Community Natural Gas Co. Installs "Safety First" Device

Additional precaution against gas pressure fluctuations above or below efficient range has been added to the Community Natural Gas company plant in Baird by W. B. Cooper, manager, who has installed a new type pressure alarm system recently developed. The alarm is located in the home of Mr. Cooper.

On guard day and night, the alarm signals the moment pressure goes too high or too low, enabling service men to rectify the difficulty without delay and making doubly certain an efficient and economical burning pressure 24 hours of the day. If the pressure should become deficient or excessive because of leaks, impaired regulators, or for any other reason, an electric contact is automatically closed by the alarm mechanism and a bell rings until the pressure is returned to normal.

While the alarm may not be called upon to function for months at a time, explained Mr. Cooper, "it is just another precaution to give gas consumers the best service humanly possible. If, for instance, zero weather should suddenly strike this winter and freeze up a regulator and reduce the flow of gas, we would be warned in plenty of time to remedy the trouble before it could inconvenience a single consumer because the alarm is highly sensitive to the slightest changes and works unerringly."

Mrs. Ada C. Alvord and Frank Carmichael Married in Seattle

Mrs. Ada C. Alvord of Baird gave her many friends here quite a surprise by quietly going away on a journey to Seattle, Washington, where she was married to Mr. Frank P. Carmichael of that city on Sept. 15.

Mr. Carmichael is a son of Wm. Carmichael, a pioneer resident of Callahan county who owned the ranch which we believe is now known as the Bell Ranch, near the Alvord Ranch, then known as the Hadley Ranch where Mrs. Alvord, then Ada Hadley, lived and they were neighbors and have been close friends since early youth. The Carmichael family moved to Washington more than forty years ago and have made their home there since.

Mr. and Mrs. Carmichael will make their home for the present at 3802, 21st S. W., Seattle.

Cars will be dispatched from a central point at the call of designated Legion officials and will transport them to any point within reasonable limits of the city for the duration of the Convention.

On the doors of the cars will be the Legion seal carrying the lettering 'National Legion Convention. Tire covers in the rear will also have the designation: 'Official Legion Chevrolet.'

Fire Prevention Week Proclamation

The destruction of property by fire in America has steadily increased until the annual loss now is approximately 500 million dollars.

These hundreds of millions of dollars have gone beyond reclaim; the money has been worse than wasted.

But far more serious than the burning of property values is the toll of human life and personal injuries by fire that amount to several thousand each year.

Nearly all of this could be avoided if greater care were taken in constructing buildings, if litter and rubbish were removed from homes and places of business and premises in connection therewith, if children and grown people were thoroughly educated in handling fire and taught the importance of extreme carefulness.

NOW THEREFORE, I, H. Schwartz, Mayor of the city of Baird, in cooperation with the nation-wide movement for the elimination of preventable fire waste, do hereby designate October 8th to 14th, 1933, as Fire Prevention Week in this city.

On these days let our civic and commercial organizations school officers and teachers, and our people as a whole, arrange meetings and exercises for the study of our fire problems, as well as to impress the seriousness of the wastage caused by fire, and the need for utmost care for the protection of life and property. During Fire Prevention Week let a complete inspection be conducted of the entire city for the purpose of locating and removing fire dangers, and let us therefore, individually and collectively, make the prevention of fire a part of our daily routine.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I hereto affix my hand and Seal of the City of Baird.

H. SCHWARTZ, Mayor,
City of Baird

County Agent Holds Wheat Meeting at Dressy

The following is the committee helping the county agent in this work Buster George, Baird; John Berry, Clyde; Russell Morriset, Lanham; Sidney S. Harville, Oplin; Everette Williams, Putnam and Hugh McDermott, Dressy.

The Oddfellows wish to thank Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Walker for their splendid efforts in arranging the program for this occasion.

Last Chance

It will be recalled that at a regular meeting of the City council held May 21 it was ordered that all penalty and interest on outstanding delinquent taxes be waived and the time extended to October 1, 1933.

It is now up to you whether you will take advantage of this splendid offer by paying these taxes and save considerable money and at the same time help the administration who are making a great fight to uphold Baird's credit and meet the obligation due and past due.

We are powerless to pay those to whom the city is indebted and who are pressing us. We can pay only when we collect it from you.

