Lions Club Charter Night Banquet Was Most Enjoyable Event

The Charter Night Banquet of the Munday Lions Club, which was held at the Methodist church on Friday evening of last week was a most gratifying success from every standpoint and was attended by practically the entire membership here and their wives as well as a large number of outside visitors. The ladies of the Missionary Society prepared a most delightful banquet, artistically and elaborately arranged in every detail and served in the most pleasing manner.

To begin to give an outline of the interesting program would be an impossibility, for there were so many enjoyable phases injected into the program that it would require much space to enumerate them.

The address of welcome to the visiting Lions and their wives was made by Lion Milt Billingsley, and the response to the welcome address was made by Lion James M. McLean of Throckmorton.

Mrs. Aaron Blanton gave a most delightful reading, "John Takes a Vacation", and received an enthusiastic applause, and a pupil of Mrs. Blanton, little J. O. McMahon, delighted the audience with a couple of readings.

The real surprise of the evening came when Lion R. B. Freeman came to the front. Naturally, everyone expected him to talk-talk-talk, and it is needless for us to say that all Lions were shocked when he made it known that he wasn't going to talk. We just naturally couldn't believe it. We just naturally didn't believe it. We just naturally didn't believe it.

The program he was down simply as follows: "Lionitis"—Lion R. B. Freeman. Naturally, none of the Lions know just what was meant, but most of them would have readily ventured the assertion that it would be a talk—or speech, but it wasn't. It was a song—an original song, written by Mrs. A. W. Freeman of Portales, New Mexico, and dedicated to the Lions Club of Munday. It was sung to the tune of "Yankee Doodle", and its some thirteen verses had reference to every member of the Munday Lions Club one or more times and exposed some situation in which they had been found. It was a scream from start to finish, and our only regret is that we do not have room here to reproduce it—and we may in a later issue. And, best of all, Lion Freeman sang and didn't talk.

Then came the Pittmans—Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Pittman of Wichita Falls, two of the most enthusiastic Lions in Northwest Texas, and their program was a delight to all. Mr. Pittman is a pianist of great ability and a favorite in Wichita Falls, where he has appeared on many programs for the entertainment of guests in that city, and Mrs. Pittman received a number of encores and responded with a few vocal numbers that delighted the entire audience.

Dr. R. H. Graham, District Governor of Lions was present and in a most impressive address delivered to the Lions Club, the charter for the local organization. Dr. Graham is an enthusiastic Lion and has traveled all over this section of Texas to deliver the message on Lionism to the citizens, and his address was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

There were a number of visiting Lions present from Haskell, Seymour, and Throckmorton, who brought the good will and good wishes of their organizations to the newly organized Munday Club, and some excellent talks were made by these visiting Lions.

Among the out-of-town visitors present were Lions F. M. Robertson, E. Saigel, F. L. Dougherty, L. W. Burton, Courtney Hunt, Henry Alexander, H. Davis, G. Robert Forrester, H. C. King, Gene Hughes, Emery Menefee and Eugene Hunter of Haskell; Lions E. C. Cargill, R. K. Whitehead, Ed Newman, M. D. Lankford, W. D. Chandler, Oscar Roberg and O. P. Caldwell of Seymour; Lions J. M. McLean and Arthur Owens of Throckmorton, and also Mrs. J. M. McLean and Mrs. Odium of Throckmorton.

S. A. Bowden Admits It's Better To Be Lucky Than Handsome

At least he didn't deny it when we congratulated him last Saturday afternoon when he had been awarded the $15.00 given by the Munday merchants each week, which made the second time that he had drawn down this amount since the distribution of prizes was inaugurated some weeks ago. Mr. Bowden's good fortune came from a small purchase he had made from Birdsong's, and his good fortune brought him all the money he had paid for his purchase and about $10.50 in addition thereto.

Others who were taken into the fond embrace of "Lady Luck" in Saturday's prize distribution were as follows: R. F. Seruggs, Goree, route 2, $10.00 on ticket from Farmers Elevator Co.; LeRoy Brooks, Goree route 3, $7.50 on ticket from Guinn Hardware Co.; Alex Jones, Munday, $5.00 on ticket from Akers Dry Goods Co.; Mack Vassar, Munday route 1, $2.50 on ticket from Munday Mill & Elevator Co.; Mrs. E. A. Dobbs, Munday route 2, $1.00 on ticket from Piggly-Wigly; P. M. Burns, Munday route 3, $1.00 on ticket from Guinn Hardware Co.; G. L. Helgeboth, Munday, $1.00 on ticket from Guinn Hardware Co.; S. D. Hicks, Goree route 2, $1.00 on ticket from Piggly-Wigly; Lela Miller, Goree route 2, $1.00 on ticket from Piggly-Wigly.

Judges who presided Saturday were T. L. Thompson and J. H. McFey, while little Hattie Joe Swett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Swett, drew the names from the box.

Miss Eleanor White of Lawrenceburg, Ind., is here pictured with what is said to be the largest transport ever built. It is over seven feet long and has a "base type". Miss White plays this huge instrument.

Total Eclipse of the Moon Nov. 27

Visible from beginning to end everywhere in the United States, there will be a total eclipse of the moon early in the morning of November 27th. The chart above provides a simple time-table of the eclipse.

TOTAL ECLIPSE OF THE MOON VISIBLE ON NOVEMBER 27

But You'll Have to Be Up Early to See it

Every one in the United States will have the opportunity of seeing the total eclipse of the moon coming November 27—but the opportunity will have to be pretty early. For the moon will enter the earth's shadow at 2:24 A. M., eastern standard time. Total eclipse begins at 8:39 and lasts until 10:29 o'clock, when the moon begins to emerge. At 8:39 A. M. the eclipse will be over. Central times are one hour earlier, mountain times two hours and Pacific times three hours.

The moon will probably not disappear from view although entirely within the shadow for nearly an hour. Considerable sunlight is refracted into the shadow through the ring of the earth's atmosphere around the base of the shadow. The moon at that time will be dim and noticeably red like the setting sun.

During a lunar eclipse, recent observations have shown, the moon's surface temperature drops from 170 degrees Fahrenheit immediately before the eclipse to 150 degrees below zero during the total phase.

A drop of 360 degrees in an hour or two! Some cold water! Of course no one lives on the moon, for it is airless and barren. The absence of atmospheric protection permits the sudden change in temperature. During the long lunar night, a thermometer at the surface of the moon would register not higher than 150 degrees below zero.

The earth's conical shadow stretches nearly a million miles into space. At intervals of 29 1-2 days the moon then at the full phase, overtakes the shadow; but it passes usually above or below and there is no eclipse. The number of lunar eclipses in a year varies from three to none at all. Some of them are only partial and not visible from the earth. Astronomers now know far in advance the times and circumstances of eclipses. At the times of full moon, near the middle and the end of the year, conditions are most favorable for eclipses.

OLD FIDLERS CONTEST WILL BE STAGED THE LATTER PART MONTH

It has been discovered that water can be effectively sterilized by exposure to the germ-killing rays of ultra-violet electric lamps.

The date is drawing near for the annual old fiddlers contest, and some of the old fiddlers are already beginning to take down the fiddle and the bow and crack down on "Sally Gooden", "Leather Breeches" and other old-time favorites, in anticipation of entering the contest.

