

Ten Premiums Paid by Munday Business Concerns on Saturday

Deviating from their usual custom of awarding $40.00 each Saturday, the merchants of Munday gave away $5.00 on last Saturday afternoon, adding five $1.00 premiums to the total amount, and increasing the number of beneficiaries from five to ten, and for the first time since the inauguration of the prize distribution system, one person drew two of the premiums, Miss Beatrice Owen having been fortunate in securing the $5.00 and one of the $1.00 prizes.

The fortunate ones in Saturday's distribution were as follows: S. A. Bowden, $15.00, on ticket from Farmers Elevator; J. D. Rowlett, $10.00, on unassigned ticket; J. C. Stevens, $7.50, on unassigned ticket; Beatrice Owen, $5.00, on ticket from Akers Dry Goods Co.; Effie Dye, $2.00, on ticket from Eiland's Drug Store; Jessie Shipman, $1.00, on ticket from Baker-Campbell Co.; Hershel Owen, $1.00, on ticket from A. J. Hirsom's; Beatrice Owen, $1.00, on ticket from Akers Dry Goods Co.; S. A. Fought, $1.00, on ticket from Akers Dry Goods Co.; Miss Lee Floyd, $1.00, on ticket from Baker-Campbell Co.

Judges selected to conduct the distribution of premiums on Saturday were R. L. Gaines and E. F. Jangman, while little Jannie Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Jones, drew the names from the box.

BOX SUPPER AT NEW HOPE CHURCH, FRIDAY, OCT. 26

We are requested to announce that there will be a box supper at the Baptist church at New Hope on Friday evening, October 26th, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Knox County Singers Will Convene Here On Sunday Afternoon

The Knox County Singing convention will be held in Munday on Sunday afternoon, beginning at 2:30 at the Baptist church, and one of the features of the convention will be the appearance of Mr. W. M. Free and daughters of Haskell, who have become famous over this section of West Texas for their famous quartets.

Other good singers from all over the county will be here and the convention gives promise of being the best that has ever been held in the county, and everybody is cordially invited to be present, and all singers are urged to be here.

FATHER OF FRANK BOLEY DIED AT TEMPLE, TEXAS

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boley were called to Temple, Texas on Thursday of last week in response to a message advising them of the critical illness of Mr. Boley's father, who passed away at six o'clock on that afternoon.

Deceased was well known in Munday, having visited in the home of his son here a number of times, and the many friends of Mr. Boley will learn with deep regret of his great sorrow.

NOTICE TO SCHOOL PATRONS

Report cards for the first six weeks were given out this week. These reports will be issued regularly at the end of each six-week period of school. It is very important that each patron see the report and examine it carefully. Read all the explanations and directions, as well as the grades, sign, and return the card promptly.

Reports in the grammar school this year will be issued every six weeks instead of every month. This is done in order to standardize the reports throughout the school system. Patrons, however, will be regularly notified of unsatisfactory work so that they may co-operate with the teachers in securing the best possible results.

The school seeks your advice and cooperation in its effort to educate your child. We hope you will feel free at all times to visit the school and confer with the teachers and superintendent concerning any difficulty. Let us work together for the good of your pupil and the school.

J. E. RHOODES, Superintendent.

SATURDAY WAS BIG DAY FOR MUNDAY BUSINESS CONCERNS SAY THEM ALL

Saturday was the banner business day of the year for many Munday merchants according to reports that we have heard during the week, and business is far exceeding the expectations of many, which is due to the fact that more cotton is being made over the Munday country than was expected at the opening of the season.

Business houses were jammed to capacity during the afternoon Saturday, and there were so many cars in town that it was indeed difficult to find parking space, and we have heard a number of farmers make the statement that more parking space for cars should be provided close in to the business section, as they are often compelled to carry their merchandise quite a distance to their cars. One farmer from the Rheinland community told us that he drove around for quite a bit hunting a place to park his car and finally had to park out of the business section.

Munday merchants have made all preparations to care for a large business during the fall, as they went to market at a time when crops were very promising and bought heavily in anticipation of a large fall business, and the rush is therefore not finding the merchants of Munday unprepared.

Miss Beulah Barton visited in Temple during the week end.

Heartall Hardegree was in Fort Worth during the week end.

Mrs. R. L. Briggs is visiting at Rockwall, Dallas and other points.

The Idea Is To Scare the Daylights Out of Each Other - By Albert T. Reid

Wichita Threatens Suit Against Knox County After Controversy Over Expenses Pauper Burial

(Editor's Note: The following article was published in the Wichita Daily Times on Tuesday, and refers to a case originating in Munday some months ago when a negro was shot by another negro, who later was carried to Wichita Falls for medical attention and died some days later from the effects of the wounds. We are inclined to believe that the failure of Knox county to pay the funeral expense is due to the amount of the bill rendered, as it seems that $75.00 is somewhat expensive for the burial of a pauper.)

The county of Wichita threatened through its commissioners' court here Monday to sue the county of Knox $75.00 for the funeral expenses of a negro woman buried here more than six months ago.

The instructions to sue unless Knox county pays the funeral costs were given by the commissioners' court at its weekly meeting Monday by Wayne Somerville, county attorney, after a controversy, which began with the day last March when the negro was brought to a local hospital for treatment of a bullet wound. She died within a few hours after arrival.

Mr. Somerville, however, was notified by the Wichita county commission to first obtain from Knox county officials a positive refusal to pay the funeral expenses, which amount to $75.00. The expected refusal is obtained, Mr. Somerville is to file suit in behalf of Wichita county for the amount, the county attorney said.

Following the wounding of the woman at Benjamin last March, according to information to Mr. Somerville, citizens there made up enough money by popular subscription to send her to a hospital here. She died, E. P. Walsh, Wichita county auditor, called Knox county officials and, according to his information to the court, was authorized to bury the woman in Wichita county, thereby eliminating the cost of sending the body back to Knox county. The burial took place.

Then the undertaker presented the bill, and it was forwarded to the Knox county commissioners' court. Mr. Somerville was advised by officials of that court that Knox county had not authorized the funeral expenses and, therefore, would not pay them. Many letters were exchanged during the course of a few months. Several on file in Mr. Somerville's office all are to the same effect: that the commissioners' court of Knox county had not authorized the expenditure, and could not pay it.

Matters raveled along until Monday. The undertaking company then insisted that something be done and that the bill must be paid. The commission's instructions to Mr. Somerville followed.

A GREAT TRIBUTE

If you are ever so fortunate as to visit our National Capitol at Washington, you will find many things there to thrill you.

But none, perhaps, as stirring as one picture that hangs as a permanent gift to the American people and a fitting tribute to one of the most glorious deeds in all our nation's proud history.

This wonderful picture bears the simple title "WE," and as its name suggests, depicts the gallant flight of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh from New York to Paris—the flight that thrilled the world, and gave it probably its most loved hero of all time.

And the best part of all this, you can have a handsome copy of "WE," printed in twelve colors and measuring eighteen by twenty-four inches, to hang in your own home.

You cannot buy the picture at any price. It may be had only through The Youth's Companion as its free gift to you with a year's subscription to the magazine.

