

Moguls Come From Behind To Tounce Albany

Locals End Play At Home By Score Of 19 To 7

After fumbling repeatedly and failing to make passes click, the Munday Moguls came from behind in the third period last Friday night to defeat the Albany Lions, 19-7, in the last home game of the season. A bunch of fans somewhat disappointed at the Moguls' showing during the first three periods, saw a last stanza packed with thrills as the locals began hitting pay dirt.

Albany marched 55 yards in the opening period to place the ball in scoring position. Todd went over from one-yard line in the opening of the second quarter. Several fumbles were costly to the Moguls, as the remainder of this quarter and the third stanza were scoreless.

The Moguls first counter came early in the fourth period, after a 90-yard run by Bill Bouldin placed the ball in position just before the quarter ended. Bouldin plunged the line for the score.

Joe Spann, Mogul end, later intercepted an Albany pass near mid-field and returned it within a yard of pay dirt. Bouldin again crossed over on a line plunge.

The final score came on a pass from John Spann to Loyd Haynie, who was standing in the end zone to take the 15-yard aerial. All touchdowns were made on the east end of the field.

Outstanding in the play for Munday were John and Joe Spann, Billy Bouldin and Cadwell, although every member of the line did some good playing to keep the Lions in tow.

Stars for Albany were Todd, Guard Smalley and Quarterback Jung. Although rated as weaker than the Moguls, the Lions gave the locals plenty of trouble during the first three periods.

Christmas Mail Pointers Given By Postmaster

Postmaster Lee Haymes this week gave several pointers to citizens of this area on the preparation of Christmas mail to facilitate handling.

One of the most important items to remember, he said, is to address all matter plainly and completely in ink, giving street address or box or rural route number whenever possible. When applicable, the delivery zone number should be shown. The sender's return address should be placed in the upper left-hand corner of the address side of the package, and Christmas seals or stickers should not be placed on that side of the package.

Articles should be carefully packed in strong, durable containers, and the parcels wrapped securely, but not sealed. Parcels may not exceed 100 inches in length and girth combined.

To encourage early mailing of Christmas packages, parcels may be marked "Do not open till Christmas," and written greetings such as "Merry Christmas" or "Happy New Year" enclosed in third or four class parcel post mail, but enclosing letters in the parcel will subject the entire parcel to letter postage.

Parcels containing perishable articles should be endorsed prominently with the word "perishable," and articles likely to spoil within the time reasonably required for transportation should not be sent through the mail.

THE INDIANS DID AS WELL

Ten years ago, Oregon had a disastrous forest fire which caused loss of life and millions of dollars damage, including the destruction of tens of thousands of acres of the finest Douglas fir timber in the world. Nature started to erase the scars immediately and in the past decade new forests of Christmas trees have begun to cover the blackened hills and mountains. This fire was similar to others in earlier years.

Then in 1945, fire started again in the old Tillamook burn and raged largely out of control for a month, destroying new growth and old green timber, until rain stopped it.

According to reports, the state and counties are as unprepared to fight forest fires successfully as in the days when the Indians inhabited the land.

A forest fire is a terrifying spectacle. This only emphasizes the fact that definite steps should be taken to study ways and means to limit its destruction to as small an area as possible. Surely some provision can be made for studying and adopting methods which will save one of the nation's greatest national resources—its forests—which protect watersheds, soil and wild life, and furnish the basic building material for the nation.

Fire prevention has long since become an exact science in cities, and there is no excuse for states or counties or the Federal government delaying in adopting methods to assure protection for the forest lands.

The Tillamook burn in Oregon in 1945 should be one of the last glaring examples of the ravages of forest fires due to the indifference or neglect of communities that are blessed with such natural resources.

GOVERNMENT MEDICINE NO ANSWER

The United States had the largest group of thoroughly trained medical specialists in its history at the beginning of World War II. In war service their professional competence, plus the aid of new drugs and modern methods, were largely responsible for the fact that 96.1 per cent of the 1,375,000 wounded in the European theatre were saved.

