"What a Man Does For Himself Dies With Him—
What He Does For His Community Lives On and On"—

THE YEAR AHEAD
This week marked the beginning of a new year—Sunday the year 1939 dawned. With it new hopes rise—hope that 1939 will be a happier year for all the world and its people.

Looking back at the year that has just made its exit into history, man sees much that he regrets. Looking ahead at the new horizon of hope, he wonders what lies beyond that horizon.

In reality there is only a void beyond. There is nothing there awaiting man's arrival. What will be created or transpire beyond that horizon will be achieved by man. Whatever is written in the new chapter of history will be written by him. In other words, 1939 will be just what man makes it.

There can be no better New Year's resolution than to cross this horizon with a determined spirit of good will toward fellow men. If too many people don't break that simple resolution, 1939 will indeed be a happier year for all the world and its people.

"THE MAN OF THE YEAR"

In accord with its annual custom, a national weekly newsmagazine has selected Adolf Hitler as its "man of the year 1938," not the greatest or most useful individual to the world but the most "newsworthy"—the person around whom has centered the happenings deemed of major importance.

This choice suggests that the year 1938 has been a period of untoward developments, of civilization backtracking momentarily rather than proceeding in its usual course forward. Another meaning of the selection is that people's minds have dwelt too much on pessimism to the exclusion of adequate hope to save the world. There is certainly nothing flattering to Hitler or to other international figures in the rating given him by the newsmagazine.

In a sense, all of the adulation or recognition accorded Hitler has been superficial analysis. Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, and Minister Goering have been more responsible for the Nazi advances of the year than the rabble-rousing Hitler. A contemporary Italian writer has keenly diagnosed Mussolini as a mediocre man who was elevated by the Fascist movement to dictatorship rather than a genius who wrought the radical Italian transformation, and the same argument would apply to Hitler.

According to more deliberate verdicts of what happened at Munich, the major decision there was made by Premier Chamberlain to stave off revolution in Germany and Italy, and subsequently, in the British Isles. Hitler, it was said, would not have dared to fight after a failure of his Sudeten demands. On such logic, Chamberlain should bear the undesirable rating of being "the man of 1938."—Ft. Worth Star-Telegram.

ing in plain sight, some present we received for Christmas. The lockets seem to dominate.

A few of the boys were barely able to come back to school, but we had several surprises in store for us. The most outstanding was the modeling of our new basketball uniforms before the study hall by Jack Pippin. They are all purple, gold, and white satin. Flashy? Boy, just wait! If you miss the first game, you'll be sorry!

Mr. Hardgree and Dr. Bass made us think a little by giving us some good sound advice. "Horse sense," Mr. Hardgree calls it. After two weeks away from school it is difficult to begin work, but we are doing our best. I heard of one student who, after staring at a classmate for a short time, tapped him on the shoulder and asked him what his name was. Yes, two weeks is a long time.

We have as an example of the kind of seniors who haunt M.H.S., a certain party who has really been around in her seventeen years. Lenore Longino.

Lenore Longino was born in Vermont, Indiana, on November 11, 1921, which means that she is very patriotic. She left Indiana to go to Oklahoma, first to Optima, then to Empire City, Tyrone, Sulphur, and Ringling. She began school in Ringling, but moved to Texhoma, Oklahoma. Lenore entered high school at Hamlin, Texas, and when she was a junior she moved to Munday.

Lenore likes music, and she was once an art student. Last year she tied Jimmie for highest scholastic honors of the junior class. This year she is president of the Home Economics Club, and she is also outstanding in League and church activities.

For pastime she knits, sews, helps with the house, or reads. She plans to attend McMurry for two years and then transfer to Asbury, Kentucky. Last year she was named among the seven students who made the "Who's Who" in M.H.S.

All the sophomores seem as if they are glad to get back to school, and I think most of them have resolved to try to make a little better grades the rest of this term.

for some good hard studying. One of our classmates, Jean Reeves, is going to move to Haskell. We are very sorry. We all had a very nice time at our class party at Mr. Tom Haney's home. Our room mothers, Mrs. Haney, Mrs. Gafford and Mrs. Barton gave us the party. Games were enjoyed until about nine o'clock, when Mr. Haney as Santa Claus, passed out the gifts from the tree. Everyone got nice gifts. We certainly do thank our room mothers for being so nice to us.

Junior Report

By observing the faces of the pupils Tuesday morning, I could see that they were ready to start back to work. Anyway, they should have been; that is, if old Santa left them what they wanted.

