It sounds fantastic, the idea of floating over a state and reading its life story on giant signboards. Yet, in a vicarious way you can do it, for there exists a pictorial map, drawn by Lee Carter and published the state conservation department, which shows in graphic detail much that has happened here since Father Marquette saw northern Indiana in the 1600's. This map vas our guide over some 6,500 miles of Hoosier highways and byways.

"On the Banks of the Wabash" is the state song. It ought to be; down the Wabash came the French, first whites to settle in Indiana; this stream formed part of their long route from Quebec to Louisiana.

At Terre Haute you see a street crowd watching a tricky machine turn dough into doughnuts, instantai ously. It is har to believe that in the pioneer days country folks didn't even have matches; if they let their fires go out, they had to ride over to the neighbors' and borrow some live coals.

The sight of girls picking long, green, warty cucumbers out of the air lures you into a 35-acre steamheated glass house. Inside it amells and feels just like Manila in the rainy season, hot and sticky. A bug's paradise! Swarms of bees are kept, purposely, to pollinate the cucumber blossoms. Not on the ground, but high up overhead like grapes on a trellis hung the cucumbers Perspiring blonds and brunettes reached up with long-handled passengers sat on top the boat many under umbrellas. Some fiddled or sang; others read, or watched the scenery go whizzing by as towpath horses pulled the boat at four miles an hour! This Englishman was disturbed that Amercans should eat squirrels!

Through pioneer Terre Haute came the old National Road. Over it swarmed the cheering legionssoldiers, settlers, pairie schooners, freighters, live stock, boys and dogs -off to conquer the West. Today this early wagon trail, long but a line of ruts dodging stumps and mudholes, is U. S. 40. At Terre Haute it intersects U. S. 41 to form one of America's busiest crossroads.

South of the city hovers the population center of the United States. For the past 45 years it has been slowly wandering across Indiana.

Historic Four-Cornered Track.

Trotting horses, harnessed to light sulkies, set world records at Terre Haute. Nancy Hanks, Maud S., Dan Patch, Mascot, Hal Pointer, and Axtell raced here on the historic 'four cornered" track in the days of Bud Doble, greatest reinsman of his age. Now a stadium, with night ball games by electric light, rises where crowds used to cheer goggled drivers holding tight reins to keep their sweating trotters from 'breaking' into a gallop.

Spirits, gunpowder, glass, this town makes them all. You see piles of sand, soda, and limestone fed to big furnaces; then gobs of red-hot glass dropping into a magic machine that shapes the bottles-one every two seconds.

Some men are piling tall bottles into a box car.

Saint Mary-of-the-Woods is one of America's exclusive schools for girls. You see groups riding, clad in smartest saddle-club togs, horses groomed slick and shiny, their hoofs oiled. Perhaps some of these girls have descended from women who also rode horses-from Virginia or the Carolinas, over the wilderness trials, carrying babies, dreading panthers and Indians.

The nursery school is fairly rate as yet, but we know one neighborhood of mothers who clubbed together and organized a playground for their own youngsters. The way it worked was like this-two mothers would be on duty at a time and all the children of the group were gathered together to play under these watchful eyes. They took it by half-day shifts, and no one woman had to serve but once a week. This left each mother free the rest of the time for her work or for going out. Since the success of the scheme depended on dependable co-operation, each mother made it a point to be on the job when her turn came so that she could feel free to park her own youngsters the rest of the time. Think how many hours of worry that saved-knowing that the chil dren would be in good hands!

COOKY JAR HAS PLACE IN HOME

Great Family Problem Is to Keep It Well Filled.

By EDITH M. BARBER

YE ALL love the cooky jar when we are children, especially, but even when we grow up cookies out of the cooky jar seem to taste better than they do out of a pasteboard box or a tin container.

If there are many healthy appetites in the family the problem is to keep the cooky jar filled. There are many recipes which are not expensive and which will produce cookies with good keeping qualities (as far as the cookies themselves are concerned). These may be made in large quantities because they do not get stale.

Spicy cookies are especially good because they ripen as they are kept and their flavor grows even better. They may be either rolled or dropped. In the latter case, they are sometimes called rocks, perhaps because such a thick batter is used that they do not spread. Cookies of this sort usually have raisins or dates in them and often nuts are added.

Molasses cookies may be thin or thick and either rolled or dropped. If they are thin they are known as ginger snaps. Sometimes this mixture is packed in a bread pan and chilled and cut into slices for baking.

Molasses Nut Bars.

1/2 cup shortening 1/4 cup boiling water

cup brown sugar 1/2 cup molasses

3 cups flour 1 teaspoon ginger 1 teaspoon cinnamon

½ teaspoon nutmeg 1/8 teaspoon salt

cup chopped nuts Put shortening in bowl, add boiling water and when melted add sugar and molasses. Sift dry ingredients together and stir into first mixture. Chill, roll thinly, cut in strips or in fancy shapes, sprinkle with chopped nuts and bake about ten minutes in a moderately slow oven, 325 degrees F.

Drop Cookies.

1 cup butter 11/2 cups brown sugar

eggs 1 teaspoon lemon extract

31/4 cups flour

1 teaspoon soda 1/2 teaspoon salt

11/2 teaspoons water

2 cups seedless raisins cup cut nuts

Cream butter, add sugar and cream together. 'Add the eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir lemon extract. Sift flour with soda and salt and add alternately with the water to the first mixture. Stir in raisins and nuts. Drop from a teaspoon on to a greased cookie sheet about an inch apart. Bake fifteen minutes in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F.

