NELSON C. SMITH ANNOUNCES FOR COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT

Nelson C. Smith of Munday, whose name appears in our announcement column this week as a candidate for county superintendent, offers the following information regarding his qualifications for this office:

Graduate of High School.
Attended two Private Normals
Attended Caynon Normal
Took course from University of Texas.

Have had experiences in the offices of County Superintendents of other Counties.

Taught in one-teacher rural schools and high schools up to a ten-teacher school in Houston, Texas.

Understand every phase of Interscholastic League work, having taken teams to County and District Meets, and one to the State Meet at Austin.

If elected I shall cooperate in every way possible with teachers, trustees and patrons, in building Knox County schools up to the best standard attained by any County.

I shall, as the law directs, visit schools at least four days out of every week that school is in session, when it is possible to do so.

I shall endeavor to more evenly distribute free text books so that no child shall be handicapped in his school work on account of not having books.

I solicit the vote of every voter of Knox County, upon my qualifications for the position.

Nelson C. Smith.

W. A. Smith, who lives in the northeast part of town and owns a farm just outside the city limits, was running a good devil Monday evening, when his team became frightened and ran away. Mr. Smith sustained very painful injuries, one of his legs being cut very badly by the blade of the good devil. It is hoped that his injuries will not prove serious.

STORE ENTERED AND GOODS TAKEN

Bryant-Payne Company Store Broken Into Monday Night and Burglar Captured Tuesday.

A young man who came here Monday from Benjamin and stayed around town all day and disappeared that night was suspected when it was learned Tuesday morning that the Bryant-Payne store had been broken into the night before. The young man appeared to be slightly crippled and claimed an automobile had turned over on him. He stated to parties who talked with him Monday that he was from Memphis, Texas, that his parents were dead, but that he had an uncle living at Munday and also one at Benjamin.

When the store was opened Tuesday morning and it was learned that it had been entered during the night, City Marshal G. T. Hardberger, Deputy Sheriff S. L. Favor and Constable J. H. Permenter, with the aid of local citizens began to make investigation and it was seen that the burglar had entered the store by climbing upon the awning and taking a pane of glass out of the front of the store above the awning. The local officers and citizens began trying to get a clue as to who and where the guilty party was. Sheriff Britton was also notified and soon joined them in their investigations.

As stated above, the young man who had been seen here the day before was suspected, and a search was made for him. Officers went to Munday and a description of the boy was made to City Marshal Ellett of that city, but at that time there was no evidence that the boy had gone to Munday. The local officers returned, and later they learned from P. L. Parris, the service car man, that the young man had told him the evening before that he would want to go with him to Munday that morning.

Marshal Hardberger and Sheriff Britton made another trip to Munday with Mr. Parris. On this trip they found the young man, who gave his name as Edgar Howington and his age as 22, and he was arrested by Mr. Hardberger and brought to Knox City. He confessed that he had stolen the shirt and underwear he had on, but denied that he had gotten anything else, there being three or four pairs of shoes, four or five shirts and two or three dresses missing from the store. He stated that he had entered the store about 10 o'clock, and he later stated that he had gotten one pair of shoes, which he said he had sold in Munday for $5.00. Mr. Parris again took Officers Hardberger and Britton and the young man to Munday and the shoes he had sold were secured. From there they went to Benjamin and the young man was placed in jail.

JULY 4TH PROGRAM SCHOOL COMMUNITIES

The following program is submitted by the Texas Centennial Movement and the Daughters of the Republic of Texas with the request that it shall be presented under the auspices of the Young People's Society or Societies of every school community of the State in honor of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

The program should be given July 4th in the cities, towns, and neighborhoods where the American Legion is not arranging for the celebration of the day and on the evening of July 3 if some other celebration is being arranged for July 4th.

PROGRAM

- Overture—Young People's Orchestra
- Song—America
- Address—Our Heroes
- Yells—Honor of Heroes
- Song—Long, Long Trail
- Patriotic Reading
- Song—Liberty Bell
- Address—The Declaration of Independence [its meaning today]
- Song—Keep the Home Fires Burning
- Dixie—Orchestra
- Yells—Patriotic
- Song—Star Spangled Banner
- Other songs that may be used in the above program are Joan of Arc, Over There, Over the Top at Chatteau Thierry, Farewell to Thee, Tail We Meet Again, Tipperary, The Last Long Mile, and Smile, Smile, Smile, probably better known by the line, Pack up your Troubles in your old Kit Bag.
- Yells should be made on Mr. Zip, Zip, Zip and I Hate to Get Up in the Morning, with other catchy war time airs.