In one of our recent issues of Everyday Reading, a very interesting article appeared about deep sea diving. By a special apparatus which William Beebe and Otis Barton have invented, they can go down into the sea fourteen hundred feet.

This apparatus is shaped like a ball, and is equipped with a telephone, oxygen and electric lines. The door, which lets them into the diving outfit weighs alone 400 pounds. After going down farther than any man had ever gone, they reported that they saw strange things, such as fish with spots of lights in their bodies, just like fireflies. There were all colors of lights, flashing on and off. Some fish carried hundreds of lights. There were fish swimming along, standing on their tails.

After they had come down four-hundred feet, they told the men on board the ship to haul them up. They wondered if the next time they returned, would more fish just like them be waiting for them again. And we wonder, too. Maybe the next time will tell the answer.

Visitor—How many students are there at your college?
Student—Offhand, I'd say only about one in every 10.

Prof (handing out test papers)—Are there any comments?

Freshman—Guppy—Yes, sir. I certainly don't think I deserve zero today.

Prof—I don't either, Mr. Guppy, but it is the lowest mark I am permitted to give any member of this class.

Ethelbera (cooly)—If you had to marry before midnight, what would you do?
Wimpus (sourly)—Stop the clock!

Mrs. W. V. Tiner and daughter, Miss Margaret, went to Abilene last Monday, where Margaret entered Hardin-Simmons to resume her studies after spending the holidays here with home folks.

It seems as if the Christmas holidays had a great effect on the Seniors, for they came back to school Monday feeling gay and jolly. We wonder if it was because Santa treated them nicely.

Since the new year is here, the Seniors have resolved to behave better, obey the teachers, stop eating candy and chewing gum during classes, and most of all, bring our lessons perfectly to class.

Here are some of the Senior Smiles:
"Now," began the teacher pleasantly, "What year have we, Wilma?"

Wilma pondered and replied: "1938, in daytime and 1936 at night."

"How do you figure we are so far behind at night?" asked the teacher.
"It takes three years for starlight to reach us," said Wilma.

He (Angeline's dancing partner): "My shoes are just killing my feet."
Angeline: "They are killing mine, too."

Junior Class News
Are we really back in school already? We can hardly believe it. But that just goes to show what a week's vacation can do. Believe it or not, we are all glad to be back again, even though it will take time to make us realize we must begin to work harder than we did before the holidays.

By way of New Year's resolutions, the Juniors have made some very good ones—we think, but judge for yourself.

Dorothy resolved not to get angry any more, no matter how much teasing she has to go through.

Clara has resolved to like geometry if it takes the remainder of the school term to do it.

Jean has resolved to let Dot alone, and to use her compass for geometry, and not for the unique purpose she has just discovered.

Bernice has resolved to go to bed early every night and to look forward to examinations with eager anticipation. Pat—She has already broken the first one.

Margaret has resolved to go back to her former habit of keeping quiet in school, and to keep on being a wizard at geometry.

Sophomore Report
After a week of vacation, our minds ought to be ready for work. Santa Claus must have been very good to the Sophs, because everyone was very happy when he came to school Monday morning.

Perhaps Wayne got his negro doll. Genevieve was a little sad, because she did not get her diamond ring.

Several of the class made New Year's resolutions, but some said they would not make any, so that they would not have any to break.

Miss Sibyl Jones of Paducah spent several days here last week, visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. "Red" Leathers. Mrs. Leathers took her back to Paducah Sunday afternoon.

Fred Broach Sr. was a business visitor on Knox City on Monday of this week.

J. C. Patterson of Benjamin, county attorney, was a visitor here on Friday of last week.

Miss Mary Louise Holland and Miss Joyce Nell Hamilton of Haskell spent last week-end with Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Barnard of this city.

Mrs. Aaron Edgar of Memphis spent the week-end in Munday, visiting her husband.

Just as the cries of "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year" are dying down, there comes a full realization that the holidays are over once more, and school routine begins. Almost as eager to return to school Tuesday morning as students were to dismiss on Friday, December 23, school was again opened by a speech from Dr. Bass. Offering a few practical suggestions for New Year's resolutions, Dr. Bass greatly impressed some of the students. We are hoping that many students do not only make these but also will keep them throughout the following year. So often students make resolutions in a nonchalant mood and forget all about them. It's true that very few people keep New Year's resolutions, but then you may have the consolation that you had good intentions if you do make them. It requires only a small amount of will power to break bad habits and acquire new ones; and if each of us would put forth that amount of effort, we would not only be proud of ourselves for doing so, but we would profit by it in the end.