The nation wishes its citizens and soldiers to have the best possible medical service. In connection with doing this, there the powerful advocates of a compulsory national medical program which would tax wage earners and employees at high rates for funds to support it, regardless of whether or not they desired state medical service.

Those who regard freedom of opportunity as one of the precious assets of America today, deny that government control of medicine is the conclusive answer. Voluntary health insurance plans to provide prepayment for medical service, are already underway and are not a drag on the country's medical proficiency or brilliant progress and research.

"By expanding and improving our public health service, by supporting various group and community systems, and by encouraging private insurance companies to add to the usefulness of their services, the country should find that Federal control of medicine is not necessary to insure a healthy nation," says the Index, quarterly publication of the New York Trust Company. "Historically the experience of foreign countries provides no evidence to the contrary."

SYMBOL OF RESISTANCE

Cecille B. DeMille, the motion picture producer who was forced to resign from his post on a nationwide radio program because he refused to pay a dollar assessment into a political fund of a radio artists' union, has become a symbol of resistance to the ruthless tactics of a current labor union leadership. He warns that "a new thing has arisen in the land—or rather a very old and very evil thing—tyranny."

"When one man or group has the power to decide who shall work and who shall not, that is a national cancer—a cancer that must be cut out before it renders our country too weak to resist the poisons of totalitarianism."

Gasoline consumption, which averaged 76,809,600 gallons a day in 1941, is expected to increase notably as new cars in appreciable numbers become available.

New York City's famous "rubbernecks" busses were on the streets with crowds of sightseeing tourists on the Labor Day weekend for the first time since June of 1942.

WILL FIRE JEOPARDIZE RECONVERSION

The time is here for the final change-over to peacetime production. It will be a difficult period for most industries. Forward-looking companies are making plans now to avoid possible complications. One possibility to be considered is a plague of industrial fires.

The present trend of fire waste in the nation is steadily upward. For the twelve months ending June 30, 1945, the total of $442,877,000 represents a 10 per cent increase over the corresponding twelve-month period a year earlier, and a gain of 33 per cent above the losses two years earlier. There have been an increasing number of fires in plants essential to both war and peace.

During World War I, fire losses likewise rose steadily, and after the war at an accelerated pace they continued their upward trend. By 1925 the national fire waste of $681,381,000 represented a 75 per cent increase over 1919's losses and a 175 per cent increase over the pre-war year 1913.

Manufacturers are under pressure to get back into peacetime production. The very speed of their reconversion effort, plus shortages of some materials, may cause them to overlook essential safety precautions. Moreover, some enterprises may attempt to utilize buildings unsuited for a new or different type of manufacturing process.

Manufacturing concerns should take all possible steps to avoid fires in order to prevent interference with peacetime production and a high level of employment. Through surveys of possible fire hazards are the first step toward eliminating dangers and safeguarding reconversion projects.

TRYING THE UNTRIED

An authority in the food industry prophesies some startling changes in the grocery business. Air transportation for fresh fruits and vegetables is predicted as a probable postwar development, not for replacing normal freight shipments, but for carrying sun-ripened fancy produce to all parts of the nation in a few hours. Even now, according to this authority, growers are planning to prepare vegetables in such a way that the housewife will be spared tedious details such as shelling peas, and cleaning and stripping the leaves from cauliflower. These products will be pre-packaged right at the farm and shipped to the retailer ready for the housewife to drop them into the cooking utensil. The same plans are being tried for meats. When meat is once again plentiful, we may expect to see some of it boned, trimmed and pre-packaged in units suitable for the average family. Some of this meat will be frozen, too, as will poultry and fish. Frozen meals will probably be available to the average homemaker through her retailer shortly.

These improvements in food handling are to a considerable extent made possible by the readiness of the distribution industry to try innovations. Here again is an illustration of the manner in which consumers benefit when competition within an industry is strong.

One of the most constructive innovations in distribution was the chain store, and the resultant introduction of the principle of volume sales at low prices. It is hard now to realize that the chain store was an innovation not so many years ago. While it is recognized as an established form of retailing today, the chain and its low cost "philosophy" was at first opposed because it was too efficient!