The old fiddlers contest has been an annual event in Munday for a number of years, and the public has come to look forward to this as a most enjoyable event, and is becoming more popular each year.

The date and place will be announced in an early issue of this paper, and we urge that all who wish to enter this contest leave their name at the Times office. There will be no entry fee charged and substantial prizes will be awarded to the winners of the contest.

In addition to the old fiddlers program there will be special numbers that will prove entertaining and plans are being made to make the contest this year the best ever.

Honored By College

Oberlin College, Oberlin, O., has unveiled a tablet to the memory of Charles Martin Hall, who worked his way through the college and left it twelve million dollars when he died. Hall invented the process for making aluminum in 1886, when still a young boy. His work made aluminum valuable commercially.

Negro Protests On Getting Counterfeit Bill In Crap Game

Two negroes were placed behind the bars of the city jail on Wednesday as a result of a negro crap game in which a counterfeit $10.00 bill was passed as legal tender. The negro who won the bill, upon finding that it was merely a $1.00 bill that had been raised to look like a $10.00 William Elliott, who took the two negroes into custody and they are being held to await the action of the grand jury.

The artistic manner in which the bill was raised might indicate that it was the work of an artist at the game, for it is difficult to distinguish it from the genuine. The bill was raised by tearing the corners off of eight $10.00 bills and neatly pasting them on a $1.00 bill, and the counterfeiter was only discovered when one of the neatly pasted ten spots came off and left a glaring "one" in one of the corners. The case will likely be turned over to Federal authorities for investigation.

The negroes arrested were newcomers in the community and had been pulling balls for Hugh Burnison for some days.

Postmaster J. B. Reneau has been a very happy man since the election, for John is not a Hoover Democrat, but a Participating Republican, and has never scratched his party ticket. But John has been more elated over securing a new piece of equipment than most anything else. It is an electric cancelling machine, which cancels the stamps on the envelopes at a rate of 400 per minute, which is much faster than the old hand-stamped that has been used heretofore. This is one of the few offices in this section of the state that has one of these machines and Mr. Reneau has secured it only after a year's effort.

Johnny Peysen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Peysen, was carried to the County Hospital at Knox City Tuesday night, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis. Attending physicians and surgeons stated that he was in a very critical condition and grave fears were entertained that his illness might prove fatal.

An electrical camel for exercising purposes, similar to President Coolidge's famous electrical horse, has been procured.

NOTED ENTERTAINER TO APPEAR NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

Thomas Elmore Lucy, famous platform entertainer, will appear at the Community Auditorium next Monday night, Nov. 19, under the auspices of the Munday High School. Mr. Lucy comes recommended as America's globe-girring poet humorist, character artist, crayon sketch entertainer and poet of the platform and radio land. He does all of the above things and does them well. In addition Mr. Lucy is a quick change artist and it is said that his interpretation of several of America's famous historical and literary characters, all given in rapid succession, are alone worth the price of admission.

He is a man of wide reputation, having been on Lyceum and Chautauqua platforms for a number of years. He has toured the world several times and will exhibit, free of charge, at the end of the performance a number of articles of interest that he has collected from the remote corners of the earth.

The performance is being given under the management of Henry Hudson Davis and is sponsored by the high school in an effort to raise additional money for the library fund.

The Orient Service Station will open for business on Saturday morning in the old Willy-Knight stand opposite the Moore Chevrolet, and will handle the Orient Oil Company line of products.

Oral Matlock will be manager of the service station and U. R. Houser will serve as local wholesaler for the company here, and has made arrangements for a number of stations throughout this territory to handle the products of this company.

A typographical error crept into last week's announcement of concerning the opening of the station wherein it was stated that the price of Orient gas would be 25 cents per gallon, whereas we should have stated that the price would be 21 cents per gallon, as is stated in the advertisement published in this issue.

In addition to handling the products of the Orient Oil Company this station will handle Quaker State Oils, which are recognized the country over for their superiority.

Plane Brings Film, "Lilac Time," From Dallas To the Roxy

Manager P. V. Williams of the Roxy was somewhat disturbed on Monday morning when he found that the film for "Lilac Time", which was scheduled to be shown at the Roxy on Monday and Tuesday, had not arrived by express on the morning train. Knowing that the film was to come to him direct from Lubbock, he realized that it could not possibly arrive in time to be shown Monday evening, so he went to the telegraph office and poured out his troubles via the dot and dash route to the film exchange in Dallas.

Those birds who operate the film business evidently have had occasions like this before, and were therefore not greatly concerned over the delay in transit, for they wired Mr. Williams as follows: "Lilac Time" coming by airplane. And sure enough it came, and a great through enjoyed the picture on Monday and Tuesday evening.

The transportation of this film by airplane would be a most excellent advertising exploitation stunt, as the picture is possibly the most daring airplane exhibit that has ever been filmed, and, while the bringing of the film here by airplane had no advertising significance, it was one of those coincidences that happen very seldom.

The plane made the trip from Dallas to Munday in a little more than two hours.

Mrs. J. R. Jones Died Wednesday Morning In Knox City Hospital

Mrs. J. R. Jones, who has been critically ill for several weeks with typhoid fever, and who was carried to the Knox City Hospital at Knox City some days ago, died at that institution Wednesday morning. She had been ill for the past thirteen weeks and her condition continued to grow worse until she was carried to the hospital a few days ago.

Deceased has resided in Munday for the past four years and is survived by a sister, Mrs. Monroe Stafford, of this city, and three small children by a former marriage. The children are Lola Pauline Fonby, 7, Marvin Fonby, 9, and Beatrice Fonby, 10.

Although in destitute circumstances after being stricken ill, she was cared for by neighbors and friends, who looked after her with the tenderest care until some days ago when she was carried to the hospital.

Our heartfelt sympathy goes out to the three little children who have been dealt such an unkind blow by the hand of fate, and may the world deal with them kindly as they go along life's pathway without the loving care of mother to guide their footsteps.

Mrs. H. T. Maples, financial secretary of the local Woodman Circle, has received notice from the Supreme Forest at Omaha, Nebraska, that ground will be broken and work started on the home for aged members and orphan children at Sherman, Texas, on November 14th, and she is especially proud of the great work this order is doing in caring for those who would otherwise be left homeless and helpless.

Love Authority

M. Claude Anet, French novelist now in New York who is known as one of the world's authorities on love, has received invitations from many cities to hold "love clinics" where the all-absorbing topic will be discussed from every angle.

PHILLIPS-ARMSTRONG

Miss Lucille Phillips and Mr. Raymond Armstrong were quietly married at Benjamin on Saturday afternoon, November 10th.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Phillips, and was reared in Munday, where she is a very popular member of the younger set. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Armstrong of this city and is a most excellent young man, and we join their many friends in wishing for them many long years of happiness and contentment and a full measure of prosperity.

They have apartments at the Wilson Hotel, where they will make their home for the present.

A new machine will turn out cigarettes at the rate of 400 a minute.

PAUL'S EXPERIENCE IN JERUSALEM

Acts 21:37-22:1:22-29
Rev. Samuel D. Price, D.D.