Having only three more weeks of the first term of school, one would naturally expect to see some real effort put forth among many students in the coming few weeks.

Freshman News
We hope everyone had as good a time over the Christmas holidays and during the New Year as we did.

Since school has started again, we must again continue our studies probably until school is out in June if we are not turned out on some occasion.

A few of us were glad to start back to school, but most of us were not so very glad to do so as we usually are sometimes but it always just depends on what mood we are in at the time.

In English we are getting to the religious side of our work. Friday, we are to memorize the First Psalm, and I am sure we will keep this up at irregular intervals. Next Monday we are to have for our third time a time to give book reports.

As we come to think about it, we have not been dating up; that is going in couples as the former Freshmen classes have, but we will start out during the next three years of schooling because you know the saying is true as Lincoln said: "A house divided against itself cannot stand."

Home Economics Club Report.
The girls in Home Economics III are glad that their projects are once more in and graded. A vivid array of children's clothes and playthings took their place of honor on Mrs. Dillon's desk—awaiting their fate or approval. Some were met with frowns, others with cheers and smiles.

Most of the girls used their Home Economics knowledge and made some very delicious candy during the holidays. A few of the more industrious ones helped with Christmas dinner.

Everyone (and Mrs. Dillon) had a lovely time during the holidays, but being tired of doing nothing we are glad to be back at work.

The Cottage received its share of presents and was the meeting place of a Christmas party which began the Yuletide.

Yes, we are back at school—just barely back! Some of us were ready to come back to school, but then others of us could use an indefinite vacation.
Every single one of us is sport-

Conditions presenting cause for celebration at the beginning of a new year have prevailed widely since the earliest of ancient nations. Although different days were observed for the commencement of the year, each nation marked them with elaborate ceremonies.

In Europe the holiday of the new year is the occasion of family parties, the giving of gifts, and calling on one's friends. In America, the occasion is more jovial and is usually observed with parties to "watch the old year out"—usually theatre or dancing parties.

How the Teachers Spent Christmas
Miss Diersing journeyed to her home in Littlefield. She reports that she had a wonderful time (only it was hard on her diet). After she returned to Benjamin, she must have been so depressed that she didn't care to live—at any rate she slipped and cut an ugly gash in her head. (Miss Diersing, we hope you will be more careful next time.)

Mrs. Ferguson spent a very delightful week with her parents at Kemp, Texas.

Supt. and Mrs. Cunningham returned to Mr. Cunningham's old stomping ground in Oklahoma. Mr. Cunningham reports that he was very glad he went because he got to see it rain once more.

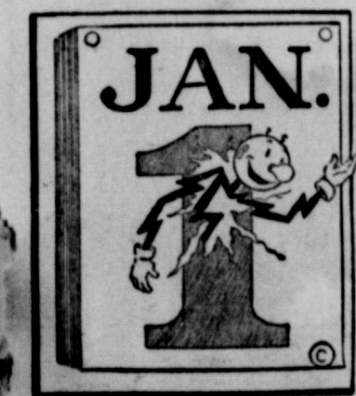

Miss Baird reports that she went to Electra and Henderson, and she also states that she now believes in Santa Claus. (She wouldn't tell us why—but we might guess.)

Miss Miller went to Abilene where she had a jovial Christmas with her family.

AGRICULTURAL WORKERS MEET

College Station, Jan. 4.—Agricultural and industrial handicaps, additional sources of farm income, agricultural education, and the contribution of women in soil conservation are some of the subjects that will be discussed by nationally known agricultural leaders at the twelfth annual meeting of the Texas Agricultural Workers Association in Fort Worth, January 13-14, according to Maurine Hearn, district agent of the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service and secretary of the organization.

The two morning sessions will be given over to general discussions while Friday afternoon will be devoted to more technical phases of work.

A feature will be the presentation of the annual distinguished service award to the Texan who has rendered the most notable service to the agricultural development of the state. This program will be broadcast over KTAT at 8:15, p. m., January 13, and a presentation of the history, objectives, and work of the association will go on the air over WBAP January 14 at 9 a. m.

Speakers include Dr. Helen M. Strong, head, educational relations, Soil Conservation Service, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Walter Prescott Webb, Professor of History, Texas University; Lewis W. Morley, executive secretary, American Jersey Cattle Club, New York; Reagan McCrary, president Texas Cooperative Council; D. M. Clements, federal agent, Agricultural Education, Washington, D. C.; Jack Turner, secretary Texas Hereford Association; and F. M. Simpson, head, bureau of agricultural research, Swift and Company, Chicago.

