Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

We are no tready to take a trip to the moon!

k-k
By that we mean "we," the editor and "we," the nation.

k-k
We, the editor, will never be ready, we guess, but the nation will—and that's not too far off. This information was imported by D. D. Wyatt, director, Office of Programs, National Aeronautics and Space Agency, Washington, D. C., who talked at the closing session of the recent W. T. P. A. convention.

k-k
America's space program, he declared, is a type which a mature, responsible nation would undertake on the threshold of a new era and that the project dwarfs any effort man has ever undertaken, and the potentials for acquisition of knowledge from this program dwarfs anything before undertaken.

k-k
He told the group that the U. S. would soon attempt a second space probe in the vicinity of Venus. Launchings aimed at either Venus or Mars must be planned at certain times of the year to coincide with periods of peak accessibility.

k-k
Trips to Mercury and the planets beyond Mars are impractical at this time and in the near future because present space boosters are inadequate to carry adequate enough payloads to make such a project profitable.

k-k
Before man can be sent to the moon, he declared, we must know more about what is on the moon. And we must know if man can withstand the two and one-half days necessary to make the trip to the moon, and the two and one-half days in returning to earth.

k-k
"Ranger" space probes will be sent on collision courses to the moon, hitting the moon with such impact that they will be completely destroyed.

k-k
"If the Queen Mary were on the moon," Wyatt said, "we could not make it out, even with our high-powered telescopes. Obviously, we the nation cannot attempt a lunar landing without knowing what a spacecraft will be landing on."

k-k
Although the "Ranger" spacecraft will be destroyed on impact, television pictures relayed from the craft to the earth by radio every 13 seconds from 1,000 miles out until collision will greatly aid our knowledge of the body's surface.

k-k
"Surveyor" packages soft landed on the moon by retro-rockets, will scan the topography with television cameras, microscopically examine samples of the surface material and even drill core tests from the moon's crust.

k-k
We saw a film of astronaut Glenn on his orbits of the earth, and heard recordings of the conversation carried on between him and people on the earth. This showed Glenn from takeoff until landing and being rescued in the ocean. This was all most amazing to us—but then along comes Wyatt with his talk of employing a two-man capsule on a 24-hour earth orbit—and even a two-week orbital flight—and perhaps sometime in the next two and one-half years.

k-k
He also told of "Project Gemini" which will entail another necessary endeavor—the rendezvous and joining of separately launched vehicles in space. "Project Apollo," a three-man orbit of the moon, is in the research states and is the dreamed-of landing of an American on the earth's natural satellite.

k-k
Wyatt said that none of the projects he talked about were in the realm of science-fiction. He gave the group a foretaste of what was now on the time-table of N. A. S. A., and that most of the projects he had outlined—including landing a man on the moon—would become realities before 1970.

k-k
So if you're planning on going to the moon, better begin to get ready. The time is not too far off! And be prepared to be gone at least five days!

k-k
Mr. Wyatt completely lost us in his fantastic talk—and he'll lose us again when he starts looking for moon passengers!

Mealtime is when the kids sit down to continue their eating.

FOOD FOR SURVIVAL is cut into crackers as it moves along a production line at a huge bakery in Cincinnati, Ohio. In 1962, the Department of Defense is buying about 150 million pounds of these concentrated, long-life tinned crackers for storage in community fallout shelters across the nation. This first large order can provide an austerity ration for 30 million shelter occupants in a nuclear emergency. (U.S. Army Photo)

Hearing of a suit of 39th District Court at Haskell, in which a permanent injunction is sought against Haskell city officials, originally scheduled for hearing on August 15, has been continued until September 5.

Style of the suit, filed by a group of taxpayers, is John Kimbrough et al vs. J. E. Walling et al.

The plaintiff allege that the city officials named in the suit have been spending money belonging to the City of Haskell in hiring attorneys to defeat and destroy the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority, a water district created and established by the State of Texas for the Miller Creek reservoir.

District Judge Ben Charlie Chapman was automatically disqualified as a taxpayer in both the city and water district, and Judge Sterling Williams of Snyder was appointed to hear the case.

Judge Williams first set the hearing for August 15, and granted a continuance at the request of defense attorneys. A restraining order granted by Judge Williams against the defendants continues in effect until the hearing is held.

Six Accidents Are Investigated

The Highway Patrol investigated 6 rural accidents in Knox County during the month of July according to Sergeant Frank Jirick Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These wrecks accounted for two persons injured and an estimated property damage of $3,750.00.

The rural traffic accident summary for Knox County from January through July of 1962 shows a total of 27 crashes. As a result of these crashes there were no persons killed and 26 persons injured. The estimated property damage amounted to $13,236.00.