The only thing that should be resisted in any industry is resistance itself—resistance to change that aids the consumer.

"By the way, who is that long and lank girl standing over there?"

"Hush. She used to be long and lank, but she's just inherited $100,000. She's tall and stately now."—Atlanta (Ga.) Railroad Journal.

COOK SWEET POTATOES IN SKIN FOR MORE VITAMIN C

COLLEGE STATION.—Housewives who plan to include sweet potatoes in their Thanksgiving menu not only will save time but also save vitamins if they put the sweet potatoes in the oven or kettle without peeling, says Edith Lawrence, specialist in food preparation of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service. Tests conducted by several experiment stations in southern states show that sweet potatoes, boiled or baked in their skins, hold their naturally rich content of carotene (for vitamin A) and vitamin C very well.

In fact, some tests show they retain from 69 to 83 per cent of their vitamin C. Potatoes cooked in a pressure saucepan held the most vitamin C while those peeled and then boiled lost the most.

Here's a tip on how to help save even more vitamin C: Add a little sugar to the boiling water. This also gives the potatoes a sweeter flavor.

If one would understand why a Texan is like he is it must be remembered that Texas has a history all of its own. For Texas has been under six flags: the banners of Spain, France, Mexico, the Republic of Texas, the Confederacy and the United States. Texas was freed from Mexico more than a hundred years ago by bold, adventurous men from other states—some of whom had "left their country for their country's good." The expression "Gone to Texas" (sometimes expressed "G.T.T.") once was in vogue in other states as the explanation for some man's sudden departure.

It is related that a newcomer to Texas become involved in a difficulty and was advised by a lawyer to leave. He said, in amazement, "But I'm already in Texas, ain't I?" At the outbreak of the Texas War for Independence, a Tennessean was galloping along and a friend asked, "Where you going?" He replied, "To Texas—to fight for my rights."

The most sacred spot in Texas is the Alamo where one hundred and eighty-two men, including Travis, Crockett, Bowie and Bonham refused to escape or surrender but fought to the last man against the hordes of the dictator, Santa Anna. "Thermopylae had her messenger of defeat; the Alamo had none." At Goliad, a Texas force under Fannin, facing artillery and overwhelming numbers, surrendered and then was massacred. At San Jacinto, the furious Texans, under Sam Houston, shouted, "Remember the Alamo! Remember Goliad!" and in 20 minutes, Santa Anna's army was public, maintaining a navy, sending shattered; the tyrant himself was and receiving ambassadors, then captured next day, and the freedom voluntarily entered the Union by a treaty under which the right was reserved for Texas to divide into

Texas And Her Annexation

By Dr. E. C. Barker, Professor of American History, The University of Texas

J. Pinckney Henderson And James Hamilton In Europe

While annexation was lagging in the United States, progress was made in Europe. President Houston sent J. Pinckney Henderson to London and Paris in 1837 to gain recognition and treaties of commerce. Henderson had already begun a distinguished career in Texas, though he was then only thirty years of age. He was born in North Carolina and came to Texas after a short residence in Mississippi. He arrived in Texas in June, 1836, and was commissioned a Major General to enlist volunteers in the United States in preparation for the renewed invasion by Mexico, which was then expected. Houston made him Attorney General of Texas, and after the death of Austin, Secretary of State. Later he represented Texas as a special commissioner, with Isaac Van Zandt, in negotiating the treaty of annexation with the United States, was the first governor of the state of Texas, major general in the Mexican War, the United States senator, succeeding Thomas J. Rusk. He negotiated an unsatisfactory trading arrangement with England in 1838, without recognition, of Texan independence and, in 1839, signed a treaty of commerce and recognition with France.

President Lamar appointer James Hamilton of South Carolina to cooperate with Henderson, and more particularly to negotiate a five million dollar loan. After the conclusion of the French treaty, Henderson returned to Texas and Hamilton assumed the general diplomatic mission. Hamilton had served South Carolina as legislator, congressman, and governor. He had been a successful banker, planter, and railroad director; had made a large fortune and lost much of it, but retained enough to make generous loans to Texas. He did not succeed in securing the five million dollar loan for Texas, fortunately perhaps; but he concluded treaties of commerce and recognition with England, Holland, and Belgium. He became a citizen of Texas in 1855. Two years later, sailing from New Orleans to Galveston, his ship was wrecked in a collision in the Gulf and he was lost after giving his life belt to a woman and child.

