FIRST BALE RECEIVED HERE AUGUST 18TH

Knox City received its first bale for this season Thursday of this week. W. R. Jones who lives north of town on the Clonts farm brought in the bale which made a fine sample as there has been no damaging weather on the cotton. A nice premium was started for Mr. Jones on the bale but as many of our people... the Fall game at Monday... that will be completed today... not offered the cotton for... W. H. Swift & Sons... bale.

KEEPING THE RECORD STRAIGHT

Benjamin Texas, August 16th, 1921.

Hon. J. G. Parris, Commissioner of Prec. No. 1, Knox County.

Dear Sir: Referring to a report current in your precinct that road funds apportioned to same have been transferred to another precinct of the county and expended therein. I have the following to say: The road and bridge fund of Knox County, designated as the 6th class fund has heretofore been apportioned to the various precincts in accordance with the assessed valuation. As the disbursing officer of said fund, I have not at any time paid out any money apportioned to your precinct for work done in any other precinct, nor has any part of your road fund been used for any purpose in any other part of the county. Trusting that this explanation is sufficient for your purpose, I am,

Yours very truly,
G. L. Earnest,
County Treasurer, Knox Co., Texas

Mr. A. Hammack left by auto this morning for Wichita Falls to bring Mrs. Hammack, the children and his father home. They have been visiting relatives in that city for a week.

Mrs. H. N. Lyle returned Thursday from Weslaco where she attended the funeral of her father R. W. Warren and remained with her mother about two weeks.

Ike Newberry and his sister Miss Lena of Weatherford spent several days in Knox City this week the guests of J. W. Smith and family.

Mrs. V. B. Carothers accompanied by her son Varner, of Sylvester, Texas, visited her sister here Mrs. R. L. McCarty some days.

UNDERWOOD OIL CO. OFFERS US TEST CONTRACT

If we have our information right the Underwood Oil Co. has real intention of digging a test well here for oil if their proposition be met by our people. It is stated that expense money has already been secured by which Knox City can carry out its portion of the financing. They will now have to be... we hope will be... This contract... 500 foot test... every day.

Farmer has returned from a visit with his sister at Gainsville. He also attended the funeral of a nephew who had been returned from... Mrs. Farmer was accompanied home by a niece Miss Ruby Farmer. Seymour who will visit here some days.

SCHOOL OPENS HERE TUESDAY SEPTEMBER 6TH

The Board of Trustees for the Knox City Schools, have arranged for the next term to begin on Tuesday the 6th of September; and according to the scholastic enumeration, which is about four hundred, a large enrollment is expected for the opening week. All patrons of the school are especially urged to see that their children enter upon the opening week, so that, proper classifications and assignments may be made. The Knox City Schools will begin the 1921-22 term, under the most favorable auspices.

Having secured a splendid faculty and corps of teachers, second to none in West Texas, and with the co-operation of the patrons and close application of the pupils, a year of intensified school work should result.

List of teachers:
A. R. Jarrett, of De Leon, superintendent; S. G. West, of Canton, principal; Miss Bertha Amerson, of Winfield, English-Latin; Miss Viva King, of Winfield, Home-Economics, and Misses Eva Park, Sammie Pryor, Blanch Williams, Mary Reeder, Bessie Perry, Alta Brown, Bess Keny and Miss Lee Morgan.

SERVICE

Hundreds of newspapers and thousands of writers place in cold type the glories of the champion maulers of the world and the promoters of the game. Woman is the maker of the home as well as its mistress. She is the one superb and never dying institution of the race. She makes the sacrifices; her work is never ended until her eyelids are kissed down on the bed of death. She is the wealth maker of the world, but man may not believe it; she is the angel of mercy of the world and man knows it. All that is beautiful in the world, all that makes life worth the living are her mind creations and soul labors. Collier's printed the story, but it should be passed on and on and on.—Exchange.