COMMITTEES

The committees needed for the presentation of this program are a committee for directing its presentation with committees of decoration of school or any other building to be used for

A LARGE CROWD HERE SUNDAY

Bands of County Are Greeted by a Large Assembly of Appreciative Listeners.

The meeting of the Knox County Bands, held in Knox City last Sunday, was well attended and those who came appreciated the splendid music rendered by the various bands participating. Only four of the bands of the county took part in the program, as the Gillespie band has not been practicing recently, since the school building at that place has been torn down, preparatory to the erection of their new large brick school building.

The program consisted of several pieces, played by all four of the bands together, then several pieces played by the Goree, Rhineland and Benjamin bands individually. All of the bands furnished good music, both individually and collectively, and the event was much enjoyed by all present. Before the close of the program there were several other pieces rendered, in which some of the members of all four of the bands participated.

The crowd was estimated at about fifteen hundred. By unanimous vote of the bands, the next meeting will be held at Benjamin on the fourth Sunday in July.

the celebration, and a committee for publicity.

Chairmen of the program committees of the societies entering into the presentation of the program may constitute the first committee with other committees selected from members of the several societies.

All patriotic organizations are requested to foster in every way possible the presentation of the above or a similar program in celebration of the Independence Day of our Great Country.

St. Louis Citizen Eats Anything on the Table and Has Gained Several Pounds in Weight—Gives Tanlac Full Credit.

"The other medicines I tried before didn't even budge my troubles, but three bottles of Tanlac have fixed me up in fine shape," said H. Mohr, well-known citizen living at 112 S. Fourth St., St. Louis, Mo.

"Two years ago my stomach went wrong and my appetite failed me. Gas formed from what little I would eat and pressed on my heart until it palpitated so I could hardly breathe. I wasn't able to do regular work, because of pains in the back, bad headaches and dizzy spells.

"But I have gained several pounds now since taking Tanlac and eat just anything I want without any trouble. The pains and headaches never bother me any more, and I am only too glad to pass the good word along about Tanlac. It is simply wonderful."

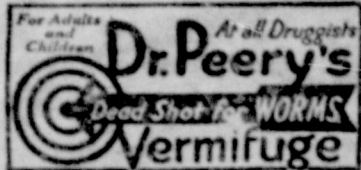

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

America's Gift to France

Paul W. Bartlett's $50,000 heroic bronze statue of Lafayette which the Knights of Columbus presented to the city of Metz, France.

Bells That Rang for Lafayette

Lafayette visited America for the last time in 1781. From the hour in which his advent was heralded by a rainbow enveloping and tinging Fort Lafayette, just across the Narrows, until he set sail for his native land, he was feted and lionized. All the church bells of New York shouted; New Havenites forgot their puritanical primness and joined lustily. Newport, R. I. forgot that its most valued bell had been given Trinity church by an English queen and set it ringing louder, even, than when it was presented by Queen Anne on her ascension to her father's throne. Providence proved that the bell she cast herself in 1787 for her Baptist church was capable of welcoming reverberations, and the largest in the town, weighing nearly 3,000 pounds, outdid itself because it was cast by Paul Revere of Middlesex county fame.

Welcoming Peals at Boston. In Boston Lafayette heard Revere's first-cast bell, hanging in the New Brick church. Those of Christ church, Old Brick church, as well as those of the Old South assured him of their welcome; while King's chapel outdid them all. The Harvard college bells, already old, were not remiss.

The ovations continued throughout the South. Entering Charleston, preceded by a troop mounted on white horses, Lafayette rode with his son, George Washington Lafayette, and the same little boy, now Major Huger, who played with his French sword and attempted to rescue him at Olmutz. Perhaps Lafayette never had a happier moment than, thus riding, he heard St. Michael's bells once more. His Charleston friends may have told him of the sad days when Major Tralle of the Royal artillery claimed those same bells as his perquisites when the British had entered the city; and of the anxieties experienced until, through the good offices of London friends, they were returned to their tower.