Futile Overtures To Mexico
Presidents Houston's policy during his first administration was to ignore Mexico, knowing that the government was unable to send another army to Texas. Lamar, characteristically, was more active even aggressive. During 1839-1841, he made three efforts to negotiate with Mexico. Barnard E. Bee, early in 1839, and James Webb, Texas Secretary of State, in 1841, were not allowed by the government to land. James Treat, of New York, was received and spent nine or ten months in Mexico with some encouragement, but, in the end, accomplished nothing.

Treat deserves well of Texas, but our knowledge of him is very limited. The nearest approach to a sketch of his relations with Texas can be drawn from Dr. Joseph Schmitz's Texan Statecraft (Naylor, 1941). He first appears in connection with a New York company interested in Texas land. He had spent much of his life in South America and in Mexico, where he had lived seven years. He was educated, cultured, and experienced and seems to have worked for Texas intelligently and usefully. He was actually received by the Mexican government, through the assistance of Richard Pakenham, the British minister in Mexico City. He was prepared to assume part of Mexico's foreign debt in return for Mexico's recognition of independence. It seems evident now that the Mexicans were merely trying to divert Texas from alliance with rebels in northern Mexico. In the end, Treat became certain that the only terms to be obtained would be the return of Texas to Mexico as a state of the federal union. He was suffering from tuberculosis, and during his last few months in Mexico was critically ill. He sailed for Galveston on the Texan warship San Antonio in November, 1839, and died on board.

HOG KILLING TIME

COLLEGE STATION, November.—Comes now hog killing time. Not as much as formerly, because with the widespread use of the quick freezer locker, hog killing is now a year 'round deal on many Texas farms. But most Texas farm people wait for winter to butcher hogs for home use.

Even at that, according to Roy W. Snyder, meat specialist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, if the weather gets much above 50 degrees for any length of time while the meat is in cure, it should be taken to a cold storage plant and let it cure under refrigeration.

With sugar scarce, many people will not have enough to cure meat. Salt, Snyder explains, is what actually cures the meat. Sugar improves the flavor and salt-peter makes for a rich red color.

The standard recipe is eight pounds of salt, two pounds of sugar, and two ounces of salt-peter. Mix divide into three equal parts, and rub one part of the mix into the meat every three days. Pack meat into a meat box or barrel after each rubbing. After the third and last treatment, pack the meat into the container skin side down. Leave ham and shoulders in the mix for from two to three days per pound. A day and a half per pound is enough for bacon.

The longer the meat is kept in cure the saltier it becomes. If there is not enough salt that penetrates the pieces to properly cure the meat, it will spoil unless kept in cold storage. With pork as scarce as it is, farm families will do well to have their meat a little saltier than usual, rather than take a chance on spoilage.

Cane syrup or honey may be substituted for sugar, pound for pound. Sugar is still better than syrup or honey if it is available, and granulated sugar will do just as well as brown.

Campaign On For Memorial To Texas' 36th

LULING, Nov.—With early responses already coming in the campaign to raise $50,000 for erection of a memorial to Texas' fighting 36th Division of World War II this week was progressing satisfactorily. Col. H. Miller Ainsworth of Luling announced.

The Campaign, directed by a committee headed by Col. Ainsworth and including Col. Marvin Steen of San Antonio, Lt. Col. A. B. Crowther of San Antonio and Lt. Col. Carl Phinney of Dallas, was launched two weeks ago at the behest of Maj. Gen. Fred L. Walker.

Gen. Walker led the 36th into North Africa and then into Italy when the bloody battle of Salerno beach it became the first American outfit to crack Hitler's Fortresses Europe and stick.

