MRS. DUPUY SURPRISED WITH PARTY

Mrs. M. L. Dupuy of O'Brien was surprised Wednesday when a large crowd of friends and relatives gathered at her home for a party honoring her. The occasion was just that of friendship and good will.

Mrs. Dupuy was presented many lovely gifts and following the presentation and a most enjoyable social hour refreshments of cake and punch were served.

Mrs. Dupuy is around 78 years of age. She has been a resident of O'Brien for twenty years. She is the mother of Mrs. E. E. Teaff, another daughter being Mrs. L. F. Cozens of Hamlin who was numbered among the guests on Wednesday. Other guests included residents of Haskell, Knox and Jones counties.

Wednesday was a memorial day for Mother Dupuy.

SCOUTS WILL MAKE FAT STOCK SHOW

Announcement was made Tuesday by Scout Master Casey Jones that the scouts were leaving Friday for the Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth. This trip is a treat that the boys have looked forward to with much pleasure and they will doubtless return home with many interesting reports.

Monday, March 12 is second Monday and the date set by the Boy Scouts for the monthly removal of cans, trash, etc. Due to the fact that scouts will be just returning home from Fort Worth Monday, they have stated that they will remove all rubbish on Tuesday following. Every one is asked to have all cans and other rubbish collected and in a container near the roadside. The boys will pick up same Tuesday.

Mrs. Joe Averitt and Mrs. C. H. Keck entertained the 42 club on Friday night of last week. Following the games a most delicious refreshment plate was served. Color scheme and motifs used throughout the evening were in keeping with Texas Independence day.

Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Kenny spent the first of the week on the plains.

THE GROOMS PARADE

Tuesday a most unique parade of grooms stopped all traffic in the business district about three o'clock. Noted for its brevity the parade also is recorded as being quite the most amusing one here in some months.

Due to the fact that his married days numbered less than the other two, Hap Smith was forced to furnish the most amusement for the onlookers. He was dressed in a gunny sack but allowed to wear his own socks, supporters and slippers, then seated upon a cool hunk of ice in a wheelbarrow and motored through the city by newly wed Shorty Gleas. Incidentally, Shorty puffed a huge cigar and wore an overcoat. He was immediately followed by Chad Wilson (newlywed of a few days longer) who was normal except for the exposure of one leg and rolled sock. After making the drive north, Hap was forced to hop out and let Shorty ride, help furnishing the horse power.

All told the parade was quite amusing. And it is useless to say the Fire Boys enjoyed it immensely.

HESTER AND CLARK CAR ACCIDENT

Tuesday afternoon J. P. Hester and E. R. Clark met forces in a car accident at the corner of the W. P. Evans home in the southeast section of the city.

Hester was driving his new V-8 and Clark was in his model T. Both which were damaged but neither man injured. The accident drew a large crowd and furnished the occasion for a town social.

J. W. HAMM HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Mr. J. W. Hamm was pleasantly surprised last Thursday with a dinner given honoring his 72 birthday. Although Tuesday was Mr. Hamm's birthday, Mrs. Hamm and Mrs. J. H. Finley selected to honor him on Friday, which delay made the dinner even more surprising. Guests included Mr. Hamm the honoree, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Wall, Mr. and Mrs. Pross Hitchcock, Brother and Mrs. C. G. Stovall, Mrs. Travis Dean, Mrs. Horance Finley, and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Keenan. Mrs. J. H. Finley presented the birthday cake and Mr. Hitchcock presented other gifts which were made by the entire group present.

Mr. Hamm has been a resident of Knox county for the past 19 years. It is doubtful that any other single day during those 19 years brought more genuine happiness to Mr. Hamm than did Thursday of last week.

Mrs. S. L. Favor has returned home from Abilene where she has been with her daughter Mrs. Caldwell who is ill.

Miss Dixie Birdwell is spending this week with her mother in Mankin.

The ladies of the Baptist church are this week observing the week of prayer.

Edmund Smith is home this week with a well broken out case of the measles.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Ameen and family spent Sunday with their daughter in Munday.

Mrs. Ed Campsey and Mrs. Otto Lawson entertained the ladies of the B. W. M. U. Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Campsey. The devotional for the afternoon was given by Mrs. Byron Lee, a short business session following. The social hour was concluded with the serving of sandwiches, cakes, pickles and hot chocolate.

