Co. Agent Advises Farmers to Treat Their Seed Grains

Farm and ranch reports coming from various parts of Knox County indicate much loss of grain crops in the past from smut, seed rot and blight, according to J. M. Carpenter, County Agent.

"Smut often decreases the yield of wheat by five bushels per acre," said Mr. Carpenter. "At the present price of wheat this is very expensive."

As a precaution to keep the diseases under control, Mr. Carpenter advised farmers to treat all seeds, including wheat, barley, oats, and rye with 1-2 ounce of New Improved Ceresan per bushel before planting. A good method is to treat the seed in an oil drum or barrel that has a tight fitting lid and arranged so it can be revolved on an axis.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. West, Benjamin, a daughter. Mr. and Mrs. C. J. McKinney, O'Brien, a daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Mapes, Haskell, a son. Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Hudspeth, Rochester, a daughter. Mrs. Tom Lair, Jr., and daughter, Andrea, and Miss Maye Shaver of Canyon arrived in Knox City Sunday night. They were called because of the serious illness of Edward Braxton Shaver III, three week old son of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Shaver, Jr.

The Greyhounds chalked up another conference win Friday night by defeating the Benjamin Mustangs, 73-0. At first, it seemed as though Benjamin might put up a tough fight, but by the second quarter they lost all hope. The Mustangs tried some powerhouse line drives in the first part of the game, but the Greyhounds held them off for four downs and then started the scoring. Jack Teaff ran a double reverse and went over for a touchdown.

In the first of the second quarter, the Greyhounds got a safety, when Donald Caussey tackled a Mustang behind the goal line.

Dick Buckley received a pass and ran the Greyhounds' second touchdown. Teaff quickly added another score by running a punt back 60 yards for a touchdown. Bob Hackfield ran a touchdown on a kickoff, and in a very short time added another touchdown when he received a pass.

In the second half, Jack Teaff ran another punt back for a touchdown. He caught the ball practically at the goalpost and went down the left side all the way for the score. Bob Hackfield immediately followed with another touchdown run. Ken Clonts ran the length of the field and was stopped just short of pay dirt, but Jack Teaff ran it over. After that, Buckley ran for a touchdown, and Jack Teaff added two more.

Coach Schofield's Greyhounds are facing a hard battle this Friday night when they meet Megargel on the local gridiron. Megargel was undefeated until last Friday night when O'Brien clipped them 19-9, the final score being undecided until the last few minutes of the game. Since the Greyhounds downed O'Brien earlier in the season by a fair margin, they are doped to take the game, however, Megargel is reported to have a good pass offensive and to know how to use it. This game will decide whether the local squad will hold first place in the district or be in a three way tie with Megargel and O'Brien.

Coach Schofield reports his charges in fair condition and promises a good game Friday night at 8:00 o'clock.

O'Brien Defeats Megargel, 19 to 9

The O'Brien Bulldogs defeated the much-touted Megargel Mustangs last Friday at Megargel with a score of 19-9.

O'Brien's star back, Ross Banner, scored on the opening kickoff and ran another in the second quarter, with White coming in with one. No score was run in the last half of the game. Both squads threatened several times but lacked a scoring punch when they neared pay dirt.

O'Brien, who has been defeated only once this season, meets Mattson on the Knox City field tonight (Thursday) at 8:00 o'clock.

FAR EASTERN REPORT—Here's what members of the house military affairs committee reported to General Eisenhower...

1. Morale of our Far East occupational troops is being endangered by the army's delay in sending wives and families to officers and enlisted men.

2. The army is doing little to set up facilities for the proper housing of army wives and children who want to join the troops.

3. Another demoralizing factor is the shortage of cigarettes, fresh fruit and vegetables.

Eisenhower promised to look into these facts immediately.

Congressmen reported that an estimated 350 Jap soldiers are still at large on the island of Okinawa...

