reach a peak which adds greatly to the cost of living.

American tourists enjoying the luxury of an Easter cruise in southern waters, will find unusual interest in the religious processions which through the main streets on Bogota, Columbia or Easter Sunday, when penitents carry aloft the famous figures of saints noted for their jeweled head-dresses. Thousands of chanting men and women follow the procession, which are among the most colorful to be seen anywhere.

Brightening Skies

A hundred and fifty million hoarded dollars have already been put back into banks, bonds and other places where they are useful, Col. Frank Knox's committee on hoarding reports. The procession of failing banks has about come to an end. Railroads and other large industries have saved themselves from receiverships by loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Business credit is already easier because of the Glass-Steagall bill amending the Federal Reserve Act. Thousands of factories which have been shut down are starting up; thousands more have gone back to almost full-time production.

There is still an enormous unsatisfied demand for every kind of manufactured commodities, wise men tell us. As fast as money and credit begin to circulate freely again people will be able to buy. We are not all going to get rich in a hurry, but the pessimism of a few months ago has given place to optimism almost everywhere, and we believe it is safe to say that the economic skies are getting brighter.

Mr. Harigel is a native Texan, having been born and reared in La Grange, where he began his career in the news paper business as a printer on the La Grange Journal of which he has been editor and proprietor since 1898. Mr. Harigel is a Democrat from Principal, conservative in his judgment and unswerving in his faith. Not a politician but a close student of condition. He makes no rash promises if elected but is capable and will serve the people of Texas well as a member of Congress.

Congressman Patman Gives Reasons Why Soldier's Bonus Should Be Paid In Cash

BY MARK L. GOODWIN,
Staff Correspondent of The News

Washington, March 13—Representative Wright Patman of the Texas district has begun a new drive to get new action on his bill to pay the remaining half of the soldier bonus in cash, which would call for a total of $2,200,000,000. Although opposed by both Democratic and Republican leaders, the cash payment idea is growing and may be brought soon before Congress for a vote. The Patman bill is House No. 1 in a recent statement for the Congressional Record, he pointed out that Senate Bill No. 1, creating the $2,200,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation for "relief of railroads, insurance companies and banks," has become a law and is in operation. One difference between the measures is that the Patman bill distributes its benefits in cash, and the other is in theory, a revolving fund designed to cost the Government nothing in the end.

The House Ways and Means Committee will give hearings on the Patman bill as soon as the revenue measure is passed. At this hearing, Mr. Patman says he will bring in a large number from all sections of the country to support a favorable report. The Texas Representative has already filed petitions favoring passage, bearing 500,000 signatures. He has another half million signatures being classified in his office, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, have another 2,000,000 signatures ready to go to the House of Representatives. The Veterans of Foreign Wars have enacted a poll of Congress through questionnaire. One hundred and two House members favored paying the soldiers, five against it, 130 are noncommittal. Two hundred and three have not answered. Nineteen Senators favored the proposal, eleven are against, fifty-three are noncommittal and thirteen have not answered.

Members of Congress do not relish the thought of having to vote on the proposal at this time. On one hand, there is a growing Treasury deficit and heavy taxes, and on the other there are the votes of the soldier veterans and their friends in the fall elections. When the time comes Mr. Patman and others promise to unload a lot of material to show how liberal the administration has been to Europe to business and to the farmer in direct loans, and to show that it would not be necessary to go to the Federal Treasury at this time to obtain any of the money to pay the soldiers.

Mr. Patman proposes to have the Treasury issue sufficient Treasury notes backed only by the Government's promise to pay. Government officials responsible for the policy are alarmed not only over the prospect of favorable consideration, once the legislation comes to vote, but what they claim would be issuance of "fiat" money under the Patman plan. According to the Treasury it would increase the money circulation by one-half, and reduce the value of the dollar by the same ratio. Right at that point, Mr. Patman answers that no such argument was made when it came to affording new money issues for banks. The Government's gold supply would be security for the currency notes. When the notes would be retired the Patman bill does not state.

Plan Appears Simple

The apparent simplicity of the Patman plan, that is, payment of the bonus without levying taxes or issuing Government bonds, is causing the opponents much worry, since it is calculated to impress Congress as an easy way to get rid of the bonus agitation. The opponents contend that it would force the country off the gold standard, and permit European nations to raid the American dollar. A bill similar to that by Mr. Patman, is proposed by Senator Elmer Thomas of Okla., for payment of the bonus in full only it provides for issuance of thirty-year 2 per cent bonds to be held by Federal Reserve Banks as security for the currency to pay the soldiers.

