k-k

This seems to be a joner year for cotton planting, anyway. We didn't realize it at first. We knew that we and Lee Haymes, as well as others, experienced some trouble getting a stand of peas but since the rain, we've heard of farmers who had planted as much as three times-and still no good stand.

k-k

Whether it's peas, potatoes, cotton or cantaloupes, a good stand is essential to good production. So is moisture. We reckom these sudden changes from cold to hot, and from hot to cold, have had some influence on whether or not we get a stand.

k-k

We didn't realize it fully until we read Joe Brown's story in Sunday's Wichita Falls Times, but there are about 20,000 acres of land on the Knox Prairie surrounding Munday that are under irrigation. That in itself comprises quite a project.

Idol explained that local soil and water conservation districts sponsor the observance of Soil Stewardship Week in coordination with the National Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts.

All ministers in the District have been asked to deliver stewardship sermons during Stewardship Week.

The National Association has sponsored this observance since 1954. The idea was started 19 years ago when the publishers of FARM AND RANCH Magazine inspired religious leaders in several southern states to set aside one Sunday each year to remind To a certain young housewife, their congregations of their readage that "position is every Soil. Dylox does!

Dylox is the selective insecticide. It selects its victims, the lygus bugs and fleahoppers that raise havoc when cotton begins to fruit and square. Unlike non-selective insecticides, Dylox does not appreciably reduce beneficial insect populations. Predators and parasites such as lady beetles, lacewings, egg parasites and big-eyed bugs continue to carry on their beneficial work in your fields. Therefore, cotton grows and fruits with the additional protection of beneficial insects, resulting in less frequent sprayings. Can you identify the insect silhouettes? Dylox knows Chemager CORPORATION the difference 🗰 🐲 See your dealer for a supply. BIG-EYED BUG FLEAHOPPER

benefits you in TWO ways

First of all, it becomes a "friend in need" when a quick call is necessary ... puts a telephone where you are and makes it available 24 hours a day. It is profitable to communities, too, providing new income when we are permitted to locate them on public property. There is an added advantage in some states where it can lower fire insurance rates because of the availablity of prompt alarms. So the next time you see a coin telephone, consider it an example of convenience in Communications - Your Tool for Progress. You are invited to call our Business Office for information about incomeproducing booth locations.