The courageous 36th, made up principally of Texans, wrote one of the outstanding records of World War II, fighting all the way from Salerno to north of Rome, then through Southern France, into Germany and on into Austria, where many of the Nazi bigwigs were among its captives. These included Hermann Goering von Keeselring and others.

The campaign is to finance a memorial to the courageous men of the Division at Red Beach at Salerno, where the Texans went in to meet Germans lying in wait for them and fought one of the most vital and bloodiest battles of the war. The memorial will overlook the cemetery nearby, where those who gave their lives in the battle now lie.

"Texans," Col. Ainsworth said, "are showing by their response to this campaign that they will never forget these men and their buddies and by marking the Salerno beach that the world always shall know where Texas men became the first to really break into the defenses behind which Hitler hoped to conquer the world."

The members of the committee all are veterans of the Salerno battle.

"We are not asking for any specific amount from any specific person," Col. Ainsworth said, "but we know that proud and appreciative Texans will be liberal. Every penny counts and we are happy to receive all contributions however large or small."

Contributions may be sent to the committee in care of Col. Ainsworth at the First National Bank in Luling, Texas.

Fixing Up the Farm by BURTON WILLIAMS

Enjoy Luxury of Hot Bath
A HOT bath at the end of a hard day is a luxury which few farmers enjoy. Yet it can be done easily with the installation of running water and a water heater.

One popular idea is putting a shower stall down in the basement, near the door leading outside. Clothes lockers can then be put near the shower stall and when the men come in from work they can take off their dusty clothes, shower and then put on clean slacks suits or clean pants and shirt which will not leave the marks of the barn on upholstered furniture. Lockers and shower stall can be made of asbestos cement board. Neither water nor steam will cause this material to rust or rot.

When fixing up the farm kitchen and installing a bath, don't forget to make provision for lots of hot water. Automatic water heating is best, as it costs little and you'll never have to think about it. Gas is the most dependable and economical fuel for this purpose.

Liquefied petroleum gas, sometimes known as "tank" or "bottled" gas, is available everywhere. A gas service man in a nearby town can furnish all the information you may want.

The only attendant of the couple was Mrs. Marie Chatwell, sister of the bridegroom.

During the dinner hour, Carolyn Hannah played the piano, and Mrs. Jerry Kane read, "When Father Carved the Duck"; also an original poem written by one of the students.

After dinner was served, several games of bingo were played. Colorful and attractive prizes of fresh fruits and vegetables in cellophane bags were given as prizes to those winning the games.

Toward the end of the party, the group was led in singing old and new songs by Miss Gail Reynolds, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. James H. Bardwell.

of the Names Shows there.

Out-of-town persons attending the funeral were his sister, Violet Freese of Denver, Colo.; a cousin, Leonard Ryan of Tucson, Ariz.; Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Worthington, Mangum, Okla., and Mr. and Mrs. William Whisehunt and three sons of Meadow, Texas.

Funeral services were held at the Baptist Church of Lueders on Sunday, November 11. He was buried in Stamford cemetery.

There were many beautiful floral offerings. Art made friends wherever he went; his ready smile, his nimble wit and kindly humor made life a lot easier for all with whom he came in contact, and when the doctors told him on his death bed of his serious condition, he kidded and joked with them. He left this life as he had lived it, and as he himself expressed it, "Neither afraid to live nor yet afraid to die."—Contributed.

Maj. Cunningham, Medical Officer Gets Release

FORT BRAGG, N. C.—Major James A. Cunningham, Goree, Texas, has been released from active duty as Supply Officer of the Medical Section of General Courtney H. Hodges' First United States Army Headquarters and is being separated from the service under the army's release system.

As Medical Supply Officer of the First Army, in which capacity he has served since July, 1945, Major Cunningham was responsible for all medical supplies for First Army units.

Inducted into the army as a private at Ft. Sam Houston, Texas, in March, 1941, Major Cunningham received his basic training at the same post. He remained at Ft. Houston in the Quartermaster Training Center until September, 1941, when he was transferred to the Medical Department at Randolph Field, Texas.