Mr. Patman has been speaking in many states in favor of his bill, and asserts that when the people hear the real story about the Government's liberality in other directions, they favor paying the bonus. One of the appealing arguments is that it will put into almost immediate circulation $2,200,000,000. Not long ago the Texas member put before the Congress and the country, a detailed statement showing how much of this vast fund would go to each State by counties.

Residents of Texas, according to Mr. Patman, would receive $95,614,820. Harris county would receive the largest amount, $5,900,165. Other counties getting large sums are Dallas $5,347,846, Bexar $4,803,391, Tarrant $3,243,820, Cameron $1,273,206, El Paso $2,160,822, Galveston $1,057,464, Grayson $1,081,142, Jefferson $2,190,280, Travis $1,277,098, and Wichita $1,221,910.

Threatens to Invoke Rule

There is a possibility that two-thirds of the House and Senate might vote to override a presidential veto of such a bill. Mr. Patman believes the veterans have sufficient votes in the House to do so. With organizations such as the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Disabled American Veterans agitating for the bill, it is thought many members of Congress might fear to vote against the bill on eve of election. Officially, the American Legion is against the bill, as a result of action taken at its last national convention held in Detroit, following a plea made by President Hoover, however, favor the proposal. Should the Ways and Means Committee fail to act on the bill, the Texas members says that the House rule permitting discharge of the committee by petition signed by 145 members, one-third of the House, would be invoked.

The only worry about the currency feature to pay this Government obligation, said Mr. Patman, "is on the part of those who have rushed to aid Europe, the banks, railroads and others, and who do not want to pay the 3,600,000 soldier veterans. The issue of United States notes proposed would be full legal tender and good for payment of all debts.

"Sufficient gold is in the Treasury to authorize the issuance of this additional currency. We have outstanding at this time $346,681,016 of United States currency secured by a gold reserve of $156,039,088. The currency issued to pay the remainder of the certificates could be secured in a similar manner. We have plenty of gold to make the necessary arrangements.

"The Glass-Steagall bill, recently passed to help the banks, provides for issuance of Federal Reserve notes to circulate as currency. That bill provides that the Federal Reserve System shall at all times have a 40 per cent gold base, or for every $100 worth of currency issued that is $40 in gold. Under the Glass-Steagall bill, the other $60 can be, and doubtless in some instances will be, backed by worthless stocks and bonds of insolvent corporations. That backing is not near as good as I propose in the issuance of currency in payment of the certificates. I propose more than 40 per cent gold base with the remaining 60 per cent backed up by United States securities or adjusted service certificates. I insist that my plan is much sounder and will do the people generally much more good than the plan proposed in the Glass-Steagall bill.

"Two and a half million of the holders of these certificates need the money to buy comforts or necessities of life for themselves and families. The placing of this money in circulation will stimulate business and bring the hoarded money out of hiding. If these veterans are not paid the remainder now, the compound interest they are now forced to pay to banks and the Government will practically consume the remainder. If paid now, the entire Nation will be helped by the additional purchasing power."

NOTE:—If the bonus should be paid in cash, the sum of $209,929.70 would be received by the ex-service men of Callahan county.—Editor.

Correct Lighting Will Save Your Eyes and Add to Your Enjoyment

THERE'S nothing quite so cozy—these long winter evenings—as a good book, a restful chair, comfortable slippers and the old briar pipe. The finishing touch, to make the evening at home a rare treat and to add to the enjoyment of your reading, is good light.

Good lighting, more than anything else, will make your reading a genuine pleasure. The print will stand out plainly and your eyes will follow the text untiringly. This absence of strain will double your enjoyment.

Lighting fixtures combining beauty and efficiency are so inexpensive—and the cost of adequate light so insignificant—that truly it's wise economy to use plenty of light. A courteous representative will be happy to inspect your home-lighting arrangements, and suggest beneficial changes if they're necessary. There's no obligation, of course.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule ... and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

SUNDAY SCHOOL PARTY

For the past two months the Junior Boys and Girls of the Presbyterian church have been having an automobile race. The losing side was to entertain the winner. The race has been a close one from the first, and the automobiles have passed each other several times during the race. However the race came to a close last week with the boy's automobile five miles in the lead.