The Saint Patrick color scheme and motifs were used in decorating and in refreshments.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Patients in the hospital this week include Mrs. Keyler of Rhineland, Miss Ophelia Leach of Sagerton, Mrs. J. M. Stockton of Vera, Mrs. A. B. Hicks of Rochester, Everett Tucker of Truscott, Mrs. Deer and infant daughter Mable Ann of Werner, Mrs. Joe Clark of Mexico, Mr. West of Rule and Mr. Jackson of Benjamin.

G. T. Hardberger of this city was dismissed Tuesday; Mrs. Roy Hester of Rochester was dismissed Tuesday; Bobby Barton of Goree was dismissed Tuesday and went to the home of his aunt Mrs. Brooks Campsey for a few days.

Mr. Starkey of Sweetwater bought a new V-8 coupe from Warren of this city last Friday.

Mrs. E. Q. Warren is reported ill this week and unable to be with her music pupils.

Mrs. D. C. Hutton and Mrs. E. E. Acker of Truscott visited with friends and relatives here Tuesday.

Mrs. P. B. Baker received a message Tuesday of the death of her sister-in-law, Miss Ida Baker, in Electric Texas. She died of pneumonia. Mrs. Baker attended the funeral Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Hitchcock of Rochelle spent the past weekend here. They were accompanied home by Mrs. J. R. Bradberry and little Miss Lora Beth Bradberry for the week.

Baptist Revival Closes Sunday

The Revival meeting now in progress at the First Baptist church will close with the evening service Sunday.

Although the attendance was not up to par during this series of services, it has showed an increase with the closing of this week. Reverend Whatley has done some wonderful preaching and those not attending were the losers.

Everyone is invited to all services during the remainder of this meeting.

The church membership was favored Sunday with the presence and service of Dr. N. A. Moore of Abilene, head of the Bible department of Simmons University. Dr. Moore preached at both the morning and evening services. His sermons were both simply presented but possessing an abundance of Christian philosophy and love.

SHOOTS SELF IN FINGER

Mr. Otto Polster, employee on the George Stubbs farm, sought medical treatment Tuesday after shooting himself in the finger in an attempt to kill a wolf.

Mr. Polster was working when he saw the wolf. He got his gun but on crawling through a fence the gun discharged, hitting Polster in the little finger of his left hand. The injury was very minor but had an impressive effect upon Mr. Polster. The wolf still lives.

DEATH OF LITTLE VIOLA PEARL RADER

Little Viola Pearl Rader was born in Erath county near Stephenville Texas on April 26, 1924 and died in Knox City Sunday, February 12, 1934 with typhoid fever. Funeral services were held from the Church of Christ by Brother Wilburn Hill February 19 and burial was made in O'Brien. She was buried beside the great grandfather.

Viola was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rader and the only grand child of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rader. She is also survived by other grand parents, several great aunts and uncles and a number of other relatives.

To know little Viola was to love her. She, being the only child, was the pride and joy of her parents. Though they know she has gone to rest with the Angels, they are very heart broken over their loss.

All that could be done by faithful loving hands and medical skill was done to prevent her death but to no avail.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rader have lived at O'Brien a few months. Stephenville was their home before moving here and they have many friends in that section as well as here.

They weep not for little Viola as those who have no hope for they know that their loss is Heaven's gain.

Written by one who loved her.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends both white and colored for the kindness shown us in the passing of our wife and mother. We are thankful for the kind words and the beautiful flowers.

Folloy Henry, teacher of the colored school in Knox City, was in Rule last Saturday to attend a meeting of the teachers of the colored schools of this section. The meeting was postponed however, due to a death.

School Debate Here Friday

As a feature of the interscholastic league contests Knox City and Munday debating teams will meet here Friday afternoon at 1:30 in the main auditorium of the Methodist church.

This match is immensely important to the local teams for if they win it makes them the county championship teams. The girls team is composed of Faye McAhey and Essie Mae Leaverton; the boys, Herbert Finley and Jeff Graham.

