SUBSCRIPTION DUE.

We begin sending out bills this week to all subscribers who are in arrears. If you get a statement in this copy of your Star we hope you will direct to the matter at once for we need the money and need it badly. All who are more than one year in arrears, unless they see that some arrangement to pay in the near future is made, will be dropped from the list and accounts will be closed. A good many old subscribers always pay promptly; to such no statement will be sent this week. We would mention also, however, that last week's issue completed volume also. See most of the subscriptions of our old subscribers expired with that issue. If we did not need money we would not ask for it, but necessity knows no law and we are forced to collect what is due us or quit business. THE STAR.

Has all his mammoth stock in his large house. You ought to see what an immense stock he has, in fact he carries what you want and HIS PRICES ARE ALWAYS THE CHEAPEST. WHY? BECAUSE HE SELLS FOR CASH.

His goods are not of the Shoddy kind and what his clerks tell you the article is good it is just as recommended, in this way he has by large odds The Trade of the Town and Country.

HE NOW ASKS YOU TO CONTINUE THE GREAT FAVORS YOU HAVE GIVEN HIM IN THE PAST.

He now needs the trade, he has always had, to bring the year 1897, up to the years that have past, so kind friend remember that

HE SELLS GOODS CHEAPER THAN ANYONE ELSE.

He wants to thank his many friends for coming to his assistance this fall, by paying him all they owed and for their continued patronage.

He says outside of a few—Sold in 100— all have paid him and continued their trade with him.

Now if you are one of these few

CALL AND SETTLE, AS YOU SURELY WANT TO HELP HIM, AND DO WHAT IS RIGHT BY YOURSELF.

And in a short time you will see T. E. Powell extending the helping hand to you again.

DEEP CREEK DOTS.

January 12—Road overreer J. B. Bond and all hands busy Monday and Tuesday. This winds up his second term, and it is no more than fair and just up to your obligations, or you will say that with the inadequate means and forces at his command he had done all that could be expected. The choice of the people for the next term is J. D. Howden, who has heretofore shown his ability for and interest in his ill-paying but very important office.

The regular grinding day at the mill this year will be the first Monday of each month. Take notice and have our supply of corn for the month ready.

Born, unto Mr. and Mrs. Will Adams, on the 7th inst, a boy; weight 11 pounds. The father says he never saw such a boy in his born life—which we willingly believe.

Gabe Smart and family came back Wednesday from Denton county.

John led to hear that John was able to leave his bed, and that, who was in attendance as a month, has returned to Cottonwood.

Henry Substant, son-in-law of Mr. Matthews, has arrived with his family from Eastland county and will farm on the Matthews place. Mr. S. has already erected a new dwelling house east of the public road.

To err is human, and even if you attain the dignity of being a grandfather you are likely to make mistakes and to be fooled in your judgment. How often do you trust a fellow, believing him a man and strictly honest, just to find out that he is a mean rascal who returns your kindness with the basest ingratitude. Or you consider a party as doubtful and find that same party shows up as a gentleman who keeps his word and promises inviolate. Experience of the former soon and which are getting a little too frequently, do not tend to make life more pleasant, but undermine and finally will destroy all confidence. Be a man, keep your word and come up to your obligations, or you will make things still harder and don't you forget it.

There is a difference between a joke and a yan trick. I am the first to laugh heartily at a good joke, even if the laughing is in my case. But if a property is wantonly damaged, destroyed, or serious personal inconvenience caused, then the line must be drawn. So much to the Christmas season.

The cattle market seems to be booming. John McLondon and O. Hawk made another successful east and returned with about seven cows for which they have already received offers. Uncle Jim Mitchell, our former neighbor and county commissioner arrived from the plains the other day in company with his son-in-law, John Ligon, and is in the buying cattle. There is also a mander stock hog from the Brazos river.

Rev. Covington filled his appointment at the school house Saturday, Sunday, preaching twice each day, appreciating audiences.

The latest addition to our little is a photograph gallery, built by Leander T. Sikes and Jack Matthews. The building is practically and ready for business. I do not expect that the artist's work speaks for itself and you can come and see your self.

W. B. Brasley, our able blacksmith, has moved to the new store, and is now adding freer lines so as to make a general country store.

The children girls will be ready for grinding season and whether becomes more settled. If not booming it is improving. Our town will be the only community office patrons in Callahan has no daily mail. Let us remember, and let everyone that in unity is strength every public institution has facted in the public interest, give the greatest benefit to the most number.

in the condition for plowing, plows are running everywhere. A considerable area of new land has been cleared.