We appeal to you to come to our assistance. Here is hoping for success. Thanking you in advance.

Sincerely and faithfully,
H. SCHWARTZ,
Mayor.

Clyde-Oplin Road May be Graded and Graveled

The Clyde Enterprise says an effort is being made to gravel the road from Clyde to Oplin, intersecting the Bankhead Highway at the Jack Weir corner one mile south of Clyde, thence west to the J. C. Blalock corner; thence south to Denton and Oplin.

A spur to extend from the Clyde-Oplin road to Eula is also being considered.

The labor for this work would be paid from the relief funds says E. E. Cooke, county administrator of Relief Funds.

The improvement of this road would be of great benefit to many people of the county as it traverses one of the most thickly settled sections of Callahan county and from which both Baird and Clyde should draw a good trade.

No More Pigs Will Be Shipped

Fort Worth, Texas, Sept. 23, 1933, Mr. R. E. Jenkins, County Agent, Baird, Texas.

Dear Sir:

We received notice from the government that they had finished their pig buying program and would take no more pigs after the 29th. We were hoping there would be another allotment after the last one, which was handled thru the County Agents of the drought area and not by the commission men, and that we would be able to get you in with your pigs, but as it now stands there will be no chance to do this as our quota has been filled.

Very sorry we were unable to handle your pigs but assure you it will be a pleasure to serve you at any time. Yours very truly,
National Livestock Com., Co.
Frank Helm.

The Cross Plains Review came out last week with a special edition of ten pages carrying many ads by the wide awake merchants of that little city including a special page ad sponsored by the business firms with an invitation to come to Cross Plains to trade giving some very convincing reasons as to why it would be to their interest to trade there.

Many extra copies of the Review were mailed out as a compliment of Cross Plains Merchants. They made a special effort to place a copy of the Review in every home in the Oplin section which is one of Bairst's best trade territories.

Bairst Merchants should look to their interests there. The Star congratulates The Review, which is one of the best country weeklies in this section. Jack Scott, the hustling young editor and the wide-awake merchants of Cross Plains—may the tribe increase.

Everyone Pays For Fire

Safeguarding America Against Fire offers a thought that every citizen should bear in mind during and after Fire Prevention Week: You pay for fire insurance even though you never bought a policy in your life.

It's as certain and as inevitable as that inescapable pair, death and taxes. If you rent an apartment or a building, the owner has fire insurance and its cost is reflected in your rent. Insurance must be included in the cost of a suit or a can of beans or a theatre ticket. The factory that made your automobile and the dealer that sold it have insurance—it's part of their operating cost, and must be absorbed by income from sales.

As a result, the cutting down of fire loss is everyone's business. Over a long period of time every fire is reflected in the cost of insurance—every community's insurance rating is based on the actual experience in that area. Lowering fire losses won't reduce the cost of policies this week or next month—but it will do that eventually, or prevent increases that would otherwise be made.

If ever a movement deserved unanimous support, Fire Prevention Week does. Officials all the way from the councilmen of towns to the President of the United States, strive to make it a success. Every kind of civic and business and public organization cooperates. It is all done in the public interest—and the success or failure of it is put squarely up to the individual citizen.

The Safe Drivers' Code

There is one badly needed code which will not have to await an official signature. It affects every person in the country, and its adoption should be unanimous. It is 'The Safe Drivers' Code.'

Accident statistics reported to June 30, 1933, according to the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, showed that 12,920 persons had been killed by automobiles this year. The indications, judging from unofficial reports in July and August, are that final results may show to decide increase in deaths and accidents for 1933. This is doubly significant, because there are nearly 10 per cent fewer automobiles registered in the United States this year than in 1931.

To motorists, therefore, and to pedestrians and all users of our streets and highways, the following code is directed.

1. Regulate your speed to fit traffic conditions; keep your car under control at all times.
 2. Slow down for intersections, and obey traffic signals.
 3. Use better judgment in passing, waiting until there is at least 500 feet of clear distance ahead.
 4. Pedestrians: Cross at crosswalks; walk on the left side facing traffic; obey traffic signals.
 5. Remember that automobile accidents constitute an economic waste totaling billions, through property damage, high insurance costs, increased taxes, etc.
- Every motorist should feel that it is his duty and privilege to pledge himself to this code.