These two teams defeated Sunset, receiving the total votes in each judging. They are entering the contest with Munday in the hope of again being the victors. Every patron of the school is invited to hear this debate Friday afternoon. The question: Resolved that the United States should adopt the British system of radio operation and control. The girls are supporting the negative while the boys have not yet decided. But regardless of the side taken, the boys will put up a good debate.

Debate is a feature of the interscholastic contests which tests or proves several vital points in a boys or girls ability. It tests not only his or her speech and delivery, but also their speed of thought and tact. The local teams should have the support of the entire town, evidence of such support being shown in attendance Friday afternoon.

Loyce Teague made a trip to Book or Texas the first of this week.

Mrs. Barney Arnold and Mrs. W. F. Evans spent Sunday night with relatives in Anson.

Mrs. L. N. Bridges is enjoying the company of her daughter Mrs. Cubine from McLain this week.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I have decided to announce for County Judge again and ask the voters of Knox County for their support. My record is open for investigation and will appreciate your consideration.

For Attorney General

WILLIAM McCRAW

William McCraw, prominent Dallas attorney, has launched his campaign for the office of Attorney General of Texas.

McCraw served three consecutive terms as District Attorney in his home county, holding the distinction of being the only prosecutor who has ever been so honored. His record as a public official and in private law practice has won him state-wide recognition.

McCraw studied law while working in his father's printing office; saw active service in France and made a notable record for law enforcement as district attorney. He has been active in the State's Democratic party affairs, being regarded as a liberal in politics.

Editors note: We Mack and Margaret Sweeney have supported Mr. McCraw in two of his campaigns and we feel that our votes in each case were justified in both the conduct, ability and efficiency of Mr. McCraw while in office. It is our true intention to support him in this campaign and we personally will appreciate any vote in the Knox City district cast for him. Bill McCraw is OK.

A number of citizens viewed an unusual incident in the city Tuesday afternoon. A couple, trapped, drove into the city in a truck. Evidently both were intoxicated for before they left the city they fell out of the truck (blasted by all who saw it to be pushed out) and hit by the moving wheels. Later the unknown husband attended a hand of help to the woman at the same time giving her a perfectly good "kick" when she fell. Well, the truck fell down but before it reached Benjamin the two were arrested this morning and taken to the city jail for the safety of other motorists.

THE COUNTRY NEWSPAPER

Turning from city newspapers to small town press enterprises that come to the editor's desk is like stepping from the glum, fall of vine and old-fashioned garden sweet with lavender and thyme and the scent of perennial flowers. The paper of big dailies are so full of murder, thievery, immorality and wickedness and the better eyes is obscured by these glaring shatterings of the Decalogue. One puts the paper aside with a feeling of depression and heartache that the world is so full of terrible and unhappy things.

Then picking up the papers that record the happenings of the little towns around us, one gains renewed faith in life. Here are set forth only that which uplifts a community the activities of the business men, the church news, the happy social gatherings of the people, the offerings, births and deaths, farmers' news, all the thousand and one daily occurrences that make up the simple annals of the great common people who are really the backbone of this broad country of ours.

Sometimes people speak lightly of the country newspaper, but it is one of the most potent and uplifting factors in our national existence.—Christian Science Monitor.

THE REAL FORGOTTEN MAN

The man at the very bottom of the heap of forgotten men and institutions has been discovered by the Gibson City Courier, of Gibson City, Ill. Says the Courier:

"It is now time for the Government to give its attention to the forgotten man, the forgotten country editor. He has been forgotten by the forgotten merchant, who worships the forgotten advertiser, by the forgotten subscriber who forgets to pay his subscription renewal, and by the forgetful Government which has used the forgotten man for vast columns of free publicity and propaganda, without which the grand old NRA, AAA, CWA, et cetera, would have been dismal duds. The problems and personalities of these three or four years have just about disqualified the country editor for his time-honored claim to a complimentary ticket at St. Peter's gate. Perhaps, when better times finally arrive, however, his temper will improve and bring forth fruits for repentance which will reconstitute him in the place where good editors go: where he can exchange his harp for an old typewriter and sit on a white cloud writing resumes of copy with spay items from the other position for the edification of the saved."

But even then, he probably will be trying to remind his readers of things they have "forgotten."

J. M. Ashcraft is reported in this week.

Miss Constance Browning, Mrs. Travis Dean and Mrs. Chad Wilson attended the declamation try out at Haskell Tuesday, acting as judges for both the Junior and Senior divisions.