Action and plenty of it followed Paul's arrival at Jerusalem. James, the brother of Jesus, presided over the conference where Paul made his report and turned the offerings which had been gathered for the poor in Jerusalem during this thirtieth missionary journey, now concluding. When account was given of the way in which many Gentiles believed in the crucified and risen Lord "they glorified God." At the same time they told Paul that he was being spoken against by those who were sure that he had forsaken the laws and customs that dated back to the days of Moses. To win favor with such critics, he was advised to assume the cost of vows recently made by four men and take the same Nazirite vow on himself for the remaining seven days. Paul was ready to make this concession, for he was steadfast as a Jew though he had added to his beliefs meanwhile.

Trouble began when some devout Jews from Asia declared that this man, already under suspicion, had brought Trophimus the Ephesian, a total absterge, into the section of the Temple area whither only a Jew might go. The Chief distinctly read that if another than a Jew passed beyond that point the death penalty would be inflicted. The uproar was fierce and the Temple guards shut the gate as soon as Paul could be dragged out. Seeing the confusion the Roman soldiers were rushed for the protection of the man against whom the cry was raised "Away with him."

To secure Paul's safety, for the Romans were responsible, the prisoner was taken within Antonia where the centurion was ordered to scourge the man and thus extort his confession. This was akin to what is called the "thirtieth degree" of modern days. At just the psychological moment, as the lash was about to fall on the bare back, Paul asked a quiet question that changed everything suddenly. He said, "Is it lawful to scourge a man that is a Roman, and uncondemned?" They knew that Paul had not made any bluff as to his claim of Roman citizenship, else he would have been punished with death. The centurion called the chief captain, Claudias, Lysias, who also was a citizen of Rome. When asked if his claim was true Paul said "Yes." Lysias was amazed for his citizenship had been obtained at great cost. Then Paul, with just pride in his ancestry, adds to the evaluation that is now being made of him, "But I am a Roman born." There were no further torments that day.

Next day Paul faced the Jewish Sanhedrin. When he saw that his case could not have a fair hearing there he threw that court into confusion by dividing the Pharisees and Sadducees as he mentioned the resurrection. Turmoil started afresh and the castle again became the place for safekeeping. When a fierce plot was discovered Paul was hastened northward to Caesarea under a strong guard. Meanwhile Paul had been encouraged by a night vision as "the Lord stood by him and said, Be of good cheer; for as thou hast testified concerning me at Jerusalem, so must thou bear witness also at Rome." That message was of wonderful consolation through the years that followed while a prisoner and during the journey to Rome that ended in a shipwreck.

On Second Million—Trees Not Dollars!

A. J. Hummel, "tree farmer" of Millville, Pa., likes to see em grow. He has set out more than a million forest trees throughout central Pennsylvania and has obtained a good start on his second million. He is a lumberman, but unlike lumbermen of a quarter century ago, he is also a conservationist and has given considerable study to the forestry problem. About 20 years ago he started getting out trees on a small scale. Hundreds of thousands have been trees of the rapid-growing type, for use as timber. Other hundreds of thousands have been walnut, slow in growth, but making up in value for the delay, so that Hummel has laid the groundwork of a fortune for himself or perhaps his children. A score or more of abandoned farms have been set out in trees by this lumberman. His holdings are spread through half a dozen counties. This year alone he set out more than 200,000 trees. Of these he obtained 102,000 from the Pennsylvania department of forest and waters.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

Have you seen the new toilet accessories that are developed in colors as fresh and dainty as those of the fabrics that drape the modern bedroom?

There are mirrors and brushes, beauty boxes and manicure tools in soft tints and patterns. Some reproduce the Chinese motifs of old Ming porcelains and lacquers; others show Empire designs and colorings, and again others have floral designs.

Imagine the charm of accessories of Napoleon blue in a French pattern on a dressing table flounced in changeable taffeta. Or picture the Chinoiserie room with toilet articles in soft blue or buff, green or mauve, according to the color of the draperies! These are just a few of the decorative effects that may be obtained with the new toilet ware which relatively speaking, is far from expensive.

MOGULS DOWN KNOX CITY, 6-0, IN HARD GAME

Although last Monday was supposed to be a holiday in celebration of Armistice, there was no such significance attached to hard-fought football game between Munday and Knox City. It was a real battle from whistle to whistle, and the five or six hundred spectators that had gathered from all parts of the country were given as thrilling an exhibition of football as has ever been seen in this man's town. It was a gala holiday affair that lacked none of the color of a real college contest. The pep squads from both schools shone brilliantly, and the music furnished by the Munday Chamber of Commerce band added just the right punch to the game.

On the first play of the game a Knox City back intercepted a pass and raced to Munday's ten yard line before he was downed. This was a bad break that looked gloomy for the Moguls, but they braced and held the Greyhounds for downs and were able to punt out of danger. This was the only serious threat Knox City made for victory. The Moguls passing attack was working splendidly, and before the first period was over they had worked the ball down inside the Greyhounds' 10 yard line. The Moguls were held for downs, however, by a desperate fighting Knox City line. Time and again during the first half did the Moguls march down the field making a series of first downs, only to lose the ball when they were in scoring position.

At the beginning of the second half both teams came back strong. However, the Moguls were continuing to out play the Greyhounds and kept the ball in Knox City territory most of the time. Again during the third quarter Munday carried the ball to Knox City's five yard line where they were held for downs. On the fourth down Aycock tried for a field goal that went wide of the mark.

It was during the fourth quarter that a serious accident happened that came near ruining the game. Knox City was in possession of the ball on about their own twenty-five yard line. On an attempted end run Stoker of Knox City was tackled, and in the mix-up, received a severe lick on the back of his head. It was a dangerous blow, and it looked for a time as if he might be fatally injured. Doctors rushed on the field, however, and after several minutes of hard work he was revived.

When play was resumed, both teams showed the effect of the shock. With only five minutes left to play, it was evident that only a break would win the game. The break came a minute later on a perfectly legitimate football pass when P. Pruitt intercepted a Greyhound pass on his own twenty-five yard line and raced seventy-five yards, untouched by a Knox City tackle, to cross the goal line and thus win the hardest football game ever played on "Scruggs Field." Aycock missed the try for point.

CHAN'S CHATTER

Beat Knox City. We have literally lived, breathed, and had our very being under the influence of that slogan for the past month and on last Monday, November 12, we did that very little thing. The score was 6-0, but we are just as happy and proud as if it were 60-0.

Indeed revenge was sweet, but the near tragedy that occurred in the closing minutes of play has served to dampen our enthusiasm. The game had been a bitterly fought battle but cleanly played, never-the-less, and no one can say that Stoker's injury was due to any dirty playing or a premeditated desire on the part of Munday players to intentionally hurt any member of the Knox City team. Even the most casual observer had but to see the intense anxiety and fear that was shown by the Munday players to know that they would gladly have left the game rather than had a part in the accident. So badly was the Mogul team torn up by the shock that practically every man was ready and anxious to call the game off at this point. It was simply an unavoidable blow in a vital spot that is not likely to happen once in five hundred chances.

We appreciate the splendid spirit of understanding that was manifested on the part of Knox City players and officials relative to the accident. Practically every one of them recognized that it was purely accidental and were quick to exonerate us of all blame.

The football team and school has always known that we have a tried and true friend in Dr. Farrington, but Monday we came to appreciate him just a little more. His untiring efforts in resuscitating the injured boy and his unselfish service in escorting him to the hospital after the game all served to bespeak for him the splendid gentleman that he is. In this connection let us thank Dr. Davis also for his very willing services in that time of need.

