By Roxie Parker

Entertaining at the West Texas Fair in Abilene for two evenings will be Haskell's own Yankee Doodle Girls. They are slated for appearances at 8 p.m. Wednesday, September 10, and at 6 p.m. Saturday, September 13 at the fair's Bicentennial Showcase area on the midway.

The trio, Becky Richardson, Roberta High and Mary Kennedy, accompanied by Nelda Lane, pianist, will present a program musically tracing the history of our country from the American Revolution through 1975, with appropriate narration.

Almost by accident they found themselves a permanent part of the city-county celebration when they were to present patriotic songs for a Progressive Study Club program in March and the program committee had dubbed them "The Yankee Doodle Girls" in the yearbook. Their opening number is a rousing "I Am A Yankee Doodle Dandy", the George M. Cohan classic!

So well received were they that other groups sought them out for their presentation, among them the local Lions and Rotary Clubs, the Munday Lions Ladies' Night, and the Haskell County Home Demonstration Club for its Awards Banquet.

When Jane McAdoo, local Bicentennial Commission chairman, attended an area meeting in Abilene she offered their services for the West Texas Fair.

The singers are all members of the choir at First Baptist and Mrs. Lane is organist at First United Methodist Church. Young housewives and mothers all, they are also active outside their homes; Mrs. Richardson is a member of the school board, Mrs. High is a registered pharmacist and co-owner with her husband of Oates Drug, and Mrs. Kennedy likes to sew and is a avid golfer. Mrs. Lane is a tireless supporter of her five children in their school and sport activities, using her station wagon to run all sorts of errands!

They are enthusiastic about their presentation and talked about response to different "numbers". Applause is fairly restrained until they go into the audience to get participation in their rendition of "Skip To My Lou" and "That's the ice-breaker, from then on everybody has a good time," Roberta said.

Becky said the husbands of the four are cooperative about schedules, rehearsals, etc., though they have teased them a bit about becoming their

Out Of The Woods? ... Still In Trouble ... Some Improvement.

The Texas swine industry is breathing a little easier now that the federal and state hog cholera quarantines in the Panhandle have been lifted. A 100-square mile area in parts of Deaf Smith and Castro counties had been under quarantine for about six weeks.

A total of 75 swine herds in the area were checked. In addition to depopulating two infected herds near Hereford, another 23 herds in Texas and six in Oklahoma had to be destroyed because they had been exposed to animals from the infected herds.

About $350,000 in federal indemnity funds has been obligated to compensate owners for hogs destroyed to prevent further spread of the disease.

At one time, hog cholera was a major animal health menace costing producers more than $50 million yearly in vaccination expenses and herd losses.

INFESTATIONS OF SCREWORMS will continue to plague Texas livestock until cold weather in the late fall or winter. Meanwhile, more than 500 cases from Texas ranges are being confirmed each week.

This has caused a change in the method of releasing sterile screwworm flies. It has been the policy to "hotspot" each confirmed screwworm case three consecutive weeks with releases of 50,000 or more sterile flies per week.

But this policy is no longer practical due to the number of cases being reported. Now, aerial dispersal of flies will be used under certain conditions.

The moisture situation this year plus the increase in populations of the Gulf Coast tick are reasons for the big build-up in screwworms this year. The bites fever ticks make in ears of large animals provide ideal wounds in which the female screwworm fly can lay her eggs.

Screwworm officials say livestock producers need to continue to submit suspected screwworm samples to the fly lab at Mission, treat wounds on livestock with approved screwworm-control remedies, and delay surgery on livestock as long as possible.

COTTON HARVESTING for the state is now a major concern for most Texas row crop farmers. Harvesting is around the 10 per cent completion mark. Insects and cotton root are causing problems. One bright spot is the recent advances in prices for cotton.

Sorghum harvest is more than half complete. Yields in many locations have been lower than anticipated. The crop on the High Plains continues to make satisfactory progress.

Peanut harvest is less than 10 per cent complete. In the Blacklands and Cross Timbers areas, peanuts are making good growth but moisture will be needed to maintain satisfactory prospects.

Rice harvest is two-thirds finished; corn harvest is lagging behind last year at this time. Soybeans continue to make generally good growth over the state.

managers and taking them "on the road" with professional status!

