

TO VOTERS OF CALLAHAN COUNTY
REGARDING THE RE-ALLOCATION OF COUNTY TAX
LEVY ELECTION

The Constitution of Texas authorizes the Commissioners Court to Levy and Collect on each $100. valuation not to exceed:

- 25c for General Fund
- 15c for Road and Bridge Fund
- 15c for Jury Fund
- 25c for Public Improvement Fund
- 80c Total

The Commissioners Court has proposed these changes for the different Funds:

- 40c for General Fund
- 15c for Road and Bridge Fund
- 05c for Jury Fund
- 20c for Public Improvement Fund
- 80c Total

If re-allocation is permitted the Levy still cannot exceed the 80c.

This will not increase taxes in any way, but will allow more for the hard pressed fund and less for funds not so hard pressed.

If re-allocation is adopted it will save the County a considerable amount of interest because of over draft on the General Fund.

DO YOU HAVE TIME? By Lloyd Connel

Sometime the statement is made, "I do not have time to attend the services of the church." I suppose many people who make this excuse really have convinced themselves that they are too busy to serve the Lord. But in every case people who make this excuse are just plain out unfaithful to the Lord and His church. If there is such a person as one who does not have time to serve the Lord he has too much business and had best get shed of some of it, if he wishes to save his soul. We have an example of such given in Luke 14:16-20. "Then said he unto him, a certain man made a great supper, and bade many; and sent his servant at supper time to say to them that were bidden, come; for all things are now ready. And they all with one consent began to make excuse. The first said unto him, I have bought a piece of ground, and I must needs go and see it; I pray thee have me excused. And another said, I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I go to prove them; I pray thee have me excused. And another said, I have married a wife, and therefore I cannot come." In the twenty-fourth verse the Lord says, "For I say unto you, that none of these men which were bidden shall taste of my supper." All of these were invited to the feast, but all of them had too much business to attend too. They did not have time to serve the Lord. That sounds just like a large percent of the excuses offered by people today, for being unfaithful to God. You can see from the above that one is in a lost condition if he is unfaithful to the Lord and His church. To offer the excuse that you are too busy to serve the Lord, by attending his service, is not well-pleasing to God. If that is really the reason for your non attendance you are sinning and in a lost condition until you repent of such wickedness. You must put God first. "But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." (Matt. 6:33). Do you believe the Bible? If you do you must know that you cannot hide behind your business or your job whatever it may be, and still save your soul. It cannot be done. God demands that He be put first.

Many people today are trying to hide behind their wife or their husband in their unfaithfulness to God and His church. How often have I heard women say, "On I would give anything if my husband were a member of the church." And sometime men make the same statement about their wives who are not Christians. Such statements as the above are ridiculous when they are made by men and women who are unfaithful to the Church. And then the statement is sometime made, "I would go to church if my husband would go with me." My dear friend, you can rest assured that your wife or your husband, who is not a member, is not going to go to church as long as you are not going yourself. Whenever the unbelieving husband or wife finds out that you really mean business; that you are going to church and live the Christian life they are either going to go with you, at least some, or in a large percent of the cases are going to cease trying to keep you from being faithful. Note what Peter has to say to wives about winning their husbands. "In like manner, ye wives be in subjection to your own husbands; that even if any obey not the word, they may without the word be gained by the behaviour of their wives; be holding your chaste behaviour coupled with fear" (1 Peter 3:1,2). Peter says here that even though the husband may be steeled against the gospel of Christ, he may be the sweet Christian life of a wife be quietly won to see the truth by the chaste living of the wife. Yes, the husband or wife who are Christians and are faithful to the Lord and His church have a good chance to win their mates. Now I ask you, unfaithful Christian, do you want to save your husband or your wife? Then first save yourself by repenting and praying to God to forgive you, then live faithful to the Church and perhaps you can save him. You need never think that you will win him or her as long as they are winning you. You are losing ground every time you miss a service of the Church. Every service that you attend you gain just that much ground, by your chaste faithful Christian living.

SUGAR SUBSTITUTES

AFTER reading 25 tips on how to get along without sugar, we experienced a terrific ache in the sweet tooth. The very subject matter started us dreaming about delicious things to eat. As we pictured a thick, heavily frosted chocolate cake, we read about a sugarless cornstarch pudding.

It was our intention to write an editorial passing on to our readers a few of the best-sounding suggestions for making a pound of sugar do double duty. But we came to the conclusion that the only honest answer is to pull out your sweet tooth and store it away until the shortage is over.

We can all get along with less sugar all right. But we think in general it might be easier to just grin and bear it than to experiment with the concoctions which are going to be dreamed up as "happy substitutes."