In its new form as a monthly magazine, The Companion itself has more to offer than ever before—a full book-length novel complete in each issue; serials and short stories; feature articles, editorials, contests, puzzles, poems, recommendations of books and motion pictures, and special departments for both boys and girls covering their own favorite activities.

In order that every American home may enjoy the inspiration of the famous picture "WE," we make the following liberal offer:

1. The Youth's Companion, 12 big monthly numbers, and
2. Two extra numbers to new subscribers ordering within 30 days, and
3. A copy of "WE" in 12 color-framing size 13 x 24 inches. A only $2.

Music and Expression Recital

On Friday evening at the Baptist church at seven-fifteen o'clock a recital will be held in which pupils of three fine arts teachers will participate, two of them Billie True Hill and Betsy Reeves, being pupils of Miss Kimmie Lee and the other pupils are students of Mrs. Joe Davis and Mrs. Aaron Blanton. Especially interesting and entertaining should be the numbers given by the Rhythm Orchestra, which is composed of little tots from four to about eight years of age, and this will be the first appearance on the stage for some of them, but you will think they are old performers after you have heard them.

The public is cordially invited to attend, and the following program will be rendered. There will be no admittance charge.

1. Clayton's Grande March. Blake
2. My Rival. Cook
3. Bicycle Gallop. Bectler
4. a. Rhythm Dance. Retay Reeves
5. Sidewalks of New York. Jean Williams, Peggy Eiland, Ann Atkinson, Evelene Reeves, Mary Moore.
6. A Little Tune. Helen Williams
7. Where the Spank Wood Grows. DeFrance Burton
8. The Lost Prize-Playlet. Characters: Ophia Pruitt, Lily, Claudia Barger, Alice, LaVern Eiland, Jenny, Gale Reynolds, Ellen Frances Mauldin, May, J. O. McMahon, Bob, D. E. Holder
9. Allegro Vivace. Billy True Hill
10. Mary Ann. Gordon James Barnes, Sylva Barnes, Helen Williams, Gale Reynolds, Opha Pruitt, Billy Joe Dickerson
11. Sammy Sees His First Circus. J. O. McMahon
12. Popular Songs-Ukelele Class. Inez Campbell, Roselin Houser, Virginia Bess Atkinson, Mary Brown, Irene Newsom, Helen Houser.
13. a. I Got the Blues When It Rains. Bene Bowden, Fay Edwards, Mrs. Raymond Thurston, Madge Smith, Maurice Smith, Vivian Rogers.

LOCAL TEACHERS INSTITUTE THIS WEEK

Pupils of the Munday public schools will enjoy a brief vacation Thursday and Friday of this week when school will be dismissed to allow the teachers to attend institute at Haskell.

The Munday teachers will be required to attend institute only two days this year because of the new Institute law which makes this provision for schools of more than five hundred scholars.

The Institute at Haskell will be a joint meeting of the teachers of Stonewall, Knox, and Haskell counties and will, no doubt, be a very profitable session.

Judge Welch of Quanah Will Speak in Interest Democratic Nominee

Judge Welch of Quanah will speak in Munday at 8:00 o'clock Saturday evening in the interest of the Democratic national ticket and all who are interested in hearing the real issues of the campaign discussed by an able speaker are urged to be present.

Judge Welch will also speak at Knox City at 3:30 Saturday afternoon, and as many of the citizens of Knox county have not had an opportunity to hear the cause of the Democratic party discussed during the campaign, it is urged that all who possibly can hear one or the other of these addresses. Judge Welch is an most interesting speaker and will have something to say that will be interesting to the citizens of Knox county.

"Mock Majestic" Given By Students and Faculty Wins Approval of All

The "Mock Majestic" program which was presented at the community auditorium on Tuesday evening by members of the faculty and student body of the Munday Public Schools and several others, was a howling success from every standpoint, notwithstanding the fact that some of the acts were not so good, some were rotten and some were good and rotten, they possessed that mirth-provoking element, which, after all is said and done, was the big idea behind the program, and, best of all, it brought in about $106.00 to be added to the library fund of the school, which was the real idea behind the whole deal, so everybody is happy.

Every number of the program was designed especially for laughing purposes, and if any of the numbers did not come up to the expectation of the spectators, it was just because they lacked the necessary sense of humor to get the big idea, for from the time of the curtain and the presentation of "Wild Nell, Pet of the Plains," to "The Winning Ways of Grandma Days" the program was a scream, and if you didn't get some good hearty laughs, take out advice and take something for what ails you.

University of Australia and Simmons University Will Hold Debate Oct. 29

Announcement has been received by the faculty members of the Munday High School that Simmons University debating team will meet the debating team of the University of Australia at Abilene on Saturday evening, October 29th. The subject for the debate will be: Resolved; That the Parliamentary System of Government is more Efficient than the Presidential System. The University of Australia will affirm and Simmons University will deny.

Prof. Kunkel, who is coaching the debating team of the Munday High School, states that it is his purpose to take a number of members of the local debating team with him to Abilene and hear the debate between these two universities.

The debating team of Simmons University is the same team that defeated the University of England last year.

What Pink Bollworm Looks Like

Farmers sometimes find insects in cotton bolls and wonder whether they are pink bollworms. The worm stage of the insect shown in this illustration is the only form that is likely to be found by a casual examination. The worm when full grown varies from about seven sixteenths of an inch to more than one-half inch in length, and has a distinct pinkish color. The pink bollworms shown above are about one-half inch long.

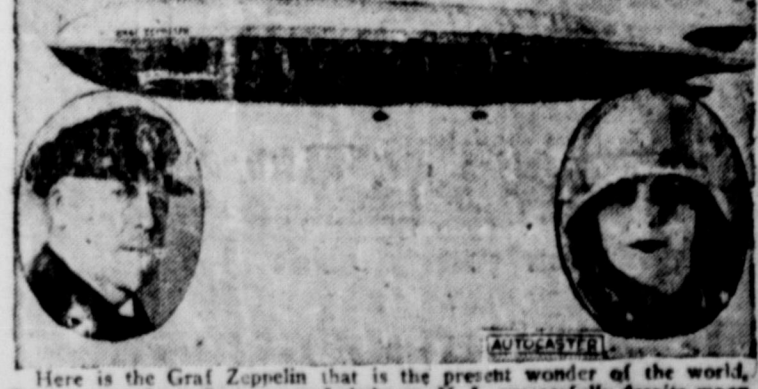

Stanley McCarty has recently returned home from Peoria, Ill., where he graduated from the Bradley Polytechnic Institute, and has opened a jewelry and optical business at Munday.

ADVENTURES IN THE KITCHEN!

Courtesy of the Domestic Science Department, Perfection Stove Company

NANCY'S own kitchen had been undergoing improvements, along with the others. And, as might have been expected, its color scheme was a little out of the ordinary. For Nancy, as you may remember, was an artist, and not at all afraid to experiment with color.

Her house was Colonial in style, and the woodwork throughout was white, with mahogany trim. In her kitchen, the door and window frames were of mahogany any color, with all the built-in furniture, white. Walls, lavender-gray, very light. Curtains, sea blue, bordered with French blue and lavender. Floor, light gray linoleum. Oval rugs of French blue, with bands of sea blue and lavender. Breakfast table, sea blue trimmed with French blue. Chairs, French blue, trimmed with sea blue. Oil range, pots and pans, snow-white.

