

W. C. Hill, Pioneer Citizen, Passes Away

Another pioneer of the Munday country passed on to his reward on Tuesday morning at 2:45 o'clock when W. C. Hill succumbed to an illness of about a week's duration. He was stricken some days ago with an attack of influenza and his condition gradually grew worse until the end came on Tuesday morning.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist church on Wednesday afternoon by the Rev. R. G. M. Eiland, who had been a close friend to deceased for many years and who esteemed him as a Christian gentleman and a true and loyal friend. The beautiful floral offerings which completely covered the casket revealed the high esteem in which he was held by those who had known him.

Deceased was born in Tennessee, near Paris, on August 29, 1855, where he grew to manhood and came to Texas in 1886, first stopping for a year in Jack county, later moving to Parker county, where he resided until 1901, at which time he came to Munday, and has been a resident of this city since that time, and during the many years of his residence here he has always stood for the things that were for the upbuilding of the town and community, and has lived an exemplary Christian life.

With him when the end came were his loving companion who had ministered to him faithfully during the days of his illness, and his four sons, W. R. Hill of Burk Burnett, Stanley Hill of Houston and Harvey and Sherman Hill of this city.

No words that we could write could pay to him a greater tribute than those heard on all sides Tuesday morning when the news was spread over the town that he had passed: "He was a good man," was the almost universal comment from those who had known him intimately, and the writer, who has known him for eight years, can truly join the many others in their appraisal of him.

When quite a young man Mr. Hill was converted and joined the Methodist church, and he was always a faithful member—always in his place—always responsive to the call of his church and his God, and in his going Munday has sustained an irreparable loss.

To the good wife who survives and the four sons we join the entire community in extending consolation.

Officers Elliott and Jackson Make Rounds Warning Against Fire

Officers C. R. Elliott and Geo. Jackson have this week made a round of the business houses in Munday inspecting the various places of business and warning against fire hazards during the holiday season. Especially have they warned the business houses against decorating their store with inflammable materials and against using paper, cotton or other inflammable substances on light wires.

Mr. Elliott also requests that we warn the citizens in general against the use of cotton and other inflammable substances in decorating their Christmas trees. There are many tragedies each year from this source, and too much care cannot be exercised in protecting the lives of the youngsters and the property loss that might occur.

Munday has maintained a most excellent fire record during the year that is about to close and a continuation of this excellent record will mean a reduction in fire insurance rates in Munday.

Mrs. Steve Smith was called to Wrensboro, Texas, last week by a message advising her of the critical illness of her mother, who had been stricken with paralysis.

Don't worry about Christmas dinner. Come to the Terry Coffee Shop. Phone in your reservation by December 23rd.

LAUNDRESS CLASS TO HAVE BAZAAR FRIDAY AND SATURDAY AT HAT SHOP

The A. D. Sunday school class of the Baptist church will hold a bazaar at the Hat Shop on Friday and Saturday of this week, and they cordially invite the citizenship to call and inspect the many pretty things that will be offered for sale.

Louise Beatty Is Winner of the $15.00 In Cash On Saturday

It seems like the ladies are getting all the breaks—or at least a major portion of them—in the Saturday premium distribution conducted by the Retail Merchants Association.

On Saturday the $15.00 was awarded to Miss Louise Beatty of this city; C. R. Parker of Munday route 2 received the $10.00; C. H. Riley carried off the $7.50, while Mrs. C. T. Wilson received the $5.00 and the $2.50 went to Mrs. Ida Holander, who also received one of the $1.00 premiums, both on tickets from the Farmers Elevator company. All of the other tickets above were unmarked except that of C. H. Riley, which was from the Munday Mill & Elevator Company.

Winners of the $1.00 premium and the firms from which they procured the tickets are as follows:

Mrs. F. W. West—Piggly-Wiggly. Mrs. E. McSlyea—unnamed. Mary Muse—Piggly-Wiggly. W. D. Stewart—Gunn Hardware Co. G. W. Russell—Munday Mill and Elevator Co. T. V. Clark—Piggly-Wiggly. S. D. Hicks—Farmers Elevator Co. R. J. Walling—The Rexall Store. S. W. Reeves.

T. I. Thompson and Joe Gordy acted as judges while the tickets were drawn by Audrey Nell, the four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Phillips.

Hershey was born at Derry Township, Pa., in 1857 and began manufacturing chocolate in 1893 at Lancaster. He is now chairman of the Board of the Hershey Chocolate Company and owner of practically all the stock. His home is at Hershey, Pa.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

All services Sunday at the usual hours. Sermon subjects for Sunday: Morning, "Sinning the Soil." Evening, "The Devil Put to Rout." The devil can be made to run any time if you take off your gloves and get after him properly. You can't kill microbes unless you bring them to the light and let the sun shine on them. When the lid comes off things usually happen.

Come to the Baptist church Friday evening at 7:30, December 21st, and have Christmas with the ten little Muggigans.

Sunday evening, December 23rd, the WHITE CHRISTMAS will be given. The Church with a welcome. W. H. ALBERTSON.

J. C. Carter, local manager for the Maytag company, states that G. C. Jordan of O'Brien was the winner of the state-wide "Happy Wife Contest," having been the fortunate one in the state to have the price of the Maytag washing machine refunded in a contest conducted by the company.