Woodard-Bradley Bill True To Texas Principals

Special to The Star

Austin, Texas, Sept. 23.—Legislation to bring the statutes of Texas in line with President Roosevelt's NRA program has occupied the center of the stage this week while hearings have been held before a committee of the whole in the Senate. Regarded as the most delicate and intricate legal problem of the session indications are that in principal and wording the Woodward-Bradley bill will be finally adopted by both houses.

Senator Walter C. Woodward of Coleman, a veteran Senate leader and chairman of the committee on Civil Jurisprudence is the author of the bill. By common consent the task was delegated to him in advance of the session because of his committee position and his record as a lawyer of distinguished ability.

The Bill pays full loyalty to the relief of Texas that her present anti-trust laws are wise and righteous. It merely suspends from operations the penalties for their violation whenever such violation can be shown to be in consequence of obedience to the federal laws under the National Recovery program. In other words the bill is true to Texas principles but fully cooperative with the New Deal and the NRA.

Senator Woodward's sound handling of this difficult matter has served to call attention again to his ability and he is being daily inported to become a candidate for governor or for attorney general. Thus far he has not reached a decision. However it is more than probable that when he has protected the anti-trust principles of the state from injury and at the same time in this bill, as passed, devised a way to enable the state to cooperate with President Roosevelt, he will find a demand for his candidacy for a higher office which he cannot resist.

* * * * *

The calamity howler is the worst cuss in the community. Unlike the whimpering cur, he's dangerous.

The threadbare coat, the empty barrel, that sad-eyed woman, that poverty-stricken home! Who knows but here is the Holy Grail?

The concern that offers abnormal profits offers abnormal risks. You cannot divorce them.

The man whose life is ruined by money at last cares nothing for money.

That is a real friend who stands by you when all the world would forsake and forget.

The man who hustles hardest for experience usually outstrips the fellow born with ability.

Love the glory of the battlefields infinitely more than the temptations of wallowing ease.

The measure of power is always in the obstacle to be overcome.

The fast life always kills.

A lady received the following reply from a neighbor in answer to a question as to why she allowed her children and her husband to litter up every room in the house. The sentiment will find lodgment in the heart of every home-loving person in the land. "The mark of the little muddy feet on the floor can be easier removed than the stains where the little feet go into the highways of sin. The prints of the little fingers upon the windowpane cannot shut out the sunshine half so much as the shadow that darkens the mother's heart over the one who will be but a name in the coming years. And if my John finds home a refuge from care, and his greatest happiness within its four walls, he can put his boots in the rocking chair and hang his coat on the floor any day in the week. And if I can stand it, and he enjoys it, I cannot see that it is anybody's business."

Did You Ever Stop To Think

By
Edson R. Waite
Shawnee, Oklahoma

You should never forget the importance of the various industries that make your city and never lose an opportunity to encourage and assist them in their growth, for therein rests the success of your community and the welfare of all who live and work there.

Speed maniacs should be taught that the time to be careful is before accidents happen—not afterwards. By not thinking 'Safety First', a lot of them jump headfirst into trouble.

Everybody should read the classified ads. Most everybody finds use for them, for they are of great value to both buyers and sellers.

Most merchants who reads this newspaper and does not advertise in it should stop to think. He knows it reaches and is read by the people he wants to sell, so why not advertise in it?

Some people seem to choose pleasure today instead of comfort tomorrow.

They say that "Money Talks." It's a cinch it won't do much talking in your own home town if you spend it elsewhere.

Judging from the super-heated, roller-bearing, articulated variety of demands for this and for that kind of law, this country is due to see many changes in its laws next session. That is if Congress can agree on anything.

Business men with highly imaginative minds who spend their time building air castles should stop dreaming. Life is a serious matter. Dreams seldom come true. It takes hard work quality goods and newspaper advertising to build any business.

An Unusual Offer On Subscription

The Star has inaugurated a subscription campaign, a little out-of-the-ordinary—A Clean The Slate campaign in connection with our annual Bargain Day Rates.

We have several hundred subscribers who are in arrears on subscription and to these we offer to wipe the slate clean and credit them one year in advance on payment of one years subscription which is $1.50 in Callahan county and $2.00 elsewhere.

To our subscribers who are paid up to this fall or the first of January we make our usual annual bargain rate of $1.00 in Callahan county or $1.50 elsewhere.