"I got stage fright at the thought of cooking for you experts," she told the assembled Kitchen Club. "But I have some good sandwich recipes I'm going to give you."

"I always break the first rule of sandwich making—to use day-old bread. It does make much nicer sandwiches, but they are not nearly so good as those made with fresh bread. I have a very sharp knife, and use it with the lightest pressure possible."

LEAVES FROM NANCY'S KITCHEN CLUB NOTEBOOK

These are the recipes I gave the Club.

Toasted Nut Sandwiches
Toast over a slow fire pecans, English walnuts or blanched almonds in butter and salt, constantly stirring. Slice fresh bread and spread thinly with olive oil mayonnaise. Sprinkle with the nuts, using the toasted butter as part of the spread. Are best if served immediately.

Cheese and Nut Sandwiches
Run fresh American cheese through a food chopper until it is fluffy. Mix with enough evaporated milk to make a paste. Do not use fresh milk. For this recipe, the evaporated is far better. Season with salt and red pepper. Mix with nuts and spread on fresh bread without mayonnaise. While this sandwich is better if eaten at once, it can stand for hours, if necessary, and still be good.

Cheese and Pimiento Sandwiches
Run American cheese through food chopper until it is fluffy. Mix with chopped canned pimiento and enough olive oil mayonnaise to spread nicely. This filling will keep for days, but is better eaten at once.

"Pick Up Supper" Sandwiches
Toast bread on one side. On soft side spread mayonnaise. Lay on this a lettuce leaf, two slices of tomato and two of crisp, hot bacon. Salt and pepper. Serve at once.

Chicken Salad Sandwiches
Chopped chicken, sweet pickle, chopped hard-boiled eggs. Pepper, salt, celery salt. A little chopped celery. Moisten with mayonnaise and spread on bread.

Cheese Dreams
These are hard to digest, but oh, so good on cold nights! Crumble fresh American cheese on fresh bread. Salt. Cover with another slice. Toast in frying pan with butter. When brown on one side turn and toast on the other. Serve at once.

Cake and Bread Box
I showed the Kitchen Club the combination cake and bread box I found at Green's yesterday. It has two compartments. Comes in half-dozen different colors. I got one. But, as I already had a cake box, I'm going to put silver in the top compartment of mine.

Vanishing Garbage Bucket
One store showed me a garbage bucket with an attachment to fasten it to the pipe under a kitchen sink. It pulls out on a lever to fill, and is pushed back out of sight when one is through with it. It comes in beautiful, bright colors, though, and it seems a shame to hide it.

Vegetable Bin
I found a wonderful new vegetable bin to tell the Kitchen Club about. It has three "stories," each ventilated. The bottom one could hold potatoes, the next, apples, and the two small ones at the top, onions and beans. The bin comes in tin, all different colors.

Paul's Last Journey To Jerusalem Acts 20:17-21, 28-30; II Corinthians 11:28

A lively time is one way of describing the experience of Paul as he was busy with his third missionary journey. Romance in real life can often out do anything in fiction. Read Acts 20-21 for a thrilling record.

Three months were spent in Corinth, which had been visited on the previous journey. This time "Galatians" and "Titans" were written while in that city, which with "I and II Corinthians" make a record of four epistles which on this third missionary trip. The Corinthians responded to Paul's request for an offering for the poor Jerusalem Jews and the amount was no larger than a plot was laid to seize it while Paul was en route by water to Syria. Then the itinerary was changed and a party of at least nine made the return journey by way of Macedonia and Philippi. At the latter city Dr. Luke, the writer of Acts, joined the company, as is indicated by a return to the "we" passages, verses 20-21.

At Troas the meeting with the brethren continued till after midnight and was interrupted as Eutychus went to sleep in an upper window and fell out to his death on the pavement below. The power of God was present, through Paul, to restore to life and the lad rose again in their midst. The sacrament of "breaking bread" was observed and the Apostle continued his journey along the coast of Asia Minor. He was eager to reach Jerusalem in time for the Feast of the Passover and avoided a stop at Ephesus, where he labored for three years at the beginning of this with the leaders of the church in very tour.

There was need for a conference, Ephesus, as a break in the journey was made at Miletus and a runner sent Ephesus, a break in the journey was miles. Soon the elders were with Paul for the conference so greatly desired by their former preacher and pastor. Every minister and teacher is concerned for the continued well being of those with whom he has worked. There is always value in a follow-up to learn how things are progressing.

With heart reviewing frankness Paul reminds these leaders that he had sought in every possible way to be their helpful friend during those years of recent service. It was quite like an audit of accounts. Though Paul had been their teacher he tells them that he had maintained loveliness of mind and had suffered severely as he did not spare himself in any way.