The losers gave a very lovely party for the winners last Thursday evening at the church a number of interesting games were played and a very appetizing refreshment course of sandwiches, potato chips and hot chocolate were served to the little guests.

Contests of this nature help to create interest in the Sunday School and also build up the classes.

Several new members were added to each class during this race, and both sides are anxious for another one to start.

CHATTER CLUB

Miss Carmen Haley entertained the Chatter Club at her home last Tuesday evening. The Easter motif with the colors of green and yellow was used in the decorations.

High score was won by Dorothy Mae Scott and Keith Fuller for the members and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fincher for guests.

MAN MADE THE TOWN

by RUBY M. AYRES

Third Instalment

At twenty-two the only thing Diana really desired was another woman's husband. A nervous wreck from the excitement and strain of London's gay life, she is taken by her aunt, Mrs. Gladwyn, to a famous specialist's office. The physician orders her to the country for a long rest. She rebels, but the doctor is handsome and sympathetic. She learns that he is not the great man himself but an assistant, Dr. Rathbone. "God made the country and man made the town," he tells her. She agrees to go to a rural retreat.

Before she leaves she goes to Dennis Waterman's flat, where they are surprised by Linda, Dennis's wife, who takes the situation quite calmly. "I suppose she wants you to marry her?" she asks Dennis.

Now to go on with the story. "Upon my word, Linda—"

She laughed in cool unconcern. "My dear boy, please don't pretend. You forget that this isn't the first time I've had to stand by and watch you muddle your way out of an affair like this. I don't really care, except for Diana's sake—she looks ill, terribly ill."

"Are you going to blame me for that? Really, this is beyond a joke. I suppose you're annoyed because I brought her here to dinner. Perhaps that was stupid of me, but—"

She came astep forward, her bright eyes meeting his very directly. "If you want me to divorce you, Dennis—I will," she said.

There was a moment of absolute silence; then she went on, still in the same unemotional way:

"I think I've grown a little tired of this sort of life. We're neither married or unmarried, and after all, I'm still young, and there are other men in the world."

"Other men—you mean . . ."

"Never mind what I mean. I'm making you a fair offer. If you want to marry Diana I'm willing to divorce you. You'd better think it well over before you refuse," she added with a little ironical smile, "because I may never be so generous again."

Dennis stifled an oath. He looked hot and angry as he went out of the room.

Linda sighed and turned with a smile as Diana returned. She had coloured her lips and her cheeks, and she looked less worn, but there was a little defiant light in her eyes as she came towards Linda.

"I really feel terribly apologetic," she said rather unsteadily.

Linda went with them to the door. "Don't keep her out too late, Dennis," she said lightly. "And I hope you'll have a good time," she added, a hint of laughter in her voice. Behind Diana's back Dennis gave his wife a furious look; he felt that he was being made a fool of, and the sensation was not pleasant.

They rode in silence till the cab stopped at the Savoy.

They went to the ballroom, which was not at all crowded, and Dennis ordered champagne.

He almost wished he had insisted upon staying at the flat with Linda. He roused himself with an effort and touched Diana's hand.

"Do you care to dance?"

"As you like."

She rose apathetically, and they joined the dancers.

The brilliant lights of the ballroom blinded her, and the noise of the band suddenly became deafening, driving her half mad.

She gave a little foolish laugh. "Man made the town," she said—the horrible, horrible town. . . . Then, with a little moaning cry, she slipped to the floor at Dennis Waterman's feet.

CHAPTER IV

Everything was so very quiet, as if one had slipped out of life into the infinite space where only the stars hung against their dark background and the cool winds blew.

She opened her eyes and looked round the room. Drawn blinds veiled most of it from her, but she could faintly pick out flowered wall paper and the shadowy shape of a dressing table—an old-fashioned-looking dressing table in a chintz-and-muslin petticoat.

That was queer for she had never seen a dressing table like that since she was quite a little girl, poking about in a wooden workbox on her grandmother's dressing table.

eyes closed again, breathing heavily. A hand on her wrist now—not Aunt Gladwyn's hand—but one that was firm and strong; a hand that seemed to put new life and strength into one . . . not like Dennis Waterman's hand, that only made one's pulse jerk suffocatingly and filled one's heart with unrest.