The returned congressmen are worried that lower ranking commissioned officers are "taking the Japs to their hearts."

One of MacArthur's difficulties is the great shortage of Jap-American interpreters.

Plans to recruit 50,000 Filipinos for our army have fallen through because of lack of money.

Worst areas in the Pacific for troop morale are Korea and the Aleutians.

Most interesting fact about Stalin's recent widely broadcast and widely-hailed-as-conciliatory statements...

Thus, despite Stalin's attempt to woo the world, his aims remain exactly the same.

For, in 1940, when Russia and Germany were under a non-aggression pact, the same Molotov now dickering in Paris went to Berlin to dicker with Ribbentrop...

Now that the war is over, Stalin and Molotov are right back where they were in 1940—trying to get the Dardanelles and other long-range Russian objectives.

The Sweeping Tides by H.M. EGBERT

Mark Darrell, young American lumberman, is boss of a lumber camp near St. Victor, Canada. He and his assistant, Nat Page, almost lose their lives when their boat strikes a rock.

CHAPTER II The sun was streaming brightly into the room when they were awakened by the boy, carrying a tray with eggs and toast, coffee and preserves of wild strawberries.

They stared at them, with difficulty taking in, for the moment, the circumstances of their arrival.

"Breakfast in bed! Can you beat that?" asked Nat. "Gosh, I'm as hungry as a bear, Mark."

They ate and drank, changed the clothes in which they had slept for their old ones, now dry, looked at each other and laughed.

"Everything I had in the world was in that old valise," said Nat. "Guess we'll make quite a sensation in the local dry-goods store, buying out their stock. Let's take a look-see outside."

Nobody was stirring outside the house, and the shades of Madeleine Kinross' room were down.

At the top, Nat looked about him and whistled. Slowly he moved around the compass, taking in the whole view.

They were standing at the commencement of a sort of natural rock bridge, about wide enough for two carts to pass each other.

"Behind them was the all-but-island on which stood the lighthouse and the other buildings, with the blue St. Lawrence beyond, and the dim outlines of the south shore, hazy in the far distance.

Beyond the little wharf Mark could see the mill, the long flume and the dam, and, higher up, the cleft of the St. Victor river, and the banks, still snow-covered, with the great trees towering over all.

Among the schooners was a trim motor-yacht, anchored to the head of the wharf.

"Some place," said Nat. "You bet."

"How about having it out with Madame Kinross?" "I've an idea," said Mark, "that Broussac's aboard that yacht. I guess my wire upset him more than his letter did me."

"If he is, we ought to know soon. I guess the news of our arrival has already spread to the village."

"Let's go down and see. We hold the winning hand, so let's play it."

Women appeared instantaneously at the doors of the shacks. They stared at the two; one clutched a child as it was about to run toward the strangers, dragged it to her, and thrust it, screaming, inside the cabin.

from behind, knife in hand. Next instant this assailant found his knife-hand held in a firm grasp, and his head under Mark's arm, while Mark's other fist pummeled the imprisoned face until its owner yelled for mercy.

Mark flung him away. The two were completely ringed now, and a sudden silence had fallen, ominous because it was evident that St. Victor's blood was up, and that it was nursing itself for something more murderous than before.

Then suddenly Madeleine Kinross' clear, high voice rose above the crowd, and, turning, Mark saw her standing a little distance away.

"Leave those two men alone!" she cried. "Ah, Louis Larousse," she cried to the big man who had held the knife, as he stumbled past her, his hands to his discoloring face, "you got just what you deserved! Are you not ashamed, all of you, to set upon these two strangers, who were shipwrecked on the point last night, and owe their lives to a miracle of God?"

Down the street in her wake came the portly figure of the cure, who had just received news of the trouble. It seemed to add point to the girl's outcry. The muttering crowd drew back and was silent.

"Are you not ashamed of yourselves, I say?" Madeleine Kinross continued. "They are not spies nor detectives. I do not know who spread this stupid story among you. I have told you that they are not, but you will not believe me."