PRESIDENTIAL LINE-UP

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S request for a change in the line of ascendancy to the Presidency is one which will be widely debated before any action is taken.

The President's argument is that men elected by the people, rather than those appointed by him, should succeed to the Presidency in the case of his death. He has suggested that the first in line be the speaker of the house and the second, the president of the senate.

But although these two men are elected by some of the people—the people of their district or state—on many occasions they might not be considered at all satisfactory to the people as a whole.

If a change is to be made, it seems to us that we would get a man who met with greater public favor if the house was given authority to elect a new President from its own group. In that event the local representative of each of us would have a vote and would each vote for a man who he thought would have the approval of his constituents.

MAKING EMPLOYEES IMPORTANT

THE subject of this story is president of a wine and spirits shop in the downtown section of New York City, where price cutting was rampant.

Seven years ago he found he had so much competition that he was about to be pushed into the East river. He tried to think of some way to beat this competition, but a lot of brains were thinking on the other side. Thinking how they could keep money out of his cash drawer.

He decided he would cut the price of liquor still more. Then the idea came to him that maybe a good place to go to work was in his own organization, instead of trying further price cutting.

He decided to show more appreciation for his staff, and to let each one feel important. He started in with his cashier, as an experiment: She had worked for him for years, but he'd hardly ever complimented her on her work.

He complimented her for her patience and began calling her his head cashier. He had only one cashier, so naturally she was the head cashier. But she liked this little attention. When people came into his office he introduced her and called her his head cashier. She liked it and instead of being colorless and inconspicuous, when visitors were about, she talked to them, full of pride in her work.

He had only one salesman, but instead of referring to him over the telephone and in his presence, when others were there, as merely a salesman, he referred to him as "manager in charge of sales." The man liked it. It appealed to his sense of importance.

He had only one shipping clerk. Instead of referring to him as the shipping clerk, he began calling him "our traffic manager." The young man liked it.

Immediately the morale of the organization went up. The staff came earlier and worked with a better will, simple as were the things Mr. Le Petri had done.

Ninety per cent of the retail liquor stores in New York do less than $50,000 business a year. By increasing his office morale, Mr. Le Petri has raised his sales volume to nearly $300,000 a year.

Utter Destruction for Japan

The Japs were given their last chance to surrender, and refused. Monday news was released that the United States Air Force gave Japan an answer to her rejection in the form of the Atomic Bomb, a small bomb with a blast 2,000 times that of TNT. Certain destruction lies only a short time ahead for the Jap nation which could have been prevented had its leaders listened to terms for peace.

Pointed up by the Big Three discussions in Berlin, Japanese talk continued to stir the Allied world even as the U. S. Fleet with British detachments roamed up and down the jagged coastline of the enemy homeland to join the air forces in laying down a devastating fire.

Inspired shortly after Germany's collapse by reports that Japanese business interests had sounded out the U. S. on possible terms, and quipped by President Harry S. Truman's definition of unconditional surrender as an opportunity for the common people to throw off the militaristic yoke and return to normal pursuits, the peace talk gained further momentum by speculation that Premier Stalin had brought enemy proposals to Berlin.

In the welter of peace talk, the Sydney Sun of Australia declared that "the end of the war may come with dramatic suddenness," and Cap. E. M. Zacharias of the U. S. navy speaking for the government called upon the Japanese leaders to give up now or risk total destruction of this country.

With Japan's great industrial centers in blackened ruins, her principal sea ports bombed out, her internal communications ruptured threatening food as well as military transport, and the Allied fleets tightening a blockade of the isolated homeland, Nipponese leaders have publicly proclaimed that the country faces the greatest crisis of its history.

Despite the dominance of conservatives in the Japanese government headed by General Suzuki, however the enemy has intensified its efforts to carry on the war through the complete mobilization of the population and its resources, undoubtedly with the intention of obtaining the best terms possible.

Having fought hard through the Pacific, and especially so on Iwo Jima and Okinawa where and elaborate new defensive system of concrete warfare was tried out at heavy cost to the attackers, the Japs now propose to carry the same kind of battle to the homeland itself, with a civilian home guard of 35,000,000 backing up the regular army of 4,000,000.

With Japanese plans of a purely defensive nature despite familiar talk of brand new secret weapons designed to wipe out the invaders at a single stroke, etc., and with the U. S. possessing a tremendous superiority in armament and material, American spokesmen have sought to impress upon the enemy that they certainly could expect no easier terms after infliction of heavy losses on the U. S. than if they gave up now.