Diana gave a little stifled cry. She remembered now: he was the doctor from Harley Street whose eyes had seemed to pierce through all the bravery of her carefully reddened lips and make-up, right down through her artificiality, to the trembling weakness of her.

He heard the little cry and came back.

"Well," he said gently as if he were speaking to a child. Diana smiled too, confidently.

"You've got your own way," she whispered.

He laughed at that. "I generally do in the long run," he said.

"Don't keep her out too late, Dennis," she said lightly.

It was wearisome work trying to get well; more wearisome when at last Diana felt the first tug of returning health and the consequent revolt against enforced inaction.

Everyone was so tryingly optimistic. No matter how much Diana sulked or how rude she tried to be, she was met with the same determined kindness and good temper from the woman who, as she soon discovered, was a trained nurse and in charge of her.

This "Creature," as Diana soon called her to herself, was fortyish, with grey hair and the peaceful expression of one who has gone through so many turbulent waves that life no longer frightened her. Her proper name was Miss Starling; a name which Diana thought most suitable, seeing that she was eternally chirping tidings of good hope and wonderful days to come. Diana also discovered that once upon a time she had been a nurse in a big London hospital but that she had given it up in order to retire into the country and take in difficult cases for specialists.

"Dr. Rathbone isn't a specialist," was Diana's first remark that showed any return to her old spirit.

"Dr. Rathbone," Miss Starling retorted calmly, "is a very wonderful man; he has saved your life, whatever you may think of him."

"I don't think of him at all," Diana retorted peevishly, and turned her face against the pillow, closing her eyes.

Miss Starling sat at the window, knitting by the light which shone through the half-closed curtains: she did not really need the light at all, seeing that she always knitted mechanically, with hardly a downward glance.

The needles made an irritating little clicking sound.

Diana flung the clothes back restlessly.

"Can't I get up?"

"Not till Dr. Rathbone says you may."

"He won't say it for ages."

"Then I'm afraid you'll have to stay in bed."

Petulant tears filled Diana's eyes. The clicking of knitting needles stopped, and Miss Starling rose.

"I think we might have the blind up a little," the Creature said. "Its such a wonderful evening."

The blind was raised a little higher, and Diana caught a glimpse of leafy trees and a patch of blue sky through lacy boughs.

"Where is this place?" she asked suddenly.

"Surrey—about a mile outside a little village called Cheam."

away," Miss Starling said presently. "Oh!" Diana was wearily twisting the soft strands of her hair once more "Is that why I'm here?" she asked. "So that it will be easy for him to come and see me?"

"It makes it more convenient for him of course; he is a very busy man, and if you had been a great way off he would probably have put you in the care of another doctor."

"Why should he? I suppose he'd be paid no matter how far away I was."

"Money is not everything. Dr. Rathbone does a great deal without any fee at all."

"He'll be paid for me."

"Yes, but then you've plenty of money. There are many poor people far more ill than you are who cannot afford to pay anything."

"Another lecture!" Diana told herself.

There was an unbroken silence for some moments, then Diana asked: "Is he married?"

and she knelt down by the open window, both hands clinging to the narrow sill.

It was very beautiful; Diana knelt there by the window looking out with eyes that were somehow tragic in her white face.

She felt weak and helpless; she wished it was not so far back to bed. Not that she wanted to go back—she felt that she could have stayed here forever looking out on the fields and trees and hedges. She hated the country, and yet it gave her such a feeling of peace: like someone laying a cool hand on your forehead when it ached very badly after a succession of late nights.

She turned round and looked at the bed—it seemed miles away. She made an effort to rise but checked herself quickly. She was sure she would fall. The bell was so far away too—on the other side of the bed, and she was too weak to cry out. She might try, but they would not hear her if she did.

Did You Ever Stop To Think

By EDSON R. WAITE

W. C. Teagle, President of the Standard Oil Company (N. J.), says:

That the biggest problem of government in the United States today is control of taxation. This demands better planning and closer supervision of appropriations, and of public expenditures made under them. At the rate the local and national governments have been traveling since 1917 we may live to see the day when every private citizen will be carrying one public employee on his back. Already taxes are consuming such a large proportion of individual and corporate income as to leave no margin, in many instances, for the accumulation of new capital or savings.

