Editorial— Courtesy in Business

Courtesy is important in our daily lives, and to one in business it could well be the difference between failure and success.

Business promoters realize that common courtesies promote good will and stimulate a feeling of respect (I think this is called "high morale"). So it is in our business of education. Such an atmosphere generates self-confidence and the urge to achieve.

If we, as students of CHS, would avoid doing the annoying, discourteous things and would strive to cooperate with faculty and students alike, we could greatly increase the standards of our school.

An author once said, "Life is made up not of great sacrifices and duties but of the little things." Yes—it's the little things that happen every day that form the pattern of one's life. If a person acknowledges that other people have rights and never try to infringe on them, he will begin to form courteous habits.

In the complex life of today, people must learn to work together. As machinery needs oil to prevent friction, people working together need the oil of courtesy to promote harmony.

Students Journey Far and Near During Vacation

Northward to the beauties of Canada, southward to the enchantment of Old Mexico, eastward to the blue of the Atlantic, westward to — oh pshaw! — no one reached the shores of the Pacific! What's this all about? A recent poll has been made to determine the extent of travel of our students during the summer months. About 50 per cent (89 students, to be exact) were in this group called "travelers."

Different things caused them to cross the boundaries of our great Texas to journey to "far-flung" places. Some packed the car, grabbed a fishing pole, perhaps, and were off on a sight-seeing "spree"; others packed the old bag, grabbed a combine, or truck, or trailer and were off to help gather the golden grain in the ripening harvest fields.

Journeying to foreign territory, "just for fun" were a lucky foursome. Wanda Moore and Janie Bowers crossed into Canada, and Jo Frances Long and George Moss journeyed into Old Mexico (for a real thrill, as George said!).

Washington, D. C., was a charming place to Gayle Taylor, Pennsylvania was fun for Judy and Sandra Hollenbaugh, Florida's bright sun cast its rays on Carole Fisch, Tennessee's green mountains were gazed upon by Bill Taylor and Dianne Sledge, the thundering waters of the great Mississippi thrilled Mary Ann Myers, the rolling plains of Wyoming were a pleasant sight to Wanda James and Denny Todd, the verdure of the hills of Arkansas was like music to Judy Johnson, the saw mills of Louisiana were of interest to Jeannette Moody, the waving corn of Kansas seemed to welcome Charlie Gidney, Illinois was begrudgingly left by Tim Mason, colorful Colorado held much excitement for R. H. McCoy, one of sixteen from Texas who made an extensive tour as guests of Producers Grain Corporation for outstanding 4H Club work. Others who vacationed in Colorado were Guy Todd, Pat Ribble, Carol Bell, Barbara Goodwin, Bettie Knox, Larry Hord, Dee Ann Christian, Peggy Cates, Duane Nichols and Sue Sanders.

New Mexico was fascinating to Bobby Barker, Linda Caddell, Virginia Hudgens, Kay Johnson, Jerry Fairchild, Ronald Yarbrough, Don Taylor, Charlotte Sledge, Jerome Matus.

Our neighbor, Oklahoma, drew its share of sight seers also with the presence of Carroll Chowning, Butch Walters, James Riley Borchardt, David Powers, Don Ray Polk, Danny Beesinger, Bill Smith, Miles Welch, "Buba" McKres, Joe Coufal, Bill Griffith, Linda Johnson, Tom Crowell, Arlos Moore, La Verne Doyal, Genell Wheeler, Alta Bartley, "Boob" Carpenter, Carria Driver, Peggy Whitley, Jerry Stettiff and Bryant Thompson.

Many of our teen agers worked in harvest in various states. Some went as far as Wyoming, Montana or the Dakotas. In this group were Johnny Matus, Ocie Tarver, Duane Johnson, Don Hunter, Dale Johnson, Roberta Hough, Roy Martin Shultz, Bobby Powers. Turned back after working in Colorado were Jack Hickman, Melvin Wheeler, Jimmy Rader, Joe Wheeler, Robert Fish, David Carpenter, Jimmy Werley, J. W. Golden, Fredrick Youree, Jerry Clifton, Melvin Johnson, Gordon Fish, Don Tole.

Joe Barry accompanied his father to Chicago where they delivered some horses.

Strange, how we are always so glad to get away from home, but stranger still how we are even gladder to get back home. In the words of the poet, "There's no place like home."