Following their performance at the fair, they will present several programs during the coming year, and will close the Bicentennial period at the big Haskell City-County celebration planned for July 4, 1976.

Because our local Bicentennial Commission is designated "City-County" each community in the county will have a day for its own exhibit at the fair in Abilene. Each will be identified and present its own interpretation of the Bicentennial.

The Haskell County symbol painted on an official flag-size fabric will be placed on the backdrop throughout the eight days of the fair, and a sign will identify the community for each day.

Saturday, September 6, Rochester will have its exhibit. Mrs. R. A. Shaver, Mrs. Jane Short and Mrs. J. W. Nichols are coordinating the exhibit with the Hobby Club and others assisting. Displayed will be a Bicentennial quilt and antiques, and there will be "on-the-spot" old fashioned churning to demonstrate the art of making butter.

Sunday, September 7, only the symbol will be displayed.

Monday, September 8, Sager-ton's exhibit, coordinated by Judy New, will include an actual demonstration of quilting by members of the Stitch and Chatter Club. A part of our heritage that was in danger of becoming a lost art, quilting is enjoying a resurgence of popularity among the younger generation.

Tuesday, September 9 is Haskell County School Children's day at the fair and the day designated for the Haskell City exhibit. Dressed in colonial costumes, Mary Holden, Eunice Sonnamaker, and Billie Cadenhead have planned an antiques display from the Jones-Cox Country Store. Also included will be the Haskell County Courthouse Commemorative Wilton Armate Plate which Jones-Cox had made for the Bicentennial year, brochures of the Haskell County history book, some Bicentennial arts and crafts, and old pictures of early days in the county.

Wednesday, September 10, Paint Creek's exhibit, coordinated by Mabel Overton, will feature pioneer arts such as tanning, churning, candle-making, weaving and soap-making.

On Thursday, September 11 Rule's display will be under the direction of Mrs. Barry Hobbs who is well known throughout the region for her collection of antiques.

Friday and Saturday exhibits from Weinert and O'Brien will be presented.

Saturday, September 13 is the date of the Haskell City-County Designation Service on the courthouse lawn with Haskell becoming an official Bicentennial Community. Our symbol and an announcement of the service will be displayed for fair-goers, but it is hoped that Haskell County folks will be in Haskell for this special day.

Jane McAdoo, local commission chairman, said, "We feel the exhibits by the various towns will represent Haskell County well and will tell the 200,000 expected visitors to the fair that we are actively participating in the celebration of our nation's 200th birthday!"

The Haskell Bicentennial committee will also have an exhibit at the Haskell County Fair, September 18-20, planned to be much the same as the exhibit in Abilene, with some important additions. "Haskell County and Its Pioneers", authored by Rex Felker, will be just off the press and on display for the first time. Orders for the book may be made for those who have not yet ordered it. Also the commission will have on sale the bronze Bicentennial medallions and pins and the Liberty Bell tie tacks. Proceeds from the sale of these items will be used by the commission for planned Bicentennial projects.

quarter inch long and one-eighth inch deep cross cuts are ineffective when the venom has been deeply injected into the muscle, and unnecessary when the victim receives no venom at all, which occurs in three cases out of ten, according to his studies.
 Dr. Glass doubts cutting is beneficial in any case, except with professional guidance, and argues that the laymen's chances of cutting a nerve, artery or tendon are too risky to be undertaken at all, and can cause greater harm than the snakebite itself.
 Instead, he suggests that for any venomous bite, whether from a rattlesnake, cottonmouth, copperhead or coral snake, the layman should (1) apply constriction bands lightly both above and below the bite, where possible; (2) place crushed ice in plastic bags over the bite area to cool the venom and slow down its movement to other parts of the body, and (3) remove the victim to a medical facility in a rapid and safe manner.