Almost simultaneous with the United States call for a world conference on disarmament, England announces her plans for the construction of eight of the mightiest battleships the world has ever known. They are to be about 1000 feet long, 50,000 ton displacement and have a speed of 35 knots. The four provided for this year will carry nine 16 inch guns and the four to be built next year will be armed with 18 inch guns. The ships will cost $37,500,000 each. This would not seem so strange if England did not claim to be bankrupt that she cannot even pay the United States the interest on the large sum she owes. The fact is coming to be pretty well known that one nation and race of men will never trust another. This gigantic preparation for war and wholesale murder seems doomed to continue until the world falls in wreckage from its own hand, the victim of its own greed, aggressiveness and folly. If this immense amount of money should be applied to civil needs it would go a long way toward England's task of rehabilitation but the mad effort to outstrip all others in naval ordnance forces her on in debt and insane spirals. To the place where this spiral of arms will lead, the brightest cannot tell, but it will be greater.

ing a protest to the enormous tax gathering that lies ahead of them.

Theatre prices are bound to drop says Mr. Ziegfeld the great producer and theatre owner. To which we add, there is plenty of room.

Attention of the City Council has been called to the damage being done to the school building by boys who it is supposed are shooting at sparrows and in doing so are breaking out the windows. The council has passed a resolution urging the officers to exercise all diligence in catching the guilty parties with the hope of recovering the damage and also preventing further damage to the building. Such expenses come out of tax money and it is to the interest of every one to see that there is no loitering on or around the school grounds. Anyone observing boys on the school grounds would do well to report same to the officials so that proceedings can be brought that will stop such depredations on valuable public property.

To find fault in your home town is next kin to finding fault with your family. Fault finding in the home leads to divorce, dissolution of the family ties and distraction to the home. It is indiscreet to be continually criticizing people or business enterprises of your town, for you're undermining the structure of your own building. The church, school, store and shop are here located. The business man the professional man and the tradesman are at your service. The paving, sidewalks, lights and water system picture show, the band and other organizations contribute to your physical welfare comfort and pleasure. Is not this sufficient inducement for your hearty cooperation.—Ex.

Varying Strength of Sunlight.
 There is practically no such thing as overlighting, writes J. H. Kurlander, in describing for the General Science Quarterly a series of tests made by the lighting service department of the Edison lamp works. He adds: "Investigation of places which are said to be overlighted will usually show that, if anything, they are glaringly underlighted."
 These tests showed that sunlight in an open field measures 5,000-foot candle power (which means that it gives the illumination that would be given by 5,000 candles a foot distant). Sunlight in a street between buildings measures 3,000-foot candles. Shadow in a street between buildings measures 500; under a tree in the open, 500. The light on an office desk next to a south window has an intensity of 110-foot candles; one ten feet in, 70, and one 15 feet in, 50. At inside benches between two exposures only 20.

Australia's Geographic Position.
 Australia's exact position on world maps, originally determined by Captain Cook, the early explorer, was brought into question recently when wireless authorities, after direct checking by radio with standard time clocks at Lyons, France, said they believed there is an error of perhaps 100 yards on all maps in Australia's north-south lines.
 Seafarers who first sketched Australia's position based their calculations on the chronometer, the finely made watch which keeps Greenwich time. Corrections were made from time to time, until final checking by cable was believed to be accurate.
 Lately, however, Sydney wireless men who have been listening to the clock ticks at Lyons, say they have discovered there is a perceptible loss of time in transmitting the correct seconds over the cable. The loss, it is said, led to errors in map-making.

WAP OFFICE FEARSOME PLACE
 According to Captain Bainsfather, British Institution Is Designed to Be an Annoyance.
 I have not been to the British war office very often, writes Capt. Bruce Bainsfather in "From Mud to Muffin," but I have never lost the odd sensation that it gives rise to. You enter the building and fill out a form. In time a Boer war veteran tells you boisterously to "follow the girl." The girl, a guide of sorts in an engineer's dark brown overall, sets off sullenly down a central passage, with a group of assorted officers pursuing. She, I fancy, revels in the intricacies of those catcombs.
 Having apparently described a complete parallelgram in a forbidding-looking corridor, you suddenly come upon a lift. It is always disappearing upward when you arrive. It comes down suddenly and disgorges an assorted crowd; headed by the girl guide, you enter and are taken up. We all repeat the corridor-and-parallelgram business. Nothing but the girl guide can save you now.
 Lost in the war office! How awful that would be! I can imagine how a soldier who had lagged behind the crowd would stop, suddenly realizing he was lost; how he would vainly pound those stone walls and scream for help; how a typist would find his isolation weeks later in an attitude that evidently showed that he had succumbed while endeavoring to gnaw his way through a door.
 I followed the guide and, after being handed to several officials, at last came up with a man whose duty it was to prevent, if possible, anyone from seeing the office. He had summoned me by name—Youth's Companion.