Eating From the Hard Boiled Egg Tree

Label Brocken, left, eating her first mouthful of egg from a tree at Miami, Fla., while J. W. Johnston, tropical plant expert, holds the "hen" steady. The tree is the Casahuate from Latin America. The fruit is soft and when cut has almost the identical appearance of a hard-boiled egg. It has no bones and when put into a sandwich tastes just like a delicious hard-boiled egg.

Ye May Have A Hard Time Laughing That Off

By Albert T. Reid

"It's the funniest thing, Cy, you know I could have sworn we would be able to take up your relief matter this session, but the appropriation bill, the cruiser bill, Boulder Dam and the tariff are going to take up all my time and I'll be dog-gone if I can see now how I can get around to you before next September."

Former Convict Is Taken Here

Gene Nelson is no more. Not that Gene is dead, but it has been discovered that his real name is J. D. Alexander, and he was desired in Oklahoma on account of not having finished up a sentence there in the penitentiary. He was sent up for four years for burglary and had served only six months, when he escaped. And now they want him at Mangum for stealing a lot of cigarettes, and the three and a half years may be added too.

Another man associated with Gene in the Mangum robbery was Vic Lofton. He eluded arrest here but was taken in Oklahoma. The stolen cigarettes were located by the sheriff's department here, at the home of Nelson.

The arrest of this young man came as quite a surprise to those who had known him here and considered him without offense. His wife has been operating a beauty parlor in Seymour and Gene assisted her with her work, she and the children have gone somewhere.

Boy Scouts Will Assist To Spread Christmas Cheer

Paul Lowry, scoutmaster, has requested us to announce that the Boy Scouts of Munday will be glad to assist in any way possible in spreading Christmas cheer, and anything that they can do or any service that they may be able to render during the holiday season will be gladly done.

Scoutmaster Lowry also states that the Scouts will gather all the discarded toys that are available, mend, repair and repaint them and distribute them to children that may not otherwise realize that this is the season of Good cheer, and in doing this work he requests that all persons having toys or anything that would make a Christmas gift to a little boy or girl, or an aged person, call him and a Scout will call for it.

This is a most worthy undertaking and we are sure that the citizenship of Munday will cooperate with the Boy Scouts to the fullest extent.

Mrs. Louise Ingram was a visitor to Abilene on Thursday of this week. P. V. Williams, Carl Mahan, H. A. Pendleton, Ike Huskinson, Palmer Barton and others returned first of the week from a deer hunt in Mexico, and they brought home a couple of fine bucks. They are telling some wonderful yarns, but like fishermen's stories, one can believe only a part of what they say, and it's difficult to tell what part to believe.

We have a nice selection of Christmas cards which we are going to sell, printed to order, for $2.00 per box of 25 cards and envelopes. Some of these cards are expensive numbers, but we are going to close them all out at this low price. Come in and make your selection while the stock is complete.

Knox City C. of C. Wishes to Correct Erroneous Report

Information Has Been Unduly and Unjustly Spread Concerning Diphtheria in Knox City

According to the records of Dr. T. S. Edwards and Dr. T. P. Frizzell, local physicians, there have been only seven cases in the town and community, the last of those being reported over one week ago. That case is under quarantine, all precaution being taken, and no further spread of the disease is being anticipated.

There is no cause for alarm on the part of any one wishing to visit Knox City for either business or pleasure. The few cases of diphtheria have not been in the form of an epidemic, and are no more than may be found in any town or community.

SHOP EARLY

Now is the time to begin to think about your Christmas shopping—and not to stop merely at thinking about it. When you go shopping now for Christmas instead of later you do yourself a great favor as well as expressing a fine spirit of cooperation with the merchants that have the privilege of your patronage.

You avoid the last minute rush. You have larger stocks to choose from. You are sure of getting what you want. Nothing is "all sold out" yet, though it may be when late shoppers come round for it.

You help every clerk whose Christmas labors you lessen by doing your shopping in advance and not bothering him when he is most busy.

You have plenty of time left in which to correct errors. You have more time in which to compare prices and examine quality. When you shop at the last minute, you are all too likely to buy "any old thing" to get it over with. We can't urge you too strongly to do your Christmas shopping now. It's an important matter that shouldn't be left for the last minute.

Munday Dresses Up For Yuletide Season

Munday is all dressed up for the Yuletide season, the final touches are being completed with the addition of a line of fir trees in front of each business concern, and many of the business houses will add electric lights to the trees, which will present a very beautiful spectacle each evening.

Not only have the business houses decorated the fronts of their places of business, but practically every shop window in the city presents a Christmas scene, is filled with Christmas merchandise, and never before in the history of Munday have the merchants provided so liberally for their patron's Christmas requirements.

The dry goods stores are presenting some very beautiful windows, as are the racket stores, the drug stores and all business concerns of the city, all pointing out the merits of their wares as Christmas merchandise. Indeed, Munday presents a most beautiful scene and one is reminded of every hand that the Christmas season is at hand.

Mrs. Jack Whitaker Is Called By Death After Illness of Many Months

Mrs. Jack Whitaker died at the family home in this city on Monday morning at an early hour after an illness extending over a period of many months, and the remains were carried to Ballinger, Texas, her former home, for interment.

Mrs. Whitaker is survived by her husband, Jack Whitaker, who is superintendent of construction for the West Texas Utilities Company, and four children ranging from twelve years downward, and to the bereaved husband and motherless children we extend our sincere sympathy in their great sorrow.

Farm Home Is Saved From Fire By Quick Action of Fire Dept.

