Scientists Investigate One-Winged Duck Killed Last Fall

The atomic age is producing wonders but it has not yet yielded a one-winged duck that can fly, according to reports of Washington scientists to the Game and Fish Commission.

Reports from the Texas Gulf Coast last fall indicated possibility that a tiny green-winged teal had violated the basic law of aerodynamics and had migrated with a flock of ducks from the far north.

But United States Fish and Wildlife technicians made an extended study of the teal and finally decided that the bird had lost its wing after birth, in contrast to the original theory, and that it had been shot while on the water rather than in the air.

The mysterious case originated from a hunting trip near Rockport by L. V. McLester. He fired into a flock of green wings. Sometime later he retrieved a dead duck from the area. It was a green-winged teal with only one wing and McLester, although familiar with the basic fundamentals of aerial flight, believed he had shot the duck from the flock in the air. Presumably, it had been killed by someone else earlier.

The Corpus Christi Caller Times carried an illustrated article on the event. This was quoted in "Texas Tracks" columns of the "Texas Game and Fish Commission" magazine. Fish and Wildlife Service officials saw the magazine and were able to obtain the teal's carcass which McLester had thoughtfully preserved.

The Washington scientists determined that the duck originally had two wings but that one wing had been lost earlier in its life. The wound incidental to the tragedy had been deep but had healed so completely that surface indications were that the teal had never had but one wing. Photos of the fascinating wildlife case are in the April issue of Game and Fish magazine.

Lower Pease River Soil Conservation District, Lower Pease River District Board: W. C. Howard, Grady Halbert, O. T. Holmes, O. H. Brandon, H. L. Ayers.

This week grass seeding got underway in the Lower Pease River Soil Conservation District. Jack Wilson planted eleven acres of blue panic with the district-owned grass drill. Jack will irrigate the grass with a sprinkler system.

Blue panic planted on the S. V. Bailey farms north of Goodlett is up to a good stand. Bailey has 15 acres that will be irrigated down the row.

Joe Lindsey is planting a mixture of weeping, sand love, and blue panic, on 130 acres of sandy land near the Heoleyan Church. The grass is being planted in forty inch rows.

Earl Embry planted twelve acres of blue panic just before the rain with the district's two-row grass seeder. He should have a good stand by now. Earl has a two-year-old field of blue panic that gave considerable grazing last year.

Marvin Wells is planting annually in a field of weeping love grass. Marvin says he likes weeping love grass because it gives a lot of good winter grazing.

Leroy Perkins is planting a mixture of sand and weeping love grass on 15 acres on the Dan Wilson farm located about 15 miles northeast of Quanah.

Spencer Morrow is planting 21 acres of blue panic in rows on his farm immediately north of Quanah. This grass will be on terraced land that is contour farmed.

All the above mentioned farmers are cooperators of the Lower Pease River Soil Conservation District.

Sixty-Six Accidents Occur in Wichita Falls Area in March

Captain K. B. Hallmark Jr. this week announced that sixty-six accidents were investigated by his patrolmen in the month of March. These accidents killed five people and sent twenty-six to hospitals as a result of injuries suffered in seventeen injury accidents. These sixty-six accidents cost the people of this North Texas District $40,645.00 in property damage, and this figure does not include hundreds of dollars spent on doctor and hospital bills and loss of time caused by accident injuries, nor is there any price that can be placed on the life of a loved one.

This district had five fatal accidents in March by the Highway Patrol and five intoxicated pedestrians were arrested. Hallmark also reminds everyone that if cars and trailers or trucks have not been registered for 1954, that his Patrolmen are arresting violators for that offense now.

Two men were arrested by the Highway Patrol for forgery in Wichita County. These subjects started their worthless check spree in Wichita County several months ago by purchasing a new car with a forged check and had traveled through several states, returning to Wichita County after forging several thousand dollars worth of checks. They were stopped by the Highway Patrol for driving with "expired license plates" and the ensuing investigation revealed they were wanted in Wichita, Archer, Montague and Clay counties, not to mention several other states.

Captain Hallmark warns, "That now spring is here and more people will be on the highways you must be doubly careful in your driving habits if you are going to live to enjoy the summer."

Traffic Accidents Called "Child Killer Number One"

"Child killer No. 1!" In these words, Col. E. B. Tilley of Houston, president of the Texas Safety Association, and Services Advisor for the Gulf Oil Corporation this week labeled traffic accidents the greatest single cause of death among children 1 to 14 years old—a cause that claims hundreds more victims annually than cancer, its closest competitor for this gruesome title.