Officers of the association are Louis P. Merrill, regional conservator Soil Conservation Service, president; Eugene Butler, editor Progressive Farmer, vice-president; Maurine Hearn, secretary; and W. O. Cox, director, agricultural department of the Houston Chamber of Commerce, treasurer.

Mrs. Curtis Conates visited in the home of Mrs. Truman White in Paducah last Sunday.

Miss Pauline McCarty returned to Texas Tech at Lubbock this week, after spending the holidays here with home folks. Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McCarty took her to Lubbock on Tuesday.

RING OUT WILD BELLS

Following is a selection of Tenyson's famous elegy, "In Memoriam" in which the great poet proposes with the old year to ring out all that is wrong—and with the new year to ring in all that is good.

Ring out wild bells to the wild sky,
The flying cloud, the frosty light,
The year is dying in the night,
Ring out, wild bells, and let him die.

Ring out the grief that saps the mind,
For those that here we see no more;
Ring out the feud of rich and poor;
Ring in redress to all mankind.

Ring out a slowly dying cause,
And ancient forms of party strife;
Ring in the nobler modes of life,
With sweeter manners, purer laws.

Ring out the want, the care, the sin,
The faithless coldness of the times;
Ring out, ring out my mournful rimes,
But ring the fuller minstrel in.

Ring out false pride in place and blood,
The civic slander and the spite;
Ring in the love of truth and right,
Ring in the common love of good.

Ring out old shapes of foul disease;
Ring out the narrowing lust of gold;
Ring out the thousand wars of old,
Ring in the thousand years of peace.

Ring in the valiant man and free,
The larger heart, the kindlier hand;
Ring out the darkness of the land,
Ring in the Christ that is to be.

Grade School News
The first grade pupils are glad to be back in school after a very happy Christmas. Most of them visited with their grandparents or took a nice trip to an interesting place. Samuel Tankersley had a long vacation in Alabama. The first grade is anxious to know more about their neighbors and have decided the Eskimos are a delightful people. They are anxious to add to their collection of reading material and pictures and are making plans to construct a miniature igloo, dogs, sled, etc.

The second grade are taking an imaginary trip around the world. They went to California by airplane and are now on a ship on their way to Hawaii. They are having a good time and are seeing many new sights.

The third grade lost one pupil during the holidays. Olen Ray moved to Benjamin.

All of the pupils in the seventh grade must have been good this year from the looks of things. Edna Faye is wearing a new watch. Glendalyn has a new fountain pen, and best of all Santa Claus brought them a new pupil, James Ford Moore. Each one came back to school with a happy face. They are sorry that Santa Claus took their pupil, Mary Lillian Montgomery, away with him. She left without telling the class goodbye.

Their resolution for this year is to study harder.

News Among the High School Classes

All of the freshmen had a very merry Christmas and wished that Christmas would continue the next two weeks. Could it be the exams they are dreading?

They are really going to make this next week count in studying. In general science they are studying another part of the solar system, the moon. They found out some very queer things about it.

The girls in Foods II are studying desserts and are going to have two laboratory lessons on dessert this week.

The Sophs came to school Thursday, Dec. 22 with long faces and frowns, because it was raining and they were afraid they could not have their class party. But after the talk that Mr. Kimbrough gave them, they feel better about the event. By noon it had stopped raining and every Sophomore was present Thursday night. Their party was in the Home Ec room and they were very glad to have Miss Spraggins attend.

We Wonder Why—
Ruby blushes every time Thursday night is mentioned.
Clady can't wink.
Doris didn't want to pretend at the class party.
Leola dreamed instead of paying attention to the games.
Miss Spraggins would not forfeit her rime.

Every time Loma Rae winked all the boys tried to sit in her chair. George can drive with one hand.

Favorite Songs of Some of the Sunset High Students
Sunset is becoming quite musical now. I was riding the bus to school and I heard La Verne Bumpas singing "It Makes No Difference Now" and then up at the front of the bus Clela Jones was singing "You Must Have Been A Beautiful Baby," this was quite a discord, having two such different songs sung on the same bus. When I walked into the study hall, I heard Payne Shannon singing "Flat Foot Floogie." Then I walked up to the front of the study hall and there sat Juanita Hunter talking about her favorite song, which was "I Can Dream, Can't I?" Then going to class I heard of all people, Cecil Joe Burton, singing "Ferdinand the Bull," and after being in there a while Howard Myers burst out singing "How to Make Love in Ten Easy Lessons," and we had a very hard time getting him to stop. Then going back to the study hall there was Virginia Parkhill singing "Meet the Beat of My Heart," just like anyone wasn't listening. Then we walked into the Home Ec department and there stood Miss Spraggins singing "I'm Heading for the Last Roundup." Then at noon Roddy Griffith and E. G. Parkhill were walking to the gym and Roddy was singing "Sixty Minutes Got Together," and E. G. was singing "Simple and Sweet," which was some combination.