A residence on the farm of G. L. Pruitt, occupied by J. M. Pruitt, was saved from destruction by fire one day last week by the quick action of the Munday Fire Department. The residence, which is located more than a mile from the city limits, was blazing in the roof when the alarm came over the telephone and the alarm sounded during the noon hour. A quick run was made for the scene and by the use of buckets of water, axes and other means the fire was extinguished with small damage.

For this quick action on the part of the firemen both Mr. G. L. and J. M. Pruitt request that we extend to the firemen through the columns of The Times their sincere thanks, for they know that without the aid of the fire department both the house and its contents would have been a total loss.

The dry goods stores are presenting some very beautiful windows, as are the racket stores, the drug stores and all business concerns of the city, all pointing out the merits of their wares as Christmas merchandise. Indeed, Munday presents a most beautiful scene and one is reminded of every hand that the Christmas season is at hand.

Largest Dog

This giant Alaskan wolf hound, owned by William Struther of Nome, Alaska, is 6 feet 2 1/2 inches high and weighs 190 pounds. Miss Josephine Harrison of Cincinnati, O., is shown comparing her size with the big boy. The dog answers to the name "Iak," meaning "I."

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and gratitude to the many kind friends who ministered to our dear husband and father during his illness and for the many kind deeds, the beautiful floral offerings, the consoling words we shall ever have in our hearts a feeling of gratitude and love.

MRS. W. C. HILL.

MR. AND MRS. W. R. HILL.

IMPROVED STANDARDS OF LIVING THROUGH HIGH SCHOOL EDUCATION

High school education of citizens improves the standards of living in a community.

Knowledge is the chief essential of good citizenship, and high schools impart much of this if citizens will take advantage of it. High schools broaden a person's mind, discipline his temper, develop his tastes, correct his manners, and mold his habits. They exist primarily for knowledge, for the rewards of scholarship. High schools seek to mold character by the highest ideals, in the most stimulating environments and with the best associations. Four years spent with its walls give one a surer chance of success and a happier, healthier life. It makes one a better citizen, a kinder father, a worthier mother, and a finer friend.

The high school is one of the greatest forces in the world today, for it not only imparts knowledge but establishes a finer sense of fraternity. Working for the same goal—success is a great means of developing the feeling of brotherhood among the children of the earth. None of us live unto ourselves, and we rub elbows with each other in a common service. One who comes from the old world realizes this more than those who have been accustomed to it. High schools insure equality among all classes. Regardless of financial differences, citizens are able to meet on equal ground.

If there were no high schools in this country, citizens would know nothing about our government, and how inefficient and illiterate men would hold the highest offices. School educate people practically as well as classically.

Senior '29

Frank says that there is many a slap 'twixt a pair of lips and a pair of lips. Wonder how he knows?

"Icky" says that when a parlor light is out, it is a pretty good sign that the daughter of the house isn't. That reminds me "Icky" of a little verse that I know—"Be sure that you are right, then go ahead."

J. C. reminded us of this the other day—A few years ago he would have been a big, silent man—now, he is just dumb. "Ashes to ashes, and dust to..." etc.

The home economics girls insist that you not forget their bazaar which is being held in the cottage Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

SENIORS

We seniors would be feeling fine if we had not received report cards last week and if we were not so drowsy. Last week a new six weeks period started, the only one before mid-term. We have resolved to improve our grades (although we don't see how it can be done).

"Revenge is sweet." Anyone who does not believe this statement, kindly refer to Joe for further information.

Basketball season has "come"! It opened with a bang last Saturday night. (As it was "hath night" we will have to forgive the majority of the Mogul fans for being absent.) 'Tis sad but true: Those Goree Wildcats smashed the Munday Moguls in a fast game. But, as the old saying goes, "A bad beginning makes a good ending." (Depend on 'em! Senior editor to use old proverb—was that from Shakespeare?) Don't let that discourage you, boys, we're behind you!

Now, let's end this ordeal with a little ditty:

"Wake me early, call me early, call me early, mother dear."

This was often said to mothers by the girls of yesteryears.

But the modern lass says to her mother, as she goes out for a spin,

"Wake up early, mother, someone's got to let me in."

JUNIOR FLASHES

The Juniors are especially smart when it comes to "S. A." writing or short stories—just listen to the following: Author, Chester Jones.

A Floral Love Story

1. What were her nationality, appearance and name?
American Beauty Rose.
2. What was his disposition and name?
Sweet William.
3. How did he offer himself?
Aster.
4. To whom did she refer him?
Poppy.

5. How many attended the ceremony?
Phlox.

6. What did the bride wear on her head?
Bridal wreath.

7. What did the bride-groom wear for the last time?
Bachelor-Button.

8. At what time did they take the train?
Four O'clock.

9. What animal did they see on visiting the menagerie?
Dandelion.

10. What did he say when he left her?
Forget-Me-Not.

11. What did she do?
Bal-sum.

12. How did she salute him on his return?
Tulips.

Christine. "Let's go to town."

Fern. "Sorry, I have to go to class; I didn't sleep much last night."

Bonnie has been mad for the past few days and we're just now finding out what causes that. She said that she wrote an essay in English on Milk and Miss Waggoner condensed it.

Chan (Entering the crowded bus) "I wonder if we can squeeze in here?"

Vela. "Don't you think we'd better wait until we get off?"

Madeline. "Wonder how long I could live without brains?"

Mildred. "That remains to be seen."