Finally may we say to our Knox City friends that we are truly sorry and grieved that the accident occurred. May it serve as a blessing in disguise to show us the finer and nobler sides of our characters. We were made to see you as friends in trouble, your misfortune was ours, we shared a common sympathy and a common understanding, surely all of that will be of some value to us. Of course we will always play you hard but may we always play you clean.

Gloom prevailed in huge quantities in Mogul camp last Monday about eleven A. M. when it became known that Frank Greer was to be out of the game with Knox City. Frank and Joe were passing an apple wagon in their "Whoopie" when Frank decided to reach out and swipe an apple as they went by. He missed the apple but caught a piece of plank on the truck instead and ripped a long nasty gash in his right arm. Several stitches were required in dressing the wound and he will probably be out for the remainder of the season. E. Pruitt and Earl Newsome were already out of the game because of injuries and things looked dark indeed. The Moguls entered the game determined to win, however, and put up enough extra fight to make up for these losses.

To name the stars in the game would be to call the roll of those who played. Every man seemed to be putting his very all into the game and spectators agreed that Munday played its greatest game of the year. Aycock, at quarter, ran the team in brilliant fashion, Paul Pruitt covered himself with glory when he scored the touchdown, and the remainder of the team played their positions as only inspired football teams can do.

To have lost that game or even let it end in a tie would have been a most unkind and shameful turn of fate. The Moguls outplayed Knox City all over the field (just as they outplayed us over there on October 12) and deserved that hard earned victory.

Lucille Collins sent us a telegram of encouragement from Canyon, just before the game, that meant a lot. Many thanks, Lucille.

This section would be incomplete without mentioning the fine showing of the Pep Squad at Monday's game. They yelled long, loud and often, and how that support did help. All is forgiven now, girls, for your failure to appear at the Rule game. Indeed, you have won our everlasting gratitude if you never do anything else this year.

VICTORS

Yesterday, November 12, the Moguls won over their bitter opponents by the score of 6-0 in a game which was played in the Greyhound territory in all stages of the game. This victory was sweet revenge, for the Moguls had been beaten by the Greyhounds once this season by the same score.

The accident of one of the Knox City players was the only incident that marred the game that was so hotly contested. We are glad to learn that he is resting well and will be all right in a few days unless complications arise.

A very large crowd attended the game Monday and saw the Moguls defeat the Greyhounds in a game that resembled a college game.

"That Pep Squad of Munday's sure put that game over," said one of the fans from Knox City. Yes, I will say that they did for all during the game they were busy boosting the Moguls. The parade that they staged before the Mogul fans. Yes, our treat for the Mogul fans. Yes, our Pep Squad is behind the Moguls and that is only a part of the story—they will be behind them in all that the Moguls go into.

SENIORS

Sweet Revenge! Boys, we're proud of you. You fought, and how! Those Greyhounds were fighting fine, but they just couldn't surpass our Moguls.

Frank Greer is suffering from a split arm, as a result of too big a time on November 12. On account of this he couldn't help lick those Greyhounds. (Confidentially, we believe he suffered from this more than his arm). We hope that he improves.

Earl Pruitt is back in school after an operation on his nose, which he injured during the Rule game. He also was unable to play November 12th.

Since the election, Joe has "gone dry." He even refuses to oil his hair.

Our rings have come! Joe certainly felt his importance when, on going to the ticket window, found—"Joe Aycock, C. O. D., $94.20". Now, we ask you, who can blame him? If we can manage to dig up another $5.95 the rings will be ours. That will be a gala event.

The Senior Section was conspicuous last week—by its absence. But, in the language of the famous breakfast cereal, there's a reason. If you will forgive us this time, we'll promise not to be guilty of the same offense again.

SOPHOMORES

The line can't hold—they've passed to the goal—the Moguls have already won!

The Freshman

You can always tell a barber by the way he parts his hair; you can always tell a dentist, when you're in that dentist's chair.

And even a musician, you can tell him by his touch. You can always tell a freshman, but you cannot tell him much.

Blanche and Louise journeyed over to Madeline Craig's Sunday and report a good time.

Lillian McGohtlin went to Brownfield and Lamesa during the week-end. She saw the Lamesa-Slaton football game.

Sophomore Genuses Artist Lillian liked to draw. Whenever they'd permit her. And once she drew a little dog. So life-like that it bit her.

R. L. drew a bird so natural. That it could even sing. But a hawk came by and saw it. And ate the blooming thing.

One time Burl drew a little hen; His talents he displayed there. He threw it in the basket. And that chicken promptly laid there.

Mary Hope Smith went to Abilene on the train all by her lonesome. (She went to the dentist.)

Modern Arithmetic

He's teaching her arithmetic. Because that is his mission, He kissed her once, he kissed her twice.

And said "Now, that's addition." And as he added smuck by smuck, In silent satisfaction, She sweetly gave his kisses back.

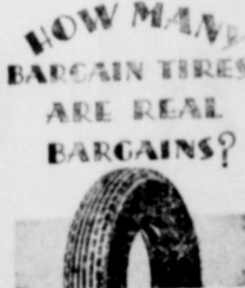

And said, "Now that's subtraction." And he kissed her, and she kissed him.

Without any explanation; They both together smiled and said, "Now, that's multiplication."

But did appeared upon the scene, And made a quick decision. He kicked the lad three blocks away. And said, "Now that's division."

Junior Flashes

We've got a football team. We never cared for a football team. But we've got a football team. And that's our weakness now.

ISN'T it better to pay a little more for a tire you know is good than to ride in fear and trembling on a "bargain" tire? "Bargain" tires are short-lived, and in the end you've lost everything, including your temper—and nothing to show for it. Buy United States Tires from us—ride comfortably and save money.

United States Tires Are Good Tires

Oh, Baby! The Juniors are full of pep this, Tuesday, morning, having left the flag of Victory waving over Scruggs Field yesterday afternoon at five-thirty. Boys, you had a hard struggle, but now we're doubly proud of you. We really hated that our opponents couldn't win, too, but you know the best team always wins. Had the game not been marred by the accident right at the close, we are sure we all could have truthfully said, "Tis the end of a perfect day."

A number of Juniors spent the week-end out of town, but they made their visits short in order to attend the Munday-K. C. game. How's that for support? * * *

The Juniors are very sorry to report the illness of their classmate, Earl Newsome. Earl is a distinguished member of the football squad and we know he regretted very much not being able to play in the game yesterday. Here's to a speedy recovery, Newsome—and the football boys are not the only ones that are missing you.

Did the Pep Squad have a big time Monday night? The best in the history of our organization. Thank you, Dr. Farrington, and we surely won't forget you when our big banquet comes off. "Which won't be long, now!"

Seems rather hard for us to "buckle down" to studying, after the nice vacation we have had—but Mr. Rhodes advised us that we might get a long better if we did—so here's to hard labor and torture again.

FRESHMEN

We certainly enjoyed the holiday yesterday, probably because of the victory of the Moguls over the Knox City Greyhounds. We were very sorry that one of the Greyhounds was hurt during the game. We understand that he is better now. Fayette Edwards and Cecil Parker, the freshmen football players certainly made a fine showing. Come on boys!