The familiar yellow school buses will soon be back on our highways. The Sergeant reminds all motorists of the State Law regulating school buses. "The driver of a vehicle upon a highway outside the limits of any incorporated city or town upon meeting or overtaking from either direction any school bus which has stopped on the highway for the purpose of receiving or discharging any school children shall stop the vehicle immediately before passing the bus, but may then proceed past such school bus at a speed which is prudent, not exceeding 10 miles per hour, and with due caution for the safety of such children."

The veteran patrol supervisor said, "Remember, these children are our most precious heritage, who hold the future of our nation."

Wheat farmers will vote in a referendum August 30 to decide if marketing quotas will apply for the 1963 crop, according to C. H. Bates, farm management specialist, Texas A&M College.

The referendum was announced recently by Secretary of Agriculture Freeman in accordance with the present law which makes such action necessary when wheat supplies are more than 20 per cent above normal. The same situation exists now as existed in 1961, before the emergency wheat program was enacted, for the 1962 crop, the specialist said.

The law directs that wheat acreage allotments are to be used each year but at least two-thirds of the voters in the referendum must favor quotas if they are to apply to the next crop, he continued.

Approval of Marketing Quotas would mean, (1) in commercial wheat states all farmers with more than 15 acres of wheat will be subject to quota penalties on their "excess," except those who comply with the feed wheat provision. The penalty rate would be 45 per cent of the parity price as of May 1, 1963; (2) growers who comply with their wheat allotments will be eligible for price support at the level announced of not less than $1.82 per bushel on a national basis.

Disapproval of Marketing Quotas would mean, (1) marketing quotas and penalties will not be in effect for the 1963 wheat crop; (2) acreage allotments will be used to determine eligibility for price support; (3) the wheat price support rate will be at 50 per cent of parity, or about $1.21 per bushel national average.

Those who can vote are the farmers in the 39 commercial wheat states who will harvest more than 15 acres of 1963 wheat as grain but those taking part in the 1962 "feed wheat" program are not eligible to vote.

Producers will receive official notice of their allotments by mail before the Aug. 30 vote, Bates adds. These notices will be helpful to the farmer in his decision on the referendum.

For further information on the wheat marketing quota, contact your county ASC committee.

Haskell Man Gins First Bale Here On Friday

The first bale of 1962 cotton to be ginned in Munday was brought in last Friday by S. M. Royal, who farms about four miles south of Haskell.

The cotton was ginned by Knox Prairie Seed, Inc., and J. Omar Cure, manager, stated this gin would probably gin Mr. Royal's entire cotton crop. From 1,980 pounds of seed cotton, Mr. Royal received a 425-pound bale and 860 pounds of seed. He has 120 acres planted in Gregg cotton.

Soon after this bale was ginned, Gene Thompson of Munday brought in the second bale, which he had grown on the Nelson land just west of Munday, and was partly irrigated.

From 1,860 pounds of seed cotton, Mr. Thompson received a 460 pound bale and 910 pounds of seed.

Hot, dry weather is causing cotton to open rapidly, and ginning is expected to get into full swing in the near future.

DON'T THROW AWAY THE KEY

Sound conservation of natural resources doesn't consist of locking the door and throwing away the key.

That, in essence, is the position taken by Chairman Aspinall of the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs. Speaking to the White House Conference on Conservation, he said: "It is my hope and prophecy that Congress will continue to act with moderation in the field of conservation. We are not going to engage now, any more than we did 50 or 100 years ago, in either wholesale giveaways or wholesale isolation of our resources. We are not going to create mausoleum-like museums in which people can go see resources that cannot be utilized or, even worse, see the surface and be compelled to wonder as to what resources might be uncovered if only we were allowed to look."

If some people, whose good intentions far outweigh their qualities of judgement, had their way this burgeoning nation would be denied the utilization of vital resources—minerals, oil, timber, water, land—which we will sorely need as time moves on.

The goal is to make careful use of our resources, while preserving wildlife and scenic and recreational assets. That can be done, with complete success, under wise and moderate laws and regulations.

THE VALUE OF A DRUG

What is a prescription drug worth—a drug which may save your life, restore you to health, or prevent a prolonged illness during which your earning power might be fully stopped?

No one can answer such a question with mathematical accuracy. And no layman has the knowledge that would enable him to make statistical breakdowns that show the cost of finding, developing, producing and distributing drugs.