Roy will insist on telling Miss Waggoner, our English teacher, that he has not done his outside reading, for it has been too cold to read outside.

Chan. "Yes, it is, too!"

Roy. "That's what I say!"

We had our first basketball game Saturday night and a little incident that happened there seemed to have amused the "listener-on" It goes like this:

Frank. "See Busby, he will soon be our best man!"

Vivian. "Oh, sweetheart, this is so sudden!"

Friend. "In what course does your son, Frank, graduate?"

The proud father. "In the course of time."

SOPHOMORES

We are sorry to report that Mildred Allison, one of the Sophomores, was seriously hurt in a car accident Friday morning. We hope she will improve rapidly.

Do your Christmas shopping early. Anyhow Rex is doing his Santa Claus correspondence early:

"Dear Santa:

"I have been an awful good boy this year and I wish you would bring me a pair of skates, a toy engine, and a tricycle; and bring my little

THREE RULES

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not habit forming.

The Doctor never did approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. Use Serravallo's Compound for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, head aches, and to break up fevers and colds. Get a bottle today, at any drugstore and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open. For a free trial bottle, just write "Serravallo's Compound," Dept. The utilities of a city are combined in your motor car

OUR automobile is something like a miniature city. There is an electric light and power system, a water system, a fuel system.

In the new Ford, you will find each of these systems of the latest design and best materials. Every part has been made to serve you faithfully and well at a minimum of trouble and expense.

Take, for example, the generator—one of the most important parts of the electrical system which supplies the current for lighting and for engine ignition.

In the new Ford, the generator is of the power-house type and is distinctive in many features. It has been specially designed to prevent most forms of trouble. Oiling is necessary only once a year. About the only thing you need do is to have the charging rate changed as the seasons change.

Closely allied to the electrical system is the ignition system. It, too, is of new mechanical design in the new Ford. There is but one high tension cable and that connects the coil with the distributor. Even cables from the distributor to the spark plugs have been eliminated. Special care has also been taken to make the distributor water-proof, thus preventing short circuits from rain, etc.

The entire electrical and ignition systems of the new Ford are so simple in design and so carefully made that they will give you surprisingly little trouble. Yet that doesn't mean they should be neglected. Certain little attentions are needed from time to time.

The storage battery should be given water and the connections kept clean. The generator charging rate should be changed as indicated. Spark plugs should be cleaned at regular intervals. Distributor points should also be kept clean and the distributor cam given a light film of vaseline every 2000 miles.

These are just little things, but they mean a great deal to your car. You can have them looked after at very small cost by the Ford dealer when you take the car in for oiling and greasing.

A thorough checking-up at regular intervals will lengthen the life of your car and give you many thousands of miles of carefree, economical motoring.

W. M. S. Members Hold All Day Meet

The W. M. S. of the Baptist church met at the church in an all day meeting last Wednesday to observe our Lottie Moon Week of Prayer. The meeting began at ten o'clock with Mrs. Hathway leading the devotional.

Mesdames, W. H. Albertson, A. M. Ammons, and R. L. Briggs gave very interesting talks on our foreign mission work in several countries. At noon a very appetizing lunch was spread at the annex.

Football Men Honored

An affair of unusual interest, not only to those who attended it, but to the entire town, was the High School Football Pep Squad banquet on Friday evening, December 7th, at the Terry Hotel Coffee Shop. This entertainment was sponsored by the members of the Pep Squad, but the following men, who so willingly bought plates for the Moguls, shared in making this affair a gay fiesta: Messrs. J. A. Kennedy, Hendrix, James Rayburn, Lovless, D. A. Eiland gram was given. The first number Hardigree, F. A. Coxy, R. L. Ballinger, Wyche, Harvey Brown, John Ed Jones, E. M. Roberts, Barnes, Truman Mann, Boles, Vick Edwards, Smith and Heard, and the Musser Lumber company.

Table decorations and plate favors, poinsettias, were suggestive of the approaching holidays.

Mr. Rhodes presided as toastmaster. The banquet was very fittingly compared to a football game, in that it was served in four courses with a short intermission between each course.

made a short talk in behalf of the Pep Squad. Paul Pruitt, the Mogul captain, responded and in behalf of the team, thanked the Pep Squad for their loyal support this year. He expressed the team's appreciation for Coach Palmer's efforts and expressed the team's thanks to Dr. Farrington for his interest and medical aid.

Coach Palmer made a short talk in which he thanked the boys for their loyalty and good work. He also expressed his appreciation of those who so gladly volunteered their cars for taking the boys to the games. In conclusion he announced that the following boys lettered this year: Chandler Hughes, Elton Busby, Joe Aycock, Frank Greer, Fayette Edwards, Hubert Myers, Aristotle Thompson, Ishmael Walling, John R. Rayburn, Clovis Stevens, Paul Pruitt, Earl Newsome, and Cecil Parker. Others of the squad who attended the banquet, were: Burl Williams, Otis Perdue and A. J. Beaty.

Mr. Rhodes asked that each boy vote for the player whom he considered the most valuable to the team as a whole. Paul Pruitt was named by a large majority, and Mr. Rhodes announced that to Paul would be given by the Jones and Eiland Insurance company, a thousand dollar life insurance policy with the first year's premium paid.

Paul Pruitt received a second high honor when he was elected captain for the 1929 football season. The honor of being elected captain for the second year testifies to Paul's popularity and to the confidence his team mates have in him as a leader.