Miss Paxton spent the week-end in Royse City.

Mr. and Mrs. Kunkel and Miss Newton spent the week-end in Denton.

NOTICE ORIENT MASTER GAS

The Better Gasoline

Has been shipped to Munday, Texas, and has been put on sale in our own service station in the old Willys-Knight building which we recently leased.

It is now on sale to automobile owners who love their motors and want to prolong the life of their cars.

It is the regular standard domestic U. S. airplane gasoline.

It is 100 per cent chemically pure straight run 370 end, and Crystal White, which is the neutral color of all high grade gasoline, and it is a natural, and therefore the most SUPERIOR NO-KNOCK GASOLINE.

It is the vigorous heart, life and power of crude oil, and contains none of the aches, pains, worries and injurious elements of the fifteen lower grades sold to the public.

It contains no particles that will not burn, and therefore leaves no carbon in the cylinders to overheat the engine, produce carbon knocks and require carbon cleaning.

It gives quicker start with easier riding and more miles of better service per gallon.

It is the highest grade made for automobiles and is 67 POINTS BETTER THAN ORDINARY GASOLINE and costs more to make, but during a short introductory period will be retailed at 21c per gallon, but your car will last longer, and your gasoline and repair bills will cost you less per month.

What we say about this gasoline is the Sacred Truth. But you don't have to take our word for it. Leave it to your motor.

YOUR MOTOR KNOWS THE DIFFERENCE.

Try a fill at our filling station, at the old Willys-Knight Garage building, at Munday, Texas.

One of the prettiest parties of the autumn season was given on Tuesday evening when Mrs. D. T. Mauldin and Mrs. H. G. In harmony with the autumn season autumn flowers and beautifully colored autumn leaves were chosen for house decorations and favored in all appointments one unique feature being that of the use of autumn leaves as tally cards. Games of "24" progressed merrily throughout the evening and at the conclusion a delicious salad, served consisting of chicken salad, olives, potato chips and crackers, with hot punch. STILL MORE SPEED

If a recent press dispatch is accurate, the airplane speed record of 318 miles an hour, set by Major Bernardi of Italy last March, may soon be officially smashed by a wide margin.

From England comes word that Lieutenant Grieg in an unofficial try-out attained a speed estimated at 245 miles an hour. Possibly before this is in print, he may have made a new official record.

The average person can not imagine what it would mean to shoot through space at the rate of between five and six miles a minute, and most of us have little curiosity to find out. Still, we naturally have a certain admiration for those adventurous spirits who do such things.

No matter how dangerous a stunt may be, there are always some to be found who have the courage or foolhardiness to try it. But it is difficult for conservative mortals to understand how they get that way.

THE CAMPAIGN IS OVER

The political campaign is over. Stocks and bonds have taken a jump as a result of the Republican victory at the polls, but the price of cotton and all agricultural products seem to have been undisturbed by the returns, and from our viewpoint the returns indicate that the United States of America, or the citizens thereof, are entirely in sympathy with the Eighteenth Amendment, and no condition is likely ever to arise that will cause them to view this great question differently. If the result in reality is a victory for the cause of prohibition, then indeed we can eat our crow with less reluctance.

We supported the Democratic nominee, not on account of his stand on prohibition, but in spite of it. We supported him because we knew that he had come up from the most humble environments to be one of the most honored men in his state. Such recognition could not be attained by one of ordinary ability. Such recognition could be acquired only through merit and honesty, and while the campaign was a most bitter one, we at no time heard the honesty of the Democratic nominee questioned by his bitterest foes. This, indeed, is a tribute to him—in defeat or victory.

The prohibition forces of the nation flocked to Mr. Hoover, not for any encouragement that he gave them, but rather due to the bold stand taken by Governor Smith. Indeed, if Mr. Hoover has ever committed himself to the cause of prohibition it has not been brought to our attention. He has contented himself, and his followers seem to have been contented with the evasive reference to the Eighteenth Amendment as being a "noble and courageous experiment."

But, the greatest upset of the election is the fact that Texas has cast her electoral vote for the Republican candidates for President and Vice-President for the first time in history. The Democratic party in Texas and other southern states lies prostrate—temporarily—before a Republican victor. That religious issues and prohibition have played a leading role in bringing about this condition is an undeniable question. Somewhat, these things creep into the Democratic party and keep it torn asunder, while they never seem to enter into the affairs of the Republican party.

But, the thing that should concern us Democrats now—Hoover Democrats, Regular Democrats and all Democrats who really have the interest of Democratic principles and ideals at heart, is the rebuilding of our party prestige. Already we have had too much dissension within the party, and we sincerely hope that some of the disturbing elements have been settled for all time to come by the voting on November 6th.

MORE DISSENSION?

Some days ago there appeared in the news columns of the Wichita Daily Times an account of the hearty welcome home that had been accorded to Judge Sartin of that city, who had gone to Dallas to take charge of the Hoover-Democrat forces. At the conclusion of the news item it was stated that Judge Sartin's friends had stated that he would probably be a candidate for Governor on the Anti-Smith ticket two years hence.

Gov. Smith has announced his retirement from politics. Many flattering offers have been made him for his services following his retirement as Governor of New York. He will draw a pension from the State of New York of $5,000 per year so long as he lives, which together with a meager $150,000 per year salary from some large corporation will enable him to keep the wolf away from the door, and besides all of the Smith children have reached maturity, and are capable of shifting for themselves.

So, since Gov. Smith is no longer a factor in politics, why should there arise the necessity of having an Anti-Smith, or Anti-anything or anybody, ticket in the field for Governor?

We don't know anything about Judge Sartin, but if he has nothing more to recommend him to the people of Texas than the fact that he voted the Republican ticket in November, 1928, then he has very small claim upon the suffrage of the people of Texas. If there are candidates who seek election solely upon the ground that they have voted the straight Democratic ticket for a number of years, they too, have very poor claims to present to the people of Texas.

Too many governors have already been elected in Texas on petty "isms" that mean nothing to the people. What the people of Texas will look for when casting about for a man to place in the Governor's office two years hence is a man who will offer them a conservative and common sense administration of the people's business, constructive legislation and some old-fashioned Jim Hogg horse sense in the conduct of the affairs of state.

Indeed there should be no occasion for an Anti-Anything ticket in Texas, for if a man isn't big enough to run on his merit he isn't big enough to be elected to office in Texas.

And here we join Editor Covey of the Gore Advocate, in advocating that the real "hicks" do not reside in the country, or in the so-called country towns. There is something about the country towns that is more sentimental than the large cities. They observe the days that have been made sacred by American history, while the large cities make more of labor day than most any day of the year, and labor day has no historical significance. May we continue to observe November 11th, July 4th and other days that have meant so much to Americans.

A traveling man in town Monday seemed surprised that the business houses were closed in observance of Armistice Day, and stated that in the cities the day was observed by nobody but the bankers. To us it seems that it is an ungrateful American public that cannot pause long enough to pay its respects to the American boys who made the supreme sacrifice in Flanders fields that we might continue to enjoy the freedom that was purchased by the blood of our forefathers.

Friends should never fall out over politics, for, after all, we're all going to have to keep up our usual grind to get our 'am and hegz.

Anyway, John Raskob got his hog back when the stock market took a jump following the election.