The gasoline tax, originally moderate and accepted as a proper charge upon the motorist for the improved roads he uses, has become a football of politics. Its original justification has been lost sight of in many states and the proceeds used in unwarranted ways as a means of spreading patronage and graft. It is now so high in a number of states as to make its evasion more profitable than the legitimate business of marketing gasoline. In several states the total amount received by the treasurer has diminished as the rate per gallon has gone up. It is now so large an item in the cost of motoring as to seriously affect the uses of automobiles.

The nation is saddled today with an unusual burden to make provision for the needy among our 7,000,000 unemployed. At the same time the usual sources of taxable revenues have diminished and some of them have dried up. So we have on the one hand less money coming in, and on the other, extraordinary payments to be made. This circumstance dictates more intelligent handling of legislation, which will be achieved only when the great body of citizens take a proper interest in the affairs of their communities and demand a better brand of government than they have been receiving.

B. D. Sartin Enters Race For Congressman At Large

Judge B. D. Sartin, of Wichita Falls, Texas, former county judge of Wichita county, world war veteran, former president County Judges and Commissioners of Texas, who started moves for free bridges across Red River by building the first free bridge at Burkburnett, Texas, has thrown his hat into the well filled ring for Congressman at large.

Judge Sartin is a young man of thirty-eight years, red headed, a fiery campaigner and well known throughout the state. He was born on a farm in Kentucky, worked through college, came to Wichita Falls a young man of twenty-one. He was of the first eleven men to volunteer for service from Wichita County during the World War, entered as a Private and was promoted to that of a commissioned officer. After the close of the war Judge Sartin was elected county judge of Wichita County and served two terms with distinction. His work in behalf of progressive county affairs won for him attention over the state and he was elected president of the county judge and commissioners of Texas. He founded the magazine known as "County Progress", the official publication of this organization with headquarters at San Antonio.

Judge Sartin is a 32nd degree mason, member of Dallas Scottish Rite, Past Grand Odd Fellow, a shiner of Maskat Temple, a Legionnaire, and member of the Forty and Eight, Chair man of the Board of Elders of the Christian Church, teacher of the Mens Bible Class, and civic leader of Wichita Falls.

HE FAVORS

Lower taxes, lower living expenses for the people.

Full payment of soldier's compensation certificates by issuing new currency certificates direct to the soldiers.

Taking control of Federal Reserve System from Wall Street Banker Domination.

Tariff protection of farmer and independent oil operator.

Development of Texas rivers and harbors.

Lower interest rate for irrigation, reclamation and road districts through government refunding bonds.

Five day week, six hour day, for labor during present crisis till every man has a job.

Bread not booze for returning prosperity.

Strong anti-trust laws to curb mergers and monopolies.

An adequate national program.

No more Mexican and Foreign immigration to U. S. for a ten year period.

HE OPPOSES

Chain stores and monopolies.

Wars and competitive armaments.

Cancellation of European war loans.

Extravagance, waste and high taxes

Judge Sartin says that—"Concentrated and unscrupulous wealth is destroying democracy and liberty in America and that we must fight the conditions that make the rich and enslave the poor. The time is here to take more interest in homefolks and less interest in Europe."

Fat Stock Show Crowns Champions And Awards Prizes

Nine world champions were crowned and grand prizes totaling $7,700 were awarded at the closing performance of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show rodeo at Fort Worth Sunday night. Pete Knight of Calgary, Canada, replaced Eddie Woods, Emmett, Idaho, as the world champion cowboy bronc rider. E Pardee of La Junta, Colo., won the title in the cowboy's championship calf-roping contest. The championship in the steer-wrestling contest went to Rube Roberts, of Fort Worth. Johnnie Schreider, Livermore, Cal., was declared the world's champion bareback bronc rider. Rene Shelton won the title of world's champion cowgirl bronc rider. Buck Stuart of Fort Worth, retained his title in the cowboy's championship trick and fancy riding contest. Tad Lucas, Fort Worth who holds the title in the cowgirl's championship cowgirl, was declared the winner in the cowgirls trick and fancy riding contest.

Elmer Hepler, of Carlsbad, N. M., is the new world's champion steer rider. Chester Byers, Fort Worth, retained his title in the cowboys' championship trick and fancy roping contest. All except Tad Lucas, Byers and Stewart, are new champs.