Still on friendly terms with the Japs despite the recent abrogation of their non-aggression pact, Russia assumed a key position in the reported peace talk with the speculation that Stalin bore Nip terms to Berlin. Even as the Big Three sat down for their historic discussions embracing the remarking of Europe as well as the Pacific war, a high Soviet spokesman in London averred that the Reds would be willing to transmit any genuine Japanese offer to the U. S. and that Russian participation in the far eastern conflict would have to be carefully weighed in the light of heavy losses suffered against Germany.

At the same time, President Truman was reported to have borne American peace terms for the consideration of the Big Three. Drawn up by the U. S. war, navy and state department, the terms supposedly included:

1. Surrender of all enemy ground, air and sea equipment and the disbandment of personnel.
2. Evacuation of conquered territory, including Korea, Manchuria and Formosa.
3. Destruction of war industry, and supervision over all enemy ports, shipbuilding and manufacturing facilities in the postwar period.
4. Surrender of all war criminals.

Anent popular discussion over the status of the Mikado, the Sydney Sun, commenting on peace possibilities editorialized: "Hirohito still is the godemperor. By one stroke of a pen he could relieve Japan's terror and make peace. There is every reason to believe that U. S. Policy is preparing him for that part in the drama."

In appealing to Japanese leaders to surrender now, Captin Zacharias carefully summarized the disastrous course of the war for Nippon, pointed out the overwhelming potential of the U. S. war machine, reviewed President Truman's liberal interpretation of unconditional surrender, and sought to assure the squeamish enemy military hierarchy that surrender has had historical precedent as an honorable means of admitting a lost cause.

"The leaders of Japan have been entrusted with the salvation and not the destruction of Japan," Captin Zacharias said. "The Japanese leaders face two alternatives. One is the virtual destruction of Japan followed by a dictated peace.

The other is unconditional surrender with its attendant benefits as laid down by the Atlantic Charter.

"At present there are still some influential people in the United States who would not like to see the destruction of Japan. But our patience, too, has its limits, and it is rapidly running out. Your continued refusal to heed the sound and sober advice of counselors will convince even the greatest humanitarian among us that the destruction of everything which supports the Japanese war potential is the only way to terminate the war."

Meanwhile the American military and naval chieftains maintained their pressure against the enemy, giving him no breathing spell despite the peace talk.

AGAINST RISING COSTS

The last generation has been the most important in the history of electricity and worth ringing the bell for, because it's during this last era that the use of electricity in America has become so popular, so widespread, so useful, and so cheap.

It's during this last historic generation that most of our electric appliances have come into common use—electric refrigerators around 1925; radios around 1930; electric washing machines and vacuum cleaners in the early twenties; electric roasters and clocks around 1932; and so forth. Their economical use has been made possible through the lowered price you pay for electricity. For it's been during these same years that the price of your electricity has been coming down and has stayed down, even in wartime. For example, if you're the average user of electricity, you are now getting about twice the electricity you got fifteen years ago for the same money.

This taxpaying, business-managed company is proud to have brought you these benefits at a lower and lower cost. Only by hard work and farsighted planning have we been able to accomplish these results.

CASS DALEY SHINES IN SPECIAL ACT
In Paramount's newest musical comedy, "Out of This World," due Thursday and Friday at the Plaza Theatre and starring Eddie Bracken, Veronica Lake and Diana Lynn, Cass Daley voices a very audible complaint. With violent grimaces and contortions which give the impression her face is made of galvanized rubber, Cass bemoans her fate in vituperative fashion, singing "All I Do Is Beat This Gol-Darn Drum." And this she does till the theatre fairly rocks with the crashing thud of semi-musical noise and laughter. In the picture, Cass is a member of Diana's all-girl glamour band which is responsible for boosting Eddie to nation-wide vocal fame. The film is a riotous take-off on those masculine crooners who have the bobby-soxers swooning.

CORRIGAN LOOKS LIKE LOUIS XVI
To film actor Lloyd Corrigan has come the distinction of being the only player ever cast in a role because of his resemblance to a face on a coin. Corrigan plays Louis XVI in "The Fighting Guardsman," Columbia Pictures' swashbuckling tale of masked highwaymen who hold up the King's mail coaches in order to seize their cargoes of gold coin, now featuring Willard Parker, Anita Louise, Janis Carter, John Loder, Edgar Buchanan and others at the Plaza Theatre.

"UNSEEN" CAST KEPT IN DARK ON ENDING
All the time "The Unseen" was being filmed not a single member of the cast or crew knew precisely how it would end. Final pages of the script upon which Hagar Wilde and Raymond Chandler collaborated were not distributed. Few members of the company had any idea what member of the cast committed the triple murder in the story. The suspense is so well worked out that it is a cinch future audiences won't guess the killer's identity in advance, either. Gail Russell, Joel McCrea and Herbert Marshall top the cast which includes Isobel Elsom, Norman Lloyd, Phyllis Brooks, Mikhail Rasumny and two child players, Richard Lyon and Nona Griffith.