Speaking on behalf of the current Child Pedestrian and Bicycle Safety program which the Texas Safety Association is sponsoring in cooperation with the Department of Public Safety and the National Safety Council, Col. Tilley said, "Contrary to general opinion, neither cancer nor pneumonia, tuberculosis nor polio, takes as high a toll of young lives as traffic accidents."

Quoting statistics for 1950 (the latest year for which figures on deaths from disease are available) he showed that traffic accidents were the leading cause of death among children from 1 to 14 years of age. "Traffic accidents claimed 3,655 victims," he said, "while cancer accounted for 3,156, pneumonia for 2,821, tuberculosis for 1,263, and polio for 862."

"The great tragedy in this whole picture is that most of this child slaughter on the highways is unnecessary," Col. Tilley said. "In the majority of cases, traffic accidents are due to somebody's carelessness. If we would just substitute careful walking, driving and bike riding for the careless variety so often practiced, the child traffic toll could be reduced sharply overnight."

He urged parents and teachers to impress upon youngsters the importance of being alert in traffic, of crossing at cross walks and with traffic lights and of never playing in the street.

He made a special plea to motorists to watch out for children whenever they drive.

"Youngsters are carried away by play," Col. Tilley said. "Sometimes they forget entirely the real world about them. Motorists should be aware of this and always expect the unexpected from them."

He warned motorists to keep a sharp eye out for children when driving near school playgrounds, in residential districts, or wherever else children are likely to be found.

"Whenever you're near their haunts, drive slow," he advised. "Remember, children move fast."

L. Kamstra has returned home from a visit with his son, Martin Kamstra, and family in Lordsburg, N. M.

Health Officer Lists Causes for Nurse Shortage

Increases in hospital and nursing home beds and a jump in the number of people carrying hospital insurance are the two chief causes of the nursing shortage in Texas and elsewhere, state health officials say.

The fact that there are more and more hospital beds for insured persons to take advantage of during brief illnesses indicate that nurses have to spread their time thinner and thinner to meet the demand.

Other factors mentioned in the shortage are increasing numbers of dependent children and older school graduates who are psychologically adapted for nursing duties.

Nursing re-registrations in Texas last year totaled 21,889, according to figures kept by the State Board of Nursing Examiners. A board spokesman pointed out that figure did not include new registrations, but did include some out-of-state nurses who wanted to maintain their Texas licenses.

Nursing licenses in Texas are distributed throughout hospitals and schools of nursing, in public health units and school systems, and in industry. While state health leaders were pointing up nursing shortages in Texas, World Health Organization authorities were doing the same on a world basis.

The heart of the nursing profession, World Health Organization officials say, is contained in a line written 100 years ago by Florence Nightingale of Crimean War fame.

"A loving heart is not enough," she wrote. "The art of caring for the sick, the knowledge of the laws of life and death, are matters of sufficient importance and difficulty to require learning by experience and careful inquiry, just as much as any other art."

Today, in state, national and world medical and public health circles, nurses are recognized as friends and counselors of all and welcome health teachers. Doctors and community leaders insist nursing importance in local health work and community life is second to none.

Florence Nightingale gave the world a new conception of the power and place in society of the trained and educated woman. Modern nursing combines the attributes of compassion with the calm ability conferred by the disciplines of education and training.

The entire nation will be better off when the shortage of trained nurses is overcome.

State Capitol NEWS

by VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

Austin, Texas — Texas politics started with a rush as Governor Allan Shivers broke a log jam by announcing that he would ask the voters for an unprecedented third term.

Actually, Shivers is now in his third term; he took over as the state's chief executive upon the death of Governor Beauford Jester in July, 1949.

When his present term is ended, he will have served longer than any other governor — five years and five months.

Looming as Shivers' chief opposition were Ralph Yarborough, Austin attorney who ran for governor in 1952; and Reuben Senterfitt of San Saba, speaker of the House of Representatives.

Both held up their formal announcements for several days after Shivers made his intentions known.

Yarborough is a loyalist Democrat who will ask for the support of those voters who went along with Adlai Stevenson in the last presidential race.

Senterfitt is a conservative who differed with Shivers over several issues during the last special session of the Legislature.

Officially entered in the governor's race was J. J. Holmes, an Austin contractor.