THE BOOK

by BRUCE BARTON

THE ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY
In the Psalms are love, hope, despair, the bitterest of sorrow, the most exultant delight, sweet affection and deep hatred, confession of sin and joy in forgiveness. But the major note is optimistic and believing.

David wrote many of the earlier psalms, and there are some that grew out of his personal experience; but no man makes a hymn book. Some psalms were written hundreds of years after his death. The man who wrote

By the rivers of Babylon, there sat down, you be wept when we remembered Zion. We hanged our harps upon the willows in the midst thereof.

That man gave a page of vivid autobiography that dates itself five hundred years after David. When another singer wrote:

O God, the heathen are come into thine inheritance; thy holy temple have they defiled; they have laid Jerusalem on heaps. The dead bodies of thy servants have they given to be meat unto the fowls of the heaven, they telling of a time when Jerusalem was captured in a bloody battle followed by a massacre, and the temple was defiled but not destroyed, we know that the psalm was written in the times of the Maccabees. It may be that a thousand years separate the oldest of these songs from the latest.

Of the whole, a hundred and fifteen, which are best worth knowing? First of all the twenty-third of course. Nearly every child learns it; every child should. If, in addition to this, you would like to pick three others as a part of your children's education, you will be pretty safe if you follow the number nine, the nineteenth, the ninetieth and ninety-first.

Moses is credited with the ninetieth—the noble chant of an old man, who, seeing his own generation disappear and a new generation rise up to take its place.

Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations.

Before the mountains were brought forth, or even then hadst formed the earth and the world, even from

No teach us to number our days, God.

No teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom.

The nineteenth acclaims the firmament and the moral law: The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament showeth his handiwork.

Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night sheweth knowledge.

The ninety-first is a majestic confession of faith.

He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty. I will say of the Lord, He is my refuge and my fortress; my God, in him will I trust.

Surely he shall deliver thee from the snare of the fowler, and from the noisome pestilence.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Rev. Chas. E. Dunn
Parables of the Kingdom
Lesson for March 1-13, Matthew Chapter 13.

Golden Text: Isaiah 54:7.

The characteristic method of Jesus was to herald His message in terms of vivid pictures or parables. In this way He guaranteed that the gospel would be surely remembered. For pictures always remain more readily than argument or exposition devoid of imagery. "Truth embodied in a tale" is a very effective form of instruction.

In the beautiful chapter chosen for our lesson there are eight striking parables. An entire period could be devoted to each of these appealing stories. Two of them, the parable of the sower, and the parable of the tares, are full length sketches. The others are vignettes merely. Suppose we look at four of these minutiae.

Consider the parable of the mustard seed. Here we have a prophecy of the expansion of the Divine Kingdom. The mustard seed, proverbially the times of all grains, becomes, at last, a mighty tree, its splendid branches lifted heavenward for the refuge of birds and the comfort of man. So is it with the commonwealth of God. The life of Jesus was obscure. Few heard His gracious but urgent word. At the time of His cruel death His movement was a mere speck upon the horizon of man's sinfulness. But look at it now! Through the long centuries it has gathered to itself many riches and people until it stands before us today, a great treasury of thought and life.

The parable of the leaven illustrates the permeating quality of God's Realm. Note that leaven is inward, unseen, and silent. So the Divine Kingdom advances in the inner hearts of men as an invisible quiet force. Shining society standards, and trade returns, it makes its presence felt unobtrusively, calmly, without the glare of triumph. But its influence is none the less effective.

The parable of the hidden treasure and the pearl of great price illustrates the surpassing worth of the heavenly commonwealth. In both cases there is exultant joy over the possession of wealth of supreme value.

The club had a discussion about the making of the foundation pattern. The foundation pattern is to be made in the near future, and we urge all club members to be at the next meeting and get the particulars about this matter.

Pure milk is Nature's most nearly perfect food, according to the State Department of Health, and persons should be sure that the cows which produce the milk they use are in a healthy condition.