Cpl. and Mrs. W. H. Bragg of Camp Crowder, Mo. are here this week visiting Mrs. C. M. Mills.

ALL IN THE LINE OF DUTY FOR CAPT WAGGONER
Capt. L. C. Waggoner sent his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Waggoner, at Clyde the following clipping from their army newspaper, Union Vedette, at Ft. Douglas, Utah.
The 18-inch braids of a young Indian warrior became a casualty of war here this week when Pvt. Dan Oats from Rocky Boy reservation in Montana stepped into a barber's chair and had 18-inch braids reduced to a GI haircut.
Something was said about army regulation, the barber was alerted to stand by for a tonsorial operation and Capt. L. C. Waggoner, personnel center chaplain, was called in.
Then a barber prepared to snip long braids, Pvt. Oats stiffened slightly and extended his left hand toward the chaplain.
The chaplain promptly stepped to his side, said a few words and punched his TS card as photographers maneuvered into position and flashed their bulbs.
Pvt. Oats mailed trimmings to his wife and wrote: "If a lock of hair can keep love alive, think what two 18-inch braids will do."
Mrs. Pat Miller of Brownwood is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Moore at Cross Plains.
Clarence Boyles, of Sweetwater, spent Saturday in Baird. His many friends were glad to note that his health is greatly improved. He was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. V. E. Hill.

Mrs. J. W. Maddox who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Charles L. Robinson for the past two months returned to her home in Holtville, Calif. Thursday night. She was accompanied by her nephew, Burnel Osborn, Jr., of Holtville, Calif.
Mrs. C. C. Elliott and daughter of Brownwood are visiting Mrs. Elliott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Moore, at Cross Plains. Mr. and Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Elliott visited Mrs. Marvin Clark of Cottonwood, a patient in the Callahan County Hospital Tuesday.
Mr. and Mrs. James W. Burks had as their guests last weekend, their son, Cpl. James W. Burks, Jr., of the Marine Corps, Cherry Point, N. C. James will leave shortly for overseas duty. Their daughter, Miss Geraldine Burks, who is with Western Union at Hondo, was here over the weekend to visit with her brother and parents.

In one scene called for by the script, the actor portraying the King compares his profile with that on the coin, and wonders that his subjects do not recognize him when he goes abroad incognito.
This resemblance of the actor to the real Louis' likeness on the coin thus had to be convincing. So Corrigan, because of his resemblance, got the job.
Mrs. Frank Konczak and daughter, Helen, have returned to Clyde from a visit to Fort Worth and Dallas.
Miss Dollie Wilson of Ft. Worth visited the past week with her sisters, Mrs. Charles L. Robinson and Mrs. J. W. Maddox. She returned to Ft. Worth Sunday.
Milton E. Crawford, Pfm 2-c, requested The Star sent to his new address in California so he can keep up with his buddies and the folks at home by reading the county newspaper.
Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Eager and children, Kitty, Doris and Bartly Harris of Amarillo, visited Eager's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Eager, in Clyde last week. Mrs. Eager is the former Lena Harris.
Dr. and Mrs. R. Van Bailey of Ft. Stockton, spent last weekend with Bailey's mother, Mrs. J. H. Bailey and other relatives in Clyde. John Weathers and son, Lloyd, of Clyde visited in Rule last Monday.

Witnessing Daley's remarkable performance in "Out of This World," it is difficult to believe that her career in show business started off with sweet, straight renditions of popular ballads. But her manager and husband, Frank Kinsella, changed all that. He persuaded her to emphasize the comedy angle by making the most of those buck teeth which were so tearfully deplored in her adolescent years. Since then it's been full speed ahead and Cass has toured the country in the "Ziegfeld Follies" and numerous vaudeville engagements. Her pictures include "The Fleet's In," "Star Spangled Rhythm" and "Riding High."
Cass has an important role in the picture and carries the burnt of the comedy portion in "Out of This World."
Mr. and Mrs. Gideon Tyler of Fort Worth, visited relatives in Clyde last week.
Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Bergh of San Francisco, Calif. were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Eager in Clyde.
Sgt. and Mrs. Roy Adam Fox, are announcing the birth of a son at St. Ann hospital, Abilene, August 6. The baby weighed seven pounds, and has been named Kenneth Ray. Sergeant Fox is stationed at Sheppard Field, Wichita Falls, Mrs. Fox, the former Lillie Pearl Appleton has been making her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Appleton, in Clyde.