San Antonio's Emergency Medical Services was among the first to adopt Dr. Glass' first aid techniques with EMS technicians now carrying constriction bands and chemical ice packs in their ambulances as standard equipment.
 Based on his recommendations, San Antonio's Amerex Laboratories has developed a first aid kit, appropriately named, "Snakebite Freeze", which can be stored and used where ice is not always readily available.
 The kit contains two plastic bags of non-toxic, non-caustic chemicals, that are activated by squeezing an inner bag, producing "instant" cold down to an estimated 18 degrees. The kit comes with two constriction bands and a neoprene insulated wrapper for holding the ice pack in place.
 To clear up what he terms the "public's unwarranted and needless fears and lack of understanding of snakebites", Dr. Glass has published a 26-page booklet, "First Aid for Snakebite," in which he explains the first aid measures laymen can safely undertake. The booklet distinguishes between the first aid, which Dr. Glass describes as the care given the victim at the scene of the bite, and the treatment, which he explains, is the attention and care the victim receives after arriving at a hospital or other medical facility.

 Information on obtaining a copy of Dr. Glass' booklet or the Snakebite Freeze first aid kit is available by writing Amerex Laboratories, 307 E. Nakoma, San Antonio, Texas 78216.

When a rattlesnake strikes, pack the bite with ice.
 Contradicting presently recommended methods, this snakebite first aid advice for laymen comes from a San Antonio physician and surgeon, who has studied the causes and effects of venomous viper bites for the past 15 years.
 Based on his own experiences in treating more than 200 snakebite victims, Dr. Thomas G. Glass, Jr., contends cold ice packs and constriction bands are far safer and more practical first aid measures than the more drastic "cut and suck" method, which has been widely used in Texas since early frontier times.
 A clinical professor of surgery at San Antonio's University of Texas Medical School, Dr. Glass claims the presently advocated one-

Haskell Accepted In Flood Program

The U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development announced today that effective 8-4-75, City of Haskell, Tx. has been accepted into the National Flood Insurance Program.

This means, said Acting Federal Insurance Administrator, J. Robert Hunter, that individual property owners here are now eligible to buy flood insurance protection at affordable federally-subsidized rates, offering more extensive coverage under the expanded program authorized by the 1973 Flood Disaster Protection Act.

"We think the new, expanded National Flood Insurance Program offers the best way of protecting property owners from the ravages of floods, while easing the burden on the general public," he said.

"Since flood insurance is now available," he added, "the law requires that it must be purchased by owners of property in areas identified as flood-prone by HUD, in order to be eligible for virtually all forms of Federal or federally-related financial assistance for building purposes in those areas."

"This would include FHA or VA mortgages, loans from the Small Business Administration, or loans from any federally-regulated or supervised banks and savings and loan institutions."

While flood insurance is available to all residents of the community, Mr. Hunter emphasized that the Federal economic sanctions against building assistance will not apply to property outside the danger zones.

Under the expanded program, broader coverage can be obtained for all buildings and their contents. The limit of insurance for single-family homes is now $35,000, and $100,000 for other residential and nonresidential buildings, at the subsidized rate of 25 cents per $100 of coverage. The rate goes to 40 cents per $100 for nonresidential buildings.

The contents of all residential buildings can be insured up to $10,000 per unit at 35 cents per $100 of coverage, and the rate goes to 75 cents per $100 for the contents of all nonresidential structures up to a maximum of $100,000 in coverage per unit.

Policies are effective immediately during the first 30 days the insurance becomes available. After the first 30 days, there is a 15-day waiting period.

The policies can be purchased from any licensed local property insurance agent or broker. The Home Insurance Co., 2100 Travis St., Houston, Tx. 77002, has been designated as the flood insurance servicing company for this area. Agents and brokers may obtain policy forms, rates, flood insurance manuals, and any other necessary information from this company.

The FIA, Mr. Hunter explained, is in the process of publishing maps showing the special flood hazard areas in approximately 20,000 communities across the country. He congratulated the local governing body here for taking action before the July 1, 1975 deadline imposed under the Act for enrolling in the program.

The program is designed to stimulate individual participation in it as protection against natural disasters, and to help promote sound flood plain management on the part of local governing authorities.

In becoming eligible under the program, a community must submit an application in which it certifies that it has adopted certain minimum flood plain management measures for the flood-prone areas of that community which conform with Federal requirements. These measures vary according to the characteristics of the community and the nature of specific flood threats. But they are generally designed to regulate the future development of flood hazard areas, and ultimately require minimum elevation and construction standards for floors and foundations of any new construction in these areas.