It is estimated that 2 per cent of all milk cattle have bovine tuberculosis. Tuberculin testing of cattle will definitely prove whether the cow has tuberculosis. If a person owns their own cow, she should be tested, and if milk is being purchased, the purchaser should make sure that the cattle in the dairy he patronizes are free of this disease. These tests should be made each year, and if milk stock is to be purchased, they should be tested before completion of the sale.

About twenty-five per cent of all tuberculosis in children is of the bovine type—fatal bovine tuberculosis after the fifth year is rare. It generally attacks the lymph glands and bones. When not fatal, this disease, when it attacks the joints or bones, usually leaves the child crippled for life.

The C. W. A. has created a fund to pay for the destruction of each tuberculin cow. Of course, the disease must be certified by an accredited veterinarian. The State Live Stock Sanitary Commission and State Department of Health are very anxious to control this disease. The former to improve the dairy herds and the Health Department to protect the public health. Every one can help by demanding that the cows where they purchase milk be tuberculin tested.

Occasionally we hear someone contend that it should be unlawful for any person to pay a ransom in order to have a prisoner freed by kidnappers. If your son or daughter were kidnaped, and you were given the choice of paying the ransom demanded or jeopardize his or her life, what would you think of such a law?

Government has taken title to all of our monetary gold, and there is some talk of doing likewise with silver. That would leave nothing left but to take title to all paper money and then call it a day.

"Last year I drew every bucket of water for my garden and flowers and nearly broke my back. It wouldn't have been so bad if I had gotten anything from the garden or had had any flowers but as it was I had nothing to show for that broken back," said Mrs. Moullette of Rhineland.

"This year I plan to lay tile for my flower bed and garden. Since it takes less water to raise a garden this way, I feel sure we will be able to raise all the vegetables we can use," she further states.

A number of 4-H club girls of Rhineland were also convinced that to day tile was a sure way of raising enough tomatoes to fill their goal of 50 containers of canned tomatoes.

I have made only about 80 feet of tile so far, but we plan to lay out entire garden in sub-irrigation said Mrs. W. H. Finley, Knox City, H. D. Club—"It will take about 300 or 400 feet I feel sure I will have all the vegetables I can use fresh and can for winter use," she also said.

Mrs. Finley is rather optimistic, she has already planted a part of her garden. If the weather is not too bad she will be having a variety of fresh vegetables on her table before long.

FLYING JUSTICE

By Marilyn Herring

"Well Mr. Preston, I'm afraid you will have to spend the night here in Plymouth, Mr. Holmes the district attorney, wants you to be present at the inquest tomorrow morning. You and Mr. Biddle are the only witnesses, you know."

The pilot frowned. The prospect of a delay was not pleasing.

"I don't think I can add to what Mr. Biddle told you," he said with a look of annoyance. "Where do I stay tonight?"

"Of course not," the other man replied. "You are not being held on a criminal charge, Mr. Preston. You are a material witness."

"The same as Mr. Biddle. You will spend the night any place you like. I will suggest the Lambert Hotel."

"That was only a matter of a quarter of an hour before Preston was prepared to leave at the elevator."

"I'm sorry about the delay, Mr. Preston," he said on parting. "But it really can't be helped. In a case like this, you know, everyone is under suspicion. Be at the district attorney's office tomorrow by ten o'clock, won't you? I imagine you'll be on your way by noon."

"That's second, Mr. Carrigan," Preston checked him as he turned away. "Are there any objections to my leaving out and fixing my ship this afternoon. I want to be ready to get right off when I can. My bags are out there too."

"After a moment of thought Mr. Carrigan replied, "yes, I guess that it will be all right, but I'll see that someone is sent out to guard it tonight. I may come out for a few minutes myself. I've never seen a plane close up."

In view of the fact that the opportunity had been forced upon him Preston spent the best part of an hour giving his plane a complete inspection and checking. As he was about to get into the cockpit, he looked at his two bags out of the front cockpit and placed them to one side. He locked the little compartment door, and put the key into his pocket. Then he climbed into the rear cockpit and started the engine.

Throttling the power plant to its lowest possible number of revolutions, he got out and walked around the wing-tips, then stepped up on top of the right wheel of the landing gear. Shielding his face with his hand against the wash of the revolving propeller, he listened intently for several moments to the hum of the engine's cylinders. Eventually he reached his hand in to take hold of the ignition switch and shut off the engine.

