Odd Bits Salvaged

"We can't go along with you on that, boys."

We were talking to a couple young upstarts from Norman, Okla.

They'd come to help us with a special edition of the paper—with our permission—sometime in the future, using people just out of college to sell the advertising.

They wanted to run the ads in our paper, and sell all of them to Seymour merchants. So we turned thumbs down on their proposition.

Being rather insistent, they explained that we could tell our merchants we give them 51 issues a year, so we gave this one issue to Seymour.

And to make the proposition more lucrative, they offered to pay us 55 cents per inch for the ads—a bonus of 15 cents per inch.

"Boys, we can't run them for $1.00 an inch," we says and sent them on their way.

Our merchants are in business to serve the people of this trade area. They stay in business—or they go out of business—because of your patronage or lack of it.

And to run a special edition of our paper for merchants of another town would be a slap in the face for our local merchants and townspeople.

Besides, in our opinion, those boys had nothing but a racket, and we hope other editors of this area considered it in the same light.

In some of those types of rackets we've fallen for before, the merchants got gypped and we got gypped when the promoter skipped town without paying us in full. We don't say those boys would have done that, but we still regard their special edition scheme a racket.

Why are third and fourth graders receiving the Salk polio vaccine in larger towns, while Knox County is limited only to the first and second grades?

This question has been asked a number of times, and our county health officer has the answer.

Children of the larger areas acted as "guinea pigs" last year with the try-out experimental shots. These were the first and second graders who have advanced in their school work.

And because they were the guinea pigs when the vaccine was in experimental stages, it was thought these children should be given their booster shots this year.

It seems the National Foundation is trying to be fair with all its free vaccine.

CUTTER VACCINE NOT GIVEN KNOX CHILDREN

Dr. D. C. Eiland, county health officer, assured the people of Knox County Wednesday morning that none of the polio vaccine manufactured by Cutter Laboratories was given to Knox County children. He stated some of it had been received in the county for private practice use, but this has been returned without being used.

Enough time has elapsed since the vaccine was given here, he said, that our children are safe. They would have already shown reaction by this time.

"In spite of this," he said, "we are not going to give any more of the Salk vaccine until the entire matter has been cleared."

The rush of harvesttime can be eased by cleaning combines, trailers, elevators and dump pits before grain harvest begins. Before deciding about storage this year, farmers are advised to consider their acreage and crop prospects, check for space in local commercial elevators and consult with local officials.

I'M HERE, BUT MY NAMES DOUBTFUL

It's 4:50 a. m. on Monday, April 25, when most people are still asleep—but not me. I'm just entering this world of yours. I weighed in at 6 pounds and 7 ounces and something else that's pretty important—I'm a boy—and I'm going to make my home in Pasadena with my parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Peek. I think that I'm to be a Junior so that will make my name James Walker Peek. My uncle, Chuck Griffith of Munday, thinks that is too much of a name and he informed his mother that he would call me Jim-Bo. I think I'd like that, do you?

Notaries Public Will Be Appointed In Near Future

Secretary of State A. M. Muldrow has announced that he will reappoint all persons who now hold Notary Public Commissions and that all such persons must qualify by filing an oath and bond with the County Clerk of their residence between June 1, 1955 and June 10, 1955. The laws specifically require County Clerks to approve Notary bonds and individuals should not send money or requests for commissions direct to the Secretary of State. All Notary matters can only be received by the Secretary of State after the County Clerk acts thereon.

Any person who has not heretofore been a Notary Public should apply to his County Clerk between May 1, 1955 and May 23, 1955, if he desires to have this application given prompt attention in the State Department, as the rush of reappointing all old Notaries may slow up the ordinary process of making new appointments and issuing commissions.

Secretary of State Muldrow said, "Each person applying for a commission as a Notary Public must be at least 21 years of age and a resident of the County for which he is appointed; exact names and permanent addresses should be given to the County Clerk in applying for a commission, as location of the Notary may be necessary long after he has notarized a particular instrument."

Everybody Is Feeling Better; That's About All

Locally, everybody is feeling better, but that's about all resulting from the shower we received late Tuesday but for the fact it cleared the skies of dust.

The shower was recorded at 18 of an inch in Munday, but it appeared to be heavier northeast of town. A sprinkling of hail caused everyone to hold their breath for fear of a knock-out blow from the hail.