Jumbles.

1/2 cup butter

cup sugar

1¾ cups flour 2 teaspoons baking powder White of 1 egg

Blanched almonds 4 tablespoons sugar

1 teaspoon cinnamon Cream the butter, add the sugar gradually and the egg well beaten. Then add the flour mixed and sifted with the baking powder. Chill, toss one-half the mixture on a floured board, roll one-eighth of an inch thick. Shape with a doughnut cutter. Brush over with white of egg and sprinkle with sugar mixed with cinnamon. Split the almonds and arrange three halves on each of equal distances. Place on buttered sheet and bake eight minutes in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.). Sour Cream Doughnuts.

21/2 cups cake flour

2 teaspoons baking powder

1/2 teaspoon soda 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

1/4 teaspoon salt 4 egg yolks well beaten

½ cup sugar 1/2 cup sour cream

Sift flour, baking powder, soda salt and nutmeg together. Beat eggs until light and thick. Add sugar and beat until fluffy. Add cream, then other ingredients and beat until smooth. Turn out on floured board. Roll one-quarter inch thick, cut with small doughnut cutter or form into balls. Fry in deep fat, 385 degrees Fahrenheit until brown, turning frequently. Drain on soft paper. When cool, sprinkle with confectioners' sugar.

Sour Cream Cookies.

1/2 cup shortening 3 cups sugar 3 eggs

2 cups sour cream 5 cups flour

11/2 teaspoons soda 1 teaspoon baking powder Salt

2 teaspoons nutmeg Cream fat and sugar together. add eggs and beat well. Sift flour, salt, baking powder and nutmeg together, and add alternately with cream. Chill, roll out, cut into nished with raisins or with halved almonds before baking. Sour milk or buttermilk instead of cream may be used if fat is increased to 1 cup.

Man With Branded Hand

IN EVERGREEN cemetery in Muskegon, Mich., stands a monument which bears the inscription "Capt. Walker's Branded Hand" and below it a bas-relief of an open hand with the letters "S. S." on the heel of the thumb. This monument recalls one of the stirring incidents of pre-Civil war days and marks the grave of a man who played a part in bringing on that conflict.

Capt. Jonathan Walker was a Massachusetts sea captain and in 1844 was engaged in coastwise trade: Hating negro slavery, Walker tried to help seven blacks, who had fled from a Florida plantation, escape to the Bahamas. He was arrested, brought to Pensacola, tried as a thief in federal court and found guilty. He was sentenced to be branded on the right hand with the letters "S. S." (slave stealer), to stand in the pillory one hour, be imprisoned fifteen days and pay a fine of $150.

After the first part of the sentence had been carried out, he was led again into the courthouse. Ordered to put his hand on the post of the railing in front of the judge's bench, Walker protested when the marshal bound it fast to the post. He declared that he could hold it firm during the ordeal, but his protest was ignored and the branding took place. After his release from prison. Walker went back to his home in Massachusetts to find himself a hero and a martyr. John Greenleaf Whittier wrote a poem in which he besought Walker to hold his branded right hand aloft for all the world to see. Abolitionist leaders recognized in the incident a potent argument for their cause. Accompanied by a fugitive slave he traveled through the North and lectured on the evils of slavery.

The "Man with the Branded Hand" became a famous figure and he did much to arouse the North and put it in a receptive frame of mind for Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" as a faithful picture of the horrors of slavery. In the '50's Walker and his family moved to Wisconsin and a few years later bought a small fruit farm in Michigan. There he lived during the remainder of his days and there he died in 1878, an almost forgotten figure who had played no little part in bringing on the greatest civil war in history.

Cap'n Streeter, Squatter King

FIFTY years ago it was only a sandbar on the shore of Lake Michigan opposite Chicago's famous "Gold Coast." Today towering sky- with binder twine and '36 license scrapers, huge office buildings, a plates taped over last year's. When famous hotel and a great university stand on land valued at half a billion dollars. But Chicagoans still call "Streeterville," thereby honoring the memory of Cap'n George Wellington Streeter, who battled valiantly against "them dern capitalists" and held out for 30 years before they finally dethroned this famous "squatter king" from his "Deestrict of Lake Michigan."

Streeter was a Civil war veteran who became a boatman on the Great Lakes. In 1884 he built a 100ton ship in which he started for Honduras to take part in a revolution then in progress. But his ship went aground on a sandbar and the skipper found himself marooned several hundred yards out in Lake Michigan from the Chicago shoreline. So he decided he might as well stay right there. Out of the timbers of his ship he and his wife, Maria, built a little shack on their sandy island and settled down.

But the rich owners of property in that part of Chicago were extending their riparian rights out into the lake. As the little peninsuias of filled-in land reached out toward the captain's island, which had been enlarged by drifting sand, they decided that his shack was an eyesore and should be removed. They called on the law to evict these squatters and five husky constables started out to do it. Cap'n Streeter put on his fighting costume-a nigh silk hat and a frock coat-he and Maria took muskets in hand and the constables retreated hastily.