Wildcats Drop Game to Indians

I was there—were you? Where? At the bonfire held last Thursday night in preparation for the Crowell-Quannah game. Maybe the school spirit demonstrated had nothing to do with the game Friday night, but it might have! Perhaps the "old school spirit" got into the blood of those Wildcats and made them hard to defeat.

I was there—were you? Where? In the eighth seat of the 16th row of section X in the stadium! From that position, I'd say that the score 12-0 in favor of the Indians didn't mean they outplayed us. In my books, it meant the cards were just in their favor. It's not always who wins that counts — it's what each player puts into the game that counts—from that standpoint our boys did a wonderful job.

Pet Peeve

Students who gripe because they think we have omitted the scandal column!

My suggestion: Try reading the entire Wildcat News and don't be surprised when you come across the scandal! It's there! Do you want us to cheat it for you so you can digest it!

Library News

A library is a very special place — a sweet, lovely, enchanted place. It is magic. It is a place where you can sit down and dash off in all directions — into the future or the past — to the moon and stars or deep into the center of the earth. A look backward brings information on the founding of our country, Crusades, Greece, Rome, China, Egypt. A library can be a help in bettering one's self, or just an escape. By studying the proper books, one may learn how to become a millionaire — or how to refinish a chair.

There are term papers, club papers, speeches to be prepared in various classes, and help for these can be found in the shelves of the library. The way to peace of mind is there, too, but each must follow a different path. Some paths are more clearly marked than others, but with patience and diligence they can be found.

Now if the librarian happens to resemble that "nasty old witch," pay no attention. Everyone knows that magic fairy lands always have witches who are sometimes beautiful princesses under a spell, sometimes not.

Without librarians, there could be no educational system. Without librarians, there could be no culture. On the individual level, a library can be all things to people — helpful, instructive, revealing, uplifting.

Judy Vaughn and Gerald Bradford—Senior Personalities

While I was reading a sports article in the "Podunk Hollow News" not long ago, I happened to see the names of two fellow students in the athletic line-up. Here is the information I found:

Special
Judy Vaughn of Thalia is 5' 4" tall, has reddish blond hair, green eyes, and is seventeen. Western movies are right down her line, but Rock Hudson and Debbie Reynolds are her favorite stars.

When there happens to be any spare time, you can usually find Judy fishing, hunting, or out riding in the "wide open spaces" with Harvey Smith, her favorite cowboy.

She compares pineapple (her most disliked food) to bookkeeping, and fried chicken (her favorite food) to civics.

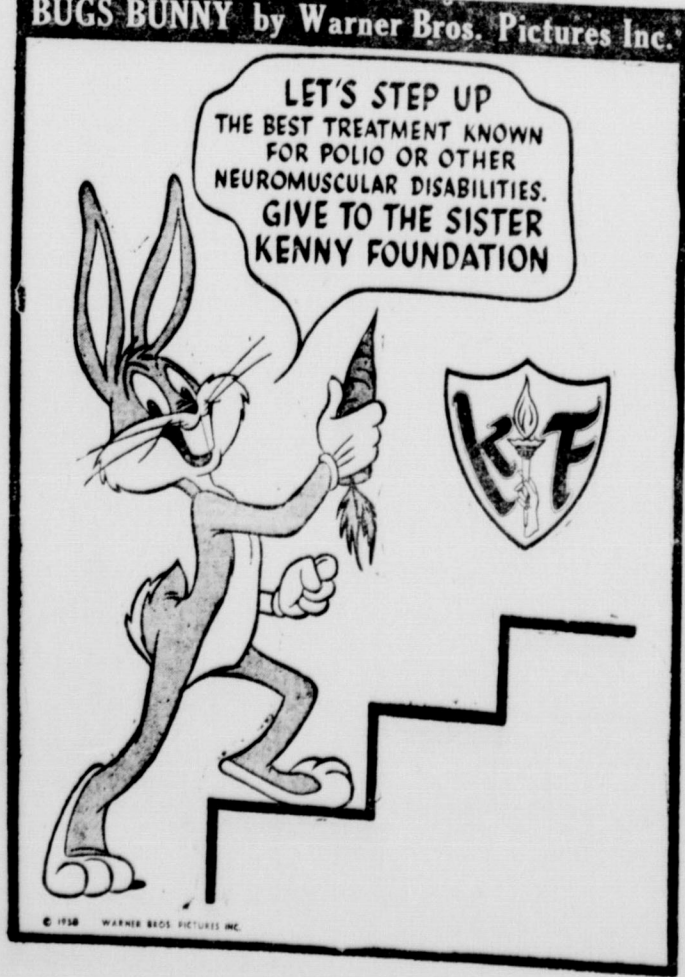

Judy has been kept pretty busy during these high school years since she is a cheerleader, has been elected the most athletic girl two years and football queen one year, and has served as FHA officer, Student Council representative, basketball captain, a member of the volleyball team, and a Sub-Junior Columbian Club member.