But the hail and rain was all over in a few minutes. Hail that covered the ground was reported at Rhineland, with possibly more rain than was received locally.

We need more showers, heavier showers, general instead of spotted showers, lots of them without hail.

James and David Ballard visited relatives in Goree and Truscott over the week end.

C. R. Elliott visited relatives in Waco, Temple, Austin and Ed die the past month.

GET YOUR RED HOTS HERE!

Another baseball season is underway. In ball parks all over the country the crowds are turning out for the most typically American of sports.

A culinary delicacy which is also typically American goes with baseball—as it goes with other diversions. That's the hot dog. Last year the incredible total of 8,500,000,000 of these edible carnies were consumed—which works out to a little more than one per person each week.

That indicates the tremendous challenge that the livestock and meat industry faces. Estimates say that 20 years from now our population will be 215,000,000—almost 30,000,000 more than at present.

The trouble here is that the proposed changes represent an attempt to artificially give benefits of marginal workers large benefits without any compensating increase in their productivity.

KEEPING OUR CARS RUNNING

At the beginning of the year, it was widely forecast that sales of passenger cars would total 5,500,000 in 1955. Now there is reason for believing that this was too modest a figure—that sales may be as much as a million units higher.

That speaks well for the vigor and productive ability of the motor industry. It speaks equally well for the vigor and productive ability of other industries without whose work not a single car could operate.

Without the depletion allowance, you might not be driving your car today!

Without making any attempt to forecast the future, it can be said that the confidence which business leaders and investors and others are expressing in the American economy has plenty of justification in current events.

WHAT DOES THE BIBLE SAY?

The New Testament Church and the Church of Christ today, continued.

What was the organization of the New Testament Church? A study of the organization of the church of which the apostles were members will reveal that Christ was the head of it. "And he is the head of the body, the church" (Col. 1:18). He was its only head. It did not have a head on earth. The apostles were his ambassadors. The apostle Paul said, "Now then we are ambassadors for Christ" (2 Cor. 5:20).

INDIVIDUALS RESPONSIBLE FOR ACTS OF AGENTS

Suppose that you have hired Johnnie to cut your grass, and he runs your new mower into your neighbor's hedge thereby ruining the hedge. Are you responsible for the damages? Quite likely you are.

In both instances, Johnnie was acting for you. His acts while performing those duties are, in the eyes of the law, your acts.

You may be liable despite the fact that you may have cautioned him to drive carefully and he did not.

The average individual expects to answer for his own actions. He does not usually consider that he may be responsible for the actions of other persons.

AUSTIN HIGHLIGHTS

(By George Moffett)

There has been much discussion in recent months concerning the need for strengthening and tightening the insurance laws in this State. About 25 bills have been introduced in this session of the Legislature to bring about improvements in the insurance laws, and several of them will pass.

There are many kinds of insurance; among them are life insurance, fire insurance, health and accident insurance, automobile insurance, hail and windstorm insurance, burglary insurance, fraternal insurance, and still others. A law which applies to life insurance would not fit fire insurance or health and accident insurance, or any of the other types mentioned. The safest insurance from the policy holder's standpoint is usually in a company that has ample reserve to take care of just claims. This matter of how much reserves brings on argument. Most insurance companies can pay claims under ordinary circumstances, but when some unexpected event occurs, like the San Francisco earthquakes and fire, which caused a loss of $300,000,000 in a single day, it is easy to understand that such large and sudden losses may strain the ability of some companies to pay just claims. An atomic bomb explosion could do the same thing.

Furthermore, there are some types of insurance companies that are not required to accumulate big reserves to meet emergencies. It is therefore a matter of common sense and sound judgment for a purchaser of insurance to learn something about the company in which he plans to take out a policy. There are various types of companies known as old line legal reserve stock companies, limited legal reserve stock companies, mutuals, both local and statewide, fraternal insurance societies, and still others. Some of these companies do a big volume of business and are well managed; others which do a limited volume of business are also well managed. In fact, good management is essential in insurance matters just as it is in other types of business, and the better the management, usually the safer the company.