Dr. Farrington made a short talk, complimenting the work of the team. He stated that he was going to present to Paul, as a souvenir, a two and a half dollar gold piece.

Rev. Freeman, the principal speaker of the evening, made an excellent address commending the splendid spirit and wonderful sportsmanship manifested by the Mogul team. Earl Newsome, a member of the team, who was unable to attend the banquet on account of illness, was taken as an example of the spirit which Rev. Freeman tried to instill in the boys. Rev. Freeman listed those things which are classed as great hindrances in making for the success of a team, and he told how these obstacles might be overcome.

All the members of this year's team who will graduate in the spring, made short talks and a representative from the Junior, Sophomore and Freshman classes spoke briefly. A number of other guests expressed their appreciation of the football boys and wished them many more seasons as successful as the one just past.

Other than the football boys and members of the pep squad the following guests were present: Rev. and Mrs. Freeman, Dr. and Mrs. Farrington, Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. Kunkel, Miss Jessamine Thornton and Lucille Neff.—Reporter.

THE HEART

We are still confronted with statements that heart diseases are on the increase. Look over the column in the big city papers, and note the causes of death—the list of fatalities, I mean. There are about ten deaths recorded in my neighborhood metropolis yesterday, most of them were in the early fifties; "heart disease" took most of them.

You are positively guilty of every crime against your heart, ignorantly, it may be, but with results just the same; ignorance of the law does not excuse the violator—he must pay the penalty in full.

Two chief causes are notable in affections of the heart—infections and overloading. A neglected throat is almost sure to send a swarm of bacteria to the heart muscle. Attend to your throat right now, if it is affected. Influenza, rheumatism, tonsillitis—all of them menace the heart, no matter how mild they may appear; get your physician's advice frequently during winter months.

Overloading the heart is inexcusable on our part. How do you do it? First, by overeating and unnecessary stimulation. The heart keeps all fluid elements of the body in motion; if you over-eat, excess fluid and juices are absorbed, for the heart to keep circulating through the channels provided. When you are short of breath after eating, you are crowding your heart. It may be gases in the stomach, from indigestion that oppresses the heart—a warning you must heed if you value your life! These heart-disease deaths could have—two-thirds of them—been prevented.

THE LEADER

THE LAST OF THE DUANES

by Zane Grey
Illustrated by Verne C. Christy

SIXTH INSTALLMENT

What Happened Before

Buck Duane, quick on the draw, kills Cal Baine in self-defense and finds himself an outlaw. Flying from pursuit, he meets Luke Stevens, another outlaw, and the two become pals. Luke narrowly escapes capture and Duane is shocked to find his brother outlaw severely wounded.

Duane buries Stevens. Then he goes on to Bland's camp, where he gets in to a fight with a man called Bommer and wounds the latter. He makes a friend of an outlaw at Bland's called Kueche, who tells him of Mrs. Bland and the girl, Jennie.

Duane meets Jennie and promises to try his utmost to get her away from Bland's camp. To avert suspicion, it is planned that he pretend to care for Mrs. Bland. Kueche introduces him to the latter and he engages in conversation with her.

Buck plays the game, making Mrs. Bland think he loves her. To avert Bland's suspicion, Mrs. Bland pretends to her husband that Buck has come to visit Jennie. Bland urges Buck to become a regular member of his outlaw gang.

A quarrel later develops in which Duane kills Bland and rushes off with Jennie after a terrific struggle with Mrs. Bland. He then plans to leave Jennie in good hands until a relative or friend is located, and then go on alone on the trail. He keeps careful guard over her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

About the middle of the afternoon Jennie awoke. They cooked a meal, and afterward sat beside the little fire. She had never been, in his observation of her, anything but a tragic figure, an unhappy girl, the farthest removed from serenity and peace. That characteristic capacity for agitation struck him as stronger in her this day. He attributed it, however, to the long strain, the suspense bearing an end. Yet sometimes, when her eyes were on him, she did not seem to be thinking of her freedom, of her future.

"This time tomorrow you'll be in Shelbyville," he said.

"Where will you be?" she asked quickly.

"Me? Oh I'll be making tracks for some homesome place," he replied.

The girl shuddered.

"I've been brought up in Texas. I remember what a hard lot the men of my family had. But poor as they were, they had a roof over their heads and a hearth with a fire, a warm bed—somebody to love them.

"And you, Duane, oh, my God! What your life must be! You must ride and hide and watch eternally. No decent food, no pillow, no friendly word, no clean clothes, no woman's hand! Horses, guns, trails, rocks, holes—these must be the important things in your life. You must go on riding, hiding, killing until you meet

She ended with a sob and dropped her head on her knees. Duane was amazed, deeply touched.

"My girl, thank you for that blight of me," he said, with a tremor in his voice. "You don't know how much that means to me."

She raised her face and it was tear-stained, eloquent, beautiful.

"I've heard tell—the best of men go to the bad out there. You won't promise me you won't. I never—know any man—like you. I—I—we may never see each other again—after today. I'll never forget you. I'll pray for you and I'll never give up trying to—do something.

"Don't despair. It's never too late. It was my hope that kept me alive—out there at Bland's—before you came. I was only a poor weak girl. But if I could hope—no can you. Stay away from men. Be a lone wolf! Fight for your life! Stick out your exile—and make—some da—"

Then she lost her voice. Duane clasped her hand, and with a feeling as deep as hers promised to remember her words. In her despair for him she had spoken wisdom—pointed out the only course.