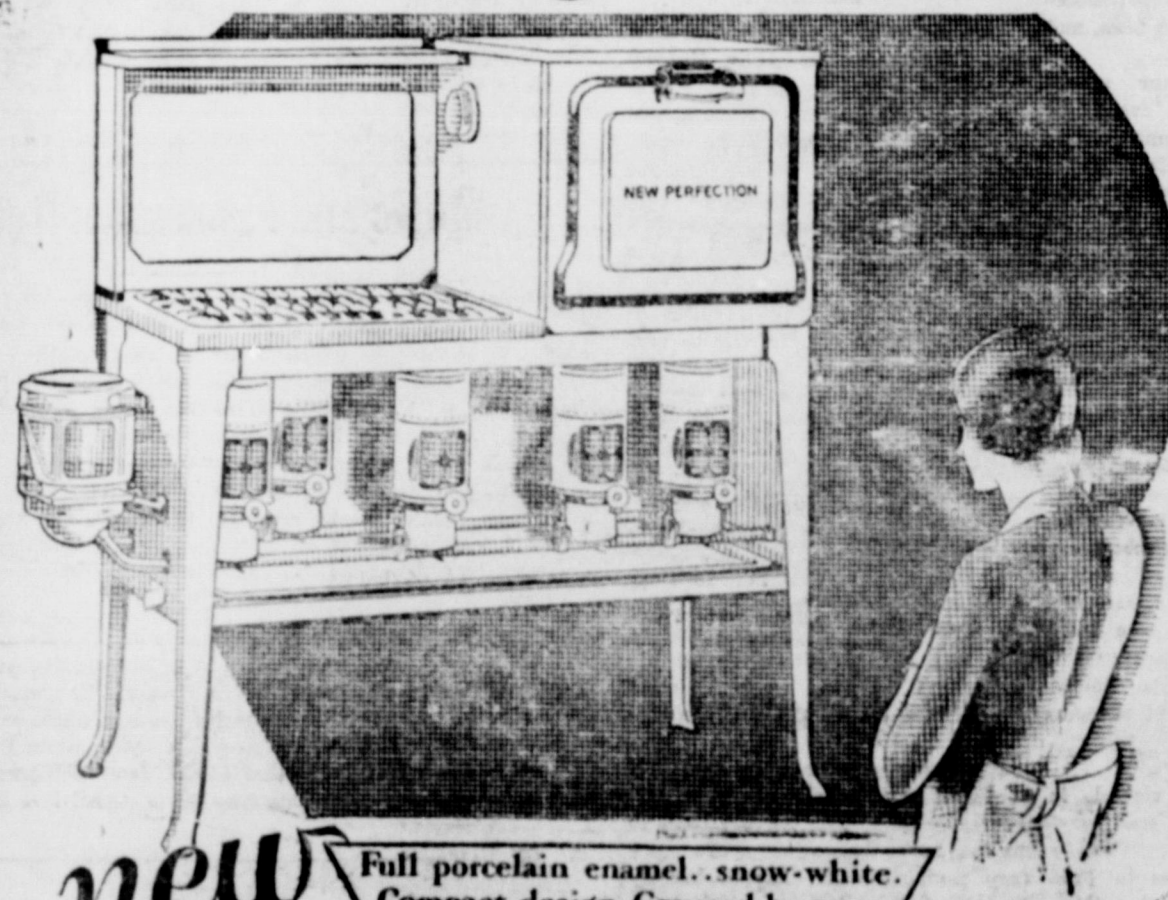

Since the elders would now take Paul's place as bishop they must be both particular and zealous in their own ministry. Theirs was a great responsibility. That they might be spiritually equipped for the service in hand Paul commended them to God who was able to build them up so they would be sufficient. Though Paul had been reviewing his own life by way of example he places a higher authority before them as he reminds them of the words of the Lord Jesus: "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

Before separating there was a service of prayer in which the Presence was recognized in their midst. Tears flowed freely because of the sorrow in separation, especially as all were conscious that they would never meet again, for arrest at Jerusalem was impending. Thus spheres in prayer and human friendships Paul was brought on his way unto the ship."

A number of our teachers journeyed to Abilene Friday afternoon to hear Sousa's band play. Among those that went were Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. Kunkel, Miss Thornton and Miss Kennedy. Several students also journeyed over to hear a good program, because the world knows of Sousa and his band and his beautiful compositions.

Most of the students have worn their sweaters and coats for the past week. The teachers didn't fail to wrap up either for it was rather cool. Old Man Winter will be here before long with his icicles on.

Mr. Rhodes suggested that we change our school colors. This is a very touchy subject but nevertheless, it is a wise one. Everyone knows that purple fades as was witnessed by the award sweaters given last year. The colors haven't been decided upon yet, but, when they are chosen, they will be colors that will not fade easily.

We missed chapel last week and this week, but maybe we will have it next week. The teachers have been real busy the last two weeks getting ready for the six weeks exams.

We get as holidays this week Thursday and Friday, because of the teachers' institute being held in Haskell at that time.

SENIORS

Some Freshmen are so innocent that they think Seniors are really dignified, so this issue of the Senior section is respectfully dedicated to those. We are confident that after reading this, they will change their minds.

Elton Busby enrolled as a Senior last week. We are glad to welcome him as a classmate and fellow sufferer.

Are love and lovers so feckle as all there is circumstantial evidence. Oh, Constancy, thy name is Aycock. Why do you have to flirt with these other females, when Fern is probably sobbing her heart out for you? Joe, you must mend the error of your way, and now, and how. Now don't deny it. We saw you speak to a girl day before yesterday. Tsk, tsk, tsk.

Some famous similes: He's as slick as Frank Greer's forehead.

She's got more pepper than the Cayenne family.

His career's as spotted as Madge's new handkerchief.

Some Seniors haven't decided what er where they will be when they "grow up." If sandstorms, like these we have been witnessing the last few days, continue, our advice is: "Go east, young man, go east; where men are men (?) and so are women."

Lost—No hopes—One long, black,

"tearing" car, with top absent, four wheels, no brakes, a spare, trolley bell, and broken wind shield. It is absolutely guaranteed to have more squeaks per minute, more bumps per mile, more knocks per motor, and the greatest seating—and standing—capacity than any other car in captivity. It has the neatest paint job and the upholstery is lovely. It is equipped with all modern inconveniences. Joe Aycock and Frank Greer are the proud possessors of this very remarkable automobile.

We have managed to survive exam week, but we fear that we will have to master more courage to succeed in living through Wednesday, the official day for receiving report cards. We sincerely hope that not more than four "Ps" are found on each, and we don't have to illustrate "Seniors may come and Seniors may go, but we go on forever."

JUNIOR FLAKES

Last week was the week that told the tale. It was the end of the first semester and we blushing admit that the percentage of the Juniors knowledge was very low, but it is unusually hard to get started going good for the first two or three weeks of school—but just watch us next month and see the difference.

The Juniors have heard essays, reports, tests and after seeing the difficult six weeks exam in English, have decided that the following article would be very appropriate to quote here:

Miss Waggoner is my teacher; I shall not pass.

She maketh me sit up all night; she leadeth me into the depth of Webster's Dictionary. She causeth me to be miserable. She leadeth me into the paths that lead to poetry and insanity.

Yet, though I travel through the course of English III, I can use no pang; for my Clippinger art not with me; and my American Literature will afford me no comfort.

She preparat an exam before me, in the presence of mine adversaries; I fillet my pen with ink; my head runneth empty.

Surely Emerson and Hawthorne shall haunt me all the rest of my days, and I shall remain in English III forever.

Vela Phillips spent the week end in Wichita Falls. It is told that she entered a book store and said:

"I want a copy of 'Romeo and Juliet.'"

"Yes, sir," said the clerk, "one dollar and seventy-five cents."

"I have only seventy-five cents, so just give me Juliet."

The Pep Squad has received much criticism this week for not being out for the game Friday. True, we should have been there, but it seems as if the boys can do better without us, as we all know the score was 69-0. But we feel as if the Juniors were as well represented as any other class in school. There was only one pep uniform to be seen at the game and it was worn by an honorable Junior, Fern. We can be behind you, boys, even if we are unable to attend the game. We'll try to change your opinion, Moguls, and make you feel proud of us Nov. 12.

Chan: "Earl, do you want me to tell you a good joke for the Roundhouse?"
 Earl: "Sure, let's have it."
 Chan: "Frank Greer."

SOPHOMORES

We are awake while others sleep. Friday night a majority of the Sophomore class gathered at the High school building and with Mr. and Mrs. Kunkel as chaperones, we went to the Vera bride for a wienie roast. Mr. Kunkel, with some of our boys gathered some brush and built one grand bon fire. We had as guests for about five minutes, some of the honorable Juniors and Seniors. We went down into the River bed where quick sand used to be and played various games. While playing one real rough game, R. L. got knocked out. He's alright now, but you can tell he is slightly busy yet. Should you hear the whole story you would probably lend sympathy.

Mrs. Kunkel: (English class was studying principal parts of lay)
 "Joe Ed, what do you say when you place the baby on the bed?"
 Joe Ed: "Don't fall off."

Hazel Deane and Blanche motored to Abilene Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Kunkel to hear Sousa's band. The girls had such a good time they forgot to come home until Sunday. They report a grand time.

Jack Frost will probably visit us soon, but he is a welcome visitor after so many hot days. Anyway, we have plenty of coal, wood stoves and men to build roaring fires.

Thursday and Friday the monotony of the past six weeks will be broken. We shall probably miss the association of our beloved faculty, but we think all teachers should attend an institute at least two days (school days) out of every year.

FRESHMEN

We are very glad to see Dale Carter and Car Lansford back in school this morning. They have been absent for some time.