"The lease stands," answered Mark. "That's all."

"That's your last word?" "It is."

"And how do you think you are going to run the mill at a profit in this fishing and sealing country, when even I failed? How are you going to operate in the face of the universal opposition of these people? They don't want outsiders. They won't work for you. You'll lose everything."

"That's your last word?" asked Mark. "Then listen to me. I'll run that mill, and if I encounter any opposition from you, or any more violence, such as was occurred this morning, I shall hold you personally responsible, Monsieur Broussac. I shall likewise take it up with the Bar Association. My backers are not without influence at Quebec. Now it's up to you."

Broussac's face was a study in mottled red and white. He began breathing hard, like a man who has run a race. He watched Mark's face closely.

"Very well," he answered. "Try to run the mill. There shall be no opposition from me, no violence. But try—only try!" He raised his voice in French. "Monsieur Darrell has come here to work the mill, and to ship lumber," he shouted. "If any man here annoys him in any way, I promise him six months in the Quebec jail. Voilà! I trust," he continued suavely, "that we shall be friendly enemies, Mr. Darrell!"

"You know—you know," she went on passionately, while the crowd listened in utter silence. "I have never believed my husband, the seigneur, died on that ice-floe in the fog. If he had died, I should know it. I should feel it here." She struck her hand upon her breast. "Perhaps he became insane, and is being detained somewhere by those who are ignorant of his identity."

"Some day he will return. I know it. I feel it. And it is my duty, as his wife, to preserve the timber rights on his property. Come, am I not speaking rightly? You, Monsieur Lacombe—she turned to the cure—"am I not right? Do you believe my husband is dead?"

The portly cure remained as silent as the crowd.

"I have watched you all. When I say that the seigneur is not dead, you look at me as if I were crazy. But I am not crazy. He will return, and I must protect his rights. Therefore—she turned to Mark—"you will, of course, rescind that agreement that you made with Monsieur Broussac last fall."

"I'm sorry," said Mark, "but I have two other persons to consider besides myself. It is a matter of business investment, and will have to go through."

"You—you mean to say you will not? That you will stay here in defiance of the wishes of everybody, and try to run that mill?" "Yes," answered Mark, still bold-dated nor appealed to. Yes," he added, glancing at the gaping faces, and speaking in French, "I shall remain here."

Suddenly cries arose from the direction of the wharf. A man came striding along it, a man in a spruce blue suit, with a fur coat with black lamb collar. A man of about forty years, with a trim black moustache, an intelligent face, a lounging, studied carelessness in his walk—Horace Broussac.

Still that silence persisted, until Broussac came up to where Mark confronted Madeleine Kinross. He raised his black lamb cap, and offered Mark his hand. Mark saw no reason to refuse to take it.

"You gave me a fine chase, young man," said the lawyer. "Lucky I had a friend who was willing to lend me his yacht. And I hear you nearly got drowned last night into the bargain."

"He says he will not go," said Madeleine, wringing her hands. "How much money does he need to go, Cousin Horace?"

"Which is precisely the point," said Broussac, speaking in English now, which Mark could see nobody, not even Madeleine or the cure, understood. He motioned Mark a foot or two away. He shook his finger in kindly reproof.

"Legally nobody can deny your right to the lease I signed with you on behalf of my ward last fall," he said. "Madame Kinross is now of age. That does not cancel the lease. But she feels so strongly against the intrusion of outsiders into St. Victor, against the alienation of her late husband's lands, that I am forced to ask you for a cancellation."

"Since the lease was signed, her fortunes have improved through a wise speculation. In brief, Monsieur, if you had written me, instead of rushing up here, and nearly losing your life, I should have offered you five thousand dollars for the cancellation of that lease."

Mark wondered what other prospective lessee Broussac had got, and how much more he was willing to pay, that he should be willing to make that offer.