We urge our subscribers to take advantage of these offers to put their subscription on the paid in advance plan.

We have obligations running into several hundred dollars which we must meet at once and we especially ask our subscribers to pay up as promptly as possible to enable us to pay what we owe.

We will not send out statements on subscriptions as we do not consider it necessary to go to this additional expense because if a subscriber is paid up he will be due only $1 or $1.50 and if in arrears the amount will be $1.50 or $2.00 and we feel sure that each subscriber knows what their subscriptions account is, so we make this earnest appeal to our subscribers, through The Star to help us in this time of need.

We will also accept new subscriptions at Bargain Rates.

Chevrolet gives most miles per gallon

No argument about the camel. When it comes to miles per gallon, there's nothing in all the Gobi desert—or Sahara—or anywhere else—that can beat him. No argument about Chevrolet, either. It's the most economical form of full-size transportation on wheels.

You can travel a long, long way in a Chevrolet Six without a single stop for gas or oil. In fact, you can get more miles out of a gallon of gas in a Chevrolet, than you can get in any other full-size car. The best proof of this is the way Chevrolet is being preferred by leading national business firms. These firms know their mileage figures. And today, Chevrolet is their first choice by an overwhelming count. Chevrolet is also first choice of the American public by the widest margin in history.

DAISY, THE DAIRY COW

Judging from the calls we have had lately for help with the fresh cow and for that one which is giving milk it will be of some help to others just now to throw out some hints for the care and management of Dairy before and after calving.

Milk Fever
One of the most common ailments that the average dairyman has is the milk fever. This trouble is caused usually from improper feeding before calving. Not many men seem to realize that a cow in giving birth to a calf is subject to the same procedure as in any other animal not excepting the human being. Most milk fever is caused by not taking care of the mineral the cow gets during the pregnant period. Most recent scientific observations show that the cause is a lack of lime and phosphorus in the system of the cow. These minerals are used up during the gestation period and if not replaced will result in milk fever. Therefore, Mr. Dairyman feed that cow the needed requirements for her normal maintenance plus enough to produce another young. If you do not know what are the requirements of the cow you should find out before assuming the responsibility of calling your self a stockman. All livestock need something to build bone from and there are but about three things that will do it. They are, bone meal, lime flour and crushed oyster shell. Feed so that the cow will have at least 2 per cent of her ration bone building material. As soon as the calf is born the cow should have special care. Feed her a laxative feed composed of wheat bran. Linn seed meal is still better but not usually obtainable here so bran will get the job done. It is laxative and is cooling. A fresh cow is always more or less in a feverish condition. Massage the udder and milk the cow frequently for the first two or three days.

Keep her bowels open even if you have to give a drench of salts. Milk Fever first when it has been allowed to develop is not serious if quickly and correctly handled. The cow has a very characteristic symptom of laying down with her back feet extended forward and her head thrown back toward the flank. She shows it before getting down to any who are handlers of dairy cows. She is easily excited and shows signs of colic and constipation.

After she is down, or even before, she should have her udder pumped up and the teats should be tied so the air will stay in until the pressure has done its work. Never let the bindings stay on all night as the circulation being cut off for a long time will cause the teat to slough off at the point of binding. Never let the bindings stay more than three hours. Be very cautious that no infection is introduced into the udder through the treatment. Wash the teats off well in a solution of lysol or any good disinfectant and also thoroughly disinfect the instruments that are used as about as many cows are ruined from the infection introduced into the udder by the treatment as by milk fever. It can well be remembered that milk fever is not contagious and is seldom if ever found in the heifer calving her first time. Fever is often found in heavy producing cows but when found in the ordinary farm cow the cause is poor management before calving. Lack of proper feed and minerals.

In trying the teats, care should be used to see that the teats are taped with wide binds, never use string for the reason given above. Never attempt to drench a cow after she is down for she is paralyzed in her throat and is either semi-unconscious or totally unconscious and any fluid introduced is very likely to go to her lungs and cause stangulation and sure death.

If the quarters have been pumped up once and that is not enough then repeat until the cow gets up and well even if it takes six or more times. Pumping is the most successful treatment that has been found. Some skilled veterinarians use an injection of lime and phosphorus solution and have a few good results recorded but this has no advantage over the trying method and is not nearly so simple.

In the next issue we will discuss Garget or Mammitis and other udder troubles.