We haven't done much the last few weeks, but we are going to pep up and get real lively soon.

Not many of the Freshmen members of the pep squad (if any) went to the hall game last Friday. We thought the game would not amount to much. But we have found out it was a hard game. Although we beat we wish now we had gone. Our boys can fight even without a pep squad.

We certainly are glad of the fact that we will have a holiday Thursday and Friday as the teachers are to attend institute.

We will receive our report cards Wednesday. We feel that there will be much sorrow among the "fish," because of the low grades the teachers tell us we are going to get. (Seems that we only know how to swim downstream.)

MIDNIGHT MATINEE HALLOWE'EN NIGHT ROXY THEATRE

CLASS 7-A
 On account of some misunderstanding we haven't been able to have a report in the Roundhouse. But don't you worry, we will have it in from this time on. We have elected our officers, which are as follows:
 President—Mildred Moore.
 Vice-President—Dorothy Campbell.
 Secretary—Aline Beavers.
 Treasurer—Marvin Myers.
 Reporter—Bettalou Greer.
 The following committee was appointed by the president:
 Social Committee—Barbara Eiland, chairman; Ila Wyche, J. C. Rice, Ruth Weeks, Barbara Lee Carter.

We have had several socials since the beginning of school and are glad to say they were enjoyed by all.

We are delighted to have a new pupil, Floyd Robinson, in our class, and hope he will enjoy working with us.

F. B. E. CLUB

Our 7-A English class had a meeting on Wednesday of this last week and organized an English club. We named our club the F. B. E., or Fighting Bad English Club. The following officers were elected:
 President—Ila Wyche.
 Vice-President—E. M. McGlothlin.
 Secretary—Dorothy Campbell.
 Treasurer—Albert Aycock.
 Reporter—Mildred Moore.
 Our English club is to help every one speak correctly. We expect to do a great deal of good work throughout the following year.

MOGULS 69, RULE 0

Last Friday the football game was turned into a "race track" as it seemed, because the Moguls did lots of running to amass a total score of 69, and held Rule to a zero score. Rule only made one first down, gaining nine yards on a pass and one yard over center.

Munday's second string played about half the game, and while they were playing the Moguls scored the touchdowns, the first string scored eight touchdowns. Three extra points were made on tries after the 11 touchdowns.

Aycock made four of the touchdowns, Greer made two, P. Pruitt made two, E. Pruitt made the first touchdown of the game, Holder made one, and Newsum made one. P. Pruitt caught a pass for one of the points, and Busby caught a pass for the other extra point.

CHANS CHATTER

We missed the pep squad last Friday afternoon, even if we did not need anyone to yell for us. Rule had a fine looking bunch of girls in their pep squad, and they never gave up until the game had ended. Only two or three of Munday's pep squad could be seen at the game. We hope they were saving their energy for the Haskell game next Thursday.

Earl Pruitt got his nose broken in the game last Friday, but it does not seem to be hurting him any.

Earl Newsum, the famous right guard, made the last touchdown last Friday. He snatched up a partly blocked punt and ran about 10 yards for a touchdown.

Rex Holder, another hero of the hour, made a touchdown on line bucks and end runs.

Earl Pruitt made his first touchdown last Friday, and as it was the first to be made in the game, he sure is proud of it.

We'll go to Haskell to play the Indians next Thursday. Come help us win!

'N WE LAUGHED

Frank: "I want to get a diamond ring; platinum if you please."

Salesman: "Certainly, sir, let me show you our combination set of three pieces, engagement, wedding, and teaching rings, at a 10 per cent discount."

Madge: "It must be awful to be an heiress."

Frances: "Good heavens, why?"

Madge: "There would be nothing to get married for."

Miss Waggoner (in English): "Have you done your outside reading?"
 Earl: "No mam, it has been too cold to read outside."

By the way, while we are telling jokes, we'd like to mention "Icky" Pruitt.

Vivian: "What happened when your daddie told your fiancée he should put something aside for a rainy day?"

Fern: "A little while later, dad missed his raincoat."

When the Munday-Crowell football game was about to start, a Munday player asked Paul what to do. Being told to tackle the man who got the ball, he asked who was going to get the ball.

SIDE-LINE GRIPING

The reporter in giving an account of the Mogul-Grayhound game in the deney to mar the pleasure of the Knox City Herald last week stated game, and does not in any way help that the Moguls were real scrappers the home team to win. Certainly, we and good sports, but complained that do not contend that the home folks the side-line rosters could not boast should not be loyal one hundred per of so much sportsmanship, pointing cent to the home team, but, we beout that all throughout the game live that the officials that are chosen they had some ugly remarks to make for the games do their dead level concerning the decisions of the best to render just and honest referee and others officiating at the decisions, and to continually protest against the decisions of the officials is indeed poor sportsmanship. Of course, we always like to see our home team on the top side of the controversy, but let's show sportsmanship whether we are winning or losing, for after all, we are neighbors and friends, and if we cannot have friendly rivalry without engendering hatred, we'd better not have the sports at all.

HALLOWEEN

Halloween is the name given to the evening before the Festival of All Saints, the Vigil of All Hallows. In Old England it was the custom to crack nuts, duck for apples and indulge in other harmless amusements on that eve. Older yet is the custom of building fires, dating back to ceremonies of the Druids.

On Halloween, tradition has it, the witches upset everything, and for our American children have been upsetting everything on Halloween and blaming it on the witches. But, alas, their zeal is dying out. Halloween is no longer the "grand night" it was. A few chalk marks made here and there, a few children in costumes, a few stockings filled with flour that are banged over other children by their possessors, are all that is left of Halloween. This and some dignified parties where favors are distributed.

In the old days buggies were placed on roofs, gates were broken ajar, everything was made topsyturvy. And Halloween was spread over an entire week of mischief.

We can't believe this healthy spirit of mischief is dead.

It must be, alas, that our children have forgotten the traditions of Halloween.

This new condition makes us all safer—but we just can't help missing something.

THE GRAF ZEPPELIN

Now that the Graf Zeppelin has arrived another major step has been made in man's fight to span the Atlantic Ocean. Despite the rough weather and injuries to the Zeppelin, it "came through" nobly. Again the world is advanced a thousand years within less than the space of a week. This is the ninth successful skirinish in man's battle with the Atlantic. On October 12, 1492, Columbus made the first voyage from Europe to America.

In 1853 the first submarine cable between the new and old worlds was laid by the Atlantic Telegraph Co., headed by Cyrus West.

In 1901 the first wireless message was sent across the Atlantic. The first transatlantic telephone message service was completed January 7, 1927, between London and New York.

The first picture was wireless from New York to London in 1921. Three United States Navy boats flew from Newfoundland to Lisbon via the Azores, starting May 8, 1919.

The first airship crossing the Atlantic was the British dirigible R-34, in 1919, from East Fortune, Scotland, to Minnola, New York.

The first steampship to make the trip was the Britannia, built by Samuel Cunard, which sailed in 14 days from Bristol to New York in 1840.

Now comes the Graf Zeppelin, the first passenger dirigible to cross the Atlantic.

Thus the world progresses.

ATHEISM VIA RADIO. THANKS MR WILBUR OLD HEARTS NEED CARE. AMERICANS ARE TALLER.