He was sent to Harlingen Army Air Field in December, and became a supply sergeant with the grade of staff sergeant. In March, 1942, Major Cunningham entered the Medical Administration Corps Officer Candidate School at Carlisle Barracks, Pennsylvania. Following his graduation he was assigned as an instructor in medical supply at the Officer's school at Camp Barkeley, Texas.

In November, 1943, he was transferred to the Office of the Surgeon General in Washington, D. C., where he remained until joining the First Army, with the exception of three months at the Command and General Staff School at Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas.

Major Cunningham was a member of the advance party which went by plane to the Philippines with General Hodges in August, 1945, to prepare for the planned re-deployment of the First Army to the Asiatic-Pacific Theater. The group returned in October following the Japanese capitulation.

Major Cunningham, a graduate of the Nacogdoches, Texas High School wears the American Defense Ribbon, the World War II Victory Medal, the Asiatic-Pacific Theater Ribbon, and the American Theater Ribbon.

Prior to his entry into the service, Major Cunningham, who is the son of Mrs. J. A. Cunningham, 2141 Grape Street, Abilene, Texas, was manager of the Lynn Theater in Lufkin, Texas. His wife, Mrs. Billy Ratliff Cunningham, and son, James A. Cunningham III, reside in Munday, Texas.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

Austin.—The first Thanksgiving Day in this country was proclaimed for the purpose of expressing thanks not only for the bountiful harvest which the colonists had reaped but for the sturdy health and endurance that had permitted them to survive the hardships and exposure, that first rigorous year in America. On the occasion of this Thanksgiving Day the State Health Officer, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, is appealing to every citizen of Texas to give serious thought to the preservation of his own health and that of his community.

"We have much to be thankful for in that our national health level has remained high despite the nervous tension, the sacrifices, the deprivations of war," Dr. Cox stated. "Our people have maintained a remarkably high level and even under existing war conditions, Texas has shown a continued decline in maternal and infant deaths.

"The people of Texas have reason to be thankful for the steadily increasing interest and cooperation being shown in matters pertaining to general sanitation and the control of communicable diseases," Dr. Cox asserted. "Responsibility for

Home Agent Gives Means of Removing Marks On Floors

What is so disheartening to a homemaker as a black mark on a floor? Especially a black mark caused by composition soles and heels of shoes.

But Luelle King, home demonstration agent, tells us that floors can be protected against these marks. "From tests run by the home equipment specialists of the Rhode Island Agricultural Experiment Station, a procedure of seven steps has evolved," she says.

First—take up all the loose dirt on your floor by sweeping and dust mopping.

Second—wipe the floor with a clean cloth wrung from lukewarm water and borax solution. Rub stubborn spots until they're out.

Third—wipe the floor with a clean cloth wrung out in lukewarm water.

Fourth—wipe with dry cloth to take up all possible moisture.

Fifth—let the floor dry completely without walking on it.

Sixth—refinish with the original finish if the floor needs it, even if it means repainting, varnishing or shellacking. Be sure the floor is completely dry before taking this step.

The last puts a protective coating over the floor. . . Keeps scuff marks off and makes it easier to remove those that do appear. Apply three to five coats of good water emulsion wax, being sure to allow each coat to dry for at least thirty minutes. With such protection on your floors, black marks come up by rubbing with a clean cloth dampened in the water emulsion wax.

RECEIVES DISCHARGE

Mr. and Mrs. John B. King were made glad last week when their son, Bloice King, visited them for the first time in two and one-half years. He had been serving in the Navy for almost four years, and has received his honorable discharge.

Dr. Cox pointed out that one direct result of public health efforts in this nation has been the lengthening of the normal life span by more than 15 years.

"Certainly this is something to be thankful for and it should lend incentive for further efforts to promote and maintain community as well as statewide public health programs."

EAT CABBAGE WHEN FIRST COOKED

COLLEGE STATION.—If cooked cabbage is on the menu, the family should answer the dinner call promptly, says Edith Lawrence, specialist in food preparation for the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service. Otherwise, the cabbage, kept over hot water to keep it warm for serving, loses a very large per cent of the vitamin C. Shredded cabbage cooks in five minutes so it may be cooked while the family washes and gathers for dinner. Freshly cooked cabbage at best contains only about half the vitamin C of raw cabbage.