"Where Your Business is Appreciated"

A FRENCHMAN SEES US
 Americans Are Gamblers in Business and Careless in Thrift, is Verdict He Renders.

Half a dozen British writers having looked us over this summer and recorded their impressions, a Frenchman, Louis Thomas, is now doing the same thing for the French Copper's Weekly, the Opinion.

"American wastefulness is a stupefying thing to Frenchmen," says Thomas. "It is a waste and even we must admit, ridiculous. Our experts, who deal with them in war entered them abominably wasteful in their treatment to costs and improvement to the last degree."
 The reason is simple, says Thomas. "Americans are gamblers. They do not want to make a moderate profit, a steady, regular, perhaps mediocre income, but, on the contrary, to make a great deal of money in a very short time, to 'get rich quick.'"
 "They gamble at business—not at roulette or bacarat; but it is gambling all the same."
 As for wastefulness:
 "So many people here have made their money by chance, by good luck, by a flash of imagination, and not by the sweat of their brow, that they are naturally wasteful and spendthrift to an extent which we can hardly imagine in Europe."
 "Everyone wastes, even the poor, and particularly the women, who, for the most part do not seem to have time to acquire the habits of economical housekeeping possessed by women of the old world."

Houses of Mud.
 Women in California are building houses with their own fair hands. What is more, they are making the bricks.
 The bricks, however, are of the kind spoken of in the Bible as made by the people of Israel in Egypt—clayey earth mixed with a binder. The straw is sun-dried, and it will be remembered how the Israelites "kicked" because it was not provided.
 Such bricks are merely sun-baked. Missionary priests in California in the early days used them for building churches and other structures which, covered with stucco, were very handsome. These 'dobe' buildings were also substantial, weatherproof and enduring, as is testified by many that still stand, unimpaired by the wear of centuries.
 With labor so high and materials likewise, the idea of a mud dwelling, which one can put up for oneself, even the children helping, has its attractions.

Grain Sown From Airplane.
 Through an invention to sow grain by airplane, aircraft may be listed as agricultural implements. The new "flying grain sower," says the New York Sun, will plant a strip of 36 feet wide traveling at the rate of 40 miles an hour. The seeds are expelled by air pressure from a perforated metal tube with sufficient velocity to drive them deep into the ground. At the end of each wing a thin stream of white lime or fertilizer is released to outline the planted area. The plane is constructed to make a landing on a plowed field without damage.
 Under normal conditions the "flying sower" has a capacity of 640 acres in about six hours. The same area planted with an eight-foot drill traveling at the rate of three miles an hour would take a man twenty-two and a half days of ten hours. It is estimated that 1,000 acres could be covered in two days by the air-sower.

The Dress Problem in the Orient.
 The Yokohama Reform association recently sent a communication to the mayor requesting his co-operation in endeavoring to prevent coolies and workmen appearing in public places with insufficient clothing to conform with western ideas of propriety. The association's spokesman stated that the reason for the request is the presence of a large number of foreigners in the city, and the sight of the scantily clothed persons on the streets and in the tramcars will tend to give them an unfavorable opinion of the city.—From the Japan Advertiser.

Knocking a Tradition.
 Turkey is a tradition. Because the Pilgrim parents were rotten shots and couldn't kill a quail on a hot turkey was all they could find for meat on that memorable day. They had been on a diet of clams so long that maybe even turkey tasted like food to them. But that is no excuse for wishing the blessed thing onto posterity and making it a sacred duty to gnaw a bundle of concentrated falsehoods on the last Thursday of every November.—Topsica Capital.