"Leave it alone!" Preston jerked his head up from under the hood. On the other side of the fuselage was a man. He wore a dark blue suit and a gray hat. He had a hardlooking face and receding hair. He also held a gun which was on the level with Preston's head.

"Step down, quick! I figured you as a pilot, there in the back he said. Guys in this dump don't wear them kind of jackets. I figured right on this field, too listen buddy, you are me are traveling, see? I've been waiting a long time for you. Get out out that parachute you got there in the back!"

Preston made no movement other than to sway slightly forward. He fixed his fingers once or twice, and then turned and hauled the parachute out of the rear cockpit. After considerable difficulty, as he had only one full hand, the gunman got the parachute harness buckled and hooked in place. He grinned at the pilot.

"I know how these things work," he said. This ain't my first ride in a plane. Now listen, you're gonna fly me straight south and over the line and set me down see?"

With the gun muzzle following every move, Preston climbed into the rear cockpit. He strapped his helmet under his chin, first removing the goggles and jamming them into his pocket. Then he shoved the throttle forward and cleared the cylinders of the engine. The plane rolled forward a bit, then stopped as the pilot retarded the throttle.

As Preston reached for the throttle he caught sight of two figures running across the field from the left. Preston instantly recognized them as Carrigan and a uniformed policeman.

"Step on it, quick," shouted the gunman.

The finger crooked around the trigger quivered. Out of the corners of his eye Preston saw that the policeman was almost up to them. For a fraction of a second he hesitated, and then rammed the throttle wide open. The engine roared into full life, and the plane lurched forward. The policeman had turned, and was now running with the plane. He threw himself forward and made a frantic grab for one of the wing struts. In that instant the gunman jerked his gun around and fired.

No sooner had the gun been fired than it was right back on a line with the pilot's head. The gunman's eyes had become mere slits on either side of his nose.

The wheels were now running lightly over the uneven surface of the field. Finally the wheels cleared, but the pilot made no effort to climb steeply. In fact, he continued to hold the plane close to the ground. It was now not more than twenty feet off the ground and rushing toward a line of trees at the far end of the field. The pilot took one quick look at the gunman and then ducked head downward into the cockpit. At the same time he shoved the stick forward and jammed on right rudder. His free hand shot forward to yank back the throttle and snap the ignition in what was practically one movement. He completed the movement by bracing his forearm against the instrument board, and burying his head face downward in the crook of his arm. In that same instant the other right wing tipped on the ground and swerved the plane farther to the right. Then the wing tip crumpled, and the right wheel crashed and buckled. That pulled the nose down, and the propeller dashed into the earth. Then the engine mashed into the ground, and the whole machine plowed forward. Wing-spars snapped, and fabric ripped, as with a final lurch the plane went spinning over on its back.

Hanging head downward on his safety belt, Preston ran his hands over his body. He soon discovered that he was not injured in any way. Then he slowly lowered himself onto the ground. He was just getting to his knees, when footsteps accompanied up. It was Carrigan.

"Hurt Preston?" the man panted.

"Not much, just a little dizziness," returned Preston.

He shot the last sentence out the corner of his mouth as he started to pull at the crumpled and twisted wing section that completely hid the front cockpit of the plane. Carrigan gave him a hand, and together they soon forced an opening up underneath. The gunman's legs were pinned under the engine. His body was twisted, his head with an arm flung over it, was wedged up against the side of the cockpit.

After considerable difficulty they finally succeeded in freeing the man. Then as Preston made the opening wider, Carrigan hauled the gunman clear of the wreckage and turned him over on his back. The eyes were closed. Blood was oozing down the side of the face from a gash at the temple. The man was breathing faintly. Carrigan knelt beside him and bandaged the man's head with his handkerchief.

"Red Holland!" he cried, with amazement, and he had the back foot on him. I'll take care of that! What caused the crash, anything? Did the motor fall again?"

"No," said Preston. I crashed on purpose.

Two hours later Carrigan ushered the pilot into Mr. Holmes' office. The district attorney came forward immediately and shook hands.

"I'm certainly very glad to meet you Mr. Preston," he said warmly. "Won't you sit down, please?"