"I'm sorry—no," he replied. "The contract stands."

Broussac's face grew red. "Understand, Mr. Darrell, I am not to be bargained with," he cried. "If you are holding out for six, I might pay six. Not a cent more. Come, you have lost nothing. What do you say?"

"The lease stands," answered Mark. "That's all."

"That's your last word?" "It is."

"And how do you think you are going to run the mill at a profit in this fishing and sealing country, when even I failed? How are you going to operate in the face of the universal opposition of these people? They don't want outsiders. They won't work for you. You'll lose everything."

Veterans' SERVICE BUREAU

EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper, through special arrangement with the Washington Bureau of Western Newspaper Union at 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on problems of the veterans and servicemen and his family.

Loan Aid to Veterans Through August, 1946, Veterans' administration has guaranteed a total of 293,931 home, farm and business loans under the G. I. Bill, according to an announcement by Thomas B. King, recently named director of VA loan guarantee service.

King, who has been serving as assistant director, became active director upon the recent resignation of F. X. Pavesich, who formerly headed the service. King is a navy veteran with three years' active duty in World War II.

The total face value of VA guaranteed loans amounts to $1,429,331,000, of which the VA has guaranteed or insured $657,958,000 and of which approximately 90 per cent is for homes.

Recent appointment of J. Glenn Corbit, employee of Veterans' administration since 1924, in charge of the office of insular and foreign relations, takes the service of the VA abroad to look after veterans' affairs and to co-ordinate with the department of state all activities in foreign countries.

Questions and Answers Q. Has the state of Wisconsin ever given a bonus for World War II veterans? Have any other states done so? I took out a government insurance policy while in the army in 1936 and 1937 for only nine months. It was a $1,000 policy, ordinary life. Could I get a cash surrender of this policy? If so, to whom do I write? —R. J. K., Oakland, Calif.

A. Only three states now are paying veterans' bonus to World War II veterans. They are Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Vermont. Maine passed a law subject to referendum but at the recent election voters rejected the law. Rhode Island, Illinois and Michigan have passed veterans' bonus laws subject to a referendum at the November election. New York also has passed a similar law, but it must be approved by the next legislature and then be subject to a referendum vote. No other states have as yet passed such laws.

A peacetime government life insurance policy does have a cash surrender value. Suggest you write to Insurance Division, Veterans' Administration, Washington, D. C.

Q. I would appreciate so much if I could hear from some of the boys who were in Company E, 182nd infantry on Bougainville island in March, 1944. My son, James M. Smith Jr., was reported wounded March 11 and died March 14. He was operating a machine gun. I have tried to get information concerning his death from the chaplain and government officials and through the Red Cross. All I have heard is that he was hit by shell fragments and died shortly after reaching the hospital. Any information you can give will be highly appreciated. —Mrs. James M. Smith, Route 1, Glen Allen, Ala.

A. I hope boys of Company E, 182nd infantry, see this appeal and communicate with Mrs. Smith. Suggest that you write to Casualty Branch, Office of Adjutant General, War Department, Washington 25, D. C., give them your son's full name, serial number, rank and regiment and all details you have. If they have additional information, they will inform you.

Q. My husband, after being in the army since 1939, was discharged last March. After he had been out two weeks over his 90 days, he enlisted in the navy for six years. I've been told I'll get an allotment. I'd like to know if that is true. Also if he is compelled to make out one to my child and myself. If so can he cancel it at any time he wants to? We have no divorce and are not planning one, but he tries not to support us if he can.—R.J.D., Deaver, Colo.

A. Usually the serviceman applies to his commanding officer for an allotment for his dependents. Is the child his child? If your husband does not apply for an allotment, then suggest that you write to the Chief, Navy Personnel, Navy Department, Washington 25, D. C., and explain the situation and ask for the forms to make application for an allowance yourself. They will determine your eligibility.