Streeter found an old map of the city on which the boundary of Lake Michigan was plainly marked. He contended that the "made land" was outside that boundary, therefore it was under federal jurisdiction and he claimed it by right of discovery. But the courts refused to recognize his claim to this "Deestrict of Lake Michigan." He and Maria were evicted time and again but they always came back. So the struggle went on year after year, in court and out of court. "Cap'n" Streeter died in 1921. But his second wife, "Ma" Streeter, true to her promise to him, carried it on for several years more. Finally she had to give up the fight and Chicago's "Thirty Years' war" with the 'squatter king' came to end when she died last year.

UNCOMMON HARRY V. WADE

- With a Hand on the Wheel -

Steering with his elbows while he lunched on a quarter of a watermotion, he broke through the window of an apothecary.

By HARRY V. WADE

N INTERESTING char-A acter among the Public the traffic of the country in recent weeks was a motorist in Alabama. Steering with his elbows while he lunched ling a month-end sale from a movon a quarter of a watermelon, he broke through the window of an apothecary and pulled up in front of the prescription counter. As he pointed out to the judge, he never lost control of the watermelon.

At Harvard, a Bureau of Traffic Research has studied motorists of this ilk and concludes that if we all drove alike our highways would be less fraught with peril. That is, by using technique common to all. one could anticipate the antics of the oncoming dePalma and plan accordingly. The thought is to select some motorist with no blot on the driving escutcheon, and remold the rest in his image.

Harvard may have trouble converting some of the harder cases, like the citizen of St. Paul, found to be speeding in a car that had defective brakes, a dead headlight, an arrangement of wires in lieu of the ignition key, one missing front spring, a tire lashed to the stern asked about it by the that he was discouraged.

It was in Maine that a defendant, still partly under the ether when carried before the judge, remarked. "Your Honor, a tree stopped in front of me." Again, in Southern California three sailors, haled to the bar for driving in a large, freehand manner, were asked "Which one of you boys was driving this rig?" A spoleceman for the three replied, "Why, none of us, Judg-We were all sitting in the back seat."

For Blind Motorists.

The Cambridge group will have Its hands full with a type of motorist who goes illiterate the very minute he grasps a wheel. In Michigan, seven of these in two years sped past a large, garishly lighted stop sign, with mixed results. When last heard from the authorities there had promised to erect a new warning, in Braille. The playing of the wilder musical instruments in closed sedans must be discouraged at all cost. In a collision of two such near Hamilton (Ontario), it was found that a Scotch passenger-a piperhad been cut off in the middle of "Bonnie Dundee." However, the bag-pipes escaped unscathed. So the accident was not a success.

Which leads naturally to consideration of radio and the manner in which its installation in cars has complicated the driving art. Let us study the case of a driver who, being unable to start a motor, begins pushing and tugging at knobs on dash. While things are going all wrong, he twiddles a button he assumes to be the choke and gets Major Bowes' "All right-all right." A crack like that could unnerve a strong man for days.

Women Touchy Subject.

Unquestionably speed is a factor in highway safety, but its impor-tance varies largely with the ind!vidual. Barney Oldfield, as an example, ia driving 1,000,000 fast miles has grazed only one pedestrian, although it has to be considered that a pedestrian grazed by Barney will stay grazed.

The question of the woman driver s one filled with pitfalls for the uncommentator. Whatever he says, he had better smile when he says it. Still, it is safe to reveal here that science has about concluded the brains of many of our fair motorists are built upside down. It Menaces who have infested happened on this fact while watching them back out of angle parking spaces. Woman in the main, though, is no more lethal potentially than the male motorist, except when oging equipage. It is interesting, by the by, to note the irrelevance of the woman traffic violator when confronted with the evidence of her error. A very celebrated lady, when charged with running a light in New Haven lately, gave as an excuse that the officer who pulled her up had used faulty English. While in Massachusetts they ticket you for bad grammar, little is made of it in less rigid communities.

The no-brake school of operators will of course be re-educated in a body. The breed is readily spotted in the traffic flow for a habit of creeping toward a red light at a snail's pace to conceal an absence of brakes-a serious blemish in any machine.

Our Cambridge missionaries will have to deal with suburban realty salesmen, cruising about the open countryside and making unmeaning signals for turns, right and left, under guise of pointing out desirable business frontage. They must conyou count in this year's office-seek. ers running on their records.

Some Turn Too Soon.

Harvard will try to make a conformist of the New York husband who tied up a teeming Connecticut artery while kissing the lady at his side, who turned out to be his lawful wife. The court taxed him $15.40 for this prank, technically described as getting out of line. Men before have got out of line with the little woman, but here the whole background was exotic.

Not much is to be done, though, with the occasional card who makes his curve before the highway does, or tries a neat right turn in the middle of a bridge. Nor about the Frat House tradition of packing 14 brothers into a '28 coupe. There are cases of record in which the bottom layer of passengers in such a vehicle has had to be extricated with acetylene torches and a habeas corpus.

Happily the fad for playing "Handies" passed before many drivers had become infected and contributed to the highway shambles. There is, though, a type who at 61 miles an hour will attempt to refold an eight-foot road map in the original creases.