I know that everyone does not know the "W. Lee O'Daniel of Sunset," but it's J. E. Hunter, and he is continually singing "Beautiful Texas," Thelma and Anne sing their favorites every once in a while which are "Heart and Soul," and

"Two Sleepy People," then Pauline McAfee's favorite song is "Foot Loose and Fancy Free." Then next to last is Margaret Jean Hardin and her favorite song is "Tell Me." Then last of all comes the smallest one in school, Mildred J. Smith with her favorite song, "I'm Just an In-Between."

The Thinking Reed

By Rebecca West
The scene of this story, The Thinking Reed, is the Riviera and other fashionable resorts where sophisticated society from every country seeks pleasure with gay abandon and frequently loses any real chance for happiness by grasping so recklessly for new excitement and sensation. And it is into this crowd of people that Isabella was thrown. She was twenty-six, she was charming, and she was a widow. Sought after by three men, she created a scene with one in order to marry another, who, as it happened, witnessed the scene and as a result, didn't ask her to marry him. Events swung around in such a way that she had no alternative but to marry the third man who she liked and admired but didn't love. She found, however, the day before her wedding that she really loved him and together they built their lives and watched events over which they had no control, buffet them about.

ALLREDS RENT NEW HOME IN HOUSTON
Governor James V. Allred last week announced that he and Mrs. Allred have rented a home in Houston where they will live after January 17 when the Governor becomes Federal Judge for the Southern District of Texas.

The home is a two-story colonial style structure formerly occupied by J. T. Monroe. It is being repainted and repaired, Governor Allred said.

The house is located at 409 Emerson street.

Allred said that he would take the oath of office as Judge as quickly as the U.S. Senate confirms him.

His furniture and personal possessions will be moved to Houston before he leaves the governor's office on January 17.

Carrot In Throat Kills Farmer's Tiny Child; Former Knox Residents

Bichsels Moved From Rhineland About 10 Years Ago

Death virtually sat down to dinner yesterday with the Bichsels. Even flight at 85 miles an hour failed to save the youngest of the family.

hospital ended. Physicians and nurses used all the skill of their professions to revive the child, but Georgina Ann never regained consciousness and died within five minutes after the speeding Samaritan brought his car to a screeching stop just outside the hospital.

Wheat Farmer A. P. Bichsel, the heart-broken father, is a substantial wheat farmer. He has lived on the same place in the St. Francis community for ten years. The Bichsels are devout Catholics.

The surviving children are, Georgina, 7 years old; Frances, 9 years old; Clayborne, 11 years old; Maynard, 13 years old.—Amarillo Daily News, Dec. 29, 1938.

Razing Given Lions Club For Secret Work

"Old Roughneck" Has Criticism of Store Prize Decision

The following letter, which is self-explanatory, was received last week by W. R. Moore, president of the Munday Lions Club:

Mister President and Lions Club. Did you know that committee that was appointed in secret to judge the store windows, they got down there on the corner and them revolving Xmas trees got them so dizzy they lost their sense of direction and did not get in the east part of town at all.

If you could get one of the big Lions to get that committee by the tail and give it a twist in the right direction (which is east) just let them see the beauty they did not see on account of them mechanical revolving trees that got them all upset.

If they had a Lionsess on that committee, boy, she would scrap them for losing their sense of direction.

Now this is not one man's opinion, but many. If you big old Lions have not lost your sense of humor and appreciation of the beautiful you will go down there, but you will be paid for your trouble, for if an old roughneck like me knows beauty when I see it, you Lions will recognize it too.

Did you know the United States had one man that could tell the truth and sign in bold letters his full name to his documents unafraid? The whole world loved him and mourned when he was killed by plane in foreign country. He was just a plain man like you and me, only I don't have the brains and nerve to sign this document, just like your "committee". I guess we will go along, doing things in secret that we are ashamed to come out in the open with.

Your Roughneck Friend, P.S.—Pass along to Lions bros. in secret, it's good for thought, for they know darn well where the winner is located. But the club can't help it when a committee of Lions get dizzy on revolving trees.