Strange as it may seem, cooked cabbage held in the refrigerator two or three days and then reheated does not lose as much vitamin C as that kept standing on the stove an hour or so. When warmed up after refrigeration it contains 24 to 32 per cent of the vitamin C it had when fresh and raw, Miss Lawrence states.

CENTRAL HEAT for the COTTAGE

When heating is planned as part of house and installed when it is built or remodeled the most luxurious, healthful automatic natural gas heat can be had for so little more.

For instance, the closet-type furnace. Installed in equipment room or closet this compact unit provides a winter air conditioning system which warms, humidifies, filters the air and circulates it through the house. The warm air it circulates is mixed with an ample amount of fresh air from the outside to eliminate staleness and odors. A simple thermostat, adjustable at a touch, provides exactly the temperature desired.

Since such a heating system is installed as part of house it is financed as part of total house cost. So its modest initial cost spread out over a period of years will hardly be noticed in monthly house payments. When considered from standpoint of health and redecorating savings such a system probably will prove cheaper in long run.

Important

The time to decide on house heating is during planning stage of home. Make sure the plans and specifications include FLUES for VENTING the new gas heating equipment. Only when equipment is vented are wall sweating and stuffy air eliminated.

Washington News Letter

By Congressman Ed Gossett

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—General Omar Bradley, now chief of the Veterans Administration, was the guest of honor at the Texas delegation luncheon this week. He talked to us briefly on the many problems confronting the Veterans Administration. Among interesting figures given were these: we now have 700,000 veterans on the pension rolls. About a million veterans are being discharged each month, of whom 25 per cent or 250,000 make applications for pensions.

Of veterans hospitalized, about 60 per cent are mental cases. Nervous or mental disorders are in no way reflections upon the patient. The Veterans Administration maintains 97 hospitals at this time. They have 2300 doctors and badly need an additional 1300.

Congress has about completed action on several amendments to the G. I. Bill of Rights, including a removal of age limitations upon the educational provisions, and important changes in the loan provisions.

The main work of Congress this week continued to be in Committees. The Labor Committee heard testimony on increased minimum wages. The Committee on the Election of President, Vice President, and Representatives in Congress heard testimony on changes in the tenure of the President, including proposals to limit the President's service to two terms of four years each or one term of six years.

The Military Affairs Committee heard General Dwight Eisenhower add his testimony to that of General Carl Spaatz, General Jacob L. Devereaux, General Bradley, and others for a unification of the armed services. Eisenhower has been the star witness to date for a Department of National Defense in which Army and Navy would be combined.

Other hearings continued on UNRRA, Veterans Administration, party prices, OPA, etc.

Prime Minister Clement Attlee of Great Britain addressed a joint session of the House and Senate on Tuesday. He paid tribute to Churchill, Roosevelt, and Stalin as great war leaders. He referred to the ceremony at Arlington cemetery in which he joined President Truman and Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada in laying a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

He referred also to the dark days following Dunkirk, in 1940, and thanked America for our shipments of arms and munitions. At that time, unknown to the American public, we sent England two million rifles and practically all the ammunition we had in this country. After Dunkirk the British were practically without guns or ammunition to defend the islands.

The Prime Minister took much time in an eloquent plea for world collaboration in the building of peace. The concluding paragraph of his speech was as follows: "We acknowledge the validity of the moral precepts upon which our whole civilization is founded. Man's material discoveries have outpaced his moral progress. The greatest task that faces us today is to bring home to all people before it is too late that our civilization can only survive by the acceptance and practice in international relations and in our national life of the Christian principle we are all members one of another."

On the subject of morals, many shameful things are coming to light. Apparently a majority of the leaders of the Axis nations were liars, thieves, dope addicts, or moral perverts. That a sawdust Caesar and a mad paperhanger, both of whom pitched in illicit love affairs and debauchery generally could lead barbarian nations in five years of terrible war upon civilization causes us to wonder if the world, in fact, is civilized.