Duane's vigilance, momentarily broken by emotion, had no sooner reasserted itself than he discovered the bay horse, the one Jennie rode had broken his halter and gone off. The soft wet earth had deepened the sound of his hoofs. His tracks were plain in the mud. There were clumps of mesquite in sight, among which the horse might have strayed. It turned out over, that he had not done so.

Duane did not want to leave Jennie alone in the cabin, so near the road. So he put her up on his horse, and bade her follow. The rain had ceased for the time being, though evidently the storm was not yet over. The tracks led up a wash to a wide flat where mesquite, prickly pear, and thornbrush grew so thickly that Jennie could not ride into it.

Duane was thoroughly concerned. He must leave her horse. Time was flying. It would soon be night. He could not expect her to scramble quickly through that brake on foot. Therefore he decided to risk leaving her at the edge of the thicket and go in alone.

Suddenly there came an unmistakable thump of horses' hoofs off somewhere to the fore.

Then a scream rent the air. It ended abruptly. Duane leaped forward and tore his way through the thorny brake. He heard Jennie cry again—an appealing call, quickly hushed. It seemed more to his right, and he plunged that way.

Under fire and ground covered with He burst into a glade where a smol-footprints and tracks showed that cam pers had lately been. Rushing across this, he broke his passage out to the open. But he was too late. His horse had disappeared. Jennie was gone. There was no rider in sight. There was no sound.

It came to him like a blow that he loved the girl.

For three long and terrible years Buck Duane rode up and down the Texas border.

His fame grew steadily until he was the most noted and most misrepresented outlaw of his day.

Hundreds of men in the border towns claimed friendship with him. Every honest rancher between Brownsville and El Paso would have been glad to shake his hand and hide him. Every outlaw along the river feared him; every crooked gambler in the monte dens played fair when Duane happened to drop in; every imitation had man in the southwest of Texas wanted to kill him, bragged on his name, hunted him when fired by drink.

The better half of that widely scattered population especially in localities like him perpetrator of the crimes laid to him. The ignorant and outlawed class fastened on his name all the rustling, hold-ups, robberies, murders, when direct evidence did not point to someone else.

In a sense, the reputation of every famous outlaw developed by these wild years had suffered more or less from this natural exaggeration and misrepresentation. But no outlaw before him had ever had such a host of admirers and partisans who freely gave the lie to any accusation of robbery or crime attributed to him.

It was never known that he had never earned a dollar in his outlaw career. It was sworn by many, and reputable men that he had never stolen one. Few towns or villages on that border had no storekeeper who had not a tale to tell about Duane, the Lone Wolf.

One afternoon, from the top of a long hill, Duane saw the roofs of a town he considered must be Shirley, and at the bottom of the hill he came upon an intersecting road. There was a placard nailed on the cross-road sign-post. Duane drew rein near it and leaned close to read the faded print:

$1,000 REWARD FOR RUCK DUANE DEAD OR ALIVE

Peering closer to read the finer, more faded print, Duane learned that he was wanted for the murder of Mrs. Jeff Aiken at her ranch near Shirley. The month of September was named, but the date was illegible. The reward was offered by the woman's husband, whose name appeared, with that of a sheriff's at the bottom of the placard.

Duane read the thing twice. When he straightened he was sick with the horror of a fate, wild with passion at those misguided fools who could believe that he had harmed a woman.

When Duane reached the crossing of the road the name of Fairfield on the sign-post seemed to be the thing that tipped the oscillating balance of decision in favor of that direction. He answered here to unfathomable impulse.

In Duane's state of mind clear reasoning, common sense, or keenness, were out of the question. He went because he felt that he was compelled.

Dusk had fallen when he rode into a town which inquiry discovered to be Fairfield. Captain MacNelly's camp was stationed just out of the village limits on the other side.

No one except the boy Duane questioned appeared to notice his arrival. Like Shirley, the town of Fairfield was large and prosperous, compared to the innumerable hamlets dotting the vast extent of southwestern Texas. As Duane rode through, being careful to get off the main street, he heard the tolling of a church bell that was a melancholy reminder of his old home. There did not appear to be any camp on the outskirts of the town. But as Duane sat his horse, peering around and undecided what further cove to make, he caught the glint of flickering lights through the darkness.

Heading toward them, he rode perhaps a quarter of a mile to come upon a grove of mesquites. The brightness of several fires made the surrounding darkness all the blacker. Duane saw the moving forms of men and heard horses. He advanced naturally, expecting any moment to be halted.

"Who goes there?" came the sharp call out of the gloom.

Duane pulled his horse. The gloom was impenetrable.

"One man—alone," replied Duane. "A stranger?"

"Yes."

"What do you want?"

"I'm trying to find the ranger camp."

"You've struck it. What's your errand?"

"I want to see Captain MacNelly."

"Get down and advance. Slow. Don't move your hands. It's dark, but I can see."

Duane dismounted and, leading his horse, slowly advanced a few paces. He saw a dully bright object, a gun, before he discerned the man who held it. A few more steps showed a dark figure blocking the trail. Here Duane halted.

"Come closer, stranger. Let's have a look at you," the guard ordered curtly.

Duane advanced again until he stood before the man. Here the ray of lights from the fire flickered upon Duane's face fantastically.

"Reckon you're a stranger all right. What's your name and your business with the captain?"