But there are answers—important and powerful answers. For instance, a midwestern businessman recently wrote a letter to a senator who has been most critical of the pharmaceutical industry. In it he said: "On October 29, 1961 my wife was taken seriously ill . . . a gangrenous blocked intestine. I don't know whether the $82 worth of drugs she received cost 82 cents or $8,200 to produce, and I couldn't care less. The profits which the drug companies made financed the necessary research to develop drugs and equipment which saved my wife's life. I am getting very fed up with the attitude . . . that profits are criminal, sinful and should be eliminated . . . I hope that neither you nor I have our life span cut short by the lack of a drug which was not developed."

Drug research is costly—in money, time, energy, often disappointment. The risks of failure are inevitably great. The financially successful discoveries must carry the load of the failures. Otherwise, progress must end—and an appalling human waste must follow.

A NECESSARY EVIL

A new and infinitely dangerous concept of taxation has been gaining currency, and it has its enthusiasts in high places.

It holds that taxation should be used as a social instrument, to bring about some desired result other than the raising of government revenue—and that, also, a tax is and should be an effective weapon for regulating the economy.

The Wall Street Journal has printed a letter from a reader, in which this attitude is vigorously assailed, and in which an admirable statement of principle is made: "Taxes . . . are not properly a control measure. They are not a price to pay for civilization or a privilege of freedom or any of these high-sounding terms. They are necessary to raise revenues with which to run the Government—that is all they are. They are a necessary evil but nonetheless evil."

To use the taxing power to direct and to control our energies and our rights is to lay the foundation of dictatorship.

Playing detective to a sneak atomic explosion is not the simple task it might seem, reports the American Petroleum Institute. It is causing deep concern to the U. S. government and has launched the most concerted scientific investigation of earthquakes and the structure of the earth in history. The objective is to find a reliable means of detecting and identifying secret underground nuclear tests of a foreign power from great distances.

State government revenues from all sources totaled $34.6 billion in fiscal 1961, according to a Department of Commerce publication. This was an increase of more than 100 per cent since 1952. The major expenditure item was $9.8 billion for education, followed by $7.5 billion for highways and $3.9 billion for public welfare.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Who Should Be Baptized?

Again we go to the Bible, it is our guide. (1 Peter 4:11; 2 Tim. 3:16-17). Let us notice the following: Mark 16:16 "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved. . . ." Acts 2:38 " . . . Repent, and be baptized . . ." Acts 8:36-37 "And as they went on their way, they came unto a certain water; and the eunuch said, See, here is water; what doth hinder me to be baptized? And Philip said, If thou believest with all thine heart, thou mayest . . ." Let's read Acts 8:12 "But when they believed Philip preaching the things concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized, both men and women." Then we read Acts 18:8 " . . . and many of the Corinthians hearing believed, and were baptized." From these references we see that a proper subject for baptism is on who is capable of BELIEVING AND REPENTING. This leaves out children and those who are mentally incompetent.

For What Purpose Should One Be Baptized?

The New Testament is our authority for the answer to this question. After Jesus declared that all authority had been given Him (Matt. 28:18), He then tells His apostles to teach and baptize. (Matt. 28:19). Let's follow them and see what they did about this commission. Let's go to Acts 2, the day of Pentecost. Here the apostles told the Jews that they had rejected the Son of God, but that God had raised Him from the dead. Now, let's read Acts 2:37-38. "Now when they heard this they were pricked in their hearts, and said unto Peter and the rest of the apostles, Men and brethren, what shall we do? Then Peter said unto them, repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." Now we read Mark 16:16 "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved . . ." Acts 22:16 "And now why tarriest thou? arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord." 1 Peter 3:21 "The like figure whereunto even baptism doth also now save us (not the putting away of the flesh, but the answer of a good conscience toward God,) by the resurrection of Jesus Christ." So the purpose is, FOR THE REMISSION OF SINS or IN ORDER TO BE SAVED.

A mathematician at the console of an electronic digital computer is helping U. S. Department of Agriculture scientists do research on animals, plants, and soils, and in chemistry, engineering, and home economics.

According to Agricultural Research, obtaining valid conclusions from even a simple experiment may involve hundreds of samples, thousands of observations and measurements, and many thousands of calculations.

That's why Agricultural Research Service scientists are serviced by a small group of highly trained programmers and analysts who use a digital computer to reduce calculation time to hours.

For example, the computer was used to determine the effectiveness of 25 insecticides tried at various dosage levels on biting flies of different ages. The flies were living under various climatic conditions.

To get valid conclusions, approximately 1,000 calculations were needed for each insecticide. It took about three hours to make these 35,000 calculations. Without the computer, the job would have taken more than five weeks.

Computers are speeding agricultural research.

A New Service Opens At Haskell

Automatic, self-service dry cleaning arrived in Haskell, with the opening of Boon's Laundry and Cleaning Center by Fred and Jane Boon.