When they were all seated the district attorney continued:

"Mr. Carrigan told me most of it over the telephone, Mr. Preston," he said. "I asked him to bring you here, because I want to thank you personally for what you have done. Mr. Hodges was my closest friend. It was you who brought his murderer to justice. In this particular case we might call it flying justice. It took courage to crash your airplane on purpose like that. You might have been killed yourself!"

The pilot smiled. "Oh, I think not," he said. "You see, I'm rather experienced in that sort of thing. Crashing planes is part of my profession, you might say. I've been doing it for the movies for the last three years. Today's crash was my forty-second."

DEBATERS WIN OVER SUNSET

Knox City has reason to be proud of their debaters, both boys and girls. Last night at seven-thirty they met Sunset at the Sunset auditorium at thirty. Our school, represented by Faye McAuley and Esale Mae Loverton met and defeated the worthy Sunset opponents, Jennell Williams and Janette Redelt with a vote of three to nothing. The same vote was accorded our boys, Herbert Finley and Jeff Graham, when they met and defeated Harold Potterliak and Jimmy Harbor.

As a result of this victory the debaters, both boys and girls will meet the Monday debaters at the local Methodist church at 1:30 Friday afternoon. Everyone is asked to attend and aid your home debaters with your presence.

HOME EC. NEWS

The Home Ec. department is planning to present a play and style show combined. The play is entitled "Frits and Parbelirus." The characters are taken from all three Home Ec. classes and the costumes are those made by the girls.

The characters have been selected but the date has not been set. So watch for it!

GIRLS TENNIS

The girls are planning to begin their tournament this week. Each one has drawn for the opposing side. There will be three preliminary tournaments to decide the winners. It will probably be decided by the middle of next week who will represent Knox City at the county.

SPELLING

Those entering in spelling, have been practicing and trying out. We hope to win first place in county since we have quite a few good spellers.

WHO'S WHO IN THE SENIOR CLASS

Stella Rex

Stella was born on July 1, 1914 at O'Brien, Texas, which has been her home all of her life. She is a member of the Senior class of '34 and is attending Knox City High School for the first time. Stella is not very tall and has brown hair and eyes.

Stella has been very prominent on the basketball team this year. She has won a silver basketball at the Childress Tournament and at the same time she was presented with a gold medal in token of the honor of being chosen as the best all-round player at the tournament. Stella played on the O'Brien volleyball team for two years and has reported for practice this year.

Stella seems to be "re-free" reticent where her past life is concerned and it is difficult to learn many facts concerning either past or present events, especially did she protest when a certain boy from O'Brien (whose name I believe is about the same as brand of a prominent typewriter, the I forget just now what it is) was mentioned. Inspite of this rumors have it that her weak point is to be "found at" Winfield, Texas.

Oh yes Stella is Edith Smith, Mary's chum who is trying to reduce, in the coming Senior play—"And Mary Did"

KNOX CITY VS ROCHESTER

The Knox City Junior High School girls played the Rochester Junior High School girls in play ground ball Monday afternoon at Rochester. The Knox City girls were not all there at the beginning, and the same was forced to some still absent. The Rochester team was seven to eleven, one, but it showed they need more "kick" so they they can get the ball practice.

The girls will play the Union Grove Tuesday. They are hoping for this week and next to be in shape for the contest at Sunset, March 17.

Judge the new FORD V8 on what it will do

Thousands of people who can afford to spend two or three times as much for a car, are today choosing the Ford V-8 for 1934, instead. Here are some of the reasons.

POWER. The Ford V-8 for 1934 gives you better than 80 miles per hour with the quicker acceleration and greater smoothness of an 8-cylinder motor. Power has actually been increased by 12 per cent over last year's model.

COMFORT. The Ford V-8 for 1934 offers more actual body room than many other cars that cost considerably more. It offers you new Clear-View Ventilation, with the window in one piece. It offers you free action for all four wheels—plus the comfort of Ford Coilover Springs and the proved safety of a front axle.

SAFETY. With the new Ford V-8 you get an all-steel body, safety glass, welded steel-spoke wheels, exceptionally low center of gravity and more locking surface per pound of weight than any other American-made car we know of.

ECONOMY. Gasoline economy is increased by two or three miles per gallon with the new Ford V-8. Test runs show that the new engine will give 20 miles per gallon at 45 miles per hour.