Q. My husband entered the service September 3, 1942, and was discharged September 2, 1943. I received only 18 allotment checks while he was in service. Am I entitled to any more allotments from the government? I now am divorced from my husband.—Mrs. J. L. C., New Albany, Miss.

A. You are entitled to allotments from the time your husband applied for allotments. Suggest you write to the Bureau of Dependency Bene-

PAUL TRAINS FOR HIS LIFE WORK

LESSON TEXT—Acts 9:19-22; 11:23-26; Galatians 1:17-24.
MEMORY SELECTION—And straightway he preached Christ in the synagogues, that he is the Son of God.—Acts 9:20.

The regenerating grace of God had made Paul into a new man, one who now had no greater delight than telling others of the redeeming grace of God.

In preparation for that fuller ministry which was to follow, Paul first gave witness in the place where he had been persecuting the Christians, in fact, in the city to which he was bound when the Lord met him. But now instead of breathing out threats and violence he met these former associates and friends with the new message of the gospel.

He had to meet them sooner or later, and it was well that he met them now. A clean break with his past makes a man ready for future service.

I. Paul Faces His Past (Acts 9:19b-22)

What a surprise it must have been for those persecutors of the Christians at Damascus to find that the one to whom they had looked for leadership was now a Christian. What a testimony that was—right to the point!

"Straightway"—what a good word to apply to the servant of the Lord. Paul did not hesitate to declare his faith in Christ, to proclaim that the One who had redeemed him was able to save others.

It is the normal and proper expression of Christian faith to give testimony to others. That should be true of every believer. With Paul there was the added element of his call to preach, for God had ordained that he should be his chosen vessel for that purpose (Acts 9:15).

Paul's message was Christ. He proved to the Jews that Jesus was the Christ (v. 22), the One of whom their Old Testament Scriptures spoke and for whom they professed to be looking. He declared him to be the Son of God (v. 20).

They were unwilling to accept the message. They were "amazed" at Paul and "confounded" by the truth he proclaimed, but they rejected both it and him, and he had to escape for his life.

Although our lesson only indirectly refers to it (see Gal. 1:17, 18), it should also be noted that Paul went up to Jerusalem before he went to Antioch, as indicated in our next portion of Scripture.

There he faced suspicion on the part of the believers, who knew him as their enemy.

Having faced his past we now see that

II. Paul Faces His Future (Acts 11:23, 26)

He was God's chosen instrument to bear his name to the Gentiles (see Acts 9:15), and at the invitation of Barnabas he came up from his home city of Tarsus to minister at Antioch, the place which now became his real spiritual home, and the center from which his great missionary enterprise was carried out.

It is interesting to note how this came about in the providence of God. Persecution spread the believers abroad (Acts 11:19), and like the scattered brands of a beaten fire they carried the flame of Christianity far and wide. Thus the gospel came to Antioch, the third greatest city in the world of that day. A revival broke out and Barnabas was sent from Jerusalem to be of help.

Good and spiritual man that he was (Acts 13:23, 24), Barnabas did nothing to hinder this work of God, but admonished the people to "cleave unto the Lord"; that is, to follow him closely. Would that all spiritual advisers had such a spirit and such sound judgment.

He was also wise in sensing his need of help. So he went after Paul, the very man to teach these young Christians and to lead them out into a radiant and abundant life for the Lord. Here it was that the beautiful name of "Christian" was first used.

III. Paul Faces His Lord (Gal. 1:17-24)

Many years after he had been called to Antioch, Paul wrote this letter to the Galatians to warn them against Judaizing teachers and to urge them to hold fast to salvation by faith. He declared this to be a message which he received from God and not from men.

Before Paul went out to preach and teach he went up into Arabia to be alone with the Lord, as he took what we might call his postgraduate course in theology. He learned—alone with God.