HELP THE NEEDY.

Each week we published an appeal for Mrs. Peavy, but by an act we failed to call attention and perhaps some did not see it. daily we know but little of the lady who appeals for help. This we know, Mr. Peavy is almost in a condition himself, having had serious torn off in a gin some years ago. Mrs. Peavy herself has been sick long times, so we are informed. appeals to the people of Baird for help to buy her children some shoes. Shall the appeal go unheeded? know it will not when the people of Baird realize that assistance is needed. This is one case in which aid is needed and that at once.

SNEERS AT MILLS.

There's a concealed snare named W. C. Moors, who contributes a column of slush to the Galveston News once a week under the title of "Aftermath." His chief purpose seems to be to say all the offensive things possible about the silver democrats. In his last screed he sneers at the personal courage of Senator Mills, in utter ignorance of that gentleman's splendid record, simply because the senator favors the recognition of Cuban independence and thus places himself in opposition to the wishes of President Cleveland, Moor's and the News' idol.—The News knows its own business, of course, but it will do no harm to inform it that many of its readers are very tired of Moore.—Williamson County Sun.

HAS MUCH TO ANSWER FOR.

"Local causes" seem to be running away with the country at a ruinous rate. Comptroller Eckels says the recent bank failures are attributed to "local causes." Something seems to have hatched the wind out of that ware of prosperity now so long overdue. Perhaps Colonel Local Causes is the guilty scamp.—Alvarado Bulletin.

WORRIES THE OLD LADY.

Nothing seems to delight the populists so much as a bank failure.—Dallas News.

The News may be good authority on what delights the populist, but we rather suspect that the reason it worked off the above spud is because the high gobs of confidence and prosperity it promised if McKinley were elected, failed to get here; and the News can not attribute the many commercial disasters to the "free silver craze." It seems to worry the old lady. Well! Well.—Fairfield Recorder.

There is a great deal of time wasted in trying to think.

There are a few places open for those who need to be taught.

Mrs. George Heisel, a Michigan woman, has taken out a license to kill deer.

Forrest would be a great blessing to man for a week or so before Christmas.

Politics is an occupation in which a man can best succeed by not doing his own work.

Many a man would have been of use to the world if necessity had not forced him to work.

Many a man labors under the delusion that his private interests are a matter of great public importance.

Many a man does things he would rather not, merely because he imagines that the world takes an interest in his movements.

The man who tries to turn out to the left always goes home with an impression that the acres are filled by fields of wealthy persons.

Darwin is said to have believed that the first man was a careless old man who lost his tail in a primitive maxim. "Never monkey with a hizz-aw."

The corn crop of 1936, as reported to the census bureau, was the largest in the state with a single exception—in 1870, when total production was 205,000,000 bushels. In 1936 the yield was 285,000,000 bushels. The average yield per acre was the largest in the history of the state, forty-two bushels. The average price during the state is 13 cents per bushel.

A discovery of growlers in Ireland was made by laborers engaged in the new street car line in Baltimore. Several skulls and other portions of human skeletons were uncovered by the excavators' tools. There were the remains of coffee, tea, and ginseng and remains of human skeletons. The grim grins did not cause any surprise as might have been expected, for it is known that a burial ground once occupied that territory and it still found to be thickly strewn with human bones.

Hereafter women will vote in Idaho by a decision of the Supreme Court of that state last week. The amendment has become an accomplished fact. The decision in effect is that when any proposed amendment to the constitution requires a majority of the votes cast on the proposition whether or not it is a majority of all the votes cast at the election, the amendment is carried. The woman suffrage amendment received 6,000 more votes than those against it, though not a majority of all the votes cast at the election.

Nathaniel Springfield, said to be the richest colored man in Boston, died at Portsmouth, Va., on Wednesday night. His age was 86, as supposed by his neighbors, also uncertain, is thought to be 100. His place, so interesting concerning him, was that he was known when a boy in Virginia he was bound out to a blacksmith, and when he came north he was 17 years of age last October, his trade stood him in good stead. Years later he went into the straw business, and by his foresight and shrewdness made money rapidly, increased it by judicious investment, and for years he has been regarded as the richest colored man in the state, and was good on State street for $100,000. He was a credit to his race and showed pluck worthy of the imitation by white men.

The practice of hiding money in the house for safe keeping is foolish in the extreme. Almost every week the newspapers relate the misfortunes of men and women who having secured money in stockings, stoves, and feather beds, forget its existence and are thereby destroyed or the assassin appropriated the money.