The victory of Herbert Hoover seems to indicate that the country is still Republican—and dry.

And, furthermore, why doesn't some political wisecracker come out on a platform advocating restricted agitation.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Hogan were here from Rule during the week-end visiting relatives.

An all-electric ship of 9,000 tons, which may be operated by one man, was recently completed in Philadelphia.

THE GREATEST NEWS FIFTEEN BILLIONS OVER RELIGIOUS IDEALISM ENGLISH JUSTICE

The most important news in the world has nothing to do with the election, or the intelligence of the modern "flapper" highly prized by educational authorities. The year's important news tells of a giant telescope, with a 200-inch mirror that will reveal to the eyes of men hundreds of millions of new stars and distant "universes."

Appalling to man's feeble intellect is a thin instrument that will bring within reach of our eyes the light of nebulae in a far off universe, light that has been traveling through space one billion years, at a speed of 186,000 miles a second.

Mr. Raskob, a brilliantly able business man, said, probably out of politeness to please political associates, that our prosperity is not genuine. The General Motors Company, for which he has done good work, seems not to share his opinion, judging by the price of its stock and the size of its earnings.

Mr. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, thinks our prosperity is sound enough and so do others of financial ability.

Mr. Frederick Ecker, Vice-President of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, says the main element in prosperity is the wage earner's "back log."

Workers in this country earn about ONE HUNDRED BILLION dollars a year.

There is a good deal of extravagance and waste, but in spite of that, not more than 85 per cent of the earnings is spent. This means that the people earn each year FIFTEEN BILLIONS more than they spend.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in memory of his mother gives to the University of Chicago $1,000,000 "to promote the religious idealism of students of the university."

Those, unfortunately, numerous, that do exist WITHOUT religious idealism, never lifting their eyes from the ground to contemplate and question the heavens and the glory that they declare, are like the men living in Plato's cave, their backs to the light, knowing only shadows on the walls.

Young Mr. Chung Jim-iao, Chinese law student, married Wai Jung Sui, daughter of a rich merchant, took her to England and there murdered her.

Mr. Chung made his mistake when he went to England. They will hang him in a few days, in spite of his ingenious story, about mysterious Oriental assassins committing the crime.

In England when you kill anybody, they hang you without loss of time, excuses and explanations are not accepted. It is in this country that murderers in great numbers go free, and even those caught and convicted have two or three years to think it over.

AMERICANISM DEFINED

The word "Americanism" is used very frequently, but the average person would doubtless find some difficulty in defining it satisfactorily.

Broadly speaking, it is understood to mean an appreciation of and loyalty to America and its institutions. But it means more than a mere passive acceptance of the benefits which are derived from citizenship.

Probably no class of citizens are better qualified to define Americanism than the veterans of the wars which have been waged to defend it. Such a definition was adopted some time ago by the commander-in-chief of five leading veterans' organizations

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

On When Women Come Into Money.

As Aunt Emmy sipped her tea she heard the conversation drift to the Slade sisters. The fact that they had inherited a large fortune and would have to administer it themselves created considerable comment.

"My husband said old man Slade made a big mistake not putting it in trust for them," said Mrs. Bart.

"Persons who can qualify under that definition are truly Americans, whether native-born or naturalized."

MRS. HERBERT HOOVER

Lon Henry Hoover (Mrs. Herbert Hoover) is the daughter of a small town Ohio banker. She met Herbert Hoover at Leland Stanford University, where he was studying to be a mining engineer, and she was taking a course in geology. Herbert Hoover accepted a job in China, taking Lon Henry with him as his wife. Mrs. Hoover was a journalist in every way, even learning Chinese in order to be more useful in managing the household.

Mrs. Hoover is a scholar. In 1912 she collaborated with her husband in translating from classic Latin a huge tome: Georgius Agricola's de Metallica.

The Hoovers have been travelers, and Mrs. Hoover has seen all of the world, but avers that she feels at home only in America. During the war-time she was very active both in Europe and at Washington in relief work. She is the mother of two sons. Mrs. Hoover has many interests and enjoys work. She drives a car, attends all musical events she can possibly have access to, and is a reader of semi-scientific books. She plays tennis well, and has the faculty of making a home of any house she happens to live in.

"A Good Place to Trade"

THE LAST OF THE DUANES

by Lane Grey
Illustrated by Verne C. Christy

WHAT HAPPENED BEFORE

Buck Duane, quick on the draw, kills Cal Bain in self-defense and finds himself an outlaw. Flying from pursuit, he meets Luke Stevens, another outlaw, and the two become pals. Luke narrowly escapes capture and Duane is shocked to find his brother outlaw severely wounded.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Feller's name was Brown. Me an' him fell out over a hoss I stole from him over in Huntsville. We had a shootin' scrape then. Wal, as I was straddlin' my hoss back there in Mer-er I seen this Brown an' seen him before he seen me.

"Could have killed him, too. But I wasn't breakin' my word to you. I kind of hoped he wouldn't spot me. But he did—and fust shot he got me here. What do you think of this hole?"

"It's pretty bad," replied Duane, and he could not look the cheerful outlaw in the eyes.

"I reckon it is. Wal, I've had some bad wounds I lived over. Guess mebbe I can stand this one. Now, Buck, get me some place in the brakes—leave me some grub and water at my hand—an' then you clear out."

"Leave you here alone?" asked Duane sharply.

"Shore. You see, I can't keep up with you. Brown an' his friends will follow us across the river a ways. You've got to think of number one in this game."

"What would you do in my case?" asked Duane curiously.

"Wal, I reckon I'd clear out and save my hide," replied Stevens.

Duane felt inclined to doubt the outlaw's assertion. For his own part he decided his conduct without further speech.

First, he watered the horses, filled canteens and water-bags, and then tied the pack upon his own horse. That done, he lifted Stevens upon his horse, and holding him in the saddle, turned into the brakes, being careful to pick out hard or grassy ground that left little signs of tracks.

All that night Duane, gloomy and thoughtful, attentive to the wounded outlaw, walked the trail and never halted till daybreak. He was tired then, and very hungry. Stevens seemed in bad shape, though he was still spirited and cheerful. Duane made camp. The outlaw refused food but asked for both whiskey and water. Then he stretched out.

"Buck, will you take off my boots?" he asked with a faint smile on his pallid face.

Duane removed them, wondering if the outlaw had the thought that he did not want to die with his boots on.

"Pars, you—stuck—to me!" the outlaw whispered.

Duane caught a hint of gladness in his voice—he traced a faint surprise in the haggard face. Stevens seemed like a little child.

To Duane the moment was sad, elemental, big with a burden of mystery he could not understand.

Duane buried him in a shallow arroyo and heaped up a pile of stones to mark the grave. That done he saddled his comrade's horse, hung the weapons over the pommel and mounting on his own steed he rode down the trail in the gathering twilight.

Presently the trail widened into a road, and that into a kind of square lined by a number of adobe and log buildings, of roughest structure. Within sight were horses, dogs, a couple of steers, Mexican women with children, and white men, all of whom appeared to be doing nothing.

His advent created no interest until he rode up to the white men, who were loitering in the shade of a house. This place evidently was a store and saloon, and from the inside came a lazy hum of voices.

As Duane reined to a halt one of the loungers in the shade rose with a loud exclamation.

"Buck, who are you, an' where you from?" he asked.