"No Deposit, No Return" Motto Of 4-H Achievers

CHICAGO—"No deposit, no return! If a person doesn't give of himself he won't receive or achieve anything in his lifetime," says Gregory Hartman of Pueblo, Colo.

One of last year's Henry Ford II scholarship winners in the national 4-H achievement program, Hartman adopted a war orphan and corresponded with him for many years. He sent money so the youngster could stay in an orphanage and off the streets. Now the adopted boy is old enough to work and help support himself and his ailing mother. Thus, one of Hartman's many "deposits" in life has produced a "return."

Learning and sharing

The 4-H achievement program is sponsored by Ford Motor Company Fund through the National 4-H Service Committee. Under the supervision of the Cooperative Extension Service, young persons from 9 to 19 give their time and talents to a variety of individual and group service activities.

The young achievers may work with low-income adults and children in expanded food-nutrition programs. Or volunteer their after-school and weekend hours as candy strippers in local hospitals. Or provide companionship to the aged and assistance to the mentally retarded.

Whatever activity 4-H'ers choose, their dedication to serving others is an outgrowth of the learn-by-doing situations they encounter in the 4-H program. 4-H projects stress practical skills that contribute to personal growth and development and ultimately benefit the community and the nation.

Providing companionship to the aged is just one of many service projects young people 9-19 in the national 4-H achievement program are involved in. Outstanding 4-H achievers may share in awards donated by Ford Motor Company Fund and arranged by the National 4-H Service Committee. Top awards in the program are silver trays presented to the high ranking boy and girl by the President of the United States.

Top 4-H'ers recognized

4-H'ers who excel in achievement may share in awards offered by Ford Motor Company Fund. Awards include medals of honor to four members per county, an expense-paid trip to the 54th National 4-H Congress (Nov. 30-Dec. 4 in Chicago) to one winner from each state, and $800 college scholarships to nine national winners.

The high-ranking boy and girl among the national winners receive silver trays presented by the President of the United States.

All winners are selected by the Extension Service on the basis of achievements and leadership in 4-H and their community service. Additional information on the program may be obtained from county extension agents.

THE SCIENTISTS TELL ME ...

By Robert L. Haney, Science Writer
The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station

Oaks Are Sensitive to Disease, Land Changes, People

As the rapidly growing Texas cities incorporate more wildland for housing, builders usually try to situate new homes in the shade of established trees. Many trees in newly developed areas become sick and eventually die.

The problem is often a perplexing one for homeowners. Frequently a tree may already have a disease and the upsetting of its environment hastens its death.

An example of environmental upset is construction that blocks drainage; this kills trees. Oaks are most commonly affected by this problem, according to E.P. Van Arsdel, forest pathologist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES).

"In Central Texas, live oaks, Spanish oaks and post oaks are most abundant and perhaps 20 percent of those in developed areas that die are killed by upset drainage. One good example of this is the building of a courtyard around the tree," Van Arsdel says.

Another damaging construction practice is cutting off or damaging of the tree roots. This not only causes the tree to "bleed" but it permits entry of diseases and insects.

Even this is not as bad as filling over the roots with soil (changing the original soil level with fill dirt); in effect, this "smothers" the tree.

An even bigger killer is oak decline. It takes over trees, and does it so slowly and slyly that many people are unaware that anything is wrong.

"This is a fungus wilt disease which also occurs in sycamores, elms and hackberries," the researcher says. Since the same kind of trees in one area intermingle roots so they grow together, the major means of spreading this disease is by way of the roots. "The first symptoms are a thinning of the larger and larger branches support fewer and fewer resprouts until finally the tree is dead. This decline takes from 5-15 years to kill larger trees, although some seem to die more rapidly."

This disease is most serious east of the line from Kingsville through Del Rio, San Angelo, Abilene to Bowie.

According to research, other injuries can produce the same symptoms making diagnosis difficult. Certain construction injuries or an underground gas line leak are common examples of this. Root cutting causes symptoms that look most like oak decline.

Research shows, Van Arsdel says, that oak decline can be cured by chemical treatment, but these chemicals are not yet cleared by the federal government for use on trees.