Oddly enough, the whole safety equation has become complicated the amazing perfection of the modern car. With the types now offered the public, it is superfluous to know what, if anything, lurks beneath the hood. To start a motor in the Neanderthal or Haynes period, it was necessary to have the strength of ten, and to keep it moving at all one needed the engineering acumen of Nikola Tesla and the late T. A. Edison. Today, your old Aunt Effie has only to breathe on a starter to touch off 140 horse power into vibrant life.

The cry will be raised that by seeking to cut all drivers to a pattern, Harvard contributes to tha trend to regimentation which lately has reared its ugly head in so many quarters. This fear we can dismiss airily. If there is a place on all the earth where rugged individualism abounds, and will abound till the last r. i. is wound around a phone pole, it is the roads of North

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK ... By Lemuel F. Parton

 Spanish Onion Peddler's Epic Story Is Recounted

NEW YORK.—As an itin-erant onion peddler, Juan March used to tie up his daily earnings in his shirttail. He pretty nearly had Spain that way, too, at the start of his war against the republic, which he bankrolls and more or less personally conducts from Rome, where, according to today's dispatches, he is now in residence. Foreign correspondents put the finger on Mr. March as the main financial spark plug of the war, both in its origin and continuance.

Blasco Ibanez is pretty tame reading after even a cursory look at Senor March's career. He is a financial genius, one of the richest men in the world, who never saw the inside of a schoolhouse-that is, as a pupil. At the age of forty, he had a string of twelve banks, steamship lines, newspapers, beautiful estates and Hispana cars, and he couldn't read or write a word-alwrys signing his name with a big

Born in the Island of Majorca, of desperately poor parents, he was a sack carrier in a corn merchant's shop, and then an itinerant peddler. His parents were members of an obscure Jewish sect known as "Chuetas." He went to Africa, as a laborer, and became a grower of to-

In the years that followed, Juan March was trailed, jailed, hounded and persecuted by national and international police around the Mediterranean as a smuggler.

His biographers say that, if the international struggle for control of the Mediterranean should eventually require a more detailed knowledge of coves and inlets than Italian aval maps now supply. Senor March can supply it. He has personally explored them in the dark of the moon, say current news accounts, and could smell his way into any of them blindfolded.

The money rolled in. In the postwar years, Senor March was back in Spain, investing many millions in vast areas of land which made him one of Spain's most imposing grandees, traveling with an entour age of generals and flunkies in Hispana limousines. His was the buildup of Primo de Rivera as dictator.

Quite a few years before the overthrow of Alfonso, the drive for the break-up of big land heldings was gaining momentum, and Senor March, combating it, became the mest powerful and resourceful contender for fascism in Spain.

The republic jailed him for eightsider the Midwesterner who drove een months. Details of his release from Cairo, Ill., to Memphis with a are obscure, but, when the jail doors puncture, which is probably a mark swung outward, the real troubles of for distance on a flat tire, even if the republic began. According to dispatches of last August and September. Senor March's bank in Palma, on Majorca, was the financial mainspring of revolution, and Palma was the entrepot not only of planes, cannon and munitions but of the African Riffs, being landed on a coast which he knew from Gibraltar to Istanbul.

A lot of blood has flowed under the bridge since he peddled onions but, at fifty-seven, there probably isn't an onion or a cannon peddled around the Mediterranean that he doesn't know about. . . .

Knowledge

WE GREEDILY ask of a man, "Does he know Latin or Greek? Does he write poetry or prose?" But whether he has become better or worse we never care a straw. We ought to ask, not who knows the most, but who knows the best. In true education anything that comes to our hand is as good as a book. So examine every man's talent, a peasant, a bricklayer, a passerby. Supreme Court Bill Opposed by Senate Committee, 10 to 8-Mrs. Simpson Applies for Absolute Divorce—Fish Would End Our Gold Policy.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

A NNOUNCEMENT of their position on the President's Supreme court bill by three more Democratic members of the senate judiciary committee

ing is 10 to 8 against the bill. The three who openly joined the opposition were Senators J. C. O'-Mahoney of Wyoming. Pat McCarren of Nevada and Carl Hatch of New Mexico. With them in opposition are King of Utah, Van Nuys of Indiana, Burke of Nebraska, Connally of Texas. Austin of Vermont, Borah of Idaho and Steiwer of Oregon. Those committed for the measure are Ashurst of Arizona. Senator O'Mahoney, one of the enthusiastic New Dealers ordinarily, said: "The hearings have been completed. I have listened attentively to everything that has been said, and I have heard nothing to date which has convinced me that any increase of the court is either necessary or desirable

Senator Hatch declared: "I do not think congress has the power to place men on the Supreme court to affect decisions in any way whatsoever. To do so would be an exercise of judicial power by the leg islative branch of the government If we place men on the court to change the trend of judicial opinions we thereby invade the province of the court and do that which many people have charged the court with

Senator McCarren addressed the judiciary committee. in executive session, for an hour and a half and later said to the reporters: "In my judgment, the Supreme court should not be a department of government subject to the will of either of the other two branches of government. While the Supreme court and every other court that interprets the law should at all times keep abreast of the law and therefore be progressive, it is not for any other branch of the government to say it should reform its views to carry out the will of another branch. For that reason I am opposed to and will continue to oppose the President's bill."