Paid Honors in the West. At St. Louis he heard of the small bells carried by Father Marquette in the Northwest; by De Smet in the further Northwest (oh, how great the country grew as Lafayette listened!) even, possibly, of the padre who was building a chain of missions on the western coast and ringing a bell whenever he founded a mission. Pierre Chouteau was a busy man, but he knew many things and the gallant visitor must know how wonderful the western world was—how much greater than he knew when he fought for its liberty. Another host trip—up the Ohio. Needs must be stop at Marietta, Ohio, a town founded by Revolutionary officers, Putnam and others, who had been given a grant of land for their services to the government. Was not the town named for Marie Antoinette? And had she not, from the enthusiasm roused by Benjamin Franklin's vivid descriptions of far-away America and flattered by the choice of a name for the new town, ordered a bell for it? That it was lost in shipwreck did not detract from her thought; nor Lafayette's interest as he heard of the incident for the first time.

Refused Crown of Belgium. Lafayette's visit to America ended in rainbow tints, even as it had begun. Next, we may see him talking with Louis Philippe I.

"You know that I am a republican, and that I regard the Constitution of the United States as the most perfect that ever existed." Later, all Paris swung her bells in recognition of Lafayette's prime part in the revolution of 1830—a revolution which resulted in a considerable extension of the liberties of mankind. Following this, he was offered the crown of Belgium. But this he refused.

It is pleasant to reflect on the peaceful years that followed for Lafayette at La Grange, his country seat. He could occasionally ride horseback, and the very white charger that bore him in Paris carried him over country lanes and wide, cultivated fields. The terrors of war or of welcome were replaced by one far less notable but none the less important—his dinner bell, which called him and his many famous guests to his generous table.

Final Glorious Vision. Finally, in 1834, came a gray dawn. Lafayette knew his great achievement was in America; but he also knew he had aided in the betterment of the masses of his native land. As this hushed morn, he grew drowsy, after a night of pain, none of the watchers could see or hear what he undoubtedly saw and heard.

He saw himself mounted on a white charger, gallantly facing the foe. He saw Washington coming for him on another noble steed. He saw his wife's flowing apparel and lovely face brightening into a smile of ecstatic welcome, as it had when he returned from the wars in which he had taken noble part.

The friends wheeled their horses and Lafayette's joined their stride up a shining road. Soon glittering ramparts came into view—the last leap was at hand. As the horses gathered themselves for the spring, as each of his companions turned to watch their loved one, bells began to peal—Jacqueline of Paris, St. Michael's of Charleston, Bow Bells, Erfurt, Olmutz, Boston, joined in the magic welcome. Finally they died away, and the bells of St. Michael's gave their salutarium.

One bell alone had not rung. It waited—waited. The horses had cleared the parapet. Then, as though all heaven was filled with its voice, the Independence Bell of America greeted Lafayette.

"You have proclaimed liberty throughout the land and to all the inhabitants thereof."

Calomel is mercury; quicksilver. It crashes into your bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Made Bagpipes Useful.

An old adventurer who passed away in Australia at the age of ninety-four, was the only man I've known, says a correspondent, to put bagpipes to a useful purpose. After being captured when the Eureka stockade fell, he joined the Victoria police, and was largely responsible for the capture of the bushranger "Jewboy." He was then appointed second-in-command of an expedition that set out to find traces of Leichardt (another bushranger), and he used to tell that one day the party was surprised by 200 natives, with hostile intent, whereupon one McIntosh yelled: "The pipes, Charlie, the pipes—while we retreat." The old adventurer played the pipes—and the natives were so mystified that they stood open-mouthed while the party marched off.

Mrs. McIntosh Had Other Reason Than Affection for Making Second Matrimonial Venture.

The Old Carriage Maker Had an Important Truth

"To make each part as strong as the rest," was his way of "building a wonderful, one-horse chaise that wouldn't wear out till judgment day."

This illustrates a fact that is keeping many doctors busy these days—human bodies, like chaises, break down because some part isn't as strong as the others.

Very often it's because of ill-balanced food, lacking in some important element of nutrition. This is especially true of diets developed in childhood, and carried on through life.