Far more shrewdly, however, would the result a few weeks ago, when a man of a penniless Ohio farmer. In the evening, on the farm, he and two masked men entered. They bound the farmer with clubs, and promptly bound the wife, who was sleeping in bed, leaving the daughter in the hands of the kidnappers. The house afterward found concealed in the thousand dollars. Instead of the farmer being aided, blessed with a robust wife and daughter, and a large estate bearing capital, his violent death, the permanent crippling of his wife and the loss of his property, and the direct results of his foolish distrust of savings banks and investments.

The University of Chicago has definitely recognized her position as a school of journalism. At a meeting on Monday morning the chairman of the board of control of student organizations called the faculty reporters together and unfolded a scheme of generous scope. The university has offered to the correspondents a room on the first floor of the Graduate hall. Here the press headquarters will be located. All communications for the daily papers will be sent here, and stacks of copy paper and bundles of pencils will be ordered immediately.

Can any reader of the Republic furnish reliable information concerning the program of "cheap" land in 1931 and 1932? It was announced as having made in Alabama and Georgia, and in July of last year it was reported that a similar program in Mississippi. I have searched the governmental publications for news concerning it, but so far have been unsuccessful. From what I have been able to glean from several accounts, its poisonous qualities lie in a wild, gummy exudation from its flowers, which are said to be blood-red and cup-shaped. The writer speaks of it as a "dew" and that it kills bees and smaller insects instantly. Cattle and horses only live a few hours after grazing over a patch of these poisonous weeds.

KENTUCKY TROUBLE.

TROOPS ARE ORDERED OUT TO QUELL RIOTS.

The Governor is Determined to Stop the Depredations of Togaite Raiders Who Have Been Running Things for Some Time.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 5.—Rewards aggregating $1500 have been offered to any man effect in lessening the depredations of togaite raiders who for some time have been running things in high handed fashion in several Kentucky counties. Gov. Bratley has concluded to see what the militia can do toward preserving order.

On orders received from the governor last night company "I" of the Kentucky state guards left at 9:30 on the Cincinnati Southern road for Mercer county, where it is reported a mob of togaite raiders, 200 strong are planning a demolition within the next twenty-four hours.

Col. Dalber, commanding the militia, did all he could to keep the organization of the troops a secret. Just before leaving he stated to a reporter that Gov. Bratley had employed detectives to visit Washington and Anderson counties. It is understood the raiders will work in squads in order that the entire county can be covered in a few hours. The guards will lie in ambush and when the raiders begin their work of destruction they can be called and surrounded. If they escape the guards are ordered to fire on them as rapidly as possible.

Harrodsburg, Ky., Jan. 5.—The state troops from Lexington reached here shortly before midnight. They were met by Sheriff James H. Hays, who escorted to the first tollgate on the Louisville pike. There is no sign of the raiders at this hour, but they are expected at 6 o'clock. The order of the militia, it is said, are not only to protect property, but to attempt the capture of the marauders.

Soon after the arrival of the troops they were met by several spies who had been among the raiders, were forming on the northern side of the pike an hour before and they are now probably on their trip of destruction through the county.

House and Senate. Washington, Jan. 5.—The senate yesterday passed the house bill abolishing the death penalty in all capital offenses. The measure is in line with recent state laws abolishing capital punishment and applies the same penalty to federal offenses, although the charge is not extended to a total abolition of the death penalty. The present laws have come down from colonial times have a sanguinary aspect and provide death for sixty offenses of various character.

The bill passed yesterday reduces these offenses to five, viz., treason, rape, murder and two offenses applicable to the army and navy. For other offenses hard labor for life is substituted as the maximum punishment, and even in cases of murder the hard labor may be substituted if the jury states in its verdict "without capital punishment." As the bill has passed the house after a long session by Representative Curtis of New York and is amended but slightly in the senate, it is likely to go to the president. The minor disagreements are arranged in conference.

Washington, Jan. 4.—The house resumed its work immediately after resuming yesterday by taking up the Lound bill to amend the laws relating to second class mail matter. The whole day was devoted to general debate on the measure under a special order.

McClellan Left No Will. St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 6.—Joseph B. McClellan, late editor of the Globe-Democrat, left no will, and his estate now in the hands of Dr. Wm. Richardson, the public administrator, will be divided between his family.

These heirs consist of Mrs. Rachel Souther, a sister, living in Brooklyn; another sister living in Dublin, and the children of five brothers and sisters who are dead. John G. Young and little Gladys McClellan, the only daughter of John W. McClellan, the editor's favorite brother, are the only heirs living in this city. The others live so far as their names could be learned, are Wm. Armstrong, a nephew, living in Chicago; Sarah Rankin and Fanny Holtz, children of a sister now deceased, who live in Brooklyn; and the children of another sister who died in Dublin several years ago.