In keeping with the constitution, most of the laws passed at this session of the Legislature will become effective 90 days after adjournment. Quite a number of companies are being organized now before the new laws go into effect, and some of these companies may not have as much reserve as sound business judgment requires. Under the new law they must bring up their reserves to the required standard at some time in the future if they continue in business.

While the laws which are being passed through the Legislature now are helpful and will safeguard the policyholders more than has been the case in the past, yet there is still need for the purchaser of insurance to choose a sound, well managed company rather than to shut his eyes and take out a policy without knowing something of the financial background and the ability to pay claims of the company from which he buys a policy. This is a most complicated problem, due to the various types and kinds of insurance that the public needs and should have, and also due to the various types of companies that are trying to supply this need. It may require further improvement in the laws at the next session of the Legislature in order to get the job done right. We learn by experience too.

Rice Springs Roundup, Haskell Opens May 14th

Plans have been completed for Haskell's second annual Rice Springs Roundup, to be held May 12, 13 and 14 at the Saddle Tramp rodeo grounds in that city.

The Roundup will be presented under auspices of the Saddle Tramp Riding Club, and rodeo stock will be furnished by Pittner Foreman of Denton. They have advised sponsors that some of the wildest stock they have ever assembled will be used in the Haskell show.

The barrel races will be strictly amateur, on a jackpot basis, with $50 added money.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Unworried Over Chances That The Farmer Going Out The Way Of The Whooping Crane

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek takes a confident view of farming, his letter this week reveals.

Dear editor:

Last night I was thumbing through a magazine wondering if there was anything in it I'd be interested in reading. Most articles in magazines are written for neurotic women and I usually just skim through em, when I notice an article about farming and I settled down on it.

That is, it wasn't exactly about farming, it was about the farm population.

According to it, a hundred years ago 80 percent of the population of this country was farmers, but the percentage has been dropping steadily, as towns and cities grew bigger and bigger, and today it's only 19 percent. That's right, the article said, only 19 percent of the population of this country are farmers, and furthermore, it adds, the percentage is dropping at the rate of 1 percent a year.

Now it doesn't take any mathematician to figure that if this trend continues, in 19 years there won't be any farmers left.

This bowled me over. I knew there were possibilities of the country running out of oil, gas, coal, uranium, plutonium and whooping cranes, but I didn't didn't know us farmers were in the same category. I had always figured you couldn't run out of farmers anymore than you could run out of candidates for office, that as long as there was any land left, a farmer would show up with a plow, the same as when an office becomes vacant, a candidate always turns up with a promise.

But if these figures are true, this represents a real crisis and some department of the government ought to get to work, say the wildlife department, which could divide its efforts between vanishing farmers and the disappearing whooping crane. They could set up a national preserve for farmers, check em with their binoculars every spring to see how many made it through the winter, and leave food scattered around to let em know the rest of the nation was still friendly.

However, this morning I came outside and started checking around myself and as best I can tell, every piece of land around here is still being farmed like it was for generations and if farmers are disappearing, you can't tell it by looking. I'll be glad to have some food scattered around for me, but I ain't planning on quitting.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

I traveled a thousand miles and back just to talk 25 minutes. Silly, wasn't it?

But, being in Florida for the first time, I decided to look around and here is a little report:

In Coral Gables, a block of mansions of Chinese architecture, bright yellow tiles ornamenting the front;

In Miami Springs, founded by Glenn H. Curtiss, aviation inventor, a majestic hotel which sold for $1—with the understanding that the purchaser would use it for a hospital;

And at Miami Beach, those massive hotels, unbelievable in splendor and in numbers. I did count, in a single block, seven on one side of the street and five on the other, all in pastel colors. Miami Beach consists of 22 islands, of which 20 are man-made—that's what the man said, (in this case, the announcer on the sight-seeing bus).

On the tour were a couple from Brazil. He spoke flawless English, and when I complimented him, he said he was a graduate of Cornell University.

At Palm Beach, I saw a beach and palms but no Palm Beach suits.

Many Florida towns, instead of a public square, have a public circle.

Near Miami is a tropical grove where you see mango, mahogany and lemon trees, also a tree of the species from which the crown of thorns was made. Nearby the visitor can obtain a beverage (non-alcoholic) that is a blend of the juices of oranges, lemons, grapefruit and no telling what else—wonderful—tasting.