The committee agreed to begin the dollar. voting on the bill and on proposed

SENATORS, representatives, department heads, and almost everyone else in Washington officialdom were worrying themselves over expenditure reductions, taxes, rising prices and falling revenues, and Supreme court reformation, But President Roosevelt was gaily sailing the waters of the Gulf of Mexico, angling for tarpon. He was on the Presidential yacht Potomac, which he boarded at New Orleans; his vessel was escorted by three destrovers, the Moffett, the Schenk and the Decatur. At Galveston Secretary Marvin McIntyre set up a temporary White House, and Mr. Roosevelt planned to land at that city when he got through fishing.

The Democrats called it an economy measure because the appropriations were 19 millions less than the amounts asked raska. McGill of Kansas and Hughes | by the department heads. But 15 of those 19 millions represented merely a reduction in the 30 million appropriation asked by the bureau of internal revenue for the refunding of processing taxes collected under the agricultural adjustment act. Without presuming to assume that the gentleman is a bit of an alarmist, I'd like to point out that he can obtain millions of adherents for this measure among old-fashioned Americans by tacking in an amendment to his bill providing that the bars likewise shall be put up against for eign-born communists.

When it is considered that a watch is made up of approximately 178 parts, 50 of which undergo motion, and that the total number of the manufacturing operations involved is at least 1,500, some 'dea of the design problems that accompany watchmaking becomes apparent. Many of the parts are so small that a powerful magnifying glass is nec essary to examine them in detail. Every available ten-thousandth of an inch must be utilized in the watch to attain the compactness that characterizes the new mode For instance, the balance wheel swings between the third and fourth wheels with a clearance of caly 0.006 inch. in Wagner Decision; Agriculture Warned to Be Up on Its Toes

By EARL GODWIN ASHINGTON. - Agricultural and rural America had better be right up on its collective toes, wide awake as to what is going on down here in Washington, or else the new Big Boy in American life will crowd everybody else away and take it all for himself. I mean "Labor is on the March" as John Lewis has so truthfully said, because labor is in part headed by new and mentally agile young men who have just received a new lease on life by the Supreme court. The five-to-four epinion upholding the constitutionality of the Wagner labor act means that the federal government guarantees labor's unionizing efforts. This is indeed a tremendous triumph for labor, whose organized members constitute an important minority ih American political life. Yet that minority is quite likely at the moment to be so insistent that it will get a bit more than its fair share of the improved conditions to come.

There are only three and a half million members of labor organizations out of the twenty-four million workmen and workwomen in industrial centers. The farm population two years ago was 32,799,000 according to figures of the census bureau. The point is that a well organized and professionally led minority of skilled and near-skilled workmen in industry are getting closer to their ideals in this era and this administration than ever before. Others in the general American scene who play just as important a part in the economic picture would do well to emulate some of the cohesive activities of their industrial friends.

Henry Wallace, secretary of agriculture, who is one of the deep thinkers of the day, makes a plain statement when he says in Iowa English that farmers are not getting their proper percentage because they have not been able to "grab as much federal power as have industrial corporations and labor unions. He does not want to see a competitive race for power between economic groups-a cut-throat affair in which every man is for himself with no regard for the other fellow. But Wallace certainly believes that farmers must have more effective organization in order to gain their fair share of what he terms "the federal power." There are ways to gain this proper end other than being fanatical about it. however. Present farm organiza tions are apparently not entirely satisfactory to Wallace. There are several of them, and politically they are likely to follow different paths or parties. In every political campaign you find the Democrats employing one group of farm leaders to catch the farm vote and the Republicans employing another

Before the World war the farmers were getting a per capita income that was 60 per cent of the per capita income of industrial and other workers. If they were to get the same proportion of income now it would be 13 or 14 per cent of the national income, whereas they are actually receiving between 10 and 11 per cent. Government payments have not been enough to keep the farmers' income at the historic percentage level.

Labor wins a tremendous advantage by the Supreme court reversing itself and declaring that manutacture is, after all, commerce. But the court has yet to take the shackies off agriculture and declare that the tremendous business of raising and shipping farm products is an interstate and not a local affair. which was the reactionary finding of the court in the AAA case. That is what cramped the government in its efforts to bring about parity prices between farm and factory Somehow or other I cannot escape the feeling that the Supreme court followed the election returns insofar as labor was concerned-for the three-and-a-half million organized workmen kept their story before the public. Not so the farmers.

The administration had planned to revive the effect of AAA by a series of conservation operations and cash payments to farmers. An attempted farm-tenancy program was coming through. There was to be control of surplus crops, commodity loans, and a general extension of the forward movement for agricul ure-but this sudden cry for economy (and it's necessary) has probably put an end to everything new in the farm program. That oces not mean the Department of Agriculture will close up shop, but unless the farm community asserts itself in some politically effective way, the farm program will bear an unduly heavy share of the economy cut. The farm program will undoubtedly include the present conservation program with its compensating payments to farmers who plant soil-conserving crops in acres formerly devoted to cash crops.

All of which means just this: Roosevelt asks for a balanced budg-Nothing is of more enduring importance than a correct farm program, and if the thirty-odd million farm folks let some other group put the whole burden of economy on rural America then they deserve to be stung!

There are tens of thousands of useless items in a general government spending budget-and a thorough pruning would save a great many million dollars for constructive agricultural program purposes.