While we have nothing to brag about on the subject of morals it is hoped the Prime Minister's own people will take his message on this score to heart. Many friends returning from England have told me of the widespread immorality of the British Isles. In this country we have grown to feel that divorce is too easy. A Colonel just back from England tells me the British go to the other extreme. In his opinion such difficulty has resulted in great immorality. He knew numerous British families in which husband and wife had not spoken to one another in many years. To save face, they avoided divorce, which is granted on the sole ground of adultery.

The British attitude toward divorce occasioned their attitude toward the marriage of the Duke of Windsor, then King Edward, to the divorcee, Mrs. Wallis Simpson. But as the old saying goes, people who live in glass houses should not throw stones.

Fingernails Have A Hand In Modern Kitchen Planning

Fingernails have a hand in the new kitchen planning. A long-time problem of kitchen designers was how to eliminate the chipping of cabinet and drawer surfaces when the housewife grazed the handles. Some cabinetmakers have solved the problem by replacing the handles with grooves underneath the cabinets and drawers so tell-tale marks from sharp fingernails won't show. This and other departures are being incorporated into plans for the modern gas kitchen which will be tailored to suit individual needs, according to Lone Star Gas Company officials. New kitchens are to be designed for comfort and convenience and many are built large enough for use as gathering places

University Offers Opportunities For Ex-Service Men

Austin.—Educational opportunities for the young man recently out of military service into civilian life again are numerous at the University of Texas.

Into the office of the Registrar daily come letters from veterans, and personal visits from many, all anxious to know what degree plans they may follow at the University; whether they can enter under the G. I. Bill of Rights; what opportunities are open for vocational rehabilitants, and whether refresher courses are offered.

The Veterans Advisory Service at the University with two experienced men at its helm—Walter T. Rolfe, coordinator, and Hubert Jones, associate coordinator—has prepared a compact leaflet giving answers to almost every question the veterans will want to know about his educational opportunities at the University. These leaflets, and additional questionnaires which indicate the veteran's particular interest, may be obtained directly from the coordinators.

The winter semester is now in progress, and the spring semester will begin March 1.

Ex-servicemen on the campus have banded together into an Association and are already taking an active part in campus life. More than 1,000 members belong to the Association.

In addition to the Veterans Advisory Service, there are two representatives of the Veterans Administration on the campus. They are Dr. Roger A. Burgess, Chief of the Advancement Center, and Dr. Wayland P. Moody, Training Officer. Their offices are located in Sutton Hall and in Garrison Hall.

Electricity To Be Available To Farms Of Texas

COLLEGE STATION.—More than eight million dollars has been allocated by the Rural Electrification Administration for loans to expand rural electrification in Texas during the last half of the fiscal year ending next June 30. The exact amount is $8,101,059, and exceeds by more than one million dollars the sum earmarked for any other state.

According to a statement by REA Administrator Claude R. Wickard received by the A. and M. College Extension Service, an estimated 65.3 per cent, or 273,102 Texas farms were without central station electric service on July 1 last.

The national picture shows an estimated 44.7 per cent of all farms now are electrified as compared with less than 11 per cent when the REA program was commenced in 1935. Regardless of this encouraging advance, the Administrator estimates that 3,371 of the nation's farms still are without central electric service. Viewing the immensity of what he calls "one of our major post-war tasks," Mr. Wickard said that making electric power available to unserved farms is only a part of the nation's rural electrification job. Large numbers of non-farm rural homes, schools, churches and other country establishments also are without electricity. Counting these with homes on farms he estimated a total of 6,000,000 are ready to receive light and power.

Mr. Wickard believes that the quickening of the rural electrification program will contribute to the goal of jobs for a long period. This employment will be in producing line construction materials, building power lines, and wiring rural homes. One immediate pressing need is a supply of poles. The present shortage is at least one million poles a year, and he suggested that the farm wood lots of the south were among the most likely sources to supply the shortage.

The money allocated to Texas for loans is this state's pro rata of a $100,000,000 fund, which is one half of the total REA loan funds available for the current fiscal year.