"Tell Captain MacNelly I'm the man he's been asking to ride into his camp after dark," finally said Duane.

The ranger bent forward to peer hard at this night visitor. His manner had been alert and now it became tense.

"Come here—one of you men—quick," he called without raising the least toward the camp fire.

"Hello! What's up, Pickens?" came the swift reply.

It was followed by rapid clatter of boots on soft ground. A dark figure crossed the gleams from the fire. Then the ranger leaped up, to the other high offices. He has filled these positions very satisfactorily. It has been said that no other man could manage the distribution of food during the World War as well as he.

Still another reason, Hoover has managed his own private affairs well. Before he held public offices he had risen from a section hand to the head of England's greatest finance company, accumulating great wealth. By managing his own affairs so successfully he is better qualified to manage the affairs of others.

Lastly, he is the choice of the people for he was elected president by a large majority. If so many people, by studying his life preferred him to any other man, evidently he is the best man for the place and will make a good president.

Why I Think Herbert Hoover Will Make A Good President

(By Jesse George Kennedy)

I think Herbert Hoover will make a good president, because: He is competent, learned and well educated, and he has the mental capacity for the most powerful office in America.

He has the experience to execute the office of president, his many years as mining engineer has taught him much in the school of experience.

Because he believes in friendly relations with other nations, he might keep us out of war in case of misunderstanding.

I think Herbert Hoover will make a good president because he has been proven. In the fields of Belgium he attended to his duty as food administrator with two-thirds of the world to feed, when he could have been at home, exempt. Hoover is a great man and will always be one. He has always taken a hand in great affairs, such as the Boxer Rebellion, The World War, the Mississippi flood, economic conditions and many other things too numerous to name. In all he has had a very large hand or almost complete control. His skillful management has brought better conditions and success to thousands. No harm should come to America under Mr. Hoover's administration.

The school board has offered a very pretty picture to the room which proves to be the best all around room. This contest has been going on for some years and we have won first place twice. Of course, it's ours, don't be silly.

Only 14 days, 10 hours, 5 minutes and 17,137 seconds until Christmas Eve. We're sure waiting for the holidays. It won't be long now!

New Features of - The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History - a Six in the price range of the four!

Everywhere The Outstanding Chevrolet is being hailed as a spectacular achievement in advanced design, because it embodies the greatest array of improvements ever offered on any automobile of comparable price.

Here, for example, is a marvelous new six-cylinder, valve-in-head engine whose design represents over four years of development and testing on the part of Chevrolet and General Motors engineers. It has numerous advancements typified by a non-detonating, high-compression cylinder head—gasoline pump with filter, and automatic rocker arm lubrication. It provides performance the like of which was never before available in the low-price field—marvelous smoothness, tremendous reserve power and sensationally swift acceleration—all with an economy averaging better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline!

Here are new and improved four-wheel brakes unsurpassed for silence in operation, positive action and ease of adjustability!

Here are marvelous new Fisher bodies introducing a new order of beauty, smartness and luxury.

And here, also, are other features by the score—each an impressive example of automotive progress—each contributing to outstanding performance, quiet operation, long life, ease of control and economical ownership!

We cordially invite you to visit our showroom and secure complete and detailed information regarding this great new car, which will be ready for delivery beginning January 1st.

QUALITY AT LOW COST

Chevrolet's new six-cylinder, fully enclosed valve-in-head engine has a high compression non-detonating head. Its piston displacement is 194 cu. in. and it develops 60 H.P. at low engine speed.

An automatic accelerating pump results in rapid shifts and smoother, as well as greater gasoline economy.

On the indirectly lighted instrument panel are grouped all controls, including the water temperature indicator and the new Electro-lock.

The new chromium plated radiator keeps the radiator cool and the engine full of coolant for longer life.

The adjustable driver's seat in all closed models. This brings the driver's feet and hands within proper reach for all drivers.

Newly designed 4-wheel brakes, self-actuating—quiet.

Marvelous new bodies by Fisher are an outstanding feature of the Outstanding Chevrolet.

That from the shadows loom; they are always at the meeting, and they'll stay until it's through. I mean that I would mention, they are always Faithful Few. They'll fill the many offices, and are always on the spot, no matter what the weather is, though it may be awful hot, or it may be dark and rainy, but they are always tried and true, they are always Faithful Few. They are the ones whom you rely upon, they are the Always Faithful Few!

There are lots of worthy members, who will come when in the mood, they are everything's convenient; they can do a little good, they're a factor in the meeting, and are necessary, too.

It were not for these faithful ones, whose shoulders at the wheel, keep the situation moving, without a halt or reel—that would be the fate of the meetings.

Where we claim so much to do, they surely would be failures, if we lacked the Faithful Few. —Anon.

SEVEN A CLASS

Last week we got our report card. Listen, I think you can still hear moaning from us. Pity the poor reporter while this is going on. We are ahead four points in the Sunday school race. We will beat this week, too. Just you wait and see.

The teachers have started a new rule. (I think it was Brother Palmer's plan) Anyway we can not talk in the study hall or any other place. The teachers have been taking our names down if we do talk. Pray for us so they won't take so many.

Last week was dull but just you wait for this one will be lively. We are going to win the beautiful picture they are going to give away. Seven B won't even have a chance. Do you know what? Miss Rhodes is giving demerits. (Ain't it awful?)