Effectiveness of the treatment has been tested in Texas, and after 5 years of research the survival rate of infected post oaks, live oaks and sycamores has been increased.

Cankers are another problem of many oak owners in Texas. In recent tests on live oaks in Texas, as much as 90 percent of the cankers on oaks were diagnosed as bark slough.

"This extensive canker causes the sloughing of large sheets of bark up to 20 feet long and is important as the final cause of death of many trees that have other diseases or have been injured in some way. The tissue exposed is usually blue-gray but can be tan or black," says Van Arsdel. "This canker has airborne spores which germinate to produce infections. The disease is often found on trees suffering from fill dirt over the roots, water table changes, root cutting, ditching, excess fertilization or too frequent watering. It is also found on 5-10 percent or more of the trees in 3 to 6 year old real estate developments," the scientist noted.

Besides researching the diseases of oaks, TAES scientists are studying the pathology of other hardwoods and pines. For instance, annosus root rot is a big killer of pines. Continuing research by forest pathologists is expected to find a way to bring this killer under control.

Texas Taxes

By BOB BULLOCK, State Comptroller

Austin—When someone owes $10,000 in delinquent sales taxes, you can be sure it's no Mom-and-Pop operation.

Delinquent taxes of $10,000 represents $200,000 in total taxable retail sales. While $200,000 in sales doesn't make one a business giant, it's plenty big enough to expect the business to be run properly, its book kept in order and its taxes paid.

I point this out to emphasize that in our current crackdown on delinquents we are not picking on "the little guys." The figures speak for themselves:

Between May 7 and August 15 we shut down 31 retail operations whose sales tax delinquencies totaled $1.1 million. That represents $22 million in total taxable sales—or an average of $710,000 in sales each. This is not small potatoes.

Look at some of the individual cases which go into making that average: a San Antonio liquor dealer owed more than $400,000 in delinquent taxes and had inventories on hand worth twice that. A Waco appliance dealer owed $112,000, a Dallas concrete firm $91,202, a Houston area pharmacy chain $64,000 and an Austin tire dealer $47,000.

By the same token, we did shut down some "small" operations who owed less than $10,000 and I don't apologize or feel any need to explain. It is very ample that if a delinquent owed, say, $1,500 last year and didn't do anything about it, he will owe probably $2,500 this year—and if left alone will owe $3,000 or $3,500 a year from now.

This is your money, whether it's $100 or $10,000. To let it "ride" only means that many more of your dimes and quarters and dollars are going into pockets where they don't belong.

We will bring into the state and city treasuries the $1.1 million owed by the 31 places we have visited—one way or another. Many of these businesses have already made satisfactory payoff arrangements with us and have been allowed to reopen.

This is particularly true of the "smaller" operations. One Houston restaurant shelled out $9,500 cash in $100 bills on the spot to keep its doors open. Since they had the money, I don't know why they let themselves go delinquent for the past four years! A drug store in Houston handed us $7,000 from the cash register and got another $2,000 from the bank to pay up and stay open.

The Austin tire dealer gave us $12,000 in cash, agreed to pay $2,000 a month and put up a bond to reopen his business.

I think that when the average working man and woman looks at these figures it is clear that we aren't talking about "little people." Even so, the mishandling of a small amount of the public's money is just as bad as the mishandling of a large amount. The law is equal and uniform, regardless of size, and I intend to see it enforced equally and uniformly.

Beyond the $1.1 million worth of delinquencies we have had to seize, our crackdown has had good results with literally hundreds of accounts which were on the borderline of being seized.

The former owner of a Galveston-area supermarket came up with $15,000 for his back taxes because he knew we could get a judgment on his present property. A Houston delinquent "just figured" we might be talking to him and he voluntarily paid $55,000 due. (He was dead right—we were looking at him.)

Since sales tax money comes from the customer's pockets, there is no excuse for delinquencies. As long as there are delinquents, there is no excuse for not doing something about it.

Haskell Young Homemakers Open Year With Banquet

"Get Involved" was the theme of the HYH Installation Banquet. The banquet was held Tuesday evening, August 26th in the Homemaking Cottage. The cottage was decorated in patriotic colors and gave the Spirit of '76.