Before passing on to some other topic, there is considerable of a row down here over the proposal of the financiers of the administration who fear speculation-a land boom -and the inevitable collapse-unless the emergency 31/2 per cent interest on land bank loans be increased. Principal proponent of increased interest is Governor Myers. farm credit administration chief. Principal opponents of his views are Senator Wheeler of Montana and Senator Borah of Idaho. These two statesmen think that Governor Myers is entirely wrong-and there the matter rests. So far no move has been made to increase the interest rate, but it may be done after all.

Unfortunately there is one of the ugliest sectional fights in congress since Civil war days. It is the division over the Gavagan anti-lynching bill which passed the house 277 to 119-the minority being southerners who resent the idea of the federal government policing the South. The author of the bill. Congressman Gavagan, represents a New York city district with a numerous colored population, which gives the bill a political complexion. As the bill now stands it seems to me to be completely unconstitutional and almost impossible of administration, regardless of any merit in its principles. The bill places the responsibility of lynching on the state or county where the crime occurs: places severe responsibility on sheriffs and other peace officers who must guard the life or person whom the mob is seeking-and if he fails -then the sheriff is likel; to be tried in a federal court. The county where the lynching takes place is liable for damages to the lynched man's heirs up to a limit of $10,-000. This latter provision seems to be grossly unfair when you realize that a mob could grab a man in Jones county and rush him over to Henry county in the middle of the night, and execute mob injustice on the man there. Under the law as it passed the house, both counties are liable-but there is grave doubt that any such provision would be upheld in any higher court. Nor does federal experience with the Volstead act indicate great success for the Gavagan bill if enacted.

Be that as it may, the ugly 'hing divided the Democrats because of racial prejudices. Southern members are extremely bitter. have assailed city members of congress who supported the bill, bringing home to the public that the lawlessness, the gang murders, the abductions, vice-racketeering and general immorality in large cities is something the local politician winks at-or maybe takes part in. The general attitude toward the city congress:nan is: "Wipe your own slate clean before you start on the rural lynching bill I believe the President to them a sort of spiritual gymbe deemed to be doing what its strength and a constituents want. Inasmuch as the well-being floods the soul. bill is a deadly one for the Demosimilar measure several years ago. the congress adjourned before a vote could be taken on it. But the bill is a slap at the South, whose leaders point out that lynching is on the wane in that section-while street crime and worse is at its peak in the northern and other industrial centers-and the South has neen the backbone of the Democratic party for more than 50 years. A sustained and successful filibuster against this measure in the senate would be a political fact of major importance.

No less a homely institution than the farmer's woodlot received gracious attention in congress and elsewhere in Washington within the past few weeks, and it now appears that there has been so much conservation applied to American forests that the time has come to pay as much attention to cutting up trees in the sawmills and factories as It has been to keep from cutting them down in the forests. Wood as a farm crop attracts attention here. There have been speeches in congress, and a large convention of lumber, forest and conservation people. For years there was a large "No" sign on the forests; but it today's indications are wee we have reached the point where the forests will dwindle and die unless we use more lumber. The reason is that modern forestry and all that goes with it teaches that one tree should be planted where one is felled, so if we keep on saving trees they die and none take their place.

All of this may be rather dry data to some people, but certainly not to farmers who own 160,000,000 acres of woodlands on which grows a large part of the forest harvest that feeds the mouths of the 20,000,000 sawmills that supply our people with lumber and certain other wood products. Incidentally, the cash that vent into farmers' jeans from those 160,000,000 acres of woodland yielded around $200,000 000 a yearwhich was of great help in getting through the depression.

Lesson for May 9 ABRAHAM A MAN OF PRAYER

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 18:17-32. GOLDEN TEXT—The effectual vent prayer of a righteous man availeth much. James 5:16. PRIMARY TOPIC-Abraham Praying

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP IC—Praying for Others.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-IC-The Ministry of Intercessi

Prayer-how many are the books

that have been written on that subject and the sermons preached, and yet how little it is actually practiced. One can attract an audience to hear it discussed, but only a handful will come to pray. We as Christians agree that it is God's appointed way of blessing. We put up mottoes such as "Prayer changes things," or "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of," and then (may God forgive us!) we try to change things ourselves. We struggle with problems when we ought to pray.

The lesson of today, from the life of that great hero of faith, Abraham, stresses the importance of intercessory prayer, that is, the giving of ourselves to pray for the temporal and spiritual welfare of others. In an age characterized by a grasping spirit of acquisition for personal advantage it is like a breath from heaven to read of this man's prayer for others.

It is suggested that the passage be made the basis for a topical study, drawing from the various portions of the text the illustration of each truth

1. The Nature of Intercessory Prayer.

1. It is a Privilege. Abraham had been honored by a visit from. God. The covenant had been renewed, a son had been promised The three visitors looked out toward Sodom. God who had thus appeared to Abraham in visible form and had shared the hospitality of his home now extends to him the privilege of sharing in God's purpose. How glorious to be on such terms of confidence with God, to know him and to know his will and purpose!

2. It is a Responsibility. "Abraham stood yet before the Lord"why? To pray for Sodom and Gomorrah. Privilege and responsibility go together. Those who have audience with the King of kings are there to carry the blessed burden of prayer for others. Are we praying for our children, our families, our church, our nation? If not, who will pray?