Grape-Nuts, that world-famous, ready-to-eat cereal, brings the plan of building each part as strong as the rest—to serve human need. Grape-Nuts contains all the nutriment of those best of the field grains, wheat and barley, including the vital mineral elements, and it is a wonderful food for building and sustaining health and strength.

The delicious flavor and crispness of Grape-Nuts make it a welcome diet whenever you're hungry.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED BY COUNTY EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

The following resolutions were adopted at a meeting of the Knox County Executive Committee at Benjamin on June 19th:

For 60 years or more the Republican party drew tribute from the South and West for the northeastern part of the United States. This tribute was exacted through the protective tariff and through a control of the money market.

The victory won by the Democrats in 1912 seriously impaired the power of the great manufacturing districts of the country to gain special and unfair privileges at the expense of the South and West. Their power to extort tribute was almost absolutely ruined by the victory won by the South and West in the general election of 1916, when for the first time since Andrew Jackson's administration a Democrat president was elected to succeed himself, and was elected without carrying a single one of the Northeastern states. In an effort to regain power, in order that they might enact a high protective tariff for the benefit of the factories and wage workers of the East and in order to have power to repeal the graduated income tax and the excess profit tax, thereby shifting the burden of paying the war debt to the shoulders of the great agricultural interests of the South and West, they financed and spread a most unfair and un-American propaganda against that great statesman and greatest of Democrats, Woodrow Wilson.

Many good Democrats of Texas were deceived and victimized by this most insidious and well-financed propaganda, and were led by it to leave the house of their fathers and either vote with their enemies, the Republicans, or else followed off after strange and uncomely new parties. These prodigals, however, had two years of experience under Republican misrule in national affairs and have paid the penalty for helping to turn the affairs of government over to those who see only "business" as exemplified by the desires of the great corporations of the manufacturing part of the United States. They have paid the penalty in low prices for farm products and business stagnation, and having repented in sack cloth and ashes, are now asking for admittance into the Democratic fold and are saying, "Forgive us, for we knew not what we did."

Unfortunately the Democratic Executive Committee of Texas has adopted a narrow view, and instead of welcoming the prodigals, even to the extent of killing the fatted calf, has recommended a party pledge that will, in many instances, prevent those wanderers from having a voice in party councils. The Democratic Executive Committee had a perfect right to propose this party pledge, for the Democratic party is an association of individuals, organized for the purpose of proposing and maintaining certain principals of political action, to the end that ours may be a government that grants

"equal rights to all and special privileges to none," and as such has the same right to determine who shall have a voice in party councils that each church and each lodge has to determine who shall have a voice in church and lodge affairs.

However, it is the sense of the Knox County Executive Committee that to adopt the pledge proposed by the State Committee would not be a good policy for the party or be fair to our prodigal brother Democrats.

Therefore, be it resolved by the Knox County Democratic Executive Committee, assembled at Benjamin, Texas, June 19, 1922, that we call upon all qualified voters of Knox County to remember that all ballots cast in the Democratic primary to be held July 22 at the various voting boxes of Knox County will have, by provision of law, the pledge, "I am a Democrat and will support the nominees of the party," printed on the top and that in casting a ballot the voters assume a pledge as solemn and as morally binding as an oath.

Be it further resolved, that we hereby invite all qualified voters of Knox County, who can conscientiously endorse and honestly give that pledge, to come back into and participate in the Democratic primary; and may the very size of the vote cast and on a protest against the action of the present Republican party administration in enacting a revenue law that Senator Charles A. Culberson, the senior Texas Senator, has characterized as a law to take the burden of taxation off the wealth of the country and place it upon the shoulders of those least able to bear it. Let us unite to protect ourselves against the present manifest purpose of the Republicans to enact a protective tariff law that will bind agriculture in shackles and keep farm products low while at the same time granting to manufacturing interests a protective tariff that will allow them to hold manufactured goods at war prices.

And especially let us all unite to voice our protest against the politicians who threw away the fruits of victory after our sons and our neighbors' sons had spent so much blood and sweat to win.

Be it also resolved, that we request all Knox County newspapers to publish these resolutions, that all Democrats may know that they are welcome in party councils and that past errors are forgiven.