The American Association for the Advancement of Atheism demands a high powered radio station in New York City and does not get it, although the easiest way to make an atheist ridiculous is to let him talk. It is hard to understand how anybody could talk atheism, knowing that his voice propelled by a power beyond comprehension travels around the world through the mysterious ether.

Atheists, young ones, especially, might meditate on one of Bacon's collected apothegms:

Simonides, being asked of Hiero, "what he thought of God," asked a seven night's time to consider of it, and at the seven night's end he asked a fortnight's time, at the fortnight's end, a month.

At which Hiero marvelling, Simonides answered "that the longer he thought upon the matter the more difficult he found it."

The more glibly you answer King Hiero's question the less you know.

Congratulations to Secretary Wilbur, who has ordered for our navy two dirigibles that will be the biggest in the world.

They will be three times as big as the Los Angeles, one third bigger than the German giant Count Zeppelin and each will carry, under the great gas bag, five airplanes for scouting.

The Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation will build them and friendly nations abroad are informed that we do not intend to be taken by surprise.

A fleet of such dirigibles, each carrying fifty tons of explosives and modern war gas, able to unleash one hundred fast destructive planes, could leave with Uncle Sam's compliments a visiting card in Europe or Asia that would not soon be forgotten.

We make war on no nation, but we should be ready and able to fill with subsequent regret any one attacking us.

William W. Brock, retired business man, fell dead while playing golf. He was sixty-four years old. At sixty-four make no violent effort, unless a good doctor has pronounced your heart "fired proof."

Gold is good for old men that play, as they should, talking laughing walking slowly. It's dangerous for those that strain and strive to better their game.

Remember, old gentlemen, that whether you go around in 120 or 100, the cosmos will roll on, just the same. Treat an old heart as you would a delicate vase, not as you would treat an old rubber boot.

Americans are not going outward, PHYSICALLY, at least. Girls are taller and stronger than ever. And among 100 candidates reporting for Freshman crew practice at Cornell yesterday, 48 were 6 feet tall; a good sign.

A well-balanced body of good size, about 6 feet, is the right sort.

In old days, a Napoleon had to be short. If he had been a little taller he would have been killed by the first of the bullets that went an inch above his head.

Mrs. Broach Hostess to Bridge Club

Mrs. F. S. Broach entertained the Bridge club Wednesday afternoon from three to six. Refreshments were served to Mrs. E. H. Bauman, T. G. Benge, Joe Davis, H. H. Langford, C. L. Mayes, W. R. Moore, U. R. Houser, W. P. Farrington, Henry Craig, F. L. Grider and E. E. Chamberlain.

Mrs. P. D. O'Brien and the twin boys were here several days last week visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ireland Hannah and Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Bowden and other friends.

Mrs. Lee Haymes has gone to El Paso, Texas, to attend the annual meeting of the Grand Chapter Order of the Eastern Star.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. McElroy returned Thursday from Dallas, where they spent some days visiting and attending the Texas State Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Gray, Miss Grace Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Parks of Abilene and Bryan Bailey of Wichita Falls, were here Sunday visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bailey.

Messlames F. N. Warren and W. H. Chapman returned Friday from Dallas, where they visited for several days.

Friends in this city have received announcements of the arrival of a fine boy in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam E. Lee of Waco, where Mr. Lee has been associated with his father in the music business since leaving Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Baker of Hamlin were guests of relatives here Sunday.

Mrs. J. O. Heath of Mcargel, Texas, was here the past several days visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Bowden and other friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. King and son and Mrs. King's brother, Otto Mason, of Stamford, were guests Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Mayes.

Mrs. F. M. Willis of Plainview is here this week visiting in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lee Haymes, and looking after Lee and the children while Mrs. Haymes is attending the annual convention of the Order of the Eastern Star in El Paso.

Rev. J. O. Heath of Mcargel was here Wednesday shaking hands with his many friends in Monday.

Layton Lansford has erected a number of tourist houses on the south edge of the city, on the highway, and is also putting in a filling station, and Monday can now boast of a first-class tourist camp, and we believe this will be a worth while acquisition for Monday, as most all towns now have such conveniences for the traveling motorist.

Birth-provoking circumstances

After the guests had all arrived they were instructed to pass out the front door and follow a line upon which were attached bells to assist them in finding their way through the darkness, and as they followed the line through the yard they occasionally encountered some very “spooky” objects, and this trying experience was climaxed at the rear door, where, as the guests again passed into the house they were taken by the hand by a “spook” whose hands had been dipped into icy water.

Upon reentering the house the guests discarded the masks and all had a real hearty laugh over the various parts.

Score cards were passed and the evening spent in playing the ever-fascinating game of “eighty-four” until a late hour when a delicious salad plate was served to the following guests, with “spooks”, black cats en masse as favors.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Broach, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Billingsley, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Elliott, Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Farrington, Dr. and Mrs. Joe Davis, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Decker, Mr. and Mrs. E. Duval, Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Mauldin, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Barton, Mr. and Mrs. J. Doe McStay, Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Haney, Dr. and Mrs. E. M. Ammons, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Burnison, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Kethley, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bowden, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Fritz, Messlames R. E. The Rev. R. B. Freeman accompanied R. T. Land to Dallas last week and, we are told, took a ride in the big Ford airplane stationed at Dallas, and became rather sick from the aerial voyage. And to make matters worse, somewhere along the route the Rev. Freeman discovered the big “Al Smith” sign on Mr. Land's car, and henceforth did not derive so much pleasure out of the trip, and G. R. Eiland, who was also in the party, is authority for the statement that the Freeman-Land argument continued until they had both reached Monday, but to date we've not heard of either of them changing their political views.

Wives Moore and Hendrix Entertain With Halloween Party

On Friday evening of last week Wives W. R. Moore and C. M. Hendrix entertained with a Halloween party. The scene of this delightful affair was at the W. R. Moore home where Halloween symbols lent a “spooky” air. There were cats, witches, owls, Jack o'lanterns and festoons of orange and black paper ribbons everywhere. The guests came in masquerade and were dressed as Chinese, Spooks, Pirates and in every conceivable make-up, and as they arrived they were received by the hostess they were cautioned to remain very, very quiet until all had made their arrival, and it was indeed difficult to retain one's composure under such

HINTS FOR THE HOME

The decorators tell us that every living room should have its screen. If it is not needed to match the entrance to the dining room or bed room, then it is invaluable as a “high piece” to balance the tall secretary, bookcase or upright piano on an opposite wall.

Most attractive screens can be made at home at very little cost by covering the bare frame with antique wall paper or a delightful modern paper may be used if the modernistic touch is wanted in the room.

Another effective screen that can be made at home is the screen of prints. Wall paper is a tiny gold star, diamond or cross stitch pattern makes a good foundation; then mount old-fashioned flower prints, Gody or quaint French prints in panels at the top.

Smart frocks of tweed continue to charm us with their practicality and are most appropriate when developed in styles that suggest the modified jacket or coat dress.

The eton back of an interesting model furnishes an interesting note that lends itself well to tweed. Here gray tweed with tiny flecks of black is used; the neck, sleeves, bottom of blouse and eton are bound in black silk braid; a back suede belt and shoes are worn with the costume.