His life had been transformed. His attitudes had been completely changed. His thinking about Christ was diametrically opposite to his former beliefs. He needed time alone with God to prepare himself is the fifteenth of 22 that will appear in this series on the need for soil conservation, the amount of reservation being carried over, insurance, commodity marketing quotas, and programs of interest to farmers.

Marketing Quotas
Marketing quotas were in effect in 1945 on only one commodity, tobacco, and limited burley and flue-cured tobacco. The quota for any commodity is the actual amount produced on the farm's acreage.

Marketing quotas were made effective in 1944, 1945 and 1946 on burley and flue-cured tobacco without regard to acreage supply, by joint action of Congress approved in 1943, and March 31, 1945, and July 1, 1946, respectively. The total acreage allotted to all farms in 1940 was made available for adjusting inequitable allotments.

The 1944 crop of flue-cured tobacco amounted to 1,089,783,000 pounds, the second largest crop of record; the 1944 crop of burley amounted to 591,760,000 pounds, the largest crop of record. These amounts were sufficient to enable domestic manufacturers to maintain record output of tobacco products and, at the same time, to increase inventories and meet export demands.

In administering the 1945 marketing-quota program, duties of the county and community AAA committees included establishing acreage allotments and normal yields for 461,037 farms, notifying producers of their allotments, determining the acreage planted on each farm, estimating the production on each farm where the acreage harvested was in excess of the planted acreage, issuing to farm operators marketing cards for use in identifying the tobacco marketed from the farm, and reviewing records of marketings from each farm.

Producers of flue-cured tobacco were asked to report planted acreage, and at least 5 per cent of the reports were verified by field visits.

Congress provided special funds for making actual measurements of burley tobacco grown in 1945. This work was done by community committees, with the help of other persons employed for this purpose by the county AAA committee.

Veterans' News

Q. How can I arrange to have my National Service Life Insurance premiums deducted from the disability compensation checks I receive from the Veterans Administration?

A. You can do this if you will go to any Veterans Administration office and fill out a form authorizing VA to make the deductions from your compensation payments.

Q. I have been turned down by a lending institution for a G. I. guaranteed loan to buy a business. Does this mean that I can't get a G. I. guaranteed loan to go into business?

A. No. If one lender turns you down, try another one. The fact that one lender is not interested does not indicate that your proposition is not sound.

Q. Before the G. I. Bill was amended, I used up my whole guarantee of $2,000 to buy a farm. Now that the maximum guarantee has been increased to $4,000, would I be entitled to an additional $2,000 loan guarantee if I wish to purchase more land?

A. Yes. If you used part or all of your loan guarantee before the Servicemen's Readjustment Act (G. I. Bill) was amended last winter, the credit used is deducted from the amount for which you are eligible under the new bill, and the remainder is the amount of guaranteed credit which you may use in obtaining future loans.

Q. Can I change the beneficiary or beneficiaries of my National Service Life Insurance without letting the beneficiaries know anything about it?

A. Yes. A veteran may change the beneficiary or beneficiaries of his National Service Life Insurance at any time without their knowledge or consent by notifying Veterans Administration. For further information the veteran should consult the nearest VA office.

Q. May I transfer from one college to another under the provisions of the Service-man's Readjustment Act or the Rehabilitation Act?

A. Yes. Under the regulations of the Veterans Administration, the veteran may change his school, but he must have the approval of Veterans Administration in advance.

Contracts with the Louisiana and Texas state medical societies to provide home town medical care for veterans with service-connected disabilities are in the final stages of negotiation, the Veterans Administration revealed this week.

At the same time, VA, through its Central Office in Washington, D. C., is seeking contracts with state hospital associations in the Southwest on a standard schedule of hospital costs so that VA can utilize more private hospital facilities for veterans with service-connected disabilities.

Signing of these contracts will enable eligible veterans to get good medical care in their own communities and in many instances will eliminate the necessity of making long trips to VA hospitals for treatment.