Miami store windows have signs, "Habla español aqui", ("Spanish is spoken here") and other signs in French to the effect that French is spoken there.

You can fly from Miami to New York for $35 and, from Key West, a flight to Cuba costs only $10.

Near Miami is a "jungle" where the delicately-pink flamingoes twist their long necks into incredible curves; and a man wrestles an alligator. There is also a pit of crocodiles. (An alligator is nearly black; a crocodile is a smoky green.) Also there are peacocks, parrots, monkeys and, now and then, a visiting columnist.

TORNADO INFORMATION

Where Tornadoes can occur: Any place in the United States at any time of the year. They happen most frequently in the mid-western, southern and central states from March through September.

How Often do they occur: The records show that the average number of days with tornadoes varies from 12 per year (Kansas) to one in thirty-six years (Nevada). The national average is 153 tornadoes a year.

How to recognize a tornado: Usually observed as a funnel-shaped cloud, spinning rapidly and extending toward the earth from the base of a thunderhead. When close by, it sounds like the roar of hundreds of airplanes.

Tornado "Weather": Hot, sticky days with southerly winds and a threatening, ominous sky. However, many such days occur without tornadoes.

Clouds: Familiar thunderstorm clouds are present! An hour or two before a tornado, topsy-turvy clouds appear sometime bulging down instead of up. The clouds often have a greenish-black color.

Precipitation: Rain, frequently hail, preceding the tornado, with a heavy downpour after it has passed.

Time of Day: Mostly between 3 and 7 p.m., but they have occurred at all hours.

Direction of travel: In nearly all cases they move from southwest to northeast.

Length of path: Usually 10 to 40 miles, but they may move forward for 300 miles.

Paymaster 54 Cotton Makes Highest Yield

Paymaster 54B, Hi-bred, Lockett Stormproof No. 1 and Deltapine TPSA were the high yielding cotton varieties in five-year tests conducted at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Iowa Park, according to a report recently released by L. E. Brooks, superintendent.

In the 1954 test in Wichita County, Paymaster 54 produced 618 pounds of lint cotton per acre. Floyd 8G was next with 552 pounds; Western Stormproof had a yield of 536 and Northern Star produced 497 pounds.

In the five year tests, conducted from 1949 through 1954, exclusive of 1950, Paymaster 54 produced an average of 545 pounds of lint per acre; Hi-Bred yield was 493 pounds, Lockett Stormproof No. 1, 475 pounds and Deltapine TPSA, 465 pounds.

In 1951, all varieties produced their lowest yield during the testing period. Paymaster 54 topped them all with only 381 pounds of lint per acre. Hi-bred was next with 361 pounds. Hi-bred was not included in the 1954 tests when Paymaster 54 produced 618 pounds of lint to the acre, with Deltapine TPSA second with 496 pounds.

By John C. White, Commissioner

POULTRY DISEASE EXPERIMENT

A cancer-like poultry disease, lymphomatosis, is costing U. S. poultrymen an estimated $50 million a year in chicken and egg losses. This amount represents about the annual worth of Texas chicken and egg production.

Recent experiments by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, however, indicated that the tide may be turning in the fight to control and reduce this huge annual waste. Dr. B. R. Burmester is heading a project at East Lansing, Mich., which promises to provide high resistance or immunity in chicks hatched from eggs of vaccinated hens.

Lymphomatosis is the most destructive of all poultry diseases. It is infectious, contagious and malignant. The disease affects chickens much as cancer affects man. It is caused by a virus and attacks the internal organs of chickens, causing tumor enlargement of the liver.

Experiments have shown that immunity to the "big liver disease" can be passed from vaccinated hens to their chicks. Researchers believe that vaccination causes a buildup in the mother hen's blood of protective antibodies which are transmitted through the eggs to the chicks.

For the East Lansing experiments, 14 White Leghorn hens of a strain known to be highly susceptible to the disease were vac-prior vaccination of the mother hens.

Young chicks, themselves, cannot survive the immunization. Since all chickens gain resistance to the disease as they grow older, only mature birds are injected with the vaccination. Before these research findings can be put into general use however, the techniques of vaccination must be simplified and the production of the vaccine must be put on a practical, commercial basis.