Dr. Richardson has formally taken possession of the estate. A conservative estimate of the value of the estate is $150,000, which divided among the seven sets of heirs, will give each about $30,000. Among the dead editor's papers were found checks in several million dollar companies with a face value of $10,000,000. The real value, however, is comparatively little.

Hanged Himself. Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 5.—Chris Schaefer, Jr., treasurer of the National Bank for Savings, committed suicide last night Monday night. His body was discovered yesterday morning hanging from the rafters in a closet of the Murphy apartment. The president of the bank says his accountants, the auditing committee having just completed the audit for the past year, Schaefer has not been in good health for a year, and was very nervous. It is thought this was the cause of the deed.

TERRIBLE EXPLOSION

FIVE MEN LOST THEIR LIVES IN A MINE.

There Was No One Left to Tell How It Happened.—The Bodies Were All Recovered After a Terrible-Lost of Time Were Killed.

South McAlester, I. T., Jan. 5.—An explosion took place in the Hercules mine in which five men lost their lives. At about 1:30 yesterday morning Joe Cox, the fire boss, passed down into the mine to make his customary examination. Between 2:30 and 3:30, probably at the latter time, G. F. Pedron came out of the mine and nothing was wrong. At 4:30 two men, whose names could not be obtained, came out and reported that something was wrong. They had been at work some distance away and, using compressed air to work the machine, had not heard the explosion.

Arrangements were at once made to explore the mine and find the extent of the calamity. Five dead bodies were taken out. The names are: Joe Cox, white, fire boss; Martin Roy, white, driver; Tom C. Curry, colored, Simon Ford, colored; Wm. Hildner, colored. There were only seven men in the mine Sunday. The fire boss went down early and made the signal on Pedron, who came out first, was working with Curry and they decided to quit.

Pedron wanted Curry to come out with him, but he said no, he would wait for the cars to make a trip, so he lay down and went to sleep and Pedron came out. The other two men had done their stint of work and left. When they entered the passage way they saw a cloud of an explosion. It will be seen that of the seven men in the mine at the time five were killed. Martin Roy, the driver, was hurled a long distance, his skull was broken and he was burned and otherwise mangled. The mine that he was driving was also thrown to a considerable distance and killed.

All the bodies were more or less burned and mangled. The body of Joe Cox was the last found and was badly burned, especially the left arm. He carried a safety lamp and it was found with the bottom uncovered. The theory is that his lantern went out and it was unswitched it to light it, not knowing there was gas there, and the explosion, which would have been fatal to the only one who could tell in its entirety.

The work of rescuing the bodies had to be carried forward with extreme care, owing to what the miners call after damp. As it was, three men went down and were unable to get up. One white man and a negro. Notwithstanding the great danger, volunteers were plentiful.

The company physicians, Drs. Allen and Fricke, were there. Superintendent Ludlow and Inspector I. W. Bryan were also there and went to help and give advice. It was a great calamity but it is very fortunate that it occurred in the night. If it had come in daylight, the effect would have been horrible to contemplate.

Weyer to be Released. New York, Jan. 5.—News has been received at the Cuban Junta from Washington to the effect that the Spanish government has recently determined to recall Capt. Gen. Weyer. Primo de Rivera, it is said, will succeed Weyer in Cuba. He is a captain general in the Spanish army, and in favor with the Canovas government.

Minister Taylor, it is said, informed Secretary Oney several days ago that the authorities at Madrid were on the point of releasing Gen. Weyer. Changes have been decided and a statement was made as to the probable time when the orders would be promulgated. It is learned that the Madrid government is displeased at the fact that Gen. Weyer, with about 200,000 troops, has not yet done the Cuban revolt. He has expended large sums of money, but so far has made no decided headway in accomplishing his main object, that of quelling the insurrection, restoring peace and quieting Cuba. His troops have been victorious on occasion, but they have also met defeat, and the total result, considering Spain's outlay in life and treasure, is far from satisfactory. Too much may have been expected of Weyer, just as the exertion was too great in the case of Genon. Still the one of great requirement—peace—has not been fulfilled, and Weyer has consequently fallen in official esteem in Madrid.

Consulate Johnny. Mrs. Yeger—Johnny, what became of the berries Mrs. Peterky gave you for the year you, ma, ma, I'll get sugar on them and ate them myself.