The Young Homemakers served their husbands with a buffet style supper. The HYH members wore their long old fashioned dresses trimmed in red, white and blue colors.

After the meal, Stacy Angle, Miss Vernon Regional Jr. College, presented a patriotic program and sang the song she sang at the Miss Texas pageant in Ft. Worth this past summer. Stacy is from Knox City and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Angle. Stacy will be a freshman this fall at Vernon Regional Jr. College.

Stacy and her sister, Gwen, are busy making records and singing on various T.V. programs in Lubbock. Their records are being sold here in Haskell.

At the conclusion of the entertainment Mrs. Gray of Stamford Y.H. Chapter installed the new officers for the coming year 1975-1976. The officers are: President—Mrs.

Larry Cunningham; Vice-President—Mrs. Ronnie Adams; Secretary—Mrs. Eddie McKeever; Treasurer—Mrs. Bill Dumas; Reporter—Mrs. Danny Josselle; and Parliamentarian—Mrs. W. O. Nanny.

Mrs. J. W. Wallace presented Muriel Nanny with the Outstanding Young Homemaker of the Year award. Mrs. Nanny presented Charles Thornhill with a gift of appreciation from the club for his outstanding support of HYH.

The banquet was concluded with an HYH business meeting.

Freshman Class Elects Officers

Tuesday, August 27, 1975 the Haskell High School Freshman of 1975-1976 elected officers. Mrs. Edwin Jeter and Mr. David Burson, freshman class sponsors, started the election. Officers elected are as follows: President—Todd Bragg; Vice-President—Sarah Cox; Secretary—Robert Rodriguez and Reporter—Jackie Mayfield. Representing the Freshman in the Student Council will be Mark Wallace.

Each member of the Freshman class will be required to pay dues of one dollar. Deadline for dues will be the end of the first six-weeks.

TEXAS WATER QUALITY BOARD
AUSTIN, TEXAS 78711

THEY HAD A FUNERAL, BUT NOBODY DIED

The year was 1914. Woodrow Wilson left his cabinet meeting to push a pearl-embossed button. Hundreds of miles away a cannon was electronically activated in the Bayou City. With that boom, a part of Buffalo Bayou officially was christened the Houston Ship Channel.

Houston grew as a major seaport (now third in the nation), as industries began building their plants along the channel banks. And as the city grew and industries multiplied, so did the wastes going into the channel.

But with progress came problems. In the mid-1960's systematic surveys of the channel revealed that there was no oxygen in the water and consequently no marine life. So a clean-up campaign was launched. In December of 1965, the Texas Water Pollution Control Board, predecessor of the Texas Water Quality Board, adopted an order to control wastes going into the channel. But it was in 1967, when the Texas Water Quality Board was created, that strict requirements were instituted for cities and industries along the channel to clean up their waste discharges.

Even so, in December of 1970 some 100 persons gathered on the banks to pay their last respects to the Ship Channel, declared dead at the age of 55. Cause—suffocation.

But the old girl was only sleeping. She was far from gone.

About two years later some industries began to find their intake lines clogged with shrimp, crabs, eels and other marine life. And by 1973 some oxygen was present in the entire length of the channel.

Now, five years after the funeral, the Houston Ship Channel has come back to life. Seagulls again are regular visitors, feasting on delicacies in the channel—that umbilical cord which ties Texas to the rest of the world.

The channel isn't as clean as it needs to be or as it will be, but we're working on it.

Even with a full pig, I got an empty feeling inside.

United States Savings Bonds vs. the Piggy Bank.
1. If the Piggy Bank is stolen, you lose what's in it. That's the way it is with cash. If a Bond is stolen, you get a new one.
2. A Piggy Bank is easy for even its owner to rob. But Bonds can be bought through your Payroll Savings Plan at work, and a little is taken out of each check before you can get your hands on it.
3. The Piggy Bank may look kind and generous, but it won't give you any interest. A U.S. Savings Bond yields 6% when held to 5-year maturity.
4. The Piggy Bank money just sits there. A Bond helps our country.
In summary, you might wonder why grown folks would even use Piggy Banks. It's so much smarter to buy Bonds.
Avoid that empty feeling. Buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

Series E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4 1/2% the first year). Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

SOME PRICES HAVEN'T CHANGED ALL THAT MUCH. Little is said these days in defense of ye olde poste office. But, be it known that when the first sheets of U.S. stamps were printed in 1847 the two denominations then issued were five cents and ten cents, not all that much less than our present issues. The first purchaser was a man named Henry Shaw who was in Postmaster General Johnson's office when the first sheet of stamps was received from the printer. Obviously a man of caution, he bought one each of the denominations issued.