While brown and grey lead in tweed colors, there is also an interesting use of green and wine-red mixtures, and a few blues in smoky pastel shades are shown. Sometimes these frocks wear a detachable hip-length cape bordered in matching caracul—a feature that is a great favorite on the campus, and for fall business wear.

Mesh Hosiery Shown for Tweeds. And by the way—Do not make the mistake of wearing chiffon hose with tweeds, but choose instead one of the new mesh weaves that are having a tremendous popularity. You will find them in interesting heather mixtures of silk and fine wool, woven in mesh patterns that vary from lace weaves to those resembling herringbone.

New Tailored Undies. The incongruity of lace-trimmed lingerie with tweeds being obvious—one turns to clever little tailored models combining plain and checked flat crepe in novel ways. Beige crepe with triangular inserts of beige and brown checked crepe; white combined with a hair-line check in black and white; green checked crepe with band trimming of plain green are among these novelties.

Small Time Life Reproduced In New Haines Film

"Excess Baggage" Taken from Successful Play—Was Directed by Cruze

Superstitions of the vaudeville stage come in for one of the most interesting episodes in William Haines' starring picture, "Excess Baggage," which comes Saturday to the Roxy theatre.

For example, Neely Edwards, the "hooper" in the production, never fails to spit on the wings before he starts on the stage to do his act. To fail to do so would result in certain misfortune—or so he believes.

Haines as the slack-rope walker has his own personal superstition that he doesn't dare to do his act unless his wife is waiting at the foot of the rope to watch him doing his "slide for life." Without her he knows he will fall.

Many other old superstitions of the stage are shown in the picture. For example, in most other walks of life a black cat is considered the height of misfortune but when a black cat walks across the stage it is considered the height of good luck.

According to research conducted by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer before making the picture, no theatre dressing room is permitted to have drapes in it. Drapes in dressing rooms are considered very unlucky.

It is also considered unfortunate to whistle in a dressing room. All trunks used by the actors who are supposedly theatrical artists, must be square—a "camel-back" trunk is unlucky.

When a company rehearses, the last word of every act is never spoken until after the premiere performance. It would jinx the show.

An excellent example of actors' beliefs in superstition was afforded in Hollywood while "Excess Baggage" was in course of production.

It seems that a certain Hollywood theatre went into bankruptcy. All the actors knew the reason. There were peacocks painted on the front curtain and it doomed the house to failure until they were removed. Ironically enough the new management did remove them and the house was a success.

Director James Cruze rigidly enforced all these superstitions on his actors, Haines, Josephine Dunn and the rest, during the making of the production.

HALLOWEEN BRINGS SPOOKS, SPIRITS, WITCHES, GHOSTS

Visitor Tells Reporter of Times of "Ghost" He Witnessed

If you discover any spooky doings around Munday within the next week or two, don't be alarmed. Almost anything is likely to happen. Advance information is to the effect that the spirits are gathering for a big celebration, Oct. 31 is the date. It's Halloween. This, as you know is the evening before All Saints Day which falls on November 1, and it is the annual date for almost any kind of cuttin' up.

The occasion has been celebrated for a number of years. In almost every country there is some kind of observance of the date. In America, of course, we get a little bit of all of these various methods of observing the day. The kids take an unusual delight in the observance of the festival and the folks around Munday may look for almost anything to happen on Oct. 31. Cats, bats, ghosts, witches and pumpkins all play an important role just at this time and when a bunch like this gets together, there is no telling just what to expect.

Lots of spooky things have happened in the past and lots of the same thing will happen again this year. While everyone is always on the watch out for the unforeseen, up to the present writing nothing has been recorded which could not be easily explained.

Just in this connection, while folks are thinking of spirits and ghosts of all sorts, a fellow drifted into the news room of this newspaper a few days ago and told a rather hair-raising story of how he ran square into a ghost a few nights ago.

Folks do not often get an opportunity to get a close-up on the inhabitants from the spirit land. This fellow did and he got the scare of his life. As a matter of fact he has not entirely recovered from it yet although he got the key to the situation shortly after. His hair seems to have turned just a little gray from the fright.

The story he told ran something like this: It was late at night. In fact it was sometime past the midnight hour. The party in question was on his way along a certain lonely road, an old groveyard happened to be located near this road, and the traveler had to pass right close to it. So close in fact that he almost had to thread his way between the graves and tomb stones.

Just about the time he was in the midst of the burial ground he noticed something white raise up, apparently located near this road, and he started out at a lively pace. Then glancing back he saw the white object, resembling a white cloud, appear again, and then settle back to the earth. He stopped. He concluded that there are no ghosts and there was some cause for that white object appearing and disappearing so mysteriously. Summoning all the courage he could muster, he decided to investigate. Advancing slowly towards the spot where the thing had appeared, he finally found himself standing right over a sunken grave.

The depression was some several feet below the surface of the other ground about. The sides were rather steep and the tomb stone had fallen into the hole formed by the settling earth.

The gentleman got a good hold on himself and looked cautiously into the grave. He expected to see almost anything, and he was not so sure of himself, yet. Just about the time that he took a good look into the hole something moved in the darkness below him. His skin crawled. His hair began to raise on his head. He felt a chilly sensation pass along his spinal column. A few drops of cold sweat popped out on his forehead, and he could not catch his breath easily. The thing stirred again, and just about when he had decided to discontinue the investigation, an old goose came into view. He waddled along the bottom of the pit and flapping its wings attempting to fly out of the hole. It was able to just about gain the top edge of the pit where it hovered for a second and then toppled back into the hole and out of sight.

"Gee," said the speaker, "that was sure a relief to me. That old bird came into view in the nick of time. I would not have been able to stand the strain another second longer, and if I had run, nobody would have ever made me believe other than that I had seen a real ghost."

Cloves, Too, Should Harmonize. It is also important that the gloves be "right" for the tweed costume. Colors should harmonize with the fabric instead of contrasting, and models should be strictly tailored. Suede, washable kid and cape leathers are all suitable, and the wrist strap style perhaps leads in favor.

FARM RELIEF TO COME ELIMINATING ONE-CROP IDEA

Los Angeles, Oct. 22.—Elimination of the specialty of "one crop" type of farming is one way to bring about the much discussed farm relief. One-crop farming is the root of evil in most of the troubles which have come to the farmers of the Pacific Coast. They have been prone to put "all of the eggs into one basket" and when an over supply or poor crop comes, it generally means ruin, not only for the one-crop farmer but for the one-crop community as well.

As a result many communities are interested in adding the agriculturists in diversifying their farms. Some form of live stock raising and feeding seems to be the most logical solution. The advantage of live stock production lies in the fact that live stock is readily convertible into cash, especially on the West Coast where local production is far short of the demand for all classes of meat food animals. A few head of live stock on the farm not only provides a cash income but a highly desirable diversification.

But the big thing about encouraging live stock production in a citrus or fruit country lies in the benefit to the soil. Incidentally, Florida is now taking stock of her groves, so to speak, and finds that citrus production has fallen off. A study of the soil shows that rebuilding or rejuvenating program is in order. Therefore, state authorities are now carrying on an intensive campaign to build up live stock population in the state, in order that the manure may be applied to the soil, that Florida may increase the quality and volume of citrus production.