Now, local residents can observe and use this new consumer service which has swept the country within the past year.

The development permits the user to do personal dry cleaning for the first time. The machines operate like a coin-operated washer.

Just toss in an arm load of clothes, insert six quarters, and the machine (you use your own machine) whirrs gently and quietly through a 50-minute clean and dry cycle. You can watch your clothes being cleaned through a window in the door.

Automatic washing "do-it-yourself" establishments have become a familiar sight across America in recent years. Now dry cleaning is available on the same basis. The dry cleaning unit will clean anything from a man's suit to girls party dresses, as well as all kinds of drapes, couch covers, etc. It is designed to clean 8 pounds of garments (3 or 4 men's suits, or 8 dresses) in approximately 50 minutes. The dry cleaner provides a means for the consumer to dry clean clothes personally, at a quarter of the cost and a fraction of time normally required.

One of the unique abilities of the machine is that it provides "built-in wrinkle-free cleaning." Only a touch-up with a steam iron needed at most.

Dr. and Mrs. D. E. Alexander are vacationing at Port Lavaca this week. Their daughters, Cindy and Suzann, are visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Cupp, in Waco, and Sherry with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander, in Stephenville.

Early Destruction Of Cotton Stalks Is Recommended

This year's early cotton harvest makes possible early stalk destruction and farm cleanup by Texas producers, says R. L. Ridgway, Entomology Department, Texas A&M College.

According to the entomologist, stalk destruction and farm cleanup not only lower the pink bollworm population but destroy the food supply of the boll weevil and reduce the number that survive the winter. Heavy insect infestations next year can be prevented by doing a good job of early stalk destruction now.

The use of stalk shredders is recommended by Ridgway because these machines kill many of the pink bollworms left in the field after harvest. He also advises plowing under the shredded residue to the depth of 6 inches within 5 days of cutting. Stripper harvesting aids greatly in reducing the number of pink bollworms because large amounts of the infested material is stripped from the stalks and carried to the gins where pink bollworms are killed in the ginning process, the entomologist adds.

An exception to the recommendations to shred stalks is made in the northwest part of the state where low temperatures will generally kill the pink bollworms in exposed bolls on the stalks, says Ridgway. Since deadlines for the destruction of stalks is fast approaching in some parts of the state, cotton producers should begin plans now, he suggests.

For additional information on stalk destruction, refer to L-219, "Ways to Fight the Pink Bollworm in Texas," and MP-444, "Pink Bollworm Control as Related to the Total Cotton Insect Control Program of Central Texas." These publications may be obtained from the Agricultural Information Office, Texas A&M College.

SAFARI JACKET—Certain to be a conversation point is this comfortable button-up with its six buttoned pockets and slit sides. Made of Crompton's pin-wale cotton corduroy, it comes in rich shades of copper leaf, emerald green, antelope, and olive.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Still Doubts If Man Will Find Anything To Space To Equal Old Home Ground

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grss farm on Miller Creek continues unenthusiastic about outer space, his letter this week indicates.

J. A.

Dear editor:
A neighbor of mine was awfully depressed the other day while those two Russians were sailing through space.

"They're just too far ahead of us," he kept saying. "We debate whether our men will stay up for three or four hours, while they debate whether theirs will stay up for three or four days."

He shook his head as though all was lost and it might not even be worth while farming again another year.

Well, now, I'll tell you. It's true that ever since Columbus discovered America and opened up the best source of foreign aid Europe ever had, man has been trying to reach out and explore some more, but I'm not sure the moon will be as rewarding to mankind as the discovery of America was. It may not have the soil we've got down here.

I don't know, nobody does, but it's possible that when man, Russian or American, does reach the moon and the first wild excitement of the feat is over and he has a chance to look around up there, he may discover that the earth sure looks good to him. May be like climbing a high mountain—once it's done, it ain't worth doing again.

Then I suppose man will try some other planet, then another, then some more, and still it's possible he won't find anything that'll come within a country mile—or in space terms a million miles—of the pleasant things right outside of my front door or yours.

I'm not saying it's so, but you've got to consider the possibility that being the first man to get to the moon may not be any more important in the long run than being the first man to pole vault 16 feet. It's quite an achievement, but it has little bearing on the continuing fun of living on this fairly comfortable earth.

Understand, I'm not saying there's nothing out in space worth exploring, all I'm saying is that I have a notion that the happiest moment in an astronaut's experience is the feel of the earth when he gets back down. It's no doubt thrilling to orbit the earth, but after three days of it, round and round, twiddling with knobs and looking out a window at nothing, it must get mighty boring, even worse than riding a tractor up one row and down another. Yours faithfully, J. A.