3. It is Objective, not Subjective. Some modern "religious" leaders would devitalize prayer by making it a sort of spiritual exercise which has only the value of developing If the senate passes the anti- our own soul. The prayer room is will sign it, because congress would nasium where the soul develops its Undoubtedly the very fellowship cratic party politically. I have an with God which is inherent in prayer idea it will be smothered or talked is spiritually beneficial, but prayer to sleep in the senate. The late actually deals with such things as Huey Long filibustered against a cities, men, sin, sorrow. It concerns men's physical well-being, their meterial prosperity, as well as their spiritual welfare. It is the means designated by God for the release of his power on behalf of the object for which we pray.

II. Characteristics of Intercessory

1. Unselfish. Abraham already had his promise and his blessing. The cities of the plain were wicked, yet he prayed for them. Those who know the spirit of God are not selfish in prayer.

2. Courageous. Note the reverent boldness with which Abraham pleaded the cause of the condemned cities. The Bible reveals that God honored men who had a holy courage. History tells the same story. We celebrate this year the centenary of one who prayed boldly-and believed, and labored-Dwight L.

3. Persistent. No one likes a "quitter." Christ spoke of a man who was heard for his importunity (Luke 11:8). See also Luke 18:1-8. Some one has said that when we pray we are all too often like the mischievous boy who rings the doorbell and runs away without waiting for an answer.

III. Results of Intercessory Prayer.

The cities were destroyed, but the righteous were saved. God hears and answers prayer. This is the testimony of His Word, of countless Christian men and women of all ages, yes, of the men and women of our day. We know by experience that it is true-"I cried; he answered." He says to you and to me, "Call unto Me and I will answer thee and show thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not" (Jer. 33:3).

Test for Spine Injuries

DR. JAMES W. BARTON @ Bell Syndicate .- WNU Service.

WHEN there is the possiinjured in an accident of any kind, it is not considered wise to have the patient move in any way until an X-ray examination can be made. A break or dislocation along the spinal column anywhere from the neck down to the hip bones may cause paralysis or death if movement occurs; the most careful handling of the patient is therefore absolutely necessary to prevent any movement.

There are times however when it is necessary and saves considerable-there is actually any injury to the spine. For several years: Drs. R. DeSoto and K. O. Haldeman, San Francisco, haveemployed a method that is extremely helpful in locating spinal injuries. They describe it in "Surgery, Gynecology and Obstetrics," Simple and Easy Method. "The patient is placed flat on his back without pillows and the examiner places one hand on the breast bone of the patient with a slight pressure so that no bending can take place at the upper or lower back. At the same time the examiner's other hand is placed under the back of the patient's head and the head very gently bent slightly forward so that the head (chin) is on the breast bone. This bending of the head forward pulls on the ligaments attached to the bones of the spine (the little knobs felt when you run your hand down the spine) until it reaches the bone causes pain which the patient can locate very easily.' The usefulness of this sign rests that is injured. This immediately on the following facts: 1. It gives the exact location of recent fractures (broken bones) without moving or disturbing the patient.

2. It guides the X-ray operator to the right level to obtain his picture. 3. It shows whether the injury is in the spine (bony part of the back) or just in the soft muscle tissues of the back.

4. When it may be a "court case" (medico-legal) the patient is not aware of what the test is for and the true facts will be brought out. 5. If the patient doesn't complain of pain anywhere down the spine it is not likely that a spine injury has recently occurred.

Are the Glands to Blame?

You can really hardly be blamed when you find yourself eating less food in the 24 hours-not simply at meal time-than others, and yet are much overweight, if you begin to wonder if your overweight is really due to overeating. Why should it not be due to some gland disturbance in the body-the thyroid gland in the neck or perhaps the pituitary gland situated on the floor of the skull?

Now there is one way you can find out whether either or both of these glands may not be manufacturing enough juice and your doctor can arrange to have the tests made.

If the thyroid gland is suspected, and in this case the excess fat is distributed over the entire body, a metabolism test is made. Before breakfast some morning you lie down quietly in the doctor's officeor at the hospital and the rate at which your body processes are working is discovered by a machine which measures the amount of oxygen your tissues are using and the amount of waste that is being thrown off when you are doing no work, and no food is being digested.

If your processes are not working as fast as normal, are more than 20 per cent below normalregistering 80 instead of 100-then your thyroid gland is not active enough, and your doctor will prescribe thyroid extract to make the processes work faster and use or burn up the fat.

If it is the pituitary gland that is at fault the excess weight will be on shoulders, breasts, hips and abdomen, with forearm and lower leg free of excess fat, and the Xray of the skull will show changes in the little hollow in the bone in which the pituitary gland rests, a growth, or other changed conditions about the gland. In this case pituitary extract will be prescribed by your physician.

However whether your overweight is due to too much food or to a deficiency of a gland or glands, what is called a basic diet is now prescribed by physicians doing spe-cial work in obesity or overweight. More exercise and less sleep is of course part of the treatment. Exercise consumes some of the accumulated energy, stimulates bowel movement, and causes deep breath

Where it wasn't knotty pine it was walled face to face so that we could bound in calf.

From outside came faint distant noises in the corridor; footsteps thudding, scuffing, springing past; the incessant clang of elevator doors. Inside, "Tick-tock! Ticktock!" the wall clock marked time for the quick procession of the minutes.