SEVEN B

The entire class agreed before the election to write a theme on "Why I think our next President will make a good one." Two themes were selected, one from 7 A and one from 7 B grades. The one from 7 B is written by Jesse George Kennedy and the 7 A one by Mildred Moore.

Why I Think Our Next President Will Make A Good President

(By Mildred Moore)

One reason why I think Hoover will make a good president is that he is a good man. He has been before the public for many years and his character seems unquestionable. Usually all of the bad of a man's life is brought to light when he runs for any office and in this last campaign very few of Hoover's objectionable traits were made known. Indeed it seems that his past life has been very clean.

Another reason is that Hoover is well qualified. He is well acquainted with the workings of our government for he has been Food Administrator, Secretary of Commerce, and has held

PAUL AND HIS FRIENDS
Philemon 8-21
Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

All of Philemon should be read and it will not take long for there is only one chapter to this epistle. It is one of the four letters written by Paul during the first imprisonment at Rome. It was probably dispatched at the same time as Ephesians and Tycheus was one of the messengers (Eph. 6:21-23; Col. 4:7-9).

Paul as a world citizen had many friends. Twenty-two persons are here named in ten verses and there are 71 named by him in the Acts and his epistles. One was Philemon of Colosse who had probably found the truth in Jesus Christ when Paul was working in Ephesus and vicinity during a two year mission.

Onesimus was a slave who ran away from Philemon and finally reached the great city of Rome. He may have learned of Paul and sought audience with him "in his own hired house" for all had access to him. Or, it may be that, learning of Paul whom he had served when visiting his master in Colosse, he came to hear without being seen and Paul remembered him at first glance for his kindly attention in the past. The whole story is soon told. Paul gave him all the attention possible and makes clear the truth of salvation as it is in Christ, showing that a man can have the utmost spiritual freedom though serving as a slave. For, is not Paul bound to a soldier and a slave of Jesus Christ? And yet his soul is free indeed and he is carrying on a very extensive ministry.

The only manly thing is for Onesimus to return to Philemon. There is the added problem, for evidently some goods were stolen at the time. Then Paul, having urged him to make the right decision, plans the most favorable approach possible by writing a letter in friendship to his former host and continued well-wisher. Read again how Paul plays upon the personal and asks that Onesimus be received in his place. The stolen goods are mentioned and Paul, though needing every coin, offers to make good in behalf of the slave. Since acquittal is evidently close at hand the Apostle says that he hopes to follow the letter soon and requests that a bed be made ready for him.

In all this we have a fine expression of the Brotherhood of Man through Jesus Christ the Elder Brother. Where all follow these principles of adjustment of difficulties the "joy of the Lord" (vs. 20) will indeed be shed abroad. There never can be another world war when mankind follows this Pauline spirit.

Naturally we wonder what happened when Onesimus reached Colosse. If Philemon was surprised when he saw his direct approach, the matter was explained as Paul's letter was read. Appeal had been made to the master's Christianity and it was announced that the slave had also become a believer. Surely the lash was not used that night and trust was never abused in the future.

side of the guard.
Duane heard whispering, the purport of which he could not catch. The second ranger swore under his breath. Then he turned away and started back.

"Here, ranger, before you go, understand this. My visit is peaceful-friendly, if you'll let it be. Mind, I was asked to come here after dark."
Duane's clear, penetrating voice carried far. The listening rangers at the camp-fire heard what he said.

"Ho, Pickets—tell that fellow to wait," replied an authoritative voice. Then a slim figure detached itself from the dark, moving group at the camp-fire and hurried out.

"Better be foxy, Cap," shouted a ranger in warning.
"Shut up—all of you," was the reply. This officer, obviously Captain MacNelly, soon joined the two rangers who were confronting Duane. He had on four. He strode straight up to Duane.

"You MacNelly," he said. "If you're the man don't mention your name—yet."

All this seemed so strange to Duane in keeping with much that had happened lately.

"Buck Duane! Its you?" he whispered eagerly.

"If I give my word you'll not be arrested—you'll be treated fairly—you'll come into camp and consult with me."

"Certainly."

"Duane, I'm sure glad to meet you," went on MacNelly and extended his hand.

Amazed and touched, scarcely realizing this actuality, Duane gave his hand and felt no unmistakable grip of warmth.

"It doesn't seem natural, Captain MacNelly, but I believe I'm glad to meet you," said Duane soberly.

"You will be. Now we'll go back to camp. Keep your identity mum for the present."

He led Duane in the direction of the camp-fire.

The most common sense method of solving the perplexing problem of what to give for Christmas can be easily and effectively solved by choosing FURNITURE GIFTS for the home, for in a gift of this character you have something that will add to the pleasure of the home every day throughout the year—something that will add to the enjoyment of every member of the family—something that will be a constant reminder throughout the years to come of your thoughtfulness and consideration—and your good judgment in selecting a gift.

Our stock of Furniture is the largest in this section. We have everything for furnishing the home from attic to cellar, and we would especially call your attention to the new living room suites, bedroom suites and dining room suites that we are showing. They represent the last word in the furniture maker's art, and are built for beauty and endurance.

And we have hundreds of appropriate gifts in our big store for father, mother, sister or brother—everyone—young and old, and we will be delighted to show you through our big line. We know we can please you if you would give something that is really useful and attractive for the home.

—and don't forget that we are always ready to make a liberal allowance on your old furniture in exchange for new. We believe in keeping our stock up to the minute and therefore we sell on a small margin of profit and always have the very latest ideas of the furniture maker's are on display in our store.