THAT'S ONE WAY OF LOOKING AT IT. It was Chesterton who said: "Submission to a weak man is discipline. Submission to a strong man is only servility."

YOU KNOW MORE THAN YOU KNOW YOU KNOW. You DO know Jacopo Robusti, Paolo Caliari, Domingo Theotocopuli, Raffaello Sanzio and Andrea d'Agnolo because they are, respectively, Tintoretto, Veronese, El Greco, Raphael—often called the greatest of all painters—and Andrea del Sarto. Looking at the names they are known by, one realizes they knew almost as much about the value of the right name as they did about their art.

Thyfault - Couch United In Marriage

Linda M. Thyfault and Riley C. Couch, III were united in marriage, Saturday evening, August 30, in a ceremony in the garden of the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Mary Ogilvie, 6710 Williamson Road, Dallas, with Rev. Dr. Troy Culpepper, Kaufman, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Parker, Dallas and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Couch, Jr.

Carolina jasmine and ferns made the background for a white arch covered with greenery for the wedding scene. Hurricane lamps outlined the garden area.

Mrs. Doris Watson of Dallas, organist played the wedding music and Mrs. W. L. Baxter, aunt of the bridegroom, of Dallas, accompanied Mrs. W. R. Moore, III, sister of the bridegroom, of San Antonio, as she sang, "I Love Thee" and the "Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. John Ashby, cousin of the bridegroom registered the guests. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore a long dress of imported voile with floral print skirt. The fitted bodice had long full sleeves and the waistline was defined with its french ribbon sash. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies.

Miss Diane Fox, sister of the bride, of DeSoto, was maid of honor. Mrs. W. R. Moore, III, of San Antonio and Mrs. Johnny Craig, cousin of the bridegroom, of Dallas, were bridesmaids. They wore long dresses of pastel dotted swiss and carried a long stem yellow rose.

Walter Felker was best man and groomsmen were Ray Herren and Tommy Perry, all of Dallas. Seating the guests were Capt. W. R. Moore, III, of San Antonio and Tom Hall, of Dallas.

The bride is presently employed by the Valley View National Bank in Dallas and attending the AIB School of Banking.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Texas A&M University, Vice-President of North Central Bank of Dallas and is in his Senior year at Southwestern Graduate School of Banking at SMU.

The bride and groom received the guests on the lawn following the wedding. The bride's table had a cover of white satin and was centered with a silver candelabra with yellow and white spider mums, blue corn flowers, peach carnations and gypsophila.

The groom's parents were hosts for the rehearsal dinner Friday evening in the home of Mrs. Mary Ogilvie.

The couple will reside at 5906 Village Glen Dr., Dallas.

Special guests included Mr. Frankie Don White's mother, Mrs. Frank White, Mr. White's grandmother, Mrs. White and Mr. White's sister and niece, Mrs. James Reding and Stacy. Also Mrs. White's mother, Mrs. Joe Davis, and Mrs. White's sister-in-law and niece, Mrs. David Davis and Marcy.

Hostesses were Mrs. Jim Pope, Mrs. Johnny Wilde, and Mrs. Charles Gibson.

Women Vets May Have Extra Money

Women veterans who were married and who attended school under the GI Bill between June 1, 1966, and October 24, 1972, may be eligible for a special Veterans Administration payment, according to Jack Coker, VA Regional Office Director.

During that period, Coker explained, female veterans who were married did not receive the increased allowance extended to male veterans who were married. They are now eligible for the additional amount—approximately $30 per month—for each month they were in training under the GI Bill while they had a spouse.

Passage of Public Law 92-540 in October 24, 1972, made male and female veterans eligible for payment of GI Bill money for spouses on the same basis. A recent VA ruling made this eligibility retroactive to June 1, 1966.