And the minutes were marching along. Where was Mr. Stewart? Was it part of legal procedure to keep clients in suspense? The secretary in the outer office had shown her into this room, had said that she was expected, that the junior partner was in conference but would be at liberty in a few moments. Restlessly she crossed to the window. She slipped behind one of the hangings to shut off the electric light in the room behind her. What a view! Roofs. Tiers of roofs alive with pigeons. Patches of bright blue broke up the pattern of gray clouds. Weather vanes pointed to the north. Innumerable wires etched gigantic cobwebs against the sky. Skylights shone like sheets of molten brass as they reflected the sun. Her eyes lingered on the roofs. Beneath them business units were pitched together. Honesty and fraud; virtue and vice; ups and owns; efficiency and stupidity; ambition and lethargy; each unit moving in its own orbit and each thinking itself of supreme importance in the complicated pattern of the business world. She had been buffeting her way in it for five years.

"Miss Reyburn ought to be here, Mark, but I suppose like the majority of women she has no idea of the value of a man's time."

The annoyed comment in the room behind her snapped Brooke out of her reflections. How like a man to assume that she was at entrance, and then-

"Glad she is late. I told you, Jed, that I didn't want to meet her. It was a beau geste for her to offer me half of the money, all of which should be mine by inheritance. I'll comes. "It wasn't. Grandfather Trent had two houses' built exactly alike, one After a furtive look about, she for his daughter, Mary Amanda, and one for his son, my father; the Other House, the family called ours. Not satisfied with that, he had them tory-he intended them for summer homes only-with doors through the library downstairs and the hall on the second floor and connecting balconies; he was a glutton for balconies. Aunt Mary Amanda recently has lived there the year round. I inherited Father's house, but I haven't lived there since-well, for three years. It has been closed. I haven't rented it because I thought it might be unpleasant for my aunt to have strangers near when she serves for both places. Now, see what she does to me. She picks up this girl and later, while I'm starting a branch office in South Amerestate and all her money. Well,

I understand that she had supper and spent a night with her once a week, the night the companion-nurse had off. She must have had a strong motive to commute 20 miles after business hours. She's a fashion adviser in one of the big shops, isn't she?"

"Yep. Worked up from a model. Mary Amanda Dane tuned in on the radio one morning just as Brooke Revburn was giving her fashion talk. She fell in love with her voice, and wrote to the girl asking what the well-dressed invalid tied to a wheel chair was wearing. Miss Reyburn answered with such sympathetic understanding that your aunt invited her to Lookout House.'

She had never seen a face so colorless as Mark Trent's as his eyes met hers steadily.

"Lucky I didn't know who you were, wasn't it? I might have been tempted. Schemers somehow lead charmed lives."

For a split second Brooke thought that fury had paralyzed her tongue. She made two attempts to speak before she protested angrily:

"I'm not a schemer! I suppose it never has occurred to you that the 'Reyburn girl' may have loved Mary Amanda Dane? May have been glad to spend one evening a week in a homey old house away from her whole 'darn family' in a crowded city apartment?"

Tsao Tsao, Chinese War

Chinese history records a war lord of some time ago who had no less than seventy-two graves and tombs. It has never been determined just which one of these many graves contains the body of the deceased person.

This chieftain known as Tsao Tsao was in his day one of the most powerful of all the provincial war lords. and also a government official of note during the Three Empire days. It was this same Tsao Tsao who had paved the way for his son to dethrone the Han emperor and to establish a new dynasty known as the Wei dynasty with the son at the helm.

When Tsao Tsao died he was afraid that his son might fail to carry out his plans and that the body might be given the supreme penalty of dismeniberment. Consequently he ordered that seventy-two graves be dug and that seventy-two tombs be placed over them at the relatives were to know just where the body would be buried. Many Chinese even to this day have heard legends concerning Tsao Tsao, and to you, you might-well, that Miss they have wondered often if there

Gas. Gas All the Time, Can't Eat or Sleep

"The gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart seemed to hurt. A friend suggested Adlerika. The first dose I took brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never felt better."—Mrs. Jas. Filler.

Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adlerika gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adlerika greatly reduces bocterie and colon bacilli."

Give your bowels a REAL cleansing with Adlerika and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and constipation. At all Leading Druggists.

TCHSTRINGS

You're always welcome to the service rendered at Humble service stations. But when we say, "the latch-string's out," we mean a little more than that; we mean, the door is always open to any criticisms, suggestons and comments you have to make. Indeed, we supply each Humble service station with cards upon which you may tell us what you have to say. You're invited to use these cards; each of them is carefully read and noted; they help us to furnish you with the service you want, the service you'll find always second to none.

NEVER BEFORE SUCH A CAR AT SUCH A PRICE

• The new Thrifty "60" shown here has exactly the same roomy body on the same 112" chassis, as the brilliant Ford V-8 "85". It has the same, easy-acting, powerful new brakes, the same easy steering and the same big, outside luggage compartment.

But it is powered by a smaller, more economical 60 h.p. V-8 engine which, owners report, is giving them be-tween 22 and 27 miles per gallon of gasoline. It's a good performer, too . . . Drive one and see!

THEN, LOOK AT THE PRICE . . . And realize that your present car will probably more than cover the whole down payment, leaving you less to pay on the easily-retired balance. See Your Ford Dealer Today.