Congressman Lloyd Bentsen, who recently announced that he would not try for re-election, had been considered a potential candidate for governor if Shivers did not run, said he would seek no political office this year.

Others who had been considered as possible gubernatorial material dropped out of the picture prior to Shivers' announcement.

Lieutenant Governor Ben Ramsey, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, and Attorney General John Ben Shepperd will ask for another term in their present offices.

Opposition Develops

As Ramsey entered his race for a third term, he had two opponents.

Representative George T. Hinson of Mineola filed for a place on the ballot and said he would make an active campaign. He favors increased taxes on natural gas pipelines.

C. T. Johnson, Austin insurance man, is also a candidate who has been traveling over the state and meeting the voters.

Senator A. M. Akin of Paris who had been discussed as a possible contender in the Lieutenant Governor's race announced that instead he would run for re-election to the Senate.

Water is Topic

Water conservation was a prime subject for the political speakers. That problem is one of the state's biggest, and influenced him in deciding whether to run for governor again, Shivers told reporters.

He said that in his opinion, Texas has sufficient water if the supply is conserved, adding: "Texas can solve its own water problems. It ought to be done in large part on the local and state level."

Backing for Shivers came from Guy C. Jackson, president of the Texas Water Conservation Association.

Jackson said he believes that the governor "plans to go all out with his usual energy to see that the next session of the legislature dedicates itself to an intense, patriotic study and ultimate solution of our water situation . . ."

Yarborough, speaking at Hempstead, said that the answer to the water problem "is action, not a continual bickering between the State and Federal government." He added:

"The State Government is wasting its energy and killing time by continuing to call the Federal Government names."

C. T. Johnson, as part of his platform, proposed the construction of 100,000 small dams in Northwest Texas to hold rainfall.

He also recommended a canal to connect 10 Texas rivers and provide an interchange of water to balance irregular flow.

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson also urged thousands of small dams in the upland areas of Texas for water storage and protection against floods.

Race for Senate

Senator Johnson drew opposition in the person of Representative Dudley T. Dougherty of Beeville, wealthy rancher and oil man.

Dougherty cranked up his campaign by sending to Johnson in Washington a telegram asking him some questions. Dougherty wanted to know:

Does Johnson approve the use of U. S. troops in Indo-China?

Does Johnson favor sharing atomic secrets with other nations?

Will Johnson assist in the investigation of federal loans on Texas hotels and apartments?

Justices Will Run

Elsewhere on the political front, Associate Justices Few Brewster of Temple and Clyde E. Smith of Smithville announced for re-election as members of the Texas Supreme Court.

And Chief Justice J. E. Hickman said he would file soon. The other six justices still have parts of their elective terms to serve.

Most members of the legislature will seek re-election.

Martin Dies of Lufkin has filed for re-election as Congressman-at-Large.

Teacher Pay Boost

Passed by the special session of the Legislature, a bill to increase Texas public school teachers' pay by $402 per year was signed by the governor.

Present for the ceremony were House and Senate sponsors of the bill and members of a committee that worked out the compromise plan for teacher pay.

Governor Shivers already has signed a tax bill raising the money for increased teacher pay and

A monthly volume of 1,000 to 1,500 cars is anticipated when the department is in full operation.

A special booklet containing detailed instruction on taking car deliveries will be distributed to customers coming to Flint. It describes Chevrolet's Flint operations and offers tourist information on the city.

BETTER, CLEANER GASOLINE!

PHILLIPS 66

Flite-Fuel

FOR YOUR CAR

Only in Phillips 66 Flite-Fuel do you get the added super aviation fuel component, Di-isopropyl (pronounced di-iso-pro-pull). This special clean burning power component is a Phillips exclusive—developed originally for highest powered military aircraft.

Phillips Petroleum Company was the first to make Di-isopropyl and HF Alkylate, so valuable to smooth motor performance that, until recently, their use was restricted by the U. S. Government to high performance aviation gasoline. Now authorities have removed restrictions and these powerful components can be blended into Phillips 66 Flite-Fuel.

New Phillips 66 Flite-Fuel provides increased power, higher anti-knock, greater fuel economy, and freedom from cold stalling.

In addition, Phillips 66 Flite-Fuel gives you the clean burning qualities that result from use of natural and aviation gas components. No anti-fouling additives are needed to insure maximum power and efficiency when you drive with Flite-Fuel.

Only Phillips 66 Flite-Fuel contains added Di-isopropyl. Get it at stations where you see the orange and black Phillips 66 Shield.