Women veterans can file claims for the money at the nearest VA Regional Office, but there is a cutoff date of July 1, 1976. Claims cannot be accepted after that date.

Proof of marriage while in training must be furnished in connection with the claim. The additional amount for husbands cannot be paid to women who trained under the other World War II and Korean Conflict GI Bills. Those who trained after October 24, 1972, have been paid on the same basis as their male counterparts.

The Kitchen Almanac

An assortment of cheese can provide a happy ending to your company dinner, with a minimum of fuss and flurry. Just remember to remove cheese from the refrigerator early enough to bring it to room temperature.

Twenty minutes to an hour should be long enough to bring out the best in flavor and texture of cheddar and blue cheese. Bring on butter for crisp crackers, and a bowl of icy-chilled fruit.

Rare, medium or well done beef? The rule is "as you like it." For accuracy, use a meat thermometer for roasts.

Less tender beef cuts — such as pot roasts, round steak and beef for stews — are cooked "well done" to develop their full flavor and tenderness.

Use low to moderate temperatures and don't overcook.

While we're on the subject of beef, fresh ground beef is at its best when you cook it within 24 hours.

If you want a really festive dessert, try this on your guests: coffee ice cream in the bottom of the dish followed by a spoonful of creme de cocoa and a dollop of whipped cream. For the final crowning touch, add 1/4 cup of drained fruit cocktail.

Chop herbs very fine to allow some of the flavoring oils to escape. Heat chopped herbs in melted butter and add to vegetable after it has been cooked, say USDA home economists.

If you're ever confused as to just when to use the waste disposer and when to use the trash compactor, researchers at KitchenAid appliances, one of the country's leading producers, suggest remembering this slogan: "compact the trash and grind the garbage."

Homemakers are finding the two appliances make a valuable cleanup combination. In fact, the folks at KitchenAid call them "cleanup-mates."

Staggering Statistics: The cattle population in India is 240 million head — as much as the U.S. and Soviet Union combined. On the other hand, the hog population in China is a whopping 237 million — more than four times the U.S. number. (The U.S.S.R. is in second place.)

Cover breads loosely with foil during the last 5-10 minutes of baking, if crust browns too quickly.

Send your kitchen hints to the Almanac c/o Harry G. Clark (512), 173 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill. 60602.

"Preparing Foods For Outdoor Parties"

An outdoor party is an ideal way to entertain because it crosses the line between a formal affair and a casual picnic. To insure the success of your outdoor party, be sure to exercise caution in food preparation since food spoilage is more prevalent when temperatures rise.

Food spoilage almost always stems from the improper handling of food. Whenever applicable, do cook party foods at temperatures of 140 degrees or higher, rather than just warming them up. Be sure to store cold dishes below 45 degrees. These high and low temperatures kill many of the organisms that can cause food poisoning.

Another guideline to keep in mind is never prepare potato, macaroni or egg salad from eggs with cracked shells, no matter how tiny the crack is. Bacteria can enter through the smallest opening and cause food spoilage.

Many people don't realize that insects, or even the family pet, can contaminate foods. To help ward off unwanted pests, place a few fragrant insect repellent decorative candles on the table. Immediately before and after serving, protect your foods by covering dishes with wax paper. There's no need to worry about the paper blowing off during a breeze if you cut the wax paper long enough to fit around the bottom of the serving bowl or dish. In this way, the serving dish acts as its own paperweight for the wax paper.

Another way to minimize the danger of food spoilage is to serve and cook food in serving dishes with smooth, non-porous surfaces. These are the easiest to clean and the least likely to develop crevices and hollows where bacteria can hide. Forget about elaborate dinnerware, fancy flatware, crystal and damask napkins, too. Instead, use Scotkins dinner napkins and Scott placemats with color coordinated paper plates. These items are not only pretty but they are disposable. This eliminates any possibility of contamination and lessens the drudgery of after-party clean-up.

By keeping hot foods hot and cold foods cold, the chances of food spoilage are minimal. And remember, maintain the highest sanitary conditions possible by keeping hands and utensils spotless. If you follow these few simple rules, your outdoor party can be an occasion of which you will long be proud.