Drowned Himself. Baltimore, Md., Jan. 5.—Richard Deronick, cabler, and for twenty years connected with the National Farmers and Planters' bank, of which bank he was president up to the time of his death, was discovered to be short in his accounts to the amount of about $40,000.

Alone in criblock yesterday morning Mr. Cornelius was notified and left the bank. At 1:15 yesterday afternoon his dead body was found in a pond at Druid Hill park. He had committed suicide by drowning.

A RUNAWAY TRAIN.

Keekley II Had a Clear Track and a Cool Headed Engineer.

A railroad official, speaking of some of his experiences, said: "I lived many years ago in a small Massachusetts city and managed a road where every employe, from the section men up, was personally known to me, and railroading was more of a pleasure than it is here, where the roads are so vast and long that one hardly knows the members of his own office staff. My office windows, I remember, looked out directly upon the principal business street of the place and the entrance to the Union depot, the street crossing the tracks at right angles not 20 feet from the great arched station entrance. Every hour or two, New York and Boston express trains were arriving and departing, and it was always an interesting sight the day before Thanksgiving, when every train was running in two or three sections, and each one drawn by two locomotives, loaded down with passengers anxious to get to the old farm in time for the Thanksgiving dinner.

"One snowy, blustering day I sat waiting to see the 11:25 train pull in from Boston, for somehow I kind of smelled danger, as a railroad man often does. I knew the train was a heavy one, the rails slippery and that before it struck the crossing it came down a heavy grade four miles long. Out at the other end of the depot was a great long bridge carrying the train off to the west, and also the tracks branching south to New York. On both these tracks stood huge locomotives blowing off steam and seemingly in haste to couple on to the coming train, which was destined for both the south and west, and hurry it off to its destination. Well, to make a long story short, that train got the best of the engineer that day, owing to some defect in the airbrakes, and there was one of the most hair raising train runaways I guess I have ever witnessed. A mile up the grade I heard old Seth Mayor, the engineer, leaning old No. 104 whistle for brakes in a way that made me turn cold. Almost at the same time the train came tearing down over the street crossing and into the depot, going 60 miles an hour, and I remember to this day and always will how cool Mayor looked as he dashed by, blowing his whistle for dear life as a warning to give him a clear track.

"That they would even get those engines at the other end of the station out of the way I thought was an impossibility, but they did. There were cool men about that place that day, and No. 104's great Crawford whistle had given the warning. The switches were hastily set straight on to the bridge, and away dashed the waiting engine in a race to get out of the way of the runaway train. It was a close shave, and it unnerved me for a week, but luck saved the day.

"That runaway ran four miles before it stopped, and the engineer with the light engine tearing along ahead of it was beginning to wonder if the tracks were clear way out to Buffalo, when the brakes worked and the runaway was brought to a stop. For years I have been wondering how that train ever dashed down that grade and through the crowded depot, following the switches in and out without a most frightful crash."

Old Seth Mayor, when he stepped down from the cab after backing back, regarded it as a huge joke, but it scared everybody else within a mile of the station out of a week's growth."—Chicago Chronicle.

Marriage.
Sometimes it is the wise words of an infant that impress us more than those carefully thought out by the sage. Therefore we quote the words of the youngest of mothers who has in charge a beautiful daughter: "I will not interfere with her marriage, though I do not exactly approve of the man she has chosen. All have to abide by the fate they make for themselves. I would have preferred someone else, but her heart has decided for her, and Cupid, after all, is the best judge." Mothers, sisters, friends, take this lesson to heart. You will never be thanked if you interfere, and no matter whether a marriage turns out well or ill the adviser, the third party, is seldom considered. Advice in business may go—in love it does not count. Remember this and save yourself time and annoyance by leaving to yourself and your wife the marks that you think the occasion requires or your own conscience demands.—Exchange.

He Couldn't Forget Him.
"I thought you and Jenkins were great friends, Spooner?"
"We were."
"What broke your friendship?"
"And did he marry her?"
"No, I did."—Detroit Free Press.

I never intend being without Simmons Liver Regulator."

Died, at the residence of Bro. J. H. Simons Jan. 4th, Sister Mayfield the mother of Sister Simons. Sister Mayfield was in the 69th year of her age. She professed faith in Christ when 16 years of age, and has lived a devoted Christian life from that time until she was called to her reward. She lived a consistent member of the Baptist Church 53 years. The funeral service was conducted in the Baptist Church on the evening of the 4th at 4 p. m. by the Pastor.
Sister Mayfield had quite a number of grown children in different parts of the state, and they can truthfully say "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord." They rest from their labors and their works do follow them."