Most of their 300 chicks proved immune or highly resistant to the disease. Their immunity was shown by giving them potent injections of the active virus. Only 3 to 13 percent of these chicks died from lymphomatosis, depending on the dosage of virus received. Even then, the few susceptible birds survived much longer than most chicks given the injections without benefit of

Is The Cattle Run Starting Early?

FORT WORTH—More than 7,000 cattle and calves, a big part of them grass cows and calves, arrived at Fort Worth Monday. This was more than 2,100 above the figure the same date last year and gave additional strength to the theory that the cattle run is starting about a month early this year.

Suspicion that this would be the case developed some weeks ago and has been growing steadily. A number of factors are involved. In many sections of the Eastern third of Texas the winter and spring season has provided ample pasture. This is especially true in the clover growing areas.

Many cattle producers in these areas bought low cost cows last summer and fall, and at this writing have a very good profit made in them. Many cases of "doubled money" are heard, and those stockmen are inclined to sell before the hot weather brings excessive runs and breaks prices sharply. They are inclined to cash in now, despite the fact that in many sections they still have some weeks of good grazing on these clover fields.

In the drouthy areas the discouraging lack of needed rain, plus the disheartening dust storms, is expected to cause an earlier-than-usual shipping. Many of these areas face critical water shortages, as well as pasture deficiency.

Early movement of cattle has its good points, as well as bad ones. It will give pastures a rest. Cows will hold up better and require less feeding where calves are taken off early. Lightweight calves and yearlings are more popular right now with stocker buyers in the North—good example are the around 280-pound calves last week that sold at Fort Worth at $24, and on Monday Hayden Hargess, Coleman County, put a load of 38 steer calves weighing 401 pounds in the bank at $23.50, and their heifer mates sold for slaughter at $21 and $20.

The earlier than normal runs of lambs this year lend strength to the feeling that this will be an early one for cattle—unless the month of May comes up very, very wet over a lot of country.

Grassy Cattle And Calves Weaken

Trade in cattle and calves was rather slow in the opening session at Fort Worth Monday. Cows held about steady, and bulls were steady. High grade slaughter and stocker calves of choice grades were also steady, but grades below choice were weak to 50 cents lower. Fed steers and yearlings were weak to 50 cents lower. Good and choice fed steers and yearlings $19.00-$23.00; fat cows $11.00 to $14.00; canners and cutters $7.00-$11.00. Bulls $10.00-$14.50. Good and choice fat calves $18.00-$21.50; few fancy heavyweights $22.00. Stocker steer calves $23.50 down, and heifers mostly $18.50 down. Stocker cows $8.00-$12.00.

18,000 Sheep On Yards Here Monday

The sheep and lambs offering Monday was 6,000 larger than week, and 2,000 ahead of the same date last year. The 18,000 head were about 40% Spring lambs and 60% old crop shorn lambs. Trade was 50 cents lower on the opening rounds, and after shippers and order buyers had filled their needs average prices closed 50 cents to $1 off. Fat spring lambs drew $18.00-$21.50; and fat shorn old crop lambs drew $16.00-$18.50. Old ewes $5.00 to $5.50, and old bucks around $4. Aged wethers $7.00-$10.00. Stocker Spring lambs $15.00 down, and shorn feeder lambs $12.50 to $13.50.

Hogs Open With 25 - 50c Advance

The hog run at the Nation's 12

major markets Monday was 38,000 below the same day last week. Enough to set off a food rally and hogs were 25 to 50 cents higher at Fort Worth Monday. Top hogs sold at $17.50 to $17.75. Sows cashed at $12.00 to $15.00.

News From The U. S. Congress

Congressman Frank Ikard

Like most of the great buildings in the world, our Capitol building has grown in size considerably since George Washington laid the cornerstone on September 18, 1793. The beginning of the building was a grand affair. General Washington presided at the Masonic Ceremonies, and after a formal procession to the Capitol, the President placed an inscription, a silver plate, on the cornerstone and made an appropriate address. To enliven the proceedings, a company of Virginia volunteer Artillery gave an exhibition of maneuvers with salvos from their guns. An old-fashioned barbecue completed the program. After the foundation was laid, the north wing was erected first. In the summer of 1801 a one story temporary brick structure with an arched roof was built on the foundation of the south wing for the House of Representatives. It is said when the hot summer Washington sun beat down on the one story building, that the heat was "well-nigh" unbearable. Its shape somewhat resembled that of an old fashioned brick oven, and as a result, it was popularly known in those days as "the oven".