In most of the West, the country is young and the soil has not yet been drained of its priceless crop producing qualities. Yet here and there, especially in cotton districts, a falling off in production already is noticeable, because of a failure to return to the soil the substance that is taken away with each crop. It would be well for the western agricultural community to "take stock" and aid in a general live stock program which would at once add to the productivity of the soil and at the same time provide an additional cash income.

Live stock feeding on the smaller farms would take off the market much of the thin stock from ranges which now goes directly into meat channels. This would provide the range cattle grower with a new market for his thin stock and at the same time aid materially in providing the Coast markets with choice meat foods.

Development of a program calling for some live stock on every farm and ranch has been given added impetus through the activities of farm bureau organizations in forming local cooperative shipping organizations. Through this plan, the man with only one or two head of cattle, hogs or sheep is enabled to pool his stock with that of his neighbors, making up full carload shipments. This means that the man with only a few head of stock has the same marketing advantages as the man with the big herd or flock, as he gets the full advantage of showing his stock in carload lots. In such

"Because, black my cats! I was blackin' the same thing, Richard," Simon Judd explained. "But it ain't no I don't take no stock in that. That little old shrimp ain't no body. In the first place he ain't got the gall to do it and in the second place I ain't never heard of an undertaker murderin' anybody. Did you ever?"

"No," Brennan agreed. "I don't remember of a single case where an undertaker did a murder."

"Sort of unprofessional, I guess," Simon Judd said. "Sort of like 'up trade' in an unethical way. It ain't done, as the feller says. Are you goin' to telephone him to come here, or are we goin' to his undertaker's shop?"

"I think he'll be coming here," Brennan said. "Dr. Blessington has probably asked him to take care of the funeral."

"You'd better telephone," Simon Judd advised. "That Dart feller ain't comin' here to take charge of no funeral."

"Why not?"

"Because he don't want to be worried with it," Simon Judd explained. "He don't want a funeral on his mind whilst he's got to think what he's going to do and say about bein' married to John Drane. He's got a lot of thinkin' to do, Richard, that undertaker has. There's a terrible lot of questions in his mind right now. He's got to decide whether he's goin' to admit he knew John Drane was a woman or not; he's got to decide whether he's goin' to whether he's goin' to admit he's John Drane's husband or not; he's got to decide when to say they were married, and why he never told. He's a busy man right now, Richard, you bet your boots! And he don't want to take no time off to have to think of no funeral preparations."

"I'll call him up and tell him to come here," Brennan said, and he went into the hall and did so. "He when he returned to Simon Judd here, I'm going up and see if the officers have found anything new."

The undertaker drove his own car at times and he arrived in it before long, and Simon Judd met him on the veranda. The fat man was standing at the head of the steps as the smaller man mounted and he pushed his hat back on his head and put his hands in his pockets, jingling his coins and keys.

"Brennan wanted to see me," the undertaker said, pulling off the gloves he wore when driving.

"So did I, Abner," Simon Judd said, grinning at the little man. "I been wantin' to have a good old talk with you ever since we shook hands last night. Been a long time since we seen each other, ain't it?"

The little undertaker showed no surprise, he attempted no evasions. He was not even annoyed by Simon Judd's words; his only expression was of weary and weariness combined. He went to a chair and seated himself and motioned Simon Judd to sit near him. He fumbled at his belt, not knowing exactly what to say. Simon Judd spoke first.

"I told Brennan you didn't kill her," he said. "I told him you wasn't the sort to do such a thing, Abner."

The information did not seem to cheer the undertaker much; perhaps he did not rightly hear what Simon Judd had said.

"Sime," he said, "I know you know me last night, Sime."

"Yes," thought Judd, "got track of something 'at home, huh? Why, you poor old feller!"

"When you said you were going to be a detective," the undertaker explained. "Yes, I thought sure you had got on the track of something. You had, hadn't you, Sime?"

"Not a thing!" Simon Judd said. "I come East—just like I said, to study up how detectives do down here. I didn't suspicion a thing, Abner, not until I saw you. And then I only wondered why you had come down here and changed your name. And at that, Abner, I didn't think anything but what I heard back home when you did disappear—and that you was bankrupt and had skipped out."

"I was bankrupt," the undertaker said. "I did skip out, Sime, I never made a decent living at undertakin' the whole time I was in my mind. And Ella wasn't a patient wife; she was a nagger, Sime—an awful nagger."

"Always sayin' she wished she was a man, I bet you?" Simon Judd said.

"That kind of woman does wear a man down, Abner, black my cats! If she don't! Well, she had her wish."

"She was a terrible woman, Sime?"

"The little undertaker said, shaking his head. "I don't know that there ever was another such woman except where you read about them in books. Sime, I wish you were on my side in this business, I wish I had you or somebody to be a friend to me right now. I don't know anybody in this town—not anybody. I'm alone. I'm the most friendless man in the world. She wouldn't let me know anybody—she was jealous—jealous and afraid. I'm all alone, Sime, and I'm scared. I can't think right; my head don't seem to work right today."

days without food, prospecting the hills with a man named Jarling, his partner. Then they found copper, and it was when they were both pretty well played out; it was a question whether they would either of them last until they could reach civilization. So they drew up a couple of papers—if either of them died all the other had to go to the one left alive. John told Ella that as he lay there dying, and then he died."

"That night," said Simon Judd.

"Yes, he died that night," Abner Dart said. "So Ella went back to her bed and sent for me, and she told me what to do. You remember old Doc Worley, Sime? Always drunk. He was drunk when we sent for him, and we got him drunks, and he signed a death certificate and ended up that spree with the tremens. The rest was easy enough. You were at the funeral, Sime. You never guessed it was John we were burying when we said it was Ella."

"No, it fooled me easy enough," Simon Judd said. "Typhoid was what Ella had had and they had cut off her hair and none of us had seen her since she was took sick. I thought how had she looked, but that was all."

"So we had 'John' get well," Abner Dart said. "We had 'him' sick for a couple of weeks and then we had 'him' get well enough to walk around with a cane, and presently he was well enough to leave town."

"I went to the station with him myself—hailed him in one of my rigs," Simon Judd said. "We talked about when we were kids. I was fooled, black my cats!"

"She went to Chicago, Ella did," Abner continued, "and after awhile, when she had gathered up the loose ends of John's affairs, she came down to New York and got settled here and I failed in business the way we had arranged and came to Westcott and she gave me money to start in again. For a month or two we pretended to be strangers to each other, then we 'got acquainted' and I was the only close friend she had, and she was the only close friend I had. She began speculating in Wall Street and did well—she was a wonderful woman that way. But all the while she was worried. That old partner of John's, Jarling, kept her worried all the time. She could never find him—a word of him now and then and then he was lost. It might be five years or ten years between times and then she would hear he was alive and then no more news of him for another long stretch."

"And if Jarling knew the real John was dead he could claim a million or so, hey?" Simon Judd asked.

"That's what worried her," Abner Dart said. "She got so she thought more of money than of her life. And then—"

He stopped and hid his face in his hand.

"She poisoned the first one," Simon Judd supplied.

"Twenty Years in Munday"

Millions of Families Depend on Dr. Caldwell's Prescription

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, 1892, under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also know why it is so widely for popularity.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, through Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can "do" to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you a large bottle FREE.