More than $7,000 worth of movie equipment especially designed for bed-ridden patients.

has been donated to Veterans Administration hospitals in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi by the Texas Variety Club.

The organization, made up of Texans in the entertainment industry, raised the funds and purchased the equipment so that veterans confined to their beds by war injuries or sickness would be assured of entertainment at all times.

The Variety Club's gift included 22 light and portable projectors with prismatic lenses to throw movies on the ceiling or an overhead screen. Each projector is equipped with three headphone sets which enable selected patients to listen to the movie dialogue without disturbing others in the ward.

Institutions of higher learning in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi are expecting a record enrollment of about 133,000 students this fall, according to preliminary reports reaching VA. Former service men and women are enrolling in tremendous numbers, these reports indicated.

Want a Vacation from Marriage?

Alvin Blake went south on his vacation, for some fishing, and left his Missus to enjoy a vacation from the corn-cob pipe, clothes in a heap, and solos on the harmonica.

First few days, Martha enjoyed it—house neat and quiet, top back on the toothpaste, no morning mess from Alvin's midnight snacks (Al's partial to a bit of cheese and beer at bedtime).

Come the end of the week, she began to fidget; couldn't even read the Clarion, it looked so unsummed; didn't have any appetite with nobody to rock for. She was about to wire Al, when he barges home a week ahead of time, and she almost cries for gratitude. ("Felt the same way myself," says Al.)

From where I sit, those differences of habit and opinion—whether they have to do with corn-cob pipes, a glass of beer, or playing the harmonica, seem mighty trivial when you're separated. And they are, too!

Rudolph Hackfield was with a girl from Munday, Monday night. I'll bet it was pretty cold in the rumble seat, wasn't it, Rudy?

William Roy Baker, Donald Caussey and Ken Clonts all went to Dallas to the Fair. They say Gypsy Rose Lee is a pretty good looking woman. Bobby Joe and Clara Dean had a cozy time after the football game Friday night.

● Fish News

Well, six weeks exams are over and Thursday is the day we will learn our fate. We hope we all made good, but if we didn't we are going to chase our blues away by having a skating party Thursday night.

It seems that the State Fair has captured the attention of several high school boys—or it might have been Gypsy Rose Lee. The last two weeks quite a few have gone to Dallas—to see football games, so they say. I wonder how many actually saw the games. Tommy Dorsey had a small part in Gypsy Rose Lee's show and it is said a few other celebrities, such as Dick Haymes and Esther Williams, were there.

The trips taken by these boys were well worth the time and money, yet I believe they were all happy to be home for a nice long rest. —Donald Caussey.

The juniors have been one of the busiest classes in school the past two weeks. They sold sandwiches and peanuts at the football game Friday night and cleared seven dollars. The following Saturday they held a rummage sale and will hold one Saturday also. Anyone who has anything he wishes to get rid of please call the Junior class and they will be more than glad to pick it up for you.

The juniors will have the food booth at the carnival on Monday and Tuesday nights, and the seniors will have it on Wednesday and Friday.

Another thing the juniors have undertaken to make some money is the selling of subscriptions and renewals to magazines published by the Curtis Magazine Company. We will take any subscription or renewal until October 25.

So he's an electric eel, so what?
All right, then, he r-e-e-l-y isn't an eel at all, but to be technical, his name's Electrophorus (Greek for Electricus)—Jim for short. He's a South American cousin of the carp and catfish. Maybe Jim does pack a wallop of 600 volts or annoyed (and he has a shocking temper).

Can he wash 3 tubs of clothes?
Or tell the correct time for 4 days?
Or light a hundred-candle power lamp for 3 hours?

You bet he can't. He's not usefully self-sufficient electricity—all you need—at low cost.

And speaking of low cost—did you know your family is getting twice as much electricity for the same money as it did 15 years ago? That's no accident—like financial voltage. Folks in this company have been under sound business management. That's why service is lower in cost—and higher in efficiency before.