About six o'clock in the evening on August 24, 1814, the British Admiral Cockburn occupied Washington and took possession of the Capitol. This British Admiral ascended the rostrum in the House of Representatives, sprang into the Speaker's Chair in his muddy boots and called his troops who occupied the Chamber to order. In mock Parliament, he shouted to them, "Shall this harbor of Yankee Democracy be burned? All for it will say Aye!" There was not a dissenting vote among the occupying troops. Upon the Admiral's orders, the troops then began to set fire to the building and it was soon in flames. The building seemed doomed, but miraculously a terrific thunderstorm arose accompanied with torrents of rain which extinguished the fire in time to save the walls of the old Capitol building.

PRETTY PRINT

When summer sunshine arrives, cotton prints like this one will be there to beat the heat. The dropped waistline of this cotton points up the new "long torso" look. The shoulder-framing collar plays up a sunnier and makes the temperature seem degrees cooler. The pretty print is by Alex Goldman in Tarnmoor's Everglaze cotton.

It was 1819 before the building was sufficiently restored for Congress to assemble there again. In 1864 the old wooden dome was replaced with the present massive cast iron dome which weighs eight million pounds, and the external appearance of the building became much as it is today. The total cost of the building up to 1870 was approximately 12 1/2 Million Dollars.

Through the years there has been much discussion about bringing the front part of the building out so as to complete it as has been planned for many years. This week the House passed a resolution which will begin the study which will be necessary to complete the building by extending the center section. When this work is completed, some 45 rooms will be added to the building, and it should be at last completed.

Visitors from home this week were Mr. W. E. Reichmuth, Mr. Rhea Howard, Mr. Otis Nelson, Mr. Flynn Stewart, and Mr. and Mrs. Alan Bryce, Mrs. E. T. Duff, Mrs. N. H. Martin, Rev. Francis Fowler, all of Wichita Falls; Mr. Alex Dickie, Jr. of Denton, and Mrs. E. R. Riggs of Graham.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Henry A. Holle, M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN—Mental disorders today represent a major public health problem. Nearly fifty per cent of all hospital beds are occupied by patients with mental illness, declares Dr. Henry A. Holle, State Health Officer.

But it is estimated that in addition to these, at least one ten in the general population is suffering from an emotional illness sufficiently disabling to interfere with work and family life. Both severe and minor mental illness appear to stem from organic causes, psychological causes, or a combination of the two.

Much progress has been made in reducing the amount of mental illness due to organic disorders. At one time, 10% of mental hospital beds in the south were occupied by patients whose mental illness was due to pellagra. Today, with improved understanding of nutrition, such cases are almost unknown.

Fifteen years ago, a large number of mental hospital patients suffered from "general paresis," or central nervous system syphilis. Today, due to strides made in control and prevention of syphilis, less than 2% of mental hospital admissions are patients with general paresis.

Only since World War II have extensive efforts been made in prevention of mental illness due primarily to psychological factors. Much additional research is needed here, as well as with organic factors.

However, recent studies are building up increasing evidence that early childhood experiences are of vast significance in mental health. Children need consistent, warm mothering, especially during their first three years of life. And in our high-speed modern society, they need guidance in the home and in the school in learning to handle their feelings effectively and in building healthy resistance to pressures of daily living.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Red Finds a "Sweet Solution"

Red Jackson found a slick way to get his cows to eat what's good for them. Seems they were passing up the tall green grass—full of minerals and vitamins—and eating the short grass, which is naturally sweeter.

Red solved the problem by spraying a solution of corn syrup over the grass that was going begging. The cows sure went at it. Red says it's lucky for him—and the cows—that every one of them has a "sweet tooth."

Next week, according to Red, he's going to have his cows clean up all the weedy grass along his fences—after he sprays them with more corn syrup, of course.

From where I sit, some folks, like Red, are always trying out new tricks—and others stick with the old tried and true methods. Just a question of preference, I guess. Like the way you may enjoy coffee with meals, while I prefer a cold glass of beer. So let's not allow any bad feelings to "crop up" by thinking ours is the only choice.