Editor's Note: Although no individual or organization especially desires criticism, word comes from the Lions Club that they appreciate the fact that this activity has created this much interest, and it is their plan to sponsor a similar activity again next Christmas.

Volume 34 TRI-C Week-e Falls Generally Over West Texa Rain Gauge Says 1.2 Inches In Munday And Vicinity

Meeting with unanimous approval by all Knox county citizens, the rain during last Saturday and Sunday, which has been termed "life saver for West Texas," has been a much talked of subject during all of this week.

Optimism has taken the place of a pessimistic viewpoint, and Knox county citizens are a finer looking group of people with their faces big smile smeared over their faces.

The rain started shortly after noon Saturday, with several afternoon showers creating the hope that beneficial moisture would be received before Mr. Weather "called off his operations." It continued to rain through Saturday night, and a wet earth greets early risers Sunday morning—wreath the rain still falling.

When clouds began breaking away Sunday afternoon and seemed that all was over for the time being, Weatherman H. P. H. stepped out and looked at his rain gauge. It registered 1.25 inches!

Both the wheat and corn crops in the rain couldn't have fallen nicer if ordered according to specifications. Falling steadily and slowly, all of the moisture soaked in until it seemed the ground could not accommodate any more. Local citizens have said that this rain was just as beneficial as the old navy 5-inch rain.

Wheat farmers and stockmen who have been deprived of winter grazing the far because of the drought are very optimistic. Prospects, they say, are that the more advanced wheat crops may be grazed within ten days or two week after the rain. Some wheat has not yet sprouted, and this type of wheat farmer is just as happy a those who have looked over their wheat fields and wondered just how much longer they'd last without moisture.

Soil is now in excellent condition for other farming operations, and Knox farmers are going to be happily busy in preparing their land for 1939 crops.

Business men, too, are more optimistic since the rain, and prospects for present and future business are much brighter than when 1939 first appeared on the scene.

It was just a spring rain coming in January—one that found the "welcome" message prominently displayed on everybody's doorstep!

Haymes Attends Funeral Early Taylor Settles

Lee Haymes Munday postmaster went to Tye last Friday where he attended the funeral of J. J. Hinds early settler of Taylor county. Mr. Haymes was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. R. Haymes of Stamford, and by Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Hopkins, also of Stamford.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. G. L. Gilpin, Methodist pastor of Tye, who was assisted by Rev. J. B. Bair of Dress.

Mr. Hinds was 83 years of age and had been ill only a week. He was born in Alabama on May 10 1856. He was married to Carrie Salsbury in 1878, and the couple moved to Texas in 1880, settling in Ennis county. A few years later they moved to Taylor county where they had resided for 41 years. He was an active member of the Methodist church.

Survivors are his wife and eleven children, W. C. Hinds of Midland; S. B. T. J. and A. M. Hinds of Tye; Mrs. A. C. Bell of Bruni, Texas; Mrs. W. H. Briggs of Petersburg, Texas; Mrs. J. O. Haymes of Big Spring; Mrs. J. W. Teaff of Merkel; Mrs. Lee Smith of Fort Worth; Mrs. C. F. Smith and Mrs. Theo Kincaid, both of Tye. One brother, A. M. Hinds, of Bluntville, Ala., also survives.

Go To Memphis, Tenn. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bailey King left last week for Memphis, Tennessee, where Mr. King is taking a course in diesel engineering. Mrs. King will be in Memphis for about two weeks before Munday.

Chas. M. Conner, Jr., and former county judge of Bell county, was a business here last Monday.

Bronchial Coughs Need Creomulsion

Just a common cough, a chest cold, or a bronchial irritation today may lead to serious trouble tomorrow. They may be relieved now with Creomulsion, an emulsified Creosote that is pleasant to take.

Creomulsion is a medicinal combination designed to aid nature in soothing and healing irritated mucous membranes by allowing irritation and inflammation and by aiding in loosening and expelling germ-laden phlegm.

The Medical Profession has for generations recognized the beneficial effect of Beechwood Creosote in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations. A special process was worked out by a chemist, for blending Creosote with other ingredients so that now in Creomulsion you get a good dose of genuine Beechwood Creosote which is palatable and may be taken frequently by both adults and children.

Creomulsion is one preparation that goes to the very seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm. When coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles—due to common colds—hang on, get a bottle of Creomulsion from your druggist, use it as directed and if you are not satisfied with the relief obtained, the druggist is authorized to refund your money. Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)