"I'm from the hills, an' I'm a gun-fighter," replied Duane.

"How about it, Euchre? Ain't that Luke's boy?" queried the first man.

"Plain as your nose," replied the fellow called Euchre.

"There ain't no doubt about that then," laughed another, "fer Bosomer's nose is shore plain on the landscape."

These men lined up before Duane, and as he coolly regarded them he thought they could have been recognized anywhere as desperadoes.

The man called Bosomer, who struck out in advance of the others, was a hardlooking customer, with yellow eyes and an enormous nose. He had sandy hair and a skin the color of dust.

"I believe you," replied Bosomer at once. "Think I know when a fellow's lying."

"I reckon you're on the right trail" put in Euchre. "That about Luke wantin' his boots took off—that satisfies me. Luke had a mortal dread of dyin' with his boots on."

"At this rally the chief and the men laughed.

"You said Duane—Buck Duane?" queried Bosomer. "Are you a son of the Duane who was a gun-fighter some years back?"

"Yes," replied Duane.

"Never met him, and glad I didn't," said Bosomer with a grim humor.

Bosomer appeared at the door, pushing men who tried to detain him, and as he jumped clear of a last reaching hand he uttered a snarl like an angry dog.

Manifestly the short while he had spent in the saloon had been devoted to drinking and talking himself into a frenzy. Bosomer and the other outlaws quickly moved aside, letting Duane alone. When Bosomer saw Duane standing motionless and watchful, a strange change came quickly in him. He halted in his tracks, and as he did that the men who had followed him out piled over each other in their hurry to get to one side.

Duane saw all the swift action, felt intuitively the meaning of it, and in Bosomer's sudden change of front the outlaw was keen, and he had expected a shrinking or at least a frightened antagonist.

But Duane did not speak a word. He had remained motionless for a long moment, his eyes pale and steady, his right hand like a claw.

That instant gave birth in Duane a power to read in his enemy's eyes the thought that preceded action. But he did not want to kill another man; he did not intend to. When Bosomer's hand moved Duane's gun was spouting fire, and Bosomer fell with his right arm shattered. He would never be able to draw a gun again.

When Duane went out with Euchre the sun was setting behind a blue range of mountains across the river in Mexico. The valley appeared to open to the southwest.

"The only feller who's going to put a close eye on you is Benson," said Euchre. "He runs the place an' sells drinks. The gang calls him Jack-rabbit Benson because he's always got his eye peeled on him and his ear cocked. Don't notice him if he looks you over, Buck."

"Benson is scared to death of every newcomer who rattles into Bland's camp. An' the reason, I take it, is because he's done somebody dirt. He's hidin'. Not from a sheriff or ranger! Men who hide from them don't act like Jack-rabbit Benson."

"He's hidin' from some guy who's huntin' him to kill him. Wal, I'm always expectin' to see some feller ride in here and throw a gun on Benson. Can't say I'd be grieved."

"What have you against him?" inquired Duane, as he sat down beside Euchre.

"Wal, mebbe I'm cross-grained," replied Euchre apologetically. "Shore an outlaw an' rustler such as me can't be touchy. But I never stole nothin' but cattle from some rancher who never missed 'em anyway. That sneak Benson—he was the means of puttin' a little girl in Bland's way."

"Girl?" queried Duane, now with real attention.

"Shore. Bland's great on women. I'll tell you about this girl when we get out of here. Some of the gang are goin' to be sociable, an' I can't talk about the chief."

During the ensuing half hour a number of outlaws passed by Duane and Euchre, halted for a greeting, or sat down for a moment. They were all gruff, loud-voiced, merry and good-natured. Duane replied civilly and agreeably when he was personally addressed, but he refused all invitations to drink and gamble.

Evidently, he had been accepted, in a way, as one of their clan. No one made any hint of an illusion to his affair with Bosomer. Duane saw readily that Euchre was well liked. One outlaw borrowed money from him; another asked for tobacco.

Next morning Duane found that a moody and despondent spell had fastened on him. Wishing to be alone, he went out and walked a trail leading around the river bluff. He thought and thought.

When he returned to the shack Euchre was cooking dinner.

"Say, Buck, I've news for you," he said, and his tone conveyed either pride in his possession of such news, or pride in Duane. "Feller named Bradley rode in this mornin'. He'd heard some about you."

"Told about the ace of spades they put over the bullet holes in the cow-puncher Bain you plugged. Then there was a rancher shot at a water-hole twenty miles south of Wellston. Reckon you didn't do it?"

"No, I certainly did not," replied Duane.

"Wal, you get the blame. It ain't nothin' for a feller to be saddled with gun-play he never made. An', Buck, if you ever get famous as seems likely you'll be blamed for many a crime. The border'll make outlaw an' murderer out of you. . . . Wal, that's enough of that. I've more news. You're goin' to be popular."

"Popular? What do you mean?"

"I met Bland's wife this mornin'. She seen you the other day when you rode in. She shore wants to meet you an' so do some of the other women in camp. They always want to meet the new fellers who've just come in. It's lonesome for women here an' they like to hear news from the towns."

"Well, Euchre, I don't want to be impolite, but I'd rather not meet any women," replied Duane.

"I was afraid you wouldn't. Don't blame you much. I was hopin', tho, you might talk a little to that poor lonesome kid."

"What kid?" inquired Duane in surprise.

"Didn't I tell you about Jennie—the girl Bland's hidin' here—the one Jack-rabbit Benson had a hand in stealin'?"

"You mentioned a girl. That's all. Tell me now," replied Duane abruptly.

Dr. Caldwell's 3 Rules Keep You Healthy

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not grip. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect. Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without gripping and harm to the system. Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headache, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house and observe these three rules of health: the bowels open. We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Ill., and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

DR. FRANK CRANE SAYS

MILK

Milk is perhaps the most ideal food for a human being. It is our only food in infancy and a food too little used by adults. It has been called "the perfect food."

It is a food, however, that is hard to keep, for it readily spoils at too great a temperature. We have preserved all other kinds of foods, we have salted fish, canned vegetables and fruit, canned meat and smoked ham.

In 1851 a man went to England with a meat barrel he had invented. On the ship on which he travelled there were cows to give fresh milk. At that time most vessels resembled floating barnyards, that is, most vessels that pretended to give human comfort. The inventor observed on his return trip home in the summer that the cows were sea sick, the milk was bad and many babies died.

Coming home he devised a process of drying milk and canning it. After much difficulty the enterprise was successful.

It grew to great proportions during the Civil war, when the government bought the entire output of six factories.

Since then preserved milk has been a boon to all explorers whether in the frozen regions of the north or in darkest Africa.

Herbert Hoover preserved the lives and health of some 1,200,000 Belgian children by condensed milk.

Our own Mr. Strauss has proved himself a public benefactor by supplying pure milk for babies.

Any traveler in Europe is familiar with the dirty milk that is supplied everywhere from the milkmen's cans. These have been replaced almost entirely in America by the bottle.

Still about 6,000,000 children in the United States between the ages of two and fourteen are undernourished. They are stunted for lack of proper food, usually for lack of milk. The various companies handling milk have done much good by disseminating knowledge as to the value of pure milk. Pure milk has as much to do with preventing infant mortality as any other one thing. In China, years ago, when they had plenty of cows, they created a great civilization, now that they have cut down their forests and eaten their cows they kill as many babies as they raise. You cannot bring up a child, with success, on tea.