When she graduates, Judy does not plan to go to college, but confidentially, we think she has pretty good plans of her own. Good luck, Judy.

Gerald Bradford hails from the thriving city of Margaret. He is 5' 10" tall, has black hair, black eyes, and is seventeen.

When it comes to movie stars, John Wayne and Sophia Loren (a typical boy's pick) are his favorites.

Beware, all chickens! Gerald can eat chicken anywhere, anytime or any way!

English, with a MacBeth flavor, is Gerald's hardest subject; typing is his easiest.

This fine specimen of humanity is a pretty busy boy, too. He has been class officer two years, class favorite, Beat, FFA member, basketball guard four years, football halfback four years, baseball and track member. After all this, he still finds time to drive his little "blue bug" and tries to keep her in ship-shape order.

After graduation, Gerald wants to attend North Texas State College, to become a Highway Patrolman. Here's hoping everything works out fine for this senior.

Student Council Sponsors Devotional Periods

As one arises each morning, it is good if he pauses a few moments to reflect upon the goodness of God, upon the beauties of nature, or perhaps upon some weighty problem facing him.

Equally good is it for a person to pause for a few minutes' serious reflection as he begins his daily tasks. Realizing the benefits to be derived from such a practice, the Student Council has decided to sponsor, as was done last year, a short devotional period each day.

This is to be done on a strictly voluntary basis; no one is asked! However, there is usually some one on hand at 9 o'clock, each morning to share with all a few inspirational thoughts by means of the inter-communication system which we are so fortunate to have.

Those having participated this year are Bill Taylor, Roxie Adkins, Gayle Taylor, Carria Driver and Jimmy Rader.

May we extend to each student a special invitation to render service in this worthwhile enterprise. The ones who profit the greatest are those who share their thoughts with the entire student body.

THIS WEEK -In Washington

Washington this week is watching with more than usual interest the congressional election campaigns that are just now beginning to get into full swing across the country.

Is this, as some of the experts predict, to be a "Democratic Year?" Or, will the Republicans, as others think, regain a majority in the 86th Congress which convenes next January?

There are 34 senatorial elections, two from Alaska for the first time, and 436 congressional districts, including one in Alaska, in which election campaigns are being waged.

When the 85th Congress adjourned last month there were 49 Democrats and 47 Republicans in the Senate. The House was divided 233 Democrats, 200 Republicans and two vacancies.

Six Senators have announced their retirement and approximately 40 representatives either have retired or were defeated for re-nomination in the primaries.

Campaign Issues

The issues being debated in the campaign vary all the way from local to international. Foremost among the latter is the preservation of a just and honorable world peace. The threat of communist aggression continues as a constant peril to the Free World.

The world is taking cautious steps toward the goal of eventual elimination of atomic and hydrogen bombs as weapons which could be used to destroy civilization. The peaceful use of atomic energy, on the other hand, offers undreamed-of opportunities for all of mankind.

National issues which are emphasized include Federal spending and the national debt. Congress appropriated a peace-time record of almost $80 billion and as a result we will go another $8 billion deeper into debt this fiscal year.

Integration

One of the thorniest issues in the campaign is that of school integration. The Supreme Court, itself, is an issue. Has it exceeded its constitutional authority as the Judicial Branch of government and encroached on the Legislative authority? Congress by a vote of 40 to 41 barely shelved a bill to curtail the jurisdiction of the #### Court.

Legislation to weed racketeers out of labor unions failed by only a few votes. Candidates will want to know how voters feel about the touchy problem of curbing labor union activities, and especially those of Teamsters' James Hoffa.

In the rural areas farm legislation will be a big issue. Congress passed a controversial farm bill just before adjourning, but it has about as many critics as defenders.

The election campaigning is our best way, in a democracy, of determining the decision of the American people on the important issues which affect them.