Total attendance figures for the rodeo are yet available but officials are agreed that these figures are lower than the mark set last year. "However, considering the unfavorable weather we have had, we think the attendance has been extraordinarily good," Van Zandt Jarvis, president of the exposition, said. "We are very well pleased with the attendance and proud of the show that has been presented. We believe that the live stock show and the rodeo are the best that we have ever given," he went on to say.

Church of Christ

All members are urged to be present Sunday, and visitors are invited. Bro. Malphurs, from Clyde, will preach at 11 o'clock, and I shall be at Clyde.

Thos. McDonald, Pastor.

With Baird Baptist

We enjoyed the day last Sunday very much. Bro. Frank Maddux, of Loving, N. M. was with us and preached a most excellent sermon at 11 o'clock, and in the afternoon we went to the jail and Bro. Maddux preached another good sermon. Now let me tell you I am always glad to have Frank Maddux come along, he is such a choice spirit, so dependable and affable, I have known him well for a long time and I love him better every time I am with him. I enjoyed his visit so much, just one thing I disliked, it was too short.

Well, our Sunday night program was fine I think. We had a fine crowd and I think all were well paid for coming and we are of the opinion still that such a service is worth while so will have another similar one soon. We were so glad for every one to be there who was present and we want all to come back every time they can.

Things were fine last Sunday, our attendance was the best we have had for a good while, our collection was better than usual and we had two fine people to unite with us, mighty good day I call it.

Next Sunday night we will not have preaching at our church, but will go to the Methodist church for their meeting. We want 150 people for Sunday School and preaching Sunday morning.

I will preach Sunday morning on missions and let me insist on everyone who can possibly do so bring an offering for missions. Let each one put something in their envelope Sunday morning for this cause. Let's be missionaries in deed as well as profession.

Meet with us, Brother, Sister, at the Baptist church Sunday morning.
 Joe R. Mayes, Pastor

Methodist Church

Methodist Church—Blessed Easter Sunday. We expect to have a beautiful Easter Service.

9:45—Sunday School. Two hundred present. We request every Methodist in the community to be in Sunday and attend church. A friendly hand is extended to all others who may find it convenient to be with us. We want you.

11:00—Lovely music will be given and some specials, followed by appropriate sermon by the pastor.

6:45—At the Regular League hour. Nine members of the Epworth League will present an Easter pageant, representing the crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus. The League extends a hearty welcome to all the young people of Baird to be present. Any of the older people who wish to come are also cordially invited.

7:30—Song program will be given by our fine choir of young people. They are developing many fine voices.

8:00—Sermon, subject, Prayer. This sermon will show prayer as a great doctrine of the Bible, that Jesus prayed much, He taught his disciples to pray, those who pray most have large spiritual power, Condition of prayer, Elements of prayer, and Examples of prayer. I am sure you will want to hear this sermon.

I wish to express sincere thanks to the people of Baird and Callahan county for the hospitable manner with which you have received me and the kindness you have shown my sick wife. She is better but not yet well.

It is my desire to be of the very best service to you and yours. I come as a servant of the most high God. My will and purposes are, I trust, lost in his. Last Sunday was "Palm Sunday" and this week is Passion week. Many of the great preachers of Christianity have preached a sermon each day this week in keeping with what Jesus did on that day during the last week he lived on earth. This I would have done, as is my custom, but it was not proper that this should have been done here. However, each day I have had a bulletin on the First State Bank building showing Christ and his work for that day. As you read these thoughts Jesus Crucified is hanging on that wall. In going by, step, look on the scene, and realize what the Savior suffered that you might be saved.

The world has been under a ruinous depression for some two or three years, but the most disastrous depression known to the world is a Spiritual one. Empty churches are an indication of a far more destructive condition than empty bank buildings and business houses.

The world can not weather a departure from God. It never has. His story makes clear this fact. God must be first in a life if that life is to be normal.

What is the remedy? Jesus gives it. Read Matt. 6:33 "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." Royer Babson gives the remedy also; "ack to God, The Preaching of the Word, The Sunday School, The Bible, Prayer and Home Building. At the Methodist church next Sunday we are beginning a revival that is to run two weeks, preaching at night except Sundays. Come everybody. Bring the children. The little babies. The Savior often had his arms full of the infants brought to him and many children standing around him and he blessed them all.

We extend a special invitation to the ministers and singers of all churches to come and help us in these services.

Rev. J. T. Griswold