These health departments in the various cities which are insisting on pure milk and the companies which own their success to the distribution of pure milk, deserve all encouragement. Nothing could be of more importance to the public health than the maintenance of a supply of pure milk.

About Your Health

Liver

Said to be beneficial in certain grave disorders, one of which is pernicious anaemia, generally regarded as incurable, on account of its cause being indeterminate. So far, the use of liver in this condition is still in the experimental stage; next year we may find that we were mistaken—it is so easy to err, you know.

Fifty years ago the rural dwellers in some of our Atlantic states made "dried liver" a part of their winter store of animal foods—and they regarded it as a delicacy—even an essential to a well-kept pantry. Dried same as we cure dried beef. And we know those old fellows lived out a goodly term of years, for some reason or other; they must have lived pretty snugly.

Modern science has gone so far as to advise raw liver, to be used much as medicine for anaemia. Even an attempt at accurate dosage has been made—and some very favorable results recorded. I have had no practical experience in this new procedure, but, when I see an article in a reliable medical publication, I read it carefully. You might, with benefit, do the same; there are yet many things to learn.

More than a year ago I purchased a preparation called "liver substance" to be used hypodermically for high blood pressure, which it was claimed could be reduced promptly by its use. As I could not find out exactly how the substance acted after injection, I was so very slow about trying it, that I have the stuff on hand to this very day; experiments do not appeal to me very strongly—perhaps I'm over-cautious.

VERY LATEST

By Cecile

"It's just as important to have one's hair dressed smartly as it is to be correctly gowned. So why not 'Very Latest' coiffures for a change? All who are of the type wear it—note this coif worn by CARMEN MORALES, Shubert's star in 'Luckee Girl'—for it is almost popular affection of the younger set who are 'letting it grow.' When her hair is a bit longer, Carmen will certainly twist it into the new double back-knot that reminds you of romantic Southern beauties.

While the vivacious young damsels are busy featuring long hair dresses, the older girl clings to the bob which, we must admit, does create the illusion of youth for her. Bobs are longer now, however, waving softly to follow the head and melting into the outline of the neck instead of being clipped away from it.

Hats for Long Hair

And what do they do about hats when they wear long hair? Well, so far it isn't so easy—but at least one or two new models have been designed to fit neatly over the knob of hair resting low on the neck. The drooping side brims are cleverly cut in back and either folded or trimmed off so that the knob of hair may show itself to nice advantage without being ruffled by the brim.

Piquant Peplums

Many evening frocks show quite dashing interpretations of the peplum. Tall frocks lend themselves beautifully to the piquant use of this motif, while for the slinky satin gown the peplum may be gathered under a tight shaped hip yoke—one side trailing almost to the ground, the other side extremely short.

Krimmer Cloth is Smart

Long time since we've seen coats of krimmer cloth, but they are "in" again. One smart, Scotch-looking model on Fifth Avenue possessed a short black krimmer jacket worn over a plaid frock of crimson wool banded in krimmer. Gray krimmer over matching gray cloth is also shown.

BIG MEN LITTLE TOWNS

Charles Evans Hughes

Charles Evans Hughes, the famous jurist, toward whom the entire world looks with respect and admiration, is a native of Glen Falls, N. Y., where he was born in 1862. He had a long academic career and has many degrees from various colleges. He married Antoinette Carter in 1888, and had four children, three of whom are living.

When he was admitted to the New York Bar in 1884, he already showed signs of the rare talent of leadership and judicial merit that later brought him to the forefront of present-day Americans. He divided his time between law practice and the teaching of law in universities, and in 1907 he became Governor of the State of New York, a position which he filled for two terms.

In 1910 he became an associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. In 1916 he ran for the presidency of the country, being defeated by Woodrow Wilson by a very slight majority.

He was secretary of State in the cabinets of both Harding and Coolidge. Latterly he has been actively identified with the movement for world peace, lending his unusual ability to the solution of world problems.

Hughes is conceded by all, even by the one of the most distinguished statesmen this country has ever produced. He is one of many small town boys who have come to distinction and power in the land.

AN UNSEEN DANGER

With the approach of winter, the usual fatalities from deadly carbon monoxide may be expected, unless motorists heed warnings against starting their motors in closed garages.

So many deaths have been caused by this poisonous gas that the U. S.

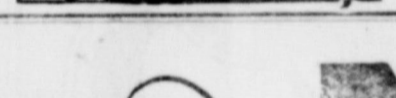

In 5 MILLION HOMES TONIGHT

A host of babies will enjoy sound sleep tonight. And their parents will have unbroken rest. Castoria is the cause of this contentment in a multitude of homes.

Good old Castoria! Children cry for it. Mothers swear by it. Not a household where there is an infant should ever be without it. A few drops of Castoria quiet baby in a perfectly innocent manner. It is natural slumber that follows. Castoria is a purely vegetable product. No opiates. No narcotics. Of any kind.

Now you know why trained nurses give Castoria as often as an infant is ailing, or even restless. And why doctors tell mothers it is the first and only home remedy when baby has constipation, colic, diarrhea, or other upset. It is made for babies, and safe to give babies, and other things are not.

Fletcher's Castoria is "old-fashioned" if you count its fifty years, but it's an old-fashioned mother, nowadays, who worries along without it. Twenty-five million bottles bought last year! Think of the number of mothers who rely on Castoria! All these mothers can't be wrong! To keep a bottle in the house is a precaution you owe your little one.

Bureau of Mines has produced a motion picture to illustrate its dangers. Besides showing how one may be overcome by carbon monoxide, the picture displays these warnings: "Never run the engine in a closed garage;" "Keep the doors wide open;" "Never get under the car while the engine runs;" "Never sleep in a room with a gas appliance burning." Carbon monoxide is an odorless and therefore insidious gas, which paralyzes its victim almost before he is aware of its presence, and is fatal unless respiration and a supply of oxygen is immediately applied.

WHIPPET WINS AGAIN

In the auto races and endurance contest held at Wichita Falls on Armistice Day, Henry Williams, who is the only one-armed race driver in America, won the race in a stock Whippet 95 roadster, making the 200 laps in 2 hours, 13 minutes and 13 2-5 seconds, finishing—

2 laps ahead of a Hudson Roadster, which was second
5 laps ahead of an Oldsmobile Coupe, which was third
13 laps ahead of a Chevrolet Roadster, which was fourth
21 laps ahead of a Model A Ford, which was fifth

There were 17 starters—

- 5 Model A Fords
- 3 '28 Hudsons
- 3 Dodges, 2 Victory 6's, 1 4-cyl.
- 1 Cleveland Touring
- 1 '28 Oldsmobile Coupe
- 1 '28 Chevrolet roadster
- 2 Chryslers, 62 and 70
- 1 Whippet Roadster

The Whippet Roadster was the only car that run the entire race without having to visit the pits for water, oil, gasoline, or mechanical repairs. It did, however, have three blow-outs, but not a single mechanical adjustment was made on the car, or a single drop of water put into the radiator during the 100-mile grind.

Of the 5 model A Fords starting only one finished the race—the other four going out for various reasons. Only 1 Hudson, 1 Dodge and 1 Chrysler finished.
